This was an unusual case. It does not appear to be so great an undertaking for a woman to keep her young looking if she has had modern conveniences and has been spared much of the hard work and worry of life.

But this woman had been through the rub and still maintained her girl complexion and girlish figure.

I was attracted by them when, at the day's early light, two passengers were talking to me. One of the women turned out later to be the daughter said that she had better than she did at home.

At home there had so many moans. The astonished fellow passengers said, "Don't you have secrets?" The young lady said, "We have secrets but our neighbors don't have, and are not used to them and come over to look at them and hold the door open for us and keep our house full of the noise all the time."

When I kept a cow and chickens. The daughter went to school and the mother came to town with her and worked all day in a restaurant.

When I got acquainted with the mother I suggested her schedule included a whole lot of work. Of course, I had forgotten about the washing and ironing, which was done mostly at night because apparently, her mother and daughter, went places on Sunday.

Also found that this mother when a tiny girl had been a strawberry picker and had served her time too in selling plants and doing other work in strawberry cultivation. Had made a living for the daughter and a son since they were babies. With all this she looked like her daughter's older sister—quite a woman.

The jovial old gentleman had a thin fringe of white hair around his otherwise bald head. He was not a sensitive about his baldness. Had just had a new hair cut. Someone on the bus asked him if the barber charged him a dollar like he charged other people. He said he paid the same as other folks did and believed the barber was justified in making the charge.

The trouble was not cutting his hair but hunting it up to cut. Nearly half of our lumber comes from trees that had not started to grow a few decades ago.

Director Of Jungle Indian Mission Work Gives Lecture

Just Lookin' Round
By Lee Lloyd

Have you been to the show lately? Well, here is one you shouldn't miss. Awarded the best actress of the year, Jane Wynne in Junny Belinda does not speak one word. That must be good acting, and it is well worth going to see.

If you were down town after the hard rain, and looked over around the police station, you would have seen a man who was an ambulance, a lawyer, an insurance man, a highway patrolman and the city police. There had been a car accident during the worst part of the rain. One of the law enforcement boys said, "Rain always means an accident," and in a few minutes a truck man spoke up and said, "Thank God for the rain, we could use plenty more." Yep, One man's meat is another man's position, all right.

The Jaycee ball team have been making a good record for themselves. To had that team get permission from Sebring to play their home game at the Sebring ball diamond. Oh, well, maybe some day they can all get together and make a soft ball diamond of their own. Home town people would rather have a game here but at the present there are no facilities. We can't have everything all at once, the natives and everything will turn out O. K.

O. C. S. For High School Graduates

The U. S. Air Force Officers' Candidate School in San Antonio, Texas, plans to enroll approximately 500 qualified applicants for the next class which will begin July, 1949. Captain Vernon C. Koch, Assistant Public Information Officer for the Tampa Army and Air Force Recruiting Station, announced today.

Quotas for each class are filled by competitive selection from the eligible list of qualified applicants. Of the most applications submitted, only a few over a hundred have been enrolled for the July class this year.

Due to the high mental standards, a two-year college level test will be given to the young men that do not have two years college credits and feel that they can qualify.

The 16-week course designed to train officers for non-flying jobs in the Air Force teaches such subjects as administration, military training and leadership. Under the leadership course 87 hours are devoted to English and public speaking. Students accepted without prior military service are required to undergo 13 weeks of basic training before entering the officers' course.

Personnel at the Army and Air Force Recruiting Stations will be glad to assist young men with their applications. The Tampa Station is located at 418 Tampa Street in the Stovall Office Building.

Primitive African Savages
Taught Word of God By
Rev. Neighbour

The following article is a report of some of the mission work being done by Rev. Robert E. Neighbour, director of Jungle Indian Mission work, who will lecture, show exclusive pictures of various phases of his work at the High School Auditorium Friday, April 22nd at 8 o'clock. (P. M.) Rev. Neighbour, the son of Dr. R. E. Neighbour, Sr., internationally known Baptist evangelist, had traveled in every continent before he found the Indians described in this article.

Rev. Neighbour is also an accomplished violinist and will play the violin at this lecture. He has studied under such noted artists as Prof. Leopold Oser, Victor Hradky, and in a few minutes a truck man spoke up and said, "Thank God for the rain, we could use plenty more." Yep, One man's meat is another man's position, all right.

Mrs. Neighbour, who spent many of her childhood days in Avon Park, Frostdorf and Lake Wales will also play the violin. She is now working at Frost College, Boston, Mass., and has done graduate work at Wheaton University.

Admission to the lecture is free and the public is urged to attend.

JUNGLE SWEEP BY REVIVAL
FIRES
In a Jungle Revival

In a former article on these jungle Indians, the terrain and people of this area. In that discussion, I told of those with whom I had been working in the area, and of my yearning and desire to see a hidden and unexplored location was very hard. Apparently these new Indians were the kind who would kill at sight anyone entering or leaving their homeland. We had prayed a long time for special wisdom on how to reach them, realizing that God could bring to pass a special mercy, though in the natural it was impossible. We had a lifetime to make a friendly contact.

Well, I am in the midst of these mission Indians at the time of writing. I believe they are possibly the most beautiful and lovable natives I have ever known. The land which they live in is a Garden of Eden sample of natural virgin beauty. Their customs are of the most primitive. I saw one fellow who was painted all over his body with white ink.

A great big "Thank You" from all the Senior girls to Waverly Furniture Company for the beautiful miniature cedar chests, presented them as graduation gifts. These chests will always be a keepsake as a memory of those days of high school.

Wednesday morning around the fourth period, 11:30 to noon, all the Senior girls were shown a very interesting film on nursing. This was through the courtesy of Orange General Hospital in Orlando, Florida.

What's the date? Oh dear! I haven't a thing written! That is my subject! These and many other questions are being asked by members of the Senior English Class as the time draws near for that thousand word essay. Better start writing now—That's an awful lot of words.

HIGH SCHOOL LUNCHROOM

How many parents of children have even taken the trouble to go to the lunchroom of the school and see for themselves the food that is given to the children there. I have heard some people remark, my child says that the food served in the lunchroom is not good. Others remark, my child doesn't get enough of what he or she needs in the lunches served at the school. Parents who have heard this, or many of the other excuses that are told around should take the time to go for themselves, and eat their noon meal at the school. Professor Whitte stated that anytime the parents of school children wished to eat a meal in the lunch room if they would stop by his office and tell him they would be given permission.

Do you realize that there are from 475 to 495 meals served every day at noon at this lunch room? The price for students is 25c, and for the members of the faculty, 35c. Where to have our children get a balanced meal with plenty of vegetables for a quarter?

One of the biggest problems that the school confronts is that most of the children do not try to eat the food that they should eat but would rather rush to town and eat a hamburger and a bottle of coke. Growing children need balanced meals. A statement made by the teachers is that the learning ability of the children has increased in the children who have started to eat their lunch in the school lunch room. In interviewing some of the high school children I could find no one who could specifically put his finger on any one thing that was detrimental to the lunch room and the majority of them, at least those who were eating in the lunch room had nothing but praise for the good wholesome food that they received for their lunch.

This lunchroom is subject to both State and Federal inspection and if you think these people are lax in their inspection you should have one of these inspectors come into your kitchen. He can find more things to gripe about than anyone else can.

The lunchroom is run with a staff of six with Mrs. E. C. Weaver as the manager. At the rush hour there are about 100 high school students that help. Recently added to help in the busy job of preparing all this good food, was a potato masher, a large mixer, circulating fan and trays, pans and dishes. Mrs. Weaver stated that in buying food for the school that nothing but the best is purchased and a rigid inspection is made of all foods before they are purchased.

Some people may think that running a lunch room is an easy job but while trying to talk to Mrs. Weaver for a few minutes she was up and down continuously, talking to the janitor, breadman, answering questions for the staff, it seems that everything that was done he did have her final O. K. before it could be carried out.

Even in this article Mrs. Weaver stated that it would not be complete without giving a word of praise to her staff and the fine cooperation she receives from them is really appreciated. As for us, all I have to say is three cheers and keep up the good work, it could not be for a better cause. The youth of today will be the parents of tomorrow.

"I place economy among the finest and most important virtues, and public debt as the greatest of dangers. To preserve our independence, we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of carrying for them, they will be happy. The same prudence which in private life would forbid our paying our money for unexplained projects, forbids it in the disposition of public money."—Thomas Jefferson.

Winter Guests

Club News

By Mrs. A. W. Rodgers

The indoor picnic at the club house Tuesday evening, was a Major Event. Upon entering the building, guests were greeted with long tables beautifully decorated with sprays of fernery, accented with glowing red hibiscus blossoms laid at intervals among the green. Foods hot and cold, substantial and enticing, were grouped on tables convenient to the long line of hungry folks who helped themselves liberally, and still left plenty. This supper was in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Board, chairman, Mrs. Peters, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Harper. Then after the tables were cleared away, the guests gathered themselves for the moving picture taken and shown by Mrs. R. J. Maxson, of the club. By way of these pictures, we travelled to Grand Canyon, Bryce and Yosemite National Parks; The campuses of famous universities; saw statues and memorials; viewed colorful masses of blooming flowers, some from the Maxson's own home in Illinois; and as a climax, a unique collection of pictures of most of the capitol buildings of the central and western states. It was a rare treat.

A personal touch to rejoice the hearts of the many friends of this popular couple was the note, accompanying an open box of cigars on the table, signed by Antonio Jackson Hockin and William A. Hockin, who were married that morning at the Congregational Church. All good wishes were extended and may we see them here next winter.

Guests who have recently gone home, or are leaving soon, are: Mrs. Alta Robinson—leaving April 13, for Toledo, Ohio; Mrs. Marjorie Johnson—for her home in South Elm, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Wyler, for Stanford.

PIGION "SPRINGS" PAL . . . Thanks to his pet pigeon's homing instincts, Harold Myers, 15, ingeniously contrived to find himself from police custody in Santa Barbara, Calif. Found by police sleeping on the beach, Harold and three other boys were detained in jail—all on suspicion of being runaways—until Harold released his pigeon with an "SOS" note to his brother who is in the jail. The bird found its way home and Harold's mother phoned the police to assure them her son had made the 100-mile trip from Venice, Calif., with her permission. The two pals are shown here as they were reunited upon Harold's return home.

CHURCH OF GOD

Rev. O. W. Thomas, Pastor
Acts 17: 10-12

Paul and Silas were great men, chosen of God as missionaries, and it was when they came to Berea, that they gave rise to this text. This lesson gives a description of the Nobility of the people of Berea, over and above those at Thessalonica, because they received the Word of God with readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, to see if the things being preached were true. They were more noble, than the people at Thessalonica.

The word NOBLE, means, High in excellence or worth; illustrious; Generous; Exalted in rank, etc.

It shows the work and Spirit of Nobility, to see people trying to know something about the Word of God. But why? Some one may say, "Because it is in reality, the WORD OF LIFE."

Our Saviour said, Search the Scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are which testify of Me.

Many people are like a young lady, who once laid down a book which she had just finished reading, with the remark, that it was the dullest story she had ever read. In the course of time she met a young man and was finally engaged to be married to him. One night she said to the young man, I have a book in my library whose Author's name, and even the initials, are precisely the same as yours. Isn't that a singular coincidence? I don't think so, he replied. Pray tell me why you don't think so. He said, for the simple reason that I wrote the book.

That night the young lady sat up until two o'clock, reading the book again, and this time it seemed the most interesting story she had ever read. The one dull book was now real fascinating, because she had gotten acquainted with, and LOVED the Author. When any one don't enjoy reading the word of God, or don't enjoy listening to God's word; it is a pretty good sign he is not in love with the Author. The Child of God loves the Word of God, because it is a letter from his FATHER. Our Master said, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every WORD that proceeds from the mouth of GOD.

David said in regard to God's word, It is a lamp unto my feet, a light unto my pathway. Again, he said, Great peace have they which love THY LAW, and nothing shall offend me. Ps. 119: 165.

One day at the front in the Armed forces, says a Soldier, when death and destruction were all around, and when none knew how soon he would be summoned into the presence of God, several desired to read from God's Book, concerning the solemn things of life and death. But only one testament was available. How to multiply it was the problem, and to solve the difficulty, the little book was torn in bits, page from page, each man receiving a little portion. So there in the trenches, as the enemy's shells flew overhead, the Soldier boys pored over the Sacred WORD, seeking in it some message of strength and comfort to answer to the strange circumstances in which they found themselves. Friends! you may say I don't have time to read the Bible, or to listen to it's being expounded. But if men in the trenches can take time to take in the WORD OF TRUTH as food for their Soul, we can do it. The Word of God is the Word of LIFE. Your Soul will DIE without it.

BOY PROBLEMS

The problems of boyhood often seem trivial and inconsequential to their elders. Adults are apt to reason that these childish problems will eventually solve themselves.

But the problem of childhood are tremendously important, even when they seem trivial in themselves. For in seeking their solution the child forms habits of thought and action which later may influence more important decisions.

If a boy's early training is such that he seeks his solutions within the framework of truth, justice, and right, he will probably stick to this pattern later when larger problems arise. If he resorts to deceit and unfairness, these may become a fixed tendency.

That is why parents should teach their children that God and religion and right are the only safe guides in meeting the problems and perplexities of life. A boy and girl so reared can usually be trusted to do right things and make right decisions.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should observe religiously and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For the sake of his community and nation. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and spiritual support. (4) For the sake of his own soul, which needs his religious and moral support. Plans to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

We often elect a friend or neighbor to public office, put him on a pedestal and then promptly forget that he is after all a human being with a personal life. This fact was brought home to the people of the first district recently when Congressman J. Hardin Peterson announced that he would not seek office after finishing his present term.

In a letter to the writer, "Pete" explained his action in the simple terms of private and personal interests that you and I can understand and appreciate. He has served long, faithfully and ably and in doing so has neglected personal affairs, health and family. He feels that he has earned a rest. He explains that his personal problems are increasing and need attention. His mother will be 80 next month and wants her son near her. His children and grandchildren are growing up and he does not want to leave them. He knows him. Washington with all its glamour can't compare with Florida as a place to live and as "Pete" expresses it, he's just plain homesick.

Through his entire political career, J. Hardin Peterson has been an outstanding public servant. He has given the best years of his life to advancing the welfare of his nation, his state and his district. He has had his feet on the ground at all times and has served with credit and distinction. If he wants a rest and a chance to return to his own personal life, he certainly has earned it. The people of Florida and especially residents of his district owe him a debt of gratitude, and every one sincerely regrets losing his able representation in Washington.

It isn't going to be an easy matter to fill "Pete's" congressional shoes. Whoever we chose to take this place will have a tough row to hoe. It will be difficult to find a man as level headed, conscientious and hard working as Peterson has been.

The first district is growing by leaps and bounds. Newcomers are steadily swelling its population. Business and industrial development are evident on every hand. Its proper representation in Washington is more important today than at any time in its history.

When the experienced and successful business executive faces the loss of a trusted, able and proven employee he does not wait until the day the man leaves to start looking around for someone to take his place. Nor does he "hire" the first applicant for the job without a full and careful consideration of his qualifications for the post.

We should apply the same yardstick in the selection of our public employees that smart business men apply to the selection of their key employees. While the next election may seem a long way off, it still isn't a bit too early for the people of the first congressional district to begin looking over the field and thinking about who they want to send to Washington in Peterson's place.

There will be plenty seeking the job, there always are, but it doesn't necessarily follow that the fellow "looking for a job" is always the best man for the job, and this is a case where "less than the best" won't do.

We are going to need someone who has a record of proven ability. A man who has displayed demonstrated his ability to accomplish worthwhile things. A man whose honesty and integrity is beyond reproach. A man with a keen knowledge of business and industry within the district and their needs, but who at the same time understands the problems of labor and the little man. A man who cannot be swayed by big money and private interests or browbeaten by labor leaders and agitators. A man who can stand the best interest of all the people as "Pete" expresses it, he's just plain homesick.

That sounds like a big order and it is a big order. We have men in the first district who can measure up but they are not political aspirants. It is doubtful if any man with such qualifications could be expected to seek the office. If we are fortunate enough to find such a man, it would probably be necessary to draft him.

Anyhow, it is something to be thinking about and this is as good a time to start as any. Maybe you have someone in mind, I can think of two or three. Let's exchange ideas. You write your suggestion on a piece of paper and mail it to me and I'll write down mine and send them to you. Just address your suggestion to Russell Kay, care of your local newspaper or send it direct to P. O. Box 10278, Tampa, Fla.

Am always glad to see my lawyer friend on the bus. He was telling me "a lighted arrow" is the most beautiful thing in the world, "being still nervous from a very recent harrowing experience." Come readers of my column may remember my lawyer friend as the one who on a former trip was bound for a town where he complained he would have to interview his client's mother-in-law.

When I suggested that should not be to great a task for a lawyer, he said, "The trouble with this mother-in-law is that she is his mother-in-law by his first wife."

The time he was making his way home on the bus having left his private plane in South Carolina. He had flown up to Bridgeport, Connecticut, to argue a case in Federal court there.

The trip up from Florida was a fine opportunity to use his plane. He reports it worked perfectly. I congratulated him on missing the Empire State building both on the way up and back. That is even better than thousands of bird can do.

Leaving Bridgeport at the comfortable hour of 9:20 A. M. he made a leisurely trip southward, stopped at the Newark airport and called up some friends who came over to see him. Stopped for lunch at Richmond where he saw more friends and arrived at Raleigh about 3 in the afternoon. He intended to spend the night with friends in Columbia, South Carolina. The whole trip coming south had been cloudy.

Under these weather conditions darkness would come earlier. His plane had no landing lights. But the gasoline vendor at Raleigh said Columbia was only ninety air miles away. He would be down there in a few minutes and there was no need to think of not making the trip.

This proved to be bad advice. Our lawyer friend lost his way, getting the "B" signal on the Raleigh beam when he was sure (F) he should be getting the "A" signal, and finally became completely bewildered and lost. No airports were lighted that he could find. He passed over several revolving beacons and spent some time searching around them for airports. With his radio he broke into several conversations between Columbia and Richmond and other places, but they paid no attention to him. He tried the Columbia tower, and they paid no attention to him.

The plane was functioning perfectly but it went down from a quarter mile an eighth of a tank and he began to figure how long he had to live: having decided to stay up until his gas ran out. By this time all clouds had disappeared and the whole landscape was bathed in moonlight. Automobiles turned corners which he hopefully suspected of being runway lights. He spent a long time over Sumter, South Carolina, but no airport could be found. Finally he found himself over a most beautifully lighted runway. (It was the Shaw Air-base somewhere west of Sumterville.)

These runways were not supposed to be used by civilians except in an emergency and this was really an emergency. He made a perfect landing. A man in a jeep came out to meet him and to lead him in. Said "we were not expecting you." The man in the jeep also said something which reminded the lawyer of the emergency gas tank in the plane, which was full of gas and which in his excitement he had forgotten all about.

I congratulated my passenger friend upon his good luck and told him how glad I was he had lived for me to see him again.

He told me my sincere interest in his welfare was greatly appre-

SOVIETS COPY DECADENT CAPITALISM, PUSH ADVERTISING

Pretty soon I am going to get to a story about how capitalism is coming to Uncle Joe's country. But first a preamble.

A few years ago an effort was made to maintain a newspaper in New York City without advertising. True, it was a newspaper which never found itself. Founded as a paper without bias, it developed more bias trying to prove it had none than other papers had with admitted leanings or political affiliations. It finally got into the hands of the Communist wing of the newspaper Guild and couldn't be rescued by the honest men on it. But that is another story.

People didn't read it. It then began, while carrying no ads, to run a summary of the ads carried by other papers as a sort of news service. This was a little silly—not to carry ads but to write about the ads the other papers had. Nevertheless, this feature was the most popular it had.

The papers died of no readers. Before it died it tried taking ads. But it had gone too far downhill and enjoyed no confidence and attracted little business.

I am a great reader of ads. In a newspaper I read the news and then the ads. I wouldn't want to read a paper or a magazine without ads. I think they drive up a page in looks and interest. I admit that some advertising is extravagant. But by and large, it is advertising which has increased competition, produced a constant improvement in quality of goods and services, encouraged the mass production of consumer goods which has established the standard of living we enjoy in this country and it is advertising, and advertising alone, which can tell the story of the products of factory, mill, loom, mine, research laboratory, chemical plant; of the processing and fabricating of food, and all the gear which man has about him.

The intellectuals have a lot of fun out of laughing at some of our ads and commenting on our public concern with digestion and elimination.

There also grew up, during the '30s, a theory pushed by the Communist elements that advertising was unnecessary and wrong. They sought to have the Government abolish advertising and to prohibit advertising claims, even though such claims be surveyed by the Federal agencies responsible. They still persist, though in lessened voice.

Now, I suppose, they will cease and desist. Any moment now we may expect The Daily Worker and Comrade Foster to speak well of American advertising methods.

They are, of course, a little crude in technique. Yet they follow the pattern developed by the crude Americans. Vitamin advertising is widespread. A famous Soviet airplane is pictured along with a personal testimonial saying that he takes the pills to keep fit. Another vitamin ad shows a mother and child with the mother saying her child has been more healthy since she started giving him vitamins.

Some of the new electric signs flash on and off with the virtues of the various brands of Soviet champagne, soap and the time to be saved riding the Soviet civilian airlines. Ballet dancers offer testimonials.

The Soviet insurance agency uses billboards urging the insuring of life and property. A full page ad offers insurance on motorcycles, boats and clothing.

One of the latest ads is in newspapers, showing a picture of three models wearing new styles of dresses and calling upon Soviet women to avail themselves of the new look.

Billboards proclaim the goodness of ice cream, cod liver oil and the various brands manufactured and sold.

And, so help me, I see listed one of those service industries which the Communist intellectuals have sneered most about—the eating of work by letting someone else do the heavy work. A Soviet home delivery service now offers, for a charge, to get the groceries and deliver them; to bring home purchases of other goods; and to run errands. Jewelry, watches, rings and expensive cigarette cases also are offered to the consuming public seeking luxuries.

Thus has the capitalist system of advertising been found necessary to encourage the Soviet peoples to buy consumer goods. It may safely be assumed that both Lenin and Trotsky are spinning in their graves and are known in whatever place it is they occupy in eternity as "The Whining Twins, Nikolai and Leon."

It is a new sort of Communist state that the great Nikolai Lenin envisioned. Uncle Joe has added money, higher pay for better work, piece work, and incentive stretch-outs, a certain amount of private personal property, bonus payments, and now—advertising. . . in lights on billboards and in newspapers and magazines, and on the radio.

Thus does capitalism come a little closer.

Any day now I expect to see the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary have been asked to charter clubs in Moscow.

Jungle Mission

Since it took me a number of days to arrive on this trip, I do not expect to find any way to forward this news to you very quickly, but I believe the significance of this material will be altered in any way by the delay.

Our gracious God had to work many miracles to bring the Gospel to these precious people. He even prepared a free airline passage across the ocean to South America, and then other passages to the point in Colombia from which I traveled by land to Dabeiba.

I felt urged to rush to Dabeiba as quickly as possible, knowing that many souls would be perishing if I delayed, and that even after arriving considerable delay would be inevitable.

George Bolet—(Continued from Page One) Opus 143; three Chopin compositions—Balade G minor, Berceuse and the Scherzo in B flat minor. His technique in rendering the foregoing compositions was absolutely flawless, but it is personally believed that although Mr. Bolet has the technical ability to perform the brilliance and the delicacy of Chopin, he missed somewhat the ever present pathos of most Chopin compositions, which would be evident to those who have heard Rachmaninoff or one of the "new others."

Following an intermission Mr. Bolet performed a brilliant Rondo capriccioso of Mendelssohn, beginning with his rendition of three Preludes of Debussy, there seemed a marked change in Mr. Bolet's performance, as though this was the music he truly loved best to play. This change was evident for the rest of his program—El Alcañiz by Albeniz, Mendelssohn's Scherzo from A Midsummer Night's Dream, and ending with Schumann's Study in the form of a Waltz. No artist ever performed these final compositions more superbly than did Mr. Bolet. His flawless technique, coupled with a beautiful melodic ear, ever heard, and positively surprised by none left the audience with the feeling that they had been privileged that night in hearing a truly great artist.

If the Community Concert Association can continue to bring to us an artist of the caliber of Mr. Bolet, they should have no difficulty in doubling their subscriptions in a very short time.

ly consumed in contacting the chief, even if I found him at his home.

There were insurmountable problems, however, involved in getting away quickly, such as one in which a very honorable and respected friend urged me to delay more than two days so that I could accompany him in his official government car. But the Lord led me to know that I should not wait, so I arranged for a car to pick me up early the next morning. About six thirty I stepped out into the middle of the road with baggage in hand.

The Lord knows all the difficulties we have in fulfilling what we believe is His order. Sometimes we must go against our friend's desires. Sometimes, moreover, we find severe adversity in the way in which we feel most sure is the Lord's way. But the Lord may be depended on even when help seems too late to suffice.

This was one of those occasions with supreme testings, as I stood in the roadway waiting, waiting, ten minutes, one hour, two hours, and still more...

... till it appeared certain that no vehicle would be able to reach Dabeiba on the same day. Oh, the way seemed so heart-breaking, but then the Holy Spirit began to deal with me.

"Can you just trust in me? It's only child-like faith that brings accomplishments. Will you rely in simple faith on Me?" My despairing heart, won by His goodness, replied, "Yes, I will just believe in Thee."

Then up the street roared the sound of a car as it approached just at that very moment when it was "impossible." I could not refrain from thanking the Lord and hailing the bus as it drew nearer, although I had no time to weigh all the eventualities. However, I felt that the Lord would have me halt the bus. In unexpected suddenness the machine jerked to a stop. Although it bore the sign "Dabeiba," I saw it but for an instant, for my attention was immediately attracted to instant calling from inside the bus. I was startled to see three of four Indians yelling at me, and in the center the chief, Miguel Domico, suggesting that I come beside him. Without a pause I joined him and rode all the way to Dabeiba with him, and an still working with him. If the Lord had not brought him in at this second, events would have been quite different and this trip might not have been made. The Lord knows all.

We arrived in Dabeiba at night without announcement. However, next day, which was Sunday we had a wonderful meeting, many people being present and numbers receiving the Lord Jesus.

Such a glorious working God could give us this meeting could take us through the testing days that we would encounter about.
