SUPPOSE MR. SPEEDER

Supposing your child should leave its own yard
For a romp or in search of a ball,
If its mother were busy and had not the time
To step out and give it a call
Supposing some speeder should race down your street,
And as he were taking a dare,
And crush the life out of your little child;
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
Supposing your Mother was crossing the street—
Your Mother now feeble and old;
And some reckless driver should knock her aside,
Leaving her lifeless and cold,
Could you find an excuse for his careless act?
Would you really think it were fair?
Now, putting yourself in this fellow's place—
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
Supposing a loved one you hold very dear
Were a victim of some speeder's game;
And lay in bed just day after day,
All crippled and helpless and lame,
Supposing he never could walk any more,
No longer your pleasure could share;
Just lay there and suffer day in and day out—
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
How little you care for the other man's pain
In your reckless pleasure and greed;
How little you care when it costs someone else,
As you travel at dare-devil speed;
But just let it strike in your family some day
For you and your loved ones to share.
Then you'll slacken your speed and you'll take time to Think
And then, MR. SPEEDER, You'll care.

'Cracker Politics'

By Allen Morris

There were two omissions—important to the needy aged and the afflicted—from the statement issued when the door finally was opened at the Wakulla Springs legislative conference.
What that handout failed to disclose was that the 33 Senators and Representatives substantially had agreed they would make:
1. Try to make up, at least to the amount of the State's share, the loss suffered by the elderly through cutting of welfare checks.
2. It was feared there was no way of capturing the lost Federal matching dollars but an effort will be made.
3. Endeavor to fix the yield of new taxation so there would be no balancing the operating budget (now $80,000,000 out of kilter), money for construction and repair of buildings for (in the third) tuberculosis sufferers, the income, those otherwise afflicted, and if anything remained, the unavailing.

Also off the record, there was majority sentiment against complicating the special session by taking up two subjects which lawfully might be considered regardless of the Governor narrowing the scope to revenue: Warren's veto of acts of the regular session and his post-session appointments to offices requiring senatorial confirmation.

Doven of the Senate, master of the epigram, devote of knock-poker, Senator S. D. D. (The Land) Clarke was neatly mouse-trapped the other evening by an old friend, W. S. (Buddy) McLin of Tallahassee.

Senator Clarke, a Monticelli banker, takes much joshing about his age from friends. They pretend to scoff at the published figure of 68; make him out almost as a rival of Methuselah.
McLin, white-haired, 65-year-old retiring Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, got to talking about a circus parade he had seen last night in the company of Senator Clarke. As "Buddy" recalled memorable fights, the Senator nodded agreement.
"And, Dill, remember—," McLin paused, cooking the trap, "remember you lifted me over your shoulder so I could see over the people in front of me."
The Senator abruptly stopped agreeing, shook his head vigorously, and spluttered for minutes.

Add Pepper—
State Treasurer J. Edwin Larson is another of those known to attempt next spring the unseating of U. S. Senator Claude Pepper. (Miami Congressman George Smathers and Tallahassee's former Governor Millard F. Caldwell and State Senator LeRoy Collins are under the same pressure.)

Larson could enter the game with a number of good cards. First off, he would not be risking his present $10,000 a year, plus, place in the State cabinet—for the time being, at least, since his term as Treasurer runs until January, 1953.

(And as State Railroad Commissioner Jerry W. Carter demonstrated time and again, Florida voters seem never to get up until a public official running midway of his term in one office for another. Any resentment appears to be offset by the advertising value of having the name on the ballot.)

Larson's title has a conservative sound which might win him a certain number of votes, independent of other considerations. His residence, legally, in Key West Heights straddles the North-South political boundary, and would relieve him of one of the traditional split of U. S. Senate seats between North and South Florida, with Spessard L. Holland of Bartow, occupying the South Florida chair.

Finally, Larson has both the nucleus of an organization and the spur of personal injury. He was turned out in 1939 as Collector of Internal Revenue for Florida to make place for a Pepper friend.
Note: Larson, invited to meetings of groups anxious for him to make the race, so far has not given them encouragement. He has, on the contrary, pointed out that Pepper never will be unseated by wiles or money, but only by the hard work of many people.

The Wakulla Springs conference—following by a day the best speech Fuller Warren has made since elected as Governor—may be put down as a success from the viewpoint of those who believe the State government needs a great deal more money than present income.

Its real value was in the opportunity for lawmakers to get information—that in a number of instances decided on-the-fence legislators. From each other, the attending Senators and Representatives gleaned a cross-section of statewide public reaction; from State officials present, they got the answers to questions being asked by the folks back home.
"It was worth the long trip to me just to discover that there were others in the Legislature who thought as I did," remarked a West Coast legislator whose own hometown speeches, explaining why he believed additional taxes were necessary, have been buried in the deluge of anti-tax publicity.

That, meagre reinforced collectively by the discovery of strength, the group took organizational steps—appointment of committees to meet frequently around the state for the collection and analysis of ideas about tax measures—which should reduce sharply the preliminaries to voting after September 7 on a revenue program.

The notes of an extra session brought to Wakulla Springs by Governor Warren had September 6—the date given here several weeks ago—for the convening of the lawmakers.
It was pointed out at the conference, however, that this date would force legislators to travel on Labor day with roads jammed. Also, some legislators would want to enjoy the last long summer holiday away from home with their family.

So the Governor obligingly moved the date ahead to the 11th.

Hurricanes Are Real McCoy

The hurricane scenes moviegoers will see in "Slattery's Hurricane," the real McCoy of the Park Theatre are the real McCoy. They were taken by Navy pilots in actual storms during the war and have never before been shown to the public. To further insure complete accuracy Captain Howard T. Orville, head of the Navy Aerological Service in Washington, D. C. acted as technical advisor. He is the man who provided the weather information used for the Tokyo raid of April 18, 1945.

Hurricanes, veteran Navy pilots point out, are shaped like a giant "S". In the approach of a twister the winds blow in one direction. At the crossover point, which would correspond with the hurricane eye, there is a momentary calm. Then the gales begin anew, this time blowing in the opposite direction. Reconnaissance technique, developed over a period of years, has the pilots winging into the very eye of the storm. Flying into and out of the eye is extremely hazardous but once there the pilot has ample time to chart the position, the direction, and speed of the storm. These readings are radioed to land stations and storm warnings are flashed to the danger areas.

In "Slattery's Hurricane" Richard Widmark and John Russell are hurricane-hunting pilots stationed in Miami where the first worlds showing was staged, and

KNOWING GOD
Job 22:1. "Acquaint now thyself with Him and be at peace."
We all know about God. We cannot live and be unmindful of the fact that the heavens declare His glory. The sun, moon and stars are there and neither we nor our fathers had anything to do with putting them there. It is not for the roaring sea and the Bible says, "The sea is His and He made it." At any rate we did not do it and it is there. The Bible also says that His hands formed the dry land. Well, the land is here, is it not, and it is certain we did not place it here.

Again, we have been told. At home, in Sunday School, in church. Yes, we know about God. But that is not the meaning of this text, and it is not what I am thinking about. There is a closer, personal, intimate knowledge. This comes by repentance and faith, by being forgiven, saved. Job had it. "I know that my Redeemer liveth." To quote our brother Paul, "I know in whom I have believed." I say a loud Amen to that.

"And be at peace." The only way anybody can have peace is to know God. "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." Isa 57:21.

Jesus said, "My peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." One thing more, as a preacher says: The time is coming and that right soon when knowing God will be of greater value to you than anything else, yes, everything else under the stars. Other things will be of no value whatever, therefore I pray you heed the injunction of this text. Acquaint now thyself with God and be at peace.

New Birth Certificate Offered By State Board Of Health

A wallet-size, birth registration card in tamper-proof plastic—is being offered by the State Board of Health.

Many people find it helpful to carry their birth registration card on their person to use as identification, for securing positions, proving age and citizenship, etc.

The new birth record card, it was explained, is more convenient than the regular birth certificate. It has less information on it than the regular certificate but it is adequate in the majority of cases in which a copy of the completed birth record is now required. Essential information such as name, sex, race, birthdate and birthplace is shown.

A Legislative Act made birth certificates confidential records. This was done to protect the individual from unnecessary disclosure of such facts as illegitimacy, unknown parentage, adoption, and other data which might cause embarrassment.

Now, certified photostatic copies of birth records are being made available to the public.

The association re-elected President Joseph H. Gosh of Clearwater and all other officers. They include T. Hayes Maxwell, of Avon Park and D. L. Strine of Winter Haven, vice president; B. Blanton of Plant City, secretary; Curtis L. Clements of Apopka, treasurer, and Herbert R. Mayers of Clearwater, executive secretary.

Representative James S. Moody of Plant City told the association not to expect the state's new citrus trucking law in the 1949 legislative session. The law allows fruit to be trucked from grove to retail point without being graded, sized or washed.

In practice it affects only fruit shipped within Florida, as the federal marketing agreement requires grading and size inspection for citrus leaving the state.

Moody recommended association members write their congressmen and urge the provisions of the state law be adopted by the Federal Government.

$2 Minimum On Oranges Asked

The Florida State Citrus Growers Association voted August 16 to demand a minimum of $2 a box on the tree for early season oranges this year.

Minimum per box for grapefruit was set at $1.50 and for tangerines at $2. The association represents many of the state's small independent growers.

The association re-elected President Joseph H. Gosh of Clearwater and all other officers. They include T. Hayes Maxwell, of Avon Park and D. L. Strine of Winter Haven, vice president; B. Blanton of Plant City, secretary; Curtis L. Clements of Apopka, treasurer, and Herbert R. Mayers of Clearwater, executive secretary.

Representative James S. Moody of Plant City told the association not to expect the state's new citrus trucking law in the 1949 legislative session. The law allows fruit to be trucked from grove to retail point without being graded, sized or washed.

In practice it affects only fruit shipped within Florida, as the federal marketing agreement requires grading and size inspection for citrus leaving the state.

Moody recommended association members write their congressmen and urge the provisions of the state law be adopted by the Federal Government.

SUPPOSE MR. SPEEDER

Supposing your child should leave his own yard
For a romp or in search of a ball,
If its mother were busy and had not the time
To step out and give it a call
Supposing some speeder should race down your street,
As if he were taking a dare,
And crush the life out of your little child;
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
Supposing your Mother was crossing the street—
Your Mother now feeble and old,
And some reckless driver should knock her aside,
Leaving her lifeless and cold,
Could you find an excuse for his careless act?
Would you really think it were fair?
Now, putting yourself in this fellow's place—
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
Supposing a loved one you hold very dear
Were a victim of some speeder's game;
And lay in bed just day after day,
All crippled and helpless and lame,
Supposing he never could walk any more
No longer your pleasure could share;
Just lay there and suffer day in and day out—
MR. SPEEDER, Do you think you would care?
How little you care for the other man's pain
In your reckless pleasure and greed;
How little you care when it costs someone else,
As you travel at this devil speed;
But just let it strike in your family some day
For you and your loved ones to share—
Then you'll slacken your speed and you'll take time to think
And then, MR. SPEEDER, You'll care.
—Arthur Unknown.

'Cracker Politics'

By Allen Morris

There were two omissions—important to the needy aged and the afflicted—from the statement issued when the door finally was opened at the Wakulla Springs legislative conference.
What that handout failed to disclose was that the 33 Senators and Representatives substantially had agreed they would:
1. Try to make up, at least to the extent of the State's share, the loss suffered by the elderly through cutting of welfare checks. It was feared there was no way of capturing the lost Federal matching dollars but an effort will be made.
2. Endeavor to fix the yield of new taxation so there would, after balancing the operating budget (now $60,000,000 out of $100 million), be money for construction and repair of buildings for (in this order) tuberculosis sufferers, the insane, those otherwise afflicted, and, if anything remained, the universities.
Also off the record, there was majority sentiment against complicating the special session by taking up two subjects which might be considered regardless of the Governor narrowing the scope to revenue. Warren's veto of acts of the regular session and his post-session appointments to offices requiring senatorial confirmation.

Doyen of the Senate, master of the epigram, devote of knock-knock, Senator S. D. (The Lamb) Clarke was neatly mouse-trapped the other evening by an old friend, W. S. (Buddy) McLin of Tallahassee.

Senator Clarke, a Monticello banker, takes much liking about his age from friends. They pretend to scoff at the published figure of 66; make him out almost as a rival of Methuselah. McLin, white-haired, 65-year-old retiring Sergeant-at-Arms of the House, got to talking about a circus parade he had seen long ago in the company of Senator Clarke. As "Buddy" recalled memorable sights, the Senator nodded agreement.

"And, Dill, remember—" McLin paused, cocking the trap. "remember you lifted me up on your shoulder so I could see over the people in front of me."

The Senator abruptly stopped agreeing, shook his head vigorously, and quivered for minutes.

Add Pepper—State Treasurer J. Edwin Larson is another of those being urged to attempt next spring the unseating of U. S. Senator Claude Pepper. (Miami Congressman George Smathers and Tallahassee's former Governor Millard F. Caldwell and State Senator L. B. Roy Collins are under the same pressure.)

Larson could enter the game with a number of good cards. First off, he would not be risking his present $10,000 a year, plus place in the State cabinet—for the time being, at least, since his term as Treasurer runs until January, 1953.

(And, as State Railroad Commissioner Jerry W. Carter demonstrated time and again, Florida voters seem never to get upset about a public official running midway of his term in one office.

Hurricanes Are Real McCoy

The hurricane scenes moviegoers will see in "Slattery's Hurricane," the new Fox picture at the Park Theatre are the real McCoy. They were taken by Navy pilots in actual storms during the war and have never before been shown to the public. To further insure complete accuracy Captain Howard T. Orville, head of the Navy Aeronautical Service in Washington, D. C., acted as technical advisor. He is the man who provided the weather information used for the Tokyo raid of April 18, 1945.

Hurricanes, veteran Navy pilots point out, are shaped like a giant "8". In the approach of a twister the winds blow in some direction. At the crossover point, which would correspond with the hurricane eye, there is a momentary calm. Then the gales begin anew, this time blowing in the opposite direction. Reconnaissance technique, developed over a period of years, has the pilots winging into the very eye of the storm. Flying into and out of the eye is extremely hazardous but once there the pilot has ample time to chart the position, the direction and speed of the storm. These readings are radioed to land stations and storm warnings are flashed to the danger areas.

In "Slattery's Hurricane" Richard Widmark and John Russell are hurricane-hunting pilots stationed in Miami where the first world showing was staged, and their girl friends in the quadrangular love story are Linda Darnell and Veronica Lake in "Slattery's Hurricane," at the Park Theatre Thursday and Friday.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

While filming scenes for "Slattery's Hurricane" at the Navy Air Base in Miami, Florida, Richard Widmark, one time producer of dramas at Lake Forest University in Illinois, was voted by co-eds at the University of Florida as "the prof we would most like to fail in our studies with, year after year after year."

AVON PARK SERMONETTE

By J. W. Cummins, Retired Methodist Minister

Job 22:1. "Acquaint now thyself with Him and be at peace."

We all know about God. We cannot live and be unmindful of the fact that the heavens declare His glory. The sun, moon and stars are there and neither we nor our fathers had anything to do with putting them there. It is not far to the roaring sea and the Bible says, "The sea is His and He made it." At any rate we did not do it and it is there. The Bible also says that His hands formed the dry land. Well, the land is here, is it not, and it is certain we did not place it here.

Again, we have been told. At home, in Sunday School, in church. Yes, we know about God. But that is not the meaning of this text, and it is not what I am thinking about. There is a closer, personal, intimate knowledge. This comes by repentance and faith, by being forgiven, saved. Job had it. "I know that my Redeemer liveth." To quote our brother Paul, "I know in whom I have believed." I say a loud Amen to that.

"And be at peace." The only way anybody can have peace is to know God. "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." Isa 57:21.

Jesus said, "My peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. One thing more, as a preacher says: The time is coming and that right soon when knowing God will be of greater value to you than anything else, yes, everything else under the stars. Other things will be of no value whatever, therefore I pray you heed the injunction of this text. Acquaint now thyself with God and be at peace."

It was pointed out at the conference, however, that this date would force legislators to travel on Labor day with roads jammed. Also, some legislators would want to enjoy the last long summer holiday away from home with their families.

So the Governor obligingly moved the date ahead to the 7th.
