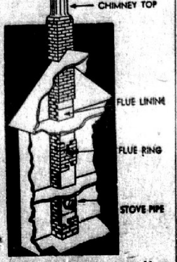
Danger of Fires Worse on Farms

Suggestions Advanced For Preventing Blaze

Of an estimated fire loss of 11,500 lives and nearly 700 million dollars in property and resources indicated for the year 1949, a great percentage of these losses will be made up of fires on the farm.

Because of lack of fire protection or adequate fire-fighting facilities, farm fires in almost every case are the most disastrous, because of the almost inevitable complete loss which results.

Already the national board of fire underwriters has reported property destruction from fire in the amount of 398 million dollars, 8.9 per cent below the same period for 1948. But even if a downward trend should continue for the remainder of 1949, this year's losses would approach the 1948 all-time high of more than 711 million dollars.



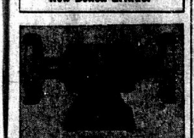
These figures mark 1948-49 as the most disastrous period in a decade that has recorded five billion dollars in fire destruction. Between 1940 and 1948, fire loss soared 132 per cent.

As the "prime cause" of most of the 800,000 fires annually, the Board lists "plain carelessness and misuse of heating and lighting equipment." The leading single cause of fire is careless smoking and use of matches, accounting for 16.68 per cent of the total destruction. However, over the past ten years, the combination of defective chimneys and flues, stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes, and sparks on roofs has been responsible for 20.47 per cent of all fires reported.

Proper safeguards in installation and maintenance of heating equipment, chimneys and flues, safety officials say, will prevent fires of this type. Many communities already protect their citizens with ordinances requiring the installation of flue linings in all new chimneys. One effective means of fireproofing chimneys involves the use of clay flue lining which forms a single, continuous noninflammable unit inside chimneys of all types. The indestructible clay lining prevents weather, heat and corrosive smoke and gases from eating away the mortar between the bricks of the chimney. This eliminates the danger of flames reaching combustible materials through cracks between the bricks.

Authorities urge homeowners to make a careful inspection of chimneys and heating equipment.

New Bench Grinder



This new bench grinder for farm, home and shop incorporates several outstanding features not usually found in a low-priced grinder. Manufactured by Electro Machines, Inc., Cederburg, Wis., this grinder is designed to provide ample working areas in front of the motor frame and in the space between the frame and the inside of the grinder wheels.

Wheel guards are removable for easy attachment of buffing wheels and other grinder accessories. It is equipped with lifetime lubricated ball bearing for long, trouble-free service. All hardware is cadmium plated.

U.S. Agricultural Unit Helped Penicillin Use

Although the U.S. department of agriculture did not make the discovery of penicillin, its work made it practical to produce the antibiotic commercially. They discovered a new and more productive strain of the penicillin mould. Also as a part of their war research work they developed methods of feeding the mold and separating and purifying the product, a major contribution in itself.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Can't Base Love On Deception

By Lawrence Gould

Can you really love a person whom you deceive?

Answer: The wish to have someone love you may almost compel you to deceive him if you feel the truth would alienate him from you or destroy his good opinion of you. Again, you may deceive someone you love with the (frequently mistaken) idea that you are protecting him from knowledge which would only hurt him. But love that is worn or retained by deceit won't make you happy because no one can be happy who does not feel secure, and the knowledge that the loved one may at any moment unmask your pretensions must keep you uncertain and uneasy.

Does mental illness "run in families"?

Answer: Not as used to be believed, writes Dr. M. Bleuler in the Swiss Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry. No specific mental ailment is directly inherited (in the way that blue eyes or brown hair are) or is often found in many members of a given family group. But various features of some type of mental illness may be noted in various relatives of the patient, suggesting a trend or tendency which will take an acute form in a given person only if the circumstances of his life are such as to encourage its development.

Can we explain dreams of being strangled?

Answer: No one explanation would fit every such dream, but in general a nightmare expresses the conflict between a desire which the dreamer has been taught to feel is dangerous or wicked and the fear of being punished if he dares to gratify it. The fear makes the desired satisfaction appear in the guise of something terrifying or destructive which the dreamer finally avoids by waking. Strangling might be the distorted symbol of a wish to be embraced or "overwhelmed" under conditions which the dreamer's conscience forbids.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Acquiring Emotional Stability

By Dr. James W. Barton

I HAVE WRITTEN BEFORE of our experience as medical officers in World War I, when we found so many young men unable to pass the low requirements as to size of chest. When a boy in his late teens or early twenties does not have a measurement of 34 inches with chest expanded there is something wrong.

The outstanding cause of chests considered too small for service was that these boys had not always played much as youngsters, often because their mothers were afraid they would get hurt.

Unfortunately unless a recruit was definitely a mental case, we made no tests as to his mental or emotional condition. The result was that many men were sent home or to hospital because of their emotional instability.

That is why in World War II, a careful examination of the recruit's emotional stability was made. The value of this screening for emotional disturbances is shown by the fact that 25 per cent of the eighteen-year-olds not accepted for service in the armed forces, were rejected on the ground of emotional immaturity.

Drs. Thomas A. C. Rennie and Luther E. Woodward in "Mental Health in Modern Society," the Commonwealth Fund, 1948, state that "Immaturity stands out as number one mental, emotional, and social ills. It accounts for practically all neuroses, is a major factor in mental illness, and seems to be at the root of many social problems. On the other hand, emotional and mental maturity (being grown up and acting our age) is the only hope of maximal personal satisfaction. physical and mental health, social progress and enduring peace."

How can our children and we, ourselves, achieve emotional maturity?

Just as the chests of boys and girls will mature if they play, so also will the boys and girls mature emotionally if they play games where they have to give and take. Also, for children and adults, mixing with others, by rubbing off shyness and other odd behavior, will make them grow mentally and emotionally and "act our age."

HEALTH NOTES

Belching, often repeated, is due to swallowed air caused by nervousness of emotional disturbances, especially in those who worry about this gas and about digestion generally.

• • •

In the healthy person, gas formed in the bowel is rapidly picked up by the blood, carried to the lungs and thrown out in the breath.

Breathing into a paper bag is a way of finding if gas is from swallowed air or digestive disturbances. Swallowed air has no odor.

• • •

Overweight is dangerous in cases of high blood pressure.

• • •

Specialists in rheumatic diseases say there is a family history of gout.

Sighting Rule

This rule should always be remembered when rifle sights are being adjusted: Always move the rear sight in the direction in which you desire the rifle to shoot. Move the front sight in the OPPOSITE direction. The front or rear sight can be moved in its notch by placing a short rod of brass or copper against it and tapping the rod with a hammer, while the barrel itself is supported against a hard block of wood.

Set the rifle sights to hit where you aim at the average distance of most of your shots in your hunting territory. Carefully check the exact position of your sights as soon as you have "sighted in" so that they may be returned to proper alignment if accidentally jarred out of alignment.

The sights on all rifles are carefully adjusted before the guns leave the factory. If your eyes are exactly normal and you hold the gun in the proper manner, your rifle should shoot true. However, there is considerable variation in the eyes of hunters and all shooters do not hold in just the same manner. Consequently, one man may get bulls-eyes consistently while another, using the same rifle, might find his bullets going wide of the mark. The sights then may be adjusted to make the necessary shooting corrections.

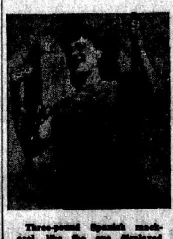
"Lady Size"



Three-pound Spanish mackerel, like the one displayed here, are "lady-size" and "ladylike-get" according to Miss Pauline Dixon, Morehead City, N. C., who holds this specimen. She explains that they are easily caught by trolling lure on surface of the water.

Bluegill Popular

Even though fall is advanced and the tang of winter is in the air over a great section of the United States, there is still some consolation left for the angler who has learned just how much sport the bluegill—or bream—can provide.

These fish may be taken, even on flies, until the waters of his habitat freeze over—certainly that is the case—in Kentucky, at least.

While small worms and minnows are the usually accepted diet of the bluegill, the fly rod is becoming increasingly popular in taking these small, but gamey fish. Some anglers, referring to the bluegill's fighting propensities, assert that if the bluegill ever got to weigh four or five pounds, he'd pull the angler in the pond!

Swan on Rampage

A rampaging swan that attacked automobiles was reported in the vicinity of Grande Prairie, Alberta.

Many complaints were received from motorists, and one told the Mounted Police that he had to defend himself from the bird with his skis.

The bird was one of two that had been making their home in the vicinity for several years and its mate had been killed by an automobile.

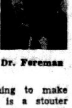
God Our Comfort

Lesson for November 6, 1949

AS THE ENGLISH language keeps on changing, words do not always keep on meaning what they once did. "Comfort" is one of these. When our Bible was translated into English in 1611, the translation most English-speaking people use, the word "comfort" had a bigger meaning than most people put into it nowadays. We think of it as meaning soothing; but it is a bigger idea than that. God is not merely a soothing God. We think of "comfort" as meaning to make comfortable; but it is a stouter word than that. God does not always make his people comfortable. The word means to strengthen, to steel against fear and despair, to put backbone into people.



Dr. Foreman

"Fear Not, O Worm!"

AT THE TIME of the prophecies we study this week, the Israelites had been kicked around a good deal. They had felt the conqueror's boots, they were discouraged, as all good people are when somehow God seems to be letting evil forces triumph. Their little world had split wide apart, their little nation had been blown to the winds.

To these people, torn by terrors and bowed down by wretchedness, people who were in serious danger of developing a once-for-all "inferiority complex," people who were about to lose all their backbone, the great prophet brings his messages: "Comfort ye my people, saith your God."

The whole idea is in this one sentence (Is. 41:14): "Fear not, O worm Jacob! . . . I am your helper, saith the Lord."

God does not indulge his people in foolish pride. Beside the Almighty they are worms, insects. Nevertheless, worm though he may be, the man who trusts in God will not be afraid. He will not trust in his own powers, he will trust in luck, he will trust in God.

A worm by itself is nothing; but with God on his side, the weakest of men can say with Paul, "If God be for us, who can be against us?" God's men do not get their courages up by flexing their muscles or admiring themselves. They grow in courage as they grow in the knowledge of God.

Goodness And Power

ANY ONE who saw "Edward, My Son" will remember the tragedy of that family. A boy's character went slowly to pieces, because his father was determined that nothing should be too good for him. To gain his purpose the father ran rough-shod over everyone who stood in his way, and eventually ruined the lives of all around him, including his son's and his own. The mother, on the other hand, could see, as the father could not, what his indulgence was doing to the boy, making him a weakling and a rat. But she was too weak to stand up against her husband, and her life too was ruined. That story is a kind of parable.

The prophet reveals a God who is both powerful and good; but suppose God were only good but not powerful, or only powerful but not good? Then the world would be in a mess, as that boy Edward was in a mess.

But these three are all in the same God. A God who is power only, might do as Edward's father did, destroy his children without even intending to do so. A God who is goodness only, might want to do right by his world yet not be able to do so, like Edward's mother. A God who knew what was right but neither wanted nor was able to do much about it, would not be a God at all.

• • •

God Is Not Weary

SUPPOSE GOD were indeed powerful, good and wise, and yet grew tired from time to time? Suppose all God's good qualities came and went, unpredictably, like the wind on a spring day?

No; God is the Maker and Keeper of Promises, the Covenant God. He does not grow faint or weary; that is our anchor of comfort.

The earth changes, and men with it; but the Word of the Lord abides forever. His "convenant of peace" does not waver. We do not need to lean gingerly on the Almighty. He will bear all our weight.

Variety Gives Lunch Boxes Interest
(See Recipes Below)

Sandwich Tricks

HOMEMAKERS who put together lunch boxes daily are apt to fall into just as much of a rut about them as the school children or husbands who eat them. Yet, since lunch is such an important meal of the day, rules for variety must be observed consistently.

Explore your ingenuity for sandwich combinations. These, after all, are the mainstay of almost every lunch box. Think of other ways to make packed lunches interesting. See what interesting salad and fruit combinations can be tucked in small glass jars or cartons to add zest to the meal.

Hot beverages and soups are particularly interesting in cold weather. A few unexpected surprises in the way of candied dried fruits, confections and new cookies or some relishes for the sandwiches will make a constant delight for the person opening the packed lunch.

Plan for lunch boxes at least a week at a time, so that the same breads and fillings are not repeated too often. Add special and appetizing seasonings to the sandwich fillings; prepare foods carefully and neatly and see how much fun this task can become!

Make quick work of the lunch box by setting a tray of necessary materials in an easy-to-reach cupboard. This should contain a knife for spreading as well as one for cutting the bread. Waxed paper and bags, cartons or covered glass cups, rubber bands, tin foil, candies, fruits, etc., should be on the tray.

In the refrigerator, keep another section or tray with the fillings or spreads, salads and fruits, vegetables, and relishes, so that you need get out only the two trays to get together the lunch.

• • •

HERE ARE SOME different fillings and spreads which will add zest and appeal to any worked-over collections:

Egg Salad-Olive Sandwich Filling
(Makes 1 cup)

- 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 2 tablespoons sliced, stuffed olives
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- ½ teaspoon onion salt
- Dash of pepper
- ¼ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce

Combine all ingredients and refrigerate until ready for use.

Horseradish Butter Spread
(Makes ¼ cup)

- ¼ cup soft butter
- 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

Combine ingredients, but do not refrigerate before using.

LYNN SAYS:
Here are Special Tricks For Special Occasions

Baked potatoes can get overworked, too, with the butter, salt and pepper treatment. Try baking, then scoop out the mealy potato, season with rich cream, salt and pepper and add some sausage meat or bacon, crisply fried and crumbled before returning to shells.

Slivers of ham in the spaghetti will bring compliments to you. A dash of basil will add the gourmet flavor touch.

Baking-powder biscuits take on novel interest when made with orange juice replacing milk. Add some of the grated rind, too, if you want to sharpen the flavor.

Finely chopped pecans, two tablespoons to a cup of rice, will do much more than you expect to that delicacy which is already such a favorite.

Fillets of fish take on festive airs when they're served with chopped almonds cooked until just slightly browned in salad oil.

Chef's Salad Rolls

Sliced Tongue Sandwiches
(Makes 6)

- ¼ cup horseradish butter spread
- 30 slices cooked tongue
- 12 slices enriched bread

Spread bread with horseradish butter. Arrange five slices tongue on each of six slices of bread and top with remaining bread.

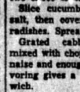
Salami-Egg Salad Filling
(Makes ¾ cup)

- ½ cup chopped salami sausage
- ¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients in order given.

• • •

WHEN THE LUNCH BOX consists of two sandwiches, it often makes for variety to make one of meat, fish or cheese, and the other one a vegetable combination.



The crispness as well as a good choice of flavors will make the latter interesting sandwich material. Try some of these ideas: Mix grated carrots and cabbage, in amounts desired with mayonnaise. Top with two slices of crisp bacon.

Slice cucumbers thin, dust with salt, then cover with thinly sliced radishes. Spread with mayonnaise.

Grated cabbage and carrots mixed with chopped celery, mayonnaise and enough chili sauce for flavoring gives a crisp, colorful sandwich.

Lettuce, watercress or young, tender spinach leaves, or other greens, topped with thinly sliced tomatoes and mayonnaise gives a salad sandwich.

Leftover peas may be mashed and mixed with mayonnaise and peanuts for interesting variety.

Fruit Sandwiches

Grind ½ cup dates with ½ cup figs; add some chopped nuts and moisten with pineapple and lemon juice.

Slice bananas thin, dip them in orange juice. Place on buttered bread, covered with lettuce, then sprinkle with a few chopped nuts.

Thinly sliced apples, spread with mayonnaise mixed with chopped celery and nuts, gives a salad type sandwich.

Egg Sandwiches

Mix hard-cooked, chopped eggs with mustard and mayonnaise. Add catsup to taste and enough chopped cucumber or cucumber pickles to make the spread crisp.

Chopped hard-cooked eggs combine well with chopped watercress or finely shredded lettuce and salad dressing to moisten.

What's Wrong With Our City?

How many of you good people have ever sat down and really thought this question over? No doubt but that all of you at one time or another have listened to the Avon Park High School Band and thought that it could hardly be possible for a small city like Avon Park to have such a fine outstanding band. Our children are proud of the band and doubly proud of the honors they have brought home from state and district contests, competing wtih bands from cities two to three times as large as this one is, but what of the financial standing of the band.

Do you know that the city of Avon Park did not give one cent to the support of the High School band the last year? That most children buy their own uniforms, and their band instruments? Then after this they pay ten dollars to the band for the privilege of wearing their own uniforms and being able to play in the band. Their parents can vouch for this, and this, and this alone, supports one of the very important programs of the school.

Mr. Gene Gorman is a very learned man and the children love him. If he has a practice at seven in the morning, do any of the children miss? Never. If they practice for a special feat to show at a football game, and sometimes it is ten o'clock at night when they finish, do the children kick, or not want to practice? NO. Do you realize that it takes approximately a week of honest hard work to learn a piece of music by heart, know where to step and how many paces left or right to go in order to make a perfect showing at some football game? Yet are the children discouraged? Haven't heard a word from any of them, all Mr. Gorman has to do is ask and they are all willing to do their part. How many parents have their children trained that way? The reason they follow Mr. Gorman is they love their work and why should a child be deprived of something that is dear to their hearts? Yet if the Avon Park High School Band is not backed by the people it will soon be a thing of the past.

Have you heard the new Vibro-harp at the High School? Take the trouble to go to the band room at the High School any day at 11:25 and I can personally assure you that you will be well received and that the band will perform for you. Then if you don't think that it is one of the best investments for your children in this community—tell them and make a suggestion of your own to the school board as to what they should do.

The band could stand to have more good music. They need a couple of instruments that the students do not have and that the pupils should not be asked to buy. Mr. Gorman [illegible] on Saturday morning for the benefit of those who need [illegible] coaching and will do all in his power to help a pupil in any way, during or after hours.

We need the band, it is an asset in any football game, so let's support it. Some good citizen should think up a program with proceeds to be given to the Avon Park High School Band, and let's all show them that the city of Avon Park, full of good people appreciate the fine band that they have. Being in the band gives a child poise and personality, and all you have to do is ask some child that is in the band if he would like to drop out and you have the answer to all your questions.

* * * *

Under the efficient supervision of our House-committee chairman, Mrs. I. D. Kelley, the interior of the clubhouse is undergoing a much needed scrubbing and general cleaning.

* * * *

At this time of year, those who are able, are either here, or on their way, or getting ready to come to Florida. Those still at home, are right now enjoying the incomparable days of Indian summer. They are engaged in putting the finishing touches on their home affairs, so that their property will be safe during a protracted absence. Homes are being "banked" to protect apples, potatoes, canned fruit, and other perishable food stuffs, stowed away in basement or cellar; water pipes are being drained and disconnected; windows are being covered, and other precautions taken to ensure safety, except, of course, where the home is to be occupied during their absence.

Then, when the November winds scatter the leaves of deciduous trees, and shrubs; when orchards and wood lots stand out stark and bare against a leaden sky; when the triangular formations of wild geese, and other migratory birds, have gone south into winter quarters; when during the morning, hoar frost covers lawns and pastures, the first snowfall usually clinches the decision as to when to start, and the annual trip is begun. In the early dawn, overcoats and furs are needed against the chilly air, the car windows are closed, and once under way, the heater is turned on.

During the first day out, few stops are made, and these only for refreshments and car servicing. Toward evening, all are on the lookout for "Heated Cabin" signs, and when a likely place is found, cabins are quickly selected, necessary baggage carried in, and the car run into the garage along side, handy, should anything be needed during the night. Where no garage is provided, which frequently happens to the cross-country motorist, he is apt to find his windshield frost-covered next morning. Here is where a discarded razor blade is temporarily resurrected to do more service before being thrown away. As the morning advances, the exhilarating air brings out pleasure. In the afternoon, and the air somewhat warmer, the car windows are partly opened. As the 300-mile daily limit approaches, lookouts for "Heated Cabin" signs again occupy the attention of the travellers. Once more the car is serviced and made ready for an early start in the morning. By this time, garage, or no garage, there is no longer any frost on the windshield in the morning. Wraps and overcoats have been stowed away in the trunk compartment, windows are open, and another stimulating drive in the cool morning atmosphere whets the joy of living. The afternoon of this the third day out, finds the lighter wraps laid aside, and the men shed their coats and vests with unmistakable relief. The last night before the final run, our party, anticipating the end of their journey, with weary bodies, and cramped limbs, seeks repose in the comfort of a Beauty Rest bed.

The last morning is no less exhilarating than the others have been, the car windows are wide open permitting full enjoyment of circulating air. All are comfortable, happy, and expectant. The leafless trees have gradually given way to more summery vegetation. Cypress swamps are to be seen at close range. Cotton fields line the highway with their bursting bolls of white staple, alternating with smaller corn patches, and finally citrus groves laden with their golden apples predominate the landscape. As the day advances, our party begins to shed jackets. Low necked dresses and bare arms are in evidence; coats, vests, and neckties disappear; sleeves are rolled up, and shirt necks are opened and fingers are run around the collars to relieve the pressure on perspiring necks. At last, are waving palms, and wide-spreading live oaks with their long pendulous strands of Spanish moss swaying in the breeze, while all around within reach of the eye is a profusion of Bougainvillaea, Hibiscus, Periwinkles, and scores of other species are in full bloom.

As they arrive at their destination, bald pates are mopped, as glad greetings are exchanged with friends who have preceded them to the land of sunshine. Such scenes are now to be witnessed daily on the streets of Avon Park, and on the Club grounds, and will continue so until after the Holidays. The spirit of good fellowship prevails, and all are happy in the anticipation of another incomparable winter in Florida.

WHEN JESUS COMES

"I will come again" John 14:3 "This same Jesus shall come so in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." Acts 1:11

We are discussing the second coming of Jesus Christ and what will happen when he comes. We know that Jesus is coming. The time of His coming we do not know, for Jesus said, "But of that day and of that hour knoweth no man, not even the angels in Heaven." There has always been much discussion regarding the time of the Lord's coming, and of it's relationship to the millenium. The millenium is that period spoken of in Rev. 20 of Universal peace and righteousness over all the earth. The word itself is a Latin word meaning one thousand years. There are several millenial views.

1. The post milienuim view. The world is getting better and better and someday we shall enter and pass through the millennium, at the end of which Christ will come.

2. The pre-millennial view. Christ will come before the millennium and reign through it with his saints for glory.

Most of the people who study this subject at all are aligned on either the post-millennial side or the pre-millennial. The post-millennist poses as an optimist, and believes that the world is getting better and better, but in view of world happenings this position is not as popular as it once was. The word of God is distinctly against this view of world betterment and the millennium without the coming of Christ. Jesus said in the days before His coming it would be at it was in the days of Noah. Sin and violence were everywhere in Noah's day such as is the picture today. Let us consider a three fold consideration of this subject.

1. The Promise-The promise is that Jesus will return to this earth. He will return in personal, bodily form, even as He went away. Acts. 1: 10.11. If the Bible speaks more emphatically about one thing than another, it is the certainty of the coming again of Jesus. This is certainly the great subject of the New Testament. On the average, one out of twenty-five verses refer to the second coming. Paul alone in his epistles refers to it at least fifty times. In language simple and plain, we have been given the promise of His coming. The most momentous event of the future is the return of our Lord, and the scriptures speak of it over three hundred times.

2. The Person who promised - At once we agree that is was Christ who made this promise to return. The promise of Jesus rests on three pillars. His Truth-His Love-His Power. We have the promise of one who has never dissappointed any person. Others have failed to keep their appointments, but Jesus will not fail.

3. The purpose of His coming-

1. To receive His own. Jesus said, "I am going away to prepare a place for you but I will come again and receive you unto my-tell us how the dead will be raised self." Other passages in the Word first and the living changed when Jesus comes. He is coming to reward His servants. This is time when the Christian will get his reward. Paul said, "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge shall give me at that day and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.

Yes we are going to be like Him. Certainly that is part of the reward. Both body and soul will be changed and made like unto Christ. The devil's power will be broken forever. Jealousy, pride, envy, malice, and evil works will be things of the past.

2. He is coming to judge the world. Judgement is going to fall upon the Christ-rejecting world. There is nothing to stay its coming. World councils and peace treaties will not avail. This judgement at the Coming of Christ will manifest itself.

3. A third purpose in His coming is to set up His Kingdom. The need of this world is Christ. Violence and sin are increasing on every hand. International troubles are still making the headlines of our newspapers. Man still dreams of Universal peace and of a warless world, but thus far man has failed. The hope of the world is in Christ. We cannot bring in the Kingdom of God, but when the King comes, the kingdom will be set up. In spite of all our Churches, missionaries, Bibles, tracts, and radio services, more than two-thirds of the World is out of Christ. As we look back over twenty centuries of Christianity, and then view the condition of thing today, with our Bibles open before us, we are forced to conclude that the only hope of the World is in the Coming of Jesus.

Jesus is coming again. The big question for today is, are you ready?

If you are not a Christian, what is the meaning of His coming to you? It means that if you die without Christ, you will remain in the grave until the second resurection, and then come forth to be tried before the Great White Throne, and finally condemned in Hell. Make ready for His Coming now, receive Christ as your Saviour and rejoice that you have this time and opportunity to be saved.

Ibsen, Shmibsen, She Said; Confide With Me Everything

By BILLY ROSE

I recently read a magazine piece entitled, "What's Wrong with Modern Marriage," in which the author opined that the divorce rate would drop like an over-ripe apple if the average wife showed more interest in her husband's business and hobbies.

Well, mebbe so, but you can't prove it by my Uncle Charlie and my Aunt Frieda. . . .

Charlie and Frieda are a couple of oldsters who have been living in a four-room flat on the East Side almost as long as magazines have been printing articles entitled, "What's Wrong with Modern Marriage." Ever since their nuptials, they've had at least one argument a day, and when they stop scrapping that's when I'll start worrying about them.

I remember an evening back in the days when I was knee-high to the Allen Street curbstone when Aunt Frieda came home from the movies with an air of unwavering nobility.

"Charlie," she said tensely, "how is business at the shop, good, bad or fair to the middle?"

Billy Rose

"Eh - peh," answered my uncle.

("Eh - peh," I hasten to translate, means that things being what they are, if a man breaks even he can consider himself a runaway success.)

"'Eh-peh' is no answer," said Frieda. "I am sick of living in a doll's house."

"I see," said Charlie. "Tonight in the nickelodeon was showing Nazimova in 'A Doll's House' by Hymie Ibsen."

"Ibsen, Shmibsen," said Frieda. "You can't push me out of your life. Confide in me everything, come thick or thin."

"This I'll confide," said Charlie. "When I come home from the shop I'm tired out like a dog. But enough I live through the day without it should repeat on me like radishes."

However, with my Aunt Frieda, like Columbus, there was no turning back. She kept picking away until Charlie itemized the day's doings—everything from punch-in to punch-out.

• • •

BUT THAT WAS only the beginning. The payoff came a few weeks later when Charlie was fixing to attend his weekly pinochle session.

"I want you should teach me how to play," said Frieda.

"Pinochle!" said Charlie. "Always you are saying pinochle is for loafers and no-goods."

"I ain't saying different," said Frieda, "but pinochle is your passion and I don't want it should take my place in your life."

Now, my uncle was a broad-minded man. When women began to bob their hair, his comment was, "They want to ventilate their necks, so let them." But pinochle—well, that was another matter. Nevertheless, he knew better than to balk his wife outright and, as he explained the game to Frieda, all the while thinking bitterly of the coffeehouse session he was missing, a plot began to hatch in his head.

Next evening he was home early with a bag of wool and knitting needles. "Frieda," he said, "how you make a cable stitch?"

Half an hour later he was in the kitchen tasting the soup. "It needs a pinch paprika," he said.

"You're giving me point-outs how to make soup?"

"Who's teaching? A woman cooks and shops, a husband should similar cook and shop. How much you pay for cabbage?"

"Five cents a head."

"At Fuzarri's on Avenue A, is four cents."

• • •

FRIEDA DROPPED a handful of cutlery in the sink. "Fuzarri's is six blocks away."

"So what? The exercise will do you good."

That Saturday night, Charlie persuaded a couple of his cronies to come over for a pinochle session and put up with his wife's playing. At 12 o'clock Frieda said, "I can't keep my eyes apart. Maybe you could play three-handed."

"What kind pinochle player stops so early?" said Charlie. "Deal!" And at 3 a.m., Frieda was dealing them as if they were bricks.

Sunday, Charlie put on his best tie. "Today I go with you to see Theda Bara," he said.

"Is not necessary to go with," said Frieda. "I got a date with the ladies."

"Where you go, I go," said Charlie.

Frieda, afraid Charlie would laugh at Theda's amatory exercises and humiliate her in front of her friends, pulled down the flag.

"Marriage is not simple a ball and chain," she said. "You go your way and I'll go to Loew's."

Charlie moved in for the kill.

"No more schmoose about the shop?"

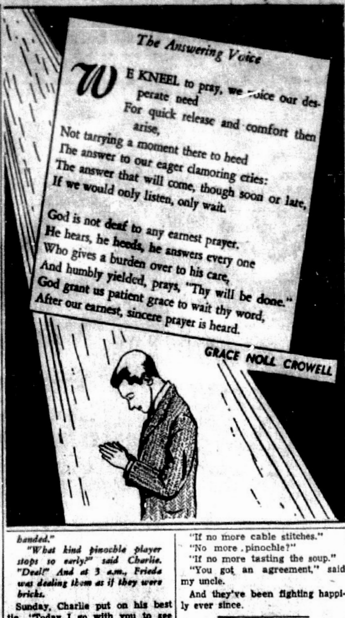
"If no more cable stitches."

"No more pinochle?"

"If no more tasting the soup."

"You got an agreement," said my uncle.

And they've been fighting happily ever since.



The Answering Voice

WE KNEEL to pray, we voice our desperate need
For quick release and comfort then arise,
Not tarrying a moment there to heed
The answer to our eager clamoring cries:
The answer that will come, though soon or late,
If we would only listen, only wait.

God is not deaf to any earnest prayer.
He hears, he heeds, he answers every one
Who gives a burden over to his care,
And humbly yielded, prays, "Thy will be done."
God grant us patient grace to wait thy word,
After our earnest, sincere prayer is heard.

The Fiction Corner ★ RANGE RIDER ★

By Richard H. Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

CHUCK HANSON and Baldy Davis, range riders for the Circle H cattle outfit, were pretty disgusted the day young Johnny Howard rode into their camp and handed them a note signed by Old Man Hadley, the Circle H's owner. The note read in part:

"This will introduce Johnny Howard from New York, the son of an old friend of mine. He wants to be a real cowboy and I'm sending him out to you boys. Show him the ropes. Jim."

Summoning Baldy, Chuck led the way out of earshot.

"Ain't the boss cute?" he said sarcastically. "Handin' us this nurse maid's job. By Gad, one day Jim Hadley will go too far."

"The way I figure it," said Baldy, "the boss is passin' the buck. Since this fashion-plate is the son of a friend he can't just give him the works and send him home, so he puts it up to us."

Chuck spat and scratched his head. "By gum, mebbe you're right. Shucks, that's it exactly! Come on, we gotta do like he asks. We'll make a cow hand outer this dude or die tryin'."

They returned to the camp where waited Johnny. "O. K., feller," Baldy said. "The boss allows we gotta make a cow hand outer yuh. Your first lesson is to get down off that flea-bitten nag you're a-straddle and learn to stick on a real hoss."

"Well," said Johnny, "I was wondering if I was going to have to ride this old crow bait."

Chuck and Baldy exchanged meaning looks. Baldy went out to the corral and returned leading a sleek-looking black that kept his ears laid back permanently just to show folks how he felt about any one who thought he could ride him.

Confidently Johnny swung aboard while the two range riders climbed to the top rail of the corral fence. Baldy was a little nervous.

The black, with Johnny astride him, suddenly galvanized into action. It shot straight into the air and came down with all four legs as solid as gate posts. It sunfished and buckled and bucked. It got down and rolled over, brushed against the fence, reared on all fours, plunged and bucked some more. And presently, sweating and blowing, it stood docile and Johnny Howard was still on its back. Johnny grinned at the open-mouthed spectators.

THE RANGE RIDERS rubbed their eyes. The thing that had happened was like an hallucination. They weren't convinced. Chuck slid down off the corral.

"We'll now go into lesson number two," he remarked, "which includes bulldogging. Ever bulldog a steer, mister?"

Without waiting for the dude's reply, Chuck, who had won laurels as a bulldogger, galloped after a steer, threw and roped him in record time. Pleased and swaggering he returned. "See how it's done?" he asked.

"Yes," said Johnny, "I see. Mind if I try it on that big steer?"

He tried it. He threw and roped the big steer in three seconds less time than Chuck.

After a roping exhibition Johnny, without being challenged, produced a six-gun and demonstrated some fast and accurate shooting. In fact, it was so fast and so accurate that Baldy and Chuck didn't offer to exploit their own prowess.

When the shooting was over the range riders went into a huddle. Presently they returned to Johnny. Chuck stuck out his hand. "Mister, we hereby apologize. We know when we're licked."

Johnny grinned. "Well," he said, "I reckon that was Uncle Jim's idea. At first. Then when he found out I was a circus performer he saw a chance to play a joke on you boys. I learned all my stuff in a circus. I got to be pretty good, because I liked the work. In fact, I liked it so well I decided to become a real cowboy. The truth is, I don't know a darned thing about cow-punching and I'd appreciate it a heap if you boys would let me stay and teach me a few things."

"Teach you!" declared Chuck. "Ha! Mister, consider yourself t'home."

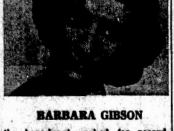
PUZZLE NO. 23

Star Dust
STAGE SCREEN RADIO

BY INEZ GERHARD

A SINGER has to be something more than just wonderful to make her professional debut on "The Telephone Hour." 20-year-old Barbara Gibson did it September 12, and will be heard again on the program in February. Gladys Swarthout promptly phoned her praise; Lily Pons, who had missed the broadcast, asked for recordings. Like Lily, Barbara is a coloratura soprano. Unlike her, she's a young American girl—likes to swim and ski, makes her own clothes. Walter Magill, producer of "The Telephone Hour," was at CBS the day she auditioned, heard executives raving about her voice; after hearing her sing he gave her her big chance.



BARBARA GIBSON

Columbia will release "All the King's Men" some time near Christmas, to get maximum consideration for Academy Award nomination. Paramount is banking on "The Heiress"; 20th Century-Fox has "Pinky"; Eagle-Lion, "Passport to Pimlico."

Before designing "Mortimer Snerd," CBS' Edgar Bergen spent months in research on phrenology. He made a complete list of all physical characteristics associated with stupidity, then combined them all in "Mortimer."

The University of Denver has adopted Paramount's "My Friend Irma" as the basis of a course in film production and appreciation. The script, still, production and publicity photos and a number of minature sets used in the picture are being used as visual aids, and sets created by Hans Dreier and Henry Bumstead are on display in the college library.

Lucille Ball is back at RKO, the first time in six years, to make "Easy Living," with Victor Mature. It was at RKO that she met her husband, Desi Arnaz, eight years back, when they were the principals of "Too Many Girls."

Florence Freeman expected to be home awaiting the stork's arrival the last week of September, and the script of "Wendy Warren and the News" was written so as to give the star a vacation. But her son didn't know that in radio everything has to be done right on time. He put off greeting his parents and two sisters until October 6.

Epicure

When the college's football squad was called out for the first practice session of the season one of the aspirants was so fleet of foot that he made the others look like turtles. The coach called him over and asked him how he had developed such incredible speed.

"I used to catch jackrabbits on my pop's ranch," he explained.

"But," the coach pointed out, "a lot of other boys here claim that they did the same thing. Still they're not nearly so fast as you."

"My pop is pretty fussy about the rabbits he eats," the boy elaborated. "I had to run alongside them and feel them to see if they were fat enough for pop before I caught them."

JUST WANTED TO KNOW

"Beg your pardon, but what is your name, sir?" the hotel clerk asked.

"Name!" echoed the indignant guest, who had just signed the register, "don't you see my signature there?"

"Of course," answered the clerk. "That's what aroused my curiosity."

Goodbye!

"I'm sorry," said the arresting officer, "but it is me duty to watch out for unmuzzled dogs in the park."

"But," protested Mr. Kaplowitz, "he is such a lettle dug. I couldn't poichase a muzzle to fit him."

His arguments were in vain. The policeman gave him a ticket and told him that his case would come up at court in two days and he could talk himself blue in the face then, if he wanted to.

When Mr. Kaplowitz appeared before the judge he again tried to explain how tiny his dog was.

"Is he about so high?" asked the judge, indicating five inches.

"Yes, yes," hissed Mr. Kaplowitz eagerly.

"And is he about so wide?" continued the judge, indicating about four inches.

Again Mr. Kaplowitz nodded his head vigorously.

"And is he about so long?' asked the judge.

"So long, Judge," interrupted Mr. Kaplowitz. "Tenks."

Bite List

A woman was bitten badly by a dog. Her doctor warned her to make a will. She took so long in writing the will he asked her why.

"This isn't a will," she said: "this is just a list of people I'm going to bite!"

NATURAL MISTAKE

Bride: "Oh, dear! I took such a lot of trouble to arrange the salad daintily and nobody took a bit of it."

Young husband: "Salad, darling? We all thought it was a new style of arranging the flowers."

CONSISTENT

"This is the fifth time you have been brought before me for speeding," said the judge severely.

"Yes, your honor," smiled the offender. "When I like a feller I generally gives him all my business."

Shorts

These short bathing suits the girls are wearing on the beach this year: You need an imagination to keep your imagination from imagining what you shouldn't imagine.

Best Seller

"Did you know I had taken up story writing as a career?"

"No. Have you sold anything yet?"

"Yes—my watch, my saxophone, and my car."

Economics

Professor of Economics: "Give me an example of indirect taxation."

Fresh: "The dog tax, sir."

Prof.: "Explain."

Fresh: "The dog does not have to pay it."

JUST JESTING

Double or Nothing

"Now is as good a time as any," said Teeter, senior, as he stood at a bar with his son, "to teach you a few facts of life. Remember, a man who drinks beyond his capacity is no gentleman. To enjoy life you must observe the happy medium. Have a drink occasionally, but never, never get drunk."

"Yes, sir," replied his dutiful son, "but how am I to know when I am drunk?"

"Well, you see those two men sitting in the corner," said his father, "if you were to see four, you'd know you were drunk."

"I can see only one there now, father," grinned the young man.

Accidents Chief Killer Of Children in America

CHICAGO.—Here's a word of warning to all Moms and Dads: Accidents are the greatest kid-killers in America!

Accidents far out-rank any of the more generally feared childhood diseases as a cause of death among children 1-to-14 years old.

There were 10,731 accidental deaths in that age group in 1947—three times more than were claimed by pneumonia, the next most important cause of death. And accidents caused 42 times as many deaths as polio.

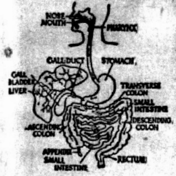
TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR INSIDES



Study the above drawing for a few minutes. Notice particularly how the bile flows from the liver into and out of the gall-bladder and thence into the small intestine where it mixes with the partly digested food just below the stomach. Bile is a necessary adjunct to proper digestion. Its absence from the intestines inevitably causes putrefaction and fermentation.

NATURE'S DANGER SIGNALS

When your stomach, liver, and gall bladder have been upset by improper eating or drinking, or when they are not working well because retained and putrefying food matter in your intestines is poisoning your entire body, your bile stops flowing freely and you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms:

Your breath may become unpleasant (halitosis), your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your coffee (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have headache, heartburn, gas and dizzy spells, you may be troubled with belching; at night the gas in your bowels may press upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep.

In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is impaired: you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning ("intestinal toxaemia" or "acute gastritis" as many doctors call it).

HOW TO GET RELIEF

You can relieve this condition, usually overnight, by taking Calotabs at bedtime and drinking water freely next day.

Calotabs are a thoroughly dependable laxative designed to effectively relieve symptoms of biliousness and acute gastritis due to constipation or faulty digestion, and to promote the flow of bile through the intestines.

Calotabs are pleasant to take (sugar coated), prompt and effective. Try them and see. Follow label directions. At your druggists'.

Demand the original Calotabs in the distinctive checker-board box. Accept no substitute.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger C. Whitman

QUESTION: I was recently given two antique glass cream pitchers, but they have been washed in soap and water so much much that the designs in the glass are filled with a soap crust. I have failed to remove this after repeated trials. Can you give me any help?

ANSWER: I believe the deposit is more from hard water than soap, although this has probably stuck to the glass also. If the pitchers are of cut glass of some kind without any painted designs, the crust should soften by soaking with a non-flamable cleaning fluid, giving it plenty of time to act. Kerosene may also help. A stiff brush would be convenient to work with.

QUESTION: We purchased a farm and are remodeling the small Colonial house on it, in which we now live. We added an underground garage and expect to use the top for a porch. It is now covered with maple floor boards; but a friend advises against it, saying the cement floor would crack later. It is 10x26 ft. and we shall not build a roof over it for a year or two. What is your opinion?

ANSWER: I agree with your friend; I do not advise using cement over the maple boards, for the job almost certainly would be unsatisfactory. You would find it more practical to cover the boards with a top-quality roofing canvas, and then paint it with a good-quality deck paint. The canvas should be properly laid by someone who understands the work.

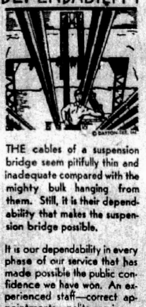
DEPENDABILITY



THE cables of a suspension bridge seem pitifully thin and inadequate compared with the mighty bulk hanging from them. Still, it is their dependability that makes the suspension bridge possible.

It is our dependability in every phase of our service that has made possible the public confidence we have won. An experienced staff—correct appointments—polite service.

A DROP OF INK

ground;
Higher and broader the circles grow
As the tides of knowledge rise and flow.
So drops of ink, wherever they go,
Create ectstacies of Joy or woe,
As time moves on, each one finds its place
Within the hearts of the human race.
Into the depths where, in lower deep,
All the phantom forms of evil sleep
It falls; or it rises, star by star
In the opalescent space afar,
Like a crown to bless or a cross to curse,
Down the primrose path of tender

THE PREACHER'S DROP
A drop of ink from a preacher's pen,
As it speeds a thought from man to men,
Has raised the race to a higher plane,
As when Buddha walked the world in pain,
Because of a sorrow so supreme
That Deliverance was all his theme.
When Bethlehem's Star rose in the East,
Through love, this sorrow partly ceased;
And from age to age since then, we note
How the drops of ink, of those who wrote
Of the souls of men, traced words of hope,
From the Sermon on the mountain slope.

THE MISER'S DROP
A drop of ink on a miser's pen,
Will work its woe to the race of men;
And Pandora's box will open wide,
Till pain and anguish and sorrow glide
Over each desolate home and hearth,
Where the miser's greed of gold has birth.
Tinged with the gall of life's bitterness,
The drop of ink, where it ought to bless,
Can only curse; and in slime of crime
The trail of the Serpent, old as Time,
Is seen in the lives of those who wait
And plead in vain at the miser's gate.

THE WARRIOR'S DROP
A drop of ink from a Warrior's pen
Bids passions rise in the hearts of men,
And a clarion call leaps from each throat
Where the gonfalons of battle float;
And in flash of flame and sabre thrust
The Quick are the Dead and in the dust
Each image of God's lies stiff and stark,
As if Apollyon, out of the dark,
The banner of Sheol had unfurled,
Leading the hosts of the under world,
To show what a drop of ink can trace
On War's stained page, for the human race.

New books and some old favorites added to the children's section of the Public Library.

He ate and drank the precious words.
His spirit grew robust,

Or that his frame was dust.

Was but a book. What liberty
A loosened spirit brings.

MR. FRED WETHERBEE CALLED IN DEATH

Avon Park and Sebring friends of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wetherbee will be saddened to know of the death of Mr. Wetherbee which occurred suddenly at his home in Lakeland, Tuesday, November 1. Had he lived till November 3 he would have celebrated his 65 birthday.

Many friends here planned and sent a shower of birthday cards which he did not live to see as they arrived on his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wetherbee lived in Sebring before coming to Avon Park some 20 years ago. Here they owned a beautiful home on Lake Anoka where they lived till 1945 when they sold and established a home in Lakeland. Both were great humanitarians, though of moderate means they never turned away anyone in need, and through their kind hearts, took many people into their home and restored them spiritually and physically to a better way of life.

Exchange Club Has Guest Speaker

The Exchange Club had as their guest speaker at the last meeting Mr. A. C. Archer, public relations officer with the Florida Fish and Game Commission.

His subject for the day was conservation of game and fish and he urged the club to sponsor a conservation club of youngsters and teen-agers and teach them the proper use of firearms, fishing tackle and the importance of fish and game conservation.

The club also voted to invite Father Butler to become an honorary member of the organization.

ROTARY NEWS

At the Rotary Luncheon on Wednesday, cards were given out to those who wished to take the chest X-Ray and Dr. R. H. Jordan gave instructions as to how to fill them out. Professor Wilhite then introduced the guest speaker for the day, Mr. D. Markham, General Supervisor of Education in Highlands County. He gave a very interesting talk on the advance that education has made in the State of Florida in the past few years and said that the trend is toward encouraging a condition of Democratic living in children and parents.

After the close of the meeting the Rotary went as a body to have their chest X-Rays. (A picture will be in next week's paper.)

I was privileged this summer to be a part of a group of twenty college students who made a tour of eleven European countries and attended the Baptist World Youth Congress in Stockholm, Sweden. We had many delightful and unforgettable experiences as we visited many places of historical interest and as we met with the Christian young people and leaders in these Countries.

A pre-tour visit to New York City on July 4-6 included sightseeing, baseball games, radio shows, etc. On July 6, we flew via Pan-American Airways to Gander, Newfoundland and London, England. Sightseeing in London included visits to St. Pauls Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, Houses of Parliament, London Bridge, Piccadilly, The British Museum, Tower of London, The Crown Jewels, and a trip through the "blitzed" portion of the city. We spent a day at Stratford-On-Avon, the birthplace of William Shakespeare, and at Oxford University. On Sunday we worshipped in Spurgeon's Tabernacle which was badly damaged by German bombs.

From London we flew to Amsterdam, Holland with its canals intersecting the city at many points. We took a boat trip across the Zuyder Zee and visited Vol-

Washington [illegible]

Lewis Miffed

JOHN L. LEWIS was so miffed [illegible] a Washington Merry-Go-Round account of his oratory at a recent closed-door session on the coal strike that he ordered his right-hand man, John Owens, to find out the southern coal operators for allegedly leaking the story.

Owens carried out his instructions, waving the newspaper clipping at Joseph Moody, president of the southern coal producers.

"We know you leaked the story," protested Owens. "Well, you're talking to the wrong people. These columnists all have their price."

Moody vigorously and correctly denied that he had been the source, but added: "Let's be honest. You were there and so was I. Won't you agree that the story was an honest and factual account of what happened?"

"But it didn't make Mr. Lewis look very good," growled Owens.

"Well, he didn't look good in the meeting," replied Moody.

Battle of Admirals

One of the angriest men in the battle of the admirals is the undersecretary of the navy himself, Dan Kimball.

Kimball was invited to an off-the-record meeting of 60 top navy officers in Monterey, Calif., September 21. Officially the meeting was a routine review of naval problems, but Kimball sensed something special was going on. [illegible] present included Admiral [illegible], [illegible] man in the [illegible], together with Vice Admiral [illegible] F. Bogan. [illegible] NEVADAN—Sen. [illegible] Connally, Texas Democrat, [illegible] a group of senators the other day to vote against an amendment by Sen. George Malone, Nevada Republican . . . . "Let's get in there and vote," stirred Connally. "I don't know what it's about, but it was offered by Malon . So I'm against it." . . . Many senators feel the same way.

UNHAPPY HINDU—Prime Minister Nehru of India is irked at the state department for the man-killing tour of the U.S.A. they've arranged. During his 26-day stay he will see virtually nothing but banquet tables, formal receptions and luncheons. What he really wanted was a chance to get acquainted with the plain people of the United States so he could decide how India should line up in the future. But the state department disregarded this and arranged for 30 formal parties during the 26 days.

FEUDING SENATORS—Washington's bumptious Senator Cain, a Republican, tried to make political capital on the senate floor over a $238 check paid by a group of universities to Senator Magnuson, a Democrat, also from Washington. The money covered Magnuson's travel expenses to New Orleans for a speaking engagement sponsored by the universities.

What Senator Cain didn't mention is that he, too, has kept a few speaking engagements—has flown to Honolulu to take part in the town meeting of the air; to Walla Walla, Wash., to speak locally; and to Boston to speak before the apartment house owners.

In each case, Cain's expenses were paid in full by the sponsoring organizations.

Shipping Bonanza

Capitol newsmen were skeptical when Rep. Porter Hardy of Virginia announced there would be a complete and forthright probe of the maritime commission and its squandering of taxpayer's money on ship contracts.

So many congressional committees have been spreading the whitewash of late that newsmen doubted Hardy would make good his promise—especially since he hails from the big maritime area around Norfolk.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Truman Renews Pledge of Support Of 'Safe Plan' for Atomic Curbs; Attlee Charts British Saving Plan

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

MAKES BID FOR STEEL PEACE . . . Cyrus Ching (facing camera) director of the U. S. mediation service, is surrounded by newsmen as he arrived from Washington to make another effort for settlement of the paralyzing steel strike. These conferences were described as "exploratory," although Ching later reported that the situation was "not hopeless."

TRUMAN:

Supports A-Curbs

"To assure that atomic energy will be devoted to man's welfare and not to his destruction is a continuing challenge to all nations and all peoples."

In those words, President Truman pledged his support to any safe and effective plans that would outlaw the atomic bomb.

THE PRESIDENT spoke at a ceremony in which the United Nations laid the cornerstone for its permanent headquarters in New York city.

Mr. Truman called the cornerstone rites "an act of faith— our unshakable faith that the United Nations will succeed."

The President declared that control of weapons is essential to a peaceful world and said that "Ever since the first atomic bomb was developed, a major objective of U. S. policy has been a system of international control of atomic energy that would assure effective prohibition of atomic weapons . . . and at the same time would promote the peaceful use of atomic energy by all nations."

HE ENDORSED anew the Bernard Baruch control plan which was rejected by Russia.

The chief point of disagreement between western powers and Russia on atomic energy control has been insistence by the West on an effective means of inspection to see that nations would keep their pledges to outlaw the bombs. Russia wouldn't hold still for that proposal.

Norway Reports Progress In Atomic-Energy Study

Norway was getting along rather well with atomic research, according to a report by the council for scientifi. research.

The report said drilling for uranium in Setesdal valley had been successful, and underground operations had started with a crew of 30.

The country's first atomic pile is being built near Oslo, and three universities have received equipment for atomic research.

ENGLAND:

More Austerity

In a drastic effort to rescue Great Britain from its financial morass, Prime Minister Clement Attlee charted an economic course designed to save 784 million dollars annually. He also ordered a cut of 400 million dollars in dollar imports.

THUS did the prime minister plot a course of more austerity for the British people.

The savings effected, or hoped to be effected, would result from lopping off spending for national defense, capital investments, public relations and food subsidies.

Attlee presented a quick, graphic interpretation of what was proposed. "We must reduce expenditure and increase production," he told the house of commons. But it wasn't as simple as the formula would seem to make it.

To the already austerity-weary Britons it meant that many of the goods for which they now have to stand in line for hours would be even more scarce. Gasoline and some food items would cost more. They would have to pay a 14-cent fee for medicines they were getting free under the national health program.

WORLD FRONT:

Spotty Picture

The world picture was spotty as international developments became increasingly confused. A Washington development intensified the tension between the U. S. and Russia in the cold war, British and U. S. leaders were beginning to split on the issue of recognizing the Chinese Red conquering government, France was hard-pressed to organize its government, a Greco-Tito pact appeared possible and the U. S. closed its consulate at Darien. A look at the overall situation showed that in:

WASHINGTON — The United States in a new crackdown on Russia had obtained an indictment against Amtorg, Russian purchasing agency in the U. S. and six of its officers on charges of failing to register as agents of a foreign power. The maximum penalty for violation of that law would be $10,000 fine and five years imprisonment. The firm itself was liable to a $10,000 fine. Shortly after U. S. attorney general McGrath announced return of the indictment, five of the Russians were arrested by FBI agents in New York. As was expected, Soviet officials vigorously protested the arrests. There had been repeated allegations in congress that Amtorg acts as an espionage agent. Said assistant U. S. attorney Edward R. Rigney: "Diplomatic passports don't constitute a defense for the crime charged here." The indictments did not charge Amtorg with serving as an espionage agency for the Soviets.

LONDON — There was a developing split between Great Britain and the United States on the issue of recognition of the Communist regime in China. Indications were that London would establish full diplomatic relations soon. However, this appeared contingent on whether the Communists would leave the British alone at Hong Kong and promise to respect their rights there. The difference on opinion between the U.S. and Britain on the subject of recognition was not considered as a particularly serious one. It was regarded here as an inevitable reflection of their differing national interests. While the U.S. has been withdrawing from China, the British are still "in" and hope to remain so for obvious economic and financial reasons.

DARIEN — Harassment by Chinese Communists had forced closing of the U.S. consulate there. The American consul and vice-consul from this Russian-controlled city moved to Seoul. The U.S. attaches who had spent 15 months here said Communist policies prevented their relief at the end of a scheduled eight-month tour of duty. At a news conference, the reported Communist obstacles had limited their movements severely. Vice-consul Culver Gleysteen said he was once held four hours by Chinese Communist police and Soviet soldiers who accused him of "signaling out to sea" with the lights of his jeep.

HAWAII—The prolonged strike of dock workers at five of Hawaii's six ports was over at last. The CIO international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union ordered its 2,000 striking stevedores to go back to their jobs. The men struck May 1, demanding a raise of 32 cents in their $1.40 hourly wage. The strike technically ended October 6, but continued, pending settlement of side issues involving working conditions, pay and other issues in outer island ports.

GOLD RUSH

Pea-Size Nuggets Cast New Yukon Spell

The spell of the Yukon was reaching out again to heat the blood of men who seek quick fortunes in gold. Reports of nuggets "the size of peas" being found near Fishwheel in Alaska had been flashed throughout the territory and a new gold rush was on. Grizzled sourdoughs, untried tenderfoot vied with each other to stake claims for the precious metal.

Planes loaded with excited men, and mining equipment and husky dog teams were pushing into the area in a race with the arctic winter which would paralyze all mining efforts. The village of Fishwheel was mushrooming overnight like the famed cities of the fabulous Yukon of the earlier gold rush days. The lure was like a magnet, reaching out with impelling force.

FARM FAIR:

World's Biggest

Something of interest to every agriculturist, from the man who wants to grow bigger potatoes to the high-booted cowboy with the prize-winning Hereford, is on the agenda of the Canadian Royal Winter Fair slated for Toronto's coliseum November 15 to November 23, omitting Sunday.

IN ADDITION there will be a complete display of the latest wrinkles in farm machinery and aids to more profitable operation.

The Royal Winter Fair has long been recognized as the world's largest agricultural exibition staged under one roof. Sponsored by Canadian federal, grain and agricultural associations, the competitions carry with them many world championship awards.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in 20 years, competition in the seed and grain divisions will be thrown open to any grower in the world and thus will award the winner world championship honors. Some 10,000 prize ribbons together with thousands of dollars in monetary awards will be handed out.

Farm home displays, washing machines and a host of things interesting to women are always features of Canada's top winter fair.

GEN. VAUGHAN:

'Shock Absorber'

It was interesting to note the multiple interpretations Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, White House aide, was applying to his position of entertainer, aide and personal confidant of President Harry Truman.

AT A DINNER given by fellow Democrats in Washington, Gen. Vaughan, linked with the capital's "5 per centers" and mysterious John Maragon, one-time White House hanger-on, portrayed himself in a new light.

He is, he said, a "shock absorber," as it were, as well as a "part of the scenery" at the White House.

"IT IS NOT pleasant furnishing the throat," he went on, "but I might as well earn my pay by being a shock absorber . . . at the White House."

"I am an authority on investigations," he said. "We've had so many investigations in the last year or so that have laid an egg."

He pointed out that when administration critics complain about "trivial things," it's a healthy sign that "there is not a great deal that they can complain about."

THE "TRIVIAL THINGS" to which the general referred were charges that certain Washington figures with "influence" could swing government contracts and favors where they wished for a "5 per cent" fee, gifts of deep freezers to members of Washington's official family.

The general's personal popularity continued unimpaired. He and Mrs. Vaughan were elected honorary vice-presidents of the District of Columbia Democratic club.

LEOPOLD:

No Poll, Please!

Former Belgian premier Paul-Henri Spaak wanted none of a proposed poll to determine if King Leopold should return to the throne.

SUCH AN ACTION might "destroy Belgium" Spaak declared in a radio address in Brussels.

Premier Gaston Eyskens, a pro-Leopold Social Christian, has proposed a country-wide poll on whether Belgians want Leopold back from his exile in Switzerland.

"I approve the prime minister's desire to solve the royal question," Spaak said, "but I do blame him, condemn him for trying to solve the royal question this way."

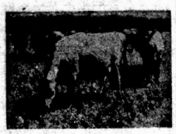
Keep DDT Away From Dairy Cows

Experts Cite Danger Of Milk Contamination

The U. S. department of agriculture's entomologists have issued a warning that DDT should not be used for insect control on dairy cows.

Even small amounts of DDT in food such as milk—a universal diet for infants and small children—might prove harmful in time, according to toxicologists of the food and drug administration who have studied the subject for several years. They say presence of the chemical in milk would be contrary to the food, drug and cosmetic act.



It may be a temptation to use DDT in order to keep your dairy herd looking as sleek and contented as these animals, but authorities warn against it.

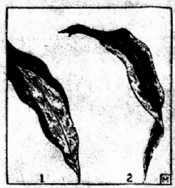
The entomologists now recommend methoxychlor, another effective insecticide, be substituted for DDT to control insect pests on dairy cows.

Federal entomologists make no change in their recommendations for the use of DDT in controlling insect pests on other livestock, including beef cattle.

The department's entomologists, chemists and veterinarians, cooperating in the investigation of the toxicology of DDT and other insecticides, say the application of DDT directly to milk cows for controlling insects results in the presence of small quantities of the insecticide in the milk. They say also that DDT in small quantities can be detected sometimes in milk following ordinary use of the insecticide for fly control in dairy barns.

The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine has repeatedly cautioned that forage treated with DDT and other chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides should not be fed to dairy animals or to livestock being finished for slaughter. A number of new insecticides are under investigation by federal entomologists for controlling insects on cows and in dairy establishments.

Leaves Tell Story



The leaves on corn plants tell whether the crop is well fed or starved. That can make a lot of difference at the harvest. For only well fed corn can produce high yields, well filled kernels and good quality ears.

Growers should take a little time to examine those corn leaves in the field. Healthy, well fed corn is a deep, dark green. Any other color spells trouble. It means that the corn plant is starving for one or more of the three plant nutrients—nitrogen, phosphate or potash.

Figure 1 in the illustration shows a typical case of nitrogen hunger. The signs show first at the tip then spread to the midrib of the lower leaves. The middle of the leaf turns yellow and dies.

Figure 2 illustrates potash starvation. It shows on the tips and edges of the leaves. These turn yellow and later look scorched. Corn hungry for potash has weak roots and stalks. It lodges easily. Potash starvation signs can appear at any stage of the corn's growth.

Barn Hay Driers Attract Attention of Many Farmers

Barn hay driers have been attracting a lot of attention recently and many farmers are reported thinking of installing equipment in order to assure themselves of higher-quality hay.

Usually any information desired on techniques or equipment for this work can be obtained from the local county farm agent, or from extension service specialists at the various state universities.

MIRROR Of Your MIND ■ ■ ■ Nervous Giggle Has Psychic Cause

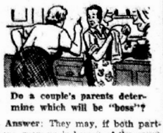
By Lawrence Gould

Can a person overcome a "nervous giggle"?

Answer: It may not be easy, both because the habit usually is more or less unconscious and because it grows out of deep-rooted attitudes and feelings. What the giggler is really saying when he behaves as if everything were funny is: "Please do not take me seriously"—which in turn means: "Do not blame me for being the sort of person I am." Far from being merely meaningless or silly, the habit reflects a chronic sense of personal inadequacy if not of downright "guilt," and getting the better of such feelings is the way to cure it.

Should a psychiatric patient read this column?

Answer: Several psychiatrists have told me that some of their patients are among my readers and have sometimes found the column helpful, but there may be danger in a person who is under psychiatric treatment reading along such lines. No two individual cases are exactly alike, and there's always the temptation to adopt a ready-made solution rather than keep probing for your private and peculiar "answer," especially if you are a person who would rather theorize than come to grips with harsh facts. Let your doctor decide.



Do a couple's parents determine which will be "boss"?

Answer: They may, if both partners grew up in homes of the same type, reports Hazel L. Ingersoll of the University of Tennessee. If both the wife and the husband grew up in homes in which father was the dominant authority, they will be apt to take it for granted that the husband should be "boss," while if both were reared in families where mother "wore the trousers," their marriage will usually follow the same pattern. Different backgrounds will mean either discord, or a compromise solution on an "equal," "democratic" basis.

KEEPING HEALTHY

General Practitioner of Today

By Dr. James W. Barton

IT ISN'T ANY WONDER that most medical students graduating these days are equipping themselves, or would like to equip themselves, as specialists. Their desire to get away from general practice with its long hours, and night calls, is only natural now that government regulations would put psysicians on the same basis as members of labor and other unions.

Everybody realizes that laboring men and women would be in a sorry mess today if it were not for unions, so that it is a natural sequence to find the various specialists forming their own unions, demanding, of course, that before a member is admitted he must have received the education and acquired the experience necessary.

What about the general physician, if, as it is reported of one graduation class in medicine, only 12 per cent expressed a preference for general practice?

In the "Canadian Medical Association Journal," Dr. W. V. Johnston, Lucknow, states that he has come to look upon specialists as having three functions to perform. First, they are consultants and as such they help to keep me out of trouble or to get me out of trouble. Second, they are my teachers. Thirdly, they are our research workers.

General practitioners have to diagnose and treat 85 per cent of the ills of mankind, and this includes the knowledge of when and where to obtain help for the other 15 per cent. Because of the importance of the knowledge of general medicine, today both in Canada and the United States, "specialists" in general medicine have formed their own organization.

To show how the position and prestige of the general practitioner is improving this same medical college at which, in 1946, 12 per cent of the graduating class preferred general practice, in 1949 graduated a group of which 58 per cent preferred general practice.

Dr. Johnston states that he and his fellow practitioners believe that each university should have a chair of general practice and that general practitioners should be made thorough-going and integrated members of medical school faculties. Also that every general practitioner should be on the staff or permitted to use all facilities of a hospital.

Love So Amazing

Lesson for November 13, 1949

LONG AGO riding in his slow chariot through the southern sands, a puzzled reader with Isaiah 53 in his hands asked the question other readers have asked ever since: Does the prophet speak of himself or of some other? The answer given by Philip (see Acts 8) has been the answer of the church ever since: This prophecy can be understood only in the light from Calvary's Cross. Philip did not say, and we need not insist, that the prophet had Jesus, and Jesus only, in mind when he wrote.

Dr. Foreman

What we do say is that while these words might have described some one the prophet knew, might have described the whole nation of Israel, might even have described himself, still the words make but a poor picture of any one else, compared with the picture they make of Jesus.

• • •

The Scarlet Thread

ISAIAH 53 has been in the center of the church's thinking about Christ from the beginning. It may be said to run like a scarlet thread through the New Testament. It was in the back of the minds of Paul and John and Peter alike. This great prophecy sheds a light on what otherwise had been a black opaque blot—the death of Christ.

What would otherwise be simply a horrible tragedy, perhaps the greatest tragedy of history, the perfect case of complete injustice, the final evidence that there is no God, in the light of Isaiah 53 becomes a center of glory.

Instead of being ashamed of the cross on which Jesus died, the church sings, "In the cross of Christ I glory," . . . "Love so amazing, so divine, demands my soul, my life, my all."

We believe that Christ suffered not for his own but for others' sake. Suffering, not forced but willingly undergone, suffering not as mere pain but that others might be saved, suffering on behalf of others and for love of them—this is the key to the riddle of existence, this is the key to the heart of God.

• • •

Not Christ Alone

IF CHRIST'S MEN had refused to follow where he led, if all Christians had been willing to let him carry, alone, the burden of the world's sin and grief, there never would have been any Christianity—for there would never have been any Christians. Peter and James and the rest of the apostles would have refused to die for Jesus' sake. The noble army of martyrs would have been an ignoble army of cowards.

No missionary ever would have left home and comforts and country; no mother would have laid down her life for her children; the unselfish service of those who have cared for the sick and the orphaned would never have been done; indeed, had no one ever been willing to suffer for the benefit of others, one wonders whether the world could have even held together this long.

Christ died that the world might live, yes; but others also had to die to make his death avail. He died for Africa, that Africans might live; but Africans died till men like Livingstone and Schweitzer and many a less famous man and woman also went out and lived there in loneliness and died in pain.

Christ died for the little children of the poor, but until the Salvation Army and others like them went down into the slums and suffered there with and for them, those poor little people died without so much as dreaming that God might love them.

Christ died for all the lepers in the world; but until a Father Damien, and others no less Christlike, went among the outcast lepers and became outcasts themselves for the love of Christ, those lepers died in the dark.

• • •

"Let Him Take His Own Cross Daily"

YES, Isaiah 53 pictures the self-sacrifice of our Lord, above all. But any one who has any intention of being a true servant of God must be willing to find his own life-direction right here. The world does not need more pain; it does need those who will suffer pain to serve others in Christ's name.

Housewives Can Inspire Meals With Novel Salads Made of Fresh Foodstuff

"I NEVER have trouble thinking of salads to serve during hot weather when there's so much available of salad ingredients," says a homemaker. "But salad inspiration during winter is a big problem!"

It needn't be so, especially if you check over these inspiration—packed tips I'm giving in today's column. All foods used are available during cool weather, and you'll be surprised at what salads can be whipped together without mental fatigue.

Badly needed vitamins and minerals are found in fresh fruits and vegetables to a much greater extent than in cooked foods where water, steam and air have rendered many of them useless. The best way to get their full benefit, therefore, is to serve raw foods. What better way to do this than in salads?

• • •

FRUIT SALADS, when made large and beautiful enough, will double as salad and dessert or salad and appetizer. They may be garnished with a scoop of sherbet or dressed with a piquant dressing.

• Fruit Salad Combinations

1. Alternate wedges of grapefruit, oranges, apples, pears and calavo. Serve with honey or lime-flavored French dressing.
2. Fill canned peach halves with cream cheese and chopped nut mixture and garnish with unpeeled raw apples.
3. Put three cups fresh cranberries through food chopper with two apples and one large orange. Add two cups sugar. Serve, mounded, on a pineapple slice on a bed of lettuce.
4. Serve pear halves filled with a cream cheese and crumbled gingersnap center on lettuce leaf.
5. Sliced bananas marinated in lemon juice, then mixed with orange sections and thin, unpeeled apple slices look pretty, taste well.

Carefully cooked or drained canned vegetables may be used in vegetable salads with raw ingredients for contrast and texture interest. Here are some suggestions:

Vegetable Salads

1. Arrange 4-6 asparagus tips (cooked or canned) on lettuce, encircling them with a green pepper ring. Serve with French dressing to which chopped chives or stuffed olives have been added.
2. Mix shredded red cabbage with fried and crumbled bacon. Toss together with tart mayonnaise.
3. Serve cooked chilled broccoli with a French dressing into which is placed crumbled, hard-cooked egg and crumbled blue cheese.
4. Cooked lima beans mixed with diced pickled beets, chopped parsley and onion are excellent on a bed of lettuce.

A combination of citrus fruits makes an excellent salad for cool weather eating. Dress it down by having simply the fruit on a crisp bed of greens. Dress it up by topping with a scoop of colorful sherbet.

LYNN SAYS:
Try New Food Combinations For Flavor Possibilities

Baked, smoked ham butts take on delicious flavor as well as glaze if you brush them with orange marmalade just before serving.

Don't bother icing cupcakes after they've cooled. Simply swirl them in corn syrup and top with chopped nuts or coconut.

Add onions and celery to potatoes when you're making soup if you want to sharpen the flavor of the soup in a subtle fashion.

When you're having hot soup for lunch, team it with a hearty salad and make the meal out of it. Macaroni with celery, cheese, hard-cooked eggs, green pepper, bacon curls, olives and banana strips rolled in chopped nuts makes a generous plate that takes care of main dish and dessert.

Rest For The People Of God

TEXT: Let us therefore fear, lest a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it. Hebrews 4:1.

The text carries with it a note of fear. However, that fear is not based on the dimness, or obscurity, of the promise of rest, but rather on the possibility that unbelief may rob us of the fulfillment of that promise, and that rest so necessary to the heart, should be forfeited.

Jesus Christ is held up as the New Testament voice of God, speaking a fulfilled Old Testament, and assuring us from all Old Testament teaching, and all the events of the life of Jesus, that there is a rest for the people of God.

The promise is big and plain. It is sealed to all New Testament Christians with all the religious teachings of the Old Testament, and all the revelation of the New Testament gospel, and is further backed home to the hearts by the Holy Spirit operating in His fullest sense in the world. There is a fear that so great a promise be missed by Christians, and that they fail to have this promise a real living fact in their hearts through unbelief. There are many Christians who have come short of this rest.

The entire chapter speaks of this rest as being the desired blessing, the haven of the heart, the ideal of Christian experience, the great objective of personal faith, the supreme condition of calmness of the soul. This promise is to be realized by faith and faith alone. Works, ceremonies, human efforts, all are vain. Faith alone leads the way to the promised rest.

This promise of rest obtained by faith is placed against the background of unbelief, unbelief from the living God, unbelief that deceives and hardens, unbelief of the heart, unbelief that departs that brings all turmoil and tempest with despair and anxiety, unbelief that ignores the promise and provision of grace through Jesus Christ and goes on toward the ultimate finality of unbelief, separation from God and all good.

The illustration of unbelief in the presence of promised rest is taken from Jewish history, using the period of wilderness journeys and the conquest of Canaan. In the wilderness the Hebrew people failed through unbelief though there were plenty of evidences of God's ability and good disposition. And it was in this surrounding of unbelief and murmuring that Caleb and Joshua did their believing and thus obtained the promise. They were the only two of the original army that entered the land of Canaan. During the days of David also some believed in the midst of unbelief. So, in the New Testament dispensation, real faith must surmount the current unbelief of the people in order to enter the rest that remaineth for the people of God.

The writer to the Hebrews, in verses 14-16, holds up the Christ, the High Priest of our profession to the view of faith and says, "Here is sufficient ground for belief." "Let us therefore come boldly."

The "rest" that is spoken of in this chapter is not the material rest of the Israelite in the land of Canaan. The rest for the people of God is a rest which is connected with the ministry of Jesus Christ the Son of God, the "High Priest of our profession." It is soul rest. Rest from unbelief; from hardness of heart; from heart error; from our own works; from departing from the living God; from provoking God to wrath. It is the rest of faith; the rest of steadfastness in our profession; the rest of confidence in "Our great High Priest"; the rest of mercy and grace in time of need; the rest of the household of Christ, the rest of entire sanctification.

As a climax to our trip we visited our own Nation's capital, Washington D. C. Many have asked, what impressed you most about your trip? All of us in a group agreed that is was none of the interesting and beautiful cathedrals, paintings or monuments, but the friendship that we made with Christian young people all over Europe. We returned to our beautiful land of plenty more desirous to share with those of England, Italy, Germany and other countries who have suffered much from the destruction of war.

After a very appetizing dinner the guest speakers gave interesting talks on Jaycee meaning and work throughout the United States, and answered many questions for fellow Jaycees. Telling of the many useful things that the Junior Chamber of Commerce have done, Mr. Matheny stated that in order to benefit ones own club they should be ready to do their part when called upon be it large or small.

Before closing the meeting all were reminded of the coming Junior C of C Convention to be held in Fort Myers on Nov. 19 and 20. Anyone wishing to attend should contact Billy Martin, president of the Avon Park Junior Chamber of Commerce and arrangements can be made for transportation, as there are several who will be able to take others in their cars.

A DROP OF INK

By WILLIAM E. PABOR

THE KING'S DROP
A drop of ink from a kingly pen,
Makes an age, grown dark, grow bright again,
Till the sails of commerce sweep the seas
With treasure from the Antipodes,
While round the royal throne are strewn
The gifts that a Croesus well might own,
To crown the age for the good thought born
In a Queen's heart, on that sunny morn
When the pleading Palos Cavalier
Tendered the gift of a Hemisphere;
Else this Columbian Year of Grace
On History's scroll had found no place.

THE PATRIOT'S DROP
A drop of ink from a patriot's pen
And the bells of Freedom ring again,
Proclaiming Liberty through the land
From lake to gulf and ocean strand.
The air grows full of the glad hurrahs
Of men who shout for their Country's cause;
And far on the breeze the banner floats
While men keep time with Jubilant throats
As guns belch forth their thunderous hum,
And cymbals clash to the beat of the drum,
And a Nation out of an ink drop grows
As the Flag of Freedom floats and flows.

THE MOTHER'S DROP
A drop of ink from a mother's pen
Can reach her child in the vilest den;
For a mother's love can speed as far
As the light that leaps from star to star;
And though it may fail to draw him back
He is her child; along love's track
The ink drops flow to the Pardoning Power
For the sin stained one in stone girt tower
Who, once a babe, in her arms did rest,
And lay in love on her rounded breast;
And a wave of prayer goes up to plead
For his soul in this its hour of need.

THE LOVER'S DROP
A drop of ink on a lover's pen
And Jacob and Rachel live again
On Syria's plains, and all the hours
Are told by the blossoming flowers.
The bulbuls sing in the perfumed night
And the days are full of dear delight;
For Love—TrueLove—will never grow old
Till the stars, so poets sing, grow cold.
Ever and ever the silvery lights
Of the Romeo and Juliet nights
Shine on lovers brave and maidens fair
As they walk in Eden, pair by pair.
verse;
And the echo of the song it sings
Forever down the centuries rings.
O Friends and Brothers! No power so strong
As a drop of ink, to right a wrong,
To wake a smile or to dry a tear,
To sound a song through the hemisphere.
Onr anger rouse in the hearts of men
As it falls from the Editorial Pen.
Then take you this lesson close to heart:—
Never from Truth and the Right depart!
For these ink drops, flowing from your pen,
Never return to their source again.
Then wisely and well each ink drop trace
For the chief good of the human race.

FINALE
A drop of ink, we thus find,
Can curse or bless all human kind
As age succeeds to age.
A drop of ink, a drop of ink,
The Motto runs, Makes Millions think,
When on the printed page.

Isn't America A Wonderful Country!

All over the world today there are people teaching bitterness and hate.

Here in America we have learned to live together in friendship.

For us here at A&P, it has been a wonderful and thrilling experience to get from those with whom we compete day after day such astounding evidence of friendship and respect.

The things that have happened since the anti-trust lawyers from Washington brought suit to destroy A&P have amazed us.

While we sincerely believed that we had earned the friendship of millions of consumers for whom we have provided better food at lower prices, and the friendship of millions of farm families for whom we have provided a better market for their produce, we were not prepared for the avalanche of offers of support.

But most of all, we have to confess that we had underestimated the fine sportsmanship of many of our competitors all over the country.

Can anyone believe that these competitors would rush to our defense if, as the anti-trust lawyers allege, we had been trying to put them out of business?

We and they have fought hard for business.

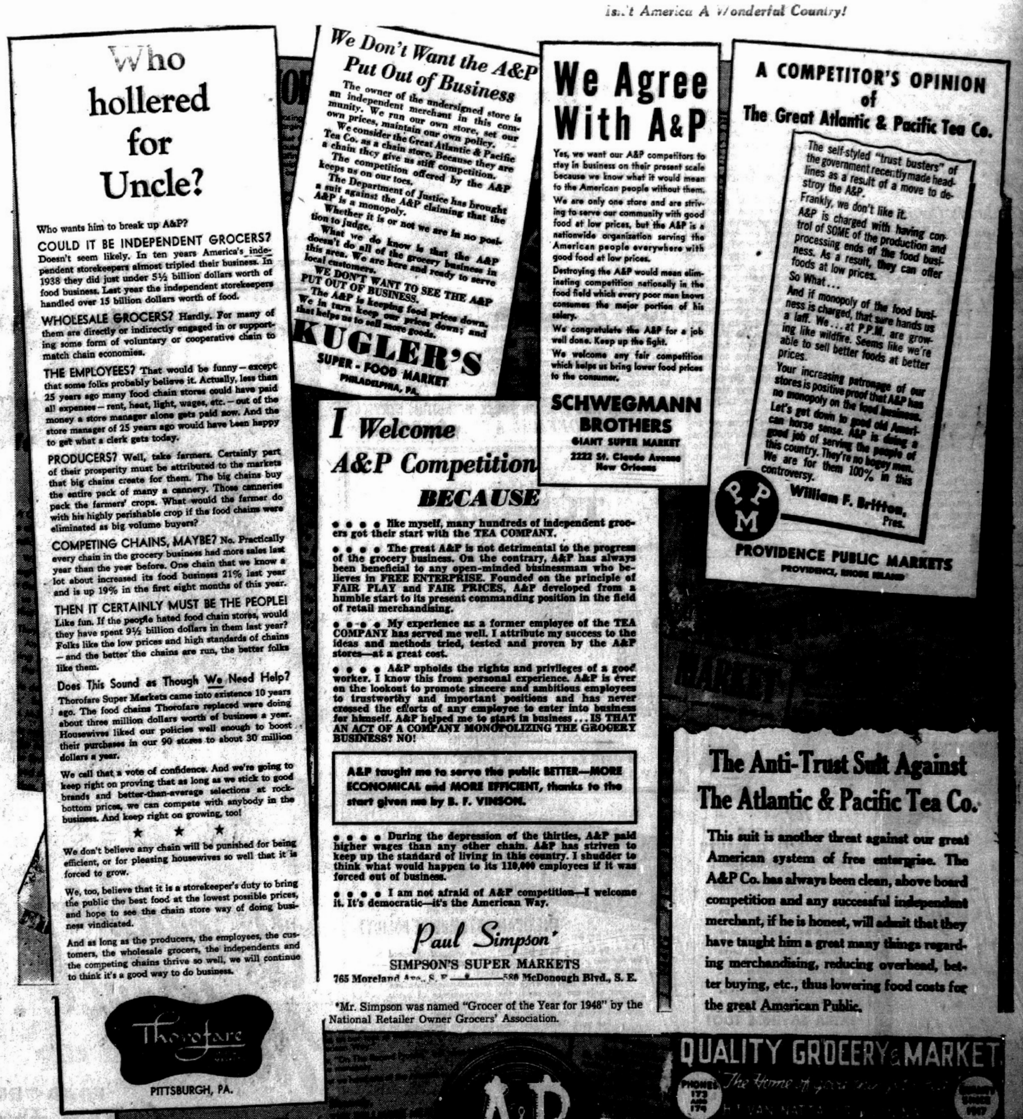
There are nearly 350,000 individual grocers competing with us. They have a larger share of the nation's grocery business today than they had ten years ago or twenty years ago.

Many of them do as good a job as we do, and they make it plenty tough for us.

Now, day after day, these same competitors are letting us know that they are in our corner.

All we can say is, thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Isn't America A Wonderful Country!



Who hollered for Uncle?

Who wants him to break up A&P?

COULD IT BE INDEPENDENT GROCERS? Doesn't seem likely. In ten years America's independent storekeepers almost tripled their business. In 1938 they did just under 5½ billion dollars worth of food business. Last year the independent storekeepers handled over 15 billion dollars worth of food.

WHOLESALE GROCERS? Hardly. For many of them are directly or indirectly engaged in or supporting some form of voluntary or cooperative chain to match chain economies.

THE EMPLOYEES? That would be funny—except that some folks probably believe it. Actually, less than 25 years ago many food chain stores could have paid all expenses—rent, heat, light, wages, etc.—out of the money a store manager alone gets paid now. And the store manager of 25 years ago would have been happy to get what a clerk gets today.

PRODUCERS? Well, take farmers. Certainly part of their prosperity must be attributed to the markets that big chains create for them. The big chains buy the entire pack of many a cannery. Those canneries pack the farmers' crops. What would the farmer do with his highly perishable crop if the food chains were eliminated as big volume buyers?

COMPETING CHAINS, MAYBE? No. Practically every chain in the grocery business had more sales last year than the year before. One chain that we know a lot about increased its food business 21% last year and is up 19% in the first eight months of this year.

THEN IT CERTAINLY MUST BE THE PEOPLE! Like fun. If the people hated food chain stores, would they have spent 9½ billion dollars in them last year? Folks like the low prices and high standards of chains—and the better the chains are run, the better folks like them.

Does This Sound as Though We Need Help?

Thorofare Super Markets came into existence 10 years ago. The food chains Thorofare replaced were doing about three million dollars worth of business a year. Housewives liked our policies well enough to boost their purchases in our 90 stores to about 30 million dollars a year.

We call that a vote of confidence. And we're going to keep right on proving that as long as we stick to good brands and better-than-average selections at rock-bottom prices, we can compete with anybody in the business. And keep right on growing, too!

We don't believe any chain will be punished for being efficient, or for pleasing housewives so well that it is forced to grow.

We, too, believe that it is a storekeeper's duty to bring the public the best food at the lowest possible prices, and hope to see the chain store way of doing business vindicated.

And as long as the producers, the employees, the customers, the wholesale grocers, the independents and the competing chains thrive so well, we will continue to think it's a good way to do business.

We Don't Want the A&P Put Out of Business

The owner of the undersigned store is an independent merchant in this community. We run our own store, set our own prices, maintain our own policy.

We consider the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. as a chain store. Because they are a chain they give us stiff competition.

The competition offered by the A&P keeps us on our toes.

The Department of Justice has brought a suit against the A&P claiming that the A&P is a monopoly.

Whether it is or not we are in no position to judge.

What we do know is that the A&P doesn't do all of the grocery business in this area. We are here and ready to serve local customers.

WE DON'T WANT TO SEE THE A&P PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

The A&P is keeping food prices down. We in turn keep our prices down; and that helps us to sell more goods.

KUGLER'S
SUPER - FOOD MARKET
PHILADELPHIA, PA.

We Agree With A&P

Yes, we want our A&P competitors to stay in business on their present scale because we know what it would mean to the American people without them.

We are only one store and are striving to serve our community with good food at low prices, but the A&P is a nationwide organization serving the American people everywhere with good food at low prices.

Destroying the A&P would mean eliminating competition nationally in the food field which every poor man knows consumes the major portion of his salary.

We congratulate the A&P for a job well done. Keep up the fight.

We welcome any fair competition which helps us bring lower food prices to the consumer.

A COMPETITOR'S OPINION of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The self-styled "trust busters" of the government recently made headlines as a result of a move to destroy the A&P.

Frankly, we don't like it.

A&P is charged with having control of SOME of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they can offer foods at low prices.

So What...

And if monopoly of the food business is charged, that sure hands us a laff. We... at P.P.M. are growing like wildfire. Seems like we're able to sell better foods at better prices.

Your increasing patronage of our stores is positive proof that A&P has no monopoly on the food business. Let's get down to good old American horse sense. A&P is doing a good job of serving the people of this country. They're no bogey men. We are for them 100% in this controversy.

I Welcome A&P Competition BECAUSE

● ● ● ● like myself, many hundreds of independent grocers got their start with the TEA COMPANY.

● ● ● ● The great A&P is not detrimental to the progress of the grocery business. On the contrary, A&P has always been beneficial to any open-minded businessman who believes in FREE ENTERPRISE. Founded on the principle of FAIR PLAY and FAIR PRICES, A&P developed from a humble start to its present commanding position in the field of retail merchandising.

● ● ● ● My experience as a former employee of the TEA COMPANY has served me well. I attribute my success to the ideas and methods tried, tested and proven by the A&P stores—at a great cost.

● ● ● ● A&P upholds the rights and privileges of a good worker. I know this from personal experience. A&P is ever on the lookout to promote sincere and ambitious employees to trustworthy and important positions and has never crossed the efforts of any employee to enter into business for himself. A&P helped me to start in business... IS THAT AN ACT OF A COMPANY MONOPOLIZING THE GROCERY BUSINESS? NO!

A&P taught me to serve the public BETTER—MORE ECONOMICAL and MORE EFFICIENT, thanks to the start given me by B. F. VINSON.

● ● ● ● During the depression of the thirties, A&P paid higher wages than any other chain. A&P has striven to keep up the standard of living in this country. I shudder to think what would happen to its 110,000 employees if it was forced out of business.

● ● ● ● I am not afraid of A&P competition—I welcome it. It's democratic—it's the American Way.

The Anti-Trust Suit Against The Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

This suit is another threat against our great American system of free enterprise. The A&P Co. has always been clean, above board competition and any successful independent merchant, if he is honest, will admit that they have taught him a great many things regarding merchandising, reducing overhead, better buying, etc., thus lowering food costs for the great American Public.

Soil Conservation Items

By [illegible] L. [illegible]
Work Unit Conservationist

Among cooperators doing a good job of developing their Soil Conservation plan we find Mr. W. R. Boyd whose ranch is located about five miles north of Lorida. Mr. Cason, forman of Boyds ranch, reports that one of the most satisfactory implements he has found in getting palmetto land ready to plant to improve pasture is a twenty two inch bottom plow. This bottom plow has a small cutter blade attached to the slide bar, the outfit is pulled by a W-9 tractor.

Mr. Cason reports that he turns the palmetto land about four inches deep, which is sufficient for a perfect or a near perfect kill, after turning, the land is left from thirty to sixty days, depending upon the time of the year, before it is planted. The next operation is planting, for this Mr. Cason uses a manure spreader, which he has found to be a very satisfactory way of putting out planting stock. After the grass is planted Mr. Cason cuts it in with a double section harrow which has a cultapacker attached to it, this cultapacker does an excellent job of firming the soil around the newly planted grass and also leaves the seed bed in a excellent condition.

I observed several areas planted in the above manner and found a perfect or near perfect kill of palmetto and also a good stand of grass. Mr. Boyd has already developed over three hundred acres of his land to improved pasture and has plans of putting in entire section as soon as time will permit.

Cooperator Boyd has only purebred Brahama stock grazing this improved pasture, I might add that this cattle are in fine shape and he appears to have sufficient grass and hay to carry them through the winter months in good condition. Mr. Boyd has his pastures cut off in relatively small plots so he can get the most of his grass through rotated grazing.

Redwine and Company have just turned in an application for a Soil Conservation plan on 6,000 acres—this outfit is from Texas.

Highlands County X-Rays Nov. 8-18

Four X-Ray machines will be moved into Highlands County Nov. 7 to be used in offering every person in this vicinity a free chest X-Ray. This service will begin Nov. 8 and will continue for 10 days. Each X-Ray machine of the most recent design is capable of taking at least 125 pictures per hour. The process of having a free picture made requires only enough time to give one's name, address, private physician's name to a registrar who will record this on a registration form and then send you on to a technician who will snap the camera all of which will total probably three minutes. The X-Ray pictures are miniature of size, though recognized and proved to be diagnostically accurate. No undressing is required. The reports are confidential, no one but the physicians in charge of the laboratory work and the film reading know the result of [illegible] check, survey directors [illegible] pointed out.

[illegible] whose reports are negative, [illegible] the result at home [illegible]. Those whose films [illegible] need of further examination are advised by sealed letter. Where indicated, appointments are made for these to have a follow-up free film picture made. Individual advise is given for continued attention by health department authorities or private physicians. "The Highlands County X-Ray survey is in step with a State and National campaign to eradicate tuberculosis", Dr. C. M. Sharp, Director of the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control of the State Board of Health stated, "By finding tuberculosis in its early stage, it is possible to effect an early cure most easily. Tuberculosis is spread from the sick to the well. For every case of tuberculosis that is allowed to die nine persons are exposed, most of whom are not aware of it. Early tuberculosis can be detected by the chest X-Ray long before symptoms appear. The lives of these 'early cases' can be saved as well as the lives of the many others these unsuspected cases might infect."

The president of the county sized the importance of cooperation by everyone in taking advantage of the forthcoming X-Ray service. "With the X-Ray machines scheduled to operate in every area throughout the county for 10 days," said Mrs. Tom Mitchell, "every adult 15 years and older should count it his personal and civic responsibility to have his chest X-Rayed and to remind the members of his family and neighborhood to do the same."

Further information about the service may be obtained from the Highlands County Health Department, Phone 3961 or from the county tuberculosis association.

Manager Advises Fall For Pleasure Travelers To Choose Greyhound Traffic Trips

"The mellow fall season, with its colorful foilliage and cooler, zestful weather, is practically perfect for all kinds of pleasure trips," said Mr. T. B. O'Steen, Traffic Manager of Florida Greyhound Lines. At a recent meeting of Greyhound ticket agents, Mr. O'Steen also pointed out that more and more people are becoming aware of the wide variety of trips that are especially enjoyable in the fall months.

"People have done so much of their traveling for so long in the summer months that they have completely missed the many distinct advantages of travel during the colorful fall season," Mr. O'Steen said today. He added that when people were once made aware of the increased pleasure of such things as cooler weather for traveling, a much wider choice of hotel and resort accomodations plus the more colorful scenic beauty in the fall, they would discover the autumn months to be a particularly enticing travel season.

Mr. O'Steen also emphasized that people have not yet realized the many varied places to go and exciting things to do, in the fall —like seeing a big-time football game, going back home to visit the old folks, going on a hunting or fishing trip, taking the family to a Fair, having a gay time in the big city—or even taking a second honeymoon trip.

Mr. O'Steen then went on to say that this fall Greyhound has made special plans to provide maximum of service to take care of the expected increase in fall travel. "In this respect," Mr. O'Steen stated, "Greyhound is extending many of its Expense-Paid Tours into the months of October, November, and December. Charter buses are being made available for group trips to the big game, for camera club excursions and other group activities." Emphasis was placed on the fact that Greyhound is gearing its entire nationwide facilities in every way to serve travelers who prefer fall for the most travel enjoyment.

"The fact is," Mr. O'Steen concluded, "that within the entire nationwide Greyhound organization, we are making a major effort to promote the idea that fall is indeed the ideal Take-A-Trip Time."

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By Russell Kay

According to dispatches from Tallahassee the state, through its Advertising Commission, will direct appeals to three different types of prospects-Tourists, Industrialists and Agriculturists.

Three different Florida Advertising agencies have been engaged to prepare advertising which will be placed in northern newspapers and magazines.

The August Dorr Advertising Agency of Miami will have charge of all tourist advertising; The August Burghard Agency of Ft. Lauderdale will be responsible for all agricultural advertising while the Henry Quedneau Agency of Tampa will confine its efforts to attracting industries to Florida.

The 325,00 budget was divided as follows: $172,000 for the tourist promotion campaign and $36,000 each for the agricultural and industrial effort.

While the agencies retained are reputable and able, funds available are pitifully small for the job. Fortunately, interest in Florida is so keen and so general that even the most modest campaign if intelligently handled can be made to produce maximum results.

Countless thousands of folks are eager and anxious to locate in Florida. It is not necessary to sell them on the advantages that attend living in this favored state.

I'm speaking of the vast army of little people, folks with modest resources and limited means who would make excellent citizens if they could establish themselves somewhere in the state, engage in business or secure employment.

I doubt if there ever was a time in the history of the state when so many people were seeking worthwhile business opportunities. Hardly a day passes that I do not hear of someone who is seeking either a job or chance to go in business in Florida.

Sometimes it is a man who has sold his business in the north, has a few thousand dollars to invest and wants to locate some small business or enterprise that will permit him to make enough to live on. These are the kind of folks that built our communities and our state. They are capable of becoming solid citizens and good Floridians.

Now and then it is possible for me to put such enquirers in touch with an opportunity or help them find a job but unfortunately my contacts are more or less limited and, while I know that many exist throughout the state, since I do not know of them personally I cannot be helpful.

If there were some way we could make an intelligent survey of small business opportunities that exist in our various communities, large and small or of chances for employment of a permanent nature, it would go a long way toward bringing thousands to the state as permanent residents and result in the investment of millions of dollars in small businesses that properly conducted would grow and prosper.

Perhaps your town offers a number of such opportunities. What does your town lack - a store, good restaurant, gift shop, lumber yard? What small business already established are for sale? What are the potential possibilities of such small enterprises, can they be depended upon to provide someone a comfortable living if properly conducted. Will the community support them?

A good project for your Jaycees, Exchange Club, Rotary or other civic group would be to conduct an intelligent unbiased survey to determine just what your community has to offer the homeseeker and small investor. Gather this information and make it available through your Chamber of Commerce and you can supplement the work of your State Advertising Commission and cash in on the inquiries the advertising produces.

You might also conduct a survey to determine what type of employment is available in your town and area. Can you use another electrician, bricklayer, carpenter, watch repairman, school teacher, doctor or lawyer? Hundreds of fine able upstanding men and women are seeking Florida opportunities today. They would make fine citizens and if you will extend your cooperation by providing helpful information and encouragement you will have no trouble attracting them.

NEW APPOINTEES ON CRIPPLED CHILDREN BOARD

Miss Edna Pearce of Ft. Bassenger, Mr. Rose Catalano of Desoto City, and Mrs. Dorothy Chambless of Wauchula have recently been appointed to serve on the State Board of Trustees for the Florida Chapter for Crippled Children and Adults. All three of these women are active participants in our South Central Unit of this Chapter. They are asking everyone to please help in every possible way to complete our on coming survey of Crippled Children and Adults in our five Counties, especially our Speech cases. This must be done before we can launch a program in this area to serve the unmet needs of the handicapped.
