He had at one time been a member of the Macedonia Baptist Church as Ashburn, Ga., and was for a few years an ordained deacon of the church. Mr. Elder was employed with his brother, Joe Elder, at Joe's Pure Oil Station here and was known throughout the South Eastern States for his fishing abilities. He served as a fishing guide to the tourist for several years and upon many occasions guests have come from New York and other states for the sole purpose of fishing with Mr. Elder.

Junior Chamber Of Commerce Project Proves Successful

The Avon Park Junior Chamber of Commerce once again have proved that with the able energy of young men and the will to stick with a project until it is seen through one can accomplish great things.

The city election, one of the largest turn out of voters, proved beyond a doubt that anything is possible with work. For the last few days the Junior Chamber of Commerce have been working on the idea that people should get out and vote. Signs were painted on the sidewalks, a sound truck made the rounds urging all persons to exercise their American duty, and believe it or not, more people turned out to vote this election than in any previous election held in Avon Park.

Election returns—well all those who voted were naturally interested in the returns, and here the Jaycees again were on the ball and broadcast the returns over a loud speaker system on the Mall from the Bandstand until 1 A. M. Wednesday morning. The P. A. system was borrowed from the Park Theatre and when it was found out that it did not function properly the Avon Park Firemen came to the rescue and loaned their P. A. system. All in all together with a little rain it proved a hectic day.

Dr. Sam Higginbottom, who spoke before the Avon Park Rotary International, shows proof that all he spoke of is not just a fable of his imagination but is real. These things that he shows and describes here, are things that also could be done in the State of Florida and if God lets him live long enough he will try and prove that Faith in Him, the almighty God will not only bless the individual but also place unbelieveable miracles within the grasp of all who wish to partake of them.

Dr. Higginbottom is a famed scholar, teacher and missionary. He spent 40 years in the depths of India and along with these things he also proved to be a learned agriculturist and humanitarian. Now he sees in Florida a fertile land upon which God has bestowed all fortunes. Mr. Higginbottom who will be 75 next birthday was retired by the Presbyterian Church five years ago as a missionary but he has no thought of retiring from all active duties and already he has become recognized in Florida as an authority on cattle.

Active as a director of the Christian Service Training Center near Frostproof he plans great things for the future. This interdenominational center that he is having built is designed as a practical answer to the needs of teaching church-community cooperation, health and nutrition, better family built homes, food production and conservation, development of land and resources, development of rural industries, a plant exchange among nations and how to help backward people learn. With the buildings, some of which are already underway, it will be a place where missionaries can serve their internship after college study.

The growing season of Florida gives the people here a wonderful advantage over some nations as here one can grow products of the soil the full year round. Dr. Higginbottom believes that with the use of Brahmas as they have been used in the past few years the beef industry of Florida can know no bounds. If this breed of cattle were mixed in with the dairy herds they would not only strengthen the herd but make them easier to care for and with the proper care could develop Florida's dairy business to one of the greatest in all the States. Already the Department of Agriculture has imported four Sindhi cattle from India and have them at this time at the experimental

There may be new units available this year for the first time, or those listed on our records may already be rented; therefore we feel we can be of greater service to you if our information is from an active, up to date source.

During the '48 winter season the Chamber of Commerce was instrumental in renting over one hundred units without cost to property owners.

Insurance Plan To Be Launched In This County

A unique plan of selling insurance for paying hospital and doctor's bills will be presented to the public of this community beginning Monday by F. Stollsteimer and E. Ashley of the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident Association of Omaha.

The advantages of medical insurance and of the new plan are pointed out in the following review by company representatives.

Under the new plan of prepaid medical expense families can budget the cost of medical care the same as food, clothing and shelter, the representatives pointed out.

Available to individuals or family groups, the program provides for payment for the treatment of either accident or illness. No distinction is made as to whether treatment is given at home, the doctor's office or in the hospital. Officals of the company point out that the plan was developed as a result of a recent survey which brought out that 64 per cent of the people would prefer paying for medical care in advance and that thousands go without medical treatment because of financial stringencies.

Providing for treatment given by licensed doctors of medicine or osteopathy, the plan provides service any place in the United States, Canada, Hawaii or Newfoundland. Should a person move from the community the benefits of the plan, including the low rate, will not be lost since the company maintains 170 branch offices in which claim service is rendered, it was stated. Socialized medicine is a living subject of consideration these days and this plan offers an interesting study and comparison to liberty loving Americans.

Enrollment campaigns have recently been conducted in Belle Glade, Pahokee, Okeechobee, Vero Beach, Homestead, Stuart and Sebring.

ROTARY NEWS

At the Rotary meeting Wednesday, September 14th there were two birthdays reported, that of Vaughn Driggers (who let slip that he was only 63), and Bill Sachsenmaier, who didn't make any comment. Coach Carter made the announcement that a meeting was to take place Wednesday night, September 14th, to make plans for the coming football season. Bob Gibson said that the Scouts would have a dress rehersal on last week in Sept.

This is known as Boy Scout Roundup week. All parents and friends of the local troup are invited. The meeting will be held on September 27th, at Highlands Hammock. Those planning to attend are asked to bring sandwiches and drinks. The meeting will be held at 6:30 P. M. sharp.

Mr. Charlie Lanier then introduced the guest speaker for the luncheon, Reverend Ashworth. Rev. Ashworth spoke on the method and necessities of becoming a full, fledged Methodist minister. All churches have different qualifications and Rev. Ashworth explained those that are necessary to be ordained in the Methodist Church. Rev. Ashworth spoke briefly on Christian Education Week, which is the week of September 25th to October 2nd. Home life is one of the important factors in connection with Christian Education Week, explained Rev. Ashworth, because even in the olden days, the breaking up of the home can be traced to one of the deciding factors in the fall of Empires.

Rotary President, Vaughn Driggers announced that the district Governor would visit this club the week of Nov. 22nd and asked that all committees have their reports ready.

Highlands County To Have Disaster Office

At a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Jacaranda Hotel, National Headquarters workers of the American Red Cross, assigned to Highlands County to assist the local. Chapter of the American Red Cross with its Disaster Relief Program, met and explained to a group of civic leaders the authority, responsibility, organization and function of the Red Cross Disaster Relief Program. Robert Zubrod of Atlanta, Ga., who is the Director of disaster operation assigned to this area, introduced the staff members from National Red Cross assigned to Highlands County. Mrs. Margaret Purman will be in charge of the Disaster Relief Office established at Avon Park; Miss Ella T. Hobbs will be in charge of the case work in Sebring and South Highlands County; Ralph Davidson is the Building Adviser and Disbursing Officer.

Zubrod explained that the national staff were here to conduct the rehabilitation program for the Chapter and in co-operation with the Chapter. Zubrod, in discussing the policies of disaster service said, "Relief is given to disaster sufferers only, and deals only with problems created or aggravated by the disaster. Relief is based upon need and not loss. Families are expected to use their actual and potential resources in meeting their needs. Assistance is extended without political, religious, or racial discrimination." Zubrod emphasized the Red Cross does not make loans to disaster sufferers; it's relief is given freely and without obligation or repayment. From the rehabilitation stand point Zubrod explained, "Rehabilitation is the process by which the family and the Red Cross together evaluate the needs created or aggravated by the disaster and determine how and with what assistance or service the family can regain its pre-disaster standards of living."

Disaster case work follows the broad lines of accepted family case work in the use of conferences with the family, consultation with outside sources, and treatment based on the individual family situation. Aid is given on the basis of need and not on the basis of disaster losses. The actual and potential resources of the individual or family and the community and agency resources available are carefully evaluated and used. The Red Cross is primarily concerned with the adequacy or inadequacy of family resources to meet the problems the disaster has brought.

Zubrod stated the Red Cross does not restore investment property unless it provides the major portion of the maintenance of the family and credit or other resources for its repair are not available. In answering questions on disbursing, Zubrod explained that the beneficiaries have free choice of merchants and merchandise, provided the articles selected and their prices are in accordance with family and Red Cross standards. The Red Cross encourages maintenance of pre-disaster merchant relationships. In this way the stream of business created by the disaster flows, in a large part, through normal local commercial channels thereby contributing to community commercial recovery.

Zubrod stated 127 families have made application for assistance and many of these families have already been contacted by the case workers. Each family will be contacted within the next few days so that plans can be worked out with each family for meeting their disaster caused need.

ONE AUTO CLUB LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN . . .

Some Drivers Act Late for Their Accidents

. . . AGAINST THE SAFE AND SANE DRIVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ALL DONE BY DAWDLERS

WATCH OUT! You're apt to get hit by a careful automobile operator, bub! You can never tell what those drivers who are in no hurry may do next. Whammo! I knew it . . . . another smashup due to one of those scourges of the highway, the cautious autoist!

The Automobile Club of New York, through William J. Gottlieb, its president, issues (with a straight or nearly so, face) a statement saying that dawdling drivers are a menace to safety, and urging that something be done about them. "While it is commonly believed that irresponsible, speeding, intoxicated or reckless drivers cause most accidents, many may be traced to those who drive cars too slowly," says the statement.

"When these slow drivers move out of the right-hand lane," says Mr. Gottlieb, "they create perils for faster drivers." (Ya don't say!) "This is utterly selfish and provocative of accidents," he adds. (How about some traps for slow drivers?)

However, "Anything to make the highways safer!" is our motto. So let's rush up the following caution signs at once:

DRIVE FASTER
SAKE!
KEEP YOUR FOOT ON THE GAS!
IT SAVES LIVES
DON'T DAWDLE!

Or perhaps a few reading "SLOWPOKES CAUSE ACCIDENTS," "TAKING YOUR TIME FORBIDDEN," "ARE YOU DRIVING FOR PLEASURE? SHAME ON YOU" and "DON'T RISK LIFE AND LIMB BY PROCEEDING WITH CAUTION."

Of course, it is just possible the auto club is looking for some publicity. Auto associations are like that. But it is dangerous stuff these dizzy days on the highways to belittle the slow driver and classify him with the drunk, the roadhog and the speed maniac.

The dawdlers are mighty few and you never hear of one running over a child, crushing a baby carriage on a crowded sidewalk or going through a drugstore window. And who are these rough, tough, inconsiderate schmoes who may be seen tearing down our crowded highways at homicidal speed in trailer trucks? Just dawdlers out for a pleasant dawdle, eh?

(Note: At this point this article had to be concluded. The writer heard a terrific crash and rushed out to see what had happened. He found a truck, a bus and two sedans full of picknickers in a tangled mass. Well, that's what comes of caution.)

Anne Notre, the Jersey gal, who won that "Hollywood Calling" gets among other things a trip abroad, an ermine coat, a diamond ring, a sedan, two poodles and a year's supply of dog food free . . . That stirs ye ed.

"There is no need for anyone to intervene between the businessman and the government in procuring government contracts. Let me repeat, there is no need to have any broker between the businessman and the government to do business."—Louis Johnson.

Well, we'd like to see some newspaper send a businessman to Washington about doing business with it and record his progress trying to see the right man.

"Ignorance and uncertainty on the part of the businessman as to how he should proceed and whom he should see have been the basic causes for his succumbing to the five percenters," added Mr. Johnson. Never was a truer word spoken. And the bureaucratic red tapers, whose chief delight is playing hard-to-find and whose motto is "Never do anything in a half hour that can be stretched over a month," would die rather than relieve the ignorance and uncertainty.

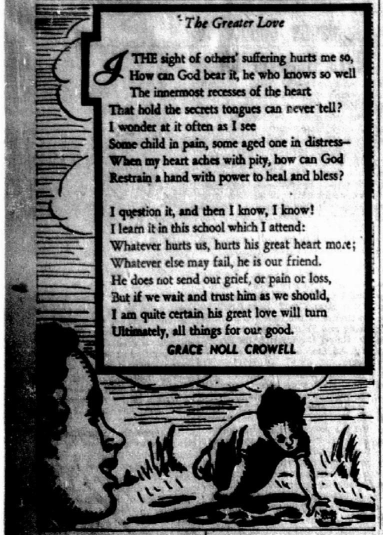
YE GOTHAM BUGLE & BANNER

Tobacco Road reached London the other night . . . . British stamina continues to get a rigid test . . . . Western Union reports a deficit of nearly four million . . . . Those "Having a wonderful time; wish you were here" telegrams must have been cut to "Arrived Okay. Toots." . . . And nobody wants a singing telegram unless it's delivered by Ezio Pinza . . . . Ginger Rogers is divorcing her third husband . . . . Love is like that.



The Greater Love

I THE sight of others' suffering hurts me so,
How can God bear it, he who knows so well
The innermost recesses of the heart
That hold the secrets tongues can never tell?
I wonder at it often as I see
Some child in pain, some aged one in distress—
When my heart aches with pity, how can God
Restrain a hand with power to heal and bless?

I question it, and then I know, I know!
I learn it in this school which I attend:
Whatever hurts us, hurts his great heart more;
Whatever else may fail, he is our friend.
He does not send our grief, or pain or loss,
But if we wait and trust him as we should,
I am quite certain his great love will turn
Ultimately, all things for our good.

STAGE ✩ SCREEN ✩ RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

MARIE WILSON, in New York to help publicize the hilarious screen version of "My Friend Irma," was probably the most cooperative actress Paramount has worked with in a long time. Also one of the nicest. "I want to go on making comedies," she said, "But with the radio 'My Friend Irma' going on, I won't have to take just anything that's offered." Pre-views of the picture have been so enthusiastically received that a sequel, "Irma Goes West," is being prepared, to be made with the same cast. Three members of it, Miss Wilson, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, the comedians, have been signed for "That's My Boy." So she's back on the screen to stay.

More about the pretty Marie. Arriving on one of New York's hottest days, she posed on a load of ice for news photographers. Her dog, a true lens hound, promptly scrambled up beside her and gazed into the cameras.

If you have a Mark Warnow Victor Record (No. 27868-BO) of "The Music Goes Round and Round" you may be able to get $10 for it. Mark Goodson and Bill Todman, producers of CBS' "Spin to Win," use it as their theme song, and they've worn their disc thin. So they will pay that sum for the first 10 records they receive—in good condition, of course.

Tipsters and radio columnists cannot cue listeners to the "Kate Smith Calls" show about the week's Mystery Personality. Each broadcast features a new celebrity, and a contestant must do some on - the - spot guesswork.

Betty Hutton, whose "Red, Hot and Blue" will be released before the end of the year, will make "Annie Get Your Gun" for MGM, then will do "The Life of Theda Bara" and another story based on the life of Mack Sennett.

The Fiction Corner

ACTING ON IMPULSE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

"IT'S ABOUT TIME," said Uncle Ralph, "that you, my dear Constance, were married. You're nearly 25, which is the verge of the ineligible age. Don't let popularity turn your head, my dear, it won't last forever. One of these days you'll find yourself seeking a man, instead of being sought after. And that," Uncle Ralph added, "often means disaster."

Connie Brigham wrinkled her cute little turned-up nose, closed one eye and stared soberly at Uncle Ralph with the other. Uncle Ralph cleared his throat and began to let his gaze wander about the room. He felt guilty.

"Which," said Connie, with the slightest of twinkles, "is a polite way of suggesting that I accept Bob Merrill, and forget all about Don Baxter. She stood up and ruffled Uncle Ralph's hair, an act which he resented delightfully. And Connie went on: "Uncle Ralph, just why is it that you dislike Don so much? I think he's fascinating."

Uncle Ralph snorted. "Donald Baxter," he said, "is not a fit young man to become the husband of any girl. He's flighty, unreliable, impulsive, and out of a job. You never can tell what he's going to do next."

"He's romantic," said Connie.

"He's after your money," said Uncle Ralph.

"And he's so good looking," said Connie.

Uncle Ralph coughed. "On the other hand, Bob Merrill is dependable, honorable, manly, steady. You can count upon him to make you a good husband."

"That's just the trouble," said Connie.

"What's just the trouble?" said Uncle Ralph.

"He's steady and dependable. So easy to read. Life with Bob would be safe, yes, but it would also be monotonous."

Despite his outward jovialness Uncle Ralph was worried. while conversing with Connie, I wish, thought Uncle Ralph, I only wish something would happen to open her eyes. Drat that Don Baxter, you never could tell what he'd do next.

Two days later Uncle Ralph had come no nearer to solving the problem.

He had considered every possible plan to make Connie see the light, and discarded them all. In the end he reluctantly decided to interview Connie again.

WITH THIS in mind Uncle Ralph rose from the veranda chair in which he was sitting, only to see Connie coming slowly up the walk. He sat down again, and picked up his newspaper. Connie came on, doleful and sorrowful of expression. She sighted Uncle Ralph, stopped and smiled whimsically.

"I guess you were right," she said.

"About what?" asked Uncle Ralph.

"Don."

"Don? How was I right about Don?"

"About never knowing what he's going to do next."

"What's he done, now?"

"He's married. Decided to last night about 6 o'clock. At 6:30 he was a married man."

"Oh, Hum," said Uncle Ralph. He was not one to gloat, hence suppressed his delight with a masterful effort. He merely said mildly, "Well, that's that. Sort of turned out like I said it would. Well, you'll be happier with Bob. He's a man in a million."

Connie shook her head. "I can never marry Bob, Uncle Ralph. That's what makes me feel so bad."

"Tsck, tsck. That's no way to talk. You'll get over Don soon enough. Bet a thousand the girl he married isn't worth one-tenth of you."

"Yes," said Connie, "she's worth all of me. I'm the girl Don married."

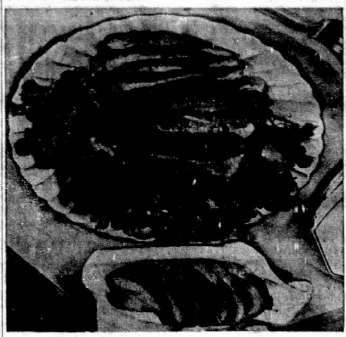
HOUSEHOLD MEMOS . . . by Lynn Chambers



Have your Meat Tender, Delicious, Juicy

(See Recipes Below)

Meat Magic

THERE DOES SEEM to be a magical quality about meats which are cooked to juicy, tender perfection. However, it's not a mystic magic which all aspire to, and few achieve. If there is a secret, it's available to all.

It is no secret that you should have a good cut of meat with which to start, if you want to have a delicious cut to set on the table. But once you have a good cut, do cook it properly instead of ruining it.

This latter statement may sound a bit far-fetched, but every day there are thousands of women who go to a great deal of trouble finding a perfect roast, then cook it like a pot roast which is practically stewing it. Then, too, there are other thousands who lose pounds of meat by using old-fashioned methods such as high temperature for "browning" the meat. This is not necessary because meat cooked at constant low temperature will brown enough to be attractive to the most discerning eye, and will not shrink and lose juice as well as waste meat.

If you have a covered roaster, resolve right now to discard the cover and invest in a rack for a roast. A true roast is not, at any point during roasting, cooked with a cover. It should sit on a rack, fat side up, at low to moderate temperature in the oven, to roast perfectly.

How long should a roast be cooked? The most accurate way of determining this is to insert a meat thermometer into the meat as you place it in the oven, and when the temperature has reached its proper point the roast is done. Insert the thermometer through the center, as deep into the meat as possible. You may figure out the time to roast by pounds, but this is not nearly so accurate, especially if you are cooking roast beef to medium rare.

WHEN PROPERLY PREPARED corned beef can be a real delicacy. The meat is muscular, and needs to be cooked long and slowly for real tenderness, without which it is not a delicacy by any manner of means. Here's a novel way to prepare it:

Glazed Corned Beef

6-7 pounds corned beef
¾ cup canned fruit juice
½ cup brown sugar
10 whole cloves
Spiced peaches

Wash corned beef under running water to remove all traces of brine. Cover with cold water and bring to a boil. Drain and replace water. Simmer, slowly, in a covered kettle for 4½ to 5 hours or until meat can be pierced easily with a fork. Add more water if necessary.

Drain meat and place on a rack in a roaster. Pour fruit juice over meat and sprinkle with brown sugar. Stick with cloves. Bake in a moderate oven (350°) for ½ hour. Serve, garnished with spiced peaches.

HARD AS IT MAY BE for you to try roasting meat at low and constant temperature, if you've followed other ways in the past, do give it a try. You'll never go back to the old way because the roasts are so much more delicious and juicy. Besides, who doesn't want to get all the edible meat possible for their money?

Pork Roast with Spicy Sauce
(Serves 6)

Fresh picnic shoulder
Salt and pepper
2 small onions, minced
1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup vinegar
¼ cup water
2 tablespoons catsup

Have picnic shoulder boned and rolled at the market. Season with salt and pepper. Place fat side up on rack in an open roaster. Roast in a moderate oven (350°) until thermometer registers 185°, or allow 40-45 minutes per pound. Combine all remaining ingredients in a saucepan and cook for 5 minutes.

Roast Leg of Lamb
(Serves 8-10)

1 leg of lamb (5 pounds)
1 teaspoon ginger
1 clove garlic, if desired
Salt and pepper
½ cup grape jelly
½ cup water

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Do not remove fell, the thin, papery covering over the meat. Make four gashes in the roast and insert a piece of garlic clove in each of them, if desired. Rub ginger, salt and pepper into the meat. Place in roaster on rack, fat side up, and roast in a slow (300°) oven until thermometer registers 180° for well done lamb. During the last 20 minutes of cooking time, baste the meat with grape juice which has been melted in the hot water. Remove garlic before serving.

Veal shoulder or breast may be stuffed with the following to give a very tasty roast. In roasting veal, use a slow oven (300° to 325° and cook until the thermometer registers 175°, which is about 40 minutes to the pound.

Raisin Stuffing
(For about 5 pound roast)

4 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup melted fat
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup seedless raisins
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients and stuff lightly into meat, allowing room for expansion. Or, place stuffing to the side of the meat or in a casserole and baste with juices from meat. If you cook stuffing separately, bake for 30 to 40 minutes.

LYNN SAYS:
Know Cooking Tricks
For Variety Meats

Seldom-used lamb liver takes on creole style when it's braised with some chopped fresh or canned tomatoes, green pepper and a dash of curry powder. Add some crumbled bacon for flavor.

Pre-cooked sweetbreads may be sauteed in butter with mushroom caps and served on top of toasted triangles of bread with a strip of bacon for an exciting luncheon dish.

Brains, after pre-cooking, make a delicious dish when dipped in seasoned flour, then browned in fat and serve with creamy scrambled eggs.

Hearts need a lot of long slow cooking to make them tender. Veal hearts are especially good when filled with prune stuffing, then braised.

To shorten the cooking time for heart, cut in in cubes and brown in hot fat. Then fold into tomato sauce used for spaghetti and bake the whole casserole for 30 minutes.

A true experience of WILLIAM F. COLLEY • San Diego, Calif.

1 "A piercing shriek cut the silence as I lay in wait for deer in the Laguna Mountains near San Diego. I dashed to Sam Reardon, my hunting companion. A 3½-foot rattler had dug his fangs into Sam's ankle! Twice in my own life, I'd felt the rattler's sting. I knew what to do.

2 "I shot the rattler—opened my snake kit. Night was closing in. I needed light—good, steady light. My flashlight with its 'Eveready' batteries was the answer. By its light, I made a tourniquet, cut a cross incision and removed the venom.

3 "And those long-life 'Eveready' batteries gave plenty of bright light as I carried Sam and flagged a car. I thank my flashlight for saving Sam's life. Now I know why 'Eveready' batteries are the batteries with 'Nine Lives'!"

Cleaning A Copper Stand

QUESTION: Can you tell me of a safe way to clean a copper stand? It has floral designs on the legs. I would like to have something that wouldn't be too hard to get out of the grooves.

ANSWER: There are excellent metal polishes on general sale that you can use, and many brushes in a wide range of sizes that will get into the carvings of floral designs. A simple way to clean copper is by washing with ordinary vinegar in which has been dissolved as much salt as will be taken up, followed by rinsing with clear water. You can make the solution into a paste by the addition of flour. If not well rinsed off afterward, the salt will further discolor the copper.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Psalms 15; 24:1-6; 141:8-10.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 25:4-10.

Religion and Habits

Lesson for September 18, 1949

IF RELIGION is not moral, it is a poor, flimsy, no-good religion. If morality is not religious, it soon cracks. Religion has to be moral and morality has to be religious, or else both of them lose their excuse for existence. This is not a new idea. It was in the Bible long ago. Our Psalms for this week are among those that bring out this truth: God is interested in how people live.

Dr. Foreman

He is interested in what they do seven days and seven nights a week; he is interested in their habits as much as their souls. Psalms 15 and 24 are so plain on this point that they need no explaining.

Churches and Liquor Don't Mix

THIS truth, that right religion and right behavior are twins, lights up all of life like a floodlight; but since this is our temperance lesson, let us focus it more or less on one spot.

It is a sore spot: the drink habit. Why does the church make such a fuss about people drinking? Catholic churches are opposed to liquor in excess, and most Protestant churches are opposed to liquor, period.

The movies have made the "binge," the hangover, almost respectable; but the church knows better. Why? Will the time ever come when the churches are not opposed to the liquor business? No, it will not; because the churches know what liquor does.

The minister is usually the man (along with the lawyer and doctor and the sheriff) who has to pick up the pieces when drink gets a man or a woman and breaks up a family. The minister gets behind the scenes, he knows that some funerals would not have been funerals if it had not been for drink.

The car that "went out of control," the disease that should not have been fatal, the family quarrel that grew to hatred and violence—he sees enough of these caused by alcohol, to have no illusions about the stuff.

A Psalm in Reverse

IF THERE is a single reader of these lines who imagines that religion is only a "matter of the soul" and has nothing to do with what people eat or drink, then let him try a little experiment with the 15th Psalm.

As it stands in the Bible, it is a description of the kind of man who can appear without shame before God—in short, of the religious-and-moral man.

Now beginning with verse 2, take the Psalm phrase by phrase, and see how false and ridiculous it is if you try to make the description fit the man with the drink habit. "The victim of drink walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness—"! Quite the contrary, he seems to be doing his best to ruin his own happiness and that of others.

"The drunkard speaketh the truth in his heart"—! There is one truth he never speaks in his heart: I am a drunkard. The one thing the victim of alcohol never admits till it is too late (if ever) is the hold which alcohol has on him. "He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor"—!

Contempt Is No Cure

WELL, read on for yourself. The slave to alcohol (and many a man is chained to it, who would feel insulted if you called him an alcoholic) certainly does not fit the description of the man whose life God approves.

But the Christian will by no means think his duty done merely by sitting in the scorner's seat, or being an abstainer himself, or even by helping those who have fallen into the pit. He will remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

The liquor business has no conscience. It sometimes comes out with pious remarks about temperance—but it keeps right on advertising, it knows no law but profit.

The only whole-hearted workers for temperance will always be the people who make no money out of intemperance. And the most effective workers for temperance will be those who themselves, in all their habits, give examples in life of what they preach.

School work.

Mr. Hollis O. Coker of Wauchula was introduced as the new Sunday School Superintendent of the Association and he called attention to the fact that Mr. Grover Terrell of the Oak Grove church had been elected as Superintendent of Group II and Mr. Malcolm Crews of the Avon Park First Church as Superintendent of Group 1 at the last meeting which was held at the Southside Church in Sebring. A report of the Nominating Committee was given which resulted in the election of the following officers to serve for the year 1949-1950:

Rev. George Dunn made several announcements and said a word of appreciation for the privilege of serving during the past year. He then introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. Gordon Halbert, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Osprey, and former pastor of the Bowling Green Church and formerly Associational Sunday School Superintendent of Orange Blossom Association. Rev. Halbert brought an inspiring message and then installed the newly elected officers. Rev. Halbert has just been elected to serve as Associational Sunday School Superintendent of the Southwest Florida Association.

After Rev. Halbert's message the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. Harrison Conley, pastor of the Wauchula North Eighth Avenue Church.

Refreshments of cookies and punch were served by the Zolfo Springs Church.

The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Truman Undaunted

ED. NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.

CONGRESS hasn't heard the last of government reorganization plan No. 1 to set up a department of welfare.

The senate's turndown has not cooled President Truman's determination to put the proposal through. He will make another try to get approval.

The President disclosed this in a talk with Reps. Robert Crosser and Wayne Hays of Ohio. They conferred with him on government reorganization plans.

"As long as government reorganization can be vetoed by either branch of congress," said Hays, "it will be impossible to effect economy in expenditures. It's the old story of lobby pressure. The lobbies go to work behind-the-scenes and kill these proposals. That happened when Hoover was President and what the senate did on this proposal was more of the same."

"That's sure," said Truman, "but they are not scaring me. If the Hoover commission's magnificent report is to mean anything, it will have to be put into effect. I am going to keep on sending plans for that purpose to congress. Whenever one is vetoed, I'll send up a revised plan in its place."

Touchy History

House rules committee consideration of the arms-for-Europe bill unexpectedly touched off a sharp explosion on American history.

Supporting the measure, Rep. Ray Madden, D., Ind., vigorously [illegible] former President Hoover [illegible] administration spending policy.

"The ex-President was talking out of both sides of his mouth when he said we are spending ourselves into a collectivist state," thundered Madden. "He himself has advocated 30 billion dollars for defense and foreign aid out of a total budget of 42 billion dollars. He wants economy, but he wouldn't cut a dime of the military and foreign-aid expenditures."

"That's an old story," broke in Chairman Adolph Sabath (D., Ill.). "I've heard it many times. I remember as far back as the period after World War I, when the same cries were raised by those who fought to keep us out of the League of Nations. If congress had not listened to these men, there might not have been a World War II."

Then, pointing at Rep. John Davis Lodge (R., Conn.), Sabath [illegible] the man who led the fight against the League—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge."

For a moment, Lodge sat in stunned silence. Then, white with anger, he jumped to his feet and shouted, "The record will prove who is right."

"I just gave you the record," retorted Sabath.

Sunday School Vaughan

The "5-percenter" uproar has had no effect on Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan as a Sunday-School teacher.

He has continued to conduct his regular class of high-school boys every Sunday morning at the Westminster Presbyterian church across the Potomac in Alexandria, Va. Usual attendance is 10 to 12 students.

Vaughan has been conducting this class for three years. He is very regular in his appearance. When he can't attend, Mrs. Vaughan takes over.

Vaughan uses themes from the regular material prepared by the Presbyterian church for such classes. He does not wear his uniform to church. Vaughan is an elder of the church, and popular with parishoners and his class. He enlivens his teaching with jokes and witticisms.

Note—Vaughan has told friends that regular army antipathy to reserve officers is one of the secret influences behind the senate probe. Vaughan has long been critical of "West Pointers."

Tideland Oil

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), chairman of the interior affairs committee, has thrown a monkey wrench into the drive to steamroller through a so-called "compromise" on the tideland oil issue.

He was supposed to sponsor "compromise" legislation in the senate. But after examining the bills agreed on at secret conferences with California, Texas and Louisiana officials, O'Mahoney refused to have anything to do with them.

Hearings on the measures were scheduled before a house judiciary subcommittee, headed by Rep. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.).

One of the measures is an out-and-out grab. It would give the states the bulk of these vast oil reserves.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

British Ask Special Loan Favors; Senate Rejects Economy Measure; GI's Apply for War Risk Rebates

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BRITISH LOAN:

True to Form

Even before the talks got fully underway, the trend of the discussion concerning British-American finance deals was becoming familiarly clear.

THE PROBLEM was Britain's current financial crisis. The hope rested with U. S. procedure as it affects assistance. That the U. S. was thoroughly under the spell of British need and persuasion was shown in the statement that this government is hospitable to a proposal to relax terms of the British loan pact.

Under the current preliminary proposal, the U. S. would grant Britain permission to discriminate temporarily against American goods. Under the British loan pact, Britain got 3.75 billion dollars from the United States in return for a promise to treat American exports the same as those from British empire countries and Europe.

Now, the British want that requirement knocked out. Here's how the British plan would work:

BRITAIN could, for instance, refuse to license British buyers who want to buy American goods, but it could give "open licenses" to Britishers who, for example, wanted to import Italian goods. Since the Italian imports could be purchased with sterling, this would save Britain dollars.

Thus, with the monetary talks hardly underway, the British are asking a double burden of the American taxpayer—money from the taxpayer to solve Britain's economic problem while at the same time setting up what amounts to a boycott of American imports which will further cost the American taxpayer if he happens to be one of the businessmen affected by the ruling.

And, as the pattern seems to be, officials were reported favorable to the British proposal and—symptomatically, too—were planning to by-pass congress in implementing that approval.

WATCHMAKING:

Pioneered in U. S.

Many Americans believe precision watchmaking is an exclusively Swiss craft. Hence the small but lusty U.S. jeweled watch industry delights in pointing out that basic production methods now used by the Swiss were developed here a century ago, and that this "American system" was adopted by the Swiss about 1875.

Two years ago American craftsmen proved they hadn't lost their ingenuity. An Elgin, Ill., watch manufacturer introduced a rust-proof, acid-proof "durapower" mainspring which was called the most revolutionary advance in watchmaking since introduction of jeweled bearings 200 years ago.

Now, by way of improving on perfection, the same factory announces its technicians have learned how to squeeze every last ounce of power out of the wonder-alloy mainspring.

Their method was to eliminate the conventional annealed arbor end of the spring, which had always been dead, unproductive weight. By pre-forming the arbor end, possible only with the new alloy, they have put the entire length of the spring to work. The result: A longer run of the watch between windings, hence a boon to lazy and forgetful thumbs and forefingers!

DIVIDEND:

Rebate for GI's

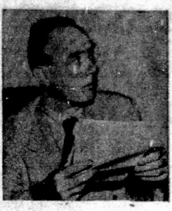
The federal government, in one of the most amazingly simple forms ever to come out of Washington, was receiving applications from World War II veterans for rebates on GI insurance premiums.

REJOICING over the windfall, surprised and delighted with the simple application form, veterans were flooding the mails with their application cards.

"It's like finding money on the street," one veteran declared.

The dividend payments from national life insurance surplus funds are to be made to persons who hold or have held these policies. The average payment is estimated at $175. To be eligible for a rebate, the veteran must have had his service life insurance in force at least 90 days. The dividend would not be issued on any service life insurance issued after December 31, 1947.

Touched Off Probe



Cedric Worth, special assistant to Navy Undersecretary D. A. Kimball, is shown as he appeared before the house committee investigating the B-36 bomber program. It was Worth who touched off the probe. He admitted writing the document containing serious charges against Defense Secretary Johnson and former air force secretary Symington.

SPENDING:

Slash Rejected

The United States senate stood firm in support of President Truman's estimate of the financial needs of the nation for the next fiscal year.

A move to force the President to slash federal spending to a level 5 to 10 per cent below his advance estimates was defeated. But the margin was only three votes.

The economy amendment, had it carried, would have required the President to hold spending for the current fiscal year some two billion to four billion dollars below the estimates he made last January.

FOES of the proposed economy asserted it amounted to passing the economy buck to the President. Supporters of the amendment answered that the President was in better position than anyone else to determine where to cut.

After the decision on this issue, the senate passed by a voice vote a 14.80 billion dollar appropriation bill to pay for national defense—the cost of the army, navy and air force. This was 500 million less, however, than President Truman had asked.

IN OPPOSING the economy rider, Sen. Scott Lucas, majority floor leader, said the amendment was a "political gesture," an attempt to tell the President to do what congress lacked the courage to do. He asked if economy supporters would "impeach him" if Mr. Truman failed to save as much as ordered.

On the contrary, contended Senator McClellan of Arkansas, "it is sound legislation necessary in the public welfare, and failure to balance the budget or hold the deficit to the minimum this amendment makes possible may well prove to be a stupid and dangerous blunder."

TELEVISION:

Color Must Wait

For those who want color in television, there were four more years of waiting.

That was the expressed conviction of a television manufacturer, Benjamin Abrams. He said that while color television had been demonstrated successfully, "it still is in the laboratory stage and it will be years before it is available for the general public." He then estimated the waiting time as four years.

Abrams said that at the present stage of development of color television, he did not believe manufacturers could turn out adapters for less than $300 to $500. And he estimated a set built especially for color would cost $1,000.

He declared present sets would not become obsolete even with the advent of color. But he said widespread interest aroused by the FCC exploration of color television was causing some prospective customers to postpone buying sets.

Abrams took issue with charges that manufacturers are deliberately holding back color video. He declared it would be in the manufacturers' own interest to bring out color sets quickly if they could produce them at prices within range of the general public.

Summing up he said: "You can't push a button and have color television appear over night."

HITLER AIDS COUNTERFEITERS

International Ring Floats Bogus Bills

The dead hand of Adolf Hitler reached out to assist one of the biggest international counterfeiting networks in history. The ring was reported to be flooding New York and South America with bogus bills. And all the experts agreed the bills were printed on plates Adolf Hitler ordered made to enrich his wartime over-seas sabotage funds. Scotland Yard indicated hundreds of thousands of bills have been passed.

Yard officials said the counterfeit ring's members may include both international criminals and former Mayfair society playboys "now living in luxury in the south of France."

More than $120,000 worth of forged U. S. dollar bills were recovered in little more than a week.

TITO:

How Long?

How long would Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito manage to hold out against Moscow? On-the-scene observers didn't give him long. They predicted that Tito would be liquidated by assassination or that Russia would abandon diplomatic maneuvering and move into Yugoslavia by force of arms.

THIS LATTER supposition was strengthened by the reported arrival of three Soviet mechanized divisions in southern Hungary. The general view in Belgrade was that the Soviet government had so involved its prestige in the 14-month campaign to destroy the present Yugoslav government that Moscow couldn't let Tito get away with anything further.

The presence of the new Soviet forces in Hungary was held indicative of the gravity of the new crisis between Belgrade and Moscow.

It was pointed out, however, that conditions which made Soviet operations successful in the Baltic states and in Poland do not exist in Yugoslavia. A direct attack might create a condition that could result in another European war.

THE RUSSIANS must realize that as well as anyone else. It will be interesting, therefore, to observe Russian strategy in the continuing onslaught against Tito's regime. If the Russians resort to military force, that action should notify the world that Moscow believes itself ready for war and is ready to face the issue.

If tactics of diplomatic attrition continue, then the embassies of the globe could safely hazard the opinion, and act upon it, that for all its sabre-rattling, the Kremlin is not ready to go to war—not just yet.

TRUMAN:

Long Memory

While President Truman may have nothing else in common with the symbolic GOP elephant, he shares the pachyderm's fame for long memory.

This was indicated by a recent story in Washington that the President appeared about to shake up the membership of the Fine Arts commission which opposed the controversial balcony Mr. Truman installed in the White House.

THAT BALCONY, as almost everyone will recall, was a bonanza for gag men and cartoonists, and, apparently, Mr. Truman didn't appreciate whatever humor might have been contained in the situation.

According to the Washington reports, Commission Chairman Gilmore D. Clarke, who vigorously opposed the balcony project, has received no word from the White House since his term expired last March. Terms are about to expire for three other commission members and they, too, have received no communique from the White House about being reappointed.

During the winter of 1947-48 the dispute over the proposed balcony raged furiously after President Truman announced he wanted a second-floor "porch" built onto the White House. The Fine Arts commission formally voted disapproval and various architectural groups and citizens joined in.

THAT DIDN'T deter the President. Mr. Truman had the balcony built despite the criticism. The turmoil subsided quickly and many thought that was the end of the affair.

It might have been—but Mr. Truman, like an elephant, apparently, never forgets.

Truce Sought

President Truman was casting about for an end to the feud on farm programs. To that end he invited a group of congressional leaders to the White House to discuss the situation.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Renovating Clothes Aids Wardrobe Budget

By Ertta Haley

AS LONG as there has been no startling change in the fashion picture, many women will feel quite free about wearing their last year's clothes without any changes and few additions to the wardrobe.

A bit of sharpening here and there on last year's clothes, however, will work wonders. The few hours spent on clothes and fitting can even work a miracle which all women can appreciate: deft remodeling can change last year's look into this year's.

Although skirts were somewhat shorter last year than during the previous season, they are now considerably shorter, with fourteen inches being the ideal length. However, as you may have noticed, many of last year's dresses were still quite long, especially in comparison with current new styles.

Pocket interest, too, was evident, but not nearly so marked as at present. The same is true of necklines. We had those which plunged and those which climbed high, but they were rather simple in their lines as well as without some of the current decorative features.

Pleats were present, too, but most of the types now being shown are the stitched down variety. Even with pleats, skirts have a clinging, graceful and slenderizing effect.

You don't have to be a genius with clothes to see the remodeling possibilities in these different situations. And wouldn't it be worth a few hours of fitting and sewing to convert last year's clothes into fashionable things for the current season? For those of you who say yes, we have some fashion tips that will work an amazing transformation in the wardrobe that you'll be proud to wear with a refreshing alertness and handsome pride.

Shorten your old skirts . . . .

Several Methods Employed For Shortening Skirts

Those of you who have some of the slender skirts of last year will find they fit in nicely with the new plans since that is the look designers have been achieving in their clothes.

Remove the old hem carefully and slowly so as not to catch or cut the material. Then measure the length of the skirt, or better still, enlist some help. Fourteen inches from the floor is the ideal length, but this may vary slightly one way or the other, whichever way looks best on you.

If much shortening is needed, you'll have to cut the material so the hem is not bulky. Use the old tape if it's still in good condition, but remove and resew it before turning the hem.

Full skirts which were so popular last year are being used for evening only. Many of the full skirts can be cut according to a pattern so they carry the new look. On others it may be possible to employ stitch-down pleats or gathers, so they give the effect of slimness.

Whatever is done to the full skirt should be done with consideration of the top, since the dress must be harmonious. Check new fashions and see what hints you can copy for your particular dress.

Stitch down pleats for new fashions.

For the skirt which is not quite so full, but which still has a swing and flare to it, here's a trick. Take a tuck, the size of which is indicated by the length, a few inches from the hem of the skirt. If this can be done properly, you'll find that it's a very new and easy way to shorten the skirt.

Incidentally, if your closet holds clothes from several seasons, you might look over those which could not be lengthened sufficiently for the last two years, and see if some fashion tricks wouldn't put them into use now.

Decorative Features Alter Many Dresses

Picturesque collars and cuffs are very much a part of the new fashion picture, and simple tricks may be employed for refreshing old clothes.

If you have enough material left over from shortening a dress, this might easily be used to make collars and possibly cuffs, or a pocket or two. Collars are big. They may have large points; they might be the coachman type that stand up in back and plunge low in front.

Some collars, especially on the classic type dress might be the small pointed type or Peter Pan variety, and could easily be carried out in velvet or velveteen, and thus be exceedingly fashion-wise.

Fringe Interest

Black and shocking pink checked wool are used by Joset Walker in this dress, with black wool fringe trimming the wide collar and three-quarter sleeves, and down the bodice. The new length skirt shows slenderness and grace with its inverted front pleat.

Be Smart!

For dancing youth that demands variety, and the busy social calendar of the college girl that does call for many wardrobe changes, behold the flame-colored cravat scarf as an accompaniment of black lace. Jeweled pins anchor the cravat to the ballet top of the dress. Other ideas presented for versatility include high color chiffon shirred into poufs of misty beauty, some seamed into an elbow length sleeve at the right, also mantilla-like lace scarves, all beautifully effective and capable of being worn with several different dresses.

THE READER'S COURTROOM

Wife of Arsonist Is Innocent

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

May a Wife be Punished For Her Husband's Crime?

The wife of a druggist went to pick him up at his store late one night. While she waited for him at the counter, he went to the basement, poured kerosene on some rags, and started a fire. Then they left. The store burned almost to the ground. However, an investigator for the insurance company figured out what happened, and the couple were arrested for arson. The court decided that the druggist was indeed guilty — but his wife was not. The judge explained that, even though she was at the scene of the crime and probably knew what her husband was up to, she still hadn't actually lifted a finger to help him.

A man got on a train without a ticket, and, when the conductor came along, flatly refused to pay for his passage. The conductor angrily dragged the man to the door and unceremoniously shoved him out — even though the train was already on its way. The man later had the conductor arrested on a charge of assault and battery. The conductor's excuse was that the train "wasn't going very fast," but the court held him guilty anyhow. The judge figured that the passenger deserved more courtesy!

A crotchety old bachelor became very angry whenever the children in the neighborhood got onto his property. One day he spied a boy climbing over the fence into his yard. As the boy dropped to the ground, the old man sicked his bulldog on the intruder. The boy was badly bitten, and later sued the bachelor for damages. The man insisted that the young "trespasser" had gotten only what he deserved but the court didn't see it that way. The judge held the man responsible.

If a Man Puts on a Disguise And Scares Somebody, Is He Legally Liable?

One evening, a mischievous young man decided to "have a little fun." He dressed himself in women's clothing, donned a veil, picked up a parasol, and went tapping his way over to his neighbor's house. The lady next door, evidently sensing something peculiar in the approaching figure, ran screaming to her husband. But when the husband seized a baseball bat and rushed forward to do battle, the prankster hastily made his identity known. The woman was so upset by the incident that she sued the young man for assault. However, the court decided that no assault had been committed. The judge said that, far from being malicious, the young man was only trying to be playful!"

Time Will Requite Wife's Faith

THE VERY DIFFICULT position in which Anna van Marx finds herself is, like many another, only to be solved by the change of heart of the very persons whose weakness and selfishness are causing the trouble. And, as we all know, weakness and selfishness are hard things to cure.

The situation is this: Anna is 28; her husband, Orville, who was the family doctor for years before she married him, is 42. Anna has a half-sister, orphaned now, who is 17. Sheila lives with Anna and Orville, and Orville is her guardian, and trustee for her considerable estate. Of course, you see the rest. Sheila is lovely, affectionate, impressionable, and very much in love with her guardian.

"I could bear that," writes Anna. "For Orville is not only a fascinating man, but his tenderness to Sheila since my mother's death, his care for her interests and her dependence upon him, would naturally win any such sentimental girl. But now there is no question that Orville is attracted in his turn, and for the last two months I have been feeling that I have no part in the picture at all.

See Each Other

"They see each other continually, when I am not present. Sheila will tell me that she has something to discuss with Orv, and go down to his office to carry him off for lunch. They like long walks before supper and when they come in Sheila will be positively starry-eyed, and everyone comments upon Orville's youthful appearance.

"My family consists of a 10-year-old son of Orville's whose first wife died when Donny was born, and three small boys of my own. I have an untrained Indian girl in my kitchen as my only helper. Breakfasts are apt to be rather hectic times, and before Sheila and Orville come in for their late dinner I have seen three children and the baby through baths and suppers and got the house quiet for the night.

". . . in love with her guardian . . ."

"But often—always, indeed, I am so tired and sleepy by that time that when dinner is over and Sheila and Orville begin to play gin rummy or backgammon, I simply have to collapse in bed. Sometimes I hear them laughing and murmuring for hours. Again, if I am weak enough to go halfway down the stairs and look in upon them, their chairs are empty, and they have gone out to the porch, or for a stroll.

What Can Wife Do?

"Don't think I've let things get this far," the letter goes on, "without talking sensibly and quietly to both. Both seemed deeply surprised and amused in a kindly way. Just Anna's foolishness. Orville asked me what I could do about it, even supposing it were the case.

"Well, what can I do? Even if Orville and I separated, Sheila would still be his ward. He could see her as often as he liked.

"Do you wonder that I find my position absolutely unbearable? The smiling, smug assurance of both sister and husband makes it worse. I believe they like things this way; themselves free for any amount of playing with fire, with me always here to preserve the conventions. Every look Orville gives Sheila is a caress, and every look she gives him is sheer idolatry.

"I've proposed a finishing school for her—she was not promoted from second year high school, but could enter one of the schools which train girls for social life. But he won't hear of it. She is taking dancing, French and skating now at a private school here, plays tennis, and gives two mornings a week to the nursery of Orville's hospital. She asks Orville innocently why Anna doesn't think that's enough for a girl to do?"

Don't do anything, Anna, is my advice. Sit tight. Both Orville and Sheila are acting very badly, but acting as almost any man and woman would, given the temptation of her idolatry and his age. He married a woman 14 years younger than himself, as a second wife, all of which made him feel old.

Now Sheila has shown him that his blood can still respond to the call of youth. Give them time. They won't go much further, and when she meets her real mate Orville will suffer enough to make you really sorry for him. As for her, with this selfish, vain start, and with her wealth, she is not apt to attract the right man. She'll pay the piper, too, some day. Keep yourself as amused and as busy and independent as you can, and be very sure the tide will turn your way.

Elephant's Friendship Unlucky to Immigrant

BUENOS AIRES.—Police broke up a fast friendship between an elephant and an Italian immigrant at Buenos Aires zoo.

The man, Eduardo Nissi, 45, stopped in front of the elephant's cage and began stroking the pachyderm's trunk. The elephant, a female, liked her new friend so well she pulled the cage bars aside and lifted Nissi to her shoulders.

Build Restaurant For Blind Neighbor

LA CROSSE, Wis.—What would you do if you suddenly went blind?

John Knebes had to find the answer to that question, because blindness came upon him last April.

His wife, Leona, had to go down to the Heilemann brewery, where he worked as cellar supervisor, and help him home. Diabetes had taken his sight. At 36, with a wife and two children to support, Knebes was helpless.

But before you pass the hat for John Knebes, hear out the story of a determined wife, a loyal bunch of in-laws and 35 pairs of helping hands.

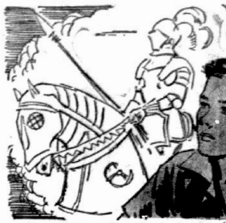
The unemployment compensation checks ran out in five weeks. After that, the Knebes family had a choice of eking out an existence on state pensions or finding another way to make a living.

Leona and John talked it over. They discarded first one scheme and then another. They decided that they might be able to make a go of a drive-in restaurant. The matter might have ended right there if it hadn't been for encouragement from Leona's father, John Pretasky, and the urgings of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Fries. Fries is a fireman.

Before the Knebeses knew it, they had agreed to build and operate Knebes' Drive-In. Dad Pretasky, a hog farmer, bought four lots near the Knebes home, and $800 worth of fill was packed in. By the time the concrete floor was laid, there had been dozens of offers of free labor after regular working hours.

MIRROR Of Your MIND ■ ■ ■ Adventure Lure Is Weakening

By Lawrence Gould



Do young people today lack adventurousness?

Answer: Many of them have already had enough adventures to last them the rest of their lives, but according to a recent survey the ambitions of the latest crop of college graduates (seventy per cent of whom are veterans) are quite different from those of young men and women before World War II. Only two per cent of them are planning to go into business for themselves, and few are concerned with becoming rich or famous. The majority have taken special training to prepare themselves for jobs which promise security and "no ulcers."

Can a girl who "keeps you dangling" be a good wife?

Answer: Probably not. The sort of girl who makes you so miserable that you resolve to break with her but invariably changes just as you're about to do so is likely to have too strong an element of the man-hater (conscious or unconscious) in her disposition to help build a happy peaceful home with any man she marries. The fact that the hatred is based on fear of her own natural impulses, so that the more she loves you, the more she has to make you suffer, is not her fault since she does not realize it, but that will not make her easier to live with.

Should you tell a person he has cancer?

Answer: That depends upon the circumstances—and the person. If you're dealing with a mature-minded man or woman, I believe he or she has a right to know the truth, both as an incentive to follow whatever treatment is prescribed and as a warning to put his or her affairs in order. For that matter, such a person nowadays would be pretty sure to guess the truth, however hard you tried to keep it from him. But a childish-minded person whom the truth would only terrify may well be left in "blissful ignorance" as long as possible.

Spanking Child Harms Emotions

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHEN YOU SEE a disobedient child, refusing to do as he or she is told, shouting his defiance at his mother's instructions, our natural inclination is to give him the spanking we assume he so richly deserves. What we forget is that this youngster is not normal, that is, not normal from the emotional standpoint, though he may have mental ability.

A child who acts up in this way, may be an only child or an overprotected child and has learned that by putting on his act, becoming hysterical, he can get his own way.

Children's specialists and others who have had much to do with all types of children tell us that it is the home surroundings and the parents that are mostly at fault for hysterical children, in not recognizing that the youngster is emotionally unstable and while scolding or spanking will settle normal youngsters, ordinary handling will not straighten out such a youngster.

IN "Medical Press," Dr. Doris Oldum, West End Hospital For Nervous Diseases, London, states that if a child finds he can get his own way from hysterical behavior he will cling to his symptoms throughout life and may become a "nervous invalid" if the condition is not recognized and treated in childhood. Hysteria in youngsters before they reach the teen age is expressed as loss of nervous control, crying, screaming and complete loss of muscular power resembling paralysis. In the teen age, hysterical symptoms include fainting and loss of memory.

Nearly all hysterical disturbances in an emotionally unstable child are started by unstable home surroundings. "Quarrelsome or drunken parents, an unpredictable mother, overprotection or neglect, or the loss of a parent (mother most often), may be the source of the child's behavior.

If the parents are overprotective and the child sees any little ache or pain upsets them, he adopts their habits to assert or call attention to himself.

Florida Engineering Society Disapprove Free Services

Strong dissapproval of manufacturing firms or public utilities offering engineering services to owners using their products has been voiced by the Florida Engineering Society. So stated David B. Lee, Secretary, at Jacksonville today.

The Society's Board of Directors has drawn up a resolution to that effect stating that it has come to their attention that certain manufacturers and public utilities were furnishing such engineering services.

The resolution stated that "the Florida Engineering Society realizes that the providing of such engineering advice, consultations or designs may be considered as a related activity involved in developing and promoting the production and sales of the product offered," however it is the opinion of the Society that "such service is a violation of the Society's ethics; is contrary to the best interest of the client; and is a practice that should be discontinued."

The Society recommended that the efforts of manufacturers, utilities and producers in developing use of their product be directed to and through the owner's registered consulting engineers.

NEW FORD TEST HILL—This 1949 Ford is climbing the 30 per cent grade on the new test hill at Dearborn, Mich., which was constructed of 116,000 tons of steel slag from the Ford Motor Company's steel mills. This 30 per cent grade approximates San Francisco's famed Filbert street—long a favorite among test engineers as one of the steepest city streets in the country. Hill-climbing ability, automatic transmissions, foot and hand brakes, bumper clearances and carburetion are tested on the new hill by Ford engineers. In addition all Ford products are tested under extremes of temperature and terrain in all parts of the United States.

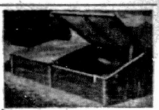
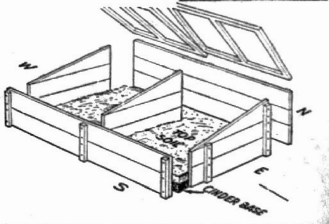
Easy to Make SEED FRAME





Anyone handy with a hammer and saw can construct this sturdy seed frame. It is made up of four sides, and a hinged top glazed with Vimlite*, flexible plastic glazing. Vimlite is used because it is shatterproof, lightweight, has good insulation qualities and is easy to install. No grooving of the frame, or puttying is necessary. Vimlite is merely tacked in place like fly screen.

The standard size for seed frames is 3 feet x 6 feet. To protect it against rot and decay, the lumber used should be treated with Dow's pentachlorophenol. This chemical and Vimlite can be obtained at hardware, lumber and building supply stores.

Assemble the four sides, center partition, and top frames according to the sketch. For permanent construction it is advisable to use galvanized screws instead of nails.

The seed frame is set in place on the ground with the high side to the north, and the top sash slanted toward the sun. The inside should be filled with 3 inches of cinders or gravel and then a layer of top soil. This insulates against cold, and improves drainage. When the seed frame has served its purpose each season, it should be removed and stored until it is time to use it again.

'Cracker Politics'

By Allen Morris

There is a secret list that may tell better than the headlines what the Legislature likely will do about new taxes next month.

Made up from confidential reports collected statewide for a top legislative strategist in the balance-the-budget forces, this list groups members of the House of Representatives by three categories: roughly — for a limited sales tax, against this tax, and doubtful.

(No such tally has been run on the Senate because there seemed little doubt from the convening of the 1949 Legislature that the upper house would pass some type of sales tax if the House ever demonstrated willingness to shoulder its share of the load.

(Because the Representatives patently wouldn't follow suit, there was no reason for the Senators to stretch out their political necks just for a gesture during the regular session. Indeed, the strategy now is to pass the limited sales tax first through the House in the special session.)

Now, for the first time, the sum of names under the "for tax" heading on this off-the-record tally amounts, with the week's three additions, to a majority of the members of the House.

The actual figures: For tax—51; Against tax — 34; Doubtful—8. (That adds up to 93 instead of the full membership of 95 because one member has died and another has resigned since the regular session. Elections have been called to fill those seats.)

Thus, if these commitments are firm, the limited sales tax can be passed in the House by the end of the fifth day of the special session which begins September 7 by Governor Warren's proclamation.

(The Governor's call significantly included revenue-raising constitutional amendments among the business which may be introduced without recourse to the two-thirds majority necessary in each house for consideration of bills and resolutions touching upon matters not in the proclamation.

(This important inclusion in the Warren call hardly could mean other than that some legislators have indicated they may want to balance immediate enactment of a sales tax with future submission to the electorate of a repealer of the present constitutional prohibition on a State income tax.

(A telling argument against a sales tax always has been that this was an unfair levy against breadwinners in the lower income bracket and, if enacted, should be coupled with a State income tax to catch those persons in the middle and upper earning groups—a tax outlawed by the constitution.)

Here are salient points of the revenue measure for which balance-the-budget advocates have been asked to pledge their votes:

A three per cent tax on all retail sales except those of uncooked foods, clothing valued up to $10 and medicine (both patent and prescription).

In addition, the proposal contemplates:

The levy of a three per cent tax on all hotel room receipts.

The increasing of the cigaret tax from four cents a pack to five, with cities authorized to recapture by local tax ordinance the amount of cigaret tax collected by the State within their boundaries.

This recapture would be conditioned upon local property taxes being reduced by a percentage (yet to be determined but either 50 or 75 per cent) of the cigaret tax kicked back.

Of the cigaret money reaching the State itself, the first $2,000,000 each year would be earmarked for tuberculosis sanatoria maintenance.

An eighth cent may be asked for farm-to-market and other county roads constructed by the State under the direction of local authorities.

The nuisance tax burden upon merchants would be eased by repeal of the present inventory and occupational levies. Existing taxes on beer, whisky and wine, among other sales and excise taxes, would be continued at present rates.

A number of legislators are talking of "recalling" the $240,000,000 general appropriations law, stating their belief this amount could be trimmed in the special session. Some of these recallers also have said this bill was passed with only an hour or so of deliberation.

Actually, the general appropriations law is no different than any other law. It is subject to amendment or outright repeal at any time subsequent to its passage—by the same Legislature or its successors. But it is not liable to "recall" in the sense of having the document physically returned from the Secretary of State for the purpose of further consideration.

Further, the general appropriations bill was not passed in either house after only short debate. The House of Representatives — from whose members most of the cry now comes for reopening of the measure—argued this, item by item, for days on end.

True, a conference committee report—merging the House and Senate versions, with each house giving some ground to the other's wishes—was adopted in short order, but that is the rule rather than the exception.

There seems no good reason to believe the appropriations law would be reduced in amount even if the subject was reopened through a bill to amend or repeal, for the money-shortage was known at the time of its enactment.

A number of members, in evidence of this knowledge, said they had fought vigorously for the trimming of appropriation items but the majority having voted them down, they were willing to abide by what to them seemed the democratic principle and thereafter would help get the additional revenue all conceded would be necessary.

Indeed, there is reason to think some of the items within the $240,000,000 law would be increased today rather than reduced.

The subject, in any event, can be reopened only by the consent of two-thirds of the members of each house.

TIPS FOR VACATIONISTS

Everybody needs a vacation. Summer months are still traditionally the time to get away from the daily grind, even in Florida where vacation weather and facilities are available the year through.

Dr. Lewis J. Silvers of New York, writing in the June issue of Hygeia, health magazine of the American Medical Association, advises for a healthful vacation to study up on first aid and to take it easy on sports the first few days.

Vacation hazards to watch for include unsafe water and food supplies, ticks, snakes, the black widow spider and mosquitoes, he says, adding that you will do well to look out for poison sumac, as well as poison ivy and oak.

The doctor warns that cold food that may be served from day to day at wayside restaurants can be unsafe. Intestinal disease, including typhoid fever and dysentery, are carried by infected food, water or milk. Boiling of water, pasteurization of milk and thorough cooking of meat are essential in avoiding these diseases.

People who vacation in places where copperhead, rattler or water moccasins lurk may need a special type of first aid kit containing antivenin. Of course the best preventive is clothing which makes it difficult for a snake to bite through to the skin. This is especially good advice in areas in which the deadly Florida coral snake may be found. A bite from a black widow spider, while not often fatal, can be extremely disabling.

Consult your family doctor on first aid measures and methods for security on your vacation. Be prepared, but remember that it is only first aid and in emergencies don't try to take the place of the doctor.

Footwear Fashions and Foot Health

—By Phyllis McLarney—

Summer time is color time and hot-weather prints fairly yell for shoes that keep in step with the summer spectrum. The shoes illustrated fill the bill: pink, fuchsia and deep rose of glazed kid in a cross-strap open sandal with leather soled platform and open toe and heel.

Taking charge of the late summer style picture are straps — instep, cross, T— and what have you. One number, spied by our operatives in style centers from Palm Springs to the Rue de la Paix, combines ankle and vamp straps in shoes closed primly at both toe and heel. In black suede or polished leather, the shoe is perched on a high heel and a thin sole of natural leather that accents the delicate note Also high on the list for summer festivities are shell pumps with scooped vamps. One such model sports lattice work to fill in the vamp and swirling side straps that contrast with the criss-cross design covering the vamp. Still high in the popularity contest below the hemline are Grecian sandals of flexible sole leather and little else.

Platforms, now a classic item in shoe wardrobes everywhere, continue to charm the Parisian bottiers. The French high-stylists argue that platforms are indispensable for protection of the foot in the wide-open numbers, that they offer extra height plus leather-soled comfort, and that they lend themselves to pleasing color combinations. One shoe that is turning male heads ankleward on the Champs-Elysees is a charming open-toe sling pump in navy, with white applique Another is an all-white strap shoe, open at back and toe, with three side buttons. Perched on a slender leather-soled platform, this shoe will soon have replicas at prices Miss Everybody can afford. Never ones for getting in a rut, the French hint at going back to the nailhead era of a few years ago in a platform sandal of polished leather Large gold nailheads trim the wide platform, and a completely open back on a black lacquered heel brings up the rear. The shoe has a "convertible" aspect in that a strap can be added when there's boulevard-strolling to be done. All in all, it promises to be a big year for platforms, whether their wearers are Jane, Mary and Peggy, or Lucienne, Yvette and Fifi.

Are you planning to wow them with your svelte wardrobe during your vacation? Better take another look at your shoes. Do they invite "invisible hotfoot" — burning, blistering infections on tender soles? Or will they give you that indefinable something that invites low whistles and high fun?

Chic women everywhere know that smart accessories make the ensemble . . . and catch the man's eye. And your shoes are the strategic item in your accessory wardrobe.

The right kind of shoes for all occasions will be your good-time insurance during summer frolics. If shoes fit well, and are carefully made, with cool self-ventilating leather soles, they can make those walks a sheer joy, help you glide along the dance floor, the envy of your sex. On the dark side, many a vacation has been hopelessly spoiled—budding romances crushed —by footwear with rigid impermeable soles that stifle foot and disposition, causing gay young things to hobble like Macbeth's witches.

Remember way back when a "comfortable" shoe could be spotted a farmer's mile away and when the very idea conjured up visions nothing short of gruesome? Gone but not forgotten are the not-so-happy days of the grim "comfort" oxford shoe suitable for an alpine climber rather than a damsel out for a stroll down Main Street. Utilizing the flexible strength and walking ease of fine leather soles, designers have come up with a sparkling array of footwear whose elegant lines match their down-to-earth comfort. On the highroad to youthful flair and walking pleasure, we spied a walking shoe with medium high heel, whose diagonal perforated straps give a lilt and a lift. Another stand-out model for foot ease is a slender tailored shoe in polished calf with slightly squared leather soles. Two tiny buttons on graceful vamp flaps uphold the button trend. The toe is demurely walled and button holes and vamp flaps sparkle with thin pipings of gun metal. Dainty perforations replete with delicate stitching on the vamp mark another shoe that shines brightly in the fashion-plus-comfort parade.
