New Council To Take Office October 1st

The last meeting of the old Avon Park City Council took place on Monday night, September 26th. This was a joint meeting of the old and new council. Many matters were discussed and the new members were shown or explained some of the workings of the council.

Before retiring the council agreed to donate $450.00 to the Woman's Club to help in their financial program for the Library. The $300.00 promised to the Chamber of Commerce, half of the cost of the folders for the City was voted to be paid, and a sum of $250.00 was donated to the Avon Park Athletic Association. A letter from Mr. Charles Ginn was read in connection with the use of the tennis courts at the Youth Center. He asked that the courts be reserved for the Youth Center on two nights a week. After careful consideration it was agreed by the Council that they would try a scheme whereby the Youth Center would have the exclusive use of the courts either from 7:30 to 9:30, two nights or from 7:30 till they close on one night.

Members of the old council, who will leave office at midnight Friday, said they were glad to report all current bills paid and a surplus left for the incoming council to begin work with in contrast with the $3,000.00 deficit when they took office two years ago. The following is a copy of the financial status of the city at the audit of the books to close the year, September 24th, 1949.

Navy College Training Program

The Navy announced recently that the fourth nation-wide competitive examination for its College Training Program has been scheduled for December 3, 1949, and will be open to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements. Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education at government expense and will be commissioned as officers of the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

The program is open to male citizens of the United States between the ages of 17 and 21, and quotas have been assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population. Those who are successful in passing the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations; then, if they are found in all respects qualified, their names will be submitted to state and territorial Selection Committees composed of prominent citizens and naval officers. The Navy expects to enter about 2,000 students into the program commencing with the fall term of college, 1950.

The students selected by these competitive examinations will be assigned to the 52 Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps units which are located in various universities and colleges in the United States. If accepted by the college, they will be appointed Midshipmen, U.S.N.R., and will have their tuition, books, and normal fees paid for by the Government. In addition they will receive pay at the rate of $50.00 a month for the four-year period. Upon graduation they may be commissioned as officers in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and required to serve on active duty for two years. At the end of this time they may apply for retention in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or transfer to the Reserve and return to civilian life.

Applications are available at high schools, colleges, Offices of Naval Officer Procurement, and Navy Recruiting Stations.

Mr. A. B. Wilhite, Principal of Avon Park High School, who is acting as the Navy's local civilian representative, will be pleased to provide specific information about the program, including the time and place of the competitive examination, the method of making application, and the specific age and scholastic qualifications.

Children's Committee Begin Christmas Planning This Week

The Avon Park Children's Committee met Tuesday evening at the Union Congregational Church, Rev. W. J. Ashworth presiding, and started the ball rolling toward a bigger and better program of Christmas cheer for needy families.

Last year a Christmas Committee was appointed with Rev. John E. Pickens as chairman, and the excellent cooperation of organizations and individuals enabled them to serve sixty families with about 150 children. The duplication of giving and accompaning missing of others existing in former years was largely avoided. However, because some organizations and individuals would not cooperate in the united effort, there was some duplication. In one case, for example, the men delivering baskets for the Christmas Committee found two other baskets already delivered from non-cooperating groups. If all will cooperate this year, such experiences can be avoided.

The aim of the Christmas Committee is two-fold primarily. First, an effort to eliminate all duplication; second, an effort to see that each and every child who would otherwise not receive Christmas gifts would be served. One of the first steps must be to prepare lists of families and children involved with age and sex indicated. The Committee invites organizations and individuals to send in names for this list. All such families will be duly investigated.

Later organizations and individuals can cooperate in one or more of several ways—by gifts of money, supplies or toys; by agreeing to take care of one or more families either securing the families from the list investigated by the Committee, or at least reporting to the Committee the names of any families they intend to help; by working with the central Committee in investigating families, preparing baskets and packages.

Last year the Committee received a total of $143 but this is not nearly sufficient to give worthwhile toys to as many children, even when many organizations and individuals took care of families and children independently. It is hoped this year to have at least $200 and this is an excellent time for organizations and individuals to turn in pledges or actual cash to the Committee. The sooner this is done the better able the Committee will be to do a good job.

Already there is indication of helpfulness. The Avon Park Firemen put on an entertainment some time ago, and now have $100 to be used in purchasing toys and have promised to cooperate in every way possible. Mr. T. J. Ward, owner of Ward's 5-10 & 25c Store has promised a considerable number of new toys. Several organizations including the American Legion, P. T. A., Rebeccas, Women's Club, have consulted the Committee asking how they might best help. We are certain this excellent helpful spirit will be duplicated by many others.

The Christmas Committee as appointed last year and with the understanding they would continue through the 1949 season includes the following members: Mrs. Charles Shepherd, Mrs. Edwin Carter, Mrs. A. C. Wester, Mrs. Helen Harris, Mrs. Walter Dickson, and Rev. John E. Pickens. Others will be added at once, but any of the above will be happy to hear from those who want to help. Let's make this a truly Merry Christmas for everyone.

C. Parke Anderson Re-elected President of Soil Conservation

C. Park Anderson

by
HIRAM L. SWAIN

The Highlands Soil Conservation District is honored in having its own president re-elected as State President of the Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors. The Association has made rapid progress under the leadership of Mr. Anderson.

The State Presidency which Mr. Anderson has accepted is an unpaid job that requires a great deal of time and energy. Mr. Anderson has given unstintingly of his time and energy in the administration of this progressive organization.

The State Association under the leadership of Mr. Anderson has entered into several memorandums of understanding with other related groups. The purpose of these memorandums of understanding is to insure a better coordination of all agricultural and other groups in the state as related to Soil and Water Conservation.

The District Nursery plots at Lorida and Hendricks Field are doing fine. The nursery plots were planted to insure a source of planting material to cooperators in the District. We know that the grass growing in these plots are of high nutritive values as it has been most difficult in keeping cattle in the two areas from eating it up. The District is hoping that the owners of these cattle will keep them off the District Nursery plots.

Two applications for Soil Conservation Plans were turned in this week—M. R. Dopler, 15,000 acres, Gordon Albritton, 800 acres.

OLD SETTLERS DAY

by Eliot Walden

October 12th may be just another day on the calendar to a lot of people, then to another group it will mean a great celebration for the discoverer of America, Christopher Columbus, but to a very particular group in Avon Park it will mean a day of grand reunions and a day for reminiscing. It is Old Settler's Day.

Avon Park Old Settler's Association is an organization, founded in 1945, by an earnest group of "Old Settler's,' whose incentive for its inception was "The Object of the Club shall be to [illegible] history, as interesting events occur from year to year to provide, by an annual meeting, the place for Old Settlers to gather and exchange reminiscences", this is from their charter.

Already there is a current of excitement stirring as preparations are being made for the annual meeting on October 12th, 1949 at Donaldson Park, a most appropriate meeting place in as much as the Park was named for Mr. C. S. Donaldson, formerly Mayor of Avon Park, who made possible the beautiful botonical array on the Mall and an active member of the Old Settlers Association.

Over two hundred invitations are to be sent out this year for the affair and a big turnout is anticipated. Mrs. May Walden who was one of the first to start the organization, together with Mrs. J. R. Bennett, Secretary, and Mrs. Cora Wray, Treasurer are working to get all mailing lists up to date, so that no name will be omitted. Also personal contact is being made whenever possible. It is the desire of all of the officers to make this a memorable day in the organization and in Avon Park.

Mr. Byrum Shockley, Historian is preparing a paper, which will be read at the meeting. This will be his third in the series which he is preparing on Avon Park.

A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon, each member who can bringing something for the table, which will be spread picnic style under the covering at Donaldson Park.

Avon Park's youngsters will have to give way to Avon Park's oldster for the day. The informal get-to-gether will undoubtedly bring forth much information of the original founding and many interesting facts of Avon Park from those who have had much to do with the early organization of one of the cultural centers of Florida. The name Avon Park was given this settlement by its English founders, after Stratford on Avon, the birthplace of William Shakespeare. There is much tradition and interesting background which has always been upheld by these descendants of the original settlers. There are many [illegible] names and [illegible] living in the [illegible] City.

It is a hope, that from the present meeting, there will arise the beginning of a series of articles and anecdotes by the old timers of all times, which should be of interest to every Avon Park resident.

There are in Avon Park today many who are eligible for membership in the Old Settlers Association and it is a desire that an interest will be stimulated to bring many new members to the club. The main requisite for application is a residence of twenty years or more in Avon Park. There are no dues in the Association. The officers Mr. Cyril Baldwin, President; Mrs. J. R. Bennet, Secretary; Mrs. Cora Wray, Treasurer or the organizations founder, Mrs. May Walden will be glad to receive applications.

Several local merchants have already expressed an interest in the day and several very nice prizes have already been offered by Avon Gardens Florist owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Curris, Wards Department Store, and by Jordon & Son, Jewelers.

A partial list of prominent names from past meetings and of Old Settlers and of early families, still living in Avon Park is given herewith. It is hoped that any ommissions will be called to the attention of the officers at once that next weeks complete final preparation story will have those names to add.

Mrs. May Walden, Mrs. Cora Wray, Mrs. Caroline Good, Mrs. Mildred Wray Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Noland, Mrs. Clara Davidson, Mr. W. H. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. Rex A. Reed, Mrs. Pearl Spink, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Welch, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Wolff, Mrs. L. H. Park, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Red Devil Pow-Wow

by PAT LAGONI

Things are really stirring at the big yellow schoolhouse this week, with our football season opening Friday, the 30th, against Auburndale. The Red Devils are in tiptop shape and rearing to go.

The cheerleaders have been practicing some new yells and are really hoping for a lot of help in giving the boys the support they deserve. They'll be out there playing their very best for the honor of Avon Park, so the least we can do is to let them know we're right behind them. Let's have a big turnout Friday and let them know we're there.

Football may be the main topic for the week, but there are many more interesting activities which are keeping us busy. More of the clubs mentioned last week have chosen their officers. The Devil's Club officers are: Levon Landress, President; Harold Barker, Vice President; Anne Palmer, Secretary and Joyce Bassmore, Treasurer. The Ecowasin Dramatics club has chosen the following: Helen Knowles, President; Judy Wright, Vice President; Virginia Norris, Secretary; Beth Suggs, Treasurer; Jane Suggs, Reporter. Officers of the Senior High Glee Club are: Richard Landress, President; and Geraldine Elder, Secretary-Treasurer.

The Devil's Chatter staff is working hard, trying to produce their first issue of the school paper next Wednesday, October 5th. The staff have been selling subscriptions for the past 2½ weeks and are hoping that a lot of the pupils and citizens of Avon Park will buy a subscription and enjoy our paper.

[illegible] Remember, let's support our football team, not only in the opening game, but throughout the season.

CITY TO BE COMMENDED

During a few hours that the employees could spare the City of Avon Park had their outside employees go in a body and clean up the Bougainvillea Cemetery. The Junior Chamber of Commerce had just given it a new face lifting when the hurricane came along and blew down branches and undid a lot of work that was done, and in such [illegible] time.

A city truck and a few city employees went out and cleaned up the debris making the cemetery once again a thing of beauty, of which Avon Park can be proud.

Red Cross Disaster Relief To Close Friday Noon

The American Red Cross Disaster Relief Headquarters in Avon Park will close Friday noon it was announced here today by Mrs. Margaret Furman. The Highlands County Office for Disaster Relief at 14 West Center St., Sebring, will close Tuesday, October 4.

So far, 87 family cases have been closed. The workers expect to close the remaining 70 cases by Tuesday.

Arthur Sires 80, Enjoys Long Trip

Arthur Sires and C. Victor Smith, who left Avon Park July 7, returned on Sunday night reporting a wonderful trip.

Upon leaving here in July they motored with Mr. Smith, driving to Milwaukee where they visited with Mr. Sires niece, Mrs. Ethel Kimple, from there visited his neice and nephew in Superior on to Elysian, Minn., where he was born in 1869, there and also in Lexington, he located and visited with old friends and school mates. The next visit was to Blue Earth, near the Iowa boarder, then to Osakis and to Alexandria, Minn., from there to [illegible], Gleason and Richland Center, Wisc., and back to Milwaukee. On the return trip to Avon Park they visited with Mr. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Charles [illegible] in Morganton, N. C., and on to Avon Park [illegible] here Sunday night, Sept. [illegible].

Celebrated Artists To Be Presented Locally

The Highlands County Community Concert Association plans four outstanding musical attractions for their 1949-50 season, one or more to be presented in the Avon Park auditorium.

Encouraged by their successful initial season of last year when five hundred and twenty memberships were sold in six days, the organization plans with an earlier start and added experience to increase the membership to eight hundred.

This will enable them to present a minimum of four programs instead of the three of the previous season.

Community Concert Service was inaugurated in Chicago in 1925. Organized audiences have attracted the attention of the whole musical world and it's popularity has grown [illegible] throughout the years until there are over a [illegible] Community Concert [illegible] in [illegible] thousand towns in the [illegible] States [illegible] Hall in [illegible].

Another Sarajevo?

SHORTLY AFTER the end of World War I this writer stood beside a cracked piece of pavement on the main street of Sarajevo, Yugoslavia. The crack marked the place where a bomb, thrown at the Archduke Franz Ferdinand on June 28, 1914, had touched off the bloodiest war so far seen by man.

The bomb had been thrown seven years before I, then a young reconstruction worker in the Balkans, visited Sarajevo; yet in those seven years the cracked pavement had not been repaired. Reconstruction moves slow in the Balkans, thought I—at that time being a very young idealist—but it moves sure. Never again would war come to sick and weary Europe.

Well, another war did come; and today events are shaping up in those same, tired but turbulent Balkans which could bring still another Sarajevo almost over night.

Should Tito be assassinated, should the Red army divisions on the Hungarian - Yugoslav border start south, should revolt flare in Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, then war might come all over again. And war in Europe has a habit of being contagious.

Danger vs. Hope

Yet with all its dynamite-laden danger, the Balkan situation also presents one of the most optimistic developments in the cold war against Russia. For, to date, Russia has suffered serious defeats. [illegible] three phases to the [illegible], one laid in Washington, one in Yugoslavia, one in [illegible] satellite countries. Here they stack up:

[illegible] 1—Washington: [illegible] the [illegible] has been doing [illegible] job of [illegible] trade [illegible] satellite countries. [illegible] dollars worth of [illegible] by Poland and [illegible] are on New York [illegible] to move. But they [illegible].

[illegible] has been [illegible] state department [illegible] to the commerce department [illegible] again. All he [illegible]. The [illegible] export [illegible] commerce [illegible] by [illegible].

[illegible] is so costly [illegible]. It's [illegible] and [illegible]. And it's having [illegible] behind the [illegible].

[illegible] 2—Behind the [illegible] economic chaos [illegible] in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania. This is partly a result of the U. S. trade boycott. People have money but they can't buy.

In addition, farmers are revolting at collectivization, national pride is coming to the front, and people generally don't like their Russian masters.

Tito's Spies

Also, Tito, formerly an NKVD operator trained by the Soviet, is now using NVKD methods against the Soviet, not merely in Yugoslavia, but in all the satellite countries. He has about as many underground agents in Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania as Moscow has working against him.

Should this network of undercover revolt start popping, it may start a chain reaction throughout all eastern Europe.

SITUATION 3—Yugoslavia: Tito has had 30 million dollars in gold salted away in Portugal. He now has withdrawn five million dollars to finance revolts in other satellite countries. Once disliked by the Serbs, Tito is now their hero, thanks to opposing Moscow's farm collectivization. In fact, Tito, still a staunch Communist, is stronger at home than ever, could not be kicked out of office, can only be removed by assassination.

So far, Moscow has tried the latter course—and much more frequently than has leaked to the press. Apparently Stalin, worried over what goes on in the other satellite countries, doesn't want to risk open war with their friend Yugoslavia.

Through U. S. eyes—If the Red army should cross the Yugoslav border, U. S. military experts believe Tito's troops can hold out about three months.

To bolster Yugoslavia's defense, the United States has enough arms to supply four divisions stored on the British island of Malta. They could be rushed to the Dalmatian coast in a hurry.

U. S. worry—Should Yugoslavia fall completely to Moscow, then Greece, according to U. S. experts, would soon go Communist. They point out that it was not until Tito cut off supplies to the Greek guerrillas that the Greek army made any real progress in cleaning up the Communists.

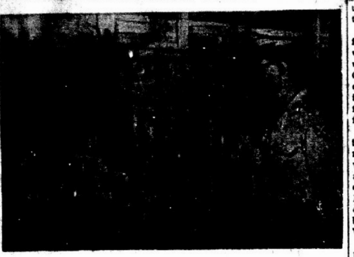
U.S. Crops at Near-Record Peak; Lewis Hints at Coal Mine Strike; Steel Industry Resists Wage Hike

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)



SUPERCILIOUS SWINE UNIMPRESSED BY GI—Nominated for honors as swinedom's most snooty member, this porker at Ohayama, Japan, is entirely unimpressed as Pfc. Joe McClendon, Modesto, Calif., uses an aspirator to capture disease-bearing mosquitoes in a house at Ohayama. The GI's not-too-happy look is probably inspired by the realization that a hog with such a supercilious appearance might quickly instill an inferiority complex in any human being who gazed too long.

U.S. CROPS:

Near Record

Marshall plan countries, nations everywhere sharing in the largesse of Uncle Sam, would rejoice at the news that the 1949 U. S. crop forecast indicated a near-record volume. So rosy was the picture that experts held that this year's farm production would almost approximate 1948's record output.

REPORTING this, the U. S. department of agriculture said that if the crop did not top all records, it certainly would be second only to last year's figures. Since the growing season for most crops was practically over, there was little likelihood in any change in the crop forecast.

Corn, especially, was abundant, with this crop almost certain to result in some sort of controls on surpluses. The prediction for the corn crop was 3.5 billion bushels, only 2.5 per cent below last year's record, but 27 per cent above average. The new figure was only about 13 million bushels less than the forecast of a month ago.

It was believed that a corn crop of this size was virtually certain to lead the government to invoke production controls on the 1950 crop in a move to prevent accumulation of a burdensome surplus. As a consequence, corn from this year's crop is expected to move into government hands under price-support programs to join the more than 400 million bushels remaining there from the 1948 crop.

NO OFFICIAL decision on corn was likely, however, until after the October crop estimate.

The agriculture department's wheat crop estimate of nearly 1.25 billion bushels was virtually unchanged from a month previous. This would make it the fourth largest wheat crop on record. Also among the relatively large crops were rice, tree nuts, soybeans, grapes, cotton, flaxseed, sorghum grain, dried beans, sugar cane and cherries.

Relax, Fellows

All was serene, at least for the moment, between the American army and the American air force. The army apologized and thus ended a "battle" crisis growing out of the army's challenge of an air force claim that a mythical "enemy" armored force had been wiped out in war games in Germany.

The air force general in command, after the army blast at his claims, had threatened to pick up his planes and go home from the maneuvers.

Then the army admitted the air force was right, with the commanding general apologizing for the inability of his ground-forces umpire to assess properly the sudden strikes by the air force.

RELIGION:

15 Priests Held

Charging the church with using an underground communications network, the Communist government in Czechoslovakia arrested priests in an effort, it said, to smash the organization.

THERE were indications that despite the arrests, the system was still working because it was needed by the church to maintain contact between its priests and their bishops.

As a point in proof of the continued operation of the system, it was pointed out that parish priests still are sending in declarations to the government that they would rather go to jail than obey a new church-control bill which the Communists proposed to enact.

PRIESTS who have been sending in these declarations say they will never accept appointment from anyone except their freely-acting church superiors.

The church has demanded that the government call off its war against the clergy if it wants to enter into any new negotiations for an agreement as to the role of church and state in the governmental setup.

COAL:

Lewis Sputters

In the North, trees were showing the first sparks of autumnal color. In the West, snow already had fallen in one state. Fall was in the air and the crisp sharpness, the thinning sunlight all indicated the time was right.

And up in his wont, John L. Lewis knew it. The United Mine Workers' chief was threatening coal strike—and at a time when the threat would be most effective.

BUT AS USUAL, his threat was based apparently upon the highest ideals. There was no question of higher wages or shorter working hours. Instead, Lewis charged that southern coal operators had bled the union's welfare fund white by withholding payments.

Lewis did not mention the word "strike," but he said a continuation of the default in payments might cause "reactions deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry."

However, everybody on the sidelines in Washington construed that statement to hold a strike threat. The National Coal association advised its members that Lewis' language was a "direct threat" and added:

"No mention is made of the fact that there is no contract and no agreement to pay. . . ."

STEEL:

4th Round Unsure

Unless the situation changed drastically, there would be no fourth-round wage increase for the nation's steelworkers. Almost on the eve of the strike call, the CIO-United Steelworkers union gave up its fight for a wage hike, and called off the strike.

THE million-member union accepted both President Truman's recommendation for an extension of the strike truce and recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board aimed at solving the steel-wage dispute.

Philip Murray, union boss, told the President in a telegram that he gave up the wage increase demand "with profound regret," but agreed to the board's recommendations "in the interest of concluding a prompt settlement."

Six of the nation's major steel producers accepted the truce extension request, but no company had given an answer on the board's formula.

PRESENT FARM AID DEFENDED

Aitken Claims Wheat, Cotton Props High

According to Senator Aitken (R., Vt.), present farm aid law provides for high price props for wheat and cotton and he declared that anyone who contends otherwise is guilty of misrepresentation.

The senator was defending the flexible farm-support law he helped write in the preceding congress and which bears his name. Barring new farm-aid legislation, the Aitken law would become effective next January 1.

He said he thought the law requires that in 1950 support of wheat and cotton prices be at 80 to 90 per cent of parity. He called this a "far cry from the misrepresentation of those who tell wheat and cotton growers that they will get only 60 per cent under the 1948 act."

FINANCE:

Advice to British

If the British got nothing else out of the Washington conference on the island's financial crisis, they had received a lot of advice.

That they were not too prone to take it was evidenced by British comment in the homeland and hints by Washington newsmen that the British monetary delegation was peeved at the way U. S. treasury chief John Snyder was bossing the show.

WITH bland disregard for the fact, British comment in London was to the effect that Uncle Sam was playing England for a sucker. On the other hand, there was much criticism in the U. S. that the British had nothing but their own yen for the labor government to blame for their financial plight.

In the midst of the clamor, one thing appeared to be distinct; The major forces in U. S. agencies which might help the British were agreed that devaluation of currency was the immediate answer to Europe's financial problems. Snyder believes that, and he has been backed up by the opinion of the World Bank and Monetary Fund.

EUGENE BLACK, American president of the 48-nation World Bank, summed it up neatly. He said:

"I do not underestimate either the complexities or the far-reaching consequences of such action (devaluation), but I fail to see how it can be avoided."

SECURITY:

Cost Rising

An increase in the cost of social security to about 15 billion dollars by 1960, and possibly more than 30 billion by the year 2000, would be the net effect to American taxpayers if congress would pass the pending proposals to expand our present system.

THIS ESTIMATE was made by the Research Council for Economic Security, a Chicago organization, in a study entitled Estimated Cost of Social Security Expansion. Cost estimates are based upon the estimated population and mortality rates for future years. No allowances for variations in wage or price levels has been made.

The expanded program, all of which has been given consideration in the 81st congress, consists of four parts:

1. Increase in old age and survivors insurance benefits and coverage.
2. The introduction of a new concept in federal social insurance, namely, compensation for temporary and permanent disability.
3. An expansion in federal public assistance payments.
4. Adoption of a national compulsory insurance system.

"THE COST in terms of taxable payrolls," the council points out, "ranges from 9.7 per cent to 11.4 per cent in 1960, depending upon low-cost or high-cost estimate. For the year 2000, the estimate ranges from 13.3 per cent to 18.8 per cent of taxable payrolls.

WORLD SERIES:

Video at Movies

Everything, someone has observed, happens in Brooklyn. What was slated to happen in Brooklyn this fall would engage the interest of every baseball fan in the nation.

FOR, at a Brooklyn theater, all the World Series baseball games were to be shown, via television, on the theater's movie screen.

True, it was an experimental project for which the theater-owner reportedly paid $10,000; but other theaters had shown some interest in the plan, and it had the endorsement of A. B. "Happy" Chandler, baseball's high commissioner.

UNUSUAL NUPTIALS . . . In a ceremony lawful only in Rhode Island, Rabbi Morris G. Silk (right) unites Mendel Rosenblum and his niece, Mrs. Regina Poftstrong, in Providence. Right Pattern Use Helps You Fashion-Wise

By Ertta Haley

IF YOU'RE hard to fit, if you want to be fashionably dressed and if you want to save money on clothes, the best thing to do is to make friends with paper patterns. Though your material may cost $7, it's easy enough to make it into a dress worth three times that amount with the proper styling and workmanship.

Like buying a dress, selecting the proper pattern and material which goes with it, the case requires some study. However, the study is fascinating since you are the subject, and the grade you make is a ticket to the group who knows how to dress.

You'll have to study not only the patterns themselves, but also fashion trends and your own personality and figure problems. To do the best job, select a pattern whose style will do something for you, just as certain dresses will bring out or mask figures.

Dresses for teen-agers may appeal to many of the older women, but it must be remembered that the charm lies in their youthfulness. They would appear ludicrous on a woman, who may still be a size 14, but is three times past the age.

Dramatic dresses and suits look fine if you're the type, but if you aren't, why not choose something more appropriate like a simple tailored style or a softly feminine one?

Let's suppose that you have studied to the point where you can choose the proper style. The next important error not to make is the selection of the improper fabric for the pattern.

Maybe you have a soft, flowered print which you have in mind to use for a dress. If you've chosen a tailored type of pattern, however, that soft material won't form the nice, sharp edges, pleats or other tailored lines required and the dress will not be successful.

Select patterns for your type . . .

Softly draped dresses cannot be made from stiff materials that simply will not drape and which are meant for the tailored type of clothes.

With the fabric picture so much improved over the past several years, there should be little difficulty in selecting or obtaining the one you need and want, as well as all the colors you could desire. The main thing is to put suitable pattern and the right fabric together.

Dotted Velveteen

Polka dots are importantly featured for fall by Carolyn Schnurer in this youthful fashion. She selects black polka dots on mustard colored velveteen for a snug-fitting jacket trimmed with a velveteen collar and matching skirt.

Choose Patterns To Fit Needs

You wouldn't think of going into a store and buying an evening gown or fancy dress for which you had no use, simply because it looked so nice, would you? A lot of women, when turned loose with patterns and ideas that they can be made less expensively than ready-made clothes, feel they can make up all sorts of clothing, use or no use.

Before selecting a pattern stop to consider whether the garment has a place in your wardrobe. Don't consider just the pattern, but how it will be used, as well as how it fits your own individual needs.

With individual measurements.

Fancy blouses may be beautiful things, but if you're going to wear them in a business office, wouldn't it be more fitting to choose something tailored?

If you're choosing dresses for wear around the house, select something that is comfortable as well as pretty, in addition to something you won't have to be forever laundering, ironing and mending.

Many women will try a pattern and give up in discouragement before they finish. Why? The pattern may look deceptively simple but carries a lot of fine detailing that the inexperienced just simply can't cope with. If you're not certain of how you can determine these things, consult the clerk or take along a friend who knows about patterns.

One reason why patterns have become so popular is that many women have found their use a perfect solution to the fitting problem. The size you need in a dress is the size you will need in the pattern, but the best way to decide the size is to take measurements and then compare them with those given for the pattern.

Be Smart!

Feathers, but no fuss, just smart, smooth-flowing simplicity instead! These are the earmark of the new fashion picture for Fall. Sketched here is the very personification of this spirit from a current collection. The brim is a veritable saucer of black velvet, highlighted by a velvet ribbon of emerald green. White coq feathers arranged on a flowing line add the newest touch of all.

KATHLEEN NORRIS

No, Chastity Is Not Obsolete

IT IS DISTINCTLY disheartening to find, prominently featured in a current magazine, an article by no less an authority than Doctor David Mace of Drew university, provocatively entitled "Is Chastity Outmoded?"

Disheartening, because it seems to me dishonest to so title an article that, after flirting about suggestively among alternatives to adolescent and youthful chastity, Doctor Mace comes down to the old code, comes down rigidly and idealistically; sex, he decides, must be lifted to a high level, must wait for maturity and marriage, and be sublimated into true mated love, the highest happiness man and woman can know.

We've been patiently preaching that, we mothers, teachers, guides, so that, in the end, we have no quarrel with Doctor Mace. But we certainly can feel small respect for the man who indicates in his title that chastity is debatable and is careful to remind young and impressionable readers that there are several schools of thought on the subject.

Religious Scruples

He eliminates those of us whose religious scruples keep us pure. He also eliminates from his analysis—for despite the high moral tone he develops, it is an analysis—those who consider chastity highly inconvenient and whose policy is to do as they like.

This leaves, he says "the extremely large third group that lies between." Those who "try to add up the arguments on both sides."

Doctor Mace states that the traditional viewpoint is that unchastity is undesirable because of its effects on the individual, in terms of disease, unwanted children and the damage it may do to the community, making family life and society unstable.

. . . religious scruples keep us pure . . .

On the other hand, he admits there is the argument that "to suppress sex desires makes people frustrated and bottled up. To express them leads to growth and enlargement of the personality." Later, "while in the past full sexual freedom was impractical because of the danger of venereal disease and illegitimacy, medical science has now changed all that.

"Any intelligent youth," says the doctor in the next sentence, "will tell you that the doctors have got V. D. licked." And later again, "the man at least can take measures to protect himself. For the woman, safeguards are not so easily available." But if protective measures fail, both social diseases can be cured, he observes.

Choice Of Three

Immunity, however, cannot be guaranteed. "The boy and girl who come together sexually, must face the possibility of pregnancy. If it occurs," says the doctor ungrammatically, "they have three alternatives, a forced marriage, an abortion or an illegitimate child."

He admits these are negative arguments for chastity. But he feels that the future may see them weakened, or even entirely neutralized. "Someday," he says, "venereal disease may be stamped out and a completely reliable contraceptive put at everyone's disposal. Will chastity be outmoded then?"

Doctor Mace goes on to a "critical question." At what point is it appropriate for a young couple to have sexual relations when their intention is to marry? As soon as they know they are serious in the intention to marry, or not until they actually are wed?

On this point, says the doctor, there is a strong difference of opinion. How can they know that they are sexually well matched unless they test out this side of their relationship in advance?

And anxious to be fair to this argument, he cites the case of a man who could not decide between two women whom he regarded as possible wives. It may be satisfactory to the doctor for them to "test" for compatibility.

Nothing is said of the degradation of the women who submitted to his "process," of the insolent stupidity of the man experimenter, or of the insult offered all decent women who read this article.

But in the end, after some confused floundering, Doctor Mace comes gravely and decorously to the conclusion that "the whole trend of expert opinion today is toward regarding sexual harmony as a function of good personal interaction."

This is a scientific way of saying they are humans.

He also says poetically that "given love and sexual normality, sex is the servant of love, and must be made to do its bidding." If that means anything.

The article ends upon an idealistic note. "What we need," says Doctor Mace, "is a new ideal of chastity, as a discipline gladly accepted so that human love can be kept warm and tender and unsullied."

This is a new ideal to you, Doctor? But you do a great many good mothers and fathers and teachers injustice if you call it new.

Berlin Brownies Take Odd Jobs

Work to Get Funds To Attend School

BERLIN.—Would you like a handsome young man to take care of a wallflower at your birthday party? Or a girl for baby-sitting? Or somebody to clean your rugs?

Just call the Brownies (Heinzelmaennchen) of West Berlin. For 36 cents an hour, they'll tackle any odd job anybody wants done.

The Brownies are a tradition of the city of Cologne. Hundreds of years ago, the story goes, the helpful little spirits made life a pleasure for the people. They did all the work while the city folk were asleep. Then a curious shoemaker's wife, who wanted to see what the Brownies looked like, frightened them away.

They never appeared again—until 1949. Right now there are about 460 "Brownies" officially registered in Berlin—students who have to earn extra money so they can attend West Berlin's free university.

Chief Brownie (Oberheinzelmann) Ulrich Heckert, 24, a student of medicine, started the enterprise. With money he had collected from public-spirited citizens, he launched an extensive advertising campaign to let Berliners know the Brownies had come back.

The Brownies had 1,400 work hours in the first month. Four months later they had 4,200. But that still wasn't enough. At best it averaged about 10 hours a month a student and a net income, after deductions for administrative expenses, of nine West marks ($2.70).

Nevertheless, Chief Brownie Heckert says he is quite happy about the increasing number of orders for student services. His fiancee, Ingeborg Janecke, 23, a photographer by training, is the Brownies' office secretary.

"Each student is paid 1.2 West marks (36 cents) an hour." She explained, "no matter what kind of work he does. The student keeps 95 pfennigs and 25 pfennigs go into the funds from which we pay the advertising, office rent, telephone bills, accident insurance and so on."

Trouble Comes in Packages

By Will Bernard, LL.B.

Is it Negligence To Carry Packages that Obstruct Your View?

A housewife bought several bulky articles in a market, and then began to leave. Her packages partly blocked her view, so she stepped along as carefully as she could. But just as she was going out the door, she unwittingly put her foot down on a leaf of cabbage. Up went the foot — down went the woman! Injured, she sued the store for not keeping the floors safe. At the trial, the company argued that she herself was negligent for carrying packages that interfered with her vision. But the court brushed aside that argument and granted the woman's claim. The judge figured that a person needn't be as careful in a market as on a street corner!

Fire swept a small brick building, leaving only a few walls still standing. A few days later an inquisitive youngster, armed with a stick, began poking around in the ruins. Suddenly one wall collapsed right near the boy. He escaped with only minor injuries, but nevertheless brought a damage suit against the owner of the building. However, the court turned down his petition. The judge said that, since the owner had not invited the youngster onto the premises, the boy had to take it.

A man injured his arm while working in a lumber yard, and had to stay in bed for several weeks. During this time, his wife cared for him faithfully and did her best to keep him comfortable. Later, when the man put in his claim for workmen's compensation, he asked for an extra amount for behalf of his wife — for the services she had rendered. However, the court decided this was asking too much. Rejecting the wife's claim, the judge said that a woman shouldn't expect payment for doing her duty!

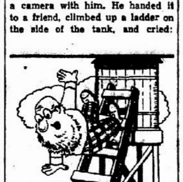
If A Workman Falls Off A Water Tank, May He Collect Compensation?

During lunch hour, the employees of a tool factory used to gather around an old water tank on the roof. One day, a mechanic brought a camera with him. He handed it to a friend, climbed up a ladder on the side of the tank, and cried:



"OK, take my picture!" But just then the ladder gave way and the mechanic fell down onto the rooftop. Seriously injured, he later tried to collect workmen's compensation. However, the court ruled that he wasn't entitled to it. The judge said that climbing the tank was not part of the job.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Heartlessness Is a Danger

By Lawrence Gould

Can a heartless person win your affection?

Answer: Certainly, if he (or she) is clever enough. It is easier in some ways to win the affection of someone whom you care nothing about than of someone you are genuinely fond of, since wanting intensely to have someone like—or love—you may make you feel tense and awkward with him. There are egotists who gratify their vanity by "turning on the charm" until they're sure you like them and then have no further interest in you. But you're better off than they are in the long run since a person who cannot be hurt cannot be happy, either.

Is a child who has imaginary playmates "strange"?

Answer: He's apt to turn out more nearly normal than the average, writes Dr. Robert C. Wingfield, well-known psychologist, in the Journal of Child Psychiatry. Dr. Wingfield tells of tests given to 220 college women freshmen, 67 of whom recalled as small girls having playmates who existed only in their own imaginations. Compared with the average of the whole group, these students showed less neuroticism, less introversion, more skill in personal relations and a greater degree of confidence in themselves.

Can you know a person you haven't lived with?

Answer: You can never "know all about" anybody under any circumstances, any more than you can absolutely know yourself, and however long you may live with another person, you are never wholly safe against surprises. But day-by-day contact usually does reveal sides of anyone's personality which may not appear if you see him only occasionally. It's not just a case of his being on his best behavior when he's with you; it's that when we are "off guard" (for instance, at the breakfast table) that we are prone to unconscious self-revelation.

Another Cure for Alcoholism

By Dr. James W. Barton

ALL OVER THE WORLD today determined efforts are being made by individuals and organizations to cure and prevent alcoholism. Alcoholism not only ruins the life of the alcoholic but ruins the life also of his or her family.

I have spoken before of the excellent work being done by Alcoholics Anomymous, a group made up of cured and not entirely cured alcoholics. These men and women lean on, or pray to, a higher power than themselves and ask to be given the strength to abstain from alcohol just one day at a time. The cured by this organization with branches everywhere is estimated at nearly 90 per cent.

I have also mentioned the drug benzedrine sulfate (amphetamine) which not only takes away the desire for alcohol, but gives the patient a boost physically and mentally that tides him over a weak speel or hangover.

A drug, accidentally discovered by two Danish physicians, that takes away the desire for alcohol is called antabus. In the "Journal of the American Medical Association," Drs. Erik Jacobsen and O. Martensen-Larsen, Copenhagen, Denmark, report the results obtained by antabus in 580 cases up to December, 1948.

Cases were treated in open wards in hospitals and were allowed to pay short visits to their offices and homes.

"It is important for rapid mental ands ocial restoration to bring patients back into their ordinary lives as soon as possible, so that they may learn to live non-alcoholic lives among normal drinkers.

"Antabus is cheap and easy to administer, but it is also easy for the patient to discontinue treatment thinking he can stop drinking again if he takes antabus again. The drug causes very disagreeable symptoms—great flushing of face, nausea, vomiting, dizziness and breathlessness.

"These symptoms are so severe that they prevent persons from taking alcohol."

The British "Lancet" states: "So far no harmful systemic effects on liver, heart, kidney or blood forming organs have been observed; nor have any untoward effects been noted."

Wingless Chickens Cause Speculation

Impact on Industry Studied by Growers

Poultrymen and consumers throughout the United States are still speculating on the degree impact on the poultry industry of the development of wingless chickens.

Peter Baumann, Des Moines, Iowa, a veterinary-supply salesman, has raised a flock of 400 such chickens and has proclaimed loudly that they are the "nearest thing" alive to famed cartoonist Al Capp's "shmoos."

Baumann said he had spent 10 years developing the wingless flock, and that he expects the breed to set a new trend in chicken raising. He pointed out that the wingless chicken has a thick layer of white meat where ordinary chickens have wings.

Baumann said he had kept his chicken breed a secret because he wanted to be sure it was a success. He studied animal husbandry at Iowa State college and asserts his wingless chickens are not a "freak." A freak does not reproduce, he argued.

For those who dislike chicken wings, Peter H. Baumann, of Des Moines, Iowa, has come up with wingless chickens. He is shown here comparing the wingless chicken (right) with an ordinary chicken (left).

The ancestors of this new breed of chicken, Baumann said, came from Texas. He was traveling through that state in the 30's when he acquired a light Brahma rooster and a white Minorca hen. Each bird had only stubs for wings.

He bred them, he said, and was astounded when the hen hatched wingless chickens. He then began experimenting and breeding.

Baumann reported that at first he got only three or four wingless birds out of 100 eggs. Now, he said, about [illegible] of every 100 chicks have no wings at all. Some of the others, he said, have stubs or a stub on one side and a wing on the other.

Eases Farm Chores

Wagon unloaders are among the latest electrical devices to be developed for farm chore use. Most types are still in the experimental stage, but many sections of the country already are using them to a large extent. In Wisconsin, for example, [illegible] per cent of the farmers who have forage harvesters also have electric wagon unloaders.

Under ordinary circumstances, a three-ton load can be handled with an electric unloader by one man in five minutes. Cost of operation is low, with power provided by a ½ horsepower portable motor which can be used on other farm machines when not connected to the unloader.

Narrow Poultry Houses Give Way to New Style

D. D. Moyer, extension poultry specialist at Ohio State university, says the narrow type poultry house 18 to 20 feet deep is giving away to houses 30 to 40 feet in depth, built long enough to house [illegible] and more birds.

Moyer cites a number of advantages in the new style housing. Wall space is cut down, heat loss reduced, cleaning is easier and it is less trouble to move equipment.

Open and Shut Case

Small steel balls have eliminated one of civilized man's perennial banes—the drawer that will not open or close. As many as 60 of the small spheres now are used in standard four-drawer office filing cabinets, according to SKF.

Why Do They Want to Put A&P Out of Business?

The answer is to be found in the formal complaint "they" have filed with the court.

By "they" we mean, of course, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington who are out to destroy A&P.

They say . . . and these are the anti-trust lawyers' own words . . . that we "have regularly undersold competing retailers."

To this charge we plead guilty:

We confess that for the past 90 years we have constantly stepped up the efficiency of our operations in order to give our customers more and more good food for their money.

The American people have seen nothing wrong in this. By their ever-increasing patronage for 90 years they have shown that they like this low-price policy.

Apparently the people still see nothing wrong in this today. All during the past week – since the anti-trust lawyers made their charges – we have been deluged with phone calls and letters from men and women in all walks of life who want us to know they are opposed to this effort to put A&P out of business.

An enormous number of customers are telling our store managers and clerks that they want to continue to enjoy our low prices for quality foods.

Farmers and other suppliers are asking what they can do to preserve this efficient outlet for their products.

Our 110,000 employees are asking us to protect their jobs and pensions.

Labor leaders are wiring us their opposition to this threat to labor's living standards.

If all these people will be hurt, why then do the anti-trust lawyers want to put A&P out of business?

Low Prices Don't Hurt Anyone

The anti-trust lawyers say because we are able to sell food cheaper than other grocers, we make it impossible for those grocers to compete with us.

If this were true, we should have all the food business in the United States by this time.

Just the opposite is true. In 1933 we had 11.6 per cent of the nation's food business. Now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, our share has decreased to 6.4 per cent in 1948. Anyone can see we have nothing even approaching a monopoly.

As a matter of fact, there are about 30,000 more individual grocers in business today than there were ten years ago.

There are about 275 more food chains in business today than there were ten years ago.

In other words, we have more competitors in the food field and do a smaller share of the nation's food business than before.

Where is this alleged destruction of other grocers? Where is there any evidence of their inability to compete with us?

Do You Want Higher Prices?

As anyone can see, the only purpose that would be served by putting A&P out of business would be to raise food prices.

Who would this benefit?

We were the first merchants to set the pattern for low-cost, low-profit distribution. Our example and our competition has led other grocers to keep their prices down.

Remove A&P from the picture and food prices are bound to go up.

Remove A&P from the picture and the way will be cleared for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Is this what the American people want?

Is this in the public interest?

Increase In County For Work Permits

Highlands County showed an increase of only seven work permits for minors under 18 for July, August and part of September, bringing the county total with permits to approximately 68, according to the latest reports of the Florida Industrial Commission.

Employers with minors are required by the Florida Child Labor Law to have permits prior to the employment of a minor. More attention is to be shown to those parts of the law concerning youths working during school hours now that school has reopened.

Employers who do not have certificates for minors employed by them should have the youth obtain these certificates from the office of the County Board of Public Instruction. To get the permits, the young person must show proof of his age, have parental approval and promise of employment.

The law further states that each day a minor is employed illegally is a separate offense for the employer and that he may be held accountable for each of them.

Persons having youths working for them are reminded of the double compensation clause in the Workmen's Compensation Act in the event minors without the proper certificates are injured.

"While the commission is not trying to establish a record in prosecutions for child labor violations," Raymond E. Barnes, chairman, stated, "it is charged with enforcement of the provisions of the law which are designed to protect the health of young people by regulating the type and hours of employment."

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

This is being written just after my return from weekend evangelistic speaking engagements in Memphis, Tennessee. I was in Memphis in a church meeting when I was a very young man forty-four years ago. I remember how during that church campaign, the pastor urged the men to attend the services. He told me that so many of the best Christian women in his church had unconverted husbands and that they were praying for these husbands. We had a large number of converts, but most of them were women and young people. There were very few men saved. Sunday night in Memphis when we gave the invitation, there was a very large response; and there were more men than women who took a stand for the Lord Jesus Christ. This reminded me of the change I have seen take place in my lifetime. We see three or four times as many men converted now as we do women. The modern revival is a revival among men. In the old days, we used to say, "How can we reach the men?" Now we say, "How can we reach the women?" What America needs is an old-time woman revival. If the women in this country would come back to God, many millions of men would be saved.

The best thing outside of Heaven is a good woman, and the meanest thing outside of hell is a mean woman. In the sight of God, of course, the sin of man and the sin of woman is the same; and any sin that sends a man to hell will send a woman to hell. But as far as world consequences are concerned, it is worse for women to sin than it is for men to sin. As a matter of fact, women are always better or worse than men. They have more soul. They have more heart. They have a way of more completely abandoning themselves to the causes with which they are identified. They are usually out and out if they are out and out for the right thing. We have heard in our lifetime hundreds of men say, "I would have gone to hell, but I just could not climb over my mother's prayers," and many hundreds have said, "I could not go to hell. I had such a good wife." Women always pull men up or pull them down. It was a woman who robber Samson of his strength. It was a woman whose voluptuous dance sent Herod to hell, and Herod is not the only man who has gone to hell because of the voluptuous dance of a woman. Paul, writing to Timothy, said in so many words, "Timothy, I know you are a good man. You had a good mother and such a good grandmother." Very often we find that great women are the daughters of great men, but nearly always great men are the sons of great women. God, give us more Christian wives, Christian mothers, and Christian girls in America.

AN APOLOGY

We wish to apologize to Mr. David Arthur Brodie, in that the following, through error, was omitted in last week's issue.

Once more it is our sad duty to report the death of two of our members, Mr. Fred Book, and Mr. G. H. Moore.

It was only yesterday that we learned that Mr. Book had passed away last week at Garrett, Ind. We were not so surprised in his case, because it was well known that he had been in poor health for a long time, and as yet, we have no particulars.

In the case of Mr. Moore, while he had not been in robust health for some time, and had recently undergone an operation, he had recovered sufficiently to be able to help repair some of the homes that had been damaged by the recent hurricane. It seems that on Saturday morning he started to repair some damage to the roof of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mitten. The weather was hot, and after a time, Mr. Mitten went up the ladder with some water to give Mr. Moore a drink, but received no answer when he called him. Mr. Mitten, it will be remembered, had recently undergone an operation on his eyes for cataracts, and could not trust himself on the roof, so he called a neighbor to investigate, who found Mr. Moore dead. The club extends its sincere sympathy to both bereaved families.

Mr. Moore was born at Deer Lake, Michigan, and was sixty nine years, seven months, and twenty four days old. A merchant by profession, for twenty years he operated a grocery store at Stepney, Conn., and was a member of the fire department there. He was a popular member of the Winter Guest Club here, and an enthusiastic shuffleboard

NOTICE TO VOTERS OF SPECIAL SCHOOL DIST. NO. 1 ELECTION OF TRUSTEES, TO BE HELD NOV. 8, 1949

Qualifications for voting are that a person will be duly registered and shall have paid tax either on real or personal property for 1948. This list of eligible voters is secured from the Supervisor of Registration. (A duly registered person is a person who is registered to vote in Highlands County General Election. Registration Books will close on October 4, 1949). I have been notified by the Supervisor of Registration that in checking tax receipts for 1948 that the receipts were made out only in the name of one party, whereas both husband and wife should be entitled to vote. Due to the fact that the tax receipts in quite a number of cases were made to one party, I suggest that all who would like to vote in this election check your tax receipts and see if the receipt is in the same name as your deed. If not, bring deed and receipt for 1948 to the Supervisor of Registration and check your eligibility to vote in Trustee Election.

PRESENT DAY ECONOMY UNDERMINES . . .
Clink of Dime Is Death Knell of Parting Era
. . . THE PROVERBIAL NICKEL PHONE CALL

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE NICKEL'S LAST STAND

AMERICAN TELEPHONE companies are experimenting with 10-cent pay stations, which abolish the proverbial 5-cent call. Even talk is to be more expensive than [illegible].

In some cities field tests are being made with new phone booth dime-a-call machines. We presume the tests have two purposes: (1) to see how the apparatus works; (2) to note how loudly the user squawks.

The telephone business "ain't" what it used to be and the companies are up against terrific costs. For all we know the nickel phone call is as economically unsound as the nickel bus fare, the nickel hot-dog and the nickel movie. But a bigger fight is likely, as the public has been brought up on the 5-cent phone call. It may even regard the telephone booth as the nickel's last stand.

It has seen the 5-cent piece replaced in most every field, but there is something about disassociating it from a phone booth that fills many a heart with anguish. One of the few things left in America at the old price is the nickel phone booth. It stands almost by itself as a place a man may enter without asking, "I wonder how prices have gone up in here since I was around last time."

There has always been something about the clink of a nickel in a phone booth that made sweet music, and of late it has conveyed unmistakably the soothing proof that there was still something in America not out of reach of a man in the lower brackets.

Even if you made the call and found your girl has just left for dinner with somebody else, it didn't seem exorbitant. But when it takes a dime to get the same news it will be something else again.

We can see the phone companies' point. There is not the money in conversation that there used to be. It costs twice as much to produce "number please" as it did 10 years ago. The companies say they are losing money on the transaction at nickel pay-station rates.

Nevertheless we look for a hot time at hearings before the public service commissions. Elmer Twitchell is among those who will be present with some novel pleas. "I may not fight the abolition of the nickel call if the figures show it is necessary," he said, "but I will demand that a 10-cent phone booth be made twice as roomy as a nickel one."

"I want it better ventilated too," he continued. "In a nickel phone booth you are practically in solitary confinement. If I pay a dime I may even demand a soft chair and maybe television."

GRACE NOLL CROWELL

WHAT shall I take into the coming year?
And what shall I leave behind? I asked my heart,
And quick came the answer: "Lay all doubt and fear
And anxious care aside before you start.
Take but life's stark necessities along:
The Word of God that you may be kept fit,
The staff of faith, the lamp of hope, a song
Of high and dauntless courage; fill your kit
With laughter, and take happiness to wear,
'Twill cloak you on the bleakest, coldest day;
And take an apple and a loaf to share
With one who may be hungry on the way.

You may grow thirsty," said my cautious heart.

Now they're saying that there couldn't have been a better man for the job. Lewis did his best, of course, but he wasn't worried; he's done too many outstanding shows of his own for that.

The father-son team of Walter and John Huston, which won three Academy awards last year, will be reunited in Horizon Pictures' next for Columbia. "Reminiscences of a Cowboy" will co-star Walter Huston and Montgomery Clift. John Huston will direct, and, following tradition, will be seen in a small part. It should be good; everything John Huston does succeeds.

FLASH OF BRILLIANCE

By Richard H. Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

CONSIDERING the fact that the necklace was valued at $50,000 and it was not insured, Mrs. Holbrook should have been upset. The fact that she wasn't astonished even her husband, for her husband knew her for an emotional, excitable person.

"But, good lord, Bess! You might at least act concerned. I paid 50 grand for that rope. Maybe you think I'm made of money."

"That," said Mrs. Holbrook, "is the point."

"Point? What point?" Mr. Holbrook was becoming irritated.

"I mean," said Bess, "that I'm not the empty-headed, irresponsible person you think me. The diamond necklace wasn't stolen. I left it back in New York—in a safety deposit box."

"You what?"

"The jewels that were stolen were imitations. I wouldn't dream of wearing the originals without having them insured."

Mr. Holbrook's mouth fell open.

"So you see," said Bess. It isn't as bad as it seems."

Rita Fenway, one of the guests, suddenly said: "But it doesn't alter the fact that there's a thief aboard. And that means we're all in danger of being robbed. And the cruise won't be over for another week."

"Of course," Mrs. Holbrook said. "And nothing could be more satisfactory. My dears, consider that we are to be on the high seas for a week. The criminal, whoever he is, will have to remain with us during that length of time. A week, my dears, will give our clever and efficient captain ample opportunity to apprehend the thief."

An hour after Mrs. Holbrook had demonstrated her hidden genius she excused herself from a group in the main lounge and unobtrusively descended to her cabin. After a moment she rang for the captain.

"Captain Talbert, my husband has undoubtedly told you about the theft and instructed you to apprehend the thief."

"Yes, ma'm. I have two of the crew making a search now."

"Instruct them to desist. It will not be necessary."

"But, Mrs. Holbrook, your husband said—"

"Never mind what my husband said. The necklace has been returned." She nodded toward a box on her dressing table.

"Returned? The imitations, you mean?"

"No. The real ones. Captain Talbert, I'm going to take you into my confidence. The story I told about the necklace being imitation was false. I've never worn false jewelry and I never shall. I merely told that story so that the thief would think his loot valueless."

CAPTAIN TALBERT'S face lighted. "And then you spoke about apprehending the criminal by searching for the imitations so that the thief would return——"

"Exactly. The imitations weren't worth keeping, and in order to dispel the possibility of having them found in his possession he decided to return them. In doing so he unintentionally returned the originals—and spared me the unpleasantness of facing my husband—alone."

Captain Talbert nodded understandingly. He knew what the word "alone" meant. He regarded Mrs. Holbrook with frank admiration. "Mrs. Holbrook, allow me to congratulate you, and please understand that you will have my fullest co-operation. After a reasonable length of time I'll announce that we have been unsuccessful in our search."

A moment later Captain Talbert went out. Left alone, Mrs. Holbrook sat down before her mirror. It had been a strain. A great strain. She sighed wearily. It was such a relief to feel that once more she could return to the role of the irresponsible spouse that her husband understood and expected.

PUZZLE NO. 18

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson

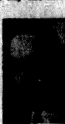
By DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Isaiah 6.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Hosea 14.

What is a Call of God?

Lesson for October 2, 1949

IF YOU knew exactly what God wanted you to do, would you do it? Of course you would. The trouble is: How does any one know what God's will is?



Dr. Foreman

For example, a young man is thinking about his life's work; what shall he choose? Most young men would do what they were sure God called them to do, but what is a call?

The story of Isaiah throws some light on this problem. (We are beginning this week a three months' study of the great prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah.) True, he lived some 2700 years ago, and half way to the other side of the world; but human nature has not changed in 2700 years.

From Man about Town To Man of God

ISAIAH was a young man about town, in the small but wealthy city of Jerusalem, about 700 years before Christ. He was a personal friend of all the important people, a man of good education, with wide horizons of interest, of independent means, eloquent, polished, the sort of man who makes a good career diplomat.

He tells in some detail the story of how he came to be a prophet. The story is in Isaiah 6. Perhaps if we had been there with a camera and a wire recorder we might have been able to photograph the seraphim and take down their cries, just as Isaiah saw and heard them.

What we do know is that that experience changed Isaiah's life. Up to that time (on his own showing) he had been a "man of unclean lips;" from that time on he began to be a spokesman for the Lord. Let us try to say what the story of that life-changing vision, that call, means in terms of our own experience.

The Flame of God

FIRST there was the overwhelming sense of God's reality and power and holy majesty. No one can ever experience a call who does not take God seriously.

A God "afar off," a God who is only a problem, an idea, a hypothesis, never called any one. God alone can make himself real to man; and only a man with a real sense of a living God is going to hear his call.

Next came Isaiah's realization of his own unfitness and sin. A man who feels equal to a great task is probably not equal to it. "Them as knows nawthin' fears nawthin'," as the Irish say. A man who feels good enough to serve God, just as he is, is not good enough. A man without a sense of sin is too full of it.

Then comes the burning coal from the altar; Isaiah feels that his guilt is gone. No one can fully do God's will with an unforgiven heart. Isaiah was not sinless at one stroke, of course, yet it is possible to turn from all known sin; it is possible to devote one's loyalty to God; and this Isaiah did.

It was only then that he heard the call: Whom shall I send? In modern and less picturesque language, Isaiah was conscious of a need he had not felt before—that is, of God's need, of his people's need.

What those needs were will come out in later studies. The point is that young Isaiah, who hitherto had lived only for himself, now saw the need of the city and the people among whom he lived.

"Here Am I; Send Me."

THEN comes the last stage—Isaiah's willing offer of himself. His great talent was the ability to use language. He could make words march and sing as few men of any race have done. But up to that time, it seems, his gift of eloquence had been used chiefly in telling dirty stories.

Now he has repented, and been forgiven, and he says to God: Use me. His voice, his knowledge, his eloquence, which he had been using against God (or at best, only for Isaiah) he was now to use for God and man.

So there is a call: A sense of God, near and commanding and holy; repentance; forgiveness; a sense of need; willingness to devote all one's gifts to fill that need.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS
by Lynn Chambers

Provide Healthy Snack For School Youngster After Busy Study Time

HOW'S your cookie jar standing up these days? Do the youngsters make a short and snappy line to your back door because they know you always have a nice handout for them? Or, is yours the home deserted by your own youngsters as well as their friends in favor of a more friendly kitchen?

Cookies are so simple to make, it's a wonder any home is without an ample supply at all times. Most recipes make several dozen cookies and they're both easy to mix and quick to bake.

The recipes chosen for today will make a hit with youngsters because they're flavorful but not too fancy.

Chewy Raisin Wafers
(Makes about 4 dozen)

- ¾ cup seedless raisins
- ½ cup shortening
- ¼ cup water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1½ cups rolled oats
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Rinse and drain raisins. Heat together raisins, shortening and water to melt shortening. Cool. Blend in flavoring, sugar, oats and nuts. Sift together flour, salt, soda and spices to blend into raisin mixture. Chill dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven 8 to 10 minutes.

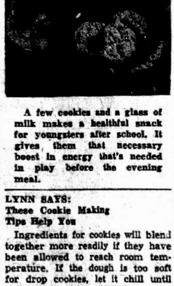
Applesauce Cookies
(Makes 6½ dozen)

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- ½ cup shortening
- ¾ cup light brown corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup canned applesauce (sweetened)
- ½ cup raisins
- ½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves. Cream shortening until smooth, then gradually blend in corn syrup and sugar. Beat until light and add egg. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with applesauce; add raisins and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on oiled sheet and bake in a moderately hot (400°) oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Honey Crisp Cookies
(Makes 2 dozen 4-inch cookies)

- ½ cup shortening
- ½ cup honey
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup soured cream
- 1¾ cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ½ cup chopped dates



A few cookies and a glass of milk makes a healthful snack for youngsters after school. It gives them that necessary boost in energy that's needed in play before the evening meal.

LYNN SAYS:
These Cookie Making Tips Help You

Ingredients for cookies will blend together more readily if they have been allowed to reach room temperature. If the dough is too soft for drop cookies, let it chill until proper texture is reached.

Fragile cookies keep best in tins, with waxed paper in between the layers.

Do not store crisp cookies with moist ones in the same container, as the crisp ones will become soggy.

The look of approval on Junior's face is only an indication of how good these "chewy raisin wafers" actually are. Whether they're eaten hot off the cookie rack or are several days old, they're going to taste like more.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU
Fricassee of Lamb
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Green Lima Beans
Gelatin Fruit Salad
Biscuits
Honey
Beverage
Coconut Cake

- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup oven-popped rice cereal

Blend shortening and honey. Add well-beaten eggs and cream. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, soda and nutmeg. Add to first mixture. Stir in nuts, dates and cereal. Drop from spoon onto lightly greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate (375°) oven about 20 minutes.

Orange Drop Cookies
(Makes 4 dozen 2¼-inch cookies)

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 orange rind, grated
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2¼ cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup hickory nuts or black walnuts, chopped

Blend together shortening, sugar, salt and egg yolks until light. Add grated orange rind and juice. Sift together flour and baking powder. Stir into creamed mixture, then add nuts and stir until smooth. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate (375°) oven, about 15 minutes, or until delicately brown. Remove cookies from pan to a cake cooler, and ice each cookie separately, holding the cookie in hand while doing it. These cookies are iced while still warm so they will have a nice glaze when cooled. Ice with:

Orange Frosting

- 3 tablespoons orange juice
- 1½ orange rind, grated
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 cups confectioners' sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Add orange juice, grated rind and salt to egg yolk. Stir in sugar and work until smooth.

Gum Drop Bars
(Makes 3 dozen)

- 4 eggs, beaten thoroughly
- 2 cups light brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon cold water
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup pecans, chopped
- ½ cup shredded gum drops

Add sugar and water to eggs which have been beaten thoroughly. Sift together dry ingredients and sprinkle a portion over the gum drops and pecans. Add remaining dry ingredients to sugar and egg mixture: fold in nuts and gum drops. Spread thinly on an oiled and floured shallow pan, 10½"x15", and bake slowly in a moderate (325°) oven for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, cut into bars.

Drop cookie doughs may be chilled if you do not wish to bake them all at once. Simply wrap in waxed paper or store in a well-covered bowl and refrigerate. Let soften before using by allowing to stand at room temperature.

Cookies will bake to a more even brown if the pans or sheets on which they are baked are not shiny surfaced.

When the recipe for cookies calls for a generous amount of fat, it is not necessary to grease the cookie sheet.

CRAZY WATER CRYSTALS

Hide Signs of Wealth

In every Bantu language there is a word to describe the action of a man who, owning a considerable herd of cattle, plants them out among his poorer relatives and neighbors so that he will not appear too prosperous. Everybody knows that they are his, and just how many he has, but he must avoid any appearance of ostentation. Similarly, it is not considered advisable to own too good a house or lands that are too well cultivated. Fear of exciting the envy of the chief is one of the motives that govern this attitude of mind, which always has been a powerful brake to the progress of Bantu agriculture in South Africa.

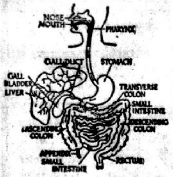
TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR INSIDES



Study the above drawing for a few minutes. Notice particularly how the bile flows from the liver into and out of the gall-bladder and thence into the small intestine where it mixes with the partly digested food just below the stomach. Bile is a necessary adjunct to proper digestion. Its absence from the intestines inevitably causes putrefaction and fermentation.

NATURE'S DANGER SIGNALS

When your stomach, liver, and gall bladder have been upset by improper eating or drinking, or when they are not working well because retained and putrefying food matter in your intestines is poisoning your entire body, your bile stops flowing freely and you, sooner or later, begin to feel some of the following symptoms:

Your breath may become unpleasant (halitosis), your tongue coated, a bad taste in your mouth, your coffee (and tobacco) lose their natural flavor, your food does not agree with you; you may have headache, heartburn, gas and dizzy spells, you may be troubled with belching; at night the gas in your bowels may press upon your bladder making you get up frequently, thus breaking into your sleep.

In the morning you are tired instead of refreshed. Gradually your health is impaired: you have constipation, gas, putrefaction and self-poisoning ("intestinal toxaemia" or "acute gastritis" as many doctors call it).

HOW TO GET RELIEF

You can relieve this condition, usually overnight, by taking Calotabs at bedtime and drinking water freely next day.

Calotabs are a thoroughly dependable laxative designed to effectively relieve symptoms of biliousness and acute gastritis due to constipation or faulty digestion, and to promote the flow of bile through the intestines.

Calotabs are pleasant to take (sugar coated), prompt and effective. Try them and see. Follow label directions. At your druggists'.

Demand the original Calotabs in the distinctive checker-board box. Accept no substitute.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Just Wanted To Know

A rather smallish man was hailed into court charged with picking a man's pocket. The complainant was very near-sighted and didn't seem very sure of his facts. He couldn't positively identify the other man as the one who stole his watch.

The judge, faced with the lack of evidence, was forced to discharge the alleged pickpocket. When the man stood there, as if he didn't comprehend the meaning of the justice's words, the judge repeated the words which dismissed him.

"All right," he said, "you're free to go. You may leave. You are judged not guilty. Go on."

The man still wasn't sure. "Does that mean," he asked, "that I can keep the watch?"

Gr-rrr!

Dentist's wife—"Have you been able to collect that bill Mr. Jones has owed you for so long?"

Dentist—"No, darn it. I met the guy on the street yesterday and he had the nerve to snap at me with the teeth I made for him."

First Choice

A prospective father had become so keyed up with the waiting that he staged a premature celebration. He managed to break away from his drinking companions soon after midnight and headed for home. He was helped through the door by the nurse.

"Is my son here yet?" he demanded, and without waiting for a reply, continued, "Oh, he must be. Show him to me, will you, please?"

The nurse, without a word, pulled back some covers and revealed triplets. He blinked his eyes several times, counted them again to make sure it wasn't the alcohol multiplying for him, then seemed to brighten all of a sudden.

"I'll keep the one in the middle," he announced.

Somewhat Tougher

In the heat of an argument with a judge, a young lawyer lost a little of his temper. The judge was not one to brook any insolence from young whippersnappers, so he pounded his gavel and said sternly, "I fine you ten dollars for contempt of court."

Hardly were the words out of his mouth when the lawyer piped up, "Yes, Your Honor, I was sort of expecting that. I have the money right here in my vest pocket."

"Well," continued the judge, "look through your other pockets and see if you can dig up the rest of the sentence—thirty days in jail."

Never Fails

Bored—"Why do you call Mark a small-talk expert?"

Boreder—"If there's nothing to say, he'll say it."

No Consolation

The young swain climbed into a field to gather some flowers for his girl friend and sighting a bull in the same pasture, called to a nearby farmer, "Hey, mister, is this bull over here safe?"

"Well, sonny," drawled the farmer, "I don't know for sure, but I can tell you he's a dern sight safer'n you are."

JUST TO BE SURE

Farmer's wife: "This the druggist?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, be sure and write plain on them labels which is for the horse and which is for my husband. I don't want nothin' to happen to that horse before spring plowin'."

player. Handy with tools, he had a small shop of his own, where he made, and repaired cues for his fellow members with whom he exercised daily. He was never happier than when he was doing small favors for his neighbors and friends. It was just such a favor in which he was engaged when he was stricken by a heart attack. The labor-saving devices in his own home are mute evidences of his ingenuity and skill. For such small favors, he would accept no remuneration, being satisfied with a grateful "Thank you" and a happy expression of appreciation. He consistently declined any proffered official positions in the Club, so that his activities, in the interests of the Club, were largely altruistic.

Besides Mrs. Moore, he leaves two daughters, Miss Bertha Moore, of Troy, New York, and Mrs. Robert Woodruff of Avon Park, also a son, Melvin of Wilfred, Michigan, a brother, Electus of New Jersey, and a brother-in-law, Mr. Frank Wheeler of Avon Park. The funeral was held at Mizelle Funeral Home parlor, Tuesday, at 10:00 A. M. with Father Butler of the Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment was in Bougainvillaea Cemetery at Avon Park.

The pall-bearers were Walter H. Walker, Ernest Armstrong, Frank Beckwith, John Nuber, George Riffle, and Edward Dobbins, with C. J. Starrett, and J. W. Richmond, alternates.

As most of our members are aware, because of the extensive publicity it received throughout the country, we have just passed through what is considered the worst hurricane in ten years. Fortunately, there was no loss of life here, due directly to the storm. Some damage was done to the roofs of homes and outbuildings, here and there in the City, and next morning most of the streets, especially the Mall, were so littered with broken branches, and other debris, that traffic was greatly impeded.

A large section of the roof of the clubhouse was ripped off, and the interior flooded, but so far as we know, no serious damage was done. The City has been very prompt in repairing the damage, and we have now a complete new roof, with the exception of the kitchen. The verandah sills, floor, and railing have been repaired, and new concrete steps built at the front entrance.

Anxious to see what damage had been done to their property, the Armstrongs, the Walkers, the Maysacks, the Beckwiths, the Richmonds, and perhaps others, soon appeared on the scene, and were all more or less gratified to find that no very serious damage had been done. While during the storm, some nervously walked the floor in anxiety and distress during the night, others who never before had seen a hurricane, went blissfully to sleep during the worst of it.

AVON PARK OFFICIALS NAMED IN MIDNIGHT COUNCIL SESSION

The new council held the first official meeting of its two-year term at 12:15 o'clock Oct 1st, when councilmen made their appointments, decided in an executive session starting early last night.

The appointments, according to the after-midnight announcement:

S. E. Booth, city clerk, tax collector, superintendent of water works, auditor and comptroller.

Ernest Johns, chief of police; John W. (Tex) Coleman, and W. A. Roberts, patrolmen.

Wilbur Giddens, fire chief and superintendent of public works; W. E. Gillard, assistant chief.

Mrs. Edna Leighton and Mrs. Mildred Ford, assistants to the clerk.

Appointment of a city attorney was postponed until a future date.

Booth, the official with many titles, returns to the office he held several years ago. He succeeds A. M. Owens, retired brigadier general of the U. S. Army.

Johns succeeds J. H. Pate, under whom he served as a patrolman. Coleman succeeds Johns as patrolman, and Roberts continues on the beat he has held several years. The third [illegible], held by Alton Le [illegible] was discontinued as an economy measure.

Giddens and Gillard remain in the positions they have held for several years.

Mrs. Leighton and Mrs. Ford were assistants to Owens.

All other city employes are being retained.

Only three councilmen attended the early morning session: Ed Gough, president; Manning Kirkland, vice president, and Charles Lewiston. John [illegible], the only member of the retiring council re-elected, and [illegible] (Pete) Shivers, left after the executive session ended before midnight.

A motion to make the previously made appointments [illegible], after which the group adjourned.

Mayor Booth, it was learned, had [illegible] "Whitey" Turner to head the police department but the [illegible] was turned down. A last-minute switch was said to have been responsible for the job going to Johns instead of Pate.

The yet to be settled attorneyship lies between the incumbent, F. T. [illegible], of Sebring, and S. C. Pardee, Jr., of Avon Park, over whom the councilmen are at odds. The name of Attorney Keith Collyer, counsel to the Highlands County commissioners, was not considered because, as one councilman stated, "Keith isn't interested."

Moose Club Chicken Supper Has Large Attendance

The Moose Club Chicken Supper held Thursday, September 29th at 7 p. m., proved a gala affair. Honor guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilhite, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Worden, all of Avon Park and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Allen of Sebring.

After the supper Alton Elder gave a very interesting short speech on the appreciation the city has for being privileged to have such an excellent band, and such capable people to conduct their activities. He then went on to explain the meaning of the Moose, the objective of Mooseheart, Illinois, and the privileges of the old folks home in Mooseheart, Florida.

Later in the evening a bingo game was enjoyed by all and several nice prizes were given away. Proceeds of this party went into the fund to pay expenses of the Avon Park High School Band to the Navy Day celebration to be held in Orlando, October 8th.

All were notified that a program would be held at the Orlando Rotary on October 26th, and those on the program are asked to be ready. Special Meeting Of The Women Of The Moose

A special meeting of the Avon Park Chapter of the Women of the Moose has been called by Senior Regent Mary King for Thursday evening, October 6. The meeting will be held at the home of Elma Cruse on Lake Tulane. The purpose of this meeting is to straighten out several matters in preparation for the first regular meeting of the Chapter on Monday night, October 10. Grand Regent Lillian Grinder from St. Petersburg and Miss Arta Nash will be present at this first meeting on October 10. It is planned at this time that those eligible members who could not be present at the initiation on September 25 will be initiated at the October 10 meeting.

World Renowned Cassacks May Play Here

One of the outstanding musical groups of the world is the General Platoff Don Cassack Choir which appears to be a popular choice to appear locally as one of the attractions of the Highlands County Community Concerts this coming season.

It was named after a famous Cossack general who achieved great military feats over 100 years ago. The word Don is not a title of distinction, it is merely a distinguishing term, being the name of River Don, which runs in the district from which many of these Cossacks came.

The Cossacks sang 3725 concert engagements in Europe, Africa, Australia, New Zealand, The Far East and South and Central America before coming to the United States in 1939. Since then their annual tours have taken them through every state in the union many times.

But wherever they have sung they have always achieved success. The severest and exacting judges of choral music have succumbed to their art and have become their devoted admirers.

Their director, Nicholas Kostrukoff has been their only director since the official founding of the choir took place in Czechoslovakia in 1926 under the then President of the Republic, Dr. Thomas Masaryk.

The members of this group were all White Russians exiled from their homeland by the revolution in 1919.

Today some of the members of the original group including the director are still singing with them, but all members of the group are now American citizens.

It is too early in the season for the local program committee of the Community Concerts to definitely decide upon specific programs for their series but the Cossacks will be available for a local concert [illegible] the Annual Membership Campaign [illegible] it.

CHAPTER 1137 OF WOMEN OF THE MOOSE INSTALLED

Harold Worden. Jr.

Avon Park Boy To Play With Navy Band

Harold Worden, Jr., trumpet soloist and student conductor of the Avon Park High School Band was invited to play with the famous Navy Band on Navy Day in Orlando October 8th. Harold, a senior in Avon Park, has been a member of the band for [illegible] years and has proved his outstanding ability in 1st trumpet during the last five years.

Sixty-five students of the band will participate in the Navy Day parade in Orlando Saturday morning and will attend a [illegible] which will be held at 3 p. m. at the Municipal Auditorium.

This trip was made possible through the generosity of the Moose Club of Avon Park by sponsoring the band and paying expenses for the trip.

Avon Park Chapter No. 1137 of the Women of the Moose was installed at an impressive ceremony on Sunday afternoon, September 25 at the Moose Lodge on Lake Lotela. The initiation was conducted by Grand Regent Lilllian Grinder from St. Petersburg, who was assisted by Miss Arta Nash, Assistant Installing Officer, and officers from the Tampa Chapter. Many guests were present from other chapters of the Women of the Moose. Other chapters represented were Lake Wales, Lakeland, Tampa, St. Petersburg and Ft. Lauderdale.

Those initiated into the Avon Park Chapter were Mary King, Mary Alice Elder, Lala Taft, Madelane Williamson, Ada Elder, Louise Brooks, Imogene Hart, Lennie De Witt, Elma Hall, Elma Cruse, Estelle McGinnis, Edna Mae Leighton, Ann Pardee, (all of Avon Park), Marvelle Peeples and Mary Ruth Stephenson of Sebring, Elsie Mitchell, Ruth [illegible], Ann Zoffay and Violet [illegible] of Frostproof. All of these members are affiliated. [illegible] initiated were Mary [illegible] McCreary, [illegible] Dora [illegible] and Elizabeth [illegible] proof.

After [illegible]

CYRIL [illegible], President of the Avon [illegible] Association, [illegible] of this community for the past [illegible] years has had a very active life in the public field. When he first came to Florida he was the collector for DeSoto County. Later he moved to this county and has held different positions in state and county work. Mr. Baldwin retired a few years ago on a State pension and is now residing on N. Highlands Avenue.

Other officers of the Club are: Mrs. Max Wild, vice president of the Association, Mrs. [illegible] Bennett, secretary, Mrs. Cora Wray, treasurer and Mrs. May Walden, custodian. The Ass'n hopes to have a vault in the projected new library building for security of papers and photographs.

Photographs are one of the most valuable possessions of the Old Settler's Association.

The above are some of the Old Settlers that we were able to contact and take pictures of for publication. Some of the old settlers we were not able to get in touch with and we wish to extend our humblist apologies to these. Reading left to right are: Mrs. Cora Wray, daughter-in-law of George E. Wray, the person who made most of the old photographs that you see in the windows of the local stores of the old settlers. Mrs.Caroline Putney, widow of E. D. Putney. The Putney's were citrus people in early Avon Park. Mr. Putney was responsible for changing the name of Lake Thompson to Lake Brentwood where their home bordered on the shore. Mrs. Putney after the death of her husband is residing with Mrs. Cora Wray. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Luxton. Mr. Luxton is a brother of Mrs. C. A. Carpenter pioneers of Avon Park, who passed away here several years ago. Mrs. Blanche Williams a widow of E. O. Williams arrived in Avon Park around 1920 and is well known to all here. Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Skipper have been residents of Avon Park for the past 50 years or more and have been instrumental in the growth and prosperity of the city. Anice Whithall, a long time resident of the city, active in most civic affairs and well known by all old settlers.

Bottom row, reading left to right—Byrum Shockley came to this locale among the early citizens around 1907. More will be said about him at the bottom of this article. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. England first came to Avon Park in August of 1919 and lived here until 1936. In 1948 they returned and have purchased a home here and hope to remain permanently. Mr. and Mrs. William Hauptmann. Many of the older residents will well remember the Hauptmanns, and especially during the years of 1913-14 when Mr. Hauptmann was editor in chief of the newspaper, "Facts" in Avon Park. This newspaper was a subsidary of the paper Truth of Zolpho. George Washington Adams was the editor there and their idea was to start a chain of newspapers throughout this section but due to the lean years this could not be accomplished. Mr. Hauptmann is now a retired citrus grower. Mrs. May Walden. Her father, T. D. Walden, was a pioneer of Avon Park and came here as retired Mayor of Highland, N. C. Mr. Walden was at first interested in the growth of pineapples in this section but after the big freeze went into the citrus business. Mrs. Walden now lives on one of the original groves her father owned. Mrs. R. P. Davidson, widow of Col. R. P. Davidson, who with his father, Major Davidson owned the Military Academy at Geneva Wisconsin. Mrs. Davidson is now residing at the Jacaranda Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Bennett. Mr. Bennett's father is one of the earliest pioneers of Avon. Most of their children were born within the city limits, but have since moved away. Mr. Bennett now owns a dairy about a mile and a half out on the old Sebring road. He is a brother-in-law of Max Wild. The public is especially invited to come at 2 p. m., when the historian, Byrum Shockley will give a paper on the Old Settler's early cultural influence. This, in part will highlight John Bartram, British botanist, whose travels in [illegible] in quest of specimens for London botanical gardens, brought him as far south as Manatee; Lord and Lady Bunbury, who built and for [illegible] lived in the house, now long known as [illegible]; Irvin Raulerson, who on a trip back from the other [illegible] us the mail could kill half a dozen quail with "lighter-knots." Mr. Shockley will read a clipping out of American magazine of [illegible] ber, 1928, that gives a human interest [illegible] Camp, in the Adirondacks, by Wm. [illegible] winter resident, whose home was the [illegible] nue. Mr. Shockley finishes with, "A Drop of Ink," a [illegible] for the Tallahassee and Chicago meetings in 1928 of the National Editorial Association by Wm. E. Pabor, who was their first [illegible] for 16 years.

Lift-Type Device Used on Tractor

Will Aid Materially In Easing Farm Chores

To help with those odd chores about the farm that so often are time-wasting and back-breaking, a Pittsburgh forgings company of Coraopolis, Pa., has developed a lift-type utility carrier for use on tractors.

The Pittsburgh carry-lift is attached in a few seconds to tractors through the regular implement suspension points. Made of alloy spring steel and structural steel, it will handle loads as heavy as 700 pounds.

An important feature of this new unit is its quick conversion from a platform lift to a fork lift, making it universal in the types of loads it can both lift and carry. It can be used as a platform lift either with or without a back panel, and pock- [illegible]

Popular Belting

A victim of the war, the first red rubber agricultural belting has been made available to farmers by a Pennsylvania manufacturer. Available since 1940 only as a higher-priced industrial belting, the red rubber belting was a prewar favorite with America's farmers. This farmer's smile as he gets his first roll indicates a big welcome on its return to the farm market. This belting is particularly popular because of its added flexibility and toughness.

Value of Bicarbonate Use In Swine Feeding Tested

An experimental feeding program to determine the value of bicarbonate of soda in the feeding of hogs is being conducted this fall at Iowa State college.

Experiments will be aimed at determining whether the feeding of bicarbonate of soda produces observable benefits in the growth of swine and whether the ingestion of amounts equal to 1 per cent of the ration will produce results.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Moving Need Not Be Confusing If Operations Well-Organized

By Ertla Haley

WHEN MRS. X recently moved, most of her best china was broken beyond repair. When Mrs. B. gave up her home several years ago, the furniture which she had stored was found useless as she recovered it, and it had to be given away. Mrs. S., on the other hand, had dinner in her new home the same day she moved.

Moving doesn't occur too often for any of us, but when it does, it should be a smart move as well as a safe one. The job of moving is actually a very scientific one. When you follow the rules you'll have a minimum of distress and confusion.

It's a big job to move household goods from one house to another, or from one town to another. It's not a matter of piling things into the car and carting them over, even if the house is on the next block.

Much can be done before the actual moving, and though, at first, this seems like an enormous job, it's well on the way to completion by the time you've made a list of what can be done, and know how it should be done.

Avoid breakage during moving . . .

You'll undoubtedly call in a mover, or a warehouseman, as they are sometimes named, for the job. For your own safety and peace of mind, select one who is reputable. If furniture or other goods are to be stored, the reputable dealer invites inspection of his quarters. After all, you're going to trust him with the family possessions!

Here's the Routine For Moving Day

Your rugs and carpets will be moved first. After this come the dinnerware, glassware, silverware, pots and pans. Unless you've made arrangements for having lunch, and possibly dinner out, better be prepared with a thermos of hot coffee and sandwiches, along with paper plates and cups for the noontime meal. You many not want to tear yourself away from the packing long enough to get a snack outside of home, and this is an excellent idea for the meal since you don't have to rely on your household equipment.

and cut down confusion, too.

You may plan to pack the dishes yourself, or have the mover do it for you. If you do it yourself, the materials may be provided for you: shredded paper, barrels and tissue paper. If the mover takes care of the entire operation, he makes himself responsible for any breakage which might occur. Fees are determined by the hours worked.

The heaviest dishes should be packed at the bottom of the barrel and lighter ones on top to cut down on breakage. Plates should never be placed flat, but rather stood on edge to resist breakage if the barrel is dropped. Professional movers usually tip the barrel to get the proper pack.

Make a Safe Move

Moving day is comparatively simple for this young homemaker who has a reputable warehouseman packing her dinnerware and glassware. Here she observes the mover carefully packing several plates in a stack with protective layers of shredded paper between each plate. The stack is then wrapped in tissue paper and placed on edge in a soft bed of shredded paper in the bottom of the barrel which has been tipped so the plates lay back.

Glassware Needs Careful Packing

If possible, never pack the glassware in the same barrel as the dishes. If you do not have enough glassware for a separate barrel, it may be packed in the same barrel with the dishes, but special precautions must be taken against breakage.

Protective excelsior bedding is needed for each piece. Each piece of glassware is wrapped in tissue paper. Fragile stemware needs special tissue paper wrapping to protect the shank.

When professionally wrapped, barrels with dishes and glassware allow no free space for the dishes to move since a slight move might shatter several pieces, if not the whole barrel. The pack is tight and safe.

Keep Household Goods Properly Organized

Get your pots and pans together before moving since they all go into excelsior padded barrels. Toasters, irons and waffle irons should be covered and placed in the bottom of boxes or barrels with protection to keep them from moving about loosely. You don't want them dented or marred.

Wrap silverware in tissue paper carefully, be it flatware or serving silver. These, too, are placed in barrels.

All barrels and boxes should be numbered. Keep a listing of what goes under each number so you can extract from the right barrel when you want a certain item. This avoids plowing into barrels or boxes you aren't ready to unpack.

You can do a lot toward speeding operations before movers arrive. Take the carpets off the floor and roll them neatly. Take down drapes and curtains and venetian blinds. Many women feel it's smart to have them cleaned at this time to save moving. If you launder curtains yourself, don't iron until you arrive at the new place since they are easier to move when rolled instead of carefully boxed to avoid wrinkling.

Keep Notebook For Small Items

It's discouraging to have something misplaced for months after moving. If you go through drawers and desks and cabinest with box in one hand and notebook in the other, much of the disorder may be saved.

Small articles from certain drawers may be placed in boxes to be returned to the drawers in the same order. Keep a listing so you can locate even a small item at any time.

Lightweight items such as linen and clothing may be placed in dresser drawers for moving.

Keep books, book ends and such heavy objects out of dresser drawers for moving. Furniture is heavy enough by itself without being weighted additionally with several pounds of books. And, most furniture drawers are not constructed to take such heavy items. They may give way and you'll have a repair bill to pay as well as moving.

Books are best packed in cartons which are tied securely. These are easily handled, and the books are kept together.

Casters moved from furniture should be kept in well-labeled sets. Brooms, mops and curtain rods may be tied together with cord for easy handling.

If you move the refrigerator have it serviced and bolted before the movers arrive.

Work out floor arrangements for the new home and tag the furniture. The movers can then route each piece to the room in which you want it.

Be Smart!

There's no monotony in the much-used solid colors this season, especially when two tones of a color and several harmonizing or contrasting colors are used to such good effect. The sketch of the model here shows how the basically simple lines of a classic gabardine becomes dramatic with the play of color. In this case, two tones of gray are used, with silver pins highlighting the whole effect. Another popular combination is two shades of rich, gold-tinted brown.

Seven-Day Religion

Lesson for October 9, 1949

EMPLOYERS don't care much for letters of recommendation signed by preachers. Not that they think preachers are dishonest. The employer is glad to know where the chap is on Sunday mornings. But he would rather have a letter from somebody who sees him every Saturday night and Monday morning.

Religion Won't Keep Sweet by Itself

IT IS a temptation as old as religion, to put it on one side of a wall and life on the other. But the prophets showed, once and for all, that God has literally no use for religion which has been dissected off from life. Religion which is kept apart from life turns sour and bad. In Isaiah's time, everybody knew there was something wrong with the country.

Dr. Foreman

Isaiah's diagnosis was shocking: Religion is our principal trouble. God is tired of it. What? The pious people would exclaim. Look at the crowds in the Temple every holy day! Listen to all the prayers, count the number of tithers. If anything is wrong with our country, it can't be religion! But religion it was.

Why God Was Tired

A CATHOLIC priest would shock everybody should he call Vatican City "Hell's Half Acre." Isaiah shocked his fellow citizens by calling Jerusalem "Sodom and Gomorrah." Those cities were the worst places the Hebrews had ever heard of.

They were so bad the Lord had to destroy them by fire—not 10 good people could be found there. The prophet follows up that first shock by another. Every single expression of organized religion comes under the prophet's lash.

Sacrifices and offerings (v.11), attendance at the sanctuary, observance of the Sabbath and other holy days (v. 13), church gatherings, corresponding to our rallies and conventions (v. 13), even prayers (v. 15).

Put that into modern terms: attendance at church, Bible reading, tithing, praying—if that is all, then all is no good. It may be religion, and of course it is one kind of religion; but not the kind God wants.

Indeed, Isaiah says God hates it; he is "fed up" with it (vs. 11). What was wrong? Isaiah tells them that, too, in short simple words. "Your hands are full of blood."

Oh, the people would protest, we are not killers, we don't lay a hand on anybody. Isaiah goes on to explain: seek judgment (i.e. justice), relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

You don't kill outright, you churchgoers, he would say, but you are so indifferent to justice in your city, you take so little interest in the people at the bottom of the heap, that people die here, widows and orphans die, simply because no one cares.

What Makes a Town Worth Saving?

ALAS, nobody did care. One hundred and more years went by, and Jerusalem came close to its end. But nobody thought that disaster could strike. The belief had grown in every one's mind that the Temple of the Lord would forever insure the safety of the city in which it stood.

But a young prophet, Jeremiah, preached a sermon on the same theme as Isaiah's (Jer. 7) It is not the temple that will save you, it is not church attendance that will bring you the favor of God.

As the men of Jerusalem looked back to the great days of Moses, they thought of the sacrifices and offerings, the tabernacle and the rituals and all the pageantry and paraphernalia of a picturesque religion, as the great thing that God had given them.

But God remembered it otherwise. Jeremiah even says (with understandable exaggeration) that God had not said a word about sacrifices and offerings; the Ten Commandments, with all they implied, were the main thing.

What God looks for, back of all our church attendance and Bible reading, is "justice between a man and his neighbor." A place where that can be found is a good place.

Then tack the ideas given in today's column somewhere where they'll be sure to remind you of something guaranteed to be successful. Some of these recipes are for simple family fare while others are sheer elegant eating, suitable for guests, for a special Sunday night supper.

With a well rounded luncheon dish, you need only a big vegetable or fruit salad, chilled to icy crispness, to make the main course complete. Your dessert might be pie, cake, ice cream, or simply fruit and cookies.

Keep your pantry shelves well supplied with staples, as well as such items as dried beef, deviled ham, noodles, evaporated milk, rice and condensed soups so that you can whip together these recipes without trips to the store at the last minute. In this way you'll be well prepared to meet family meal problems as well as those which arise when guests drop in.

THIS deviled swiss puff is truly new and different, easy to prepare and fun to eat. When made in the individual casserole skillets as shown in the picture, it will be a real success at a ladies' luncheon. Savory deviled ham is used in the recipe, but you might also try liver sausage or another favorite meat spread.

The cheese mixture may be prepared, except for the baking powder, a day in advance of use, in case you are rushed for time in meal preparation. Remove the mixture from the refrigerator an hour before using so that it will be soft for easy spreading. Add the baking powder just before using.

Deviled Swiss Cheese Puff
(Serves 4)

- ½ cup evaporated milk
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 cup grated Swiss cheese (processed)
- ⅛ teaspoon onion juice
- Dash of tabasco sauce
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder
- 6 tablespoons deviled ham
- 2 tablespoons evaporated milk
- 4 slices bread
- 4 slices tomato

Heat the ½ cup evaporated milk in top part of double boiler. Mix flour with water. Stir into milk and cook until thickened, about five minutes. Add the beaten egg, cheese and seasonings and continue cooking until cheese is melted and the mixture thick and creamy. Set aside to cool. Blend ham with two tablespoons of evaporated milk. Spread the slices of bread with the ham mixture, then top each with a slice of tomato. Blend baking powder into cooled cheese mixture. Spread the cheese mixture thickly on each sandwich. Place sandwiches in individual shallow casseroles or in a shallow baking pan. Place under broiler. Using moderate heat, broil until cheese is puffed and slightly browned on top. Serve at once.

Note: American cheese or pimento cheese are also good to use in the above mixture to replace Swiss cheese, if desired.

A BUDGET MEAL that is a taste-tempting dish can be turned out of dried lima beans, seasoned with onion, mace and powdered sage, the latter to point up the sausage topping. Double-rich evaporated milk poured over the beans for baking adds richness to the dish as well as keeping the beans admirably moist.

Limas Louisiana
(Serves 4)

- 1 cup dried lima beans
- 2 cups water
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon mace
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon powdered sage or poultry seasoning
- ½ pound small pork sausages
- ½ cup evaporated milk
- Shredded green pepper

Wash beans; soak for several hours or overnight in four cups water. Drain; cook beans in the two cups of water until tender. Add onion, sugar and seasonings to the beans. Place the sausages in a skillet and cook until the links are browned. Use the drippings to grease the baking dish. Turn the bean mixture into the dish. Pour milk over the beans. Arrange browned sausages over the top. Shred a bit of green pepper over them and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 20 minutes.

Make Cooking Easy In These Simple Ways

Use the pastry blender for mashing eggs for egg salad or sandwich mixtures. It works easily to make the eggs coarse or fine, as you like.

Get the full taste from green peppers for a salad or any other dish, by grating or shredding them, instead of chopping.

Add a few banana flakes to hot or cold cereal just before serving. They add delicious flavor.

When you purchase ice cream which has been frozen too hard to serve, place the container under hot water for just a few seconds, and it will slice readily enough for serving.

Poached eggs will not spread if you stir the water vigorously in one direction, to create a whirlpool, before you drop in the eggs.

Before scalding milk for a recipe, butter the bottom of the pan you use, before pouring in the milk. It will not scorch or brown so easily.
