POLIO PRECAUTIONS

RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

AVOID NEW GROUPS DON'T GET OVERTIRED

DON'T GET CHILLED KEEP CLEAN

WHEN POLIO IS AROUND, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis recommends these simple precautions: Keep children with their own friends and away from people they have not been with right along. Don't become exhausted through work or hard play. Don't stay too long in cold water or sit around in wet clothes. And always wash hands before eating. Watch for feverishness, sore throat, headache, upset stomach or sore muscles. They may—or may not—mean polio. Call your doctor and then, if help is needed contact the National Foundation Chapter in your area.

ARE BIRDS DUMB?

By The Bird Woman

We were asked recently by a little boy if birds weren't dumb. When asked why, he said that they put out feed for them and they see it and just fly away.

Do you recall the legend about the woman that was so stingy with her cakes when St. Peter asked for one that he changed her into a bird?

"So up she went through the chimney. Never speaking a word. And out of the top flew a woodpecker."

For she was changed to a bird. She had a scarlet cap on her head.

And that was left the same. But all the rest of her clothes were burned.

Black as the coal in a flame. And every country school boy has seen her in the wood. Where she lives till this very day. Boring and boring for food!

If we could just change ourselves into a bird for a while and fly up into a tree and get acquainted with the bird kingdom, we would learn that birds have a world all their own, with their own rules of behavior, and that from each nest there is a certain area that is ruled by that special family. As in our world, all neighbors are not alike, some are happy, carefree and congenial, while others are cross and hard to get along with, so each bird we find has its own peculiarities, although birds in and large have a great deal in common, even as do we humans.

They are subject to practically the same enemies, although the larger and stronger can more easily defend themselves, yet some of the smaller are more swift in flight, and from some place they have learned the art of camouflage.

Did you ever notice when the shrill call is sounded announcing an enemy near? Every bird will apparently melt into the foliage of the tree or shrub and their immobility tends to blend them with whatever vegetation they are near, while if they should run or make a sudden flight, they would reveal their whereabouts to the enemy.

If birds hold conventions, and it seems sometimes that they do, when great flocks of birds fly over and settle in a group of trees, the trees literally become alive with birds.

And with all the calling, and squawking and shouting that goes on, it sounds to us on the ground like a convention.

If it is a convention, I wonder if they discuss human beings. If they do, they must conclude that we are the dumb ones. Perhaps that's what so much shouting is about. As one species enumerates the vast number of insects they have disposed of during the season, he is duly applauded by his kind; another species arises to tell how they have destroyed even more damaging insects, until every species has its turn and its applause.

Then one can see the older and wiser birds as they divide into committees, trying very hard to figure out just what is the matter with "people," why people put so many obstacles in the way of birds when all the birds are trying to do it to be helpful.

Let's consider some species and see if they are dumb.

First, the oriole. If the oriole eggs were put into a robin's nest, many miles from where any oriole has ever been, and hatched and raised by robin parents, when they were old enough to build their own nests and raise their fledglings, would they plaster their nest with mud and build after the robin fashion? No. They would weave a hanging pocket-like bag of string, bits of fiber, horse hair and bark, just as every oriole has built since the creator taught the first pair.

Are they dumb?

Could you, with your mouth and feet (or even your hands) build a nest in a tree like most any bird can do. We would have to be some knots or use a few nails. But the birds can place the nest in the crotch of small branches where they stay through wind and weather, and after the family has departed most of the nests remain intact, and need very little repair for another season.

Who tells Mr. Woodpecker

where to find the worms in the trees? How would you like to bust your head against a tree for hours for a little food? While he is doing this he is probably saving the tree itself. Is he dumb?

How would you like to have an eye on each side of your face, so you could look both ways on account of enemies?

Would you enjoy a meal if after each bite you had to look all around to see if it was safe to take another bite?

Little boy, do you still think birds are dumb? Later, we will talk about some other birds, and see if they are dumb.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay

On many occasions I have had visitors from the North tell me how thrilled they were to step off a plane or train into brilliant sunshine and comforting warmth after a land of cold and snow. It is a thrill that our winter visitors enjoy and tell others about.

Last week the tables were reversed. As I told you last week, I was invited to join a Florida group on a trip to Canada. We were guests of Trans-Canada Airlines and the Department of Travel and Publicity of the Province of Ontario. We left the International Airport at Tampa in a drizzling rain. Ugly clouds obscured the sun even at 20,000 feet. This was no local thunderstorm, but a real storm front that blanketed the entire eastern half of the New York south. It was the kind of weather we refer to as "nasty" wherever we find it.

With the safety and comfort of his passengers in mind the veteran overseas pilot of our big Canadian built airplane, flying the state and swinging out into the Atlantic west around the storm. Outraged black clouds which emitted angry flashes of lightning were visible in the West while the sun was shining brightly in the East. Thanks to this detour our ride was smooth and comfortable. It was only when we turned West to cut through the upper end of the storm at New York that we encountered any bumps and they were not bad, although we fastened our seat belts as a precaution before reaching Buffalo the weather cleared and we saw below us the panorama of varied colored lights that was the city, thrilling us the sight of the giant flood lights playing Niagara Falls. In a matter of minutes we were gliding smoothly to the runway at Malton Airport, Toronto. It was clear and warm, typical Florida spring weather, so I knew how our visitors felt on leaving bad weather and arriving in sunny Florida.

Our Florida group, made up of Chamber of Commerce officials, travel agents and newspaper folks, included representation from Orlando, Tampa, St. Petersburg, Clearwater and Sarasota. If you can speak a reasonable amount of English and don't look too much like a Chinaman, you won't have any trouble with the Canadian Customs officials; they are cordial, courteous and friendly and have a way of making you feel that Canada and Ontario are glad to have you as a visitor. The strong British accent and atmosphere so noticeable in the Bahamas is absent here. The Canadian folks look American, talk American, act American and you feel as much at home here as you would in any American city. If anything, they are just a little more friendly and sincere, a little more thoughtful and courteous than we are.

Officials of both the Trans-Canada Airlines and the Department of Travel and Publicity of Ontario were at the Airport to greet us. They handled our group with the same ease and dispatch as if they had been a relative or friend meeting us as individuals. The baggage transfer from plane to bus was quickly made and in no time at all we were enjoying the 14 mile ride to our hotel, the commodious and well appointed King Edward in downtown Toronto.

Here another delegation of local dignitaries were awaiting to make up welcome. We were guests at a reception and cocktail party provided by the Hotel Association of the Province of Ontario. Ralph J. Haffey, Director, Manager of the organization, proved himself a delightful host. Toronto is a beautiful and impressive city with a million or more population. Temperature during our stay was in the eighties and much cooler at night. A light blanket was welcome and the air has a tang to it that delighted our Florida group and made them want to play leap-frog or turn handkerchiefs and this urge became much stronger when we arrived in the charming hill and lake country 140 miles north of Toronto.

In Canada they don't bury their good butter and eggs in caves to rot and grow rancid as we do in this country. They eat it, and I'm telling you the food up there is wonderful. Excellent fresh Florida grapefruit and orange juice was available everywhere. Meat costs were about the same as they are here but tastier, particularly dairy products and meats. Much building was in evidence and the type of construction appears solid and permanent, mostly brick and bungalow.

Stores and shops seemed well supplied with a wide variety of merchandise and business was brisk. Canadians don't go in for English halfpennies, shillings or pounds; their coins are in the same denominations as ours and a nickel is a nickel whether it bears the bust of King George or a buffalo.

One thing that gave me a kick was the reverse sales tax. Here, every time you spend a dollar you get a half cent back; in Canada when you lay down

Health TOPICS

Presented by Your Doctor of Medicine at the Florida Medical Society

TETANUS

Tetanus is merely the scientific name for lockjaw. Tetanus germs are found in soil, mud, and manure, and are often introduced into the body by a wound, such as made by nails, spikes and splinters. The germs also thrive in soil, as well as in manure-contaminated earth surrounding stables. The initial symptoms may be insomnia, irritability, headache, difficulty in swallowing, abdominal pain and spastic gait. This may be followed by severe and uncontrollable muscular contractions, which may result in a locking of the jaws. Constant generalized stiffness may last for several weeks and frequently convulsions may occur, which may be followed by coma.

Many doctors now give tetanus toxoid to a baby at the time they give the diphtheria shot. Then if the child does have a wound that requires treatment for tetanus, the doctor has to give only a small dose of tetanus toxoid to completely protect the child at the time he receives a wound.

Older children and adults should be protected, too. Many physicians recommend tetanus toxoid for anyone exposed to a hazardous occupation such as farming, highway workers, etc., and of course, we all know that our men in the armed services now receive this protection. In World War I many soldiers contracted this disease in the trenches. In World War II tetanus was practically unknown among our forces.

We have less tetanus today than we used to because children wear shoes and stockings; we have less farm work; and because most people are protected against lockjaw.

If you sustain a wound, it should be washed out thoroughly and a physician should be consulted. If you have not been protected against tetanus, your physician may decide to give you a shot of tetanus antitoxin. This is only for your immediate wound, and the antitoxin lasts only a very short time. It is not the same as tetanus toxoid.

This Week In Tallahassee

By J. Kenneth Ballinger

Tallahassee — Florida's financial health continued good at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, but Comptroller C. M. Gay reported spending had amounted to more than receiving by at least $12,000,000. The general fund, from which schools and most state agencies get their money, had a clear balance of $5,872,435. In addition, the cabinet made a last-minute advance of $2,390,000 to common schools to tide them through the summer.

Tallahassee — This capital mourned the passing here of Federal Judge Curtis L. Waller, former legislator of both Florida and his native Mississippi, former law partner of U. S. Senator Claude Pepper, senior federal judge in Florida. Judge Waller died of a brain injury. He had been on the federal bench since 1940, and for seven years was a member of the circuit court of appeals. He was buried here.

Tallahassee — Governor Warren has appointed W. Arthur Davis, Proffort, to the vacancy on the Florida Citrus Commission left by the resignation of Tom Turnbull. Winter Haven, Davis was the choice of Polk county growers. Warren insisted on a pledge that Davis would stand by his taste test code.

Tallahassee — Attorney General

Richard W. Ervin this week gave his opinion on the following general subjects:

CHECK — Giving worthless checks for sales tax payment is not criminal offense unless done with intent to defraud.

HUNTING — Game Commission can close any lands to hunting without owner's consent.

CLAIMS — Under certain forms of release, insurance company is subrogated to rights of insured only in amount of established damages unpaid but due.

SNAKES — State board of control is not liable for snake bite injury to student on school trip. EASEMENT — Public service easement properly recorded prior to tax deed is not extinguished by Murphy tax deed.

CATTLE — Under the new cattle law, sheriff is required to impound, care for and dispose of roaming livestock, with county commission providing pens and expenses.

VOLUNTEER — Maximum of $200 may be spent from fireman's pension fund to bury volunteer fireman, who served without pay. AGED — Home for aged may be tax exempt, even though inmates able to do so must pay all or part of their upkeep.

Tallahassee — Charges of permitting gambling were dismissed against Sheriff Ralph P. Witt and Constable Harry K. Roberts of Columbia county after a lengthy public hearing before Governor Warren. Charges were based on articles printed in the Tampa Tribune. Lake City officials and residents said "taint so." The Governor believed them, said evidence did not prove they have neglected their duties.

Tallahassee — World government came under heavy fire from former Attorney General J. Tom Watson here, as he attacked before a local circuit court the right of world federalists to put a referendum on next fall's general election ballot. Watson declared the legislature has no authority to poll the people on what they think of one world. Regardless of the decision of Judge W. May Walker, the case is expected to go to the Florida Supreme Court.

CHILD LABOR — Failure to require an employment certificate for a 17 year old boy cost one Florida employer over $1,200 according to a report on Child Labor activities by the Florida Industrial Commission.

Although covered by workmen's compensation insurance, which paid medical, hospital, and loss of wages for the loss of a thumb, a sawmill company was also responsible for the same amount paid by the insurance company because it did not have a work permit on file for this youth at the time of the accident.

The Workmen's Compensation Law provides that when illegally employed minors are injured benefits are doubled, with the employer and not the insurance carrier responsible for the additional payment.

Resolution

Adopted by the Reserve Officers Association of the United States in Convention assembled Friday, June 30, 1950, Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C.

WHEREAS, under the sponsorship of an organization known as United World Federalists, there has been made and will be made to appear on the election ballots of several states a referendum which in effect mandates the Congressional Delegations from those states to take the lead in the creation of a World Federal Government, and,

WHEREAS, the creation of a World Federal Government as proposed by the United World Federalists would require the surrender of a portion of the sovereignty, liberty and freedom of the United States of America, and,

WHEREAS, such action would be dangerous to the welfare of the United States of America, under existing world conditions and would weaken our position in world affairs for peace and stability,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, That the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, in Convention assembled, hereby records its opposition to such a referendum and calls upon the people of the nation to defeat such referendum:

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Reserve Officers Association of the United States urges those states who have ratified this United World Federalist movement to rescind such ratification.

A Pledge to the American People by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We will resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might.

We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers, because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers or consumers, will cause higher prices.

We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales.

We will continue to strive for more efficient distribution.

We will fight waste of food, or time, or money all along the line so as to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

We will devote all our energies to giving you the most good food for your money every day of the week.

We will strive always to do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of our country and our customers.

As most of you know, this company and the low cost, low profit policies that built it are under attack.

We are defending ourselves against a suit brought by the anti-trust lawyers to put A&P out of business.

But the greater conflict in which our country is now engaged takes precedence over all else.

Today, with our boys fighting in Korea, we believe that all citizens and all businesses, big and little, should devote themselves wholeheartedly to the public interest.

We promise the American people that we will cooperate unhesitatingly with our national government in the present crisis.

We promise you that we will continue to do everything in our power to put more buying power in your food dollar and more good food on your dinner table.

Miss Myra McCabe Married at Afternoon Ceremony at Congregational Church

MR. and MRS. RICHARD STODDEN

Miss Myra Wilma McCabe became the wife of Richard Henry Stodden, Jr., in a dignified and beautiful ceremony held at the Union Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon, July 23, at 4:00 o'clock. The Rev. H. D. Grant performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Robert M. McCabe, Sr. She wore a bridal dress of white embroidered nylon organza over silk, fashioned with a full skirt and fitted waist, with a softly-folded, off-shoulder neckline. Her short veil of embroidered net was caught by crystal-embossed white lace mitts covered her hands. Her bouquet of white carnations showered with tuberoses was carried on a white ribbon, the gift of the groom.

Miss Gloria Garber, organist, and Miss Ouida Fisher, soloist, presented a program of musical music.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and palm. Tall candelabra, holding white candles, stood on either side of the chancel.

Mrs. Robert McCabe, Jr., of Dayton, Ohio, was matron of honor. She wore a full-skirted green organza dress over silk, with matching lace mitts, and a head-dress of pink sweetheart roses, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The small flower girl, Patricia Gandy of Lakeland, cousin of the bride, was dressed in a long blue organza dress and frilled bonnet, as she scattered rose petals from her basket.

Bill Connell was best man. Ushers were Robert McCabe, Jr., brother of the bride, David Lanier, Dick Seron, of Sebring, and Ernest Bryant.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCabe, Sr. Those in the reception line, in addition to the bride and groom, were Mrs. Robert McCabe, Jr., Mrs. R. H. Stodden, mother of the groom, Mrs.

Robert M. McCabe, Sr., and Mrs. R. E. Gandy of Bartow, grandmother of the bride. Mrs. D. B. Smith of Deland presided over the bride's book.

The rooms were decorated with white gladioli, roses and ferns, and white wedding bells hanging from the ceilings. The white-lace table was centered by the punch bowl. The three-tiered white wedding cake, wreathed with white jasmine and fern fronds, was elaborately decorated, with two upper tiers being supported by a miniature bridge and groom.

The wedding gifts were displayed in rooms further embellished by clever dolls fashioned of crepe paper, with Miss Helen Tuten, Mrs. Eula Clements and Mrs. James Connor of Tampa, Mrs. Clarence Martin of Bartow, Mrs. H. R. Gandy of Lakeland, all of the bride, Mrs. Ray Rutherford, Mrs. Peter C. Boney, Mrs. Helen Tuten, Mrs. Charles Warrington and Mrs. Bobby Harden.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. R. E. Gandy and Mrs. Clarence Martin of Bartow, Mrs. Eula Clements, Mrs. James Connor of Tampa, Mrs. and Mrs. B. Gandy of Lakeland, Mrs. D. B. Smith of Deland, Mrs. and Mrs. Claude Gilmore and daughters, Elsie Jo and Claudina, and Mrs. Mary Clark of Orange City. Mr. and Mrs. Don Bryan of Bartow, and Miss Hazel Brown of Miami.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Stodden, Jr., left for a two-week honeymoon trip within the state of Florida. The bride's going-away outfit was a yellow shirakin suit with a yellow shawl.

On their return, the young couple will live at the Connell Apartment House.

Enjoyable Party For High Schoolers

June and Janet Quinter entertained a group of friends at their home Saturday from 5:00 until 11:00 P. M.

The party guests played softball until around 8:30. After the games, a delicious supper of roasted veal, potato salad, cole slaw, baked beans, pickles, potato chips, cup cakes, brownies and iced tea was served. Guests and hostesses then adjourned to the local theatre, after which they returned to the Quinter home, where they toasted marshmallows and sat around the fire singing songs.

Those enjoying this occasion were Lynn Longbottom, Joan Herring, Joyce Bighie, Joyce Wingfield, Betty Rose Ford, Mary Garrett Lawson, Leah Jane Brown, Anne Pabor, Bobby Whitcomb, Edgar Pabor, Bruce Spencer, Dick Kluge, Harry Hood, Douglas Fields, Jimmy Kelly, Devon Carter, Kelly Green (from Haines City), and Thomas Jenkins.

Regular Meeting Of Triple Link Club

The Triple Link Club, social group affiliated with the Eleanor Seaverson Rebekah Lodge No. 65, held their regular monthly business meeting Tuesday night, July 25. The president appointed committees for the year.
