FHA Has Good Collection Record

Wilson H. Harrison, FHA supervisor in the Avon Park office, reports that the Farmers Home Administration has a better collection record than most financial institutions that demand full collateral.

When a borrower secures a loan from Farmers Home Administration he has no other source of funds. The money he borrows is sufficient collateral to negotiate a loan elsewhere, in or out of Government agencies, so the loan is essentially a "closed" loan, but it is predicated on the borrower's agreement to follow sound farm and home practice under FHA supervision. Yet, since 1945, FHA borrowers have met 98 percent of their payments and interest when or before due.

Looking back to 1933, which covers a lot of depression territory, FHA and its predecessors have loaned more than 1.5 billion dollars. Of each dollar loaned 71.3 cents have been repaid, 22.5 cents are not yet due, and only 6.2 cents are in arrears. Meanwhile, 10.3 cents interest has been paid.

It is so largely because FHA supervisors go to each client's farm and assist the farmer and his wife to evolve a scientifically sound farm-and-home plan specifically tailored to their needs. The loan is made on that plan.

What do these loans mean to the individual community? They mean the complete rehabilitation of the farm family, a far higher living and farm-production standard, greater conveniences, new educational possibilities, more efficient tools and equipment, more fertile acres, finer livestock, and improved social and economic living conditions. To the community the loans mean more prosperous churches, more business done by stores that sell all the additional things a farmer wants when he is no longer indigent, more taxes paid for greater community services, the establishment of new stores, businesses, and even banks, improvement in the schools, and better educated, happier farm youth.

Somehow, some day, one of these 25 applicants is going to run into Mr. Mayer again and I'm betting that when this happens, Brother Mayer will wish he was somebody else.

It frequently happens that crooks who think up stunts like this, use their ill gotten gains to enjoy a vacation in Florida and that's why Miami Business and this column is publishing the affair. Publicity is the surest way of putting an end to this kind of a racket. Florida newspapers receiving an ad of this nature should do some checking and report the matter to local law enforcement officials. If it is legitimate, the advertiser should not object and readers would be protected.

Another racket more often encountered by the average business man at the telephone solicitation. High pressure boys come into a community, approach some local civic group or organization and offer to help them raise funds for some local charity. They are smooth operators and explain that they do all the work and all they want is the endorsement of the Kiwanis, Rotary or whatever group they contact. They cost no money, they let the club have all the credit and it is all for some charity.

Once they get the backing of the organization they go to work on the phone. Just about every business man in town receives a call. He is informed that President So and So, of the club, is going to make a small donation, may be to the purchase of a block of tickets to a musical benefit or to a fund-raising contribution for the crippled children's fund. All he has to do is just write out the check and amount, will come and see him and pick it up.

Sometimes, after deducting expenses, a small percentage of the money collected are actually turned over to the local club. In other cases, the solicitors gather in all the cash they can and then disappear. I learned a lesson once that it was smart to turn down all telephone solicitations. When I am charitably inclined, I know just of worthy places where I can make a contribution that is on the up-and-up and I don't have to waste any time passing out money to strangers who call me on the telephone.

Don't get me wrong—I have no quarrel with any honest, legitimate effort to raise funds for a worthy cause, but I hate to see slick promoters take respectable people and organizations for a ride.

It takes only a moment or two to check on these solicitations and make sure they are all right.

There's too much earnest driving these days . . . and nights.

REPORT ON GIRL'S STATE

I feel it an honor being elected from the Junior Class to attend Girl's State. This trip was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Post 69. I arrived in Tallahassee June 29. The first day was spent getting registered and acquainted with the other girls. Friday night we attended the "Boy States" dance, which was a delightful affair and enjoyed by all attending.

Saturday at 10:30 a.m. was the formal opening of Girl's State at the grand hall on the F.S.U. campus. Later in the day we had nominating speeches by candidates for city offices which were followed by the election. The parties divided and elected a chairman. Setting up the party platform was one of the most interesting points.

Sunday we had church services at the music hall and later had nominating speeches for county offices. Then to vote on the voting machines was demonstrated.

Our first visit to the capitol was on Monday. There we all were greeted by some of the members of the cabinet.

From then on most of our time was spent either in the senate or house of representatives chamber. We Girl States attended two receptions: one at the home of Dr. Campbell, the president of F.S.U., and on the fourth of July we enjoyed another at the home of Governor and Mrs. Fuller Warren.

We visited the different departments in the capitol and the supreme court building where Judge Sebring assisted by giving us instruction in court procedure and answering any questions pertaining to court.

Thursday afternoon we received our Girl State pins and certificates, which were presented by our counselors. At 7:30 p.m. we had stung night, in which each city gave a short skit. It was wonderful seeing how our government is actually run. The most chosen by us Girl States was, "Make the fifth the finest," and believe me, we did.

All the girls had the pep and the spirit which is needed badly in politics of any kind. I have learned a great deal about this government of ours and I would like to express my thanks to the American Legion Auxiliary for making it possible for me to attend this session of Girl's State.

Sulphur Shortage Cuts Into State's Fertilizer Supply

Florida farmers, whose consumption of 1,007,336 tons of fertilizer last year was the third largest of any single state, are expected to feel the pinch of the sulphur shortage which has curtailed shipments of the sulphur-nourishing mineral to fertilizer manufacturers.

Only North Carolina and Georgia used greater quantities of fertilizer in 1950. In cultivating sugarcane last year, Florida farmers used 11.5 per cent more fertilizer than they did in 1949. This year, the state's crop prospects are for production from 1,597,240 acres.

The fertilizer industry is the biggest user of sulphur. Over a third of the more than 5,000,000 tons of brimstone produced annually in the U. S. goes into superphosphate after first being converted into sulphuric acid. Last year, the nation's farmers paid $744,900,000 for a record 18,346,132 tons of fertilizer—more than double 1942 consumption and seven times that of 50 years ago. Floridians spent approximately $43,829,000 of this amount.

July Traffic Accidents Kill 59

Fifty-nine persons, 49 of them in rural areas, were killed in Florida traffic accidents during July, reports received at State Highway Patrol headquarters revealed today.

The patrol's report said that four counties have had no fatal accidents so far this year. They are: Gilchrist, Lafayette, Oklawaha, and Suwannee.

Only two of the eight pedestrians killed in July were in rural accidents.

The patrol's report said that Duval county, with 12 traffic deaths, led the state in such fatalities. Dea and Polk were second with six each. Four persons died on the streets and highways of Orange and Hillsborough counties, while Marion and Alachua each counted three.

Counties which reported two fatalities for July included Charlotte, Manatee, Sarasota, Bay and Walton.

The patrol said that 67 persons were killed in traffic accidents during July 1950.

WOMEN CAN ENLIST FOR TWO YEARS

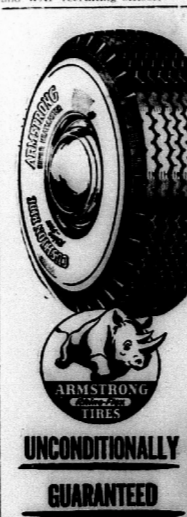

The enlistment period for women joining the Women's Army corps has been reduced to two years, according to Lieutenant Mildred H. Heaton, local WAC and WAF recruiting officer.

Women entering the Army previously were required to enlist for three years.

Lieutenant Heaton said the new policy was adopted to give women a better opportunity to try service careers without long term commitments.

High school graduates between 18 and 35 who are single or divorced and who have no dependents are accepted by the Army (WAC) and the Air Force (WAF), she added.

Veterans Information And Service

By Melvin T. Dixon
State Service Officer

I wish to again caution veterans who contemplate selling their homes which were purchased with GI loans, that their responsibility in the repayment of the loans on such property will continue until such loans are paid in full. The regulations under the Act provide in part as follows: "The assignment of, or other transfer of property by operation of law or otherwise, after the maturity of a lien thereon to secure a loan which is guaranteed in whole or in part by the Veterans Administration, shall not constitute an event of default, elective or otherwise..." The veteran is free to sell his property subject to the loan, but the regulations further provide that the lender cannot release him from personal liability without losing his guaranty.

It is clear that a veteran may find himself in trouble at some future time if he consents to the sale or transfer of his property in such a manner that the loan is not paid and the purchaser merely assumes the existing indebtedness or takes subject thereto. In such a case, the veteran remains personally liable for the payment of the loan, and, if the new owner fails to keep up his payments, the veteran may have to pay part of the debt defaulted by the new owner if the property is sold at foreclosure for less than the unpaid balance of the loan.

Veterans should not sell their property without making certain that their interests are protected. When a veteran sells a home secured by a GI loan, he should be sure that the purchaser either pays cash or arrange a loan in his name. Then the veteran should see that his own note is paid and that the lien on the property is marked satisfied on the records.

I wish to advise veterans who are called back into active service to sell out to escape the burden on the property, since they will still be responsible for the loan to the mortgage holder. Their interests have been protected, as previously mentioned.

- NO NEW TAXES
I am strictly opposed to new taxes. Let's live within our means.
- ABOLISH CITY GARBAGE TAX
40 per cent of our residents do not pay garbage tax and therefore do not have garbage collection. This causes some people to dump garbage in road ditches, clay-pits, etc. This results in unsanitary conditions in our city.
- STREETS AND SIDEWALKS
Our city is striving to grow. I am in favor of one mile of streets, and one mile of sidewalks each year.
- FAIRNESS TO ALL
I believe in being fair to all. In short, everyone pay taxes, etc., with no exceptions.
- LOCAL TAX ASSESSOR
I am definitely against employing outsiders to assess our property. We have qualified people in our own city who can do a much better job.
- DRINKING FOUNTAIN
With all the tax money collected, I am quite certain we can afford a cold water drinking fountain on our Mall.
- REST ROOMS
In the past it has been quite embarrassing to our policemen and local people when asked by tourists, or travelers, where our rest rooms are. There are many adults, and children that come to town to shop, etc. that need the necessary rest rooms. I believe that an item like this would have been more in favor with our citizens than our costly, and troublesome parking meters.

- CITY ORDINANCES

Salt Water Crab 50 Miles Inland

Blue crabs live in salt water, but one got lost recently and came up in the fresh water of the Santa Fe river at Oleno State Park, near High Springs, after an adventurous journey inland from the coast.

A 12-year-old boy, playing under the swinging bridge, saw a blue crab crawling feebly and dazedly out of the river. It was a large blue crab, more than five inches across, with all pincers intact.

The boy scooped the crab into a bucket and took it to Park Superintendent Carlo Maxwell who figured the crab was fifty miles from its native salt water habitat, nine miles of which had been traveled underground because the Santa Fe river disappears that many miles en route to the Suwannee river which flows into the Gulf of Mexico.

Also, the crab had climbed up a powerful waterfall because the Santa Fe river cascades downward when it vanishes into the earth.

Once the blue crab got rested up, Maxwell turned it free back into the Santa Fe river, positive that it could find its way back to the salty deep.

But he's still marveling how it had battled its way fifty miles inland, and upstream at that, without scratching a pincer.

A money-grabber is anyone who can grab more money than you can grab.
