Bloodmobile To Visit Avon Park Tuesday, June 17th

"Don't be Mr. Milquetoast! There's nothing to be afraid of in giving a pint of blood!" says George Woodham, chairman of the Armed Forces Blood Program for Avon Park.

"A lot of people seem to have an unreasonable fear about giving blood," Chairman Woodham said in an interview here recently, "but the process a blood donor goes through is as simple and harmless as a good night's sleep. The only thing to fear is the possibility that our forces in Korea won't get enough of this vital fluid. It's up to us to see that they do."

Mr. Woodham, speaking in connection with the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile scheduled here June 17th, went on to say that if a donor is in doubt of his physical condition or is lacking assurance that it will be safe for him to make a donation, a physician will always be on duty during the bloodmobile operation. His chief responsibility is to see that no one is accepted as a donor unless physically able to give without ill effect. In addition to the physician, the unit staff is composed of several registered nurses, specially trained and experienced in their work; and two custodians. New techniques of taking blood insure an entirely painless procedure.

Eligibility requirements for a prospective donor are few. Generally speaking, any healthy man or woman between the ages of 21 and 60 can donate a pint of blood. Donors should weigh at least 110 pounds. Young people between the ages of 18 and 21, may also donate if they are self-supporting, married, members of the armed forces, or if they have the written consent of their parents.

Heavy meals should not be taken prior to donation. During the four-hour period before giving his blood, the donor should eat eggs, meat, or fatty foods, such as butter and cream. These foods do not affect the donor, but they do affect the quality of the blood for transfusion purposes. Following the donation the donor may have the kind of food he wishes. A caution service will be provided by local Red Cross volunteers where donors will be given light refreshments immediately after donating.

It takes only 30 to 45 minutes for a donor to go through the full process of giving blood, and that includes registration, examination, and the probable time spent chatting with friends and neighbors in the canteen.

All blood donated by local citizens will be used strictly for defense purposes, including overseas shipments to the armed forces. Avon Park is one of the many communities not yet active in the National Blood Program to devote its energies exclusively to defense blood needs.

Summer Recreation Program To Include Lower Grades

For the first time the Summer Recreation Program for Avon Park School will include children that will be in the first, second, and third grades for the 1952-53 school term. This means the preschool children will have an opportunity to work in a group before they enter school in the fall. As planned now these children will be divided into groups of convenient size, and each group will meet two days a week. The hour each group will meet and the length of time for the meetings will be explained later. These meetings will be so scheduled that they will not interfere with any Daily Vacation Bible School that might be in progress at that time.

Mrs. Frank Morgan, the county music supervisor, will be in charge of this part of the program. It will include music (rhythms, singing, listening, creative, singing games), story telling, and dramatics.

Parents interested in having their children take part in this program please meet with Mrs. Morgan in the High School Auditorium on Monday, June 18, at 2:30 p.m.

Lykes Offers Tri-County Scholarships
Lykes Brothers Inc., of Tampa again will give $4000 over a four-year period for scholarships in Highlands, Glades and Hendry Counties.

Fred W. Lykes, Highlands County school superintendent was advised by J. W. Lykes, executive vice president of the Tampa corporation.

For several years Lykes Brothers have given scholarships to worthy students in three counties who are chosen on the basis of competitive examinations prepared by the State Department of Education with the cooperation of the school superintendents of the counties involved.

Each scholarship is worth $2000 to the successful competitor, who may choose any college or university in the nation. He or she receives $500 annually for four years, and no repayment is required.

The scholarships are set up in memory of three of the Lykes brothers: Lapecomb G. Lykes, in Highlands County; Thompson M. Lykes, in Hendry County; and Howell T. Lykes, in Glades County. Winners of the scholarship four years ago were Mildred Grosfield, Highlands County; Floyd Luckey Jr., Hendry County; Miss Doris Ann Griffith, Glades County.

Dates of the competitive examinations will be announced later by the school superintendents of the respective counties.

Dog Poisoner At Work In Avon Park

Several dogs have been poisoned in the past ten days in the neighborhood of Woodruff High, by a few low down person, who evidently has been scattering poison meat around the neighborhood, not realizing that some child might accidentally get hold of some of the poison.

The latest victims were two family pets belonging to the children of Paul Crichtfield of North Anoka Avenue. The older dog was let out of the house Monday night and returned in a few minutes and died almost immediately. The following day a year old pup was poisoned in the back yard. It takes a rather delicate type of person to stoop to dog poisoning, and it is hoped that the perpetrator of this vile deed, will be apprehended and prosecuted.

Public School Summer Program

Plans are now being made for the summer educational and recreational program to be conducted by the local school under the sponsorship of the Highlands County Board of Public Instruction.

A. B. Wilhite, supervising principal, will have general supervision of the program, which will continue for an eight-week period.

Mrs. Frank Morgan, general music supervisor, will have charge of music, folk dancing, and other activities for pre-school and primary grade children for at least two days each week. J. C. Mathews and Earl Varnes, local instructors, will work on a full-time basis, while Gay Capel, new Avon Park teacher and assistant coach, will divide time with Coach C. W. Frank, who has been employed on an 11-month basis.

Don Hansen, Sebiring instructor, will hold classes in driver training education and behind-the-wheel driving for students who are 14 years of age or older. In addition to the activities mentioned above, students are being given the opportunity to try out for the following activities to begin the week of June 10: swimming, life saving, tumbling, gymnastics, handball, croquet, golfing, American Legion baseball, softball, junior baseball, tennis, and basketball.

The program is being planned so as not to conflict with Bible schools to any great extent.

MEETING HELD AT SEBIRING MONDAY

The Board of Supervisors of the Highlands Soil Conservation District held their regular monthly meeting in the courthouse Monday night, June 2, with the following members present: Chairman Katharine Wagman, Cole Dandridge, Fred Patch, The supervisors agreed to accept the resignation of Jack Hutchinson from the board and discontinue the election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation and appointment of June 26.

Statistics furnished by Boy Scouts of America reveal that only one out of every 10,000 boys who join the scouts reach the rank of Eagle Scout. During the past 19 years since the charter was granted for Troop 157, nine boys of the troop have received this award. Avon Park is proud of these boys. They are listed in the order in which they received this recognition: J. L. Green, Charles Sherman (killed in action during World War II), Jim Meem and Herbert Todd on the same night, Glenn Whitcomb, Roger Sappington, Edgar Pabor, "Junior" Mayack, and Billy Moseley.

Incidentally, Sunday was the 19th anniversary of Troop 157, who was 78 years young when he received the Eagle Scout award in May, 1951, is recognized as the oldest person ever to receive this rank in Boy Scouts International. "Junior," as he is familiarly known by the teen-age scouts, is very active in helping give swimming lessons and instruction to youngsters in this area. For many years, Scout Mayack has been a director of recreation work in the county and for the past several summers he has been employed as a swimming instructor, at a camp in Wisconsin.

He will be leaving on June 6 to assume his duties there for another season.

In addition to the above-named Eagle Scouts, Avon Park has another active member who has received the Eagle for over two years. Edgar Pabor, who is a senior in high school this year, received this coveted award in January, 1950. Edgar is a member of the First Baptist Church and is very active in the young people's program. In addition to helping his mother operate their motel, he finds time to participate in football and basketball for the high school, in addition to his work with other scouts. Edgar's immediate plans are to enter the University of Florida this fall where he expects to major in architecture.

The success and progress made by the boys of Troop 157 is due largely to the untiring efforts of their scout master, Bob Gibson. Bob is a member of the First Methodist Church, president of Rotary, and local Standard Oil Agent. Bob himself is well on his way toward completing his work for the Eagle award.

Some Of Our
Springtime Birds

By The Bird Woman

There is an old saying that "we see what we look for" and indeed it is quite true.

Several people riding down the highway in a car will see entirely different objects; a cattleman sees the herds of cattle on the hillside. The botanist sees the shrubs and trees by the roadside. The driver presumably sees the road ahead, and the makes of the various cars he meets — unless of course the driver is a woman, she will probably see the hats and makeup of the woman occupants of every car she meets.

But perchance there is a bird lover in the car, all these interesting sights probably pass him by.

He sees the hawk or buzzard circling in the sky, the mocker serenading from the top-most branch of a tree; the flycatcher darting out from its perch to snag a passing insect; a covey of quail scurrying to cover as the sound of a car approaches, or the beautiful sparrow hawk perched on a telephone pole ready to dive on to some moving prey below.

It is very interesting even on a short drive to see how many species of birds can be seen, when we really look for them.

Early this spring some people from Kalamazoo, Michigan, hunted us up and asked us to go on a drive with them to identify some Florida birds.

We drove out toward Wauchula and turned off on a side road and came back the old road. Even on that short trip, we saw and identified 20 species of birds.

Last week on the Wauchula road we saw two swallow-tailed kites sailing along above us. It was the first of this species we have ever seen here, and it gave us quite a thrill. They are very beautiful birds, with their long black swallow-tails, black feather tips under their wings and white heads.

Recently we also saw for the first time in our side year, among heavy shrubbery, the "oven bird." It was rather late for it to be here, but it seemed quite content, hunting insects on the bare ground that had been recently swept.

The oven bird is quite easily identified. It belongs to the thrush family, and the white stripes on its breast are quite noticeable. It has the coloring of the thrush family and its bill is rather long for so small a bird, but it has been so equipped to gather its food among the trash and leaves on the ground. It doesn't appear to be as large as a robin, but it is very trim and alert looking. And it came within five feet of where we were sitting, it eyed us for a moment and then seemed to forget that we were there.

We saw it at the same location for three consecutive days, and then it disappeared. We presume that it joined others of its species on their northern trip.

For several years we have heard its call, "Teacher! Teacher! Teacher!", but this is the first time we have had the pleasure of seeing it.

We will be watching for its return next season, and hope it returns. The oven bird has been known to nest in Northwestern Florida, and we hope it will do as many birds do, extend its nesting areas southward, until it becomes a permanent resident.

The oven bird builds its nest on the ground, usually at the foot of a tree, and arches it over in the Dutch oven style—that is where it got its name.

It is considered a very valuable bird, as a destroyer of ground insects.

Snakes and rodents naturally destroy many eggs and also young each year, so their nests being on the ground are so accessible. Had our wonderful Creator not given them the ability to conceal their nests so skillfully with leaves and trash like their surroundings, this bird would have been extinct a long time ago.

Another interesting bird has visited us in flocks of 25 or 30 this spring. It is the cedar wax wing. They usually begin to appear about the same time as the martin; we saw them first when our mulberry trees were in fruit. They travel in tight little flocks and seem to drop into the trees. It doesn't take them long to locate all the ripe fruit and away they go, but they will return several times at feeding time during the day.

They are interesting to watch and we were sorry when the mulberries were all gone, but to our surprise and delight they seemed to enjoy the bloom in the Australian oak. At first we thought they were eating the leaves in the Australian oak. At first we thought they were eating the insects attracted to the leaves, but they finally became accustomed to our snooping and we could study them through our field glasses, and found they were feasting on the nectar and the bud itself.

The cedar wax wing is credited with scattering more mistletoe than any other bird, as they are extremely fond of the berries and they carry the seed many miles and they lodge on the bark of trees in the birds' excrement and quickly take root and grow.

The cedar wax wing is a tanish-brown with a glowing yellow underneath, which is quite noticeable as it flies. The male and female both have crests, then there is a black portion above the long bill that seems to circle up under the crest, and it makes it more pronounced, then there is a hairline of white above the black, and a little touch of white along the bill. There is a yellow border on the end of the tail feathers, and on some of the shorter wing feathers is a little spot that looks like sealing wax. That is where it gets its name, cedar wax wing.

27 COUNTIES CHANGE SHERIFFS IN ELECTION

W. R. England, certified public accountant, of this city has prepared a list showing that the recent election has made changes in 27 of the sheriff's offices of the 67 counties in the state. There were 11 counties in which the present sheriffs did not seek reelection, 33 candidates won in the first primary, and 30 candidates had run-off in the second primary. There were only 4 counties in which the sheriffs had no opposition. These were, Brevard, Gadsden, Gulf and Putnam.

The sheriffs in Broward, Pinellas, Sarasota and Volusia will have Republican opposition in November.

Some Trees To Add

By C. S. Donaldson

(Note: This is believed to be the last article written on plants by the late C. S. Donaldson. It is unpublished and perhaps not finished, as it is apparently a continuation of the series he published in this newspaper during 1950-51.)

The Loquat Tree is available at the Clubhouse of Commerce and is a very good tree. It is a native of China and Japan. You can plant one of two right after you cut the tree to grow, although you can wait a year's time if you start the seed in a gallon can of water. There are a few hardy Loquats about town but every yard should have one. The evergreen foliage is handsome, and the bloom coming in midwinter makes the yard fragrant as it should, belonging to the rose family. As the Loquat does not root deeply it needs extra water and fertilizer for good results. It is hardy in South Georgia but does not fruit there, yet is planted widely for its handsome foliage. I frequently send an Augusta nursery seed for growing the trees, there are some budded Loquats in South Florida but I do not see the need for it. The Loquat has been overlooked commercially. I once sent a strawberry rate of them to New York experimentally and received in return a check for $8.50. A ten acre planting of them should be highly profitable.

As to nut trees few have been planted. I have seen a number of Pecans bearing well and I have a handsome Queensland nut tree which crops well to the enjoyment of the squirrels but I share a few—much like a hazelnut. They are Macadamia Ternstroemia, and some Americans have started a big plantation of them on a South Pacific island and intend to put them in package form for the U. S. market. I have a few seed to spare for planting. The most promising nut tree I now think is the Japanese walnut, slightly smaller than the English walnut. My tree at Washington bore bushes of fine nuts and the tree I recently planted from the Augusta nursery is doing well. In three years I expect to get nuts. The world's supply of English walnuts is from Grenoble, France. The tree originated in Asia, and is called Juglans Regia, and I think the Japanese variety is the same except for some change due to climate. This Japanese walnut is better for the South. I have heard that there is a bearing Black Walnut tree (Juglans Nigra) growing near Wauchula.

Come June one may see in heavy bloom on the long slope of the Capitol grounds in Washington 12 to 15 foot specimens of the Silver Bell tree (Halesia Carolina). Bearing myriads of tiny white cups like lily-of-the-valley bloom they are most beautiful. Then in later years while botanizing in a high hammock between Dade City and Brooksville and on a tree a whole group of Silver Bell trees in full bloom, so they are a happy native. Tried transplanting to no avail, so I have added one here from the Augusta nursery and it is growing well. A year hence I will have Silver Bells on a tree. While living in Charlotte, N.C., we enjoyed eating Wild Pawpaws (Asimina Triloba) of the Custard Apple family. I also ate these stubby bush "bananas" on up to Canada. I have added one to my South American fruit collection, and am adding their tropical cousins, the Annonas, the Sweetapples, and others.

Soil Conservation News

By C. F. Howerton
Soil Conservationist

The recent rains we have been getting have started some grass planting activities in the Highlands Soil Conservation District but the lack of planting material has held this to a minimum.

M. C. Dupre, M. Kirkland and a few others are planting Pangola grass and W. F. Ward, Walter Monte, John M. Gentry, Wilson and C. B. Thayer have been planting hairy vetch as a legume in their pasture grounds. W. F. Ward, Jack Harkness, John Smook and George Smook have been planting timothy for cowboys in areas.

Cooper and R. J. Hagrove of Venus, Dr. Owen Ellington and H. A. Platt of Sevierville are preparing land to be planted to Pangola and Carib grass as soon as planting stock is available.

Two complete conservation plans were prepared this week for W. F. Ward and M. Kirkland of Avon Park. Both plans were for development of improved pasture.

The Highlands Soil Conservation District assisted Marvin Kahn and Mackie Brothers in working out water conservation problems last week.

During a grouse hunt in England, two sportsmen were shooting at a clump of trees near a stone wall. Suddenly a red face popped over the top of the wall. "Hey, you almost hit my wife!" "Did I?" cried the man, agast. "I'm terribly sorry—have a shot at mine over there."

Kindergarten Graduation

In the presence of the families and friends of the pupils, the Kay Whitcomb School presented its closing program Thursday night, May 29, at the Union Congregational Church House.

With Mrs. Whitcomb as "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," the program opened with one of the children asking to stay up a little while and play. This granted, they played, sang, dramatized and showed finger plays during the year.

The program: "Mistress Mary Quite Contrary" (song dramatization); "Aunt Lucy is Having a Tea Today" (song); "The Ball of Twine" (song); "Rhythm Band: See Saw, Bounce the Ball, and Swing Song (song action game); Finger Play; and "Me and My Teddy Bear," "Old King Cole," and "Hey, Diddle Diddle" (song dramatization).

After the last number, instead of "being spanked soundly," the children were sent quietly to bed, tip-toeing from the room.

The kindergarten children taking part were Sharon Lee, Georgianna Godwin, Jan Adams, Barbara Jean Bigbie, Vaunda Bennett, Deborah Reddick, Lydia Shepherd, Sonny Thompson, Dickie Ferguson, Spencer Hinkle, Bruce King, Dennis Finkbe, Lanes Padgett, Lanes Adams, and Donny Whitcomb.

The children presented Mrs. Whitcomb with a maypole and a spoon on which was engraved "Class of '52".

SERMONETTE

WRITINGTIME
Father John G. Cronin
Church of the Redeemer

Whitenside reminds us once more of the wonderful event that occurred in the upper room in Jerusalem - when there suddenly came a sound from Heaven, and the Holy Ghost descended in tongues of fire, and the Apostles, regarding their fear of the Jews, went out to proclaim to the world the glad tidings of the Risen God.

It was the first stage of their discharge of the greatest commission to mankind - "to be witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and even to the uttermost part of the earth." From the human point of view, it seemed a hopeless task at first. But the man who undertook it was "endowed with power from on high," and each succeeding Pentecost Sunday, has borne witness to their marvelous success.

The mystery of Whitenside holds no important place in the Christian dispensation, that we cannot be surprised at the Church's ranking it, in her liturgy, on an equality with her position of eminence. The Feast is the redemption of man by the victory of Christ; Pentecost is the Holy Ghost taking possession of man redeemed. The Ascension is the intermediate mystery; it connects the Feast, by placing the Man-God, the Conqueror of death, and our Head, at the right hand of the Father; it prepares the mission of the Holy Spirit to our earth.

The Holy Spirit of love and truth is called, in the sacred Scriptures, the "Gift of God"; and it is on the day of Pentecost that the Father sent out to us the ineffable Gift.

"Just fancy," said the adoring mother, "he's only 17 months old and he's been walking for nearly nine months!"

"Really," said the visitor, warmly, "Don't you think it's about time he sat down?"
