PEACE FOR OUR HEARTS

Rev. Herbert D. Grady
Union Congregational Church
In the Gospel of John we read Christ's last will and testament: "I give unto you, not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. Christ had nothing of a material nature to leave to his disciples. He left them something of far greater significance. He left them his kind of peace. How sorely we need this gift in this time, when life is mostly a continuous war of nerves."

The conditions under which we live and do our work are not fully to blame, however. A great deal of our trouble is in ourselves. We simply lack a source of inner strength and quietude. There is no well of deep content within the heart. What a saving factor it would be in so many of our trying situations, if peace stood as sentinel at the gateway of our minds and hearts, holding them serene in a restless age? That is what Christ promises. It is not any kind of peace that will do, however, it is Christ's peace that we need.

How does this peace come? Of one thing we are certain, it does not come by ignoring the existence of evil in the world. There is no hope in any sect that promises Christianity without a cross. We cannot imagine ourselves into security by getting drunk on words. Christianity that becomes simply a retreat ends in helpless failure. Our religion does not counsel quietness in the face of evil, rather it stands up and challenges evil and meets it head on. You can never rid the mind and heart of evil by imagining that they are not there. It is nonsense to attempt to solve trying problems through the assumption that sickness, sorrow and dying are but figments of the imagination. These things are real and are best met in a brave, intelligent, Christian way.

In the Christian religion there is insight and power that enables us to meet and overcome the untoward circumstances of life. Faith in God through Christ arms one against the assaults of this difficult world. Jesus promises further the good gift of the Holy Spirit. Peace comes from our confidence in the resources sufficient for the demands of each hour. Christ's offer of peace is to you who are part of a worn and weary generation. Will you accept it? Will you stop thinking that you must carry the burden alone? We do not have to bear our cross by ourselves. We have the promise of Christ that he will be our yokefellow.

Births

(The following births all occurred at Walker Memorial Hospital.)

To Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Randolph Holly of Lake Placid, a daughter, Margaret Marie, born May 29. Birth weight was 7 pounds 7 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Conrad Luther of Sebring, a daughter, Teresa Ann, born May 26. Birth weight was 5 pounds 15 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McKenzie of Frostproof, a daughter, Deborah Lynn, born May 27. Birth weight was 9 pounds 8 ounces.

To Mr. and Mrs. James M. Anderson, a son, Stephen William, born May 28. Birth weight was 8 pounds 8 ounces. The baby is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Thompson and the great-grandnephew of Mrs. William Hauptmann.

As a married couple reminisced, the husband remarked, "By the way, wonder whatever became of the old-fashioned girls who fainted when a man kissed them?" His wife gave him a withering look. "What I'd like to know," she retorted, "is what happened to the old-fashioned men who made them faint!"

Who started the 40-hour week? Robinson Crusoe. He had all his work done by Friday.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

(Written Exclusively for Florida's Weekly Press)

Washington — Because of my experience in the South Pacific in World War II, I think I know something of the gulf between the people here at home and our fighting forces in far off Korea. This was brought home to me the other day as I sat in a conference with General Matthew Ridgway and heard him tell Senator Richard Russell and other members of the Senate Armed Services Committee about what is happening in the Far East.

Many of us have been quite disturbed by the apparent manner in which some of our generals have been tricked into playing into the hands of the Communist propagandists. General Ridgway told us in forthright factual language what happened at the Kojima prison camp. Without offering any excuses, he recited the difficulties imposed upon our forces because of our strict adherence to international law for handling prisoners.

Our forces have on the island of Kojima more than 170,000 communists. To guard these prisoners, only 3000 American boys were available.

The thousands of POW's in the Kojima prison are brutal, toughened and diehard communists who understand only the lash, the fear of death, and hunger. They are let within this city of prisoners by clever communists who manage to keep themselves anonymous. They continually scheme to embarrass the UN camp commanders. The comparative handful of armed guards under the Kojima camp commander has worked night and day in keeping these prisoners under control.

Lacking tanks and heavy weapons removed, had real difficulty in handling outbreaks. But knowing the situation as he did, General Dodd's laxness in putting himself in a position to be captured seems inexcusable. I have agreed with those whose letters to me have been most critical of General Dodd and Colson. Many of us here have been impatient about obvious mistakes in critical times.

But General Ridgway's assurance here has done a great deal to restore confidence in our armed forces. The general is a young, appearing, muscular, vigorous man who gives you the impression of stern military capability of meeting any situation which arises, no matter how tough and disagreeable. His dark flashing eyes arouse in those who meet him a strong feeling of confidence in his leadership.

General Ridgway told us about the steps taken to meet the Kojima uprising, and about how promptly another great, rugged American — Florida's Jim Van Fleet has moved to handle this problem in a stern, military manner.

Ridgway also told us about another tough infantryman — Brigadier General Haydon Boatner, who now is in command at Kojima and in no mood to stand for any Communist trouble-making. Boatner is now manned and equipped to enforce his orders. Contributing substantially to this new sense of security in Washington is the leadership of the Senate's Armed Forces Chairman — Senator Richard B. Russell. Russell has let General Ridgway and all others concerned know that the American people are expecting a better performance in Korea in handling of prisoners and war questions. He so stated in unmistakable language.

We are looking now for better news from Korea.

The best way to get a bad law repealed is to enforce it strictly. —Lincoln

Bird Study In The School

By The Bird Woman
We have indicated before that the elementary grades of the Avon Park School had been studying birds this year and now that the study is over for the year, we would like to go a little more into detail concerning it.
Avon Park School is pioneering in this part of the state by having a specific study course on birds, and we hope by another year the work can be expanded.
The children were given a mimeographed sheet each week on one specific bird and this lesson was taught to them by their teachers, then the sheet was placed in a scrapbook or loose-leaf notebook, and the children collected suitable bird pictures, feathers and supplementary work to illustrate each lesson.

There was an article in the Avon Park Sun each week dealing with the same bird that was being studied at school, and that article could be placed in the book as supplementary work and considered for credit.

The teachers selected 10 points on which the books should be graded at the end of the course. This was all planned before the work was begun and had the sanction and approval of the County Superintendent of Schools. Even those of us who knew about the work were not prepared for the wonderful results when the books were handed in to be judged.

The books were judged by grades, each grade in the elementary school having three rooms. Had it not been for the wear and tear on the books we would have urged that they be put on display at school, and let the public see what had really been accomplished. It was practically unbelievable.

Where all the beautiful bird pictures and supplementary work came from we are still wondering and also the unique and original way some of the pupils handled their work was certainly praiseworthy, to say the least.

There were three judges chosen, two of them were retired teachers who had taught in our schools, and the other teacher had not been teaching recently. They were Mrs. Bussard, Mrs. Dennison, and Mrs. Camp. They all felt it was one of the hardest tasks they had ever encountered to screen out enough books so they could select only first, second, and third for awards from each grade, as so many of the books were outstanding.

Had we known in advance just how the children and teachers would react to this bird program, it would have been better to have had awards for each individual room, instead of each grade. So if your child's book did not receive an award, please don't think it was because the judges didn't consider it outstanding.

We all appreciate the way the teachers and parents have cooperated in making this pioneering event a success.

Tuesday morning the entire elementary school assembled in the auditorium of the high school, and appropriate ceremonies took place, with the children being presented their awards and the County Supervisor, Mr. Markam, was on hand and took flash pictures of the children holding their awards.

The first award in the six grades was a white bird house with a red roof. The second and third were ribbons.

Following is the list of those receiving awards:
First prize: Barbara Ann Amos,

David Barefield, Larry Gore, Bill McCreary, Tommy Doublerley, Robert Hall.

Second: Doyle Griffin, Jimmie Austin, Raymond Hall, Edith Nell Wilson, Kenneth Wells, Wendell Williams.

Third: Betty Jean Hill, Patty Stites, Nicky Wetherington, Clydes Coleman, Howard Payne, Sarah Norton.
