WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

(Written Exclusively for Florida's Weekly Press)

Washington — I am back at the office after six weeks visiting in Florida where I have had many refreshing and warming visits with friends in all parts of the state. There are many others I wanted to see and talk with and everybody will understand the frustration of having limited time and opportunity.

This is being written before the election but by the time most of you read this, the election will be over. Then we can turn our thoughts and efforts toward other things with faith in the people and their decision.

During the next week, I will be busy with "house keeping" duties in anticipation of the opening of Congress. I expect to move my staff into a better office suite; I am hoping that, with greater seniority, to move to a better committee; I want to get my staff together to plan for handling duties during the hard session of Congress which faces us.

After about a week here, I am returning to Florida to meet many engagements, returning here just in time to plan and prepare for Christmas at home with my family.

Notes From Here And There:—The University of Florida is getting a million dollar federal loan to build ten new dormitories.

I have talked a great deal about putting the Young Democrats organization in the hands of young Democrats, so when I was asked for a suggested list of outstanding young Floridians I furnished it; if you hear from this, you can take it from there. Air Force is moving the Air Photographic and Charting Service Headquarters from Philadelphia to Pine Castle Air Base, Orlando. In the move, effective early in December, will be 81 officers, 90 airmen and 287 civilians. We are seeking federal aid for Cedar Key folk whose fish market dropped. The U.S. Embassy in London sent me clippings from the London Daily Mirror and Sunday Graphic, both of which devoted considerable space to Abbie Sweetwine, the Air Force nurse from Cocoa who earned the name "The Angel of Platform Six" helping take care of the injured from the dreadful train wreck at Harrow, England recently. All of us are proud of the fine deeds by this colored Florida girl. Navy has given an 81 cent hourly wage raise to approximately 1,500 laborers, mechanics and helpers at Miami and Key West.

CONCERNING THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

One of the institutions always considered in assessing the cultural level of an urban American community is the public library.

The public library that properly fills the needs of a community such as Avon Park must be modern and attractive and it must be adequate in space, books and personnel.

If it does not meet these requirements, it fails to be the cultural center of the community that it should be.

Avon Park has a new, modern building with modern equipment, but a library, in order to serve the public properly, should be open every day. It must also have modern books and it should acquire them when the books are published.

In order to meet these requirements the library must have funds. That it does not is not due to the lack of diligence on the part of the library officials. The primary reason lies in inadequate appropriations from the City.

With an income of $20,000 a year, we would be able to keep the library open every day and buy needed books and supplies.

We could increase our circulation and rank with any library its size in the state.

Will the citizens of Avon Park work together and help build it up?

Avia J. Slaughter, Librarian

The adversity of today is surely a man-made condition—and it is up to man to remedy it.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

B. C. WILSON HARDER

A wily Persian, Mossadegh, Premier of Iran, is causing friends and foes to step in Washington.

His current actions, plus the recent release of the long secret Federal Trade Commission report on the worldwide oil monopoly to the Senate Small Business Committee, could, and may, show the lid off the every control plan of Big Oil.

A British firm, Anglo-Iranian, has a deal in Iran. The FTC report shows this British company is loaded with Standard and other U.S. companies, to peg oil prices.

Iran disagreed with the royalties paid for his irreplaceable petroleum. The worth of the license is a matter for conjecture. The FTC report states Persian Gulf Oil sold to the U. S. Navy for $1.86 during the war, and to the Marshall Plan for $1.65, costs from 27 to 40 cents per barrel to produce including royalties.

Perhaps the wily Persian took the viewpoint that if the world must pay such high prices for oil, Iran should get more.

The situation now became involved. Iran has 2 million tons of oil to ship, but no buyers.

None of the major American companies have made a move to buy oil from Iran despite their claims of fierce competition in the oil industry. Independent U. S. oilmen do not dare buy Iranian oil.

British petroleum advertisements in U. S. threaten anyone attempting to buy the oil.

© National Federation of Independent Business

So in a non-communist world of supposedly free trade, that is confronted with a buyer ready and able to sell, and no buyers.

Mossadegh has worked State Department into tight corner. For one thing, State Department offered Iran $10 million in U. S. taxpayers' cash to settle a claim Iran has against British Anglo-Iranian. It was refused.

State Secretary Dean Acheson then made the most startling offer of all. In writing he stated that the following condition "the freedom of Iran to sell its oil on other than a monopoly basis" is acceptable to the U. S. Then, for the first time in years, a high level U. S. official has recognized publicly monopoly practices in oil industry.

This official recognition of an oil monopoly, plus the Federal Trade Commission report on a world oil monopoly, could be the start of restoring the petroleum industry to a status of free competition, restoring opportunity to independent U. S. oilmen.

Consumers could also be relieved of the burden of an artificially supported price structure.

Big Oil must establish the entire matter as Russian inspired. However, for a year Iran has had oil to sell and despite boycotts has not sold Russia.

While in desperation Iran may eventually be forced to the Russian market, it will be monopoly forcing that move. The entire fight with Iran has been to save the oil monopoly, for Iranian oil were sold to independents as well as the monopolists. It could end the every arrangement by which British and American interests peg oil prices around the world.

CRACKER POLITICS

By Allen Morris

Tallahassee—An unusual and now completed Florida experiment has shown that dissimilar and sometimes antagonistic groups—businessmen, University researchers, and government officials—can form a successful team.

Normally, a typical business man regards a college researcher as a well-meaning but impractical fellow. The researcher may look upon the businessman as capable only by some strange quirk of life, of making money. And both take a dim view of the usual government official.

But gathered on the common ground of membership in the Florida Industrial Development Council, leaders of all three groups talked freely across the table and apparently discovered that nobody present was such a bad fellow, after all.

Business leaders learned that scientific research, in and out of the state's universities, actually constituted the base of the pyramid they were trying to build. And both the researchers and the businessmen found that government was a necessary and desirable third part of the triangle.

The Council's successful and harmonious merging of top business and research brains will be without precedent in the country.

Result of that successful merging has been that, instead of the mere dribble that Florida received in the past, new industrial plant expansion has averaged about $3,000,000 a week during the past three years—the period the Council was in existence. Since the state's natural advantages for industry—climate, geographical location, have not changed, it scarcely could be denied that the Council played a part in Florida's rapidly improving industrial position among Southern states.

And the figure of $3,000,000 a week included, of course, only those larger plants which came to the attention of statisticians for the State Improvement Commission and did not include small factories which will not be tabulated until the Census of Manufactures is completed by the Federal government.

New jobs directly created by the industries cited above are estimated at a minimum of 15,000. But this is only part of the story, since every new plant creates the need for expanded activity in the retail trade and service industries. A new $24,000,000 plant is bringing 300 families to small town Florida community. In the course of events, the population growth of some 2,500 individuals requires more grocery stores, more filling stations, more dry cleaners, more doctors, more dentists and so on—perhaps an equal number of additional people.

However great as the Council's material achievements were in the field of industrial development, the significant long-run gain may well have been in discovering a new formula for citizen-government cooperation.

That formula was: The ability, as Chairman McGregor Smith succinctly stated it, "to put on our hats and walk off any time we felt we were wasting time. That the businessmen stuck for the full legal life of the Governor's Order creating the Council may be regarded as their personal satisfaction with its usefulness. (Not was this belief confined to Council members. The national magazine Business Week, for example, described Florida's moneyless Council in its August 9 issue as "alert" and "wonderfully to the high-talking, high-sounding Commission.")

Making it possible for the members to put on our hats and walk off was the fact that the Council had no State-paid workers, no of ten, and no urge to perpetuate its existence. Indeed, the original business members dug into their own pockets to defray the expense of an elaborate New York dinner at which Florida's advantages were detailed for some 500 financiers, they picked up the tab for a Washington dinner meeting with Federal material purchasers. (The business members of the Council were quite aware that a well-paid bureaucrat has kept many a government agency alive long after all reason disappeared for its continuance.)

Since there was no money to spend and since none of the researchers or officials involved expected any compensation beyond his normal salary, the program assumed some of the characteristics of a crusade. Perhaps the most enthusiastic participants were the researchers, some of whom declined from time to time that the Council provided an outlet for their work which too often in the past had simply gone into filing cabinets instead of being put to public use.

Working as a unit, the businessmen-researcher-government team divided up the job in this way: (1) the researchers discovered new opportunities for industry in Florida, (2) the government agencies promoted these opportunities or processed the least desirable ones from such promotion, and (3) the businessmen added dollar-wise counsel and their prestige in opening doors to outside investors.

That no one group could have functioned successfully without the others may be concluded after Governor Warren's rule of circumstantial evidence, from the fact that industry, stagnant in previous years—had rushed into Florida like iron filings to a magnet during the Council's existence. And there was a by-product of the Council's activities that seemed to augur well for the future of the state: the researchers and businessmen gained respect for the other. While the exchange of compliments at the concluding session might well be written off as conventional amenities, what was privately said afterwards among each group had not been other than genuine.

This mutual recognition that each has a talent to share and make this great state a greater one.

Halloween Carnival A Success

The Halloween Carnival was a huge success and the Junior Women's Club wishes to thank its members, the Woman's Club, American Legion and Auxiliary, Eastern Star, and the many merchants for their cooperation and help in making this carnival such a success—Fred Smith, Ridge Fuel Co. for use of stoves and fuel gas; A&P Food Store (donated coffee); Tootsie Drag Co.; Standard Oil; Shell Oil; Per Market; Florida Power Corp.; Paul Richardson, and Highland Coca-Cola Co.

The Senior Women's Club, which operated the food booth, reports that around $100 was taken in by them. This cash also expresses its thanks to the above merchants.

All of the children at the carnival had fun fishing in the fish pond and throwing confetti on their playmates. Everyone enjoyed the good food and getting together on the Mall. There were so many good costumes to choose from that the judges had a hard time.

Below is a list of award winners. Some didn't go to the bandstand, and some of the names are unknown and will be omitted from the list. We're sorry.

SEBRING WELFARE OFFICE LOCATED IN COURT HOUSE
The local office of the Florida Department of Public Welfare in Sebring has moved from its old location on the City Pier to the second floor of the Court House. The Sebring office will continue to be open at the same hours of 8:00 A.M. to 12:00 noon on the first and third Monday of each month. There has been no change in the Avon Park office, which is still located on the second floor of the City Hall, and is open the second and fourth Monday morning of each month.

Politics should be completely divorced from the State Road Department. The best available personnel should be secured and retained to serve the public interest without fear of political pressure. Such a policy would eliminate much of the waste of funds and make for a better, more permanent highway system.

AVON PARK SERMONETTE

MAN'S GROWING KNOWLEDGE OF GOD

Rev. John Q. Crumby, Vicar, Church of the Redeemer

Since time immemorial, men have worshipped some god or gods. The beginnings of religion are lost in the obscure haze of prehistoric folk lore and mythology. Sociologists, anthropologists, and historians alike all tread on very unsteady ground when they try to define and locate for us the first real faint glimmerings of the presence and need for religion in the life of primitive man. But these same social scientists are on secure ground when they do state and maintain that religion and religious yearnings were among the earliest of man's feelings along with the feelings of cold and hunger which prehistoric man experienced.

In other words, we seem to have always been born having within each one of us an instinct, as it were, to be religious. Just as we have always come into this world equipped with those basic and primary drives which urge us towards obtaining food and which urge us towards religious, towards religious worship.

The ancient Hebrews, like their fellow primitives, went through the most of the stages of development of discovering the true and real idea of God. Now these chosen ones also changed their concepts of God as they grew up, matured religiously. The terrible and awesome God of the early chapters of the Old Testament is not at all like the concept we have of the God we worship today. These ideas were mazy, and misty glimpses of the reality of the Divine nature. Nor is the imperially just God of the prophets the complete and final word on the true nature of the God whom we worship. The God of the prophets, the righteous, just God, was the result of further searching into the whole personality and nature of Christ. Each search, each upward gaze, led outward groping toward final light... all of it adds up, a bit here, a morsel there, we see have the complete, the sum total of the revealed, true concept of the whole nature of God.

For, you see, it remained for God Himself to reveal to men the completeness, the real fullness of His own nature. It is in the birth of our Lord, that God chose the time, the place, and the manner of His entrance into our world so that at last we could have more than a partial, speculative, and philosophic knowledge of His true nature. It is in the Christ, the incarnation, that God reveals Himself as the humble God, the God who cares and loves, who is worried and concerned enough about man and man's mundane affairs that He came to earth so that men might understand all this care, love, and concern, and see it all personified.

All historic time marked B.C. can well be considered as the time in which men struggled from within themselves, for the most part, seeking for a surer knowledge of God. And in their struggles, they were assisted, from time to time, to come to earth so that men might understand all this care, love, and concern, and see it all personified.

The Florida Press Association will be host to the National Editorial Association when it meets in Miami, January 8-10.

MRS. MOSELEY ATTENDS WELFARE BOARD MEETING

Mrs. L. M. Moseley was in Fort Myers on Wednesday, October 29, to attend the regular monthly meeting of the District No. 8 Welfare Board, of which she is a Highlands County representative.

Mrs. Moseley reports that there are now 387 people in Highlands County receiving Old Age Assistance in a total amount of $14,834 a month; that 78 families with 169 children receive Aid to Dependent Children payments in the total amount of $11,445.50 monthly, and 16 blind people in Highlands County receive Aid to the Blind in the total monthly amount of $692.

Mrs. Moseley said that Florida's average Old Age Assistance grant is $38.14 per month, which is well above that of most Southern states, which range from a high of $46.35 for Louisiana, to $16.67 for Mississippi.

These averages were computed as of June 30 according to Mrs. Moseley, and are as current figures as can be obtained.

Calling Teen Age Hill Billies

A "Bodie Hawkins' Day" dance is being sponsored by the Sophomore Class of the Avon Park High School, for high school students and their dates. The dance will be Saturday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m., in the gymnasium.

The girls bring the boys, but you may come "stag" or "drag" wear hill-billy costume. It's a sock dance—no shoes on the gym floor.

Price is one cent per measurement around the waist.

A lot of fun has been planned. As one poster made by a member of the Sophomore Class puts it: "Come—eat, drink, and be married by Marrylin' Sam."

Teen Club Talk

There is so much going on I have to write an article so all parents and teen-agers can understand our policies and programs.

There was a club meeting at the high school Thursday of last week, but not enough time for decisions, so a representative group met Saturday night and settled all problems. Bobby Collins presided.

1. The biggest one (problem) being whether or not to buy a pin-ano—but Mrs. Warren rode the club such a generous proposition it turned out to be no problem at all. Mrs. Maxwell is going to handle getting the piano and we are grateful to both of these ladies.

2. Wooden skates will be bought and will be for rent upstairs at ten cents a half hour. We are going to run a speaker upstairs so there will be music to skate by.

3. Youth Center cards are abolished but those whose time is not up may use them until the first of June. There will be a ten cent admission charge. Anyone unable to pay please see me. We have offers from three men (two in the City government) to pay your way personally.

4. After much discussion and a narrow margin, a vote was taken on the matter of the under-age child as an official chaperone called by the chaperone committee; the mother may then, if desired, have the 7th graders who have been coming will be welcome, even though some of the younger group are willing, perhaps a separate time could be arranged for them.

5. We are investigating the possibility of renting a juke box, but I don't know if it is in great demand by all.

6. That we have a Christmas party. The date isn't set, but Arny's argument and her mother will work out details.

So much for the meeting. Now that the club is humming we have planned a treasure hunt, a prom, participation in Armistice Day, a very special Thanksgiving dinner after the game. This aside from the usual.

Teen-agers, choose the weekend you want for decorating and eating as hosts. Call me.

Bunny Hettie and Jerry "Red-bone" Children are lucky couple this week. Sandwiches and drinks and admission on the club.

The young man who was rude to the chaperone Saturday will have to explain his attitude to Jack or me and apologize to her before he will be allowed back at the club. I'm sure from the teen court's reaction they are capable of taking it from there if need be.

Electrical work has been done in the dance room, enabling us to have more light without using the overhead light which has never been popular.

WITH THIS "EB" PLOW

MM "EB" PLOW FITS ANY TRACTOR WITH HYDRAULICALLY-CONTROLLED DRAWBAR

Minneapolis-Moline offers farm-owners everywhere the heavy-duty EB Plow with one-point hitching for 1-or-2-plow tractors. Here's the plow that assures superior performance and fast, easy operation on ANY small tractor equipped with a hydraulically controlled drawbar. New one-point hitch with automatic "True-Draft" leveling gives you an attached disc plow that does more uniform work, faster... always plows at the level for which it is set.

THE EB DISC PLOW attaches close-up to the rear wheels to give the tractor plenty of traction. To attach the plow you just back the tractor into the open hitch... turn the lever to clamp the hitch jaws to the tool bar and secure with one bolt. A heavy landside wheel can be steered from any tractor by an adjustable guide-rope so you can easily follow contours or back up.

BUILT FOR LONGER LIFE

Long-life Discs on the sturdy EB Plow are made of high-carbon steel, cross-rolled and electro-hardened so that they stay sharp, yet do not break. An easy pitch setting is provided for best penetration in hard soil, for proper turning, for mixing of loose soil, and for covering tall-growing. Width of cut is adjustable up to 22 inches.

Come in or call for a demonstration! See the EB Disc Plow perform in your small tractor equipped with a hydraulically-controlled drawbar.

FPC INSTALLS 200,000TH METER

When Florida Power Corporation put its 200,000th meter into service last week, President W. J. Clapp, left, presented a television set to Mr. and Mrs. George Honner in St. Petersburg, at whose home the meter was installed.

Dramatically illustrating the tremendous growth of Florida, company officials pointed out that during the past 5 years 100,000 meters were installed—as many as the company installed during the first 50 years of its existence.

The 200,000 meters Florida Power has in service are located throughout the 31 counties served. At the present time the company is adding new customers at the rate of 1,500 per month. To keep up with this steady growth the company has a huge construction program in progress with new plants being built at Avon Park, Ellaville, and Oldsmar.

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"
By Russell Kay

Are you insured or do you think you are insured?

I don't know whether you have paid any attention to it or not, but if you read your newspaper you probably have noticed that damage suits for automobile accidents no longer are for $5,000 or $10,000.

No sir, today, the injured party sues for $25,000, $50,000 or as high as $150,000. And to make matters worse, juries and courts are inclined to favor the injured party and allow claims that a few years ago would have been considered exorbitant.

For many years I have carried liability insurance on my car. Long before it was required by law, I thought I was safe when I carried a 5 and 10 policy, but today any guy driving an automobile had better carry at least $50,000 or he may wake up to find himself behind an eight ball that will take him the rest of his life to get clear of.

Thanks to the New Deal and the Fair Deal that has devaluated the dollar to where it is worth only 50c or less, folks who get hurt are inclined to go out for big dough. They contend that a sprained ankle or stiff neck is worth at least $25,000 and if they lose an arm or a leg, Oh Boy, look out.

Well, I have stepped up my liability insurance to $50,000; not because I have that kind of money, but because I might get into a jam and have a judgment slapped against me for a lot more money than I am actually worth. Why should I care on account of their can't get blood out of a turnip. Well maybe they can't, but they can sit back and take every dime I might happen to make the rest of my life if the courts give them a judgment.

Maybe you noted that insurance rates on automobiles increased 42 percent. Any way you figure it, that's a lot of percent. You know insurance companies aren't in business for fun. They establish their rates on the basis of the claims they are called on to pay. When you and I and a lot of other dumb motorists are careless and allow the accident rate to go up by leaps and bounds, we can rest assured that insurance rates will go up right along with them and properly so.

If motorists would use a little common sense and judgment and drive more carefully, the accident rate could be substantially reduced, and when that happens our insurance rates will be reduced accordingly. But it looks like folks enjoy paying higher rates and instead of being more careful we are driving faster, ignoring traffic laws and carrying on to where anyone who ventures out on a highway takes his life in his hands.

The Florida Safety Council calls attention to the fact that the average automobile accident costs $200 or more while the average injury costs from $150 to $500. When you consider that in the first six months of this year we had 436 fatalities, 15,900 injured, and recorded 61,800 accidents in Florida you can realize that the situation is serious.

Nobody is to blame for this appalling record but YOU, Mr. Motorist. The Safety Council, Highway Patrol and all other agencies can scream their heads off and warn you until the cows come home, but until you actually wake up to do something about it yourself, the situation will get worse before it gets better.

And while on the subject of insurance, maybe you think you are protected with the insurance at your house or apartment building. But you are not. Most of the time you are not insured for more than a $10,000 and you are not insured for more than 50 or 75 percent.

Very few homes in the country today are fully insured. 90 percent of them are underinsured and if a fire occurred the property owners would find that they couldn't come anywhere near replacing their loss with the pitiful amount of insurance they would receive.

Your house, like mine, was probably insured away back when a dollar was a dollar and if it had burned down then we would have been fully covered. But, brother, if it burned today with the dollar value where it is and construction costs where they are, you would find that your so-called $5,000 house insured for $5,000 couldn't be replaced for $10,000 or $15,000.

Most of us are living in a fool's paradise. We just don't realize

... If ...

If everyone who drives a car could lie a month in bed
With broken bones and stitched-up wounds, or fractures of the head
And there endure the agonies that many people do;
They'd never preach safety any more to me or you.
If everyone could stand beside the bed of a close friend,
And hear the doctor say "no hopes" before the fatal end,
And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic I am sure we'd soon embrace.
If everyone could meet the wife and children left behind
And step into the darkened homes where once the sunshine shined,
And look upon that vacant chair where Daddy used to sit,
I'm sure each reckless driver would be forced to think a bit.
If everyone would realize pedestrians on the street
Have just as much the right-of-way as those upon the seat,
And train their eyes for children who run recklessly at play,
This steady toll of human lives would drop from day to day.
If everyone who drives a car would heed the danger signs,
Placed by highway engineers who also have marked the lines,
To keep the traffic in the lane and give it proper space,
The accidents we read about could not have taken place.
And last—if he who takes the wheel would say a little prayer
And keep in mind those in the car dependent on his care,
And make a vow and pledge himself to never take a chance,
The great crusade for safety then would suddenly advance.

Wild Turkeys More Abundant This Year

Wild turkey hunters will find an abundant supply of birds this shooting season, according to Fred Stanberry, biologist in charge of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, who is in charge of the deer and turkey restoration programs.

Stanberry said that statistics gathered by other game biologists and wildlife officers indicate that this will be one of the best seasons in years as the hunters try to get their share of the estimated population of 45,000 turkeys now in Florida.

The present turkey population has greatly increased in the last five years when there were only 26,000 of these game birds in Florida. But it's a far cry from the numerous birds found in the early pioneer days and it's a long way from the estimated number that the State of Florida can safely accommodate, according to Stanberry.

One of the most important factors in retarding the turkey comeback has been the practice of a few undesirable hunters who shoot the unwary "frying size" birds during the summer, he added.

Sportsmen will have the same number of days to shoot turkeys this year as they did in 1951-52, with the season starting Nov. 20 and ending Feb. 1. Hunters are permitted to take gobblers only in the Second and Third Districts, while either sex may be killed in the First, Fourth, and Fifth Districts. Turkeys must be tagged immediately after being killed with a tag from the hunting license.

AVON PARK FAMILY HAS VETS OF 3 WARS

 With the signing up of Henry D. Clark as a member of World War I, World War II, and the Korean War, and all of them are new members of the local post.

Dr. A. R. Clark is the member who is a veteran of the First World War; his son, Gene, is a veteran of the second World War and Henry another son, is a recently discharged veteran of the present conflict.

Highlands Post No. 69 claims that there is only one other post in the United States that has three members in a single family who are also veterans of the three wars from which Legion membership can be derived, according to the Vice-Commander Francis A. LaFlam, Post Membership Chairman.

Soil Conservation News

Clover planting in the Highlands Soil Conservation District is beginning to get underway and all indications are that the acreage will be greater than last year. Durrance Ranch led off with a 600-acre planting last month, but was almost equal to the entire acreage planted in the District last year.

Several other cooperators have reported purchasing seed for planting to be made this month. Some of which were as follows: Jack Ingle, H. C. Kennard, A. M. Stephens of Sebring, Everett Bonney of Lorida, W. F. Ward and Ivey Futch, Avon Park and D. C. Kelley and Wesel Durrance of Lake Placid. Most of the clover planted is mentioned above will be White Dutch and Hubam, however, Ward, Futch, Ingle and Kelley are making small plantings of the Ala-La Clover which is similar in looks and growth habit to the White Dutch and Ladino except it seems to have the ability to set a heavier seed crop than the latter two mentioned.

So far into the year, motorists are planting clover in the Highlands Soil Conservation District is beginning to get underway and all indications are that the acreage will be greater than last year. Durrance Ranch led off with a 600-acre planting last month, but was almost equal to the entire acreage planted in the District last year.

W. F. Ward is also making a large planting of the Resolute grass which is a winter growing grass and is very similar in growth habit to the clover. Ward also has a few acres of the Resolute grass; however, the Resolute in some parts of Florida seemed to be a little more vigorous than the Resolute Ward is planting the Rock Hill strain which was determined by the Soil Conservation Service Nursery at Brooksville to be the best adapted strain for this area. Ward is making his planting of Resolute grass and Ala-La Clover on well-irrigated, well-fertilized mud land.

DAIRYING CLOSE BY
 Beyond Green Cove Springs at Penny Farms in the far-flung expanse of Clay county, is a dairy enterprise where 900 cows on 30 pastures, with a supplement of citrus pulp replacing corn silage, furnish daily 1,500 gallons of milk for the Jacksonville market. Foremost Properties, Inc., handles the dairy, as well as a vast timber-woodpulp and forest conservation program.

The original 133,000 acres were owned by J. C. Penny, chain store proprietor, but his interests were disposed of through the years except for a parcel on which live 320 retired Methodist ministers and their wives. This is called Memorial Home Community, and also is pleasantly known as "Sixty Acres of Heaven." It is the heart and center of Penny Farm, and quite surrounded by Foremost Properties. Florida Gopher Magazine's November number has an illustrated article on the great agricultural program.

ICE CREAM
 Perfectly everybody likes ice cream. Doctors sometimes get questions from people who fear they are eating too much of it, or who suspect that anything so good just cannot be good for them. For cream made from a mixture of milk, cream and sugar, rates high in food value. Of course, it should not be consumed at the expense of other necessary foods in the diet. Its nutritive value depends on its density.

Half the wholesale cost of ice cream today represents the expensive but necessary sanitary conditions under which it is made. It is that modern sanitation which has made ice cream a safe food—a contribution to the enjoyment, as well as the health of the nation.

The story of ice cream goes a long way back into history. Marco Polo brought back to Italy strange tales of Chinese potentates eating dishes of ice.

The custom of flavoring ices became popular in Italy about 1522. It is said that Catherine de' Medici, the Florentine beauty remembered chiefly for her habit of poisoning those who annoyed her, introduced it into France. French chefs improved on ice and developed cream.

The formula for cream ices was sent to England as a court secret and the colonists brought it to America in the early 18th century. The first American patent on ice cream freezer was issued a little over one hundred years ago.

Today ice cream is available to all and an average of 21 quarts per person is consumed each year. The variety is many but family is a first choice for half the people with chocolate second and strawberry third.

Longest Holiday In State's History

State Highway Patrol Director H. N. Kirkman today called for the longest holiday in the state's history, a 53 day holiday against highway traffic death and destruction.

He backed up his appeal with a forcefully worded letter to each of the state's division commanders of the highway patrol, and urged them to treat "every day as a holiday until Jan 2" in order to slash the increase in highway deaths.

During the months of last November and December 207 persons died in traffic accidents. Based on the current rate of highway death increase, there will be 219 killed in the last two months of this year.

"The death rate on Florida highways this year has been one for the gravest concern," declared Director Kirkman, "and every state highway patrolman in the state will work to the maximum to minimize the slaughter between now and the end of this year."

State Fair Selects Woman Superintendent

The Florida State Fair shatters a long-standing precedent by appointing Mrs. Jeannette Zetser Chitty as Superintendent of its 1953 Beef Cattle Department, which is traditionally a man's job. Probably the first woman in the nation to hold such an important State Fair post.

Mrs. Chitty possesses every qualification. She has ridden the range since childhood, has a long and enviable record as a raiser of champion and grand-champion cattle, first on her father's ranch and now with her husband, in a number of Vocational Agriculture at the University of Florida and has served as a Judge at the Little National Show.
