1500 Attend Dedication of Pearce Bridge Saturday

Last Saturday afternoon a large crowd of citizens of both Highlands and Okeechobee counties along with notables from over the state, gathered in the shady grove at the old Fort Basinger school and partook of a splendid barbecue prepared for the celebration of the opening of the new William Pearce Bridge across the Kissimmee river connecting Highlands and Okeechobee counties.

About 1500 people gathered in the grove and serving of the barbecue started at about 130 o'clock. It was a great occasion for "old timers" to get together and visit.

At about 4:00 o'clock a white satin ribbon held by two little girls, Carol Johnson and Barbara Fulton, granddaughters of Miss Edna Pearce, who cut the ribbon to open the bridge named in honor of her late father, William Sydney Pearce, pioneer Florida cattle king and builder of the wooden bridge that had been used since 1916 up to its replacement by the modern structure.

In the first car over the bridge the total cost of which was well over $500,000, were Florida State Trooper Russel E. Harris and Deputy Sheriff Robert Barringer. Following them was a car driven by Miss Edna Pearce, for whom the bridge had been named. She was the first woman in the state legislature.

In the car with Miss Pearce were kinmen and friends of long standing. In the cars following hers were state and county and municipal officials, as well as hundreds of Highlands and Okeechobee citizens, and others. A din was created by the sounding of horns as the new bridge was being used for the first time.

The Rev. Earl J. Jones, of the Okeechobee Methodist Church, invoked divine blessings before the ceremonies. The dedication address was given by Attorney F. T. Hoskins, of Sebring. Others who spoke briefly or were introduced were:

Governor Dan McCarthy's brother, Brian McCarthy, who represented the Governor; former Governor Doyle E. Carlton, father of the 27th District senator; Senator Irl Bronson of the 32nd District; ex-Senator James W. Moore, of the 27th District; Rep. Nathan Zelenevich of Okeechobee County and former Rep. W. J. Hendry; president and former Highlands County commissioners; Thomas B. Manuel, road board member from Fort Lauderdale and road district Engineers Winston Carlton and H. E. Lewis and job Engineer Sutton; representatives of the bridge contractors.

Telegrams of regret that they could not attend the ceremony were received from Governor Dan McCarthy and former Governor William Warren; Congressman James A. Haley; State Road Chairman Richard Simpson; former chairman Alfred McKim; and former road board member Merrill Barber.

Okeechobee Gives Plaque
Ammon McClelland, Okeechobee publisher, told Miss Pearce that a bronze plaque, the gift of the citizens of Okeechobee County, would be placed on the new bridge in memory of her father and in recognition of her untiring efforts to have the bridge constructed.

District Engineer Lewis presented Miss Pearce on behalf of Governor McCarthy and the State Road Department, the marker from the now rickety "retired" wooden bridge that her father had constructed in 1916 by the Champion Bridge Company of Wilmington, Ohio. That company

Beautiful Spring Pageant Presented

"The Beauties of Spring" bloomed at Head Field Wednesday afternoon, with the pastel dresses of the court maidens showing against the green diamond as prettily as a field of wild flowers, when the public schools and the Garden Club presented the annual May Festival. What-ever gods are propitiated by the mystic May rites were kind enough to allow enough time between rains for the ceremony. A sizeable crowd had a good view of the court procession, the dancers, and the traditional winding of the Maypole.

May Queen Theda Sims and King Dean Martin presided on their thrones after being crowned by Junior Queen Elizabeth Howell and King Marcus Dodd. Both queens were lovely in full-skirted, sheer white gowns.

A dainty spring fairy—Betty Jean Biggie—opened the festival by awakening the flowers and birds—dancers from the first grade.

Girls of the junior and senior classes bore the double hibiscus crown.

Senior court attendants were Ruth Moore and Kenny Wayne Elder, Eileen Sacksmaier and Wesley Newsum, Arlene Sargent and Glenn Welch.

Junior court attendants: Kakkie Gaster and Bruce McWilliams, Carolyn Biggs and Raymond Hall, Linda Joyce Antley and Ronnie Lasseter, Karen Kirkland and Dennis Finchard, Deborah Reddick and Donny Simpson.

Cindy Metcalfe, Sandra Biggs, and Judy Wester were flower girls. Johnny Rogers was crown bearer for the junior court; David Ward and Steve Seims for senior court.

Little Jackie and Betty Hutchinson were cunning court jesters.

An interesting Indian dance was presented by fifth grade pupils. The children of Mrs. M. G. Whitcomb's kindergarten danced "Corn, Beans and Barley Grow." Pupils of the third grade appeared in folk dances. Two maypoles were wound by fifth grade pupils. The festival concluded with a fairy ballet solo by Jan Saylor. The High School Band played various selections. Other music was furnished by recordings.

Kelton Hill was an effective master of ceremonies. Miss Maxine Johnson, teacher intern was vocalist.

The festival was arranged and supervised by Mrs. Falmage Suggs. Flowers were furnished and arranged by the Garden Club, with Mrs. J. Paul Garber, chairman.

Directors of dances were: Miss Lillie Mae Collins, Miss Sarah Sellers, Mrs. Madeleine Cooper, Miss Janice Lee Whitaker, Miss Maxine Johnson, Mrs. M. G. Whitcomb, Mrs. H. H. Shepherd, Mrs. Addie Lee Best, Mrs. Ruth Draddy, Mrs. Chloe Lookhoff.

Benny Harvey was in charge of sound effects. Thomas Jenkins and his committee took care of concessions and properties.

Other committee chairmen were Mrs. Milton Stokely, transportation, and Mrs. W. H. Warren, background decorations.

Mr. H. R. Currie, of Avon Garden Florist, was kind enough to furnish the palms and the corsages for the queens.

The Highlands District Court of Honor, Boy Scouts of America, was held in Layton Hall, Sebring, on Monday evening, May 4. Rev. Herbert D. Graetz, Advancement Chairman for the District, acted as Chairman. Dr. Richard P. Hedrick, James Heim, Ford Heacock, Fred M. Wild and Maurice Page were members of the Court.

Troop 156, sponsored by the American Legion of Avon Park, received the awards for attendance and advancement. The following scouts of Troop 156 advanced in rank: Second Class, David Cairns, Gerry Collette, Bill Farmer, Hugh Newsum, Marching Scout, Leroy Furless, Lawson Chapman and Earl Futch; First Class, Gordon Futch; Star, Alva Rhymes, Norman Cook, Jimmy Bennett, Larry Bond and Jim Pollock; Merit Badges, Walter Cook, Alva Rhymes, Norman Cook, Jimmy Pollock, Jimmy Bennett, Larry Bond, and Alva Rhymes. Bill Moseley and Keith Osborne of Troop 157, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Avon Park, received merit badges.

Avon Park should be very proud of Troop 156 which is at present setting the pace in advancements in the Highlands District. Scoutmaster Boyer, the Troop Committee, and the sponsoring institution are to be congratulated, as are the boys. Troop 157 was well represented at the Court of Honor and seems to be ready to challenge Troop 156 for scouting honors in the district.

Jaycees Win Trophy For Leadership Training

At the state convention in Daytona Beach May 1, 2, and 3, the Avon Park Junior Chamber of Commerce won first place in Division 1, which includes towns of 8000 population and under, for their scrapbook entry in Leadership Training.

President Franklin Ward and Vice President Jim Heim attended the three-day convention and brought back a handsome trophy, which may be seen at the Chamber of Commerce building. Hubbard Biggs was chairman of the Awards Committee and was ably assisted by other Jaycees in getting up the scrapbook, which consisted of newspaper clippings, news photos, notes for speeches and forums and various other activities of the Jaycees during the past year.

Avon Park Building Permits Amount To $324,150.00 In 12 Months Period

A bulletin from the Avon Park Chamber of Commerce gives the following information:

Number of units:	Type of construction	Value shown on building permits
29	One family homes	$148,000.00
6	Garages and Service Stations	50,750.00
1	Tourist Court	15,000.00
1	Public Bldg (Post Office, privately built for lease to U.S. Gov't)	15,000.00
3	Churches	47,000.00
1	Private Garage	1,450.00
1	Office Building	18,000.00
1	Public Works and Utilities	2,000.00
3	Stores and Merchandise Bldgs.	11,000.00
35	Additions and Alterations to existing bldgs.	17,400.00
	Total	$324,150.00

Considering that, in general, estimates of costs are lower than actual costs, it is believed that construction and additions amounted to close to $400,000.00 for the 12 months period. While this is not a spectacular growth, it is certainly a substantial one and clearly indicates a favorable trend. Also to be considered the number of homes, tourist courts and other buildings which have been built outside the city limits but which can be considered as being a part of this community.

CRACKER POLITICS

By Allen Morris

Tallahassee — His talent for concise, epigrammatic writing and his passion for justice seemingly lesser than ever, the last of Florida's log cabin judges this month begins his last year on the Supreme court bench.

Actually, Supreme Court Justice Glenn Terrell will celebrate a double anniversary. Just 50 years ago he was admitted to the bar to begin a legal career that has spanned the period of Florida's greatest development — the transformation from a rugged frontier to a modern, progressive state. And, so far as a single individual can, Justice Terrell has played no small part in that development.

Many of the present generation are not aware that the Justice served five sessions in the Legislature, three as a Representative and two as a Senator. Yet, the good works he accomplished there are reflected in many facets of Florida's present progress. A great many of today's school buildings, for example, were made possible because Justice Terrell wrote and sponsored the constitutional amendment to permit special tax school districts to issue bonds to construct and furnish them.

Moreover, the present minimum foundation program for financing the public schools would have been impossible without another Terrell — written constitutional amendment. That amendment authorized the Legislature to make appropriations from the general revenue fund for the support of public schools for the first time. Until it was adopted, the county school fund was limited to county ad valorem taxes and that was then known as the one-mill school tax.

Another Terrell-sponsored law has enabled thousands of Florida school teachers to advance themselves professionally in the summer while continuing to teach in the winter. That law required the two state universities to offer regular courses for academic credit during the summer, instead of merely using summer sessions to help students prepare for examinations as had been the custom up until that time.

The justice came to Florida from Mississippi as a small boy on a covered wagon trip that required six weeks. Upon arrival in Sumter county, his father traded one of the mules that pulled the wagon for two acres and a log cabin that remained the family home for some years.

Justice Terrell's opinions reflect the hardy virtues of the pioneer era in which he grew to manhood. But they also reflect a trait normally expected of the very young — a tendency to live in the present and future but never in the past.

In an opinion regarding highway safety, for example, the justice shunned the horse-and-buggy philosophy that the development of the automobile was of itself responsible for traffic deaths and that we would be better off to go back to old Dobbin. Instead, he pointed the finger of blame squarely at the drivers themselves.

He conceded that some accidents might be described as unavoidable but added: "Our experience has been that too many result from gross carelessness or reckless disregard of the right in common that others have on the road."

Justice Terrell's realistic views on present-day motoring stem in part from personal experience. He has motored with Mrs. Terrell all over the United States, dipped into Mexico, and last summer drove to Alaska.

A recent Terrell opinion showed again his sharp awareness of the law in which interpretation of the law should change to meet changed conditions. He held that the mother of an illegitimate child should be allowed to collect support money for the child under a recent and liberal statute instead of under a 100-year-old act which limited such support to $50 a year.

He noted that the $50 a year "would not supply him with candy and ice cream costs at present prices."

Recalling the era when the old law was enacted he said that "you could buy a 300-pound steer for four dollars, pork at two cents a pound, eggs were ten cents a dozen, corn and potatoes were 25 cents per bushel and you could hire a room in the best hotel in Jacksonville for fifty cents."

The sole purpose of the new law was to raise that standard in line with present commodity and schooling prices and that it should be so read and interpreted," he continued. "The new act was one of common justice to the beneficiaries and should not be construed so as to defeat its purpose."

In another pithy opinion, Justice Terrell said of the modern jack joint that "nothing in modern economy has so clarified our concept of Hell's Half Acre."

Over the years, Justice Terrell has turned down offers far more lucrative than his place on the Supreme court, including an opportunity to be Dean of one of the nation's great law schools and partnerships in several extremely profitable law practices. Once when a Republican President of the United States offered this Democrat a federal judgeship at the same money and with life tenure rather than six years, Justice Terrell said he found all the honor he wanted on the Supreme court. He is known to feel that it is every lawyer's duty to contribute something permanent to his profession and, for himself, to believe that he best could do this by serving on his state's court of last resort.

His physical and mental faculties and his hearty appetite for work unimpaired by the years, Justice Terrell has no thought of retiring from the court. To a friend who recently complimented him on the excellence of his vision and hearing, the Justice quipped: "As a matter of fact, I can see and hear many things I had as soon miss."

Justice Terrell's colleagues say he carries his share, and perhaps more, of the Supreme court's prodigious work load. They say he can do this largely because he loves the law so much he cheerfully takes cases home with him at night and studies them with all the zest another man might devote to a favorite hobby.

Supreme Court Justice H. L. (Tom) Sebring, introducing Judge Harold R. Medina of New York to a Florida Bar audience recently, described the judicial hero of the Communist trials as a man who exemplifies the highest traditions of the American concept of justice — integrity, impartiality, fairness, forthrightness."

The same description well could apply to the last of Florida's log cabin, covered wagon judges.

"YES SIR, THATS OUR BABY."

Legislative Highlights

By Leo Wolinsky

Tallahassee — The biennial legislative squabble concerning legalized racing in Florida flared into a heated floor fight in the senate last week. This time it was an effort to have the season for the three east coast horse tracks — Hialeah, Tropical and Gulfstream—open on Nov. 15 instead of approximately Dec. 1st.

In recent seasons, Tropical has had the first 40 days of the 120-day east coast season. Hialeah, which has produced the biggest tax receipts for the state, under the law has had first choice of dates, and, of course, has chosen the second 40 days. That's the height of the tourist season.

Gulfstream, next highest revenue producer, has selected the final 40 days. The first 40 days are held to be the poorest because the tourist season isn't fully underway by then; toward the end of the final forty there's also a lag because the tourists are beginning to leave.

This year, Senator Edwin Fraser of Macclenny introduced the bill to move the dates back. This measure would boost Gulfstream into 15 of Hialeah's center dates and move Tropical farther back into the allegedly lean days.

Foaming was intense on the bill as Senate President Charles E. Johns took the floor on behalf of the bill. He reminded other senators that they had pledged their support to the bill and called on them to stand firm. Johns said that more revenue for the state would result from passage of the measure.

There was vigorous dissent by Senator R. B. Gautier Jr., of DeSoto County where Tropical and Hialeah parks are located. Gautier said the change may bankrupt Tropical. Gulfstream is in Broward County, represented by Senator George Leaird who nevertheless voted against the bill.

Senator Verle Pope of St. Augustine, making an excellent record as an intelligent opponent of much legislation, charged that the proposal will endanger the state's income from the tracks to the extent of some $400,000 a year. Senator James A. Franklin, Fort Myers, declaring he looks with disfavor on racing legislation, expressed opposition to the bill, which was also opposed by Senator George Tapper of Port St. Joe.

Final upshot of it all was defeat of the bill by a close margin amid rumors that one senator changed his vote at the last moment to produce the result. At week's end the measure was pending on reconsideration and there was the likelihood of another scrap.

More storm centers are yet to be passed in this legislative session. First will be the governor's proposed increased tax on dog track betting, which supporters of the chief executive insist is a high profit for the operators of the tracks but too little for state tax coffers. . . . Another legislative project that may stir a battle is a proposed new salt water fisheries code now being considered by legislative committees. It codifies current laws, repeals some and changes some. . . . The governor's measure to revamp the livestock sanitary board, already much embattled in committees, is likely to produce a lively floor battle.

Prominently mentioned in early discussions for possible awards as outstanding legislators are Rep. Volie Williams of Sanford, second term house member, and Senator Doyle E. Carlton Jr. of Wauchula, a freshman in the upper house. Both have won respect for independent and positive stands on controversial issues.

OVER 2 MILLION PASSENGER CARS VISIT STATE IN '52

A total of 2,336,730 passenger automobiles bearing out-of-state licenses crossed Florida's borders southbound, during 1952.

This last year's total was 28 percent above the comparable 1951 figure, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce stated yesterday. One-day border traffic, which has increased appreciably in recent years, is included in this grand total. Eliminating this traffic, approximately 27 per cent of the total, the number of out-of-state passenger cars entering the State last year would be adjusted to 1,700,000.

This week's business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division reports that of this latter total, 1,190,000 of the cars entering the State were tourists' cars and the balance 510,000, were cars whose occupants came to the State for business reasons.

The average tourist passenger automobile usually carries 2.3 persons per car. Thus 2,618,000 tourists came to Florida by car last year. Business cars, with an average of 1.1 persons per car, brought 561,000 persons.

State Welfare Department Facts

For the third consecutive month, fewer persons in March received public assistance through the State Department of Public Welfare than in the preceding month.

Average grants for the aged were up $4.64 from a year ago to $42.97 and for the blind $6.73 to $47.58. Grants for family groups of dependent children (averaging between two and three children) were up $7.70 to $53.11 as compared with a year ago.

According to word just received from State Welfare Director Sherwood Smith in Jacksonville, 87,914 received assistance for 116,594 persons last month as compared with 88,065 in February. Of the total, 60,339 of the assistance warrants went to Old Age Assistance recipients; 18,452 for Aid to 47,133 Dependent Children and 3,123 for Aid to the Blind. Assistance payments totalled throughout the state $3,979,209.50, of which $2,792,823.55 was Federal funds.

The effects of the broadened Old Age and Survivors Insurance program are still being felt in the public assistance program, and the Welfare Department is continuing to apply Federal and State laws and regulations more strictly which probably are the major reasons for the total "case-load" reductions.

All the assistance payments made through the Welfare Department are based on actual need of the individual. Grants to the aged and blind vary from $3.00 to $55.00 and for dependent children from $3.00 to $41.00, depending on the number of children in the family group. The average number of children per family is two and three, although there are a few instances where there are as many as a dozen in the same family needing assistance. In those instances, the grant by law is limited to $81.00, on the basis of $39.00 for the first child, and $21.00 for each additional one up to the maximum.

In Highlands County, 386 persons received $154,740.15 in blind persons received $622.50; and 249 adults responsible for needy children received $3,834.50.

Highlands JP, Constables' Pay Delayed

The bills of one justice of peace and two constables were submitted to the county commissioners for payment Tuesday, but they voted to hold up payment until the supreme court decided whether the peace officers are holding their posts legally.

The officers, Mrs. Lottie C. Long, Sebring JP, and her constables, Lewis I. Butler, and Constable Edith Fowler of the Avon Park district, started functioning last month, after being idle since November when they were elected and also voted out of office at the same time as the result of a referendum favoring abolition of the JP districts.

Their authority, they said, was oral and written orders from Circuit Judge D. O. Rogers.

The judge held the referendum was invalid because a majority of the voters casting ballots in the general election did not vote on the referendum, which favored abolition of the districts by a 1700-1000 vote, exclusive of missing returns from three precincts.

The case has been appealed to the supreme court by the commissioners.

Mrs. Long's bill was $69; Fowler's $87; Butler's $343, including $120 for mileage on a 270-mile trip.

McLAUCHLIN RESIGNS FROM GAME COMMISSION

Tallahassee — Ben L. McLaughlin, director of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, submitted his resignation as head of the Game Agency, to become effective on the date of the first meeting of the new Commission.

In his letter of resignation to the Commissioners, McLaughlin stated that he was leaving because of the press of private business and other personal reasons. McLaughlin told the new Commissioners that they will probably find the business and management of the Game Commission to be one of the most controversial problems they have ever undertaken. He said that handling the two-million dollar-a-year business of the Commission would require much thought from all the members.

EDITOR'S MAIL BAG

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Connell passed on to us the following letter from winter guests who had returned to their Adrian, Michigan, home, because they thought it would interest Avon Park residents. The guests had spent the winter at the Connell apartments. Dear Friends:

Do you know we are thoroughly disgusted with ourselves for leaving such a beautiful land of sunshine for rain, cold, snow and wind—have hardly been out of the house it's so damp and cold.

We did have a lovely trip home. It rained some, but stayed warm until we got into northern Pennsylvania. As far as we could see the whole world looked like a beautiful park. Ever along the highway there were flowers, swamps and woods full of dogwood, forsythia and azaleas everywhere and grass so green as well as the leaves—it was a beautiful sight.

We want you to know that we enjoyed every minute of our stay with you during the winter. Everyone was so nice and I'm sure you must know that we think the Connells are superb.

Our best wishes to you and any of your family that may still be with you.

Sincerely,
The Bakers

Florida News

Leesburg — Jack Grant, general manager of the Florida Watermelon Festival to be held here May 29, reports everything shaping up nicely for the big occasion.

As in the past the United States Marine Corps will have a prominent part in the gala program and the Third Marine Aircraft Wing Band from the Miami Air Station will appear in the parade and at the coronation ceremonies.

A new feature this year is the presentation of the Florida State University Gynkana, a fast moving program of fun, frolic and entertainment featuring dancing and acrobatic stunts.

The 1953 Florida Watermelon Festival promises to smash all records this year and Leesburg is looking for a record breaking crowd on May 29.

Names, we are told, make news and names in the news this past week include a very beautiful and talented young lady who won the coveted title of "Miss Florida" at Daytona Beach. Blonde, blue eyed Marjorie Simmonds, 18, will represent Florida at the Atlantic City Pageant this Fall.

The name of Francis P. Whitehair, prominent Deland attorney, former under Secretary of the Navy and one-time gubernatorial candidate, hopped up in connection with the long dragged out mail fraud suit against bond dealer Roy E. Crummer. A Justice Department attorney testified before a House sub-committee that he recommended dropping the suit on the basis of information provided him by Whitehair which indicated that for lack of evidence the government could not hope to win the case.

State Road Department Chairman, Richard H. Simpson, received front page consideration when he announced the suspension of two employees at the Tavares Convict Road Camp for alleged brutality to prisoners and called on the local states attorney to investigate the charges.

W. T. Edwards, chairman of the State Tuberculosis Board, smarting under charges of mismanagement at the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Drew Field in Tampa and a Tampa Tribune story reporting that the building a little over a year old shows evidence of poor construction with plaster and stucco cracking and crumbling, called the article to the attention of Reynolds, Smith and Hills, architects, and Arnold Construction Co., contractors, for an explanation. He also notified bonding companies and demanded that all agencies concerned make a proper inspection of the alleged structural defects and report to the board.

Cecil Webb was praised for his services as a member of the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, in a resolution offered and passed by Senate President Charley Johns, when Terence Webb, an outstanding leader in the field of game conservation. The resolution was seen as another jab by the senate president at Governor McCarthy, who had recommended the appointment of Mayor Sterling Hall of Bradenton to succeed Webb as Chairman of the commission.

Uncle Bill Lundy, 105 years old, only living Florida Confederate veteran, would receive an increase in his pension from $75 to a $150 a month in a bill introduced by Rep. Campbell of Okaloosa County. Lundy, still spry, is a resident of Laurel Hill.

Horse and dog racing bills continued to keep the legislature in a turmoil and the question of a change in racing dates and increased revenue from dog tracks will probably be determined this week. Gulfstream Race Track is trying to better itself at the expense of Hialeah Race Course by taking two weeks of the lush winter season from the big track. It resulted in a rip-roaring dispute in the Senate and comes up for reconsideration the first of the week. It will probably be decided before this column reaches print.

Wally Fowler and his famed Oak Ridge Quartet invaded Florida this month for appearances in a number of cities, a number of other outstanding singing groups will appear on the Fowler program. These talented stage and radio entertainers will try and make our minds off of legislative problems during the next hectic 30 days.

State Comptroller C. M. Gay accepted the state chairmanship of the Mental Health Drive for funds to aid mental sufferers, sponsored by the Florida Mental Health Association. The week of May 3-9 has been proclaimed Mental Health Week by Governor McCarthy.

And while we are on the subject of "weeks," my favorite Chicagoan informed me that May 1-7 is National Posture Week and he intimates that we are not sitting as pretty as we ought to be and should give our curved backbones a little consideration.

With a choice, I am in a quandary as to whether bend my greatest efforts in the observance of "Mental Health Week" or "National Posture Week." This business of trying to sit straight and think straight at the same time is really driving me "nuts." I guess I'd better go all-out for mental health and let my chiropractor worry about my spine.

It seems I have unintentionally embarrassed the Sheriff of Pinellas County. In a recent column I told of the shabby treatment received by a prisoner, picked up at the Sunshine Park Race Track at Oldsmar. The track is actually in Hillsborough County and the man was confined in the Hillsborough County jail. Several indignant Pinellas County readers jumped on their sheriff, who was in no way responsible. My apologies, Sheriff.

To Have Pre-School Round-up Next Week

If you have a child who will be a beginner in the first grade next year, you are urged to bring him to the Avon Park Elementary School auditorium on Thursday, May 14, for registration for 1953-54 school term.

Pupils with names beginning with letters "A" through "I" inclusive are to come between the hours 9:00 a.m. and 12 noon; and pupils with names beginning with letters "M" through "Z" between the hours of 1:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. in the afternoon.

The Highlands County Health Department, under the direction of Dr. Bond and assisted by Mrs. Rankin, has consented to be present next Thursday to give physical check-ups to the pre-school children if the parents desire this service. CHAMPION MELON EATERS
A National Dividend For Every Voter
By JOHN H. PERRY JR.
Chapter Fourteen

If these economic planners were sincere in their idealistic ambitions, they would recognize the fact that a dollar spent for charity, or subsidy, usually costs more than two dollars spent for growth. State welfare by itself is inadequate. Handouts without a plan are no better than the dole system. One of the greatest dangers of our present economy is that we may lose the fight against poverty and unemployment through defeat, not because our motors fail to deliver enough power, but because we do not run them to capacity.

The United States of America, at full production, still has approximately 10,000,000 poor people. America is the richest nation that the world has ever known, yet we are helping to support other countries less in debt than we are, and we still do not provide a decent living for all of our own.

Why don't our planners take the best possible values out of the capitalist system, broaden them and put them to work? Why don't they make use of the intelligent use of a system that has brought about the highest standard of living in the world for the most people—capital investment by private enterprise?

The opportunities are here. Our frontiers are far from closed. Our population has taken a new spurt and, without a doubt, the atomic age will offer undreamed-of opportunities for further investment.

Let's give the benefits of this industrial age to the people by declaring a National Dividend out of the nation's corporate earnings and guaranteeing a 50 percent maximum income tax limit on the aggregate earnings of invested capital.

There have been many writers who have tried to point out the dangers inherent in the present attempts at planned economy. John T. Flynn has done an excellent job in his book, "The Road Ahead", for example, but we must go further than just realizing what is ahead. We must adopt measures which will deny opportunity to those New Deal planners who would do us further harm with the first break in our economy now artificially supported for almost two decades by their wars and their reckless spending. Both of these artificial boosts must end sometime and when it does, then our country will be left with the first break in our economy now artificially supported for almost two decades by their wars and their reckless spending. Both of these artificial boosts must end sometime and when it does, then our country will be left with the first break in our economy now artificially supported for almost two decades by their wars and their reckless spending.

Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater couldn't hold a candle to these promoters who know their way around when it comes to eating watermelons. They are practicing for the big watermelon eating contest which will be an entertaining feature of the 1953 Florida Watermelon Festival at Leesburg, May 20.

It is known that to do about labor in its Union state. When there is Labor Party leadership, Union leaders in Great Britain are also government officials. Thus Union leaders, being a part of government, must often take a stand against what the Unions demand. As the Union leaders get deeper into politics and business administration, they lose strength and popularity with the Union members. With hardly an exception, Britain's nationalized industries are in financial trouble. What meager profits they make go to the State to keep the wheels of Socialism turning. There is no surplus for wage increases or other employee benefits.

A once popular Union leader told me in confidence: "It's a most embarrassing situation for us. For years and years we sounded off about higher pay and shorter hours and greater benefits. All of these advantages were to come out of profits. Well, we took over the government and the railways, the railroads, the Bank of England, communications and many other things. But we can't seem to make any profits. "Our cost of operating the government is much greater. Because we are government controlled, the cost of bookkeeping does not include items such as taxes which were included under private enterprise. What we have saved by depriving our former capitalists of their profits we have lost in increased governmental costs. At the same time, the government has lost the revenue collected in the form of taxes under private enterprise."

As for the people of Britain—how can people have any sense of security when their government is in trouble?

"Britain, with over 40 million people, claims to have a Welfare State." But how would you like to live in a Welfare State like this:

The Ministry of Food which controls rations tells the people what they can eat for breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The Board of Trade tells them how much clothing they can buy.

The Treasury tells them which foreign countries they may visit.

The Ministry of Fuel determines who may own and drive an automobile and where they can go in it.

The Ministry of Supply distributes steel and other products to industry and the all-powerful Ministry of Agriculture can throw a farmer in jail if he kills a cow without permission.

Here you have human dignity destroyed because meddlesome bureaucrats are attempting to tell the people what they want. The people know far better what they want and how to get it than any politician ever did.

In order to administer this Welfare State, the Government employs about two million people, but this does not include the hundreds of thousands who manage or work in the nationalized industries and the cost of supporting all of these administrators must necessarily add to the cost of living. For example, the Food Ministry employs a staff of about 50,000. Approximately 2,000 of these employees are kept busy with just one chore — rationing bread. If there ever was a negative approach to a problem, this, it seems to me, is it. 2,000 people being paid tax money to prevent people from buying! In addition, this government-sponsored plan deprives people of making money with which to pay their taxes. Here is a beautiful example of the evils of Socialism which could so easily be overcome through a plan as a National Dividend. Under the National Dividend system such waste as this would be abolished because the benefits would be going directly to the people. The money used to pay those 2,000 government workers to ration bread would be used instead as dividends to pay for the production of bread, and the 2,000 workers could also be paid real wages for their part in producing the bread. Thus rationing would not be necessary, and the profits from the sale of bread would help to increase the National Dividend for every Voter so he could eat more bread.

Socialism is a scheme wrought in the minds of small men who cannot see their own folly. In regard to that Socialist creation known as the state-supported health and medical care program (which here in the United States President Truman has tried to mimic), it has without doubt accomplished much good for the poor people—especially the women and children. But the expense is colossal and out of proportion to the benefits derived. It is costing about one and a half billion dollars a year, of which amount less than 500 million is contributed by the public's insurance payments. But here again is a negative plan and one which, because of its enormous expense, will defeat itself in the end. Let us not permit ourselves to be talked into such folly. Let us let the individual be entitled to his share of the National Dividend and pay for his own medical care in the manner in which he needs it and with a doctor of his own choosing and without raising the cost of living. A man or woman having a share in the National Dividend would be free from all the red tape which is inherent in any control program and be free to buy medical care as he or she saw fit. When a man cannot change his job without permission from the politician, when he cannot carry on a business without complicated correspondence to secure licenses from a planning power in Washington or London, when a man can be sentenced to jail for refusing to work in a mine, and when a man cannot appeal to the courts from administrative decisions, and when the state can compel, among other things, good farming by disposing inefficient farmers and landlords, and when a man no longer has freedom, and such is the exact situation today in Britain. History has shown that a government in trouble can rarely resist the temptation to accomplish by compulsion that which it cannot do by persuasion. In a socialist economy, instead of opening up new aspects of self-government, greater liberties for the individual, has plunged into aboriginal oppression.

FLORIDA GARDENER'S LAMENT

I once was a gardener prodigious With thumbs of the emerald green.

I planted with fervor religious The pieplant, the milkweed, the bean.

I leveled my ground with a barrow, I smoothed o'er my seed bed with pride,

Then hauled out my seeds in a barrow And dropped them—and jumped to one side.

The way my stuff grew was a wonder, yonder!

My spinach came up with a bound! My sweet corn all soared way up

To truck drivers, tanners and teachers, To dentists and doormen and

To plumbers and painters and preachers I gave garden sass by the crock.

With nosebags of onions non-stunkum And other calorie-plants

All full of the old spizzierunkum That hiked you right out of your pants.

Now, alas, I've no time for such labors, My hours are consumed all the day

And my home is surrounded by neighbors Who don't give green groceries away.

Glenn S. Easton
