NUMBER 27

Top Honor Seniors Are Announced

The Valedictorian and Salutatorian of the 1953 high school graduating class have been selected on the basis of the highest grade average during four years. Barbara Moseley is Valedictorian, with the highest average. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Moseley of Lake Wales section.

Salutatorian is Charlene Deleag, second highest average. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Deleag.

Announcement of these honor students heralds the closing of the school term. The last day of school for all students will be Friday, June 5—just three weeks away. That's the day when Suzie will come home saying, "Gosh, I'm glad school's over." And the following Monday, she'll be moaning, "Gosh, there's nothing to do."

The following week, our Seniors will be given their permanent discharge from the Avon Park High School.

Baccalaureate service will be Sunday evening, June 7, at 8:00, in the high school auditorium. Dr. C. H. Bolton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will be the speaker. He was selected by the Senior Class.

Minutes of Council Meeting, Monday May 11, 1953

Members Present: Leonard B. Rush, Mark Smith, W. C. Thomas, Mannin Kirkland, J. B. Sparks, J. L. Deleag and Mr. Lamberson representing the Inter-City Telephone and Telegraph Co. appeared and requested the permission of the city to cut certain city streets in installing underground cable during their renovation to the dial system. They requested that the city street department repair streets which are damaged by their work.

It was the opinion of the Council that this service would be performed by the city at a cost to be arrived at following several preliminary cuts by the telephone company.

Patrolman Walter Mizelle appeared in regards to a bullet hole in the police car. He explained that his gun accidentally discharged while being transferred from his personal car to the police car. Mr. Johns was called as a witness and substantiated the report of the accident. Mr. Mizelle offered to pay for the cost of repairs to the automobile.

A group of residents of Woodruff Heights appeared in regard to the disposition of the project. They requested that the project be returned for needed housing. The City Clerk stated that three courses of action were open: 1. The City could purchase the project and maintain it for housing use. 2. The City could require that the project be demolished and removed from site. 3. The City could pass a resolution stating that the housing was satisfactory for long term housing use and was needed for that purpose and the Public Housing Administration would then offer the project for sale to the highest private bidder. Mr. Rush read copies of two sample resolutions.

Alfred Enelmann stated that the Avon Park Firemen, Inc. were interested in securing the project and would use the proceeds to improve the housing one unit at a time with profits above such expenditures to be used for charitable purposes. A discussion of city ownership of the project and of various other aspects was held with Mayor Sauls and all members of the City Council taking part. Mayor Sauls stated that he was in favor of city ownership of both Kings Court and Woodruff Heights or else of neither project. J. F. Weaver stated that he was not interested in who owned the project but was interested in seeing that it was maintained. He was against city ownership however. President Ruth appointed Councilman Kirkland and Sparks as a committee to investigate housing in both Avon Park and in other cities and to report to the next Council meeting.

Motion by Councilman Kirkland to go on record as being opposed to the decision of the Woodruff Heights Housing Project, No. 6102. Motion carried unanimously.

Fire Chief Wilbur Giddens requested an extra man be assigned to the Fire Department during vacation time and requested J. D. Prevatt. This request was

Legion Jr. Baseball To Start June 15

Pete Boney, chairman for the 19th district in American Legion junior baseball, announced this week that season play will start June 15.

A district meeting was held May 10 at Arcadia, where representatives from Arcadia, Avon Park, Bradenton, Fort Myers, Lake Placid, Sarasota, and Sebring met to map plans for the coming season. Wauchula will field a team, but due to illness of the local coach, was not represented at the meeting.

It was voted not to split the district into two this year as was done last. Each team will play a schedule of 14 games.

The district tournament will be held in Sebring, starting the week of July 20. The area tournament will be held in Clearwater, and the state meet will go to Wausau, which staged a most successful tournament two years ago.

The national tournament will be held in Miami this year.

Growing Interest In Baptist Revival

The revival meeting at First Baptist Church grows in interest. The music is under the direction of Mr. Luther Carter, a widely-known musician. Mr. Carter taught music for a number of years at Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn. He has also been in charge of the music at some of the largest churches in Alabama and Florida, among them, Main Street Baptist Church, Jacksonville, and First Baptist Church, St. Petersburg.

The preaching is being done by the pastor, Dr. C. H. Bolton. The services are conducted at 7:30 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. This gives time for the young people to get to school and for those in the business world to be on time.

CRACKER POLITICS

By Allen Morris

Tallahassee—Rep. Fletcher Morgan of Jacksonville, a five-session veteran, is considered one of the Legislature's best-informed members on questions of financial policy. At this half-way point in the 1953 session, he gives the following evaluation:

Question: Are you satisfied with the attitude of this session toward appropriations?

Morgan: Not entirely. I am convinced, Allen, that this Legislature has unwittingly forced upon the 1953 session the unpleasant and disagreeable task of either finding new tax sources or of increasing present taxes. This Legislature has made long-range spending commitments that cannot be suddenly cut back if State revenue begins to drop off, as I am very much afraid it will.

Question: Why do you believe tax revenue will begin to diminish during the next two years?

Morgan: A great many of our tax sources, the sales tax and various excise levies, are tied directly to the volume of consumer spending. Inflation has put consumer spending at a high level and kept it there, but I think the worst of the inflationary period is over. Some prices already have begun to drop. A number of labor unions with wage scales geared to the cost-of-living index have accepted small but significant pay cuts in recent months. Moreover, all the financial policies of the Eisenhower administration—such steps as the tightening of credit restrictions—seems calculated to restore the dollar to something like its former value. I don't attempt to judge whether this is good or bad but I think we would do well to recognize that it is going on.

Question: You spoke of long-range spending commitments made by this Legislature. Can you give some examples?

Morgan: It would hardly be fair to single out any one or two for particular attention. Let us say simply that the attitude and philosophy of this session has been more generous than at any previous session I have seen. A great many salary increases have been given to take care of the increase in the cost of living in recent years and this was unquestionably necessary to some extent. But if the cost of living drops off during the next two years, say to the level of 1946 or '47, I doubt very much that any salaries of state employees would be reduced proportionately at the next session. Reductions could be put in to effect only during a major depression.

Question: You have expressed the opinion that the 1953 Legislature may be compelled to find new revenue. If this occurs, where do you think the lawmakers would turn for additional tax money?

Morgan: Frankly, I have no idea. In my opinion, we have about reached the saturation point on taxes and I believe it would be very difficult to find a source of new money that would not seriously injure the group that was asked to provide it.

Question: There have been many proposals for providing longer sessions of the Legislature or for inaugurating a system of split sessions. Do you believe these have merit?

Morgan: I think it would be a good idea to meet for 10 or 15 days to organize the committees and receive bills, then recess for 60 or 90 days to give members an opportunity to study the bills. The work on the current appropriations bill was a good example of how helpful this kind of procedure could be. Because the appropriations bill began to shape up well before the session, I was able to take the background reports to my office and study them in my spare time. That way, I could analyze the bill page by page and line by line, something that would have been impossible if I had waited until the session started to see the appropriations bill for the first time. Further, the recess period would give the public an opportunity to find out what is going on and I believe it would reduce the number of bad bills finally enacted.

Question: I believe you are the author of a rider in the House appropriations bill directing the State Advertising Commission to give equal emphasis to industry, agriculture and tourism. Did you mean that the Commission should literally divide its appropriation into three equal parts?

Morgan: No, because all three aspects of Florida's economy are interrelated and an advertisement designed to help one would frequently help the other two also. My purpose was simply to bring broader recognition of the fact that industry and agriculture are as important in their own way as tourism. With the additional money we have appropriated at this session for State advertising, it should be possible to expand the tourist promotion program and at the same time set up effective programs to help develop industry and agriculture. To me, it would be foolish to neglect any of the three. A strong agricultural promotion program, for example, can help avoid costly surpluses of citrus, potatoes and other farm products.

Question: As a successful businessman, your legislative service undoubtedly has represented a considerable sacrifice over the years. Do you ever regret this sacrifice?

Morgan: No, I do not believe my business has suffered unduly, even though I do not of course sell anything to the State. I have managed to do a good deal of my legislative work in spare time that otherwise would have been spent in recreation. As I see it, a man can't always receive; he should expect to give something to his community and his government. Since I have always believed we needed more businessmen in government, I think I should be willing to serve.

Question: Do you think the State can continue to carry the always increasing load of the Minimum Foundation Program for public schools, or do you believe the counties should make a greater effort?

Morgan: In my opinion, some counties are not trying as hard as they should to provide adequate funds for their schools. As I see the Minimum Foundation Program, it simply provides the floor for school financing. On this foundation each county should build to meet local requirements. Unfortunately, however, I know of no way to compel the counties to do this without taking away their right to local self-government and I would be opposed to doing that.

Every Business Firm Should Back This Legislation At Once

Florida will remain without adequate worthless check protection for another two years unless there is an immediate, state-wide avalanche of demand for such legislation within the next week. Only a spontaneous, ground-swell "grass roots" campaign will produce the much-needed legislation. The Florida Senate last week defeated a worthless check bill with teeth, supported by bankers, hotels, prosecuting officials of the state and Florida merchants.

At the very time the bill was under consideration, the business houses of one small Florida town were being victimized to the tune of $1,600 by a fly-by-night "paper hanger".

The Florida State Retailers Association today issued an urgent plea for immediate action by local business groups to assure enactment of worthless check legislation at this session. "Only immediate, grass roots' insistence will produce the desired results," the retailers' Tallahassee headquarters advised.

"The job can be done" association headquarters insisted. "Telegrams to Senator should be addressed to the Senate Chamber and those to Representative should go to the House Chamber, Tallahassee. But the effort must be immediate," it was emphasized. Local business groups were asked to telegram petitions in behalf of the legislation, as part of the all-out drive.

The legislation in question involves companion committee bills, S.B. 397 and H.B. 82. It provides adequate safeguards and protection for law-abiding citizens and represents two years of study and drafting by interested groups with the help of the Attorney General's office.

The proposed legislation specifically provides that it does not apply in cases where the recipient is advised by the maker that the check is no good at the time it is offered. This overcomes the objection that unscrupulous persons or businesses would encourage the writing of worthless checks and then threaten prosecution in order to collect accounts. The measure also specifically provides that it does not apply to post-dated checks.

With a growing trend toward a five-day week for banks, acceptance and cashing of checks will more and more be forced upon business houses of all kinds. In counties where banks are closed Saturdays, the check problem is multiplied.

Soil Conservation News

By Sam Foster

Apparently Hairy Indigo is making its way into the pasture field more extensively this year than ever before. Cooperators of the Highlands Soil Conservation District purchased about 2000 pounds of indigo seed this week to plant in mixture with the various improved pasture grasses such as Pangola and Pensacola Bahua as well as cover crop for citrus groves. Among those planting indigo are: Ted Farr, Tommy Whitehouse, A. D. Roberts, Harry Francis, Al Simmons, Jack Ingie, H. A. Pfaff, Pete Lastinger, Clarence Kerkling, Walter Mandis, Byrum, Shuckley, Ray Morgan and Mannin Kirkland and others. Some of these ranchers are expanding the indigo planting from last year.

Very good results were reported from ranchers who planted indigo in pasture last year.

Legislative Highlights

By Leo Wolinsky

Tallahassee — Senator J. Graham Black of Jasper, who has extensive farming interests, last week guided to passage in the senate a measure to provide the first adjustment in 50 years in the rate allowed for the publication of county delinquent tax lists. The senator, who has no financial interest in any newspaper, said his action was motivated by "a desire to see this important public notice by newspapers continued at an economically justified return to the papers."

Lending active support to Senator Black were Senators W. R. Hodges, Russell Morrow of Palm Beach, Leroy Collins of Tallahassee, J. E. Rodgers of Orange County, Ed Baker of Lake County, James E. "Nick" Conner of Inverness, Senator Wallace E. Sturgis of Ocala vigorously opposed the measure.

As week's end the bill was pending in the house civil judiciary committee where Rep. Willard Ayres of Ocala, chairman, indicated it would have early consideration.

Textbook publishers' representatives have been in the capital in considerable number throughout the session to promote a measure sponsored by the Florida Education Association to provide for the adoption of five textbooks in each course taught in Florida public schools. Ed Henderson, executive secretary of the FEA, has been vigorously urging passage of the bill.

Opponents urge that one book is enough in most courses, that present law provides for permanent multiple adoptions of textbooks in fields where experts find that to be desirable, and that Florida school children, already short of books, would be continuously handicapped by the proposed law because it would reduce the number of books obtainable with the appropriation for that purpose.

The state department of education, charged with administration of the textbook law, has never endorsed the bill. Rep. Roy Surkes of Polk County is chief sponsor of the proposal in the house. Rep. Fletcher Morgan of Duval is vigorous in his opposition. Several county school superintendents have indicated they oppose the bill because they say it will result in increased administrative costs, and hence higher taxes, in the counties of the state.

There's a strong public interest in an innocent looking bill pending on both senate and house calendars. It's senate bill 1037 and house bill 548. The 10-line measure prohibits attempts to influence any juror or prospective juror of any court in Florida, and makes the violator of the act subject to a citation for contempt of court.

Since every citizen of Florida is a "prospective" juror, the bill if enacted into law could sharply curtail freedom of comment by individuals or newspapers or radio stations on any public question that might ultimately be involved in a court action in which a jury is impaneled.

The bill is said to be aimed at inhibiting insurance companies from pointing to the huge judgments as a basis for constantly increasing automobile public liability rates — among other things.

Most unexpected event of the session thus far has been the progress made by Okeechobee County in its bid for the proposed $10,000,000 mental hospital for which money has been appropriated this session. The Okeechobee bill passed the senate under sponsorship of Senator Irie Bronson of Kissimmee by a wide margin. A similar measure in the house had been killed by the committee on state institutions which favored a measure by its chairman, Rep. John S. Burwell of Broward County. Burwell's bill would have directed the board of commissioners of state institutions to locate the hospital in one of the three populous lower east coast counties, omitting Okeechobee.

Rep. Nathan Zelmenovitz of Okeechobee asked the house to keep the bill out of the institutions committee when it came from the senate. He wanted it sent to another committee. Rep. B. Elliott of Palmetto, a former house speaker and potential candidate for governor in 1954, supported the move. Then Rep. Webb Jernigan of Escambia County proposed putting the bill on the calendar for house action without committee reference and that's where it is now.

Representatives of the Florida Mental Health society here at the capital for the session have indicated that they will oppose the Okeechobee location.

Florida's resurrection fern appears to wither and die in dry weather, but promptly revives and becomes freshly green with each rain.

Seniors Take Over School

Senior Teaching Day, with all positions in the school filled by Seniors of 1953, was observed in the Avon Park Schools, Tuesday, May 12. Preparation for the day has been in progress for several months. Principals, teachers, secretary, lunchroom workers, and custodians relinquished their jobs on Tuesday to students who had conferences on Monday with them on detailed plans for the day's work. The teachers made simplified lesson plans and stayed nearby while working on achievement tests in case the Seniors were unable to cope with some situation.

It was extremely gratifying to the faculty to see these boys and girls fill these places of responsibility so well, since these "young men and women" must soon go out to hold jobs of their own or to complete their education elsewhere. The student body was very cooperative, and that too speaks well for the discipline of the school.

Never has a meal been so good to the boys and girls as the one they helped prepare on Tuesday. They very proudly served it to the student body and the teachers.

There were many amusing remarks made by the students and some incidents that appeared humorous to the teachers. One Senior teaching a sixth grade remarked early in the afternoon, "I'm a nervous wreck!"

Another decided she'd never be a teacher after a second grade pupil, weary from doing sums with Coca-Cola caps, began throwing them around the room. One Senior insisted on some of the older students addressing her as "Miss." One boy topped his forehead and told a Junior High teacher at the close of the day, "Wow! You can have them!"

The principal for the day used the intercom system in order to see that all rooms were kept reasonably quiet. When one room became too noisy, his voice boomed out through the speaker in the room, "Get that room quiet!"

The long-suffering teacher replied indignantly, "What do you think I've been trying to do?" A teacher, of course, went to his rescue.

It was rather interesting to see the "faculty for the day" go along with the regular teachers in their lunchroom line and to note their chagrin at having to pay 36c instead of 28c. They sat at the teachers' table, used the teachers' restroom, and even had a faculty meeting at the close of the day.

The Seniors, upon being interviewed the following day, confessed they were glad to be students once more. However, they added, they had achieved an ambition of long standing — to know what it feels like to be behind the desk instead of in front of it.

The administrators and teachers, who were at first skeptical, feel the project was worthwhile, and it was commendably carried through.

Red Cross News

A special meeting of the Highlands County Chapter, American Red Cross, was held Monday night at the Chapter office with Rev. H. D. Graetz, chapter chairman presiding.

This meeting was held for the purpose of amending the chapter by-laws to add three members to the Board of Directors, making a total of 12 members on the board.
