Highlands County Fair Closes After Week Of Special Events

Highlands County 21st Annual Fair came to a close Saturday night after a week of special events.

On Tuesday the judges again awarded the Blue Ribbon to the Lake Placid community booth. Lake Placid has taken first place for the past five years. Sebring won second place and Lorinda third. The Cornwell booth was listed as commercial this year and the two huge bass which were frozen in a cake of ice made many a fisherman jealous.

The educational building was one of the main attractions of the fair goers and housed many displays. Sheriff Broward's exhibit showing photographs of accidents in Highlands County emphasized the Highway traffic toll and also the evils of moonshining, and was one of the most expressive exhibits at the fair.

In the judging Wednesday, Dottie Deadwyler, 11, of Cornwell, showed the grand champion, a 1350 pound Hereford steer, in the fat stock show. She also won the showmanship prize.

Larry Bond, Avon Park, was the owner of the reserve champion, a 750 pound Hereford steer.

Other blue ribbon winners were the 625 pound Angus steer of Steve Maxwell, Avon Park, and the 445 pound Angus steer of Richard Cooper of Sebring.

$1000 Given Hospital Fund By Pinecrest Golf Tournament

The Pinecrest Golf Tournament at Pinecrest Lakes Club on Friday, February 22, for the Walker Memorial Hospital Extension Drive netted $1100.

The Tournament with 102 entries was sponsored by Mrs. Benjamin Morell and the entire sum taken in for greens and luncheon was given intact to the drive. Mrs. Morell turned the money over to Mrs. Samuel King, Association Secretary-Treasurer, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Morell supervised the luncheon which was served on the lake at the half way mark of the course from noon until after two. Hamburgers were grilled at the scene and a delicious buffet was laid. Players who had begun their eighth holes of golf at the 10th hole in order to have the play run more smoothly were able to have lunch in the dining room if they desired.

Mrs. Morell gave six silver trophies for low gross and low net winners in the tournament. Fred Annon donated two prizes of three golf balls each and two sets of golf club covers from the Golf Shop at Pinecrest. The door prizes were gifts of the following local merchants: Delaney's Hardware, Metcalfe Hardware, Exie Cafe Gift Shop, Madox & Starkey Inc., Touchton Drug Co., Maxey Grove, Wright's Package Store, Border's Service Station, Decker's Pure Oil Station, Stoker Jamranda Service Station, Wells Motor Company. Door prizes were also given by Clara Spitz, a guest at Pinecrest, and the Pinecrest Gift Shop.

Winners of the Tournament in the men's division were: S. Flores, first low gross; A. Anderson, second low gross; and H. Rosenberg first low net.

Winners in the women's division were Mrs. Milton Schiff, first low gross; Mrs. Mike Witt, second low gross; and Mrs. Lawrence Abelson, first low net.

$500,000 Suit Filed Against School Board

A suit for $500,000 was filed in Bartow on March against the Highlands County School Board by a Polk County man whose 7 year old son was killed by a bus on the last Fall.

James R. Lewis, who lives in Polk County near the Highlands County line, said that his son, Clarence Lewis, was attending school in Avon Park, with transportation furnished by the Highlands County School Board.

On Oct. 22, the bill of complaint says, Clarence got off the bus at the usual place, near his home, then walked toward the rear of the bus on the right hand side, out of view of the driver, Clarence Scott Landre.

Lewis charged that Landre "negligently" started the bus again, when he could not see the boy, and the rear wheels of the bus ran over the youngster, killing him.

The February total is better than twice the total for February 1956, which was $38,100.

Included in the February permits were one business construction by H. O. Murphy ($12,000) and one duplex by Mrs. Portia Taylor ($7,000).

Jobless Benefits

While there are those who look with disfavor on the unemployment compensation laws, under which payroll taxes are levied to pay jobless benefits in time of unemployment, few will disagree that this country will never again have to resort to a WPA to provide jobs for those who are forced into idleness during periods of slack employment, or should the country experience another depression.

Many of those now making up the American work team, the workers in all lines of employment, white collar or otherwise, have no knowledge of the dark days of the depression, when millions walked the streets, not knowing where the next meal for themselves, their wives and children would come from. The federal alphabetical agencies — the FERA, the WPA, the WPA, the CCC and others too numerous to mention were born of the depression emergency. They are but a memory now to some, but a vivid memory to others who owed their very existence to the "made work" jobs they created.

What is the situation today, under the employment security system set up by the federal and state governments — unemployment compensation to provide weekly benefits to those who are separated from painful employment?

The Department of Labor has just announced that reserves for paying benefits to workers under state unemployment compensation laws amounted to $4 billion dollars as of last June 30. The department's bureau of employment security said that because of generally improved economic conditions the number of workers drawing the jobless benefits in the year ended June 30 averaged 992,000 per week, compared with a 1,408,000 weekly average for the prior 12-month period.

And here is pertinent fact that should be considered: About 41,500,000 persons are now covered by unemployment insurance under state laws, by the program for federal civilian employees and by the railroad retirement act. That is a very high percentage of all the working people in this country, and is the best kind of anchor to windward for those thus protected against hardship and suffering during enforced idleness.

Senior Woman's Club Meet

The Senior Woman's Club met Friday afternoon, March 1, at the clubhouse. Mrs. W. Allen Kindel gave the devotion taken from the 11th Chapter of Luke.

A recommendation was passed that the Avon Park Woman's Club join with the North East Miami Woman's Club in opposing the placing of the Florida Industrial School for Boys at Marianna, the Industrial School for Girls at Ocala and the Industrial School for Negro Girls at Forest Hills under a prison director since such an act would stigmatize these pupils.

Mrs. J. H. Hahn announced that the local club entered 12 pictures in the Art Exhibit for District 9 in Lakeland. Mrs. Hahn also announced that at the meeting on April 5 the club would have an art exhibit. Pictures to be entered should be at the clubhouse on the morning of the meeting.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Art Exhibit. Miss Ulla Bell MacDaniel gave a very interesting report on the meeting held in Sebring last Monday at which time Dr. George T. Stafford, an eminent health educator, on leave from the University of Ill. was the guest speaker. He spoke on the Health Program in the Florida Schools.

Mrs. T. D. Johnston announced for The Fine Arts and Hobby Committee that the line of the Hat Party and White Elephant Sale would be a "Clock or Friday afternoon" March 15, at the clubhouse. It was also announced that the Woman's Club would have a Card Party at the clubhouse on Monday, March 18.

Dr. Ruth Phillips made her usual informative speech on the World Situation. Mrs. Kelley presented Mrs. M. Davis who gave a most interesting lecture on Bird Conservation. She told of the habits of some of the birds and stressed the wonderful way that the birds helped the farmers, and if for no other reason than that the birds should be protected. She also stated that it would be impossible for man to live without the birds. She closed her lecture with the poem, "Lines To A Waterfowl" by William Cullen Bryant. A free will offering was taken for the Seminole Indian Scholarship Fund.

Bridal Shower For Nancy Harris

Miss Nancy Harris was honored Saturday night, March 2, at a miscellaneous shower in Wesley Hall at the First Methodist Church.

Hostesses for the bridal shower were Mrs. T. O. Martin, Mrs. L. H. Ford and Mrs. T. H. Maxwell. A flat bowl of white gladioli with a miniature table dressed in white and holding a white Bible, was used as the centerpiece on the table where Mrs. Harris' array of beautiful gifts were displayed.

Mrs. Martin presented the gifts to Miss Harris one at a time and Miss Jane Maxwell listed the gifts in the bride's book. A huge punch bowl centered the refreshment table which was decorated with green fern intertwined with yellow gladioli and yellow crotons. Mrs. H. M. Flowers, sister of the bride-elect, served at the punch bowl and Mrs. Mabel Carpenter, grandmother of the bride-to-be, served the cake squares which were frosted with white and decorated with white rose buds with just a hint of yellow to the many friends attending the shower.

Tallahassee — Once, they said, the ideal college would be educator Mark Hopkins at one end of a log and the student at the other end.

That's not possible today, if ever it was, but there are those who believe the community junior college comes nearest to that ideal possible under present conditions in Florida public education.

Anyway, the thought of Mark Hopkins and his student popped into mind at once while walking about Chipola Junior College at Marianna the other morning.

For there, in the pleasant crispness of a North Florida end-of-floors of pine, white oak and dogwood, were gathered seven boys and five girls, half-circles on the ground about a shirt-sleeved instructor who was using an anatomical model — a human torso perched atop a picnic table.

The outdoor meeting of that class in community health by Dr. Arthur H. Bryan, retired faculty member of Baltimore City College and author of college texts on bacteriology and related subjects, may not be typical of Chipola — "the class wanted to get out into Chipola's atmosphere of teacher-student informality without familiarity.

Chipola is neither Florida's oldest public junior college (Palm Beach was established as such in 1933) nor the state's largest (St. Petersburg, founded as a private school in 1927 and converted to a public institution in 1947, probably has the biggest enrollment).

But Chipola perhaps dramatizes the public service opportunities of the Florida community college better than its metropolitan counterparts.

That's because you get a sense of Chipola's contribution to its four-county area by encountering its graduates at nearly every turn there—young men and women, now engaged in a variety of useful pursuits who often say with a sense of pride that in all likelihood they could not have obtained college schooling away from home.

"Why," remarked one teacher, "I still be chopping cotton if it hadn't been for Chipola."

And the statistics appear to bear out these comments. Not long ago, seven percent of the high school graduates there went to college; now, 44 percent do. A lion's share attend Chipola.

Chipola is situated nowadays on a 20-acre donated campus on the outskirts of Marianna, a community of 6,000 which serves as the trading center for a considerable agricultural region. Marianna is the seat of Jackson county, one of the four which supply students by school bus routes to Chipola—routes up to 180 roundtrip in length.

Jackson, Washington and Calhoun counties participate directly in the financial support of Chipola; Holmes county does so indirectly through its students paying a slightly higher tuition.

Marianna has a fierce sense of pride in Chipola for it was along Lafayette street—among the business and professional people — that the hat was tossed many times to raise money for the school's establishment in 1945 as a private community college and for its maintenance and enlargement thereafter. Chipola came into the public school framework after the 1947 Legislature authorized counties to include junior colleges in school programs.

Not many people have been as privileged as R. B. Beall to observe so amazing an evolution in public education during their lifetime. He's a farm implement dealer, a member of Jackson county's school board, and the chairman of Chipola's advisory board.

When Beall came to Jackson county 44 years ago, he recalls, less than five percent of its boys and girls even graduated from high school "and education then was for a few families." He still remembers the mutters — "why on earth would those kids out in the woods want to go to high school?" — when it was proposed to establish such a school in one of Jackson's outlying communities.

Beall first became interested in the founding of a junior college at Marianna, in 1936 when the relatively big salaries paid elsewhere during Florida's boom drained off the area's teachers. There's still that problem today but Chipola helps keep the teachers among Jackson's own boys and girls because they haven't been uprooted for good years and lost touch with home.

Yet he knows, as a businessman dealing with the farmers, the sacrifice required even to day to send youngsters to college from rural families which still gross around $1,500 a year — "I just hope we can always keep it cheap enough here at Chipola so the kid who wants to go to college can do so."

That cost, for tuition and books, is around $125 to $150 a year. But President K. G. Skaggs (Illinois-born, Sarasota-raised, University of Florida graduate) is proud of the fact that no prospective Chipola student ever has been turned away for lack of money. There are campus jobs, and the hat is still being passed along to students and 425 adult students, the four counties. Skaggs calculates that three out of every four Chipola students could not afford to go elsewhere.

Chipola is, however, a community service college in the fullest sense. In running from 7:50 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., Chipola serves 300 full-time college students and 425 adult students, offering three types of courses: (1) the regular first two years of college work, after which the student may transfer to some university; (2) a two-year package, with emphasis on training for business and industry, and (3) a wide range of adult education, including self-improvement and refresher classes plus others enabling a student to close credit-hour gaps in previous schooling.

Marianna's State Senator John S. Rawls says "I'm not conservative, so I guess the cost appeals to me" in talking of and from our State during the peak season. I don't feel the airlines presently servicing our State can be blamed. Eastern, National and Delta have done a fine job of interesting thousands of people in visiting Florida. But, the demand for air travel to and from Florida is growing faster than those airlines can handle.

I've written James Dufree, Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, that we need additional flights from the North and Mid-West to Florida during the winter months. I've week I received a letter from a stockbroker in our State who was anxious to get help with the preparation of his business tax reports. I know many of you who operate independent businesses have faced this problem.

WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

INCOME TAX HELP — Last

About a year ago, I asked the Senate Small Business Committee, of which I'm a member, if they could prepare some type of income tax outline or guide for small business. I'm glad to say that, together with the Internal Revenue people, they have compiled an informative yet simple Tax Guide for Small Business.

Such topics as business expenses, employment, sales and billing are discussed in this easy-to-understand guide book.

There are a limited number of free copies available at the Senate Small Business Committee, United States Senate, Washington, D.C.

After that supply is exhausted, additional copies will be available from the Government Printing Office at 20¢ each.

BETTER AIR TRAVEL TO FLORIDA — I don't feel there's enough airline flights to and from Florida at certain times of the year. It is increasingly difficult to get accommodations if you're going to South Florida, the West Coast or the Central part of our State during the winter season.

After contacting many of our cities which have air service, I'm convinced the opinion throughout Florida is just about unanimous on this matter. We need more flights to and from our State during the peak season. I don't feel the airlines presently servicing our State can be blamed. Eastern, National and Delta have done a fine job of interesting thousands of people in visiting Florida. But, the demand for air travel to and from Florida is growing faster than those airlines can handle.

I've written James Dufree, Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, that we need additional flights from the North and Mid-West to Florida during the winter months. I've suggested a new flexible system of airline certification. This proposal would authorize the CAB to allow additional airlines, not now flying to Florida, to service our State during the winter season. The airlines already serving our State, would, in turn, be allowed to fly to other parts of the country during those areas' peak seasons when their full equipment was not needed in Florida.

I've asked Senator Mike Monroney, Chairman of the Aviation Subcommittee, of which I'm also a member, to call hearings about my suggestion and the needed improvements in air travel.

NATIONAL APPOINTMENT — One of Florida's finest men has been appointed to an important national advisory position. Our good friend, Herbert E. Wolfe of St. Augustine, has been selected to serve on the Department of Defense Small Business Industrial Advisory Committee.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR VETERANS' CHILDREN — The mail response to our Veterans' Children Scholarship Bill has been tremendous.

I certainly appreciate the many letters of endorsement that we've received, and it's particularly gratifying to receive the help of many of our State's American Legion, AMVET, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veterans groups.

The bill is before the Senate Judiciary Committee and I've encouraged letters to that committee on its behalf. This bill would enable a great many children of veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict to receive scientific and engineering scholarships each year.

Caribbean Conference On Mental Health To Be Held March 13-19

The Florida Alcohol Rehabilitation Program will be represented at the first Caribbean Conference on Mental Health to be held March 13-19 at Aruba, Netherlands, Antilles, off the coast of Venezuela.

The conference was called by the Aruba Society for Mental Health, which has indicated it is greatly concerned with flagging morale and spreading alcoholism among Arubans.

Construction of a huge oil refinery on the tiny island Aruba has brought on a sharp economic upsurge among Arubans, but has left socio-cultural development far behind and created mental and emotional stresses, the Society says.

Of the 55,000 inhabitants of the island which has an area of 69 square miles, some 24,000 are native Arubans of African descent. They are feeling the economic impact of international oil industry for the first time, the Society points out.

Representing Florida's Alcohol Rehabilitation Program will be Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, director of psychiatric social work and Mrs. Marian M. Kalashian, social worker of the program's Tampa out-patient clinic.

Mrs. Johnson will present a paper on "Alcoholic Problems and Rehabilitation of the Alcoholic," on March 15. Mrs. Kalashian will discuss treatment of the alcoholic patient and wife, and group therapy with the patient's relatives in an outpatient clinic.

Dr. R. Turfhorp, chairman of the Aruban conference, will speak on alcoholism in Aruba. Also to be present is Dr. Arne Querida, director of the Amsterdam health department, and professor of social psychiatry at the University of Amsterdam.

Although an Alcohol Anonymous chapter has been formed at Aruba, and the Aruba, and the Aruba Society Against Alcoholism has been organized, the international conference represents Aruba's first major step toward halting impending mental health decline.

The Aruba Society for Mental Health said it is sponsoring the conference to provide an opportunity for an exchange of mental health information among the several nations which European, American and South American countries. They include Peru, England, Holland, the United States and the South American countries.

Correction

We wish to correct an error made in last week's issue of the Avon Park Sun. It is the North Brevard Realty Co., and not the Core Realty Company that has entered into a contract to purchase Cliff Thompson's acreage.

A major steel company has reported that it uses about 22 gallons of fuel oil for each ton of steel produced.

Eyes Of Sport Car Racing On Grand Prix

Eyes of the sports car racing world are beginning to focus on this quiet little community of 1,000 in the heart of the famed orange and grapefruit belt of Florida.

Around the world, in the British Isles, on the European Continent, in the Far East, Australia and South Africa, the name Sebring has become well known to the automobile racing fraternity.

Already the town is busily engaged in preparation for the "big event"—the Florida International 12-Hour Grand Prix of Endurance for the Avon trophy, which will be run here on March 23, 1957. Spectator arrangements are being made for the Sebring firm, Inc., the volunteer firemen who several years ago formed an organization with the main purpose in mind of bringing attention to Sebring through the staging of outstanding sports events.

On almost every bench in the town circle wherever people meet you will hear them talking about "the race."

Dr. R. Turfhorp, chairman of the Aruban conference, will speak on alcoholism in Aruba. Also to be present is Dr. Arne Querida, director of the Amsterdam health department, and professor of social psychiatry at the University of Amsterdam.

400 Prisoners To Be Sent Here From Raiford

Tallahassee — A realistic prison reform program appears to have a good chance of getting some action in this session of the State Legislature.

O. Culver — new prison director — is making sweeping recommendations, and several legislative committees are working on the problem.

Raiford has top priority. The new program includes virtual rebuilding of the Raiford facility. . . . Classifying prisoners — separating hardened criminals from prisoners with a chance of rehabilitation — and cutting down the prisoner population.

An unused federal prison camp at Avon Park has been obtained by the state for use as a temporary prison. About 400 prisoners will be transferred from Raiford to the new camp, which is probably in about 90 days. . . . These prisoners will be one classified as "minimum custody."

Riots at Raiford last year gave a push to plans, and Culver — a former federal prison director — appears to have the know-how and drive to put the program across.

New Gas Supplies Seen Boost For Florida Industry

Industrial growth in Florida will become still swifter and along with more diversified lines with the arrival of natural gas supplies now on the way, an industry leader said today.

Edward J. Funk Jr., chairman of the Florida Gas Equipment Division of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, said the combination of the new fuel supply and the region's growing population will provide new advantages in attracting consumer goods industries, particularly in food lines.

"Production of containers of all types will be stimulated greatly by the extension of gas pipelines," Funk noted, "and this is closely related to production in food, drug, cosmetic and other lines. Gas has a vital role in production of metal cans and tubes of glass containers and metal foil. For some operations there are no satisfactory substitutes for this fuel."

"Printing and textile finishing operations also will be expanded. The swift growth of use of natural gas in these lines in other parts of the country testifies as to the advantages to be gained in the new fuel supply."

Mr. Funk, who is vice president of the C. M. Kemp Manufacturing Co., Baltimore, Md., declared that in the new manufacturing industry Florida will share an advantage newly proving its worth at the opposite end of the country. Natural gas first was delivered to the Pacific Northwest last summer, and airplane manufacturing in that area already has called for huge quantities of the fuel.

Food drying, plywood manufacturing and other gas-consuming uses now showing swift growth in the Northwest also are likely to have counterparts in Florida, Funk said.

Expansion of natural gas lines also will give the state opportunity to share in the wide industrial applications of "inert gas" operations. Funk declared. In these, gas is burned under specially controlled conditions to produce an oxygen-free atmosphere. Synthetic textile fibers are being made in some of the newest plants in the Southeast by this method.

Inert gas made with natural gas also is proving valuable in storing dehydrated alfalfa. This new storage technique is credited with preserving nutrition values in the feed much better than ordinary methods. So far it is used mostly in the Midwest, but said Mr. Funk, there is every reason to expect it will grow in other sections, and Florida has a big potential in livestock feed processing.

Among the almost countless applications of natural gas in metal working operations, automatic forging processes are of growing importance. Industrial gas furnaces are vital in this line, Mr. Funk explained, because of special demands as to speed and uniformity in heating.

Tampa — Some of money ranging from $5 to $228 may be paid 79 Florida workers if they can be located by their former employers, according to Investigation Supervisor Felix
T. Haynes of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage-Hour field office here.

Total due for the state is $3, $23,21, of which $1,236.49 is owed to 54 employees whose last known addresses indicate they lived in that part of central and southwest Florida which is served by the Tampa field office.

Persons whose names are listed below should write to Felix T. Haynes, 308 Tampa Street, giving social security number, current address, and listing the names of employers they have worked for in the last two years. Arrangements will then be made to see that they are paid the wages it has been determined are due them.

In the mean time, Holland and Smathers, after having met with one of the under secretaries of the Post Office Department and protested the "typical" charges the Department had trumped up against Field. In the end, of course, the Post Office can fire Field, but any new postmaster must be confirmed by Holland and Smathers. Although the Florida Senators have gone along with other recent post office changes in Florida, they are thinking seriously of balking completely over this high-handed deal. Right now it looks like "No" again, off again, gone again—Joel Field."

Washington SAW

WIR PENULTIMATE
CONFUSION IN SANFORD — Who's postmaster? For a while nobody knew, and even now the problem may not be cleared up. Joel Field was given the job on June 6, 1944 by President Roosevelt. Recently word got out that he was being ousted to make way for a San Smathers Republican. Senators Holland and Smathers and Congressman Syd Herling asked the Post Office Department to keep them posted on any development on this move. The Post Office Department promised but didn't do it. Two weeks ago, the inspectors swooped down on the post office in Sanford. They told Field he was to go and informed Guy Allen, local Republican leader, that he was the new postmaster. In the midst of the "checking out" period, Field called Senator Holland and got busy. Suddenly as the inspectors, arrived, they departed. They returned to Washington. Then it gets confusing. The Post Of-ice Department said they would out field on Friday of last week. This time they notified the Red Cross of their plan. They sent their inspectors back to Sanford. In the mean time, Holland and Smathers, after having met with one of the under secretaries of the Post Office Department and protested the "typical" charges the Department had trumped up against Field. In the end, of course, the Post Office can fire Field, but any new postmaster must be confirmed by Holland and Smathers. Although the Florida Senators have gone along with other recent post office changes in Florida, they are thinking seriously of balking completely over this high-handed deal. Right now it looks like "No" again, off again, gone again—Joel Field."

YOUTH DELEGATION
Visiting the offices of Florida's Senators last week were three delegates from Florida to the Christian Citizenship Seminar for Students. The seminar was held in Washington under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church. Delegates spent three days in New York studying the United Nations and the remainder of the week in Washington. From Florida were: Miss Lois Tichenor, Miami, a student at Florida State; Miss Winifred Barry, of Belle Glade, and J. W. Crews, Jr., of Wauchula, both students at the University of Florida.

FLORIDA AIR SERVICE
Everyone who flies back and forth to Florida knows that it is almost impossible to get a plane reservation on short notice during the busy season. Senator Smathers, who is on the Aviation Subcommittee, is doing great harm to the tourist business and the permanent development of great areas of the state. He is trying to do something about it. He has protested this lack of service to the Civil Aeronautics Board and has asked them to set up a flexible system of airline certification, whereby airlines may be granted the right to serve Florida cities on a seasonal basis. That is, during the peak seasons, airlines not now servicing Florida would be permitted to make runs into the State. Eastern and National Airlines aren't expected to like this idea very much, but Smathers says, "The demand for air travel to all parts of Florida is growing faster than the presently certified airlines can handle it." He thinks this will relieve the overload. He has asked for public hearings in March or April.

STERN WARNING — Bob Sikes didn't put any punches against the oil producers in a speech the other day when he said, "I wish to serve notice on the petroleum industry now that they are riding for a fall in the same way the large public utility holding company is riding high in the day of the 20's."

Eric Annett Wins Tractor Driving Contest
The Annual Tractor Driving Contest of the Highlands County Fair was held Saturday afternoon, March 2, at the F. grounds.
The Blue Ribbon and $5 was won by Eric Annett, a Sebring Junior High School student. The Red Ribbon and $4 was won by Jack White, a Sebring Senior High School student.
The tractor driving contest was open to approved members of 4-H and FFA.

Shuffleboard Trophy Won By Local Club
The Avon Park Shuffleboard Club won the 1956-57 Shuffleboard Trophy Tournament March 12, between Avon Park and the Winter Guest Club.

The tournament five games, the five teams tied. In game Avon Park 1-23 to 22. The third game, Sebring 33 to fourth Avon Park 30 to 18.

Members of the club playing in the tournament were Duane, Forest G. West.
