The Tractor Transformed Our World

It has been observed that the history of man begins with the provision of food. There are climates where it is possible to live without lodging or clothing—but we all must have food every day.

In his definitive work "Hunger and History," E. F. Schattschneider writes: "There was a time when almost the entire population of a country was directly or indirectly engaged in agriculture. At present, in America, those so engaged are comparatively few, and these men... do the farming for all who are engaged in other occupations."

In other words, modern agriculture techniques are indirectly responsible for the incredible output of industry—for, without those techniques, the people now at work in the factories would, instead, be producing food and fiber. Their efforts would have to be mainly given just to sustaining themselves on a bare subsistence basis. And we would have turned the clock back by centuries.

Here is one of the great significances of what we call the agricultural revolution. Until about three generations ago, farming methods and implements had changed but little since the dawn of civilization. Then came the start of mechanization, and the first of the marvelous machines which swiftly and economically do the farm jobs today—and, of equal importance, provide the tools for conserving precious land for the future. The tractor, so to speak, transformed our world.

Power Of The Press

An 81-year-old country newspaperman, Chet Lamson, editor of the weekly Jefferson, Ohio, Gazette, has provided the country with a dramatic example of the power of the press. Mr. Lamson's paper is small, and its power was exerted against one of the biggest organizations in existence—the U. S. Treasury Department. But David slew Goliath!

Here's what happened: Mr. Lamson received a notice from the Internal Revenue Service demanding payment of an alleged income tax indebtedness of $9. The notice sent his blood pressure soaring. First of all, he didn't believe he owed the money. But that was a minor consideration. What really angered him was the insulting wording of the notice, and its threats of attachment of income and seizure of property unless the claim was paid at once.

Mr. Lamson didn't confine his views to the columns of his own paper. He wrote the President of the United States and various other officials, including members of Congress. He stated that, "No agency of Government should be allowed to insult any citizen, or deny him his constitutional rights or inflict cruel and unusual punishments on a mere assumption that the taxpayer is a willful violator of the income tax law." To make a long story short, Mr. Lamson got results. The Internal Revenue Service is changing the wording of its form, and you can bet that the new version will be couched in much more courteous language.

So a small-town newspaperman took up the cudgel against a branch of a great government—and won a battle that affects the rights and dignity of all our citizens. Honor to him!

Free Competition vs. State Control

We are embarking on a multi-billion dollar federal highway program, involving 41,000 miles of roads. And just how effectively motorists will be serviced along tomorrow's vast network of limited-access expressways will depend on whether fuel and other products are marketed competitively or under state control.

That observation is made by an officer of the Ohio Oil Company, writing in the American Petroleum Institute Quarterly. He points out that exclusive franchises awarded by the states along various toll roads have resulted in unfavorable conditions for the oil industry and the motoring public alike. The motorists found that he lost his choice of brands on the new highway, that his credit card was frequently useless, and that, because of excessive royalties paid to the state, he had to pay more for his gas, oil and other supplies.

This authority believes that the need is for freedom of competition along superhighways, whether or not they are part of the federal system—and that the only way that goal can be achieved is to keep all commercial enterprise on private property and off state-controlled rights-of-way. Then businesses of every size can compete for a share of the market, with the independent, the jobber, and the individual operator all given the chance to buy or lease a site on the approaches to the highway system.

In this, as in almost everything else, free competition will best guarantee the consumer maximum service at minimum cost. That is the American way.

Here's The Answer

There's a big bargain that everyone buys and uses—yet you can't see it and you can't pick it up. And it isn't found in stores.

The bargain, of course, is electricity. A Department of Commerce report shows that the average American family spends only about one per cent of its annual budget for power. In return, it gets a tremendous amount of service, comfort, convenience and good living. And the power bill in most businesses and industries is comparably small.

Despite these facts, power has been made into a top drawer political issue. The public power groups are fanatically determined that this country shall have socialized government power or no power at all. They act as if the cost of power was a crushing burden on the American people, and that only government can relieve that burden.

Why should this be the case? Why should there be so much outright misrepresentation? There is one good answer. Thinkers and writers of the Marxist school always emphasize the importance of government ownership of a nation's power supply as a necessary prelude to government ownership and domination of everything else. And they are right. For power is an absolute necessity today, and if the politicians ever get monopolistic control of it they will be able to call whatever tune they like for agriculture, industry and individuals.

In short, the power issue is not an economic issue. It is an ideological issue of overriding importance. The decision reached will largely determine whether this is to be a socialized country—or a free country.

1958 Dodge Gets 22.9 MPG In North-South Run

Miami, Fla., Sept. 27—A 1958 Dodge today broke the mason Dixon economy barrier with an average of 22.9 miles per gallon in a 1,545-mile highway marathon through 132 cities, villages, and towns.

The average speed was just over 40 miles per hour, yet all traffic rules and speed limits were strictly observed.

In a test supervised by the United States Auto Club, the 1958 Dodge—which will not be introduced to the public until early November—started its test run off the assembly line in Detroit. The run was concluded here as a highlight of Chrysler Corporation's press preview of its new models.

Deliberately tackling the congested east and leveling the heights of the mist-veiled Great Smoky Mountains, the car rolled through Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

Over the mountains, climbing as high as 5,000 feet, the car realized more than 21 miles per gallon from its brand new Ram-Fire V-8 engine. In the citrus country side from Lake City, Fla., to Miami, its mileage hurried over the 24 miles per gallon mark.

The United States Auto Club's figure of 22.93 miles per gallon for the entire route was recorded after the sealed tank was opened and drained of its last drop of fuel at the conclusion of the unique trip.

The National Audubon Society

By The Bird Woman

In our last article we wrote about the great Artist and Naturalist by the name of Audubon, and also his wife Lucy, and indirectly we gave credit to Lucy Audubon for the National Audubon Society as we know it today.

Although it had many ups and downs before it finally became established, yet we realize that most great movements move slowly, and if they are for the lasting good of man kind, they will survive.

When Lucy Audubon was living in a lonely cabin in the woods, or even when she taught the children of wealthy families, she probably did not think that the wonderful things of Nature reflected from her. Husband and taught to children by her, would eventually culminate in making their name synonymous with Wild life protection.

Those interested in Wild life have learned by experience that Birds and Animals cannot be protected without protecting the areas where they have chosen to live.

The cutting and draining of the land are two things that contribute to driving Birds and Animals away, sometimes to other areas, and sometimes to their destruction, so that is one of the functions of National Audubon Society, and one of the purposes for which it was first established.

A former Pupil of Lucy Audubon, George Bird Grinnell, who was the Editor of the Magazine, Forest and Stream in New York City, was instrumental in organizing the first Society for the protection of Wild life, which at first dealt mainly with Birds, this was just a local Society and lasted only three years, but it was a beginning and other local Societies soon sprung up over the Country.

Eventually in 1905 a National organization under the name of "National Association of Audubon Societies for the protection of wild Birds and Animals Inc. was founded, and in 1940 the name was reduced to "National Audubon Society" and under that name it has functioned very successfully for over fifty years.

Even when wild life was abundant in the days of Audubon, he could foresee that as the population grew conservation would have to be enforced.

No doubt every one is familiar with the struggle to protect the Egrets, Herons, Gulls,

Rosetta Spoonbills, Terns and many any Bird that carried a feather, in Florida and the adjacent areas around the Gulf. Even song Birds were killed and used for food.

We blush to think that women were responsible for the demand for Bird feathers and even small Birds to adorn their Bonnets and not only did the demand exist in this country, but men were becoming rich by killing these Birds and shipping the feathers abroad.

So we can realize what a problem the N. A. S. had when it started to help enforce conservation. New York State passed a law in 1910 when Chas. Evans Hughes was Governor, called the "Audubon Plume Bill", this was to stop the sale of most Wild Bird Plumes in that State which seemed to be the clearing house for Bird Feathers.

This was a big step forward, but many plumes were sent to France via Cuba, and Feathers were imported to this country from foreign countries.

Two Audubon Wardens were killed here in Florida and their homes burned but there was not sufficient evidence to bring them to justice. Finally in 1913 a Federal act was passed making it illegal to import plumes into the United States, so working from both ends the Feather fight was beginning to bear fruit.

It seems that if you yell long enough and loud enough some one will eventually hear you and take notice. At times it takes a strong arm and sometimes education to achieve an end and in this fight both were used.

Eventually Women came to their senses and changed the style of their head gear, but not before a great deal of harm had been done, and our wonderful Birds decimated, come almost to the point of extinction.

Feathers have been a useful commodity as far back as we have history, but usefulness and decorative value are two different things.

I can remember seeing my Grand mother pin up her Geese or Ducks and test them to see if the feathers were ripe (or ready to moult) and when she plucked a handful from the breast of the Fowl, it indicated that they were ready to be plucked, but if they did not come out white, she would release the Fowl till a later

Probably some will not admit that they can remember the big feather bed and the fluffy pillows Grand mothers used to have, but in that era they knew nothing of the inner spring mattress on which the younger were reared.

But to remove these feathers did not hurt the Fowl, for it was ready to shed them, and its body had a protective covering of down. But to secure Bird feathers the Birds had to be killed.

We are sure that Women have learned their lesson, as so many are interested in our wonderful Birds and their protection, but in the event some erratic stylist tries to bring back a style that would endanger our Birds, we now have some very stringent laws and a powerful National Audubon Society, and also in Fla. as in most of the States, we have a State Audubon Society, all standing ready to give adequate protection to the wonderful Birds the Marvelous Creator put here for our help and enjoyment.

Locals....

Mrs. Mannin Kirkland left Monday for the Fall Board Meeting of the State Woman's aid, state director of Adventist welfare work.

The purpose of the meeting will be directed toward making the welfare activities of the church more effective in the communities they represent. A recent statement from world headquarters of the church revealed that the health and welfare centers scattered throughout the nation gave and made available for overseas shipment 4,084,017 articles of clothing giving assistance to 1,350,570 persons. The value of laymen's work for the year is listed at $13,541,734, in the welfare program.

Girl Scouts

The Girl Scouts continued their good work with 27 members present at their meeting on Thursday, Sept. 26. The scouts were divided into three troops with Beth Church, Pat Jones, and Georganne Godwin acting as the troop leaders. Each troop then studied the membership pledges with the help of the scout leader, Mrs. Bob Lee.

Mrs. Pauline Hall sent refreshments for the girls. Mrs. John Townsend will be in charge of contacting parents and arranging for the refreshments each week. If a parent wishes to help with this please contact Mrs. Townsend.

After the scout meeting this Thursday, Oct. 3, at 3:15 in the Ridge Area School Building at King's Court the girls will go to the home of Mrs. Bob Lee, 409 E. Oak Street, for a hamburger fry and more study on their membership requirements. Parents may pick up their daughters at seven o'clock. Mrs. H. N. Booth will help with the supper.

Clubs in Naples. She will be gone several days and the time will be spent in learning more about Junior Club work to bring home to the Junior Club in Avon Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tyrrell and their small daughter, Kay returned Friday to Panama City where they plan to make their new home. They have been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kelsey.

Little Della Ann Montemayor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

Robert Montemayor, recently spent two weeks in the hospital in Miami where she was very ill. She returned home last week but became sicker and had to be rushed to Lakeland to the hospital there on Monday.

Mrs. L. S. Pickett left Tuesday for Winter Park where she entered the hospital there for treatment on her back. She will be in the hospital at least two weeks before the doctor will be able to tell what further treatment must be taken.

George Ludlum Hartford, Director Of A & P Tea Company Dies

George Ludlum Hartford, 79, had survived of a trip to Florida which he had made to "see people and places" to more people than anyone else in history. He died on Oct. 2, 1957, at his home in Montclair, N. J., where he resided with his son-in-law, Sheldon M. Stewart. He would have been 80 years of age next November 1. Mr. Hartford was chairman of the Board of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, better known to millions in this country just as "The A&P" the company grew from one small tea store opened back in 1858 on Vesey Street, in lower Manhattan, to one with more than 4,000 stores in 37 states, bringing its daily supplies from virtually every agricultural growing region in this country and many foreign lands.

Mr. Hartford was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., November 7, 1878. He was the eldest of five children born to George Huntington Hartford, founder of A & P, and P. and Josephine Ludlum Hartford.

Mr. Hartford died quietly in his sleep at the Montclair residence from which funeral services will be held on Thursday of this week. He has been actively associated with A&P for more than 80 years.

Surviving, in addition to Mr. Stewart, are one nephew, George Huntington Hartford II, of New York City and three nieces, Mrs. John F. C. Byrne, New York City; Mrs. Allen J. McIntosh, Mount Kisco, N. Y.; and Mrs. Charles S. Robertson, of Huntington, N. Y.

Also surviving are one Grand nephew, William G. Wright, of Orange, N. J., and five granddaughters.

The Devil attempt at the extra point failed.

Kathleen, Avon Park Red, Kathleen could gain in their following series of downs and downs took over. Avon Park failed with two passes.

The second period started with Kathleen picking up two first downs before being halted by the tough Avon Park line and a number of costly penalties.

The most outstanding play of the game followed when Kathleen's punt, that rolled to a stop on Avon Park's 30, was scooped up by Rouse who tucked the sidelines for 70 yards and a touchdown.

It looked as though Rouse was going to let the ball roll dead but he picked it up instantly before the officials could blow it dead. A key block was thrown by Leroy Faires to long run. A lineback attempt at the extra point failed.

Kathleen took Avon Park's kick and ran one play before losing the ball back to the Avon Park defense.

Avon Park kicked to Kathleen to start the second half, but the Polk County victory was unable to gain and punted to Avon Park on the Kathleen 45. On the Red Devil's first running play, Jimmy Cooper pitched out to Rooster Rouse who went the entire 45 yards and pay dirt. John Starling rammed over the extra point. The score was 19 to 0.

Kathleen took Avon Park's kickoff but was handicapped by penalties and forced to punt to Avon Park's 30 yard line.

From this point another outstanding play came as Jimmy Cooper executed a well timed quarterback sneak and side-stepped, and outran the entire Polk County team for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Avon Park's extra point attempt was no good. Avon Park kicked to Kathleen and the visitors still couldn't gain against the quarter ended and Coach Joe Franz put in a number of substitutes, among them quarterback Reggie Butler who ran the team well on following series, picking up three first downs before Kathleen halted the drive on their 25.

The Polk County team's passing attack again failed and Tommy Doubler took their punt back to the Kathleen 25 yard line. This play was not allowed to stand, however, as Avon Park was penalized back to their own 25 yard line. John Starling went off his left tackle and raced 60 yards before being hauled down on the Kathleen 15. Starling picked up 6 yards, Doubler 4, and Butler sneaked it over for the touchdown. Winky Williams split the uprights to end the scoring 32 to 0.

Butler, still trying to score their first touchdown, failed on their desperation.

The entire aim of mass distribution in this country.

Rebuh Burger has been president of A&P since 1950. Under his direction, with the help of 145,000 employees, no changes are indicated in the company's operations.

passes and Avon Park took over on downs. The Devil's fumbled on the next play, however, and Kathleen was able to get off only 25 yards before the game ended.

The game was a hard fought affair with both teams blocking and tackling hard. The difference was Avon Park's speedy and powerful backfield and outstanding defensive line play. Avon Park's much improved pass defense also was outstanding.

30 Boys Report For B-Skeeter Football Teams

The "B" and "Skeeter" football squads of Avon Park High School have been organized with approximately 30 boys from grades seven through eleven.

The "Skeeter" are boys from grades seven through nine and the "B" team—boys from grades eight through eleven.

The teams have been practicing fundamentals and running plays during the past two weeks in preparation for a five game schedule that begins Thursday, October 10, in Lakeland.

The coaches—Lee Maness and Ralph Hill, report that the boys are enthusiastic and are working hard for starting positions. The game with the Kathleen "B"s in Lakeland will be the first of five game schedule on tape for the boys. They hope to schedule at least two more games for the season. All games will be played at 7:00 p.m. with regular officials called.

The schedule is as follows:
October 10 Avon Park "B" vs Kathleen — Lakeland
October 19 Avon Park "B" vs Frutkin — Home
October 26 Avon Park "B" vs Fort Meade — Home

It is hoped that this outing will get off to a better start than the last one did Sunday. As Bill Thompson, three a propeller and a job getting it replaced. Dick McClelland and Sgt. Wade tried to pull into the tank at one point and Wade nearly went swimming trying to duck a swarm of wasps. Dick turned the air motor on and blew the wasps away, but the only trouble was he blew them back into the other boat. Bill Lusk, who was prepared to eat, carried two huge steaks along, the only trouble was they didn't get a chance to eat so he had to bring them home.

Although the new Constitution seems to have relatively smooth sailing ahead in the legislative halls, there is plenty of doubt about its chances with the people.

Many legislators are supporting the new reapportionment the key to Constitutional revision—but nobody is enthusiastic.

In addition, there is opposition and at best lukewarm approval—from most of the big metropolitan areas of the state. The areas that will decide the question at the polls. Looking over a House roll call at the caucus held to endorse the new reapportionment plan—45 senators and 115 house members—yours the following:

Dade County—some 300,000 voters—Two members favoring the proposed (Opp).

Hillborough—some 100,000 voters—All three House members opposed.

Broward—some 60,000 voters—One for by proxy (Muselman) and one opposed (Ryan).

Palm Beach—some 40,000 voters—Two for, but mightily resistant. Both reserving right to support better plan.

Duval—some 130,000 voters—Three favoring, but hesitantly. All reserving right to support a better plan.

Polk—some 55,000 voters—All three against.

Volusia—some 50,000 voters—One for by proxy (Sweeney) and one against (Karl).

That's some $20,000 of the state's total voting strength, and assuming the legislators reflect their areas, it would make it doubtful if 1966, there were about 1,600,000 registered voters.

On top of those areas, some anti-semitism could logically develop in other areas where representation is not increased thus diluting the effectiveness of their delegation.

Indications of this were that the Seminole delegation (two members) voted against it as did Sam Mitchell of little Washington County and Buck Vucelle of Indian River.

Although the new Constitution will be voted on article by article, an old legislative tool the "daisy chain" will link them all together. With the "daisy chain" in effect, all the articles will have to pass, or all of them fail.

On top of those areas, some anti-semitism could logically develop in other areas where representation is not increased thus diluting the effectiveness of their delegation.

There are no provisions for home rule of initiative and referendum.

The closest to it is a provision that would allow each county to vote to go back to the "swap and trade" system of electing county commissioners and school board members within districts instead of at large.

There is a provision allowing the legislature to set its own pay, instead of having it down in the constitution where it must be voted on by the people.

Jumping back to the Senate reapportionment formula, the proposed provision all but eliminates population as a factor in reapportionment. Probably just as well, since from a practical standpoint it has been feeling that the proposed change gives too much latitude to the legislature. Instead of being as "nearly equal in population as practicable" as the present formula reads, the new one says, "apportionment shall provide fairness and equity among districts, based upon population and SUCH OTHER PERTINENT FACTORS AS MAY BE DETERMINED BY THE LEGISLATURE AT THE TIME OF APPOINTMENT."

It may be that after looking over the whole picture, the people will see some slight improvement, but it isn't anything that will make them jump out of a warm bed to run down and vote for.

STATEMENT BY SUMTER L. LOWRY, IN THE TAMPA MORNING TRIBUNE ON SEPTEMBER 25, 1957

"Lowry Calls Eisenhower's Use Of Troops 'Dictatorial'"

By Bill Blacklock, Tribune Staff Writer

Lt. Gen. Sumter L. Lowry, retired, declared yesterday that President Eisenhower had committed "a dictatorial act of the first magnitude" in sending troops into Arkansas last week.

He said Eisenhower's act had "destroyed the sovereignty of the State of Arkansas" and forced the state to accept "federal dictatorship at the point of a bayonet."

Lowry, who served for 35 years in the National Guard in every rank from captain to major general and commanded the 51st Infantry Division, declared that federalizing the Arkansas National Guard and sending troops into Little Rock means that "the state is now set for the Federal Government to take over all functions of state and local governments."

Lowry, who was runner-up to Governor Collins in the last and in 1952, he was head of the Florida Citizens for Eisenhower.

"Let us remember that every act of a foreign dictator in oppressing the people is always done in the name of law and order," Lowry said, and added: "Every dictatorial government must first pass laws to their own liking. They are then interpreted by friendly courts."

"Our country will be divided as never since the Civil War," Lowry added, and "President Eisenhower has done great damage to the United States."

Text of Statement: Here is the text of his statement: "This is a sad day for all free o-m-loving people in America. The United States for government through the action of its president in federalizing the National Guard of Arkansas, has committed a dictatorial act of the first magnitude."

"They have by this act openly declared that the elected public officials of Arkansas will not be permitted to manage and control their own local affairs. They have at the point of a bayonet taken over the government of the state."

"The whole South will bitterly resent this action. Their faith will be shaken. They will become confused and scared. Our country will be divided as never since the Civil War. President Eisenhower has done great damage to the United States."

"Where people's actions were once governed by reason, loyalty and a firm belief in just treatment by their government, they now will be ruled by federal marshals, hand cuffs, injunctions and bayonet flattery. The day for us all—freedom and liberty in our Republic is on the way out."

control of the Little Rock school system to force Negro children into white schools against the will and without the consent of the people.

Sovereignty Destroyed

"They have destroyed the sovereignty of the state of Arkansas. They have usurped the functions of the governor. The stage is now set for the Federal Government to take over all functions of state and local governments. No matter how it is dressed up, no matter how hard they try to cloak their action with legal respectability, President Eisenhower is forcing Arkansas to accept federal dictatorship."

Let us remember that every act of a foreign dictator in oppressing the people is always done in the name of law and order. Russia today controls its satellite nations with guns and tanks in the name of law and order. Every dictatorial government first passes laws to their own liking. They are then interpreted by friendly courts, finally they force the people to obey the law—it's all perfectly legal.

Freedom Taken Away

"Arkansas is a sovereign state, able to control its own local affairs. Yet in the name of law and order, that sovereignty is destroyed, and the freedom of its people taken away."

"The whole South will bitterly resent this action. Their faith will be shaken. They will become confused and scared. Our country will be divided as never since the Civil War. President Eisenhower has done great damage to the United States."

"Where people's actions were once governed by reason, loyalty and a firm belief in just treatment by their government, they now will be ruled by federal marshals, hand cuffs, injunctions and bayonet flattery. The day for us all—freedom and liberty in our Republic is on the way out."

Co-Captains Elected For Avon Park Red Devil Football Team

Co-Captains Wendell (Winky) Williams, Billy Rouse

The Avon Park football team has chosen these two outstanding athletes—Wendell Williams and Billy Rouse—as co-captains for the 1959 season. An explosive runner who eats up yardage in every game, he is the fastest man on the squad. Billy does the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds and also runs it in full uniform after practice in 11.8 seconds.

Billy started his football career playing guard but switched to the backfield last year. Our most experienced back, he is shifty and elusive and is a touchdown threat every time he gets the ball. Rouser to his many friends can go inside with a short quick burst or outside with a long fast sweep around end. His fast running ability has caused many a fan to say "that boy is like a streak of lightning on the field."

Rouse is an outstanding player on defense, playing linebacker and guard. Very few opponents get by Billy and Winky, especially if one makes them mad. Last year Billy scored 10 touchdowns and made a few extra points for the Red Devils. Other teams in the Conference have lost respect for this half-back.

Both boys played on the skelter squad in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. They are three year lettermen and by virtue of their playing ability and the leadership exhibited with the qualities of clean living and good sportsmanship—these boys have won the respect and admiration of the team members, coaches and fans.

Both Winky and Billy have earned the honor and privilege of being Red Devil Co-captains and with their team spirit these two are making a place for themselves in Avon Park football history. Watch them—they are really Red Devils from the word "Go!"

In a town of 5,000 population, according to the American Cancer Society, 22 persons will be under treatment for cancer this year. And 1,250 now living will eventually develop cancer while 600 will die if present rates continue.

Mr. Cora Wray has returned home after her extended visit in Puerto Rico. She reached Tampa Friday and then visited her grandson in Plant City before returning to Avon Park on Sunday. Mrs. Wray reports that she had a wonderful vacation and is very glad to be home.

First Rehearsal To Start At Lake Placid

The first rehearsal for the annual performance of George Frederick Handel's religious oratorio, "The Messiah," will take place Sunday at 3:00 p.m. October 6th in the Lake Placid Methodist Church.

Everyone in Highlands and neighboring counties who enjoys singing is invited to participate in the rehearsal. The Messiah will again be directed by Mr. Paul H. Buckley who has studied voice under Professor Charles Hann of Wittenberg College and Miss Ruth Ingle of the Westminster Choir School at Springfield, Ohio; he has had the distinction of serving as student-director of the Ohio State University Symphony Choir under Professor Louis H. Dieck.

Mr. Buckley asks all members of the Lake Placid Messiah Society to bring their music copies to rehearsal. The Society will make copies available at cost to those who do not have them. Mr. Buckley anticipates a chorus of fifty voices and soloists this year.

For the convenience of married couples who would like to sing in The Messiah but who have the care of young children to consider, the Society will offer free baby-sitting service from the second rehearsal on, up to and including the performance at Christmas time.

Johnson Sets Pace For '58 With Revolutionary V Four

The V age finally has come to outboard boating. Johnson Motors, the nation's leading manufacturer of outboard motors, will pioneer the revolutionary innovation in the 1958 line when it introduces a four cylinder, V outboard engine rated at 50 horsepower. It was announced today.

For outboard engineers the V motor has been a long sought goal thought of as the golden apple hanging just beyond reach. It now is a commercial reality for the first time in history.

W. H. Jonas, Johnson director of sales, reports the new V engine provides more power in a smaller package, reduces noise, increases durability and dependability, yet can be operated at greater economy than any other outboard of comparable power. It will open new worlds of cruising to family outboard owners who want to participate in all forms of outdoor water activities.

Despite its increased power, the new V engine features an important safety factor since its lower center of gravity will make the boat less vulnerable to tipping than with other large outboard motors. Another important feature of the new V engine will be a reduction of vibration and less exhaust noise. It also will have a shorter, stronger crankshaft that will provide a smoother flow of power, Jonas said.

In addition to two models of the new V-50s, Johnson will market a complete 1958 line of newly designed in-line motors ranging from 3 to 35 horsepower.

A new 35 horsepower motor, most powerful of the company's line last year, will be introduced with V-50, called the Super Sea-Horse 35, it is a completely redesigned two-cylinder, in-line engine. It is an electric starting motor equipped with Johnson's new "super quiet drive" silencing key starting, tilt locks, fuel pump, thermostat, anti-friction bearings, lifting ring and generator attachment. Along with the Super Sea-Horse 35, Johnson will offer two other versions of this size motor at lower cost.

Rounding out the 1958 Johnson line will be a key-switch electric 18, a manual starting 18, and motors of 10, 7 1/2, 5 1/2 and 3 horsepower.

The 10-h.p. model, a popular fishing motor, has been reduced 7 pounds in weight through engineering improvements. It will be equipped with a push-button cut off switch, slip clutch propeller and a device to protect propeller and shaft from fouling.

The 10 also has Johnson's "suspension drive" silencing full gear shift, underwater exhaust and is fitted for remote operation.

The Sea-Horse 7 1/2, 5 1/2 and 3 horsepower models have been restyled for 1958 but retain all important features of the 1957 line.

Color of the 1958 Johnsons is predominantly spray white with holiday bronze trim. A new marine paint that withstands years of weathering and water-wear without fading or discoloring will be used on the new motors.

Fire Prevention Week Oct. 6-12

This year Fire Prevention Week, October 6-12, will mark another milestone of organized fire prevention activities in this country.

The Anniversary will emphasize the value of fire inspections, engineering surveys of the fire protection facilities of cities, extensive research by insurance companies, and the many and varied contributions by public and private agencies outside the fire insurance business.

Last year the nation's fire loss was in the neighborhood of one billion dollars, a sum equal to the total personal income of all the people in the state of New Hampshire. This proves the nation's continuing need for the most effective possible fire prevention work.

It also proves something else. No one's home and property is immune from fire. No one knows where fire will strike next, but we do know that every day of the year an average of 800 homes will suffer a fire—and anyone's home may be among them.

To be on the safe side, stop and analyze your home and property. Do you think it is fire safe and if not what can you do about it? The sure way for you to make it safe is to check for fire hazards and if you are in doubt about anything, call your local fire department and ask that an inspector be sent to your home or property to check for fire hazards. The best insurance that you can have against fire does not cost you a penny—it is the prevention method.

entire line. Deluxe versions of the 50 and 35 are finished in gold and white with chrome trim.

In the new V engines, gasoline is fed to the cylinder by a twin-barreled, downdraft carburetor. A slip clutch will prevent broken drive pins. Electric models will have "on-off-start" key switch starting.

The V engine also is equipped with a special device to save fuel at cruising speeds; a new high capacity fuel pump; anti-friction ball roller and needle bearings; Johnson's new super quiet drive silencing system; balance spring that makes the engine easier to tilt; lifting ring, and a generator attachment sold as an accessory.

The V-50 has a 70 1/2 cubic inch piston displacement that helps make it possible for the motor to push heavy loads with little strain on essential engine parts.

Vibration and noise are reduced in the new V-50 design by balancing the driving force of the pistons.

To assure correct water temperature in the cooling system of the V-50, Johnson engineers have designed a new, thermostatically controlled recirculating water system. This will give the motor a longer life and provide for more efficient operation since water in the cooling system is maintained at ideal temperature.

The Metals Hardware in Avon Park is the local dealer for Johnson Motors.

Truck Drivers To Receive Safe Driver Award

Three Winn-Dixie Tampa truck drivers who have driven a combined total of over 45 years without an accident are being presented with long term "Safe Driver Award" pins along with twenty-five more of the food chain's drivers who have completed one or more years without mishaps on the roads.

The three men are: J. P. Lawson (20 years), Raymond Bretingham (23 years) and W. A. Coker (12 years). Average annual mileage by each of these drivers is in excess of 25,000 miles.

The twenty-eight men being recognized for safe driving have driven a total of 145 years without accident, according to M. H. Hollingsworth, vice President, who is making the awards. He pointed out that in piloting the huge van-like trucks to and from the chain's Kwik Chek food stores, these men have amassed the huge total of nearly 4,500,000 miles without a minor traffic mishap.

Seaboard Agents Visit Chamber

Visiting in the Avon Park Chamber of Commerce last Friday were E. H. Whittaker, Industrial Agent of the Seaboard Railroad from Norfolk, Va., and H. S. Collins, District Passenger and Freight Agent from Lake Wales.

Mr. Whittaker, who is very pleased to see a picture of the Seaboard Streamliner on the front of the Chamber's September bulletin. He took several copies with him and asked the Chamber to mail some to C. E. Bell, Vice-President of Seaboard Public Relations Office in Norfolk.

The possibility of getting an industry here in the future was discussed and Mr. Whittaker thought the possibilities for this area were very good. He promised to keep Avon Park in mind and stated that he would do everything in his power to obtain an industry for this section, and he offered his services to the Chamber at anytime he could be of help.
