Just Strollin'

Last week we started this little ditty under a title of "The Strollin'". . . a title which we have used in the past in several other papers doing the same type of service (7). The problem we run into without thinking is that we already have a Strollin', the wonderful and amazing Mr. Fenton who does up the Winter Club news every week. Our apologies to our Strollin' and hence the change in name to parallel but not duplicate. This week we hand out two ducats to Russell Scott, local police officer who patrolled his car coming up the Mall. It was driven by a fellow who "borrowed" it for a few minutes. If officer Scott will drop by the Sun office we have two free passes to "The Million" showing this weekend at the Millam theatre here.

Cancer Fund Tournament Set Sunday

There will be a golf tournament held Sunday, April 9, for the benefit of the Cancer Fund of Highlands county, according to county fund chairman, Mrs. Elgin Bayless. Harder Hall in Sebring, through the graciousness of David and Victor Jacobson, will open its course for the benefit play. Entrance fees for the tourney will be $2.00 per person with proceeds going to the fund. The tournament is under the direction of Cosimo Martinetto and pro-golfer Al Frank. Prize for the Low Gross score for men will be donated by Harder Hall and Low Gross prize for women will be given by the Cancer Fund. Play will be all day on Sunday and players may use their own pull carts or electric carts.

Documentary TV Features Avon Park

A documentary type of program will feature one phase of activity around Avon Park. It is channel 13's (WTVT) Program "Insight" and their look at the problems of alcoholism.

This week camera crews spent one day at the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Hospital here filming the center and making interviews with patients of the hospital.

Director of the center Ernest Shepherd spent several hours at the studio where he was filmed for his part of the presentation.

This program will be presented Thursday night, April 6, at 10:30 p.m.

Local Bills Introduced On Wednesday

According to the Avon Park Sun's capital bureau reporter Don McKeljohn, Representative Howard Livingston introduced the proposed Highlands county hospital bill, to be house Wednesday morning and the bills are at the present time in committee.

In the bill as it went before the legislators there are two proposals, the first would bring the question of a proposed new hospital before the voters of Highlands county, and if that failed an alternate bill would bring the issue before the voters of the county excluding the northern six mile portion across the county. This line divides Avon Park into two divisions as far as a hospital district is concerned.

Most bills introduced on Wednesday are in relation to population changes caused by the retirement fund.

One other bill was presented which could effect the town in Highlands county and that is one which would allow cities such as Avon Park and Sebring to use the county tax collector and as a result effect the city and county.

A bill was also presented which would abolish the police retirement fund in Avon Park.

M.D. Association Plans Founding

All persons interested in working with a Highlands County Unit of Muscular Dystrophy Association are urged to attend a planning meeting to be held April 13 in the Florida Power Company Building at 8:00 p.m.

Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., is a national health agency devoted to finding the cause and cure of this dread disease, as well as serving its afflicted patients.

Muscular Dystrophy is a progressive disease which first cripples and eventually kills. There is no cure, and therapy is of little value. Therefore, the stress of M.D.A.A., Inc. is placed on research.

Mr. Forrest Howard, Sebring Fire Chief, has acted as Highlands County Coordinator of M.D.A.A.'s efforts in past years and will remain in an active capacity if a county-wide unit is formed. The Sebring Firemen's Association has conducted the fund raising drives in the past which take place traditionally during November, around Thanksgiving.

Volunteers are badly needed to continue the important urgent work of the association. Your club or association can help, and you are invited to attend the meeting and see just what you can do to help combat this disease.

There are some patients in the area who are not known to M.D.A.A., a complete patient list has not yet been established.

Money Problems Perplex County

Highlands County Commissioners spent a large part of their April 4 meeting wrestling with money problems.

The board heard County Welfare Director Mrs. Anna Dee Church report that with only half of the fiscal year gone the welfare budget is nearing exhaustion.

The $14,865 budget for hospitalization of indigent persons is exhausted.

"Hospitalization is up 47 percent this year," Mrs. Church said. "Last year the welfare department had money left over, but this has been, so far, just one of those years." The health department has noticed a big jump in serious illness, particularly cancer.

The general welfare budget of $2,000 has been hard hit too, only $8,002 remains in this fund.

In response to commissioners' questions Mrs. Church said the county is currently paying Walker Memorial Hospital $22 per day for hospitalization of indigent persons. The rate is even higher, she added, if patients must be sent outside the county for special care.

In response to a reporter's question, Mrs. Church said that the county welfare department would receive considerable help if the Florida legislature votes the state into participation in the federal aid for the elderly bill as provided for in the Kerr-Mills Act. However, she added, the bill would probably be at least a year before the aid would actually reach local level.

The general welfare budget of $25,000 has been hard hit too, only $8,002 remains in this fund. At the March 21 meeting of the commissioners, Mrs. Church had reported that the recession was beginning to be felt in this county.

The rattlesnake bounty fund was in trouble too, the commissioners voted to abolish it. In the 1959 session the state legislature adopted a bill to permit counties to pay bounties for dead rattlesnakes.

The snakes cost Highlands County $800 last year, said at the rate of $2.50 per snake, that means that at least 320 rattlers were killed within one year. In the March half of the current fiscal year $412 had been paid out. The budget for the whole year was $400.

The commissioners agreed to advertise in all the newspapers of the county that the county was being abolished. Commissioner Ben McGee pointed out, "God commanded us to kill snakes (in Genesis 3:15), and people wouldn't be paid for obeying God."

A request from the National Guard for financial aid from the county was received. Commissioner C. E. Skipp reported that the Army at Avon Park is in need of some remodeling, but appropriations from the state are not sufficient to maintain the building and grounds, let alone make needed repairs or remodeling.

The board deferred action and suggested that the National Guard unit prepare a formal request, naming specific amounts. This request would be considered when the budget for the 1961-62.

Collection Of Taxes Are Running Behind

Even though 97 percent of Highlands County real and personal property taxes have been paid, collections are running one percent behind those for a year ago.

According to figures released last week by Tax Collector W. A. Fennell, net tax collections to date were $1,230,162.72.

"There were due on March 31 $1,240,000 on penalties are added for late payments. 'Early birds' receive discounts, and students' County Assessor have received discounts totaling $40,000.33.

At the beginning of April, 1960, the county tax office had received payments of $1,070,647.73. This year's tax roll is larger.

Prescott said penalty payments so far paid have come to $35,000.

Negro Woman Is Held On "Intent" Count

A Sebring woman is being held in county jail on charges of assault with intent to commit murder. Rebecca Snider, 42-year-old Negro, is accused of slaying Letha Williams in a shooting which took place in the front yard of the Snider home at 402 Lincoln St. in Sebring Saturday afternoon shortly after one o'clock.

The Williams woman suffered a single wound in the lower left side of her abdomen. She is patient at Walker Memorial Hospital.

The arrest was made by Sebring Police Chief Lonnie Curt and Deputy Bob Barringer, investigated for the Sheriff's Department. In county court on Monday the Snider woman waived preliminary hearing and bond was set at $1,000.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

ALMA, MICH., RECORD: "When we talk about how our prestige has slipped abroad, let's not forget the thousands who are risking their lives daily to escape Communism for freedom. When we talk about the military and scientific achievements of the Russians let's not overlook the fact that we have put more 'shots' into orbit than any other nation and that we are sufficiently prepared to defend ourselves against any and all enemies. When we talk about unemployment and sagging business let's put in a word or two for the record number of employed and the high national income."

Can you visualize a string of loaded railroad tank cars 5,083 miles long—nearly twice the distance from New York to San Francisco? If you can, you have an idea of the amount of aviation fuel used by the U. S. Air Force last year. It came to a record 5.9 billion gallons. In addition to fuel, some 600 separate classes and specifications of petroleum products are used by this arm of our defense system.

SHELDON, IOWA, MAIL: "The free enterprise system, upon which the economic foundation of this country was built has provided the American people with the highest standard of living ever known to any society and continued functioning of this system is dependent upon active participation by the citizens throughout the land."

GILLESPIE, ILL. NEWS: "Public welfare is big business in the United States . . . The largest amount of aid is given to dependent children. Three million of them received a billion dollars in assistance last year. Deserving fathers and illegitimacy are at the root of this problem . . . Public welfare is big business and so is its administration . . . and the cost falls on those who pay the taxes."

PRENTISS, MISS. HEADLIGHT: "The federal government has usurped the right to take the wage of Americans and spend it all over the world, and even use a great part of it to force upon us a way of life we do not want."

"The federal government is in competition with private business, and runs its business tax free, while exacting exorbitant taxes from free enterprise . . . It is later than we think . . . and a time when only Americans should be placed on guard. Our freedoms are ebbing away."

BUDORA, ARKANSAS, ENTERPRISE: "Too many of us, it seems, are looking to Washington to bring a rabbit out of the legislative hat. We are depending upon huge public improvements and highway projects, losing sight of the fact that these can be built only through taxes which later we must pay."

"It will help a lot in this country if we will live by the slogan, 'business as usual,' continue to strive for industrial and agricultural development and demonstrate to our neighbors, to the state and to the nation that, so far as we are concerned, we are not going to be 'chickens.'"

KANSAS CITY, MO., PRESS-DISPATCH: "Another bugaboo which should be tossed out on the mound of hearsay and nonsense is the old saw about workers' over 40."

"How many articles in newspapers and magazines, how many comments over television and radio, have already noted the 'young' President and his equally 'young' cabinet?"

"Why are men 'young' when they are elected or named to office and 'old' when they ask to do a fair day's work for a fair day's salary?"

GREAT FALLS, MONT. LEADER: "The Budget Bureau, taking a leap into the future, estimates that the income of the U. S. government in 1970 will be about 120 billion dollars—based on current growth and no change in tax rates. Income this year is $1 billion, with expenditures only slightly below that. Anyone care to bet that government over-spending will not be an issue in the congressional elections of 1970?"

FACT AND OPINION

Harry Kuhns writes in Today's Health: "Peddling useless drugs, fake 'remedies', and bizarre therapeutic gadgets via the U. S. mails is a lucrative source of income for some of the meanest sharpies in the world. These human vultures feed on the ignorance and hopes of men and women who yearn for the 'miracles' that legitimate medicine thus far has been unable to provide. Last year, according to an actual accounting of orders filled by medical-mail-order frauds barred from the mails, the merchants of misery bilked more than $50 million from thousands of Americans in all walks of life. But if it weren't for the U. S. Postal Inspection Service, mail-order quackery would perhaps become the greatest swindle of all time."

CRACKER POLITICS

By Allen Morris

Tallahassee.—Out of much talk nowadays about State salaries, three phases appear to be significant:

1. The '61 Legislature expects to reclaim its right to fix the individual salaries paid top-ranking officers.

2. The Legislature thinks the 40,000-plus rank-and-filers are entitled to first consideration when it comes to raising pay at this session.

3. With 700 State officers and employees paid $10,000 a year or more, the Legislature has demonstrated its willingness to spend whatever may be necessary to give the abilities needed by the government.

Tightening Legislative Grip. A bill has been drafted for the Senate Committee on Appropriations to strip the Governor and the Budget Commission of the salary-fixing authority with which the Supreme Court clothed them after the '59 session.

In upholding the right of Governor Collins to veto salaries embedded in the General Appropriations Bill for the State Forestry and Correctional Director, the Justices held the Budget Commission possessed the authority to adjust salaries.

The proposed form of the '61 GAB separates salaries of administrators from the amount provided for the operation of their departments.

The salary of the administrator had been shown in the '59 and prior GABs of recent sessions simply as explanatory language in listing the overall amount provided for that agency. The salary itself was not shown as one of the separate items for salaries, expenses and equipment which together would make up the total. It was this combination, however, that enabled Governor Collins to frustrate the legislative intention in '59 to hold down the salaries of the Forestry and Corrections Director. Collins used the Governor's special Constitutional right to veto separate items in the GAB and other legislative acts making multiple appropriations, and the Supreme Court said his editing of the language was in fact a permissible item-veto.

To get around this device without the necessity of passing a separate salary law for each officer, the proposed GAB would itemize them by title, from Attorney General to the State Board Director, in an introductory section. It would say this appropriation was the only money available for that officer and the Legislature was providing for each of these salaries.

If the Governor vetoed a salary item, the particular officer would appear to be left either without pay or, in some instances, able to draw at a very materially reduced rate fixed in an obsolete law. If he wanted to do so, the Governor might pay the officer from his own contingency fund. Could the salary for a department head be legally eliminated? Only the courts could say.

Anyway, this device for reverting legislative supremacy over salaries for top officers is causing considerable corridor speculation.

More Money For Rank-and-Filers

While saying "some" equalizing might be desirable at the top, Senator Wilson Caraway thinks the Legislature needs to give more attention to the salary field during this session to the typical rank-and-filer.

What Senator Caraway thinks is persuasive among his colleagues for the Tallahassee banker-software drink bottle is serving a third straight term as chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. His residence at the seat of government, cause him to be exceptionally well informed.

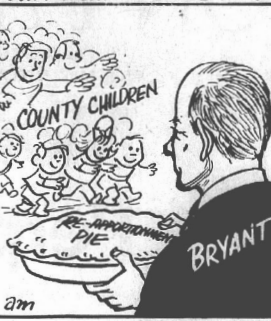

There's another kind of equalizing that's before the Senate committee. That's putting all of the officers and employees on a full basis, by charging those who enjoy such perquisites as State-owned automobiles and residences and State-grown foodstuffs.

Some do and some don't, so Senator Caraway doesn't tell the whole story. A start toward adjusting salaries by billing for perquisites was made several years ago at the new legislature. Some lawmakers think the time has come to cover all. That would include billing the worker who uses a State car for personal travel.

Kenneth Ireland, longtime fiscal analyst for the Caraway committee, counted 694 positions paying $10,000 a year or more in December, 1959. The total today likely tops 700, with individual salaries up to $25,000 a year.

To Senator Caraway, this means the State has been willing to pay for the American dollar advance for the government to function effectively. This has significance in the stopgap measure taken from a private source of the salary which the Development Commission felt it had to pay to get an experienced director for the industrial promotion campaign.

From The Office Of Jim Haley

Washington, D. C.—President Kennedy has made his recommendations for reform of the foreign aid hedge-podge of conflicting, overlapping programs. If foreign aid must continue, much of the President's program is commendable. It at least offers opportunity for cohesive approach to a tangled goal, notably absent in the past.

But, and I would like to emphasize this, I still do not believe we must, I do not believe we have to continue large-scale foreign aid. We must taper off now.

By recognizing practical difficulties blocking immediate abandonment of big foreign aid. Big nations, while preaching against foreign aid, harvests benefits from programs it would not give up overnight. Big labor, generally preaching for foreign aid, also harvests benefits. Both would suffer temporarily if, like a light bulb, foreign aid were cut off abruptly by the flick of a switch. Nevertheless, I think no sensible person could reach any conclusion other than that continuation of massive foreign aid can have only one end result: Denial of American industry and jobs by use of American dollars to develop foreign industry.

I urge no public official, in the Administration or the Congress, of having such intent if he supports foreign aid. To the contrary, I believe that officials and citizens who think foreign aid is the answer to our problems are as sincere as I am, and that their intentions are totally good.

I have concluded that (1) our nation most awoken to the fact that foreign aid is insecurity, not security, and (2) the alarm clock needed for that awakening is realization by big labor leaders that their support of foreign aid ultimately will destroy the very workers whose interests they promote.

I have watched with concern operations of the Development Loan Fund, a new foreign aid gimmick created by the last Congress. Recently it has boasted of a $125.6 million loan to build a Turkish steel mill in the shadow of the Communist border. What will the mill at Eregli do? It will make steel. It might it throw some 4,000 American steelworkers, and 12,000 other Americans in related industry, out of job. American dollars thus will finance increased unemployment in a basic American industry.

This is no isolated case. Development Fund loans recently have been made in amounts of $2.1 million to manufacture nylon, $1.5 million for other nylon, $1.5 million for a nylon plant, and $2.2 million for a chemical plant in Korea, $7.2 million for the manufacture of automobile parts in India, and $3 million for airports and aircraft development in Ethiopia, Ceylon and Tunisia.

Development Fund officials say enough that much of the money will be used to purchase United States materials. Fine. But these officials are careful to avoid pointing out that each job created abroad by the American dollar advance will be a job taken away from an American laborer already stricken by massive unemployment.

I think the time has come for our labor leaders to face the facts, and to live up to their responsibilities by urging an end to this program to import unemployment.

part of the beautiful Mall for more parking space. Do they realize that is an outstanding feature of Avon Park, the beauty, shade, and we stop to listen to the birds that love the trees, also that a great many cities are building "Malls" to beautify their cities but never could come up to natural beauty of Avon Park Mall that must have taken years to grow.

There are never any cars parked down in front of the town hall and courts office and if one goes to the big shopping centers the cities are building now, they have to walk quite a distance to get to the stores from their cars, so parking here should not be a problem.

We sincerely trust all concerned will give this serious thought before removing any of the beautiful Mall, and spoiling this pretty city.

The State of Citrus

By John Sikes

Florida Citrus Mutual Tallahassee.—Here's a guy who really knows what he's talking about. He's a guy who's been in the citrus business for 40 years.

The quoter of this cautioning reminder, the "Citrus Mutual" president, is a man of humility, warm as all from getting up early, was a quiet backer of a special meeting of the Florida Citrus Mutual's board of directors who were poring over ways and means to keep Florida citrus flourishing and prospering.

Specific topic of the directors' discussion was the proposed Florida Citrus Mutual's board of directors who were poring over ways and means to keep Florida citrus flourishing and prospering.

The concepts of the proposed act had the endorsement of all representative bodies of the citrus industry. Mutual, acting for nearly 12,000 grower members: the Florida Citrus Commission, the state agency which regulates citrus activities and procedures and generally promotes sale of citrus products.

Shippers Association, organization immediately concerned with citrus shipping in fresh form; and the Florida Canners' Association, comprising processors of citrus products.

But just that morning a Florida newspaper had published an interview with an orangeman who was indicating "taking pot-and-scatter-shots at the act, quoting him as saying the proposal was a 'power-grab on the part of citrus growers'."

Implications in a column, published the previous day in the same newspaper and upon which the interview story apparently was based, were that the act and its formulation were shrouded in secrecy. The interview was by Robert W. Rutledge, Jr., a veteran Orlando citrus grower . . . "who started in the citrus business years ago without a dime and has created one of the big fortunes of the state through his activities in citrus."

Unusual in the informal atmosphere of Mutual directors' meetings, J. A. Parikh, Jr., Mutual director and vice president from Titusville, who still a young man, bears as many titles and directorships in successful enterprises as a person twice his years, asked President Max Acree the privilege of standing up to speak his piece.

"Every part of this act has been discussed and discussed in a total of 18 meetings over the past several weeks," he said. "It has been published in newspapers, radio and in bulletins distributed numerously to growers and the industry. I am not concerned about it, know about this act I simply haven't been doing

Did you ever notice how clean and fresh the air seems immediately after a heavy shower or storm? When old Mother Nature gets fed up with hot, sticky, oppressive air she cracks her mighty thunder whip and releases ozone to clarify and purify the atmosphere.

Now, then, after years of research and experiment, is man playing the same principle on a smaller scale by releasing ozone of various sizes and types designed to do the specific jobs.

Machines that perform this work are called ozonators and there are a number on the market of various sizes and types designed to do the specific jobs.

Experiments now being conducted in Florida and elsewhere indicate that the use of ozone in the preservation of fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs, cut flowers, meats and other products will eventually save our growers, packers, shippers and handlers millions of dollars now lost through spoilage in storage or transit.

R. O. Magie of the Gulf Coast Experiment Station at Bradenton has achieved considerable success in protecting freshly cut gladiolus against the ravages of botrytis infection. The disease has been costing growers and shippers thousands of dollars annually in storing and shipping losses.

It was found that flowers treated with ozone showed only a small amount of disease while those untreated were heavily infested, indicating that the invisible mold spores that accumulated on the flowers in the field before cutting had been largely destroyed by the ozone treatment.

Even young infections were controlled, that is infections started by rains the day before cutting were sharply reduced by prompt treatment after cutting.

Experiments conducted by a leading tomato shipper in ripening rooms showed that decay was materially delayed and rot and bacteria was destroyed, excessive moisture removed from the fruit, colors completely eliminated and the tomatoes ripened up in a

"Some of these people who are shooting at the act have grown so rich they just sit back at their ranches and don't answer the telephone, don't read newspapers, won't listen to TV and radio newscasts, so how can they expect to know anything that's going on."

"I started out with $3,500 and, by the grace of God and plenty of help from what Mutual has done and is doing for the Florida citrus grower, I've got whatever I have today."

"I believe, and Mutual believes, the little grower has as much right to prosper as these fellows who are rich today."

"Just remember this: these same growers who are so rich today themselves once were just as little as our littlest growers today. And they got rich through the help that Mutual has been able to give them, but they sit back on their big ranches and forget this today."

"Yes," the back-squarer said, "here's a guy who remembers when."

time even color.
A test made by Shoreline Enterprises in their Tampa shrimp plant showed that the use of ozone tents on both peeled, de-shelled shrimp and green heads proved extremely beneficial, offensive odors were largely eliminated, weight loss was considerably less and the shipping quality of the treated product far superior to the untreated.

If further experiments continue to show such beneficial results it means that Florida growers and shippers can store and ship their produce much more safely and with less loss from disease and damage in transit.

Similar success has been achieved in the preservation of eggs and meat in the control of destructive bacteria, mold, and the like as well as the elimination of odors.

Of equal interest are experiments in the use of ozone for relief of various allergies, asthma and hay fever as well as other respiratory ailments through the destruction of irritating dust, bacteria and pollen from the air, permitting sufferers to breathe and sleep in comfort in clean, filtered air.

Ozonators are not expensive, their cost depending on their size and use. Commercial users are enthusiastic over results and individuals report benefits in most instances.

Congress is meeting in Washington and the legislature is in session met at Tallahassee. All we rest of us can do is pray. The Good Lord only can help us now.

The legislature, I read the other day, is made up of 38 senators and 96 representatives. There are 94 male and one female representative. That's not too bad, but if the number was 82 to 38 then men would have a hard time getting a word in.

The 125 members of the legislature are divided into "Pork Choppers" and "Lamb Choppers." The rest of the population is made up of "Pork Suckers."

TIME IS NOW
Time marches on relentless feet down thoroughfare or

Making no bargain . . .
taking no vow
but making it plain that the time is now!
Now is the hour . . .

Make use of now to the

Youth Shows

Concern For

Malnutrition

Some of America's teenagers have positive ideas about their own eating habits and how they can be improved.

These ideas were brought out in discussions during the National Youthpower Congress held in Chicago in March when more than 200 teenage delegates from 23 states attended the 1961 Congress with educators, youth group leaders, nutritionists and food industry representatives.

Three meals a day should be emphasized as the best possible way to insure an adequate diet. Nutritional refreshments should be available at all teen gatherings.

Busy schedules, lateness, or uninformed parents often contribute to a poor teenage diet. There is a need for eating together as a family group.

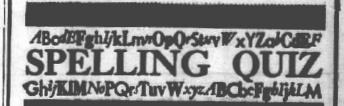

More emphasis should be placed on nutritive education at the primary grade school level, with visual aids used to promote greater understanding of the importance of good nutrition.

Much of the responsibility for forming correct nutritional habits lies in the home. The food industry could help by emphasizing this fact.

Informed teenagers can take the initiative to help communicate the need for improved nutrition to fellow teenagers.

Food education programs in schools are inadequate. Food should become an important item on the list of educational subjects.

The Youthpower Congress will be held again next year, according to Charles R. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation and also president of the National Food Conference, which sponsors the event.

The WSCS and the WSG held a joint dinner meeting Tuesday evening in Wesley Hall. Following the dinner the Woman's Society of Christian Service held a business meeting in the Ladies Lounge, while the Wesleyan Service Guild closed the tables and prepared for their program.

Members of the Guild presented an interesting program entitled "A Faith That Compels", with Mrs. Lee Westworth in charge of the program which was given in the form of a skit. Those participating were Ethel Russell, Ida Davidson, Mable Harper, Louise Edmondson, Mary Fields, Helen Harris, Viola Carlisle, Mrs. Robert Bussard and Mrs. Marvin H. Thompson.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sara Harrison.

other year, the board requested that the county agent's office prepare as a part of its budget request, a list of special out-of-town events which the staff members might expect to attend with in a year.

The board also voted to send warning letters to the grove caretakers of the county. Some commissioners reported that grove equipment has been driven along county roads and damaged the roads. This is an offense which may lead to the prosecution of the grove caretaker, County Attorney R. P. Denty, Jr. said. He added that in the past an occasional reminder has been sufficient to obtain excellent cooperation from the caretakers.

The board received a letter from the district road engineer which reported that an engineer had visited Mayor E. A. DeLaney of Avon Park and reviewed the problem of the flooding of Alternate 27 by Lake Verona. The district engineer said additional information must be obtained before definite solutions can be offered.

A delegation of property owners attended the Tuesday meeting and lodged a complaint against a neighbor. A gate has been erected at the intersection of state route 70 and a road known as the Old Military Trail.

This gate is being kept closed and one property owner is threatening to lock it and halt all traffic on part of the Old Military Trail. This road cuts through sections 28, 33, 37 and 38.

According to evidence presented at the commissioners meeting the gate is in a county road, and the commissioners voted to have the gate removed.

In other actions the board voted to give qualified approval to the plan for Lake Jackson Heights in the Sebring area; voted to advertise for a used automobile; accepted a bid of $50 from the Wilson Hardware Co. of Sebring for a small safe.

Cuban Family Developing 4,000 Acres

The 4,000 acre Santa Fe Ranch, bought by a Cuban family in July 1960, is being developed at a rapid rate to improved pasture. The ranch is owned by the Fernandez family. Mr. Victor Fernandez, one of the sons, is ranch manager. The father and another son, Gerardo, live on the ranch and assist in its operation.

The Fernandez family owned 20,000 acres of land in Cuba on which they raised cattle, sugar cane and rice. In addition, they owned a meat packing plant. Victor says the "Cuban Agrarian Reform" took all their land except a very small tract, which one of the sons still operates.

The family purchased the E. W. Neal Ranch, 4,000 acres, last July and with the technical assistance of the Soil Conservation Service and others started an all-out development program of this vast area of flatwoods. It is situated along Arribuco Branch, ten miles north east of Sebring. They are now working on one area of 1200 acres that will be established to improve pasture this summer. About half of the area will be planted to Pangola grass and the other to Argentine Bahia grass. White Dutch Clover will be seeded over these pastures this fall and irrigation ditches drilled to irrigate the clover.

The Soil Conservation Engineers, J. J. Ballant, Dick Nichols, Claude Howerton and Don Deardorff have assisted Victor in the design and layout of 80 miles of surface field ditches for drainage and irrigation on 1400 acres of pasture.

The Fernandez brothers, who were educated at the University of Havana and Michigan State, and Gerardo at the Texas A & M, say their college training and past ranching experience help them very little with their Florida development.

Mr. Fernandez says that, such as, Cuba doesn't plant clover having been winter season because in Florida, grass grows year around, and after the month of September.

These vegetables, cooked in the Japanese manner are real good! Tomatoes, a Japanese dish of vegetable and seafood, both sold in a leader market of citrus later, is typical of midwestern "Oriental" cooking. Serve piping hot with soy sauce for an exotic taste thrill.

Feed Can Help Cattle Fight Parasite

Adequate feed can help cattle throw off parasites. Animals getting adequate feed recover without treatment from parasitic infections; while animals on starvation diets may die even though they are treated with our most effective parasite-killing drugs.

Practical control measures should be designed to take advantage of the cattle's ability to recover when adequately fed.

Dr. L. E. Swanson of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station adds that management practices must be organized so as to reduce the intake of parasitic larvae on any given pasture. Dr. Swanson recommends these parasite management practice procedures: Rotate animals on all pastures frequently and do not allow animals to crop too close to the ground. Plan the annual program to prevent overgrazing. Keep in mind that Florida has periods when grasses grow slowly or not at all. Maintain adequate bonded herd pastures. Segregate age and sex groups.

Provide fresh, clean drinking water. If artesian wells with pumps are available, control the flow. Don't use stock ponds, mulch and contaminated water as a water supply. Running streams, large lakes and fenced-off ponds provide suitable drinking water.

Provide for winter feeds. Never forget that the animals must have adequate feeds. If the animals are unable to meet their dry matter requirements due to high water content of forage, provide long hay or similar roughage.

Keep young animals on high ground above barns or other animal areas.

Miss Perez Is Feted With Party

School colors of red and white predominated in the decorations with streamers and balloons hanging from the ceiling. About fifty of the high school set danced to music furnished by records.

A large bowl of white carnations centered the refreshment table. Dainty sandwiches, cheese snacks, nuts and mints were served with cold drinks during the evening.

Joe Perez, who was home from the Florida State University, Tallahassee, was among the guests and also Lewis Perez, another brother, was a special guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barker assisted with the hospitality of the evening.

Planning

Most of us understand the importance of good materials, proper location of heating units and well arranged rooms, when we are to build a house. But a life? Doesn't that just plan itself? Is not a man's life determined in the stars? Is he not the victim of fate? Or do we have something to say about it? The poet challenged himself, "Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul." Am I in some measure the "master of my fate"? To ask such questions is to answer them. Our inquiry proves our sense of freedom and our sense of responsibility. Then, how early should I start my plans? The answer is now! Of course, we should plan for today, tomorrow and for eternity. We must determine what to aim for. Whether we are young or old, with the help of the church and God, we may live forever.

You In The Church The Church In You

— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

Devils Trounce Streaks 7-5 Bowling Devils Dot Again-Shut Out Dragons

Lamon Money with three standing-up triples and a single led the Red Devils to a slambang victory over the Blue Streaks in Sebring last Tuesday night by a score of 7-5. It was a real slug-fest between these two arch rivals at the Avon Park club bounded off 12 hits off Sebring hurlers and the Streaks took winning pitcher Glenn Bass for eight hits including a home-run by catcher Wayne Parks.

Money singled his first time at the plate and then tripled the next three trips at bat for four for four. Joe Milton wielded a big bat for the Devils also as he drove in three runs and scored two himself with a triple and a single. Freshman Louis Hunter joined the three-bases hitters in the sixth and also had a single in the seventh. Bobby Bates connected for two timely singles. Jack Seims and Ed Touchton both got a single each.

The Red Devils scored their first run in the top of the first inning and held that lead until the fifth when the Blue Streaks' Jack Pugh scored on an Avon Park futility error at first base. The game up, but the Devils came up with a big sixth inning and scored four runs on four hits and two Sebring errors to take a lead which the Sebring boys never overcame. The Streaks tried to score two runs in the bottom of the sixth when Parks luffed his homer over the left fence with Gary Lanier on base. It was the first over-the-fence homerun by a high school player in many a year on Sebring's field.

So with the score standing 5-3 as they went into the seventh inning, Avon Park added two insurance runs when Money and Milton had back-to-back triples and Hunter singled sharply to right center. The Devils looked like they had a comfortable 7-3 lead when Sebring came up for their last bat, but the margin narrowed as Pugh scored after walking and Newcomer scored after singling. Then Bass struck out Gary Lanier for the final out after Irving Footman had gained first on a single and the game was over.

Bass struck out an even dozen as he posted his third mound win of the season. He walked only four batters. Sebring starter Gary Lanier was relieved by Dale Cuchiaro in the sixth after he had given up seven hits, struck out six, and walked none. Cuchiaro allowed five hits during his inning and two-thirds on the mound.

The long north-west wind must have given some credit for the hot hit balls and the errors made while trying to haul in the hot hit balls, but both teams were hitting the ball good and was an interesting ball game.

The Red Devils now have wins over all of their southern division opponents in the Ridge Conference and will start on their second trip around Friday night when they take on the Lake Placid Green Dragons again here at Head Field.

Forest Crews Suppressed 16 Wildfires

Florida Forest Service Crews in Highlands County suppressed 16 wild fires this week. This is the most fires that have occurred in any one month since 1957. Along with the 16 wild fire crews assisted with 13 volunteer crews and completed seven fire line plowing requests. The landowners get the first 15 minutes of fire line plowing complimentary per year. Tracts up to 40 acres can be plowed in this time. Landowners have requested 50 miles of fire line this year.

Although we have had some rain and the grass is greening, no material as paper and leaves should be burned when the wind is high, this increases the danger of fire escaping much more.

To report wild fires, burning assistance and fire lines, phone EV 5-8851 collect.
