Avon Park Youth Spelling Champ

Jane Ellen Thompson, 12-year-old daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Marvin H. Thompson, of the First Methodist Church, won the County Spelling Bee held at Lake Placid Friday night.

Jane Ellen, a seventh-grader, brings the Highlands Spelling Trophy to Avon Park High showcase where it will be displayed until next year's Spelling Bee. Jane Ellen also received a smaller trophy for herself and a $10 cash gift, from the three county weekly papers that sponsored the Spelling Bee.

Patricia Bowers, Sebring, last year's champion, was the 10th to fall, on the word "peaceable." She was followed by Jane Nunnallee and Judy Batson, both of Avon Park, who misspelled "prevalent" and "assertion," respectively.

A battle then ensued between Jane Ellen and Lewis Buckley, 13, Lake Placid, 8th grader. Finally Lewis went down on the word, "indefinitely." Jane Ellen spelled it correctly and the next word, "confirmation," which won for her the title.

City Eyes Plumbing Ordinance

It was a calm and routine meeting of the Avon Park city commission Monday evening with the proposed Plumbing code taking up the top spot of the evening's business.

The city held the first reading of the ordinance (421). The final reading of the bill will come before the council at their next regular meeting.

Councilman Roland Dilley presented to the group the list of equipment which is now ready for use by the city which includes: 1½ ton flat bed truck with 7500 watt generator installation; ½ ton truck with 3000 watt generator installation and ½ ton truck with equipment and lights. The pieces have been secured through surplus through the city and have been placed in operation to supplement the city's four pieces of fire equipment now in use.

The fire department has been building its equipage since Hurricane Donna showed the need of such equipment.

The council at the request of Roscoe Bass voted to close Lotela Avenue from Green Street to the lake (Bass's front yard) in exchange for a strip in Block D of Twilight Park from Cherokee Avenue to the lake. Lotela Avenue had never been opened as a street and thus the reason for the trade.

Fire Department report shows that the Department answered one construction fire, eight grass fires, one auto. Loss for the month showed $3,000 and total for the year stands at $8,900.

Band Association Elects Officers, Wainwright Head

L. L. Wainwright was elected president of the Avon Park High School Band Association at a meeting of the group Monday night in the school band room. He succeeds William Luscomb.

Serving with Wainwright during the coming year will be Mary Durden, vice-president, and Vonnie Flint, secretary.

The slate of officers was submitted by D. C. Ball, chairman of a nominating committee. They were approved without objection.

During the meeting, Victor MicKunas, band director presented a detailed budget of expenditures which he expected during the coming year. The budget as presented, came to $3,672 about $1,100 more than last year.

MicKunas explained however, that $500 could be deducted from the total figure pending an annual contribution which comes from the Highlands County School Board.

The director explained the band's urgent need for another Sousaphone, which would cost approximately $500. This figure pushed the total expected expenditure for instruments to $1,880. Six additional uniforms were also allocated, at a cost of $80 each.

Following the meeting, association members, honored MicKunas and his family with a surprise house warming at their new home. A money tree was also presented the director—a Long Island Pine adorned with bills of different denominations taped to the limbs. The tree was donated by Cole's Ornamental Nursery, Avon Park.

Rotary Club Goes On Record As Backing Freedom Academy Bill

The Avon Park Rotary Club this past week passed a resolution going on record as approving the Senate Judiciary Committee plan in substance for the Freedom Academy Bill. The following is a letter to James Haley Representative from Florida.

The resolution is as follows:

Dear Mr. Haley:

The following resolution was passed by the Board of Directors of the Rotary Club of Avon Park on March 22, 1961:

WHEREAS, the Judiciary Committee of the United States Senate described in substance the Freedom Academy Bill as the Free World's greatest need, and one of the most important bills ever introduced in Congress, and

WHEREAS, the Freedom Academy Bill proposes the establishment of an independent agency of the government to be know as the Freedom Commission, which would in turn establish an advanced development center to be known as the Freedom Academy, and

WHEREAS, these two agencies would develop the methods and means by which the free world might defeat the Communist attack in political, social, ideological, cultural, physiological, organizational and economic spheres and after having developed the strategy for victory then to train government personnel and private citizens, both American and foreign, in the tactics by which that strategy could be turned into eventual defeat of the communist movement through counteraction against it, and

WHEREAS, the Freedom Academy would, in effect, be a West Point of political war, and would offer to selected candidates from the United States and all free countries, intensive courses in Communist political techniques and how to reverse or resist them; therefore, be it

REVOLVED, that the Rotary Club of Avon Park, Florida, goes on record as approving the Freedom Academy Bill, and that copies of this resolution be sent to our senators and congressmen and our local newspaper, the Avon Park Sun.

Adopted March 22, 1961.

We would greatly appreciate your giving this matter your very serious consideration.

Very truly yours,
Rotary Club of Avon Park

Little League Meeting Set For Thursday

An organizational meeting of the Avon Park Little League was held last Wednesday, at which time plans were put into motion for this year's Little League program.

The attendance was somewhat less than expected, however, and as a result another meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, April 13 at 7:30 p. m. at the Jacaranda Hotel. Coaches and interested parents and fans are urged to attend this meeting.

Officials have indicated that if more interest is not shown, the Little League program will have to be discontinued. SNOW: FLORIDA SALESMAN

Tourist business is off 10 per cent in Florida this winter, according to a recent report. The nationwide recession is blamed.

It seems that always when there is a slow-down of our tourist traffic that some people question if Florida's rapid rate of growth isn't getting ready for another 'bust'.

A little thought on this will reassure those people who might ask themselves this question.

Why is Florida enjoying a population boom?

The number one answer is certainly the geographic location and the topography of the state. With a subtropical climate that insures mild winters and pleasant summer breezes, Florida offers people a practical answer to one great frustration: no control over the weather.

It is true Florida has its hurricane season and every so often one sweeps through the state causing heavy property damage. But, even Hurricane Donna—the worst here in years—didn't cause the havoc and death that last week's snowstorm caused in the East.

For all practical purposes, Florida's less changeable weather plus the availability of water makes Florida a paradise for many who seek a more relaxed life.

The recession may have an effect on this year's tourist business, but a rough winter for everybody north of Georgia will certainly stimulate the summer and next winter's tourist business. For many who have had to 'dig out' of record snow storms this winter, this will be the last year spent up North. An especially bad winter will probably cause many families to make the big decision to pull up roots and come to Florida during the coming year.

And, if the recession is causing some families to forget about a vacation this year, it will make them all the more anxious for one next year.

Raymond Moley writes in Newsweek: "If the new President and those associated with him in conducting foreign affairs fail to check the spread of Communism, it will not be because of any sympathy for that ideology. We may be assured of their antipathy for Communist doctrine. But such a failure could come from a misunderstanding of the mentality and spirit of the dedicated Communist fanatic. Too often our bureaucrats, as in the cases of Red China and Cuba, have equated the mentality of Communists with what they know of the aspirations of normal people for greater freedom and more of the goods of life. Such a misunderstanding prevailed with Presidents Roosevelt and Truman in their dealings with Stalin. In all such cases the basic mistake took a dreadful toll."

In his message on "Economic Recovery and Growth", President Kennedy strongly urged tax incentives of a kind that will encourage corporate spending on plant and equipment. Specific proposals along this line are to come later. It is expected that one of them will be for more liberal and realistic policies concerning depreciation for tax purposes of physical facilities.

WHAT IS A 'TEMPORARY' TAX

Is anything more permanent than a "temporary" tax?

These "temporary" taxes are imposed during real or alleged emergencies, such as war or some governmental undertaking of huge size. An outstanding example is the World War II tax on the transportation of people and goods by rail, air, and highway commercial carriers. It was supposed to be repealed when the war ended. But it is still on the books, all these years later, even if in somewhat reduced amount.

Much more recently, the federal government imposed a "temporary" increase of 1 cent in the gasoline tax, in order to get the Highway Trust Fund, from which the multi-billion dollar highway program is financed, over a hump. The legislation contained a clause providing for the expiration of this one-cent increase at the end of next June. Now, however, pressure is strong to have Congress not only keep the "temporary" tax, but to tack on an additional half-cent.

During last year's debate on the bill to increase the tax, Senator Gore of Tennessee said, "This is a regressive tax. It is completely unfair . . . it levies an additional tax burden on a necessity which already bears the heaviest tax of any essential commodity." The Senator did not exaggerate in the slightest. Gasoline taxes, state and federal combined, now amount to about 50 per cent of the retail price of gasoline prior to imposition of the tax. Even the most extreme luxuries, such as furs and precious jewels, enjoy far smaller taxes.

The moral is clear enough: It's up to the people who pay the taxes — which means everyone who buys gas to protest, and in no uncertain terms. If we don't, we will have only ourselves to blame if the gas tax goes up and up, and the cost of motoring becomes prohibitive.

CIVIL AIR PATROL — USAF AUXILIARY

The big 12 Hour Endurance Race was a successful one for some, especially race drivers Phil Hill and Olivier Gendebien, and the local squadron of the Civil Air Patrol. Phil and Olivier won the race and the CAP boys and girls led all the other concession stands in selling hot dogs, packaged ice cream and cold drinks. The squadron wishes to thank all those who pitched in as waiters and waitresses and especially the school teachers who made the hot dogs and coffee. Although we didn't make a lot of money, we certainly enjoyed the many nice comments made to the "help" for their courtesy and the many compliments that Civil Air Patrol received. Several new cadets have enrolled as members as a result of the CAP display.

Nineteen foreign countries will exchange their civilian airminded young men with the United States this summer during the International Air Cadet Exchange. The exchange is sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol (CAP), a civilian auxiliary of the United States Air Force. This is the 14th consecutive year the United States CAP cadets have participated in the exchange and promises to be one of the national highlights of CAP special activities during its 20th Anniversary observance.

One hundred thirty-five CAP cadets selected from the 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia will visit in 19 friendly nations. Canada and Great Britain will exchange 25 cadets with CAP, while all other countries will exchange groups of five. Each teenage cadet group is escorted by two male adult members of its air force or aero club activity.

The purpose of the exchange is to foster international understanding, good will and fellowship among the youth of the free world. The CAP cadets and their counterparts from the foreign countries are selected for their extraordinary leadership, character, academic achievement and good citizenship merits, and are truly junior ambassadors. Many of today's aviation leaders are former participants of the International Air Cadet Exchange.

Civil Air Patrol cadets returning to the United States will arrive in Washington, D. C., Aug. 15 en route to their homes.

Last Tuesday night, at the local squadron's regular meeting, at the Sebring Air Terminal, two from Avon Park attended as visitors and have already made application as members. Mr. Marvin Pearl and his son, Dale, Wauchula Road, were very much impressed with the equipment at "headquarters" and the friendliness of the cadets, senior members and officers CAP says Dale, "I will bring a couple of buddies with me next week."

As a result of its outstanding cooperation with Broward County Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, West Hollywood Composite Squadron was given a complete unit of atomic radiation fallout detection equipment.

West Hollywood Composite is the first squadron in Florida selected to receive such equipment under the civil defense adult education pilot program.

Recognizing an urgent need for civilian preparedness for survival in the event of disasters, the United States Congress appropriated funds sufficient to reimburse the cost of conducting pilot programs in four states during fiscal year, 1959-1960.

Florida was selected and invited to serve as one of the four pilot states. The others are Texas, California and Minnesota. The overall project is coordinated by U. S. Office of Education. The Department of Education in each of the four states conduct courses for teachers who in turn serve as instructors of additional classes for adults in their respective communities.

PREPARE A GRAPEFRUIT

Nearly everyone welcomes a grapefruit for breakfast, but have you tried it in other interesting ways? Broil it for a few minutes with a dash of spice and brown sugar, but remove the center, making a large space for the juice to accumulate during the broiling. Prepare it the night before, filling the center core with honey and refrigerate it, for a special breakfast treat.

RECUPERATED!

Meikrowaves

Tallahassee.—A little two-year old boy probably provided the best summary of the opening days of the 1961 legislative session.

He didn't mean to. All he wanted was his "Daddy."

Little Douglas Loeffler whose daddy is a new Republican House member from Pinellas County began crying about midway through Gov. Farris Bryant's opening day speech.

It had nothing to do with Bryant being a Democrat.

Doug's pretty mother, Pattie Loeffler, had tried to get through the opening-day mob to sit with her husband, but couldn't make it.

Little Doug began sobbing and crying for "Daddy" and Mrs. Loeffler took him outside the chamber to calm him.

Nothing much worked, and the curly headed little fellow continued to cry for "Daddy."

Some Legislators probably would have liked to join him.

But finally Gov. Farris Bryant's Highway Patrol Driver, Lt. A. E. Reddick, calmed the boy by showing him his handcuffs.

It worked.

Bryant may have to take a tip from his driver.

Before the 60-day session is over, Bryant himself may have to flash some handcuffs—back room tough talk—to push his program through the Legislature.

BRYANT'S MONUMENT — Pinpointing Gov. Farris Bryant's "monument"—what he would rather get done than anything else—is still a bit elusive.

One Legislator—colorful Charlie Miner, Hendry County—probably best summed up the frustration.

After Bryant's opening day speech, Miner said, "I couldn't tell whether it was a spendthrift speech or a tightwad speech. I'm going to have to wait until I read between the lines."

Miner's appraisal was basically accurate.

There was an element of both "spendthrift and tightwad" philosophies in the speech.

The question to be answered is "Which will prevail?"

TAX BOOST—It's hard to see how the Legislature, based on Bryant's recommendations, can go home without some new taxes.

One key to this, however, could boil down to a choice between Legislative control of the budget or Cabinet control.

Much has been said by legislators about providing more legislative control of budget spending.

But to do this, they will either have to cut some pet projects or provide money to take care of the projects.

Either way it is sticky, and so in most sessions the Legislators have used an old dodge to "take care" of these projects.

They have voted for appropriations, but against taxes.

This has left it up to the Cabinet to call the shots on how the money is spent—"cutting the cloth to fit the pattern" as the boys like to say.

When the Cabinet didn't spend it the way some legislators thought it should be spent, they yelled, "we need more legislative control on spending."

This looks like one of those years.

But even using that dodge, there seem to be some new taxes —"loophole pluggers". I think is the new name for them—in the future.

UTILITY TAX—From legislative comments, Bryant's proposal for a doubled gross receipts tax on utilities got a cool reception.

The money would be used to set up a right-of-way fund.

Everyone's for the right-of-way fund, but not for the tax—or at least that's the story now.

TEACHERS PAY—This one will be a key decision.

The battle lines apparently will be drawn on the issue of "merit raises" or "across-the-board" raises.

Either way will cost money, and the economy line could be broken.

Junior Colleges also could provide a wedge to crack the "tightwad" philosophy.

Bryant asked only $5,500,000 in building funds for junior colleges.

Requests totaled more than $20,000,000.

If the "economy" or "tightwad" philosophy goes down the drain here, there could be new taxes for sure.

REAPPORTIONMENT — The most significant statement on Bryant's Legislative reapportionment plan, which calls for senators for the top 23 counties populationwise, was a comment by former Senate President Dewey Johnson, Quincy.

Johnson said, "with a few modified provisions we would be very close to what could be a very good formula."

That can be interpreted as meaning, "There's going to be some changes made."

Despite rumors that the reapportionment plan will be passed quickly, it doesn't seem likely based on practical politics.

To get anything close to Bryant's suggested formula in the Senate, there will have to be some swaps and trades.

The fellows who will have to give up individual Senate seats if the plan passes probably will be trying to get the most mileage they can from their key positions. This could take time.

BOOKKEEPER—There may be a trend toward more bookkeepers in the Legislature.

A bookkeeper would have better luck than a lawyer in keeping up with the thousands of changes necessary to get the so-called population bill tangle straightened out.

It all comes about because of the 1960 census.

Most of the bills now apply to the wrong counties.

—Four of 10 candidates for governor last year were in town for the opening session—Bryant, of course; Doyle Carlton, who got an award; Ted David, who is now in the Senate, and Mayor Hayden Burns of Jacksonville. A fifth, Bud Dickinson, arrived that night.

The State of Citrus

Florida Citrus Mutual

Lakeland.—Bob Rutledge believes that one of these orange golden days a hundred, maybe 200, maybe more mass-selling products made from Florida citrus, or derivatives thereof, will be familiar items on supermarket, shop, department store and drug store shelves over the world.

He's a man qualified to foresee the day when Florida growers will be as keenly interested in the marketing of citrus toothpaste, for instance, as they are now in the sale of frozen orange concentrate. As operating boss of Florida Citrus Mutual, Rutledge is constantly prodding research chemists, bio-chemists, etc., to come up with new citrus products that will sell more Florida oranges, grapefruit and tangerines more profitably.

Rutledge is responsible for Mutual's headquarters building here wearing a bright coat of citrus peel oil paint. He challenged Matt Taggart, research head of one of the big U. S. paint manufacturers, to come up with a paint utilizing a citrus derivative, and Taggart did. The paint is now a stock item, although it yet hasn't been promoted sufficiently for volume sales.

An item which is relatively old stuff to citrus scientists but which isn't yet produced and sold commercially is citrus vinegar. Dr. Herman Reitz, chief of the Lake Alfred Citrus Experiment Station, says all the necessary research has already been completed on citrus vinegar and that the product is ready for somebody, or several somebodies, to take over for manufacture and marketing.

"This is a high quality product and would be competitive with any of the better vinegars on the market today," Dr. Reitz said. "At present, because of cost, it wouldn't compete with the mass-produced apple vinegars, but it certainly should sell right along with such specialty products as wine and tarragon vinegars. Citrus vinegar just hasn't been promoted enough to interest commercial manufacturers".

Reitz said Florida grapefruit, which often presents marketing problems to the industry, is particularly adaptable to vinegar production on a commercial scale because of the cost factor.

"Grapefruit, being relatively inexpensive, could be utilized in commercial vinegars more profitably than the higher priced oranges," Dr. Reitz said.

There is also citrus peel vinegar which has been successfully produced by the scientists and is the least expensive of the citrus vinegars to make, although it hasn't yet been consumer tasteteted. It's a good prospect, though, for mass use.

And, speaking of apples in the same breath with Florida citrus, whatever became of somebody's brightey for Florida school children, especially, to take teacher an orange instead of an apple?

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By Russell Kay

A college education is within the reach of most everyone today regardless of their financial situation. Thousands of youngsters are attending college on a shoestring backed by a keen desire to learn and ambition to win success.

The fact that parents are unable to meet the cost of higher education need not deter the ambitious youth who sincerely desires it.

While many students win scholarships there are countless others not so fortunate who still want to go to college.

Up until a few years ago the chance of a young man or woman to enter college on their own or their family's resources was slim for a large percentage of the nation's high school graduates.

Now the picture has changed. In addition to the many scholarships offered, outright loans can be secured and repaid in modest payments over a period of time after graduation.

Under the National Defense Education Act enacted in 1958, more than $70 million has been turned over to 1300 colleges, some in Florida, for loans to students. Since the college must put up $1 of its own funds for each $9 it gets from the Federal government $78 million has been made available from this source with much more to come. The act authorizes a total of $290 million in funds over a four year period.

That's a lot of money and it is available to you.

Parents concerned about a college education for their children but financially unable to meet the cost as well as students themselves interested in higher education will find the situation is far from hopeless.

All you need to do is contact the college of your choice and acquaint yourself with student loan funds available and how they operate. The student securing such a loan is not required to up any security and, except in states where the signature of a minor is not binding, do not even need their parents signature.

The current issue of the Reader's Digest featured a most informative article on the subject written by Don Wharton. The article points out that under the impact of the federal loan plan many colleges and universities have liberalized their own lending plans. Purdue has tripled the amount a student may borrow and lengthened the repayment period.

While students receiving such loans are assuming the financial burden of future repayment the terms are so reasonable and individual payments over a period of time so small that they need not frighten any ambitious boy or girl who is sincere in seeking a college education.

A recent survey discloses that 25 per cent making such loans repay them ahead of schedule, 50 per cent on schedule, and only 25 per cent have fallen behind usually because of unforeseen circumstances such as illness or accidents. Defaults have actually totaled less than one per cent.

A number of large industrial organizations are now encouraging employees to attain a college education and have set up funds to help them do so through repayable loans at low interest and over a long term.

You can go to college if you really want to and are willing to assume financial responsibility and personal effort to attain it.

The Development Commission says wild orange trees growing at Highland Hammock State Park near Sebring are believed to have originated from early Spanish explorers. Seeds dropped by explorers probably were brought inland from the coast by birds, the Commission says.

From The Office Of Jim Haley

Washington, D. C.—As you read this, I will be in Florida's seventh Congress district, which will indeed seem like the Garden of Eden after the rigors of this year's Washington winter. I not only will be happy to be there, but I will be happy to see and to talk to as many of you as possible, in order that I may be able to fulfill the real purpose of the annual congressional recess at Eastertime.

The purpose of the spring recess is not, as many think, to give members of Congress a vacation. It does indeed give us a breathing spell. But the real objective of the break is to give the members—who are the representatives of each of you and of all the people—to get back home, and to find out just what are the sentiments of those whose voices we try to be in Washington.

This is important in any year, because by Eastertime, legislative programs are beginning to take shape, and The Congress, having been engaged largely in the study of legislative proposals to this point, is getting ready to buckle down to the task of enacting the laws which will control the nation's course for at least the next year, and perhaps decide its future for all time.

In this year of a new President, heading an Administration of a party out of office for eight years, this mid-session break seems to me to be of particular importance. I am happy that the leadership of the House, which originally had planned only a long weekend Easter recess, changed its mind to extend the recess to 10 days.

I think the longer break is important because I need to feel the "public pulse" much more thoroughly than I could do in a weekend. The program of the much-vaunted "New Frontier" of campaign days now has begun to take a more-concrete and more recognizable form as the Kennedy legislative program. After three months of this congressional session, and two and a half months of the new Administration, we know more about the specific contents of the President's legislative proposals.

And we know, too, about the shifting political forces, swirling in conflict and counter-conflict, over those proposals as they move through The Congress.

In The Congress, many opinions have changed about the country's young President. To many in the conservative bloc, his own proposals have in many respects been surprisingly moderate in form and content. On the other hand, to many in the liberal bloc, his proposals have been disappointing, particularly in view of the ultra-liberality of the party platform on which he ran. And this has placed a heavier-than-usual burden on the middle-of-the-road legislator. He has the ultimate responsibility for seeing to it that the liberal element doesn't succeed in distorting a moderate presidential proposal into an outlandish and reckless left-wing scheme—but also of seeing to it that the extreme reactionaries do not succeed in destroying the worthwhile, reasonable and sound proposals which the president may make.

In going about my job as your representative in Washington, I need to know what you think, what you want. That is why I am happy to have these ten days among you. I can be reached through my office in Bartow if you would like to communicate with me.

State's Geographic Location, Shape Basic Assets For Tourists, Citrus

by Robert B. Marcus
Assist. Prof. of Physical Sciences and Geography, U. of Florida

Why does Florida attract millions of tourists each year?

Why does Florida produce more citrus fruit and commercial winter vegetables than any other place of similar size in the world?

A look at the State's geography will provide some of the answers to such questions as these.

Location Is Important

Florida's location and shape are basic assets. As the most southern of all the mainland states, Florida extends into the wet subtropics with a mild winter climate. The State is mainly a peninsula with a shoreline of about 1300 miles. This peninsular location helps to temper the blasts of cold air from the north in the winter and the hot humid tropical air in summer. Warm ocean currents further temper the climate.

The longitudinal location of Florida is also an interesting one. It is not generally realized that Palm Beach, Florida's easternmost city, is almost due south of Pittsburgh. Pensacola, at the extreme western tip of the state, is about due south of Chicago.

This favorable location of Florida with respect to the large concentration of population in northeastern and midwestern United States is a significant geographic fact. Florida is a part of a highly prosperious and industrialized nation. Three-fifths of this nation's population lives to the north and east of Florida. Here are ready markets for citrus, vegetables, beef, tobacco, and other products of Florida's farms. Close at hand too are more than 100 million potential tourists.

Florida Emerges from the Sea

The Peninsula State, as we know it today, is part of a much larger geological unit known as the Floridian Plateau. This partially submerged platform, which is attached to the continent of North America, separates the deep water of the Atlantic Ocean from the depths of the Gulf of Mexico.

During the millions of years of its existence, it has been alternately dry or covered by shallow seas. Except for the slightly domed north central portion in the vicinity of Ocala, the whole platform is nearly level. This gently sloping arch is called the Central Highlands, and forms the largest of the so-called highland areas in the State.

Lowlands flank the Central Highlands. These lowlands extend outward from an elevation of approximately 10 feet to the coastline. The gentle slope with its white sand along the coast provides the State with some of the finest beaches in the world.

In the southern part of the peninsula is found one of the world's most unusual regions, the Everglades, a large area of Florida covered originally by saw grass interspersed with clumps of trees and underlain by thick limestone covered with layer of peat. South of the mainland, a chain of islands known as the Florida Keys extends in a southwesterly direction for more than 100 miles.

The lake region in the Central Highlands results from the removal of limestone by underground water. Along with sand and clay, this limestone was laid down when the State was covered by shallow seas. After the water receded from the land, as it did many times, the ground water dissolved the limestone and carried it away leaving caverns in the limestone. The limestone caverns continued to enlarge until sometimes the roof was too heavy to be supported.

When the roof collapsed, a sinkhole was formed. Many of the lakes are sinkholes in which the bottom extends below the water table. These lakes are now a sportsman's paradise.

Resources are Being Developed

Florida has a unique combination of resources: a climate with mild winters, a landscape dotted with more than 30,000 lakes, more than 80 miles of sandy beaches, and a vast subtropical wilderness area known as the Everglades, has attracted people to Florida from all over the United States and Canada. Drive south on the major highways to Florida in mid-January and you will see license tags from practically every state and province to the north. More than 11 million tourists visited Florida last year to enjoy the great variety of recreational opportunities available in the State. These tourists spent nearly 1½ billion dollars while in Florida.

Abundance of water is a major resource of Florida which must be kept in mind in a nation which presently is using about 300 billion gallons of water a day and by 1980 will be using almost 600 billion gallons a day. This abundance is explained by the favorable location with respect to the movement of moisture-laden winds which blow over the peninsula from the Gulf of Mexico and sometimes from the Atlantic Ocean.

Another major resource are the State's forests - more than 18 million acres altogether, according to a recent survey carried out by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in cooperation with State agencies.

Rapid Growth in Last Decade

During the past decade (1950-60) Florida's population increased from 2,800,000 to 4,900,000. Many new industries have located in Florida in recent years. These industries have played a vital role in accounting for this rapid population growth and for the increasing concentration of people in Florida's cities.

One out of every four persons in Florida live in the Miami area. Many people are employed in occupations serving the ever growing number of tourists. There are also those new residents who have come from all over the country to make their homes in Florida where they can live in comfort free from the confinement of cold northern winters.

Dystrophy Group To Organize At Thurs. Meeting

How many times has this man saved your life?

LIKE most of us, when the kids are in the car, you get that "extra careful" feeling. You know, that's the same way your friend—the service station dealer—feels when you stop by to see him.

Over the years, you've probably come to take your service station dealer pretty much for granted. But when your kids are riding with you, aren't you glad you took his advice and had your brakes checked? His suggestions—small though they may seem to be—may have saved your life more than once. His interest in your safety is more than interest in a customer—it's concern about a friend.

And what a valuable "extra" if your own service station gives you S&H Green Stamps.

You know, of course, that half the families in America save them.

Hospital Bills Introduced By Livingston

TALLAHASSEE. — A double barrelled vote on a proposed hospital district for Highlands county is provided in bills introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Howard Livingston.

The first bill would call for a county-wide vote on a hospital district which would include all Highlands county.

If the voters do not approve the county-wide district, Livingston also introduced a bill to provide an election on a hospital district for Central and South Highlands county.

This would exclude the northern six miles of Highlands county from the hospital district.

Other local bills introduced by Livingston were:

Providing that all cities in Highlands County, if they choose to do so, could use the county tax assessor and county tax collector instead of providing individual offices for those purposes in each city.

A bill to permit the county commission to control the location of junk yards.

Seven other bills that change the population brackets of existing laws to conform with the 1960 census figures.

In other action in the House, a bill abolishing the Avon Park police officers' retirement fund was passed and sent to the Senate.

Complete text of hospital bills submitted by Livingston:

Chicken velvet is a Chinese treatment of an American favorite. Bits of chicken folded into egg whites and dropped into deep fat make fluffy bite-size macaroons that literally melt in your mouth. Served with a simple sauce and garnished with citrus sections, it is a dish fit for any feast.

Chicken Velvet Is Real Delight

One of the elaborate banquets for Britain's Queen Elizabeth II during her recent Asian tour featured jungle fowl in white wine and mushroom sauce. It sounds very exotic but the fact is that this wild bird, the ancestor of our domestic poultry, is not particularly tasty and certainly no match in quality to its legion descendants in our supermarkets.

Centuries of improvement have produced plump, full-breasted, tender poultry that is truly fit for a queen. However, credit must be given Oriental cuisine for the delicate manner in which Eastern chefs work with chicken of lesser quality to create dishes befitting a royal banquet.

Many Oriental chicken dishes, including the one below, start with raw, boned chicken diced or finely chopped. With frugality the bones, skin and fat are dropped into simmering water to make a rich stock used either in the sauce or as the base of a separate dish.

Chicken velvet is as delicate as its name. It is a light, fluffy treatment of fried chicken that will be the talk of the table.

CHICKEN VELVET

2 raw chicken breasts (4 halves)
¼ cup water
2 teaspoons cornstarch
5 egg whites
1½ teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon Accent or M.S.G.
peanut oil for deep frying

Remove the skin and bone from the breasts and simmer in 2 cups of water to be used in sauce. Chop the meat very fine and mix with water to keep from drying. Sprinkle with cornstarch, salt, pepper, Accent and blend with 1 egg white. Beat the remaining whites until stiff and fold into the chicken. Drop a teaspoon at a time into deep peanut oil preheated to 370 degrees and brown lightly. Drain and prepare the following sauce.

1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup chicken stock
1 tablespoon sherry

Mix cornstarch with a little stock then pour into remaining stock and blend. Add sherry and cook over a low flame, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens. Drop in fried chicken balls and cook for 2 minutes. Garnish with sweet citrus sections. Serves 4.

(Egg yolks dropped into a glass just covered with water and placed in the refrigerator can be kept fresh until breakfast or for several days.)

Senator Williams Reports

All signs still point to this being a conservative, hold-fast-to-the-purse strings legislative session. We just don't have the money to spend without new taxes and I sincerely believe that the legislators will try to hold the line on any new taxes for the next two years.

I thought the program presented by the governor in his talk to the joint session of the legislature was a very sound, conservative approach to the state's problems. I agree with him on the majority of his proposals and believe most of his program will be enacted into law.

Some specific proposals may have a hard time passing both houses, however. For instance, if we should repeal the intangible tax, some other source of revenue would have to take its place. I feel his proposal that the state buy road rights of way is good but hope some other source of revenue other than an additional utility tax can be found. I am in favor of finding some source other than this tax on utilities.

I like the idea of giving low salaried state employees a raise, especially those making under $300, if the money is available. I think the utility tax and the lien and recovery bill will be the hardest parts of the program to get through the legislature.

I especially liked his program for obscene literature control. I am co-sponsoring a bill in the Senate now which would tighten the regulations on the sale or possession of such literature and another which would make it unlawful to show a motion picture without clearance from a state regulating agency.

I think some reapportionment bill will be passed and any such bill would favorably affect this district. We now have four counties in the 27th and any new reapportionment bill would reduce the number of counties in a district to a maximum of three, providing for better representation for county residents. Just what the final split will be I don't know, but we cannot fail to benefit.

I am extremely pleased with my committee appointments. Of course, being vice chairman of the livestock committee and a member of the citrus committee will be of great assistance in serving local interests. Membership on the agriculture, oil and natural resources committee also should be helpful.

I shall be pleased to hear from you on any legislation in which you are interested, and if I may be of help to you in any way during this session, please call upon me.

Guests of Rev. and Mrs. Marvin H. Thompson, Sunday, were Miss Eunice Segraves and her sister, Mrs. B. Walker and a friend from Washington, D. C., who came down from Alachua, Saturday afternoon, to attend the Passion Play in Lake Wales.

Leroy Horton, Jr., President of the Passion Play Amphitheatre Corporation, said today that the audience for the 4 remaining performances on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday, will for the most part, be composed of Floridians. This is because the nights are warmer and more choice seats are available because there are fewer tourists here.

After this Sunday's performance, the 35 professional actors will begin the task of packing tons of costumes for their trip to the Black Hills of South Dakota to begin their summer season on June 11.

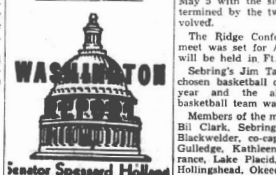
Nancy Cooper Is Interviewed On Television

Avon Park students' exhibits at the Science Fair in Lakeland were among the best, according to the opinion of many, even though they did not bring home any of the high awards. According to one person, each and every one of the fair exhibits were good enough to have taken the high award in the eyes of most laymen, and the judges had a difficult time selecting the award winners.

Nancy Cooper received a special award of $25 and was among those interviewed by Roger Early on his TV Show Sunday afternoon.



Senator Spessard Holland

EASTER HOLIDAY IN BARTOW ENJOYABLE—Mary and I have just returned from Bartow where we spent a most enjoyable and all-too-brief Easter holiday. It was good to be at home with most of our children and grandchildren and to see many old friends. A highlight for me was the chance to attend the Easter Sunrise service conducted by Rev. Billy Graham at Peace River Park as a feature of the Polk County Centennial which is now being observed. It was a beautiful morning and all of the seats were filled, with thousands of other worshippers standing throughout the impressive song service and Easter sermon. While in Bartow I also accompanied my Kiwanis Club to Good Friday services.

SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED—On March 27 the Senate passed its first money bill of the session, the Third Supplemental Appropriation Bill of fiscal 1961. The $1,694 billion measure, containing items in virtually every agency of the federal government, included $845,552 which our state will receive for assistance to public schools in defense impacted areas, and aproximately $355,000 as reimbursement for repair work in Everglades National Park necessitated by Hurricane Donna.

SUGAR ACT EXTENDED—I am glad to report that just prior to the Easter Recess the Senate passed legislation extending the Sugar Act for another 15 months or until June 30, 1962. I supported this measure which continues the President's authority to exclude Cuban sugar imports and empowers him to withhold reallocated quotas from countries with which we do not have diplomatic relations. If both Houses had not voted this extension before the March 31 expiration date there would have been nothing to prevent the Castro government from sending sugar into the states. While I favor substantial changes in the Act so as to assist new growers and to enlarge our own Florida production for the domestic market, it was clear that any attempt to accomplish any such changes on the eve of the deadline would have seriously threatened passage of the extension bill. However, as an aid toward ultimate changes, the House Agriculture Committee committed itself in the conference report on the bill to begin hearings on the subject in May. Similar hearings on permanent amendments will be held at the same time by the Senate Finance Committee. We will press for a substantial increase in the mainland cane quota.

MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

When one car outsells all the rest the way this new Chevrolet is doing*—there's got to be a reason. And we can think of some pretty good ones. The clean-etched looks of the new Body by Fisher, for example. The eager brand of "git" that's under the hood. The easy way it handles. Plus the added advantage of extra-cost options like triple-turbine Turboglide.

But to sample all these reasons together, you have to get a Chevrolet out on the road. And there's where that Jet-smooth ride takes over with its own gentle kind of persuasion. If you weren't absolutely sure, you'd imagine you were riding in a far costlier car.

AND JUST ONE JET-SMOOTH RIDE WILL SHOW YOU WHY!

No wonder people are buying more Chevrolets than any other make! Chevrolets have more of what it takes to please people!

Red Devils Continue Winning Streak; Top Southern Ridge Loop Standings

Avon Park's Red Devils unbeaten baseball team racked up their seventh Ridge Conference victory Friday night with an 8-2 win over Lake Placid at Head Field. The win was the Devils fifth in southern division competition.

Norman Willis, Avon Park's senior righthander, was the winning pitcher. He fanned 11 batters, gave up two hits and hit one batter during his six innings on the mound. Lamon Money came on in relief to hurt the seventh frame and the Lake Placid team scored one run on one hit, two walks and a hit batter during that inning.

The Devils scored all eight of their runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings. Bates, Hunter, and Money scored in the third. Bates walked, Hunter was hit with a pitched ball and Money singled in Bates. Milton drove in Hunter with a sacrifice fly to deep center field. Money scored on a passed ball.

In the fourth Bass was hit at the plate, Bates walked again and Hunter was safe at first on a fielders choice. They all three later scored—Bass on Money's sacrifice fly and Bates and Hunter on wild pitches.

Lake Placid's two pitchers both had control trouble and their catcher who was substituting for the ailing regular receiver had a good bit of trouble holding on to the ball.

The Devil's final two runs were driven in by Glenn Bass with a single in the fifth after Willis and Batson both reached first safely on infield errors by the Dragon shortstop and third sacker.

Lamon Money raised his batting average to .476 with two singles and Bobby Bates eased into second place with one for one and a .394 average. Dick Nagel has batted .353 for seven games, Louis Hunter .350 and Joe Milton .318.

The Red Devils shut-out the DeSoto High Bulldogs 12-0 for their eighth consecutive win Tuesday afternoon in Arcadia behind the one-hit pitching of Lamon Money and Leonard Sullivan.

Winning pitcher Money also led the Devils' thirteen hit attack with four singles in five trips to the plate. He scored three runs himself and batted in three others as he raised his batting average to .538 for the season. Catcher Bobby Bates also wielded a big bat for the Devils as he connected for two singles and scored two runs.

After scoring six runs during the first six innings, the Devils unleashed a six hit attack against losing hurler Jackie Parkyn in the seventh to score six more runs. Touchton started the action in the seventh with a single, Seims walked, and Bass was hit by a pitched ball. Then Bobby Bates singled in two runs and Sullivan singled in two more. Money added his fourth single next and Milton singled sharply off the third sacker's glove. Dick Nagel finished out the big seventh inning hitting with another single that sent Sullivan and Money home.

Money gave up only one hit and walked one batter in five innings on the mound before Leonard Sullivan came on at the start of the sixth to finish out the game. Sullivan retired six batters in a row, striking out four of them. Money fanned six batters and together the two Avon Park pitchers faced only 21 batters during the entire seven inning game.

The only two Arcadia men to reach base were thrown out on base. Parkyn, who was walked in the fifth, stole second and was then thrown out at home by centerfielder Glenn Bass after Arcadia's catcher, Dwight Fiveash singled for Arcadia's only hit. Then Fiveash was thrown out by Devil catcher Bobby Bates when he tried to steal second.

Off the FIRST TEE

By Jack

I bet the course will take a beating the next few days when Ed Touchton, Bill Briscoe, Walter Hetts and Charlie Metcalfe get out to play. They made the trip to Augusta, Ga., to see the play at the Masters, and after seeing some of the play on television, I know they enjoyed the trip, but I hear there was a little rain on the course on Sunday which caused some trouble. Being there and watching players like Player, Palmer and Coe and the others must help one's game very much so any of you who match up with Ed, Bill, Walter or Charlie make them give you a lot of strokes.

The course is getting better and better, and the fairways and greens are responding to the seeding and springing in fine shape, thanks to all the work that Comd. Young and his men are putting in on the course. We all sure appreciate the work that they are doing.

Friday night is the dance for the Teenagers. Cindy Metcalfe, Bob Maddox, Jr., and Al Yarbrough are the hosts, and I hear that they have a very nice party planned. Dancing is from 7:30 to 11 p. m. and the plans are for a large crowd.

All the ladies should make their plans to enjoy the Wednesday doings, bridge, golf and a lot of fun, so be sure and come out.

Avon Park Man Takes Part In Medical Exercise

Darmstadt, Germany. — Army 1st Lt. Leroy S. Anderson, whose wife, Delores, lives at 1527 N. E. Tenth st., Oklahoma City, Okla., recently participated with other personnel from the 377th Medical Company in Exercise Last Time, a Seventh U. S. Army medical field training exercise in Germany.

The exercise was designed to provide the participating units with practical experience in evacuating patients from simulated battlefields.

Lieutenant Anderson, a platoon leader in the company in Babenhausen, arrived overseas last September.

His father, Joshua C. Anderson, lives at 308 Second st., Avon Park, Fla.

The 26-year-old officer is a 1950 graduate of E. O. Douglas Vocational High School, Sebring, Fla., and attended Morgan State College, Baltimore, Md., and the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

His mother, Mrs. Willie M. Wooten, lives at 23 Vine st., Haines City, Fla.

Florida ranks ninth in the nation in number of fully-equipped airports maintained for public use, the State Chamber of Commerce reports. Forty-five of the 97 airports are paved and fully lighted. Only two states have a greater number of top-grade airports.

State road board member Max Brewer of Titusville says Florida's interstate, controlled access highways are designed to handle 1,500 cars an hour.

The Development Commission says wild orange trees growing at Highland Hammock State Park near Sebring are believed to have originated from early Spanish explorers. Seeds dropped by explorers probably were brought inland from the coast by birds, the Commission says.

Records show that the first major league baseball team to hold spring training camp in Florida was Washington. The club pitched camp in Jacksonville in 1888. Thirteen big league clubs and about 50 minor league teams now train in the Sunshine State.

Good Pasture Forage Cheapest Livestock Feed

Good forage from excellent pastures is the cheapest feed for your livestock. But this good forage will cost time and effort spent in proper management of your pastures.

Agronomist Russell Henderson of the Florida Agricultural Extension Service lists several steps to take for success in your pasture program. Let's see what these are.

First, develop a thorough knowledge of the various kinds of pasture. Also learn where each of these systems fits best into your pasture program.

It's a good idea to learn all you can about the soils on your farm or ranch. The characteristics of your soils have much to do with the kind of pasture you can produce best. A soil test can help you decide how to fertilize and tell you more about the soil's characteristics.

Do a good job of land clearing and preparation. Be sure you have a good seedbed. Many of our soils need extra water, while the problem with others is drainage. Plan for water control—that is, drainage or irrigation as needed.

There are many pasture plants and many varieties of each. Just any plant won't bring you success in your pasture program. Choose superior varieties of adapted species of each kind of pasture to be planted.

Lime and fertilize on the basis of soil characteristics. Again, use the results of a soil test here. Be sure to consider the nutrient requirements of the pasture crops you plan to grow. Be sure to inoculate legumes with fresh cultures of the proper strains of nitrogen-fixing bacteria just before planting.

Assisting Miller will be Bob King, captain of special gifts; Calvin Gibbs, captain of Negro solicitation, and Bill Briscoe, treasurer.

Miller told The Sun that the county's goal has been set for $3000 and several events have already been lined up to help reach this goal. At that time $222.50 was turned over to the crusade.

Mrs. Barbara Sachsenmaier of Avon Park was among the winners of the tournament.

To help the drive on its way Mayor E. A. DeLaney has proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month.

Tractor School Scheduled By Local Dealers

The Highlands County Citrus Advisory Committee to the County Agricultural Agent has long desired to fit a labor educational program to the needs of the Highlands County Citrus Industry. Jack Hutchinson and Bob Barben will represent the Advisory Committee in executing the school plan. Serving as chairman of the school committee, Jack Hutchinson called a meeting of the local dealers to crystallize the school plans Friday, April 7, 1961.

The instructor in this type of school is furnished through the local dealers assisting in the school. The dealers are Earl Haynsworth, John Deere; Pat White, Case; Arlen Wetherington, Ford; Smith Rudasill, Jr., International; and Park DeVane, Allis-Chalmers.

Hutchinson said that the school will be in three sessions—Monday nights; April 24, May 1, and May 8 from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. at the County Fair Buildings in Sebring.

The first session (April 24) will involve a panel of dealers answering grove owner's and production manager's questions about their equipment. This will be followed by a session at the various tractors on care and operation. There is no charge for this school and the driver completing all three sessions will receive an attractive certificate of completion.

The second session (May 1) will be devoted to preventative maintenance.

The third session (May 8) will see a tractor tipping demonstration put on by the Safety Committee of the Farm Bureau and the Florida Extension Service. Following this eye-opening show, the drivers will receive instruction in trouble shooting by ace-mechanics from the shops of the local equipment dealers.

Assistant County Agent David Martenolf said he is hopeful that the course will aid in the development of a conscientious equipment handler, taking more pride in the care and operation of his assigned machine and thus reducing costly breakdowns and stoppages.

Sales Tax Collections During March Down 5.13 Per Cent Under Last Year

Sales tax collections for the month of March based on February sales amounted to $14,411,541.45, a decrease of $779,989.63, or 5.13 per cent under the $15,191,531.08 collected during the same month last year.

Sales tax collections in Highlands County during March were $53,931.61. Collections for March, 1960 were $52,665.00. In the gas tax collection division, $61,931.66 was collected in the county in March, accounting for the sale of 884,738 gallons of gas.

Total sales tax collections this fiscal year, July through March, amount to $125,964,183.71, a decrease of $556,696.89, or 0.43 per cent under the $126,520,880.60 collected to date last year.

Gasoline tax collections during the month of March based on February sales amounted to $10,345,957.62, a decrease of 1.1 per cent under the $10,460,542.77 collected during the same month last year.

Total gasoline tax collections this fiscal year amount to $90,410,254.98, an increase of $2,328,760.98, or 2.6 per cent over the $88,087,494.00 collected to date last fiscal year.

Naturally, these figures are disappointing, and indicate that the reported gradual upswing in the national economy so far has not been felt generally in Florida. We are cautiously hopeful.

It is obvious that some part of our present problem is purely psychological. It will take a little more time for those able to spend and invest to realize that basically Florida and the country are sound and that conditions will get better.

We have just made some comparisons by kinds of business that prove interesting. These figures show that some lines of business have done quite well recently despite the economy lag.

Decline in building and related activity clearly can be blamed for most of our reduced tax revenue. Our survey is based on the six months ending March 31, 1961 compared to the same six months ending March 31, 1960.

Notable declines in revenue the last six months compared to the same period a year ago are:

Lumber and building materials declined 14.73 per cent; roofing and sheet metal, 2.39 per cent; decorating, painting and papering, 10.30 per cent; electrical and plumbing, 15.16 per cent; heating, air conditioning, insulation, 1.61 per cent; building contractors (roads and realty), 5.02 per cent; hardware, paints, light machinery, etc., 10.86 per cent down.

Hotels, rooming houses, apartments, tourist courts, trailer parks, 5.35 percent; furniture stores, 10.92 per cent; motor boats, yachts, marine parts, accessories, 9.07 per cent; motor vehicle dealers, trailers (rentals), 3.08 per cent off.

On the other hand, gains in tax actually remitted were shown by certain types of business, as follows:

Grocery stores, vegetables and fruits, candies, confections, sundry stores, variety stores, drug stores, general merchandise stores.

Other increases included: Bottlers of beer and soft drinks, communications - telephone, telegraph, radio and television stations.

Despite the encouraging figures from certain areas of business, the overall totals for the six-month period reflected a net loss in gross sales of $289,432,279, percentage 4.01; decrease in taxable sales of $38,847,781. 57, percentage of 1.23.

Net decrease in money remitted for the period was $2,401,908.52 for a minus of 2.66 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Keiter who have spent five months at an apartment on N. Summit Street have returned to their home in Bucyrus, Ohio.

Present at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeLaney, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crews, Roy E. Selms, Roy Felknor and Dr. Stuart J. Ward. There are other parents who will participate in the 4-H program who could not attend this meeting.

The Southland and Avon Trailer Park Shuffleboard tournament was played Tuesday afternoon with the Blacks winning 10 to 8 over the Reds. The ladies of the Park served refreshments in the recreation hall after the game.

Jack Boyle owner of the Park made an airplane trip to Detroit, Mich., for a visit with his daughter and grandchildren for a few days. His wife, Marty, had made a similar trip recently.

PINNEY Antics

By BILL PINNEY

Fellow out in Dodge City, Kan., kept his wife and two children locked up in their home for more'n a year.

Now that ain't no way to treat kids.

And how was he able to keep 'em pinned up so long without Marshal Mat Dillon or Chester gettin' wind of it? That's likely to hurt Gunsmoke's TV rating.

A wife locked inside for that long is news and everybody hears or reads about it. With husbands it's difficult. They're always locked out.

A wife who's been locked in goes straight to the police. A husband who's been locked out goes straight to the bartender. He don't go to the police, but often goes with 'em and is briefly locked up as well as cry.

And he usually suffers a worse fate. He's let back in by his spouse.

DWI Cases Drop To One In County Court This Week

Cases of driving while intoxicated up to seven in county court last week dropped to one this week, J. B. Spence, lone defendant to appear on this charge Monday, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for May term of court.

James Staggs faced three charges of issuing worthless checks. One check was large enough to move the case into the circuit court's jurisdiction. On that count Staggs waived arraignment and his bond was set at $1000.

He entered guilty pleas to the two charges of issuing small checks. Judge Mervin Rehrer postponed sentencing on these two counts until the circuit court has disposed of the felony case.

it takes so little faith—

IF you had faith as a grain of mustard seed..." That's not much faith. But just look what God said you could do with so little. The mustard seed is the tiniest of seeds. Here the huge microscope enlarges it many times...yet, one can scarcely see it. The Lord said, If you have that much faith you can do anything! You can say to a mountain, "move over" and it will be done. You can endure anything...you can become anything—IF, you have a wee bit of faith. Faith is the root of all blessing. The man who is without it is dead as a cinder. The Pilgrims had faith Martin Luther and John Wesley had faith. Jesus was supremely a man of faith and waits to share his blessings on men who can be trusted...men of faith. How much faith do you have? Is your faith as big as the mustard seed?

Winter Guest Club News

Have you seen the flossy bronze trophy lately put into the flossy case on the fireplace mantle? It is quite worth looking at. It is the trophy won by two stalwarts of our shuffleboard army, who won it by defeating all comers in a Highlands County tournament not so long ago. There were some 30 contestants at that meet, so we are told, twenty-eight of whom fell before our two stalwarts, whose names now are written indelibly in bronze. Take a looksee and feel a bit of pride running up and down your spine. Those names are C. H. Fensterman and Jack Flaggert, hurrah!

We said in a recent issue that the shuffleboard tournaments were finished for the season. That wasn't quite true. The big tournaments are over, but the little ones continue. By that we mean tournaments in which the contestants are fewer and fewer as more and more members of the Guest Club pull up and shove off for home. There was a minor tournament on Wednesday but somehow we missed it, hence no report, much to the disgust of the noble winners no doubt. People do like to see their names in the paper. But we did get the news about the Saturday game and report that Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Dickson took the main event. Mr. Wilde and Mr. Arme won the consolation.

Holy Week being over the dance began again, and with a big zoom. More than three sets were on hand Monday night, a most enjoyable evening. A new number, "The Royal", was introduced, not so much a new dance as a new way of dancing old squares. The standard square brings four couples together; the royal brings eight. That dance was especially interesting to the spectators. It will be demonstrated on Friday night very soon.

Sixty-four were present last Friday night, nearly all dancers. It was therefore necessary to repeat some of the squares. During the intermission a Hi-Fi long playing record of Lawrence Welk's Champagne Music was played. The floor was covered by couples enjoying the music and the type of dancing of a Welk party.

The entertainment on Thursday night presented by Mrs. Lawhon and her pupils brought a large crowd to the house. There were several Hawaiian numbers cleverly given, as well also as those by Mrs. Lawhon on clarinet, accordion, violin and saxophone. All in all it was a most pleasing entertainment.

We have two Saturday night suppers to report. On April 1, April Fools Day, there were 26 on hand, eight from Michigan, and there was no foolishness then, only good eating and fine fellowship. Last Saturday night, Mrs. Lamson hostess, brought 24 hungry people together for a fine chow. By States they were: Indiana one, Illinois and Michigan four, Ohio 13, Tennessee and New York four, and Virginia two. After dinner it was shuffleboard as usual, the night being fine.

There were 77 gospel singers in the house last Sunday for the final sing of this season. The full count for the season was 1,229, quite a record. Besides the group singing Mrs. Sylvia Book and Harold Harper gave readings in their usual fine style, and Jerome Shiltz a splendid solo. At the close the group formed a circle by joining hands and sang "God be with you till we meet again". Mr. and Mrs. Shiltz heartily thank all who have helped to make these Sunday sings so pleasant and so profitable, likewise the Stroller for reporting the same.

We almost forgot the pinochles and bridge-ites this time. But we recollected in time to announce to the world that with five tables playing Mrs. Bertha Brush was highest at the pinochle game, Mrs. Ella Gruber next in line. At bridge next day, six tables, it was again Mr. Luyben who was high with the score of 7890. Mr. Thieroff was next with the score of 5600. But that, though quite some below the other, was a right good score says

The Stroller

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges will present a program to President Kennedy this month which will propose relaxing of regulations permitting foreigners to visit this country. This report comes from Wendell Jerrard, chairman of the Florida Development Commission who recently met with Hodges in Washington.
