

Garretts Host For Barbecue

Jane and Guy Garrett solved the bug and pest problem when they invited their friends to a barbecue on Lake Verona last Wednesday night. They loaded the family raft with the charcoal grill, a few lawn chairs, picnic supplies, and with the boat motor attached to the raft, they headed for the middle of the lake where they enjoyed a barbecue supper under the stars away from all annoyances. Those enjoying this delightful affair were Bob and Melba Harrington and his son, Robert, from Fort Pierce; J. C. and Eloise Walker and son, Steve, from the Garretts.

Walker Memorial Hospital News

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Boyd are back at their hospital offices after enjoying a Florida vacation of two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Wilson and family have returned from North Carolina, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris have also vacationed in North Carolina.

Mrs. Walter Ott and her mother, Mrs. Jessie Crowder of St. Petersburg, returned to their trip to North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cook and their daughter, Dorothy, left this week for a trip to Georgia and Tennessee where they will visit relatives.

PFC Don Smith In Field Tests

Mainz, Germany (AHTNC)—Army PFC Donald E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Smith, 51 S. Central ave., Avon Park, Fla., recently participated with other personnel from the 8th Division's 604th Infantry in annual field tests at Wiesbaden, Germany.

The three-day tests, which were designed to determine individual and unit efficiency under simulated combat conditions, included both day and night maneuvers and stressed the 604th's unit in both the attack and in defense. At the conclusion of the test, members of the 604th were airlifted by helicopter to Mainz where they are regularly stationed.

Smith, 20, entered the Army in May 1959, completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and arrived overseas last February. He is an automatic rifleman in the infantry's Company B.

House Guests At Norris Home

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O. Norris have returned from their annual summer trip which takes them to visit friends and relatives in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky, and to attend the family reunion in Charleston, West Virginia.

House guests at the Norris home are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ronsbury and daughters, Linda and Peggy, of Canton, Ohio and Mrs. Andrew Harold of Aiken, S. C.

PRE-SCHOOL CLASS—During the summer Mrs. Frank Morgan, county supervisor of music has held weekly classes at the Avon Park Elementary School for youngsters who will be entering first grade this fall. Mrs. Morgan is shown with one of the classes last week as they went through a counting exercise. Area Supervising Principal A. Whitte, standing, also tries his hand at the exercises. During the classes youngsters enjoyed hearing records, playing games, singing and finally refreshments before adjournment. Mrs. Morgan expressed her thanks to a number of parents and older youngsters who assisted her in the program.

Deadline Nears For Election Qualifying

Five Seek Council Seats; McKenzie Files

Avon Park's political tempo increases slightly this week as the August 11 deadline for qualifying and registering draws near. Five candidates have filed for council, but no one has filed for the Mayor's job at press time Wednesday.

Sam McKenzie, who will be completing his first term on the council qualified for another two-year term Monday. Other candidates who have already thrown their hat in the political ring are: J. B. Sparks, former councilman, H. M. (Chick) Parless, E. E. Shumaker and R. W. Woodard. Parless is a salesman for a local lumber company. Shumaker and Woodard are both retired city employees. All are long-time residents of Avon Park.

Although he has not officially qualified, Mayor E. A. Delaney told The Sun last week he will be a candidate to succeed himself. It was not known if he would have any opposition.

Friday at 5 o'clock is the deadline for registering to vote and qualifying for a city office. The city election will be handled by County Supervisor of Registration Robert Durr. Voting machines will be used.

Welfare Fund Shortage Aired At Board Meet

A full attendance of County Commissioners at Tuesday morning's session discussed the shortage of welfare funds, but took no action on the plea of Mrs. Anna Dee Church for money to take care of immediate needs.

Among the items on the business agenda that came up for general discussion were the areas in the county where there were being sold for buildings which had no roads into the lots and the commissioners were handed a copy of the new law on this, which was passed by the last Legislature, and asked to become familiar with the official workbooks for the 1961 session will start on Monday, August 21.

Physicals Set For Gridders

Couch Joe Franz has issued a call for all varsity football candidates to report to Dr. H. W. Coleman's office at 5:30 p. m. on Thursday, August 17, for a physical examination.

Friday night, August 18, the Avon Park coaching staff will meet with all prospective varsity Red Devil football players at the high school gym and official workbooks for the 1961 season will start on Monday, August 21.

A CODE FOR TEEN-AGERS

One of the thorniest problems mothers have to handle, as they write us, is that of giving their teenage children good advice without sounding like parents. Virginia Close, a lively teen-ager in Dallas, Texas, may have simplified the problem when she prepared a "Teen-Age Code of Life," written in their own language:

- (1) Don't let your parents down. They brought you up.
- (2) Stop and think before you drink.
- (3) Ditch dirty thoughts fast, or they'll ditch you.
- (4) Show-off driving is juvenile. Don't act your age!
- (5) Be smart; obey. You'll give orders yourself someday.
- (6) Choose your friends carefully. You are what they are.
- (7) Choose a date fit for a mate.
- (8) Don't go steady unless you're ready.
- (9) Go to church regularly. God gives you a week. Give Him back an hour.
- (10) Live carefully. The soul you save may be your own.

CRACKER POLITICS

By Allen Morris
TALLAHASSEE—There are those who regard Wendell Jarrard as something of a bull in the bureaucratic china shop as Chairman-director of the Development Commission.
Certain it is that the elegant, well-dressed, former Pensacola automobile sales wizard has enraged more state employees by his manifestos on work habits than any other Bryant administrator.
Some Jarrard edicts: Be punctual, stay afterwards if necessary, breakfast on your own time, answer all letters the same day, no outside employment, no automatic pay raises, don't take Mondays or Fridays off, and at the moment, always wear a bright orange ribbon urging Floridians to see Florida this summer.

The idea of applying business principles to government has always been an appealing theory. Any who tried it often found frustration. More so than anyone else in recent gubernatorial "little cabinets," Wendell Jarrard has applied these principles, as he understands them, from running a highly industrial kind of business - the sale of cars - in which profits result from attracting favorable public attention.
Jarrard regards "promotion" and "timing" as the key words of the business success formula, including his own as first, a used-car hustler, next as a franchise dealer for new cars, and finally as the distributor of a highly popular French ducats for eleven states and Puerto Rico at the peak of the foreign car boom.

When Jarrard says "the most successful promotions often cost the least money," he may be thinking of some of his own: the turkey given with each Thanksgiving season sale and advertised by a proud tom strutting Pensacola streets attired in black bow tie and white collar; the drive-in Santa Claus on his sales lot; the dice hockey who shouted out the call to "come on in and see of Jarrard."

Don't let the cynics of those food you. When it was learned that the head of Renault was coming to New York in the mid-1950's, businessmen from over the nation hastened there for Renault was "de car hot." They all had glad hands for Monsieur le President but Wendell Jarrard also had in his a legislative resolution and a letter from the Governor (Leloy Collins) inviting him to visit Florida.
It was on so formal that the president shaved other plans and in a plane chartered by Jarrard, flew to Tallahassee for honors at the Mansion. One consequence of the Jarrard-Colins hospitality is that every where in the world today except the United States the Renault model is known as the "Florida."
"Florida," in the USA, out of deference to California, the same model is known as the "Caravella." Another byproduct was the award to Jarrard of the multi-state franchise.

Jarrard summarizes this operation thus: "I really put dollars in my own pocket, and did something for the state of Florida, too."

Wendell Jarrard is a 43-year-old native of Gainesville, Ga. He lived for a time in Ocala, and his wife is the former Emily Perry of that community. As a consequence of this residence, he became one of those who enjoy high political priority nowadays by having supported Farris Bryant for Governor in 1956.

Jarrard is a perplexing, paradoxical package of qualities. He seems genuinely desirous of being liked, yet goes about trying to achieve this in a most awkward way. He stresses the importance of morale. He may send boxes of candy to Commission stenographers in appreciation of their efforts, and follow this on the same day with an order for all hands to take a performance test.

He feels much good has been done during his seven-month tenure. Among specific examples are the establishment of Florida's showcase in Rockefeller Center, the cooperative advertising plan which enables communities to take advantage of the state's volume rate in some publications, and a strong industrial follow-up program. Jarrard is not afraid of new ideas, a rare quality indeed among bureaucrats. As a fellow who earned his bread and butter in private life through promotional gimmicks, he knows that if he keeps convincing he'll hit home more than the play-it-safe better - and it's the home run that counts on the score board of a business or of a promotional agency.

Even if some employees fret, and some fellow commissioners feel they are being treated as rubber stamps, and some outsiders complain, Wendell Jarrard continues to enjoy the confidence of the man who matters most, the one whose portrait in Jarrard's office is inscribed: "Dear Wendell: Main Street Madison Avenue, you're the best, Farris."

The State of Citrus

FLORIDA CITRUS MUTUAL
LAKELAND, Aug. 8.—Florida citrus has climbed the ladder to commercial success so fast a relative shyness period that many newcomers to the state might get the impression our oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, etc., are Johnny-come-lately.

Nothing of the sort. The Florida gold Ponce de Leon and his men found "double-doubles" was oranges. Factly, centuries ago oranges grew wild around St. Augustine. It's likely that the Seminoles, and other Florida Indian tribes, raised their own crops of oranges way before Ponce.

There's a flock of historical footnotes on Florida citrus, too. For instance, back in 1893 James Baird, partner in DeLand's Alexander and Baird Co., one of the state's oldest citrus packing houses, won a citation for oranges exhibited at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago. The citation read that Baird's oranges were of "High Quality, Great Beauty and in Large Quantity."

It was probably along about that time that the downtown section of DeLand, which later became known as the Athens of the South, was called "Pomona Hollow."

During the big freeze of 1895-96, which old-timers insist was the coldest time in Florida's century, from 1890 to 1960, grove workers were frozen out around DeLand.

The pickers moved to the southern area of the citrus belt to get in their day's work. Several crews moved to the Ft. Pierce section to pick. While they worked in one of the groves the owner mounted what was practically an armed guard over them.

At first, the pickers figured this owner was merely seeing to it that his oranges were being put into the picking bags and field boxes; that the pickers were not eating up his profits.

Nothing of the kind. The owner simply had large quantities of gold buried in his grove and he was making sure no outside orange pickers delved into his secret hoard. It seems that banks were scarier than gold in those days and this grove owner just felt his treasure would keep underground.
Those Ft. Pierce oranges, incidentally, were packed in barrels bound with split grape vines. This was the general method of packing Florida citrus in those days, something of a far cry from today's orange crates and neat little cans of frozen concentrate.

Son Visits Stevensons Here

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stevensons of Lake Byrd have had their son and his bride, The Rev. and Mrs. Richard Stevensons, visiting with them recently and Rev. Stevensons supplied the pulpit for the minister of the First Baptist Church. He is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., and is presently attending a church mission study camp near Ovid, Fla.

Other recent guests with the Stevensons have been Mr. and Mrs. James Ermler and daughter, Diane, and Kathy, of Villa Park, Ill.

THE FOUR-WAY TEST
1 Is it the TRUTH?
2 Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3 Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4 Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

State Wildlife Officers To Start Increased Patrol of Fresh Waters

Florida wildlife officers will begin a stepped-up patrol program on the fresh waters of Florida. The increased enforcement activity by the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is a part of an all-out effort against possible violations of fishing rules and regulations, according to A. D. Aldrich, director.

Commission records indicate that one fisherman out of every three hundred checked by wildlife officers will probably violate one of the following Florida fishing laws: fishing without license, fishing with improper license, exceeding the legal bag limit, or fishing with illegal fishing devices. The stepped-up enforcement program is designed to apprehend the individual who would violate rules without concern for his fellow fishermen, Aldrich said.

Fishermen are reminded that everyone 10 through 64 years of age must possess a valid fishing license when using a rod and reel or an artificial lure in fresh water. All non-residents except children under 15 years of age must buy a non-resident license to fish by any method. Residents using can poles outside home county must possess a resident license. The daily bag limits for fresh water game fish are as follows: 10 black bass, 35 panfish, 15 pickerel, and 30 white bass. Total

Mrs. John Townsend to director of the school. Others assisting will be Mrs. Victor McKee, Mrs. R. H. Rogers, Mrs. C. E. Gung, Mrs. Betty Smith, Anna Dee Harden, Nancy Albrington, Mrs. Wm. Lacombe, Nancy Weber, Mrs. Harden, Katy Rehner, Marilyn Hatcher and Nancy Williams.

MRS. JAMES COOPER

Miss Jane Goodnow, James Cooper Wed Saturday In St. Petersburg

Miss Jane Loek Goodnow, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Chester Lloyd Goodnow, St. Petersburg, became the bride of James Edward Cooper, son of Mrs. June Gough Cooper, of this city, and James Benjamin Cooper, of Warner Robbins, Georgia. The wedding took place last Saturday in St. Petersburg.

The bridegroom was Mr. John Spafford Goodnow, sister-in-law of the bride, Jacksonville, was matron of honor. Her dress of Dior blue silk organza, featured a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a full skirt with deep hem, and her matching hat was a single large rose. Her flowers were asters in shades of blue and lavender.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles Andrew Pfaff, Atlanta, Georgia and Miss Marjorie McNeil Rogers, St. Petersburg. Their outfits were identical with that of the matron of honor.

R. Wade Callis, uncle of the bridegroom, of Orangeburg, S. C. served as best man. Ushers were John Spafford Goodnow, brother of the bride, Jacksonville; Samuel Castleman, Venice and Dale Landrese, Avon Park.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a taupe sheath of re-embroidered Alencon lace over mauve taffeta with matching accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

The groom's grandfather, Mrs. Edward Gough, was groomed in a dusty rose dress of net and lace over taffeta with white accessories, and a corsage of roses.

For traveling, the bride's outfit was a blue and white jacket ensemble with white accessories and her corsage was of white roses.

Upon return from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will reside at 1301 Minnesota Avenue, Winter Park, Florida.

Both are native Floridians. She was born in St. Petersburg, made her debut in 1958, graduated from Rollins College in 1961 where she served as variety cheerleader for three years. She was president of her sorority, Kappa Kappa Gamma; secretary of the Young Republican Club and permanent secretary of her class.

Mr. Cooper is a senior at Rollins College where he is majoring in Economics. He is advertising Commissioner for the Rollins weekly newspaper, a varsity baseball player, member of Rollins "B" Club and secretary of the "X" Club Social Fraternity.

Reception Dr. and Mrs. Chester L. Goodnow entertained with a reception at their home, 6154 Bahama Shores Drive, immediately following the wedding. Invitations were issued to the wedding party and the immediate families.

Miss Judith Ann Cooper, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the bride's book. Assisting with the hospitalities were Miss Sally Stephenson and Miss Nancy Stephenson of St. Petersburg and Miss Nancy Planner of Dayton, Ohio. The bride's table was overlaid with a white embroidered gandy cloth over a blue foundation. Dainty nosegays of blue feathered carnations marked the corners of the table. The three tiered cake was iced in white and topped with figurines of lovebirds.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Spencer D. Howe, aunt and uncle of the bride, from Los Angeles, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pfeffer, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pfeffer, 3rd, cousins of the bride from New York City; Mr. Cooper's grandmother, Mrs. Edward Gough from Avon Park; Mr. and Mrs. R. Wade Callis and daughter, Miss Cheryl Callis, Orangeburg, S. C. aunt and uncle and cousin of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. John French, Miss Carol and Nancy French of Miami; Gary and Larry Sullivan, President; Gene Bisher, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Landrese, Mrs. L. A. Siroff and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Butler all of Avon Park.

Rehearsal Dinner Mrs. Jane Cooper, mother of the groom and Mrs. Edward Gough, grandmother of the groom, were hostesses to members of the wedding party and the immediate families with a dinner at the St. Petersburg Yacht Club, Friday evening, August 4, following the wedding rehearsal.

A bridal theme prevailed in the table decorations including white mums, asters and blue delphinium, with dainty place cards bearing a bridal motif. Miss Goodnow presented each of her attendants imported perfume in silver cases as a gift of remembrance. Mr. Cooper's gifts to his attendants were engraved silver key chains.

SCOTCH VISITORS Miss Mary Jessie Ford and her brother, John B. Ford, of Montreal, Canada, have been visiting their brother, William B. Ford and Mrs. Ford here in Avon Park. Mr. Ford is back home from an Orlando hospital where he recently had a major operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hager have returned from a month's vacation in Canton, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Everett and daughter of Kensington, Ohio, are guests of the Hagers at present.

Mrs. Isabel Booth reports to her friends that she is enjoying her vacation in Ojai, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn returned last week from a month's vacation trip. They visited their two sons in Midlothian, Ill. and Mrs. Dunn's sisters and brother-in-law in Sioux Falls, S. D. They traveled 4,646 miles through nine states and report that they did not see any accidents on this trip. They state that it is good to be back in Florida. Lewis J. Booth spent a week with their daughter and family in Columbus, Ohio.

MRS. AMANDA HAAS Mrs. Amanda Haas, age 86, passed away in a local nursing home following a long illness. She came to Avon Park from Mansburg, Ohio several years ago. She was a member of the First Lutheran Church and was active in the Avon Park Woman's Club. Survivors include one son, Edward A. Haas, Coral Gables. Misselle Funeral Home had charge of local arrangements. Her body was forwarded to Mansburg, Ohio for services and interment.

Mrs. Omer Bedard of Lowell, Mass., has retired from her position at Cherry & Webb's and moved in with her sisters, the Desautels on Nautilus Drive. Her son, Omer Bedard, of Lexington, Me., with his wife, Doris, and three children, Omer Paul, Emily and Robert, drove Grandma down and are staying a couple of weeks. They after visiting for a couple of all hope to see a lot of Florida but are reluctant to leave Lake Olivia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Liggiero spent Wednesday and Thursday in Oklawaha guests of friends, Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Boettie returning home Friday.

Miss Judy Delano of Joliet, Ill., returned home by plane weeks with Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Corwin on Orchard Drive.

Miss Mary Turner of Champaign-Urbana, Ill., is spending her vacation as guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Haines. Miss Turner was formerly associated with Mrs. Haines in the Agricultural Extension Department of the University of Illinois where Miss Turner is still employed in the information office.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Preston and son, Korky, have returned home after spending 10 days in Conch, fishing and relaxing. Korky reports having much better results fishing right here in Olivia Lake, having caught 11 bass ranging from 1 1/2 to 5 pounds. House guest at the Preston home for an indefinite stay is Miss Cheryl Conrad from Miami, who accompanied the Prestons on their return trip. Cheryl is a niece of Mrs. Preston.

RETURN TO N. Y.

Mrs. Jerrold Webber and son, John, will leave this week for a visit to their former home in Mayville, N. Y., and to attend the graduation of their daughter, Joan, from Albany State College, Albany, N. Y. on August 18. They will be back in Avon Park in time for John to enter school here where he has enrolled as a member of the junior class.

Methodist Bible School Underway Here This Week

Work, worship, study and play will be woven into a meaningful program for the children between the ages of four and 14 who attend the Vacation Church School at the First Methodist Church, according to the pastor, Rev. Russell Boas, and Mrs. John Giddens, Jr., who is director of the school.

Beginning Monday the school will run each day from 9 to 11:30 a. m. through Thursday

Dale I. Royal, Evangelist

As the little birds trust the mother bird, so let men trust God. If a sparrow cannot fall without God's attention, if He counts the hairs of our head... why do we fear (Mat. 10:29-31)? Worry about future security? God is the security for those who trust Him. Your Heavenly Father feeds the birds, and you are of far more value than they (Mat. 6:26). "Blessed are they who hunger for God's good things; they shall be filled." In childhood we needed mother and welcomed her... as adults we need God and ignore Him. In prosperity we forget God, the Bible, the church; but when disaster comes we want them all.

As your days so shall your strength be (Deut. 33:25). He will cover you with His feathers, and under His wings shall you trust (Psalm 91:4). Then why not trust God where you cannot see; the plan is His, the promise yours. "Blessed are they."
