Avon Teacher To Aid In Text Preparation

Teacher Named
To Committee

Mrs. Violet Moseley, Avon Park High School Home Economics teacher has been named to serve on the state textbook committee to prepare a book on homemaking. The announcement came at the meeting of the Highlands County School Board Tuesday night.

Mrs. Moseley will begin serving a two year term on June 15. During that period she will aid educators from throughout the state in preparing and writing the next book to be used in classrooms throughout the county. Her travel expenses and per diem will be paid by the state during her assignments.

The school board announced that instructional positions in the county will jump to 231 next school year. Of that number, 79 will be employed in the Avon Park area—three more than during the past year.

The board approved a request by Superintendent Andy Miralich that four teachers—one from each high school in county—be allowed to attend an American-Communist Workshop at the University of Florida and Florida A & M this summer. These teachers will be named at a later date.

Mrs. Beverly Hall of Avon Park was named as secretary and scoring machine operator for the county testing system.

Permitting was granted to install an antenna receiving system, saving the way for education TV, by using Channel 3, Tampa. The system is expected to be put in use during the next school term.

Resignations accepted from teachers in this area included those of Francis Amick, Avon Elementary School, and Almie, APHS vocal director.

Mrs. Delberta Lanier, librarian at Avon Elementary was granted a year's leave of absence due to the ill health of her son.

The board pushed their chests out a bit after a report was received from state auditors noting that the affairs of the school board had been well managed.

Highlands Clerk Earl Rich To Head Association Committee

Highlands County Circuit Court Clerk Earl Rich has been appointed to the Membership Committee of the Florida Association of Court Clerks.

Rich said the Association's new responsibility will be to promote membership in the Association and seek to obtain cooperation of all counties in sponsoring improvements in the clerks' work across the state.

Rich and two of the county's deputy clerks—Mrs. Paye Johnson and Mrs. Martha Taylor—attended the June 6-9 sessions of the Florida Association of Court Clerks in Sarasota.

Rich said the Association gives major attention to sharing of problems and new ideas for improving handling of the multiple tasks of court clerks' offices. Hearing the discussions this year was the problem of stationary service charges and rising costs.

Rich said that cost of supplies, particularly their official record books and photostat materials, has been skyrocketing. The last general adjustment of service fees was made in 1955.

The clerks suggested that fees might be adjusted so that the persons benefitting from a given service would bear a larger share of the cost of rendering the service.

As it now stands, Rich reported, many counties are dipping into general revenues to make up the difference between the fees charged and the cost of the services.

The clerks' offices are the clearing house for virtually all legal documents which deal with either the work of the county commission or the circuit court.

Florida laws provide that the Court Clerk will be "recorder of public records, collector of delinquent realty taxes, county auditor and clerk and accountant of the county commission."

Rich said that 41 counties were represented at the 1962 session in Sarasota.

ant of the county commission, clerk of circuit court."

These duties have led to the clerks of the state almost universally complaining that they have "a space problem."

Rich laughingly pointed out that these are not the space problems of the federal government but are inner-space problems—within court houses.

The mountains of paper needed to maintain all clerks' various records are beginning to drive the clerks to seek new ways of storage.

While in Sarasota the Highlands County clerk and deputies skipped a tour of the city to take a "busman's holiday" and visit the Sarasota County answer to the space problem—extensive use of microfilm.

Burns Severe To Avon Park Power Employee

Durrah Martin, a long time Avon Park resident, was in Walker Memorial Hospital this week with severe electrical burns received while on a service call South of Sebring last Friday afternoon.

Martin, 34, suffered severe burns to both hands, arms and to his left foot when he came into contact with a hot wire while attempting to refuse a transformer at Horne's Restaurant.

The charge knocked the Florida Power Employee free from the hot wire, but thanks to a safety belt, he did not fall to the ground. Martin however, hung suspended head down about 30 feet in the air until a Sebring Utilities bucket truck rescued him.

Martin is president of the Avon Park Firemen's Association. He has been an employee of the utility company for 27 years and this was his first mishap with a hot wire.

The injured man was reported to be improving at press time.

Arraignment Set For Monday In Criminal Cases

Two accused persons are to be arraigned in Circuit Court on Monday, June 18.

Arraignment date was set Tuesday after the court had appointed defense counsel for Mary Lee Vail and William Houston Privette.

Harry Lee is to defend the Avon Park Negroes who are accused in the fatal shooting of her common law husband.

Richard Rust is to represent Privette. The white man is charged with a hot wire shot which killed his wife.

The Spring Term Grand Jury has indicted Harry Lee for first degree murder. The Privette case is set for trial in March, and the Vail killing took place in late May.

The club is reported to be in need of a new porch, among other items.

In other action, council voted to pledge $1500 to the Avon Park Chamber of Commerce for publicity and business promotion. The pledge would become due in November. The vote for the action was 4-1 with King voting against the grant.

Summer Recitals Slated For Bok Singing Tower

Lake Wales Summer carillon recitals at the Singing Tower, built by Edward Bok, will extend from June 15th to September 10th, it was announced this week.

A 45-minute recital will be given every day, except Monday at 3 p.m. Anton Brees, bandleader, will be at the Tower of the cast bells as the first recital season since the tower was constructed in 1928.

In addition to the recitals, a radio broadcast is presented every hour following the recitals, mostly and hour strike. The grounds are open every day in the year, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. No admission charge is made, a nominal parking fee is collected.

Summer vacation to the Mountain Lake Sanctuary and Singing Tower has increased greatly in recent years. The natural elevation of the 195 feet and the green canopy of vegetation over the 60-acre sanctuary, provide a welcome retreat from the heat of the medieval music of the bells. A picnic area and refreshment house are available. The Singing Tower and surrounding Mountain Lake Sanctuary were presented to the American people for vacation, by Edward Bok, a noted writer, editor and publisher. This was his means of thanking his adopted land for the opportunities that had been offered to a poor immigrant boy from the Netherlands.

In writing of his gift, Mr. Bok said, "The purpose of it all? Simply to preach the gospel and influence of beauty reaching out to visitors through tree, shrub, flower, birds, superb architecture, the music of bells, and the sylvan setting. And a restful, quiet, beautiful spot where visitors may feel, as the sign at the entrance declares by an extract from John Burroughs, 'I come here to find myself, I am so easy to get lost in the world.'"

Flagger County, Florida, leads all counties in the state in gum production. Turpentine operators are shipping 412,800 tons of gum which is distilled to make turpentine and rosin.

Florida's 16 pulp mills operating at full capacity can produce 8,430 tons in a 24-hour period.

Pre-College Plan At U. of Florida

Gainesville—A pre-college workshop for students entering the University of Florida as freshmen this fall will be conducted on campus, June 16 through July 27.

Purpose of the six weeks special study course is to aid the recent high school graduates in improving their skills in reading, writing and logical thinking.

This will be the second such workshop offered by the University and the Florida Institute for Continuing University Studies.

Dr. Philip Bradshaw, associate professor of English and director of the workshop, said the session "better prepares the student for his university experiences, both in the classroom and campus activities."

Each participant is considered a resident of the University of Florida and must abide by the student rules and regulations as prescribed by the Dean of Men and Dean of Women.

Registration will be limited to the first 150 students who apply, according to Dr. Bradshaw. He said that invitations have been sent to students on the basis of scores received in the placement tests by senior high school students this spring and admission acceptance to the September, 1962, University of Florida freshman class prior to May, 1962.

Daily workshop meetings will cover discussion and writing, improvement of reading, study skills, career counseling, library exploration, campus orientation, and testing.

benches and picnic tables will be provided and evening showings of movies is anticipated. Seats special Atlantic and Seaboard Railroad trains will be scheduled during the season. The L. trains in 1962 provide an opportunity to see the Tampa and St. Petersburg area. The citizens, in all of whom, as volunteers, much of their time is spent in the service of the state, are entitled to a special privilege. Industrial Head Urges Students To Seek Summer Jobs Right Away

TALLAHASSEE—State Industrial Commission Chairman A. Wesley Brown warns Florida's young people that job finding this summer will not be easy.

Last summer only one-third of the top-age job-seekers were successful over the nation and the prediction for this year is substantially the same.

During 1961 there were 27,500 jobs in the state, but only 10,000 were filled by young people. Brown said that many companies are leveling up summer work or full time jobs, giving their present employees overtime rather than taking on temporary help.

The Florida Child Labor Law is designed to protect the young worker by assuring that his job is safe and suitable. However, in administering this law, the Commission has long followed the policy of urging employers to give young people chance to work to long as their education is not jeopardized. Commission child labor enforcement was the first to encourage the YES projects which are an answer to the youth employment problem at a local level.

Some of these YES projects are sponsored by various local community organizations or clubs. However, most are operated in local offices of the Commission's Florida State Employment Service which try to locate as many jobs for youth as possible. Young people seeking summer work or full time jobs should register with their local Florida Employment Service office.

Florida has the advantage over many states in that the many resort areas offer a variety of job opportunities for young people. But some establishments are licensed to serve alcoholic beverages and Brown warned both the employers and the young job seekers that both the Beverage and Child Labor Laws do not allow minors to work anywhere on the premises of such establishments. Drive-in theaters offer other job opportunities for young people but 10:00 p. m. is the legal hour.

Hopes and hours of toil and care A thousand times to be here and there Some dropped out, gave up in despair Others stepped in, with hope and a prayer Meetings and meetings And nothing settled Arguments followed, some were settled. Reports and letters, pages and pages Facts and figures, everyone rages. The goal is set, but oh so high "We'll never make it," goes the cry. Pledges made and pledges broken What to do with those unspoken. On and on, for many a year 'Till finally through a grateful tear You see a Church. And you know it's new. And God is happy, and so are you!
