ON READING THE BIBLE

"Thy word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." Psalm 119:105.

This is Universal Bible week and so we turn our attention to God's Holy Word. The bible has meant so much in the lives of all of us.

You fondly handle an old bible and say: "This was my grandmother's bible, or my mother's bible, or my father's bible." The very touch of the volume induces a feeling of reverence, for this book meant so much to someone dearly beloved.

Now, turn from your reverie and ask yourself a straightforward question: What does my bible mean to me?" Can you honestly say: "Thy word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path." It can be!

There is something at the heart of man that yearns for God. Jobs' great cry. "O that I knew where I might find him." is expressive of the ageless longing and the surging hope in the human heart.

When we turn to the bible we discover this yearning expressed as in no other book. Man reaches for God through prayer and supplication, in praise and thanksgiving, in pain and despair: "My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning." Psalm 130:6.

The bible resolves our longings. In it we are made to know that as the human hand reaches upward through the dark, a divine hand reaches down to man. God reaches for man through visions, revelations and communion and finally confronts him in Jesus Christ, the Word of God made flesh.

God looks up at you as you read the burning words of the prophets, the songs of the psalmist, the testimonies of the saints and the sinners, the cries of the penitents, the glad shouts of salvation and finally the revelation of His love in the teachings, the life, death and resurrection of His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord. God looks up in the words of promise: "If with all your heart ye truly seek me ye shall surely find me." Jermiah 29:13.

The bible makes the power of God available for our day by day living. It provides life with a Gibraltar that juts out into a story sea and stands. It gives life a light that follows every advance into the surrounding darkness. It should be read!

One of the best ways to read the bible is to follow John Ruskins' advice: "try to be present, as if in the body, at each recorded event in the life of the Redeemer." In other words be one with those about Jesus. Watch as the Master calls Zaccheus down from the sycamore tree. Go home with them. Listen as Jesus says to the despised tax collector: "Today salvation has come to this house—For the Son of man came to seek and to save the lost." St. Luke 19:9-10. And suddenly you are reading about Jesus and you, for you will be standing where his contemporaries stood. Jesus did not scorn Zaccheus, he loved him. You will discover that he loves you, when you cannot love yourself. He forgives you, when you can't forgive yourself. He believes in you, when you no longer believe in yourself. You begin to realize that through Christ God is involved with you in life as you live it, hurt by your hurts, and grieved by your sins.

Let's think back to childhood days. A child disobeys his mother and insists that he has done no wrong. She is hurt. The child wanders away and becomes increasingly miserable because he knows that he has hurt his mothers' feelings. Finally he can stand it no longer and runs to her. Throwing himself into her arms he cries out: "Mom, I am sorry. I was wrong." She forgives the child because her love is real and deep.

Now, that same boy is grownup. He does wrong. He rationalizes and tries to bluff his way through. As the moral pressure increases, he becomes more and more contrite of heart until at long last he cries out: "O God, I am sorry. I have been so wrong."

This can come to pass as we read the pages of the bible. For Christ cares for you. He isn't just saying to Zaccheus, "I am coming to live awhile in your house" but he is saying to you, "I am coming to live in your heart."

In reading the bible we go from one divine encounter to another and each opens a window in our lives.

Bible reading is not dull. It can be one of the most exciting experiences in your life. How exciting it would be, if you saw God. Well, sooner or later you will see God, the Father that Jesus revealed, and that will be the most wonderful moment in your life.

Maybe the light will come with some golden text of scripture. An old preacher once quoted the following text to a young, depressed man of the cloth. "And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone: for I do always those things which please him." St. John 8:20. And then he told him how that text once lifted him out of the miry clay of despondency. For in it he found a sense of divine mission and the realization that he was never left alone. "You are not alone," he said, "the centuries fight for you, eternity is your ally; you are in the keeping of one who holds you with love that will not let you go."

Surely, when we take the Holy Bible down to read, which we ought to do day by day, we should do it with the prayer: "Reveal thyself, Oh God! Teach me to love thy sacred word and view my Saviour there."

Lake Letta Court News

The court is glad to see the return of the Harold Beebe family who were our guests last year and enjoyed the area so much, they purchased a travel trailer and came back. Mr. and Mrs. are both avid golf fans and tell me they were very pleased with the new Avon Park Golf Course, and found a friendly response from personnel and other players in the area.

The Lloyd Millers also are back from their home in Minnesota via Tulsa, Oklahoma where they visited with their daughter and family. The Millers have a new grandson added to their family. Nice to have you good folks with us again.

The ladies of the court had a get together on the shuffle court with the men kindly assisting and following with their own games. The results, new shufflers and lots of fun for all.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips were Mr. Elvin Phillips of Millersburg, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Orval Marshall of Syracuse, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gerrard, South Bend, Ind. and Mr. Wyly Phillips of Sebring, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Phillips spent Sunday afternoon visiting with Col. Phillips and Mrs. Phillips of Lake Wales, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boland from Dinner Lake called upon the Lloyd Carpenters on their return from Goodell, Iowa.

We all send our thoughts and wishes for a speedy recovery to Mr. Charles Barnes who is at Walker Memorial.

Rotary Report

Our guest speaker for the meeting, Wednesday, December 6, was Mr. Joe Ward, Avon Park High School. Mr. Ward spoke about the educational problems of the state which has been so much in controversy during the past year. The operation of the state's minimum foundation program was one of the problems discussed. Mr. Ward told of the intention of the minimum foundation program to guarantee education for all children of the state with the state originally providing 75 percent of the educational costs. Now, however, he said the state has not lived up to its obligations to this minimum foundation program in that the state's share of educational costs has become less and less through the years until now it is only about 42 percent. This in turn has required an increase in local ad valorem taxes to provide for education.

Now Florida ranks 27th nationally in average teacher salaries and 34th in per pupil expenditures for education. The rapid population growth of the state has caused many problems and without proper funds available it has been impossible to provide adequate facilities for the increasing number of school children.

He said that when Governor Kirk was a candidate for the office of Governor he advocated a much different program for education in the State than he now proposes and that actions of the Florida Educational Assn. have been necessary to help correct deficiencies in educational needs. Mr. Ward also said that the great majority of teachers in Florida he believes do not want to engage in this type of activity. That approximately 90 percent of the teachers were in agreement with the policy advocated by the Florida Education Association and were in favor of its activity although admiting that drastic action of the Association and teachers may have a detrimental effect on school children today, it would in the long run have a great beneficial effect in the future. Now the Florida Education Association is committed to follow the recommendations of the Governor's Commission on Education.

Air-Mail Deadlines End December 18

This week is the deadline for Christmas mail according to Postmaster Bob Young. All surface mail deadlines have past except for local Avon Park mail. All Air-Mail deadlines will end on December 18 for parcels and greeting cards to distant states.

The Post Office Department nationwide is handling more mail than ever before and suggests that all holiday mail be in the post office by the end of this week.

Early mailing gives the post office a break by not loading more mail into already overcrowded buildings and transportation lines than the postal system can handle.

You can help the post office by separating greeting cards into local and out-of-town bundles. Carriers have delivered a supply of these labels to their patrons, and they are available in the lobby of the Post Office.

Special Christmas hours are in effect at the post office, and the service windows will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday until after Christmas.
