FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH Float, most religious division winner, shows angels hovering over Joseph (Herman Sizemore) and Mary (Pat Pickett) with the infant Jesus, adoring shepherds led to the manger by a star.

Christmas Season Is Opened With Parade

The second Annual Christmas Parade, sponsored by the Progressive Business Men's Association ushering in the Christmas season was viewed by thousands of spectators along the Mall and especially the railroad station where Santa Claus greeted the children. If possible, this year's parade excelled last years and plans are already under way for a larger and better parade for next year, so states Gordon Wooliscroft, chairman of the parade, who did an excellent job this year.

The parade starting at the Food Fair, continuing to Verona St., up the Mall to the railroad station was headed by the City police and State Troopers, followed by the American Legion flag bearers, merchants and city officials.

Avon Park's outstanding High School Band in their Grenedier uniforms headed by the high stepping majorettes, gave proof of their "Superior" rating they received last Saturday during the competition of bands among the counties.

There were 35 entries in the parade, with $20.00 cash prizes going to three catagories of floats. Best Religious Float awarded to the First Baptist Church for their float of angels, shepherds at the nativity scene. Best Commercial Float went to Lanes Records and T.V., and most original float to Thompson's T.V. for the Carolers and Manger scene. Honorable mention to Walker Memorial Hospital float, celebrating their 20th year, on which they had outstanding workers at the hosiptal with the Pink Ladies and Candy Stripers, doctors and nurses. Honorable mention to Highlands School for Girls, Junior Womans Club, Hoods Dairy and the Pathfinder Club of Seventh-day Adventists. Smoky the Bear was very appropriate for the Florida Forestry Service at this season. Avon Park High School is assured of an excellent band when the Junior High School Band showed their musical ability and marching precision with their tiny majorettes, taking their work so serious.

Santa arrived on the fire truck and greeted children, especially the tiny ones, at the railroad station under the special light provided by the Florida Power Corp., giving candy to all. Mr. Williams of Brentwood Court was really jolly in his role of Santa.

Mr. Wooliscroft selected five impartial, non-business, unknown people to judge the floats, which they did by handing in their choice on cards, the ones receiving the most votes were awarded the cash prizes.

Mr. Gordon Wolliscroft sincerely thanks all those who participated in any way, to make the parade the success it was. Especially to the newspapers, radio stations and the police force for their outstanding job in handling the traffic and making the Annual Christmas Parade safe and sane.

Christmas is now around the corner, it has been officially ushered in. May the residents of Avon Park show their appreciation and patronize the merchants and business men who sponsored this fine parade.

Red Devils Win First Basketball Game Before Large Crowd 53 to 52

The Avon Park Red Devils won their first game of the young 1967-68 basketball season by holding off a last ditch rally by the Frostproof Bulldogs, winning 53 to 52. Junior Donald Strange led the Red Devils attack with 19 points:

Jerry Stephenson and Bill Franklin poured in 13 points apiece to lead the bulldogs.

Avon Park led at one stage in the contest by ten points but steady shooting by Frostproof kept the large crowd on the edge of their seats throughout the thrilling contest.

Jim Williams led the Red Devils in rebounds with 17 and Kenny Dixon had 14.

With 12 seconds to play in the fourth and final period Don Strange missed a free throw and Frostproof got the rebound off the charity toss, but came down the floor and missed their attempt at pulling the ball game out of the fire.

Avon Park won the B squad game 65 to 28.

Both Frostproof and Avon Park now have 1 and 1 records on the season.

Ridge Air Conditioning features the Carrier Air Conditioning line and will continue to do so under the new ownership.

Council Approves $3000 For Sewerage System

After a two hour discussion period, the Avon Park City Council on a Motion by Councilman Durrah Martin and seconded by Councilman Milton Howard, passed unanimously by the Council.

Councilmen met with Emory Dawkins and John McManus of the Orlando Engineering firm of Dawkins and Associates.

This updated survey is needed because of the building of South Florida Junior College within the next 18 months and will include the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and the proposed new National Guard Armory. These projects were not included in a previous survey prior to the building of the new sewerage treatment plant.

Accreditation Seen For Junior College

South Florida Junior College has passed another hurdle to gaining full accreditation earlier than is generally possible. Dr. William A. Stallard, South Florida president, has been notified by the Junior College Division of the State Department of Education that SFJC has been accepted into candidacy for membership by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

State and local school officials said today they are very pleased at this "accomplishmfent on the part of the college which has been in session for less than one and one-half years."

As a formally accepted candidacy for membership in Southern Association, the junior college is now eligible to request a visit by a full accreditation team. Membership could possibly come within a year, far ahead of the usual accreditation time-schedule for new junior colleges.

County Denies Welfare To State Drop-Outs

Highlands County residents who dropped off state welfare rolls because they do not want to have property they leave go to the state, are not going to be allowed to go on county welfare rolls.

Enactment of a lien law is saving the state of Florida about $12 thousand per month in welfare funds, but it is putting pressure on the counties' welfare officers.

County Welfare Director Anna Dee Church said many aged welfare recipients dropped from the state welfare rolls when the new state law was enacted requiring recipients to give the state a lien on propery so that after the recipients' death, the state might recover funds.

"Welfare recipients who want to pass their property on to their children are leaving welfare, or children who want to protect their rights to the property are forcing their parents to drop, but then they are applying for county aid," Mrs. Church said.

The Highlands County commissioners quickly told the Welfare Director, "The county should not assume this kind of burden. You are not to add to the county welfare roll any of the people going off the state rolls."

Mrs. Church said the State Welfare Department sends the county reports on persons going off state aid, and she promised to check it carefully.

She told the commissioners there is currently some confusion about county welfare policies on payments to aid recipients. "The county never gives checks to individuals," she said.

"The county welfare funds may be used to pay medical bills or to supply groceries, but the bills are paid directly to the institution or doctor making the charge, and food is supplied by grocery order. We do not give money to anyone," she said.

The number one and two Christmas sales volume will be guns and fishing tackle according to coast to coast retailer survey.

Commission Argue About Road Work

In a heated exchange at the Highlands County commission meeting Tuesday, Freshman Commissioner Jean Whitaker denied he had authorized county road crews' working on private property.

Mrs. Ellen Johnson and several other residents of Citrus Lakes Colony appeared to complain about roads within the subdivision which is West of US 27, North of Lake Placid.

Commissioner Whitaker said the roads had been dedicated to the county but had not been accepted for county maintenance. He suggested that county road crews could do some basic work on the roads but the property owners would need to collect funds to pay for materials.

Mrs. Johnson, who took the lead in collecting the money, told the commission Tuesday that a disagreement had arisen between Citrus Lakes Colony residents and the commissioner about the plan.

"This led to sharp divisions in the neighborhood and much unpleasantness," she said and readily agreed with Whitaker's complaint that she had "really blown up" when she talked with him. Tempers wore thin again Tuesday when Mrs. Johnson said the county crews had been taken off Citrus Lakes Colony roads to work on private drives for big taxpayers.

"Citizens can't be rated by how much tax they pay," she complained. "I am a first class citizen."

Mrs. Mary Woodley, who lives on the edge of the sub-division said she pays $215 in county taxes "even with homestead exemption, and I do not get anything for my money."

The commissioners said the county could not accept for maintenance the road where she lives because it is too narrow to meet county specifications, but the board members agreed to meet with a Citrus Lakes Colony delegation to tour the subdivision roads.

"After all this trouble started, I found out that the county had built some of those roads some years ago," Whitaker said Tuesday. Residents who knew the county had built the roads could not understand why they were being asked for money to improve them now.

"Never, never have I accused Mr. Whitaker of stealing our money," Mrs. Johnson said, "but I felt we are being mistreated."

Whitaker denied that county crews had worked on private property, but outside the meeting he told reporters that a crew had been sent to remove debris it left on a driveway when it worked on Lake Francis Road in the Citrus Lakes Colony neighborhood.

Later in the meeting the commissioners took pains to explain that work being planned on a canal on the Oscar Clements property is "in completion of an agreement made with Mr. Clements when he gave the county the right-of-way for Nine-Mile Grade improvements."

Law Forbids Borrowing

Commissioners told a delegation from the new juvenile home building committee that state law forbids the county's being party to a bank loan. Rev. Tom W. Jones, who was spokesman for the delegation, said a Sebring bank had offered to make a loan to Youth Care at five percent interest "if the county would guarantee the loan."

Jones said the Youth Care building fund has $18,700 cash and is contemplating borrowing about $33,000. "We see no reason why Youth Care could not make the loan payments of $4,200 per year, but the bank said county backing would make it possible for us to have a lower interest rate and save that two percent per year," he said.

Commissioners Cecil Skipper and Whitaker urged consideration be given a bond issue for the juvenile home funds, but the delegation quickly demurred. "Bond issues are failing all over the place," Jones said, "and that is a slow route. We need the home today. We agreed with the city of Sebring to begin building on the land the city gave by February."

County Attorney Hue Nunnallee said, "You understand that the board is sympathetic, but legally it cannot guarantee a loan."

Other Business

In other business Tuesday the commissioners voted to waive collection of the $10 fee the Health Department has been authorized to charge for sending away an animal's head for rabies tests. Chairman McIntyre said some people who objected to paying the fee had not brought the heads of animals which should have been checked for rabies. "Many people will not object to paying but when people cannot or will not, we should waive the fee so the tests will be made," Whitaker said.

Highlands County to Enforce New Regulations On Tax Assessments for Agricultural Lands

Highlands County officials are anticipating no major problems in implementing the state's new regulations on tax assessments for agricultural lands.

The new law which goes into operation January 1 provides that an agricultural land classification may be assigned only to those lands for which such classification is specifically sought.

In the past land used for agricultural purposes was automatically assessed as such using formulas related to the average income per acre as a key factor in setting the assessment.

Application for this type of assessment is the principal change made by the law which was passed by the 1967 Legislature but became law without the Governor's approval.

The new law creates "county agricultural zoning boards" to be comprised of the board of county commissioners as voting members, the county tax assessor and county agricultural agent as ex-officio members.

Highlands County Tax Assessor J. W. Billy Martin is not happy with the term "agricultural zoning board."

"This board actually is dealing with land classifications and should not be confused with zoning in the usual sense. This can be very hard to understand in Highlands County where the county commissioners are beginning to work with a new zoning director and appointing a county zoning board.

"The new state law is concerned with classification of assessments," Martin asserted.

In this county the newly named zoning director Jack Short will be working with the "agricultural zoning board" in an unofficial way to "obtain background for the county-wide zoning."

County Commission Chairman Carl McIntyre said this week that forms are being prepared for landowners to use in applying for agricultural land classification. He said the new forms would be similar to those which must be filed annually for homestead exemption.

Unlike the homestead exemption, the agricultural classification will not be sought each year. "So long as there are no changes in conditions, the classification may be expected to be continued from year to year," the Tax Assessor said.

The new law does provide that the county board will review agricultural classifications annually and reclassify lands withdrawn from farming uses

THROUGH the generosity of Charles Boardman of 7 West Pleasant St. in Avon Park the Sheriffs Boys Ranch in Live Oak will benefit from Mr. Boardman's tools and equipment that he has used in his shop for many years. Deputy Sheriffs Charles Snelgrove and Bob Barringer along with J. C. Murdock not shown in the above pictures helped to load the equipment on a pickup truck. Boardman and his wife have been residents of Avon Park since 1953. He recently celebrated his 88th birthday and wished to donate the tools to the Sheriffs Boys Ranch through the Highlands County Sheriffs Department. Sheriff Coker went to the Boardman residence the day before to make arrangements to get the tools. Boardman worked for many years as a draftsman for the General Electric firm around the country and worked with other firms before coming to Avon Park for his health.

Bill Thomas and John Simpson are on their way to the great Navy life!

John and Bill enlisted in the "Cache" program, four months ago. This is a 120 day delay program where the men are enlisted into the Naval Reserve as Seamen Recruits and at the end of the 120 days, they reported to Jacksonville Dec. 6 for swearing into the regular Navy. On this same day, they departed for Great Lakes, Ill. for Recruit training of nine (9) weeks after which they will be granted 14 days leave before reporting to their first assignment.

The nice part of this Delay Program is, while they are waiting to go to active duty, the four months count toward their longevity (time in pay grade and pay purposes) and wind up with more pay, to start with, than their counterp[illegible] just enlisting.

Panthers Face St. Petersburg In Wauchula Thursday Night

Seldom does an early season game carry so much importance as does the basketball game between St. Petersburg and South Florida Junior College in Wauchula Thursday night at 8:00.

At present both teams are undefeated in Conference play, each sporting perfect 2-0 records. St. Petersburg is 4-1 overall, while South Florida is 3-4 overall. Also still fresh in the minds of several hundred spectators is the wild melee that ensued the game in Wauchula last year when a free for all broke out at the end of the game.

The two teams have both beaten Florida College and Lake Sumter and appear to be about even by comparable score.

The Panthers should have sharp shooting Jr. Gale and Harry Holley back after several games out due to injuries. Also rounding into shape are Skipper Gause, Rocky Kitchens, and Ted Butler. Alonzo Whitehead seems to be overcoming the 5 year layoff from high school ball and is improving with every game. John Battillo, John Polk, Ralph Starratt, and Tim Gillis, all Freshmen, have filled in very well in recent games. Polk and Thomas Williams have shown tremendous improvement recently.

"We still haven't found that spark that will make us into a real solid club. We have played the best in the state and have won 3 and lost 4. However, there isn't a game we have played that the players thought they should have lost. We are hoping to find that spark against St. Petersburg. We know that against real good competition too many mistakes will beat you as evidenced by our 103 to 109 loss to Miami and our 114 to 188 loss to the University of Florida Freshmen."

One of the largest crowds in recent years is expected to jam Joel Evers Gym for the St. Pete game.

PANTHERS LOSE THREE OVER WEEKEND

Over the weekend the Panthers lost three ball games — Indian River 130-93, Miami Dade 103 to 109, and University of Fla. Freshmen 114 to 118.

In Fort Pierce, the Panthers took a physical beating as well as a game beating. We had two bashed noses and a split eye in a rough and tumble game. The Panthers made a game of it until about 8 minutes to go when Indian River pulled steadily ahead. The Panthers will play Indian River in Wauchula in January.

In the Miami game Ted Butler 34, Skip Gause 18, Battillo and Kitchens 14 each, Alonzo Whitehead 8 and Tim Gillis 5 did the scoring for SFJC. Saturday night in Miami the Panthers lost to Miami Dade 103 to 109 after beating the Jaguars 129 to 112 in Avon Park last Tuesday. The Panthers missed their play, and Jr. Gale was sidelined with an injured leg. The Panthers made a run for it coming from 14 points down to 4 just as the game ended with Miami Dade sinking two free throws to edge the Panthers by 6 points.

In the Indian River game Skip Gause 20, Rocky Kitchens 15, Ted Butler 13, Alonzo Whitehead 15, Thomas Williams 10, John Polk 7, Ralph Starratt 6, John Battillo 5, and Tim Gillis 2, did the scoring for South Florida Jr. College. Indian River gained several gratitus points on 5 technical fouls called on Panther Coach Terrell.

Monday night the Panthers faced the Univ. of Florida in a nip and tuck game and came out on the short end of a 114 to 118 score. The lead changed hands 10 different times in the last 10 minutes, with the U. of F. getting a lead of 102 to 100 on two free throws and hung on to gain a close 4 point victory. Ted Butler 41, Skip Gause 33, Junior Gale 14, John Battillo 7, Tom Williams 6, Rocky Kitchens 8, Alonzo Whitehead 2, and Harry Holley 2 did the scoring for South Florida.

Rotary Report

Bill Bevis State Representative from Polk, Sumner Counties presented a most interesting legislative report on the activities on the recent Tallahassee legislature. The capitol in Tallahassee was organized in 1823. In 1880 the present capitol building was constructed. It was stressed that even though this building has served ably through the years that at present time it is in much need of repair.

One hundred and nineteen men which were present on this legislature in the house consisted of 49 attorneys with a balance of men representing a cross section of the people of the state including insurance representatives, teachers, bankers, contractors, salesmen, engineers, as well as other occupations. During this session 2300 bills were passed by this group of men with 48 bills being vetoed. The bills passed are now being audited in the governor's office. A few of the bills which were passed are such as the anti-pollution bill, uniform state retirement plan, highway safety program, and the citrus stabilization bill. Florida has been hailed as the first to instigate the highway safety program. Bills were approved were also amended two or three times each. With this in mind the session becomes quite a full time program.

Florida is a rapidly growing state. As an example of this growth, Mr. Bevis stated that Polk county needs a new 60 room school plant each year. This is but one instance of the rapid growth in Florida.

A current trend is for allowing more control of the state to be cared for at the county level, therefore allowing the people who are closest to the problem to become most involved.

or—under a new provision—reclassify as nonagricultural lands "when there is contiguous urban or metropolitan development on two or more sides and when the board finds that the continued use of such lands for agricultural purposes will act as a deterrent to the timely and orderly expansion of the community."

Chairman McIntyre said, "We do not foresee this causing any trouble for this county still has quite a bit of land for expansion without changing any agricultural classifications, but the law should be helpful in our larger cities—like Miami or Orlando—where some owner may insist on keeping his orange grove right in the middle of town.

"Under this new law he can keep his grove, but he'll have to pay a bigger tax bill," McIntyre said.

The county board may require anyone who is applying for an agricultural zoning to produce records, including income tax returns, to prove that some significant income is being derived from the land to be classified as agricutural.

"The size of the parcel is less important than the income derived, because some types of crops produce a very high yield on a small acreage," McIntyre said.

The old law had specified that the agricultural land assessment could be applied on "an acreage basis" only to lands used in "bona fide farming, pasture, grove or forestry operations."

The new law is specific and defines "agricultural lands" to include "horticulture, floriculture, viticulture, forestry, dairy, livestock, poultry, bee, pisciculture where the land is used principally for the production of tropical fish and all forms of farm products and farm production.'"

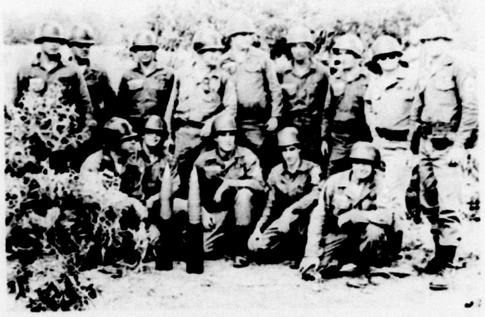
National Magazine View On Guard Refuted



GROUP PHOTO of members of the Avon Park and Frostproof units of the National Guard on maneuvers at Ft. Stewart, Ga., 1966.

CAPTAIN I. C. "Curt" McKenzie accepting a plaque presented to Btry C 3rd How Bn 116 Arty by Rodney Lane, president, Avon Park Lion's Club. First Sgt. O. P. Gentry is on the left.

On the 20 of October, 1967, Time magazine published an article entitled "It's Time to Change the Guard", and a week later, on October 27th, Life magazine published an equally uncomplimentary story entitled "The National Guard — Awake or Asleep?" Both these articles were extremely uncomplimentary of the National Guard. Mr. William McWhirter, who wrote the Life article, is, willfully or not, guilty of the old debater's trick of proclaiming a false premise, and then building his case from there.

Major General James F. Cantwell, President, National Guard Assn. of the United States, in a letter to the Editor-in-Chief of Time-Life Inc. stated "Time-Life descended to a new journalistic low — in approving as scurrilous and unfactual a comment on the Guard as the article bearing Mr. William McWhirter's byline.

"It is inconceivable," the General continued," that Time could assemble so many facts and so much performance data, as it did in preparing its recent essay on the Guard, yet misinterpret and even distort that information to fit an obviously preconceived editorial position.

The tragedy is not that the National Guard and its thousands of dedicated and competent members were maligned so wantonly, but that your articles will completely mislead millions of Americans on a vital National Defense Activity. Though you have done a disservice to the National Guard, you have done, by far, a greater disservice to your millions of readers. They look to Life and Time for honest, factual, in-depth reporting, not the bias and distortion which characterized the articles on the Guard."

In his article McWhirter repeatedly refers to the very men who helped him write and acquire his information as "the comic soldier". Again and again, throughout his diatribe, as if he were trying to drum home a point not too well taken, McWhirter refers to the National Guardsmen as "the comic soldiers". This is a distortion and an unwarranted label. In this instance the writer is generalizing, and in writing, as in other fields, generalizing is a dangerous and inexact procedure. The Guard, just as the other branches of the Armed Forces, has its "Beetle Baileys" and "Sgt Snorkels". No one, and no outfit is perfect. But the National Guard, as well as the regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps continually works to eliminate its marginal producers, and to weed out those who cannot be properly motivated. To be perfectly fair, however, it is easier to eliminate the undesirable types from the regular branches of the service, because they are on duty full time, and can be identified much quicker.

The Guard has produced many soldiers of great merit and high rank. Pvt. Rodger Young (Ohio); Major Tom Howie, the legendary "Major of St. Lo." (Virginia); the immortal "brave Captain" of Ernie Pyle's "Brave Men" (Capt. Henry Waskow, Tex.); General Earle G. Wheeler, present chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff (D.C.); Astronauts "Deke" Slayton and "Rusty" Schweikart, and thousands of equally dedicated, competent fighting men. Comic soldiers? Not on your life.

On page 86 of Life magazine Mr. McWhirter describes the typical Guardsman as having "unpolished boots, unbuttoned shirt, uncut, uncombed hair." Yet at the bottom of the page are about twenty Guardsmen whose boots are polished, whose uniforms are pressed, and whose appearance in every way refutes the author's description. Some writer! His uncalled for characterization of Major General Winston P. Wilson, Chief of the National Guard Bureau, according to General Cantwell, "was in such poor taste as to be repulsive to decent citizens."

The article in Time stated that "The National Guard generally is not fit for either of its dual roles." This statement directly contradicts evaluations expressed by many of the nation's top military leaders. Who, in your opinion, is more qualified to judge military effectiveness — men like those quoted below, or a magazine writer?

General Earl G. Wheeler: "Through long and rather close contact — I have found two factors to be constant with the Army National Guard. First, as a military organization, it is consistently better than the material with which it is equipped. Second, when the chips are down, the Guard will surmount every obstacle that confronts it and get the job done."

Undersecretary of the Army David E. McGiffert: On the State role: "In its State mission, the Guard has been faced with — a lot of criticism — criticism which has given a distorted picture of the Guard's performance. For the fact is, that in city after city, the Guard has done a first class job."

On the Federal role: "The selected Reserve Force (of which 79 percent is Army Guard) is in a higher state of readiness than any reserve component force has ever been while in non-mobilized status. The reorganizations—will permit the upgrading of the entire National Guard to a comparable level of readiness."

Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown: "No longer do we regard the Guard as simply a stand-by force. For some time, we have been conceiving of it as an actual in-being supplement to the Regular forces, even while it still holds its reserve status."

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara battled for two years to have all organized units of the Army and Air Force Reserve components placed under Guard control. Failing that, Army leaders proposed that all combat and combat support units of the Army's reserve components be shifted to the Guard. Neither proposal received Congressional approval. The Secretary did not base his proposals on affection for t' · Guard, but rather on the realization that an all-Guard system would produce the best units and most efficient management.

The primary job of the National Guard is to back up the active Army as a trained reserve of combat troops. Historically it was a compromise — allowing us to keep the unpopular "standing army" at a minimum which assuring that a large number of trained and organized men stood ready for emergencies. The Guard's federal function is still to buy time. If the President called on the National Guard today to provide a division for Vietnam, one could be landed there in four months, ready to fight. To build a division from scratch, starting with draftees, and get it there, would take ten months.

In recognition of the Guard's federal role as a reserve, the U.S. government pays 90 percent of the Guard's annual $1 billion upkeep bill. To keep so many men — 418,500 in the Army National Guard and 82,700 in the Air Guard — on active duty would cost a minimum of $5 billion a year.

When the Guard is not needed to fight a war, its units are available to the governors of their home states as disciplined and trained units that can help deal with civil disorder or natural disaster. No state could afford to maintain a force of 20,000 men on a standby basis to cope with an occasional riot or hurricane.

Among other things, Time magazine stated that "the real commanders of the National Guard are not the Pentagon Generals, but the State Governors, who are free to hand out guard officerships tc friends or political allies. Not so. Every National Guard Officer must meet professional standards established by the Army and Air Force, before he can be promoted. The standards are identical to or higher than those used in the regular Army. Qualifications are checked by a Federal board of which at least one member must be an officer of the Active service. A special board appointed by the secretary of the Army or Air Force passes on all general officer appointments or promotions, to insure that all applicants meet Federal qualifications. Each board contains at least one regular Army or Air Force officer. An appointment may be withheld from any individual who does not pass the stringent qualifications.

The fact that the National Guard is State controlled is set forth as a negative value by Time magazine, but on closer inspection it proves to be a source of strength rather than weakness, because it permits direct State involvement in national defense, and encourages greater participation and support by individual citizens. It uses community and State pride to produce more effective military units, for the National Guard of today is the same basic idea that formed the old State militia which fought the battles of Bunker Hill, Concord and Lexington. Financially it is a gold mine, for the states contribute about $100,000,000 per year to the Guard's support. Finally, it saves the American taxpayer hundreds of millions of dollars annualy by enabling one body of troops, with one outlay of money, to perform two vital functions.

There is a plan to reorganize the National Guard now in the process of being carried out, which will not only save the taxpayers money, but give them more for their dollar. There seems to be some misinterpretation of this plan, because some people believe that the States have balked at accepting it. This is not so. All the State Adjutants General have agreed, not once, but for the third time, to go along with Mr. McNamara, but they did want the Army spokesmen to sit down and discuss plans with them, lest the forces turn out to be inadequate for the job that had to be handled for the States.

Another fallacy which Time and Life seem to believe is that many men join the National Guard to dodge the draft. Actually it is almost impossible for this to happen, because it is not easy to get into the National Guard. Most units have a long waiting list, and if the unit is up to strength, it can enlist no more.

I talked with the 1st Sergeant of the local National Guard Unit, Ollie P. Gentry, about enlistments and what each prospective guardsman had to go through to get into the local group. He stated that each applicant for a berth in the local unit was screened according to previous military experience, age, draft status, and ability to qualify by taking a preliminary test. If the applicant passed all these preliminary qualifications, he is placed on a waiting list. Ollie stated that his unit is up to strength at the present time, 77 enlisted men, and 5 officers. Three of the five officers are graduates of the Artillery and Missile School at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. The other two are currently enrolled. Of the enlisted personnel, two of the top-ranking non-commissioned officers are graduates of the 3rd Army NCO Academy at Jackson, South Carolina. They were graded 3rd and 26th in a class of 103 which contained 98 members of regular Army personnel. Eighteen of the local NCO's have completed extension courses, and all personnel have completed tests and qualified on their particular job in the outfit, and have qualified on their particular weapon. The unit NBC team (Nuclear, Biological & Chemical Warfare) consists of 2 NCO's who have completed regular Army schools. One was graded number one in a class of 48 which consisted of 46 regular Army personnel with ranks ranging from Corporal to Major. The other was number one student in a class of 27 National Guardsmen. The people of Highlands, Hardee and Polk Counties have reason to be mighty proud of the personnel and Unit citations which have been won over the years by our National Guard Unit. Last year the boys came back from training maneuvers at Ft. Stewart with the top award for all units in the State of Florida, the Eisenhower Trophy. Many medals have been won in rifle and pistol competitions in the 3rd Army matches. In addition to the two weeks field training which they take each summer, our boys are extremely fortunate to have a fine location like the Avon Park Bombing Range close at hand for weekend overnight bivouac training.

Sgt. Gentry also informed me that some of the Army National Guard Units maintain Nike-Hercules missile sites on a full time basis. This is made possible by using a volunteer firemen schedule system. This allows the units to stand watch around the clock in shifts. They maintain communications, scan the radar, and keep all machinery operational. The remainder of the unit, the part timers, can be gathered at the site in short order when an alert is sounded. They all train on the sites and thus are competent in their assigned jobs.

The Air National Guard has a similar program, called "Runway Alert". This consists of selected air bases around the country at which one or more Air National Guard crews stand by with armed and ready fighter-interceptor aircraft 24 hours a day. These planes operate under control of the North American Air Defense Command and are used to intercept unidentified aircraft. Both the Nike-Hercules and the Runway Alert programs are integrated into continental air defense and are active defense missions. No other reserve component has ever been involved in active, full time defense operations of this type before.

First Sergeant Gentry informed me that after the reorganization of the National Guard, which is currently taking place, there will be eight high-priority divisions, 18 high-priority brigades, and hundreds of smaller units. The move is towards fewer units, but with every unit to be maintained at about 90 pct. of its wartime strength. The Defense Department has also promised more modern equipment, and more of it than they now have.

The Air National Guard has 26 transport squadrons, 22 air defense units, 23 tactical fighter squadrons, and ground organizations to keep them flying. With more than 2000 reasonably modern aircraft, the Ai· National Guard is the sixtl .argest air force in the world.

To sum up, the National Guard does not set itself above criticism, but it is constantly working towards making its existing units better fighting machines, and training its personnel to be the best part time army it is possible to build. They only ask that if you must find fault with the way they operate, base your criticism on facts, not on some writer's imagination or personal predjudice.

Bowling News

The Ridge Bowling Association concluded its First Annual 'Bobby Harden' Memorial Heart Fund Tournament this past week.

A total of 171 bowlers participated, donating $85.50 for the Heart Fund. With all the scores tabulated, the winner was Russell Smith of Avon Park, bowling in the Orange-Belt league with a 151 average. He put together games of 205, 185 and 171 for total of 561, plus a handicap of 102 giving him a 663 series.

The dedication of the beautiful Plaque, and a replica of same suitably engraved with above winners name will be awarded on Sunday, Dec. 17, 1967 at 1:30 p.m. at the Grand Prix Lanes. Everyone is invited to attend.

These ceremonies will be followed at 2 p.m. by a Blind - Mixed - Doubles Tournament, which is being co-sponsored by both the Mens and Womens Bowling Association. Entries for this event are available from officers of both organizations and at Grand Prix Lanes, also Locura Lanes of Wauchula.

There is doubtless no truth to rumors that college applicants are asked if they plan to major in tests or protests.

The Library Corner

5000 Years of Gems and Jewelry was researched and written by Frances Rogers and Alice Baird in 1940. This was revised in 1947 and has again been revised and added to in 1967. One of the best ways to show the extent of this work is to name the parts and chapters.

Part I—Mysterious attractions of gems; The Gold-Smith Jewelry of Egypt; Jewelers of Phoenicia and Greece; Jewelers of Italy; Early British Isles, Middle Ages, Renaissance, 17th Century, 18th and 19th Centuries, The New World.

Part II—Gem materials; Hard, Rare, and of Great Beauty; Gem Crystals and Forms of Gem-Cutting; Beware of Imitations.

Part III—Gemstones; Semiprecious; Quartz and Ornamental Stones; Marine Gems

Do you know that you can split a diamond with a well directed blow of the hammer but you cannot scratch one unless you do it with the sharp corner of another diamond? That a ruby or sapphire will scratch all stones except a diamond? That Sir Walter Scott was responsible for the legend of sinister significance attached to the opal? The famous "Ruby of the Black Prince," treasured for centuries among the crown jewels of England and valued a half million dollars, eventually proved to be only a spinel? That a little boy playing with some bright pebbles along the banks of a river led to the discovery of the famous diamond mines of South Africa? An oriental emerald is a green sapphire? A garnet may be pink or green? The difference between a cultured and a real pearl? For the answers and a 1000 more you'll enjoy consulting 5000 Years of Gems and Jewelry.

Always Flying

Mt. Suribachi, site of the famous flag-raising by Marines during World War II on Iwo Jima, is one of the few locations in the world where authority has been given to fly the U.S. flag night and day.

Council Okays $1,500 For Humane Society

The entire county is attempting to help solve the much discussed problem of stray dogs. The subject was again discussed at great length at Monday evening's six-hour city council meeting. County Commissioner Cecil Skipper appeared as a guest of the council and explained that the county human society was short of funds which heretofore had been operated by public solicitation. Both the City of Sebring and Lake Placid had agreed to furnish some funds for the humane society. Avon Park Council fathers unanimously agreed to a proposal to provide $1500 as their share of cost. Sebring also has agreed to the $15, while Lake Placid will give $500. The County according to the plan will pick up the balance which will be decided on at next Tuesday morning's County Commissioners' meeting.

It has been suggested that a control board composed of the Police Chiefs of Avon Park, Sebring and Lake Placid and a deputy sheriff should work with the humane society. Skipper revealed that the humane society board will be revamped to work closely with the control board. The cities according to the plan will collect a $2.00 license fee on each county dog pound and set a license fee of $2.00 per dog for city license with inoculation extra.

Councilmen adopted a resolution setting up a police pension. Members of the department will have 5 percent of their salary put into the fund and 1 percent tax on casualty insurance premiums to support the fund.

Police Chief Earl Gordon recommended Wayne Bass be appointed as Sgt. of night police. The motion carried unanimously and it became effective December 9.

The council unanimously voted to give all city employees a $15 Christmas Bonus.

The council accepted the bid of Pearl Remodeling on repair and painting of the airport hangar roof. Their bid of $2,100 included a ten year warranty on material and a one year warranty on labor.

City Clerk Malcolm Crews revealed that delinquent city taxes have now been reduced from $20,583.77 to $17,573.55. This has been done by a collection drive. He also stated that personal property taxes have been reduced from $863.40 to $449.40.

Clerk Crews presented a map to the council showing where 41 more stop signs are needed around the city.

Councilmen voted to purchase 50 more signs from the county sign shop.

Councilmen voted to raise the salary of Rainey Prevatt $70 a week, since he has completed the six-month probation period.

The council hired the firm of Bunting, Tripp and Ingley to serve as city auditors at an annual cost of $2800. They will provide the council with four quarterly audits.

The next scheduled council meeting falls on Christmas Day and is to be postponed. A special meeting has been setup for Thursday evening December 28 to cover any and all city business.

Details Unveiled For Expanding Handicapped Education at Meeting

Details of Florida schools' plans for expanding educational opportunities for handicapped children were unveiled in a multi-county information program at the Highlands County Court House Annex on Wednesday morning.

Special education coordinators and coordinators of federal programs from Highlands, Hardee, DeSoto, Charlotte, Polk, Seminole, Collier, Lee, Glades and Okeechobee Counties attended the meeting here with State Department of Education staff and federal staff working with the projects under Title VI of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

"Less than $400,000 has been allocated for projects in Florida," said Thomas R. Johnson, Jr., Highlands County coordinator of pupil personnel services," and the money will be allocated to specific projects rather than pro rated among the counties with existing programs of special education."

Boy Scouts Will Sell Xmas Trees

Boy Scout Troop 156 will sell Christmas trees on the Mall starting Friday afternoon.

The trees will be the usual native Florida short leaf pine, which is popular for the holiday season.

Patronize the boys and buy your Christmas tree from the scouts.

Avon Park Seal Campaign 65% of Goal

The 1967 Christmas Seal Campaign in Avon Park has reached only 65 percent of its goal.

To date a total of $1174.65 has been contributed. The goal is $1,800.00.

Area wide $34,266.02 has been contributed which is 60 percent of the $56,700 quota.

"To help us reach our goal by Christmas", Mr. Mack Flowers Christmas Seal chairman, said "we are setting aside December 15 and 16 as DO-IT-DAYS".

"This is the annual observace of the Mid-State TB & RD Association to remind the residents of Polk, Highlands, Hardee and DeSoto counties to mail their Christmas Seal contribution".

"If everyone", Flowers continued, "will mail their contribution especially on or before these dates it will indeed be a merry Christmas".

Mr. Flowers is President of the Avon Park Volunteer Fireman's Association.

Relief Expected In Education Crisis

With a cheerful spirit in harmony with the holiday season, Highlands County Education Association President Jack Ingle is expecting a special session of the Florida Legislature which will bring some relief to the education crisis.

"The Governor's special committee has been hard at work and has received all kinds of cooperation from interested organizations. There is every indication the report will be completed on December 22 when it is due," Ingle said.

"The agreement between the teachers and the Governor was that a special meeting of the Legislature would be called, and I cannot believe that the Governor would break faith with everyone who is expecting the Legislature to meet—and I am going on faith myself that something will be done," Ingle concluded.

Spring Crisis

The Highlands County educator, who is principal of Woodlawn Elementary School, does foresee a new and worse crisis for Florida schools if the present tension between teachers and the Governor does not improve soon.

"We could have one whale of a problem in the Spring when it is time to begin assembling faculties for the 1968-69 year. Undoubtedly many of the younger teachers and those who are not deeply attached to the communities where they are now living will leave the state.

"At the same time, we shall not be able to get teachers to come here from out-of-state," said Ingle.

He sees a "mass exodus" in the Spring as more of a threat to the future of Florida schools than a "mass walk-out" this year.

Ingle does not deny the possibility that Florida teachers, including those in Highlands County, will submit resignations before the end of the current year, but he thinks it less likely to occur now.

Money To Control Fruit Fly Available

County and municipal government agencies have until January 1 to apply for state and federal aid in suppressing the Caribbean fruit fly on a regional basis, the Florida Department of Agriculture announced this week.

But what is needed is not a suppression program, but an eradication program, says County Agent Bert Harris, who said that is the thinking of most people.

Harris estimated that about 60 to 70 per cent of the guavas and peaches in dooryards in Highlands County have the fruit fly. Luckily it does not attack citrus.

"The trouble is," said Harris, "that you can spray your own trees, but if your neighbor does not and he has the fly, the fly can invade your fruit and lay its eggs."

Harris said a program now is in progress which the University of Florida experiment station hopes will do the job.

The menacing fly currently infests 28 counties. Local agencies wishing to participate will be expected to put up one-third of the cost of the treatments, with federal and state agencies splitting the difference.

State agriculture officials said the funds would be sufficient to treat up to 400,000 acres approximately five times. Low volume, high concentrate malathion at about one ounce per acre per application will be applied to treatment areas by low flying aircraft.

Treatments will be made at one to three week intervals. The program probably will be implemented during the early Spring when the fly population reaches its lowest level.

U. S. Department of Agriculture spray tests conducted in August and September last year in Miami showed that the fly could be suppressed—but not eradicated—in a limited area with the malathion treatment.

Persons wishing specific information about the caribfly control program can contact Harris.

Devils Meet Wildcats Friday In Last Game Before Christmas

Coach Dale Landress will take his Red Devil varsity basketball team to Wauchula tomorrow night (Friday) for the last game before the Christmas holidays. The Devils are 1-3 for the season with losses to Arcadia and Sante Fe of Lakeland this past week. The Avon Park "B" squad is undefeated, however, as the jayvee boys continue to roll over all opponents.

After Christmas the Red Devil varsity will participate in the DeSoto High Christmas Invitational Tournament playing in a round-robin meet December 28, 29, and 30 against Arcadia, Sebring, and Wauchula. The "B" squad will remain idle until January 2 when both teams host the undefeated Fort Meade Miners here at the high school gym.

Last Tuesday night the Red Devils were edged out 56-55 in the last mintues of the game by Sante Fe in Lakeland after leading most of the way. At the end of the first period the Devils had an 18-9 lead and were ahead 32-26 at halftime. Sante Fe whittled the Devils' lead to 46-44 at the end of the third period and went ahead in the fourth quarter to take the game. Avon Park had two excellent chances to take the win in the last minute but couldn't hit from the floor on two shots as time ran out.

Sante Fe's six foot, seven inch Mark Stanton led the winners with 23 points but Avon Park's Donald Strange was high scorer for the game with 24 points. Jim Williams pumped in 13 for the Devils but no other Avon Park player hit in the double figures.

Coach Fred Sandlin's Devil "Bees" swamped the Sante Fe jayvee squad 52-27 as they rolled to their fourth straight win. Devil guard Roy Claitt, 5' 5", led the winner's scoring with 14 points aided by Willie Seigler and Joe Hardy with 10 points each and Clyde Sumbry with 8. Don Sisemore and Jim Magenheimer hit for 4 points apiece. Sumbry pulled down 12 offensive rebounds and 6 defensive rebounds and Hardy had 11 each offensive and defensive rebounds to lead the Devils on defense.

Hood's Unveils New Two-Acre Distribution Complex in AP

Hood's Dairy unveiled a new two-acre distribution facility here at a reception yesterday for area business and civic leaders.

The new facility has a 2,600 square foot office building with adjacent covered loading area and cold storage compartment. Also included is a maintenance building and area. The complex is located on State Rd. 64.

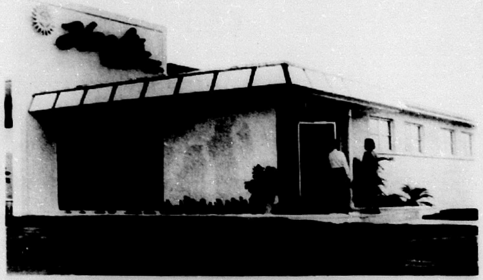
John Hood, president of Hood Industries, Inc. of which Hood's Dairy is a subsidiary, said the company first began operations in Avon Park in 1957.

"We have a great deal of confidence in the future of this area as demonstrated by our substantial investment in buildings, equipment and personnel here. The successful growth of the area is reflected in our own operations. We have grown each year, beginning in what is now our maintenance building and finally expanding into our new quarters. This area, we feel, will continue to grow because of aggressive business and civic leadership in promoting and developing it," Hood said.

The new building was designed by McElvy & Jennewein, A1A, Tampa. The contractor was Bennett-Moseley Construction, Avon Park.

Highlands, Hardee, Desoto and south Polk counties are serviced from the facility, according to Ronald G. Burton, branch manager. The operation has 17 employees, he added.

Hood's, in addition to its Avon Park branch, has branches in Auburndale, Tampa, Clearwater and Venice and plants in St. Petersburg and Bradenton. The company now services 10 counties in West Central Florida.



NEW QUARTERS opened recently in Avon Park by Hood's Dairy. This 2,600 square foot building contains offices with adjacent covered loading and cold storage compartment. Highlands, Hardee, DeSoto and south Polk counties are served by Hood's from this facility. The building was designed by McElvy & Jennewein, AIA, Tampa and constructed by Bennett & Moseley Construction, Avon Park.

Miss Beverly Turner won the 3/116th Arty Beauty contest held at the Armory in Avon Park, Saturday, Dec. 9. Our Veterans Return—To What?

Over the next year, more than three-quarters of a million young men and women will return to civilian life from the Armed Forces.

Most of them will find work with little difficulty, other will continue their education.

But many won't be so lucky. They won't be going to school and jobs won't be found without trouble. They need help.

Over the past year, nearly 600,000 veterans reentered civilian life. While most got jobs readily, 10,000 didn't. They averaged more than two months of unemployment.

This cost the nation dearly. It hurt the young people themselves and it cost some $30 million in unemployment compensation.

To brighten the prospects of returning veterans, President Johnson has launched a highly individualized program to provide them with maximum job assistance.

Each veteran will receive a letter outlining his reemployment rights and the services available from the public employment service.

Each veteran will be contacted personally by telephone or a visit by a representative from one of the nation's public employment service offices to pinpoint individual job needs.

Each veteran will be offered job-finding assistance, employment counseling and testing, referral to training or any other service to help him or her get employment swiftly.

This is great and it is aimed in the right direction. We only hope the veterans give it a whirl if they need it, and we also hope there are some wonderful jobs awaiting our veterans.

Too many times, people forget the services Florida State Employment Service has to offer. It doesn't cost a thing and there are some fine jobs available, quite a few in the executive range, surprisingly. The people there generally, do a fine, conscientious job.

CAMBODIA NEXT ON OUR LIST?

It looks more and more like Cambodia will be the next on the list of the Free Nations for a wallop on the jaw. More Communist war marterial is flowing into Cambodia and being sent to the Reds than ever before, and it is increasing. Pressure is being put on our national leaders to take this country under fire. It will not be long now, we think.

CENTRAL ISSUANCE

Effective July 1, 1970. Provides for central issuance of a colored, photographic driver's license by the Department of Public Safety and the appointment of subagents by the Department. Provides for the issuance of a certificate of eligibility by the Department prior to the issuance of a driver's license, and if a licensee is not qualified, has failed to respond to a traffic summons or is under suspension or revocation, the Department may deny him a license. An applicant may apply to the Department for a driver's license at the nearest patrol station, examining office or at any subagent location appointed by the Department.

The license renewal period will be increased from 11 to 12 months, and the Department has authority to use electronic and other devices for the central issuance of licenses.

Closely interwoven with central issuance are two laws relating to subagents and color photographic drivers' licenses. Required that each driver license issued after July 1, 1970, contain a photograph in color of the licensee at a cost of 50 cents to the licensee for the photograph. The Department is authorized to negotiate and contract with qualified firms to carry out the intent of the act. Gives exclusive authority to the Department of Public Safety, to appoint subagents to sell and issue drivers' licenses with subagents being authorized to charge 50c for this service. The use of subagents will be a convenience to the public, and the state will realize a substantial savings because it will be relieved of having to acquire added personnel, new buildings or rent office space for this purpose.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is Christ Pioneer of Life —Or Savior of Men?

Should the message of the church change with the times—or should the message remain constant, while only the methods change?

Recently, in Atlanta, an official of the organization which claims to speak for many millions of Christians of a number of denominations redefined "evangelism."

"That task," he said, "Is so to present Jesus Christ as the pioneer of life that every creature on earth may hear the call to follow Him in loving and serving the God Whom He called Father."

Doesn't Go Far Enough

This definition is fine, as far as it goes—but does it go far enough? How about Jesus as the Savior, not just the pioneer? Of Him, Peter said, "There is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved."

The redefinition of evangelism sounds so good that it may not immediately occur to those who hear or read it that it has left out the essential ingredient—the thing which makes the Gospel the "good news" that it is.

The essential ingredient of the Gospel, ignored in this redefinition, is that "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." God's great promise to us is that "the blood of Jesus Christ ... cleanseth us from all sin."

What Paul Said

In these days, when the tendency is to emphasize other aspects of the work of the church, at the expense of the Gospel message, it may be well for us to remind ourselves that the Apostle Paul, writing to one group of those to whom he ministered, said, "I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified."

As Christmas time approaches and we think of Jesus primarily as the Babe of Bethlehem, we must keep in mind that God had one supreme purpose in sending His Son into the world—that "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners."

"Been in Thee"

Jesus is not just the Babe of Bethlehem, not just the pioneer of life, not just the world's greatest teacher. He is the Savior of those who put their trust in Him.

As a poet of long ago expressed it:

"Though Christ a thousand times
In Bethlehem be born—
If He's not born in thee
Thy soul is all forlorn."

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW

Babson Park, Mass., December 14. Not quite four weeks have passed since Great Britain's dramatic 14.3 per cent devaluation of the pound sterling. The relatively smooth adjustment of governments and financial institutions to the decline ought not to blind us to the fact that this is scarcely a sure-fire cure-all for the ailing British economy, or assurance that the dollar will escape unscathed.

Britain's Moment of Truth

In many circles, the day on which England announced devaluation is referred to as "Britain's moment of truth,"—and rightly so. But it is much more than that. It is the beginning of a testing period which is likely to be prolonged. Devaluation was forced because the British Government was unable to make repayments of around $2 billion which were to fall due this month.

The lower value at which the pound is set is aimed at increasing British sales abroad to offset deficits already incurred. Devaluation came late—after the problem had been compounded—and it may well prove not drastic enough to save the day. For England to recover a good measure of what she has already lost economically and fiscally, British labor must not only agree to live with a lid on wages, but must accept a sizable cutback in the buying power of the wages it now earns. Rising prices and labor excesses are two stumbling blocks upon which the success of Britain's devaluation could be dashed unless reason and prudence prevail in the time ahead.

Bretton Woods Pact

Devaluation of the pound points up the need for new world monetary techniques. The monetary pact reached at Bretton Woods, N. H., in 1944 was based on the idea that the world could maintain a fixed system of foreign exchange rates. As such a system grew in stability and prestige, it was hoped that controls by individual governments over the movement of capital abroad could be removed. And as capital movement expanded, it was calculated world trade would widen and the world economy would flourish.

All these calculations were based on the assumption that the key currencies—the British pound and the American dollar—would remain stable. In the case of the pound, this has not happened.

Pressure on the Dollar

The fall of the pound put immediate pressure on the dollar, the sole surviving major world currency. So far, the dollar has weathered the storm; but it would be folly to assume that the storm signals can be taken down. Although it should not be necessary for the U.S. to strain so hard to help bolster a devalued pound, actually the ability of the pound to survive will not depend upon the credits England may get from her neighbors ... but upon her ability to build up a trade surplus.

Ours is still the strongest economy in the world and our trade with other nations has until now been trending up. While devaluation will lead to increases in some imports and make it harder for us to sell goods abroad and compete in world markets, our technical know-how is still tops, and if we move promptly and decisively to defend the stability of the dollar all may yet be well.

Devaluation of Another Type

However, we ought not to feel smug if we succeed from month to month, or even year to year, in preserving the dollar's value in terms of other world currencies. It would be an empty (and short-lived!) victory if not bolstered by moves toward more responsibile fiscal management. For, like the pound before November 18, our dollar has been undergoing devaluation of another type. As the cost of living has gone up, the value of our dollar has gone down.

Obviously, the U.S. is overspending ... both at home and abroad. The Viet Nam war is hurting more and more, and we are well on the fiscal road which Britain has been traveling. In truth, the dollar gap is every bit as great a threat to our security and prosperity as is Communist totalitarianism.

REP. JAMES A. HALEY

Russia's New Sea Power Indicates Cold War Not Over

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Communist Russia's sea power is all too often overlooked as an integral and growing part of Moscow's threat to the United States and as a definite indicator that the cold war is by no means over.

All through the Stalin era of Communist Russia's development, during the World War II years, and even until the mid 1950's, the Soviet Union was considered to be a minor sea power. Virtually lank-locked with no warm water ports, Russia had been tagged as a nation destined to ply the seas in only merchant ships and fishing vessels—and as virtually ineffective as a military sea power.

During World War II, the Western world's merchant ships were burdened with the task of carrying the bulk of war material furnished to Russia—most of it by this country—through Nazi-patrolled Artic waters which were the sea lanes to the far North port of Murmansk.

In the postwar era, Stalin started building a huge fleet of submarines and large numbers of destroyers to patrol and preserve a Soviet hegemony over the Baltic and Black Seas to the North and South respectively. With the passing of Stalin came the Khrushchev era and his assessment of capital ships such as battlewagons and aircraft carriers were useless "sitting duck" targets.

But in Khrushchev's wake, the Russians named a new commander-in-chief of its naval program, Admiral Gorshkov, and he sold the masters of the Kremlin a far different philosophy.

As the Gorshkov philosophy took over, the old naval building program ground to a virtual halt, according to United States intelligence reports. Destroyer construction was almost entirely terminated and a modernized and streamlined Russian Navy began to emerge.

The new Russian Navy now is reaching proportions and quality which make it a deadly threat to the United States and to our ability to command the high seas. In some respects, as a matter of fact, it is even superior to some components of our own Navy, because too many of our vessels are overage and either obsolescent or approaching that state, while the bulk of the Russian Navy is composed of relatively new and modernly-equipped vessels.

Our intelligence people abroad have seen Russia engaged in a massive program for the construction of new nuclear-powered, missile-launching submarines and, moreover, a program for the conversion to this type of conventional submarines built in the earlier program. And the destroyers built in that period are, according to intelligence reports, being rapidly converted to floating missile-launching pads. We do not know the full extent of the construction and conversion program but it is known that the Russian underseas fleet is substantially larger than ours on a numerical basis, and that they have developed something akin to our vaunted Polaris missile.

The Russians also have developed small, highly sophisticated and deadly patrol boats (Egypt used one to sink the Israeli destroyer Elath) and, abandoning the "sitting duck" theory with regard to aircraft carriers, Russia now is building small flattops designed to carry helicopters usable either for anti-submarine patrol work or to transport quick-strike paratroopers. Added to these are large, ocean-going amphibious landing ships.

All of this is giving the Soviets' Communist government a military fleet with not only tremendous conventional firepower, but with a hefty nuclear punch as well if the Kremlin elects to use it. And backing it up are those "fishing trawlers" frequently seen off our Florida coast—as well as elsewhere on our Pacific and Atlantic coasts—which have so much electronic and communications gear as to suggest that what they actually are "fishing" for is militarily useful information.

I suspect that in view of all this our primary foe in the cold war bears close watching.

A Tribute To Our Postal People

Parcels large and parcels small
Letters by the bale
They are one and all the same
To the U. S. mail!

Hurry them here
Hustle them there
Where they all come from
God only knows where.

Pack them in the car
Work them all out
Take them to the folks
Along the old route.

Here's to the folks
Who never fail
To move that mountain
Called the U. S. mail.

3-Man Team Here Checking Segregation

After almost three years of apparently smooth transition into a racially integrated school system in Highlands County, complaints have been registered with the federal government which could take the county into court.

A three-man team from the civil rights division of the federal Health, Education and Welfar agency was in the county Tuesday to make a first-hand investigation of charges of racial discrimination against Negro teachers.

A week ago, Sueprintendent George F. Douglass made public his reply to a letter from the New York office of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. That letter had stated, "A complaint has been filed with the Florida office of the NAACP by several teachers of the Highlands County Public School System. They allege that the public school system in that county is operated under a dual teacher salary schedule whereby Negro teachers with comparable or even superior qualifications are paid less than white teachers."

Douglass, in a two-page reply, explained the state and county ranking systems for teachers and then categorically denied that there is racial bias in the administration of the county's system.

Douglass told the school board on Tuesday that the NAACP had referred the teachers' complaint to HEW, which under the 1964 civil rights law is given responsibility for investigating complaints and when deemed necessary filing suits to gain compliance with the law.

The team which visited here included two Negro educators and a white attorney. Visits were made in each of the county's three school areas.

Board Member R. L. Padgett asked, at the Tuesday board meeting: "Can any group walk in and ask for an explanation of how and why the schools are operated as they are?"

Douglass assured him that he "hoped any interested group could be given a full explanation of the schools' operation, but in this particular case we agreed to this. When we signed the desegregation plan approved in Washington in 1965 we agreed to cooperate to the best of our ability and offer assistance when requested."

School Desegregation Okay

In his report to the school board, Douglass said the HEW team was "impressed with our efforts to comply with the law in desegregation of the student bodies. We are not transporting students to maintain segregation in any school."

The team members said they realize that complications in the school building program is making it difficult for the board to plan, but they did request a formal statement from the board about its intentions in regard to use of the present and proposed buildings.

Other written materials requested are copies of the letters sent to parents about the desegregation plan within the county, copies of newspaper accounts on desegregation, accreditation reports from the State Department of Education on each school, internal budgets for each school, reports on how students are placed in "ability groupings."

But the crux of the problem, Douglass emphasized to the board, is not discrimination toward pupils but within faculty and staff. "There is less integregation within the staff in Highlands County than any county within this area and HEW wants an explanation," Douglass said.

He also reported that he argued arbitrary assignment of a teacher without consultation and without regard to the teacher's wishes is a violation of the teacher's rights.

Sell Bonds?

The question of whether the small Florida counties are going to lose most or all of the income from the state race track taxes was back on the agenda at Tuesday's board meeting. The board members agreed that the income, of approximately $145,000 per year, will be in jeopardy when the Legislature holds its special session on education.

Douglass said the county's property owners' organization had suggested that the board proceed with sale of the $1 million in bonds pledging race track income for repayment. The money would be pledged to school construction and might, conceivably, Douglass said, furnish most or all of the county's share of construction funds if the state adopts one of the new financing proposals.

An immediate sale of the bonds, prior to the Legislature's meeting, would force the board into borrowing the $145,000 the bond law requires to be deposited to guarantee payment.

The borrowing adds up to a tax increase which the board dreads.

Anti-Trust Suit

A part of the school board meeting Tuesday included reports from the Florida School Board Association convention held in Clearwater last week. School Board Attorney Frank Bryant attended the attorneys' division and learned that many boards are joining in an anti-trust suit to recover damages from several companies which have been found guilty of price-fixing.

After lively debate and two split votes, the board had agreed to ask Bryant to investigate the suits to learn whether this county's participation would net any income.

Douglass and Chairman Henry Bailey reported they had learned at the convention that 55 percent of the nation's teachers are now covered in professional negotiation agreements. The Highlands board has agreed to participate in such an agreement with the Highlands County Education Association and Bailey has been named to represent the board.

He said the state association advises the exclusion of the superintendent from negotiation sessions since "he must administer the decisions reached and it is better to keep him neutral."

Other Business

In other business Tuesday, the board approved a request from Secretary of State Tom Adams to waive tuition for three Colombian students who may come to South Florida Junior College on a student exchange program.

—Approved filing of a request for $27,000 in federal funds to finance a Summer Head Start program. Mrs. Virginia Hubbell was spokesman for a delegation of citizens who appeared at the board meeting to urge this action. Mrs. G. Franklyn Ward observed that this county is "a little late with this so please do pursue this quickly." Douglass said a Head Start previously funded has a later deadline than a new one.

—Approved a request that school children receive March of Dimes envelopes at school with the understanding the children are not to make solicitations for funds.

Rambling Thoughts

By O. L. SHOBE

MY LADY'S HAIR DO

She walks in beauty like the night,
As some romantic singer said:
Her eyes give forth a starry light;
Her lips are of a cherry red.
Across the floor she seems to float;
She seems to me beyond compare.
A being perfect, till I note
The way that she's done up her hair.
She must have toiled a half a day
To build that large, unsightly mass;
She must have used a bale of hay,
And half a pound of wire and brass;
Her sister must have helped her braid,
helped her braid;
Her mother wrought and tinkered there,
And butler, cook and chambermaid,
All helped and wrestled with her hair.
And after all the grinding toil,
And all the braiding and the fuss,
The one effect is just to spoil
Her beauty and make people cuss.
'She walks in beauty like the night
When nights are most serenely fair,
But, C. J. Caesar, she's a sight,
When she's got on her modern hair!

THE BACKWARD LOOK

When I was a boy and the world was new,
Life was as simple as two makes two;
The sun rose up and the sun lay down,
And once in the week we visited town.
Life was content to be time, not space;
And matter a knot that we didn't unlace;
The atom not apt to go off in our face.

But now that my farm is a city of stone,
And I but a fabric of wrinkle and bone,
Stiff in the elbow and sore in the knee,
There is scarcely a thing not a puzzle to me;
And most of the facts that I used to declare,
Have popped into nothing like bubbles of air,
And left uncertain of What has gone Where?
—Herbert Merrill

A charming young lady from Hocking,
Was so thin it was really quite shocking.
When she heard the boys laff
At her spindling caff,
She got busy and padded her stocking.

LET US PASS OVER THE RIVER AND REST!

There is a better land, they say,
Where grief and tears are done away;
Where sainted hosts in garments white,
Are playing poker every night;
And when the card games fizzle out,
They straddle horses fast and stout,
And when the horses are turned loose,
They all tank up on orange juice,
While other saints in fields sublime,
Are playing baseball all the time.

In that fair land where no one sins,
The Home Team nearly always wins;
Upon that bright and sunny shore
We'll never need to sorrow more;
No umpires on the field are slain;
No games are called because of rain;
The players are so full of Grace,
That no one ever steals a base.

So let us live that we may fly,
When "Play Ball" echoes through the sky,
To where the pitcher never fails,
Or ever gives first base on balls.
No goose eggs there are ever scored
Upon that Heavenly tally board,
And angels in the bleachers roar
And cheer until their lungs are sore.

THE WAY TO CURE KID OUTLAWRY

A Lake Wales judge has found a splendid way to stop teenage outlaws. Some of the hoodlums couldn't find enough cussedness in their home town, so they ganged up on a neighboring city South of Lake Wales. One of these brats has been helping himself to my fruit for years. In their raid on the city South of here, they cost their papas the neat little sum of $500 apiece. This is the way the Chinese handle the bad kid problem and it works much better than the American way, of patting them on the fannie with a feather duster and keeping their names out of the press.

COCKTAILS AND SACRED MUSIC

One Sunday, my pastor went on the rampage and hit the "likker" business from stem to stern and then went over it from stern to stem. When he got on the subject of drinking cocktails, around four-fifths of the ladies in the large choir looked sheepishly at each other with their handkerchiefs over their lovely lips. The vote in Highlands County on the question of selling booze or not to sell it legally went about two for it to one against it. I would bet a Kennedy half-dollar (two-thirds copper) that if all the church members had voted NO, the result would have been just the reverse.

Japan begins to show a willingness to do a little fighting, here and there, in our struggle down in the base of Asian territory. On our side, we are showing a disposition to ease up our grip on some of their islands we hold "if and when." This country knows the Japs can fight, and the Japs don't want Communism to get any closer to their homeland.

Heart-Lung Training At Local Hospital

More than 35 nurses of Walker Memorial Hospital received training in Cardio-Pulmonary Resusitation in a 6 hour program this week. These sessions are planned to give the basic methods and instruction of current trends for emergency care. External cardiac massage and mouth to mouth resussitation are two methods which received special emphasis.

Local physicians who assisted with instruction were Dr. A. H. Foster, Jr., Dr. S. A. King, and Dr. D. C. Hartwell. George Crist, Deputy of Highlands County Sheriff Department also assisted.

Mrs. Ruth Bonney, Director of Employee Development for Walker Memorial Hospital, states that additional follow-up programs are planned for all hospital nursing personnel which will train them in some of the more specialized areas of care. Training sessions have also been set up that all other hospital employees may have a knowledge of and be capable of assisting in emergency.

Contributions To Youth Care Are Deductible

From time to time the question of whether or not contributions to Youth Care, Inc. are deductible has come up.

A letter received by Judge Mervin Rehrer from the District Director of Internal Revenue states all contributions are subject to deduction on income taxes.

Youth Care is such a worthy cause and the individual residents and friends of Highlands County have contributed so liberally and continue to do so, that the county should very shortly realize the dream of having a proper and adequate detention facility for our delinquent, dependent and underprivileged children.

For your past favors, the residents of Highlands County and particularly the Directors of Youth Care, Inc. are eternally grateful.

Junior Band Concert Set For Dec. 14

A Song Flute and Junior Band Concert will be presented in the Avon Park High School Auditorium Thursday Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

The Song Flute is a "beginner" instrument played by the entire 6th grade preparation for playing a band instrument, and joining the band. These students have been practicing for two months and will present this concert for their parents and general public. The concert will not only feature concert numbers by the band but solos and ensembles.

The Junior Band will be on hand to render some Christmas Music as well as a number featuring the drum section playing "trap sets" . . . called Rocky Mountain Rock. Parents of new band members will see where their child will be playing a year from now if they join the band now.

Mr. Mickunas urges all 6th graders who want to join the band to do it now, as no other beginner class will be offered to the 6th grade.

The child who learns to play an instrument learns discipline, cooperation with others, and a new way to a fuller and richer life. An instrument automatically places him in worthwhile school activities; it gives him something to do during his leisure time.

CHICAGO — A gastronomic All-America football eleven has been announced. For the fifth straight year there's a Peanut Butter All-America, made up of some of most promising rookies in the ranks of pro football. Only peanut butter lovers are eligible. Selections to the squad are made by a panel of judges from the Peter Pan Peanut Butter Company, Chicago, who each year make their picks from the roster of college players in the All-Star game. Ralph H. Maulin, president of Peter Pan, ensures that the judges determine the players' preferences in the way of peanut butter sandwiches. "We're out to show that peanut butter is a favorite food among the strongest, biggest, and best-educated of athletes," Maulin explains. "Everybody already knows it's a great favorite with kids."

Players considered for this year's squad weighed an average of 220 lbs., and stood an average of 6' 2-¾" tall, both figures up a fraction from last year's Eleven. Cockroft, lightest man on the 1967 Eleven, has a listed weight of 185 lbs. and stands 6' 1". Biggest man, Rowe, is 267 lbs., 6' 7". Cockroft likes his peanut butter sandwiches with sweet pickles and mayonnaise. Rowe's favorite is crunchy peanut butter with strawberry preserves, on rye bread. "Bo" Burris likes his beanut butter sandwiches with honey and mashed-up banana.

At the ends for the All-America are Tom Beer and Ron Billingsley. Beer favors peach jam on his peanut butter sandwiches; Billingsley spreads peanut butter on graham crackers. Goeddeke spreads jelly and butter, along with peanut butter, on his sandwiches. Charles is another fan for mayonnaise on his peanut butter sandwiches, and also likes to have some soup at the same time. Sherman likes his peanut butter two ways: on celery, and in a sandwich with honey and potato chips inside. Duranko is another peanut butter-and-celery combiner. Marker likes his peanut butter on toast, with strawberry jelly and thin slices of cheese. Jim Lynch completes the Eleven. His sandwich takes the cake. It's made with a mixture of lettuce, peanut butter and salad dressing, all stirred up together and then spread on white bread.

SFJC Panthers Beat St. Petersburg For Third Conference Win

Last Thursday night in Wauchula, The Hardee-Highlands supported Jr. College Panthers ripped their conference record to 3-0 as they beat St. Petersburg 89 to 82 in a well played game.

There was no resemblence of the trouble that transpired last year as the game progressed without incident.

South Florida jumped into a quick lead and was never headed although St. Pete tied the score at 70-70 before the Panthers moved out to an 89-82 final score.

It was a game of team work and the best defensive work the Panthers have made this year. Jr. Gale was back in full form after a serious injury had sidelined him for two weeks. Harry Holley also returned from a shoulder separation to give adequate help. Newcomers, Thomas Williams and John Polk exhibited the desire to play and perform that could really help the Panthers.

Ted Butler and Skipper Gause also turned in fine offensive performances. Rocky Kitchens was ailing with the flu but Alonza Whitehead and Harry Holley carried the load real well.

We are pleased that all of our boys are showing marked improvement especially freshmen Batillo, Gillis, Starratt and Polk. That was our weak point but these boys are coming along.

The Panthers are now 4-4 for the season but are 3-0 in conference play. Their next foe in the conference will be Brevard in Cocoa Jan. 6. Brevard is now 7-0 for the season.

Prior to that meeting the Panthers will take off a week for final exams and will play Seminole in Sanford Saturday night, Dec. 16. They will then take off until the 29th and 30th when they enter the Brevard invitational against Lake City on Friday the 29th at 7:00 p.m. The winner of this will play the winner of the Brevard and Miami Dade North game at 8:30 on Saturday. The two losers play Saturday at 7:00 on the 30th of December.

In the St. Pete game Ted Butler continued his amazing scoring spree with 26 points followed by Gause with 17, Gale 15, Williams 12, Polk 8, Holley 4, Whitehead 2, Kitchens 2, and Batillo 1. Richardson of St. Pete had 24 for his team high.

The Panthers next home game is against tough Seminole in Sebring on Thursday, Jan. 4. At present Seminole is tops in defense in the state.

FIX-IT TIP

Be sure your home is properly sealed against the winter rain and cold of those blustery winter days. First check the exterior of your home for caulking leaks or areas where caulking is dried out or chipped. Scrape out the old compound and make sure the surface is clean, dry and free of dust and grease. Clean greasy surfaces with mineral spirits or a similar spirit. Dust off masonry surfaces with a stiff bristled brush. Most caulking compounds should not be applied below 40 degrees or during rainy weather, as these conditions can cause failure of the compound to adhere and perform as specified.

Mail Early Insures Speedy Delivery

Postmaster Bob Young today reminded local residents that it is just as important to mail early in the day as to mail early during the Christmas Season.

By mailing early in the day postal employees can assure that gifts, cards, and letters can be sent on their way by the earliest possible transportation.

Because of heavy nationwide Christmas mailing citizens are asked to mail early in the Season to assure that there are no jam-ups in major cities where trains, trucks and planes converge with their mail.

The postmaster also encouraged all mailers to use ZIP Codes on every piece of mail to assure efficient postal operations.

The domestic mail deadlines are:

1. Distant States, parcels — December 4.
2. Greeting Cards to Distant States — December 10.
3. Gifts and greeting cards to nearby areas — December 18.

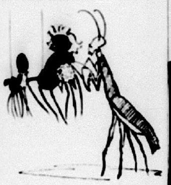
The Things We Say

By RUBY SHANNON

Approximately 30,000 species of spiders exist on this earth, and practically all of them are harmless. A major exception is a sleek black female usually wearing a red hourglass on her abdomen. This creature is very poisonous and deadly to her foes and has caused the death of human beings.

This particular spider is related to the common house spiders. She is called a "black widow" because soon after mating with the puny-appearing male of her species, she devours him.



The male is so much smaller than the female that he hardly has a chance to win once they begin the death battle. Despite his size, however, the male has been known to win the battle and, in this case, he devours the female. (After such a battle, he should be called a "black widower," no doubt.)

Togetherness is four people in one section of a revolving door.

The Gasparilla Cookbook
at Publix

From the Tampa Bay area, haunt of pirates and conquistadores, world port and fishing fleet harbor, come 712 recipes—Spanish, Greek, Italian, Southern, Yankee, and Seafood—to delight family and gourmet guests. Named for the infamous pirate whose invasion of Tampa is reenacted in a rollicking annual celebration, The Gasparilla Cookbook is a fascinating "cook's tour" of the good eating for which Florida's West Coast is famous.

Acclaimed by top food editors—including the late celebrated Clementine Paddleford of This Week magazine—The Gasparilla Cookbook is, in the opinion of social authority Amy Vanderbilt "an ideal gift for any occasion."

Wouldn't you love to have one? So would your friends! For your shopping convenience, Publix now has a supply of The Gasparilla Cookbook.
