Dorothy Martin Chosen Miss Hopewell by Student Body

Under the auspices of the Student Government Association of Hopewell School the student body went to the polls during their election week and chose Dorothy Martin to reign as "Miss Hopewell" and Johnnie Mae McRae, "Miss Hopewell Elementary" during the 1967-68 school year. Both of these young ladies epitomize the very essence of high ideals, aspirations and academic ability which one needs to be chosen queen of any realm. They were crowned by the outgoing "Miss Hopewell", Estelle Davis, and "Miss Hopewell Elementary", Rannya Sanders.

A modeling and talent show was given prior to the election. Participating in the show were: Miss Hopewell's Runner-up, Lauren Harris; 1st attendant, Vivian Green; 2nd attendant, Lillian McRae; Miss Hopewell Elementary's Runner--up, Creasy Jones; 1st attendant, Brigette Randolph and 2nd attendant, Loretta Ione Perdue.

Student Government Association sponsors are Mrs. S. P. Furr, Mr. J. J. Holmes, Miss Nina M. Lawton and Mr. Jimmie Moore.

Mobile Home Park News

Ruth E. Robinson

We are happy to have new guests with us, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fries, from Pattersonville, N.Y., and wish them a pleasant winter here. Other residents who returned this past week were extended a friendly welcome back. They are: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wolcott, from Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. John Bieser from Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Julius Converse from Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Robinson from Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. Howard (Louise) Bell also from Ohio.

We were concerned about Mr. Herman Young in his recent illness, and we now wish him a speedy recovery, as he returned home this past weekend.

The Avon Mobile Home Park Women's Association annual election meeting was held on Friday, November 3 at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Olive Kerwin was re-elected for the second term as President: Mrs. Basil (Rose) Krontz — Vice President: Mrs. Bess Raas — Sec. Treasurer.

Appointments for the coming year were as follows: Cancer-pad chairman — Mrs. Lulu Madrell; Social Chairman — Mrs. (Harry) LaRue Longanecker; Women's Shuffle Chairmen—Mrs. Alva (Hazel) Thompson and Mrs. Ralph (Mabel) Crocker.

Monitors for each street are as follows: First — Mildred Long; Second — Etha Larrew; Third — Maude Neukirk; Fourth — Martha McBeth or Ella Roenneberg; Fifth — Lucille McPherson.

A motion was also made and passed that all future monthly business meetings will be held on the second Friday of each month — 1:30 p.m.

There will be activities, games, hobbies and work done on cancer pads, for the pleasure of those interested, on other Fridays, as the ladies wish. Please bring any old sheets that you may wish to contribute, for the making of the cancer pads.

The next Business Meeting will be on December 8th at 1:30 — please come. Hostesses will be from 4th Ave.

Plans for the Thanksgiving Dinner were made, to be held in the recreation hall on Thanksgiving Day at 12:30 p.m. Hostesses for that dinner will be, Ruth Wolcott, Lucille McPherson and Mabel Crocker.

Turkeys and ham will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Halfacer and will be roasted by: Bee Tingler, Rose Krontz and Bess Raas. Decorating committee is: Ruby Myers, Gladys Converse and Ruth Robinson.

Creations of favorite foods will be furnished by the ladies of the park; please write your choice on the Menu Poster which is on the Bulletin Board in the recreation hall, to prevent too many duplications. Remember to bring your own table service and drink. Let's have a crowd!

Mixed Shuffle Tournaments will be held each Monday at 9:00 a.m. Mr. Harold Wolcott is chairman. Pinochle players will meet in the hall each Monday evening at 7:00 p.m. Euchre players will meet at 7:00 p.m. on Thursdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Myers and Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kirback were shopping in Tampa and stopped at Brandon Mobile Park to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, formerly of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Longanecker on Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Ward Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Bennitt from La Porte, Ind., now wintering in Sarasota; callers in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Seifert.

Winners of the Pinochle games last Monday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shoemaker and the host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher. The Shoemakers will host the next Monday Pinochle games. Lucille had 920 points and Louis 987 points.

Bonnie Brae Mobile Estates

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gerrard from South Bend, Ind. arrived last Friday to spend the winter. Welcome back Clarence and Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Armstrong from Yucca Valley, Calif. will spend some time at Bonnie Brae. They drove to the Chautauqua Lake Region, New York in September for a few months and then came south. They lived in Leesburg for six years, but Clifford has a sister Mrs. Fred Loesel in Avon Park so they decided to come here for the winter. Welcome to Bonnie Brae, Ruth and Clifford.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ross from Riveria Beach, visited her brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson last week. Sunday, Pearsons called on them and also their son and family in South Miami.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Larry Johnson that they will be back Dec. 1 to spend the winter. We will be glad to see them again.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stikleather have moved to Lakeland where he is in the construction field. We wish them much happiness in their new location.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McGonagle of Alexandria, Va., have moved into their winter quarters, and are now occupying their lovely new mobile home at Bonnie Brae. Welcome back.

The McGonagle's had as guests the past week, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Allen, from Shippensling, Pa. and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mossburg of Hartford, Ind. Both families are on their way to Big Pine Key to spend the winter.

Mrs. Thelma Chalmers, and Marge Jordon spent a day last week visiting friends in Arcadia. Thelma also visited friends in Sarasota over the weekend.

The Vernebergs and the Lasse's have their new mobile homes on lots 46 and 47 in a new section of the park.

When the new part is complete we will have sixty-nine patios.

Mr. Langlois from Canada took up residence at Bonnie Brae on Nov. 1. He was here last year and we welcome him back again, and hope he will enjoy his stay with us.

Our thought for the week: (A Smile increases your face value)

FOLLOWING the Sebring - Avon Park Homecoming game on Wednesday, Nov. 22 the place to go is the Sebring City Pier. The Sebring Jaycee-ettes will sponsor a Thanksgiving Eve Dance. 'B' Squad Meets Wildcats In Last Home Game Nov. 16

Avon Park football fans will have their last chance to see a home game next Thursday night, Nov. 16, when the "B" squad hosts the Wauchula Wildcat junior varsity here at Memorial Stadium at 7:30 o'clock.

The Devil jayvee squad, coached by Larry Pickett and Dewayne Lemler, has set a record of two wins, 3 losses, and a scoreless tie this season. The game next week promises to be a real thriller, however. Avon Park lost to Wauchula 21-7 in Wauchula last month but Coach Pickett feels the team has corrected many of the miscues which drew over 100 yards in penalties against the young Devils in that game.

Last week the Devil "Bees" traveled to Haines City to avenge an earlier 20-7 loss and almost came out on top against the large Hornet squad. The Haines City boys managed a 7-6 win with the winning TD coming on a 60-yard intercepted pass return in the last minute of play of the first half as Avon Park tried to get on the scoreboard. The Hornet try for the point after was good on a power sweep to the left and they took a 7-0 lead at halftime.

The junior Red Devils came back and took the second half opening kick-off and marched 60 yards on the ground for a score with Steve Hartt going over for the TD. The run for the extra point was short and the score was 7-6 late in the third period.

Neither team could generate another scoring drive. Avon Park had four passes intercepted to keep them bottled up all night except for the one touchdown drive.

Haines City threatened early in the game when they moved to the Avon Park four yard line on a sixty-yard gain on the first play from scrimmage but the tough Devil defense held at the four for four downs.

Coach Pickett praised the "B" squad defense for the outstanding job it has done all season. Pickett said that in the last two games, the Devil defense has given up less than 200 yards of rushing and passing from scrimmage.

The Devils' defensive team has Howie Godwin and Clark Jackson at ends, Danny Albritton and Randy Wood at tackles, Gary Jenkins on the nose, Harvey Jones and Steve Hartt at outside linebacker, Ricky Dick and John Hamilton at inside linebacker, and Don Sisemore and Walter Nunnallee at the two halfback slots. The defensive squad is young with three eighth graders, four ninth graders, three sophomores, and one junior so most of them will be back next season.

Fans are urged to come out next Thursday and watch these youngsters take on the Wauchula team in the last home football game of the season.

Woman's Club Sponsor Concert

The Woman's Club will sponsor a Concert of Music on Saturday evening, November 11, to be given by local artists at the Highlands School (Pinecrest) at 8:00 p.m. Participating in the concert will be Jack Smith, tenor; Buford Jasper, baritone; Mrs. Victor Mickunas, soprano; Miss Ann Groverstein, Harpist; Miss Evelyn Brown and Jerrold Perkins, piano accompanists.

The public is invited to attend. The Woman's Club is presenting this concert as a benefit for the Avon Park Library. There is no charge, but a free will offering will be received.

AARP Holds Meeting

The Highlands County Chapter 222 of AARP will hold their regular monthly meeting in the Sebring Hotel on November 14 at 7:30 p.m.

A very interesting program has been planned beginning with the group joining in singing some old familiar songs.

Pres. A. R. Lang will give a report of the district meeting of Sun Coast Council District 5 which he attended in Tampa recently, and E. C. Ludington will report on the recent developments of the AARP group insurance. George Swank will show slides of his recent trip to Bermuda.

All members are requested to be present and visitors are welcome.

Anyone who is 55 years of age or over is eligible to become a member, whether or not they are retired.

1967 Christmas Mail Volume Expected To Break All Records

The Post Office Department breaks records for mail volume every Christmas but 1967 may break more records than any previous year, Postmaster R. D. Young said today. Regional Director C. Banks Gladden today informed him that the volume of mail to be handled in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida will total 1,276,700,000 (billion) pieces in December — an increase of 100 million or 8.4 per cent over last December.

Nationally, the Post Office Department is expecting a record Christmas volume of about nine billion originating pieces of mail.

Experience has shown that 65 percent of all Christmas mail is not mailed until the final 12 work days just before Christmas Day itself. If this happens, the 48,000 postal employees who work at 2,400 post offices in the Atlanta Region will be deluged with 799 million pieces of mail during the critical 12-day period. This log jam can be prevented by the cooperation of mailers, by mailing early.

Mailers are urged to observe these dates for domestic surface mail:

- •Gifts to distant states, December 4
- •Greeting cards to distant states, December 10
- •Gifts and greeting cards to nearby areas, Dec. 18

Gifts and greeting cards sent by domestic air mail should be in the post offices by December 19.

Special attention again will be placed on the delivery of mail to servicemen in Vietnam and surrounding areas. The following deadlines have been set:

- •Gifts weighing more than five pounds sent by surface postage rates — Nov. 11
- •Gifts five pounds or less, plus letters and greeting cards sent at surface rates (these go by air on a space available basis), Dec. 1.
- •Air mail gifts and greetings, Dec. 11.

The deadline of Oct. 15 has already passed for sending Christmas mail to civilians in the Far East but there's still time to meet the November 1 deadline to other areas overseas.

The postmaster said air mail overseas can be sent until December 1 to remote areas off mail air routes, and until December 10 to areas on heavily traveled routes.

UNICEF Is Big Success

The youth who participated in the UNICEF drive Saturday night, Oct. 28, wish to thank everyone who helped make it the success it was.

These youths gave up an evening of fun to help collect money to be sent to needy children all over the world. One hundred eight dollars was collected and this will help supply food, milk, medicine and vaccine to children the world over. So everyone who gave, even if it was only a few pennies can be proud of the fact that their pennies combined with pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and up will benefit many.

After the drive the youths gathered at the Congregational Church Social Hall, where Rev. John Pickens, Sr., led them in games, after which they all had refreshments of cup-cakes, crackers and cheese, apples, pop corn root beer. A good time was had by all.

Again, we wish to thank the donors, the ones who drove the youth all over town and the various churches who particiapted.

First Baptist Missionary Meets

The Day Society of the Woman's Missionary Union of First Baptist Church met at the church on Tuesday for its November meeting. The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn followed by prayer led by Mrs. Jess Ray. Mrs. W. W. McFarland presided over the business session, and Mrs. Virgil Tonder, Jr., read the minutes and gave the report of the W.M.S. Council. Mrs. I. H. Ford announced plans for the mission study to be held on November 28 from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon. The book to be studied is "Africa—from Arrows to Atoms".

The Season of Prayer for Foreign Missions will be observed December 4-8. Miss Valda Long, a missionary from Africa who is home on furlough, will speak at the church during December. The monthly emphasis reports were given by Mrs. C. W. Fabor, Mrs. W. B. Johnson, and Mrs. C. R. Burton. The mission action emphasis for November will be food for the Thanksgiving baskets. Mrs. Johnson announced assignments for the various circles during the season of prayer. Mrs. Burton explained the circle reports for November.

The youth work of the society was presented by three representatives. Mrs. Milton Bass, GA director, presented Mrs. Willis Robinson who reported on the GA Houseparty held recently at the Lake Yale Baptist Assembly. Ten attended this houseparty and eight attended the houseparty held in Lakeland recently. Mrs. Otis Strickler told of opportunities for boys and girls, ages 4-8 to be found in Sunbeams.

The program, Missionaries among Animists in the Caribbean, continued the study of Christian Missions and World Religions. A very attractive interest center displayed stones, plants, containers of earth and water, and pictures of other objects which animists consider to have spirits. The Jane Hill Circle presented the program with Mrs. Paul McFarland as program chairman. Other members taking part in the very interesting discussion were Mrs. R. H. Lawhon, Mrs. Willie Clyde Cloud, Mrs. Gerald Wicker, Mrs. I. H. Ford.

Mrs. W. P. Johnson concluded the meeting with an emphasis on the work of the Baptist Women's Organization of the Baptist World Alliance. The December meeting of the Day WMS will be held on Monday, December 4 at the church.

Spectators Pack Courtroom As Interest Grows In Trial

"Call the first witness, Irene Maxcy."

The packed courtroom in Bartow grew tense. The defendant, John J. Sweet, who she says culminated their romance with the murder of her husband, looked down at the long table before him.

He turned a little in his swivel armchair, propping his feet against a leg. Short and stocky, his feet lack a couple inches of reaching the floor.

There was a stir to his left and Irene Maxcy, trim in a boxy black silk suit with a flowing black and white ascot at the neck, walked slowly, composed, into the room. She glanced at Sweet as she passed a few feet in front of him. There was no smile on her thin lips. It was just a look. He had been blinking his eyes nervously just before she came in the room, but he glanced at her with no expression.

She was tastefully dressed, with black stockings, shoes, expensive bag. Her brown hair was prettily coiffed. Her eyes were darkly ringed, as if with fatigue.

When her voice came over the microphone, it was loud, clear, and assured, as it was to be during four grueling hours of testimony. At times, she hurried with her words and wandered in her tale, only to be brought short by attorneys and told to start again on some bit of testimony.

At the beginning of her testimony, Sweet moved his chair out from behind the counsel table and stared directly at her, almost in front of her. The witness stand is raised and only the stand and the mike were between them.

He was grimacing, shaking his head, at one time he gave a little snort. Within a few minutes, Judge William K. Love had warned him to desist. He did so and moved back behind the counsel table.

He seemed less tense as the hours of testimony and cross examination went on. Most of the cross examination was done by Attorney James McEwen, soft-spoken, given to frequent warnings that he will ask for a mistrial.

At the beginning of Mrs. Maxcy's testimony, Sweet wrote furiously on a yellow legal pad. He stopped this after awhile, and the apprehensive look on his face gave way to something else—perhaps incredulity. As her testimony concluded, she left the courtroom by another door, not passing directly in front of him as she had done when she entered.

The shabby old courtroom in Bartow, whose only decorations are 16 black and white pictures of former judges hung at the back of the room, has been filled since testimony began Thursday in the bizarre case. It seats 123 persons downstairs (three more than the Sebring courtroom) and in addition has a small balcony seating about 20.

Sitting near the front, downstairs, are the murdered Von Maxcy's mother, Mrs. Guignard Maxcy, a patrician figure; his sister, Elizabeth Maxcy, and brother Jimmy Maxcy and Jimmy's pretty wife. The day Irene testified, great-uncle John Maxcy was there from Frostproof. Across the aisle from James Maxcy sat John Sweet, Jr., his mother, and Sweet's only daughter, Mrs. John Gallagher, whose husband is a Boston policeman.

Quite a few Sebring people were in the audience.

Some of the trial excitement was downstairs where news and TV cameraman lay in wait for principals in the case, who had to pass through the downstairs lobby to get out of the building. Irene Maxcy willingly posed for pictures with her attorney James Brett, although until now she had been difficult to photograph.

Now that a jury has been empaneled, court is in session six days a week. The jury is sequestered from all contact except the testimony in the courtroom.

At Sweet's counsel table are his lawyers, James McEwen of Tampa, who does most of the questioning and Walter Manley of Lakeland. Glen Darty carries most of the brunt of prosecution questioning, but a good bit of it falls to Joseph Macbeth, assistant prosecutor, of Sebring. It is difficult to understand Darty at times, as the words tumble out too softly.

Irene Maxcy appeared completely composed in the courtroom, but she said she has been taking pills for nerves the past year and a half. Irene Maxcy has immunity from prosecution in this case. Her fear, she reiterated, is that her baby, Mari[illegible], 7, might be killed.

Both Darty and McEwen have said they might recall Mrs. Maxcy to the stand.

Although attention is focused on Mrs. Maxcy, the pretty, composed wife of John J. Sweet does not go unnoticed. She sits, in the courtroom beside her son, John Jr., a handsome boy of 25 and her daughter, Patricia, a very thin, dark haired girl. Occasionally she wears dark glasses.

One wonders what John Sweet's family thinks and feels about the proceedings. One wonders about the scars this trial will leave. The Sweets are Catholic. If John Sweet should go free, will Margaret Sweet forgive and forget?

A shirt-sleeved little man with a hearing aid, emphysema and a shuffling walk was at a Florida shopping center last September, which, as he described it, closely resembles Sebring's Southgate.

He had driven there with his friend, Andrew Von Etter, who owned Whalen's market in Boston. Campbell lives in one of the apartments above the market. Etter, he said, worked for Walter Bennett.

He had flown to Florida the day before with Etter, Etter's blonde wife, Annette and their small son, Ricky. Etter had an extra ticket, and did Campbell want it? Why not? He'd just had a fight with his wife.

Campbell and Etter went for a drive the day after their arrival in Florida. It took a few hours, Campbell said. At the shopping center, he said, Etter left him for about a half hour, saying he had "to take care of something." It was September 25, a Monday. Campbell walked around, watched a man plant a tree, to kill time. They returned to Daytona Beach that night. They were staying at the Daytona Inn. He remembered that Etter said he had once stayed at the Plaza Hotel—"ritzy," said Campbell.

Etter and Campbell returned to Boston after a three-day stay, leaving Mrs. Etter and Ricky at the Inn. It was September 28.

Now to go back a few days. The scene is a TV store in Boston. Walter Byrne is talking to his brother, Andrew Von Etter. Did Walter want to fly to Florida with him? Sure!

"He said he had to meet a man," testified Bryne at John J. Sweet's murder trial this week. It was "about September 22." They went to Daytona Beach, stayed at the Daytona Club. After only "six or seven hours" in Daytona, they started home.

It now is October 1. Jeanne Adams, a little barmaid with dark bangs, William Kelly, a lanky gas station attendant who was one of her customers and Von Etter are driving to Florida in her 1966 Chevrolet, a convertible with a white body and black top.

Jeanne Kelly, formerly of Miami, registered as Mrs. Kelly and they stayed at the Daytona Inn where Mrs. Etter had remained.

Jeanne Kelly was later to testify in Bartow that on the trip from Boston in her car, she was accompanied down not only by Kelly and Von Etter, but by Mrs. Etter and Ricky. She also was to testify that not until three weeks ago was she married to Kelly. She also was to testify that on October 3, "Andy and Billy left for awhile," putting the time they left at early afternoon, and the return as early evening.

The couples had stayed up the previous night drinking until 2 A.M., she said. Her husband, she said, is a very large man, six feet, five inches.

It is now November 3 in Bartow. On the witness stand is Annette Etter. A classically beautiful blonde in a white pleated skirt, a navy and white horizontally striped sweater. She talks in cultured tones.

Shortly after she arrived at Daytona with her son, husband and Campbell, she said, she saw her husband walking down the beach with another man. He was "one or two inches shorter, partially bald, on the stocky side," she said.

"Do you recognize anybody in this room who fits that description?" she was asked. She looked around carefully, said she did not and explained she had only seen him at a distance and "from the back."

Things picked up financially for Etter in November, she indicated. They moved to Morton Village, Von Etter paying three months' rent at $215 per month in advance. In January he paid another three months. He owed Carte Blanche credit cards $1,000, and he "gave me ten $100 bills to pay it off." He also gave her $200 he owed her and an extra $200. "He said he got the money from Walter." There was $1,400 in all.

One of the people at Daytona Inn while the couples were there was Kaye Meyer, daughter of the managers, now of Monte Bello, Calif.

She baby sat for Ricky Etter. She remembers that she saw Kelly and Von Etter pulling into the motel at 8:30 P.M. after being absent most of the day—but she thought the date was October 2.

"It could have been another day," she said.

Walter Byrne last saw his brother in January at Etter's attorney's office. He said his brother asked him then that if "anything happens to me, take care of my wife and son."

Etter's body was found February 1, the day before he was to appear in Boston court on a charge of embezzling $20,000.

Byrne testified later his brother "always had a $1,000 bill on him."

National Farm-City Week To Be Observed In Highlands County

There will be a county-wide observance of National Farm City Week this year in Highlands County.

At a recent steering committee meeting in Sebring, representatives of Highlands County Cattlemen's Association and Highlands County Farm Bureau decided to arrange for a dinner meeting to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 21, at Sebring Elks Club. Representatives of all civic clubs also attended and decided to recommend that each civic organization participate because of their farming membership classifications.

A well-known speaker has been invited to make an address on the importance of agriculture and ranching to the economy of all of people. Over 50 cents of the annual income dollar in Highlands County is derived from citrus and cattle.

Several committees are being formed to make complete arrangements which will be announced soon, according to Jimmie Downing and Walter K. McGrath, chairman and secretary, respectively, of the steering committee.

National Farm-City Week is observed each November throughout the country because of the fact that in most sections of the country it is the harvest season, a good season to emphasize the dependency of farm and city upon one another.

Marvin Kahn, chairman Sebring Chamber of Commerce Agri-Business Committee, attended the first meeting of the steering committee. Other members of his committee are: Harold Moreland, Emil Riles, Smith Rudasill, Jr., A. C. Wolfe, James Alderman, James Maxcy, Carey Carlton and Woodrow Harshman. Members of all civic clubs and other like organizations are requested to mark their calendar for November 21.

Civic clubs are cooperating in the observance.

Doing Your Dorm

There's nothing so forlorn as the dorm room assigned to you when you first get to college. One table, one bed, and one dresser stare you squarely in the face. Yet, all this institutionalized starkness is to your advantage—you can decorate any way you want.

This weekend
is no time to be home watching television.
In black and white.

There'll be a lot of football on TV this weekend.
And most of it'll be on in color.
So what are you doing sitting home with a black and white set?
Not enjoying the games as much as you could. That's one thing for sure.
But, you say, you're waiting for someone to perfect color TV?
Someone has.
Take a look at Sylvania's 1968 color TV. With Sylvania's Colorbright 85* picture.
It's the brightest picture of them all.
You're waiting for color prices to come down?
Now Sylvania color TV starts as low as $329.95.
And the low price doesn't mean you sacrifice performance.
Even the lowest-priced Sylvania set has an automatic degaussing circuit to purify the color.
In fact, today the only hard part about buying a color set is choosing the model you like best. There are so many.
Sylvania has over 50 models. In portables and consoles. From Early American to Contemporary. In handsome maples, walnuts, butternuts, cherries, and pecans.
Whichever Sylvania color set you choose, if you act now we'll have it in your home this weekend. All warmed up for the pre-game warmup.

Large Turnout of Members Play Newly Reopened Golf Course

Officials at the Avon Park golf course which reopened for play last Saturday morning indicated that a total of 81 members played the course during the day, with 19 people paying the greens fee of $3.50 giving a total of 100 on the course for the opening day Sunday. Seventy-four members participated with 9 greens fees paid for a total of 83.

The honor of being the first foursome to play the course went to Tom Jenkins, Andy Cucchiaro, Bill Wild, and John Gray.

President W. R. Reck of the Association stated that the board of directors were pleased at the turnout and the course is in excellent condition. Reck further stated that it was nice to once again to have a golf course in Avon Park.

J. W. Bently of Winter Haven played the course on Saturday and joined as a member of the Association. Another out of town player on Sunday was Cal Calloway of Leesburg a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ogilvie. Ogilvie is the pro at the club and came to Avon Park from Leesburg.

A large number of people toured the course by automobile on both of the opening days of the course and were quite impressed with the condition of it.

Reck stated that completion of the cart sheds is expected by the weekend for occupancy on a first come, first served basis at that time.

As of Tuesday, Nov. 7th, Reck reported that the Association has 126 members and that more are joining each day.

An official grand opening activity will be held on Saturday, Dec. 2 and as soon as details are available to the Avon Park Sun, we will carry it in a story in the paper.

Stamp Out Measles Get Vaccinated

Parents in Highlands County can take a giant step November 12 toward stamping out measles here.

For two hours — from 1:00-3:00 p.m. free shots of measles vaccine will be given at eight locations in the county to all children age 1 through 12 who are still susceptible to the disease.

If parents see that their children get measles shots next Sunday, health experts believe the disease can be practically wiped out here.

There will be a doctor, Red Cross and health nurses and member of the Jr. Woman's Clubs of Avon Park, Sebring, and Lake Placid at each of the following locations: in Avon Park it will be given at Hopewell School Cafeteria and Avon Elementary School cafeteria.

In Sebring it will be given at Woodlawn Elementary School cafeteria and the Fairyland Day Care Center on Lemon St. and in Lake Placid it will be given at Lake Placid Elementary School and Carver Elementary School.

When today's parents were children measles was an inescaple fact of life. Catching the measles was part of growing up and rare was the youngster who missed the 9-day misery.

This is no longer true. Today measles is as preventable as smallpox and polio and more so than diptheria or whooping cough.

Since March, 1963 a vaccine to prevent the so called "red" or "hard" measles has been available. Stil many parents are unconcerned about the threat of measles because they regard the disease as only a little more serious than a cold.

Every year more than 400 youngsters in the United States die of measles. About 4,000 suffer permanent brain damage, and thousands more develop other complications.

Measles is far from being just a harmless disease of childhood. It is one of the most dangerous of the common diseases of childhood.

The most serious complication of measles is encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain often refered to as sleeping sickness. For, this, there is no really effective treatment.

Fortunately, most children who develop measles encephalitis recover within five days. But as many as one-third wind up with irreparable brain damage. This damage can result in mental retardation, deafness, blindness, epilepsy or spastic conditions. Or it may produce personality changes that can turn a previously normal child into a dullard a crank, a liar, a thief, a jumpy juvenile.

Measles also can ignite smouldering tuberculosis, and open the door to pneumonia, influenza, bronchitis, croup, eye ulcers, bleeding tendencies, and middle-ear infection that impair hearing.

If your child gets measles, he has one chance in six of suffering an undesirable complication and about one chance in 1,000 of developing a very serious one.

But if he is immune to measles, that chance is reduced to zero.

Day School Teachers Go To Okeechobee

Teachers of retarded children in Highlands County's Ridge Area Day School will use their classroom holiday Friday to make a field trip to the Sunshine School in Okeechobee.

Mrs. Mildred Webber and Mrs. Sally Cheshire, who teach at the Avon Park unit of Ridge Area Day School, and Miss Josephine Nash, teacher of the Lake Placid unit, will be accompanied to Okeechobee by Mrs. Virginia Hubbell, coordinator of community services for the retarded.

The Sunshine School has an enrollment of 25 students and primarily serves children too limited to learn much, if any, of the traditional three r's.

The teachers, Mrs. Reha Hunt and Mrs. Mary E. Jensen, will be demonstrating in a classroom setting the use of new methods of working with the retarded.

Teachers other than the Ridge Area Day School teachers will hold a parent conference day on Friday. The first set of report cards for the current school year went home earlier this week.

Servicemen In Vietnam Open Gifts Early

The holidays are still a few weeks off, but already Christmas has come to Maj. Donald Long in the jungles of Viet Nam.

A letter received this week by members of the APO club (Awaiting Papa's Orders) relates:

"I hope you don't mind that I opened them (the gifts) early. All of the guys gathered around and watched me open them. We enjoyed unwrapping them and trying to imagine what the conversations were while all of you were wrapping them."

The major, whose wife and five children live in Avon Park, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Long of Sebring. The APO Military Wives and Mothers Club finished packaging and mailing ditty bags to Viet Nam servicemen two weeks ago.

Long wrote: "I just wanted all to know that the package is appreciated. It is refreshing to know somebody back there openly supports us over here. We, of course, read about all the anti-war demonstrators and wish they could be here for just one day. They would change, I am sure, especially here in Chu Lai."

All APO's have husbands or sons overseas. They are sponsored by Highlands County Chapter of the American Red Cross, but the group is not a part of the Red Cross organizations.

Hospital Heads Attend Meet In Hollywood

George W. Walper, administrator of Walker Memorial Hospital, Joseph C. Ziesenheim, administrator of the State of Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program (ARP) and Stephen Vosburgh, ARP business manager, are scheduled to attend the Florida Hospital Association's 40th Annual Meeting set for Nov. 8-10, at the Diplomat Hotel, Hollywood.

"Better Management as a Key to Cost Control" is the theme for the meeting and new management engineering techniques will be explored through lectures, discussions, and examples of cost saving methods.

Administrators are attempting to hold rising costs of hospitalization without impairing the quality of care, through areawide planning and coordination of services, preventative health care programs, and increased efficient use of personnel through new techniques.

John S. Short Named Zoning Director

Highlands County commissioners made their first move to implementing the county's new zoning law by naming John S. Short director of zoning. The appointment was made at the regular commission meeting on Tuesday morning and it will become effective November 15.

The commissioners set Short's salary at $9,500 per year plus a mileage allowance for travel in his personal car. Short announced that is to be a full time job, that his private business, John S. Short and Associates, Land Surveyors and Planners, is now on the market.

A storage room on the third floor of the courthouse is being converted into an office for the zoning director.

Special legislation enabling the commission to set up county zoning was passed by the 1967 Legislature. The law provides for a seven-man zoning board with one member coming from each commissioner district and two members-at-large. The board members serve without salary but are to receive expense money.

Short told the board Tuesday that if the zoning board is appointed soon it may be possible to have county-wide zoning regulations established within a year.

Short is a native of Atlanta, Ga., and he attended Emory University in his hometown. In 1950 he moved to Miami where he began working in land surveying and planning. After two years of service in the Navy he resumed the surveying-planning work and has studied in this field in University of Florida extension courses.

In 1959 he came to Highlands County, and in 1963 opened his own company.

He worked with the county commission as a volunteer consultant in the preparing of new plat regulations for the county.

Short, his wife, son, John Short, III, and two stepchildren, Anet and Skipper Redwine, live at 134 South Lakeview Drive.

Organization Gets A's

If your room is well organized, you'll feel better, do better work! A young friend of mine took the big trunk that carted her clothes to school, painted it to match her color scheme, and used it to hold extra books and records, store off-season clothes. A table draped with one of Bates' new Tablefashions made to match your bedspread is elegant for serving tea or snacks while it hides a record player or other sundries 'neath its skirt.

Irene Testifies Life Was In Danger

"I knew I was going to get killed if I did not do something." Irene Maxcy testified at the trial of her former lover, John J. Sweet for the murder of her husband.

"He was getting everything I had."

The widow Maxcy, at times choked up with emotion and tears as she told of threats against herself and seven-year-old Marivon. She related that her millionaire citrus-cattleman husband did not know she was having an affair with the stocky, balding real estate man from Massachusetts.

The 44-year-old widow, thrice married, a bride at 15 and a seventh grade dropout who worked in the Sebring Packing Company, met Sweet about three years ago, she related.

They met at a dance at the Elks Club in Sebring, which she attended with her husband, a college man, graduate of William and Mary, a member of one of central Florida's first families.

"Somebody brought Sweet to our table and introduced him. He went home with us that night after the dance," she said.

Sweet, after that night, went to their home frequently, was at every party and even went on trips. "If not invited, he called us," she said.

She had her first date with him about three months after they met, she testified, later changing this to one month. They went to South Lake Wales and "I'm sorry to say," had an affair.

Thereafter they met frequently, mostly at his apartment. There were not many trips out of town.

"He kept wanting to get rid of Von," she related. "In his apartment he said he would have me one way or another. He said Walt in Boston would do the job and I cried and begged him not to."

About three or four months after the tryst at South Lake Wales, she said Sweet told her he "had spent $75,000 and it was going through." He telephoned and told somebody, she said, to "send down that salesman."

Sweet made frequent trips to Boston, she said, and he told her that men from up there were coming to do the job. "He said he had worked for these people and they had done jobs before."

Sweet talked of doing away with her husband over a period of one and one-half years, she said loudly and clearly. The day before Mr. Van Hoose died "he had someone from Miami to do the job and he got scared." Maxcy was a pallbearer at the Van Hoose funeral.

In one attempt on Maxcy's life, she related, the intended victim had gone to Walker Memorial Hospital to visit his mother, Mrs. Guy Maxcy, and when he came out he had a flat tire. The tire actually had been cut, she said. She was told by Sweet later that a friend unexpectedly had come along to help Von and this scared off the assassin and she quoted Sweet as saying "How lucky can a man get!"

Upon questioning by defense attorneys, Mrs. Maxcy denied that the first Mrs. Maxcy divorced Von because of her. She was packing fruit at Sebring Packing Company when she met Maxcy, she said. Her previous marriages, to John Heath and Horace Davis, ended in divorce.

How does Marivon feel about Sweet, she was asked.

"She loved him," said Irene, wiping her eyes. "John J. Sweet held her over my head. He threatened harm to her if I told what he planned."

The day Irene Maxcy decided to turn to the law with her problem was last May 7.

"I had my brother-in-law Herman Pettus call Roma Trulock," she said. Trulock is a special investigator for the sheriff's bureau. He drove here from Orlando. They met at Clayton's Motel.

She had Pettus and her son-in-law, Ernest Higgins get John Sweet to Bradenton on a pretext of looking at groves.

"Why didn't you do this before your husband died?" asked Defense Counsel McEwen.

"They're in Miami, and they're as near as the telephone," she said Sweet told her.

At the motel where she talked to Trulock were her twin sister, Lorene Pettus, Marivon, Sheriff Broward Coker and a court reporter. State's Attorney Darty came later.

"I've got to talk," she said she told them. "I've got to have help."

She did not ask for immunity she said.

"I had not done anything to be prosecuted for."

Match Your Moods

First, select a theme or mood for your room. For instance, I love the look of a bright solid color bedspread, like the famous Piping Rock, with madly mod accessories—op-art posters, patterned pillows, and jumbo paper flowers. Or try an Eastern approach: use Bates richly designed Maraban spread in red and gold as the focal point. To add fabulous luster to the potentate pose, tape shiny aluminum foil to your walls.

High School Band News

Happiness is being a member of the fast stepping and far moving Avon Park High School Band. Mr. Vic Mickunas, director, wonders how the students take it but they seem to be on deck for each event.

Last Friday afternoon the senior band traveled with the team to Naples. It was Naples' homecoming and the Naples High School Band invited the Avon Park Band to a party after the game. Of course both bands showed off at the halftime, Avon Park's 74 piece band and Naples' 60 piece band.

After a trip around the band room where the students got to see the working equipment of the band, refreshments were graciously served. Music, informality, getting acquainted, and a very fine welcome speech given by their band president all made for a jolly time.

The following were the chaperones: Mr. and Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Bradberry, Mr. Stevens, Mr. L. Miller, Mr. Henry and Mrs. McDaniels.

Thursday, Nov. 9, third period the band joins with the Key Club and the Glee Club in a Veterans' Day Assembly in the auditorium. 8:30 a.m. for Lake Placid where they will march in the Veterans' Day parade.

Next Monday night is the Band Association meeting in the band room at 7:30. Mr. G. F. Ward calls the meeting to order so promptly and executes the necessary business so promptly members are urged to be on time.

The highlight of the evening will be slides by Mr. Miller and movies by the Sharps, showing the Cherry Blossom parade in Washington, D. C. where the band held forth, resplendent in their fine new uniforms. Mrs. David McDaniel reports only 85 individual memberhips which is less than it ought to be. All parents are urged to back their children by taking a family membership of $2.00 soon.

Arline King Honored At College

Miss Arline King, a graduate of Avon Park High School, now a sophomore at Erskine Colleg in Due West, S. C. has the honor of being elected as state officer of the South Carolina Association for Recreation and Fitness of College Women for the year 1968-69. She was elected Recording Secretary. SFJC Panthers Work Toward Opener Nov. 16

South Florida Jr. College Panthers continued to work toward their opening game with Florida College of Tampa at the Avon Park High School Gym Thursday Nov. 16. Game time will be 8:00 p.m.

Monday of this week the Panthers played an exhibition game with McDill Air Force of Tampa and came out on the long end of a 115 to 111 game. "Our defense was not too sharp at several stages of the game and our offense was spotty. However, with opportunity to correct these mistakes between now and Thursday the 16, we hope to be ready for Florida College."

The Falcons from Tampa are competing this year for the first time in Division III. However, this is not their first team as the school has fielded several teams in the last few years.

The Panthers have been alternating two teams. Skipper Gause, Ted Butler, Rockey Kitchens, Junior Gale, and John Battillo have comprised the starting five but the five of Alonzo Whitehead, John Palk, Thomas Williams, Tim Gillis, and Ralph Starratt are beginning to push for a starting berth. Harry Holley, one of the most versatile Panther players from Plant City is out indefinitely with pulled ligaments in the right shoulder.

The Panthers will meet Florida College on Thursday 16 an journey to Leesburg on Saturday the 18, for another conference game with Lake Sum'er Jr. College.

The McDill Hawkes had two men score 85 points together while the Panthers used a balanced attack with five men hitting in double figures. Gause 26, Whitehead 17, Butler and Gale 16, Kitchens 12, Palk 7, Battillo 4, Allen 4, Gillis and Starratt with 2 did the scoring for the Panthers. Gause had 9 and Whitehead and Gale 5 each rebounds to help the Panthers on the backboards.

Junior College Makes Survey Of Counties

During the next two weeks South Florida Junior College will attempt to survey the communities in DeSoto, Hardee and Highlands Counties. This is being done with the help of high school students, school officials and other interested persons. Information being requested is related to job opportunities and training desired by the population.

Training programs are now being planned for the new Area Vocational, Technical Center, located at Avon Park, on the campus of South Florida Junior College. The vocational center will serve high school students, junior college students and other adults who feel the need for additional education and training to gain employment or to advance on the job. High school students may use the center during their normal school day. Adults may use the school or center at any time they choose to attend.

As the Vocational Technical Center at S.F.J.C. is developed the needs of the community are taken into consideration. Mr. Griffin, Director of the center has stated. "Plans to present a broad and extensive vocational, technical and general education program, based upon request of the people are being made. We need reaction from anyone interested as to desired courses or special offerings." You are invited to make your wishes known to Mr. Griffin at South Florida Junior College.

MISS BOYCE, Librarian at the Highlands School and two library club members, Marie Schucha and Susie Blalock, select books for the Book Fair to be held December 9 and 10 at the Highlands School. The public is invited.

RADS Teachers Plan Work Day At School

Teachers of the Ridge Area Day Schools of Avon Park and Lake Placid will observe teaching methods of the exceptional classes for retarded children at the Sunshine School in Okeechobee on Friday, Nov. 10. Mrs. Mildred Webber and Mrs. Sally Chesshire of Avon Park RADS and Miss Jean Nash of the Lake Placid RADS will accompany Mrs. Virginia Hubbell, Regional Coordinator, Florida Division of Mental Retardation, to Okeechobee where the group will study techniques as practiced in the Okeechobee classes for trainable retarded students.

The Okeechobee classes are similar in numbers, developmental characteristics and cultural backgrounds to the students of the two Ridge Area Day Schools. Both the Sunshine School and the Ridge Area Day Schools have been founded through the help of community contributions, volunteer associations and active participation of the county school boards and boards of county commissioners. In each school retarded children are provided with training commensurate with the abilities of the students.

Last spring a bus load of teachers, classroom aids, volunteers and high school students interested in teaching the retarded came from Okeechobee to observe the Ridge Area Day School programs. On Friday the learning will be reversed and a professional exchange of information, materials, and "trade secrets" will help increase the effectiveness of the Highlands county teachers.

Fellowship Baptist Church New Chapter

A new Royal Ambassador chapter for Pioneer-aged boys (12 through 14) has been organized at Fellowship Baptist Church in Avon Park. There are currently ten members.

Chapter president is Richard Crews; vice-president is David Meeks; recorder is Mitchell Parker; sergeant-at-arms is Gary Cobb, recreation chairman is Robert Murray; and initiation chairman is Danny Sims.

Other members include Petsey Bateman, Darryl Craft, Joseph Parker, and Charles Martin.

Another chapter for Crusader-aged boys (nine through 11) is currently being organized at the church.

All boys in the two age groups are invited to visit meetings of either of the two chapters. Both chapters meet at 6:15 p.m. Wednesdays at the church, located at 1000 Thomas Street.

Royal Ambassadors is an organization of Southern Baptist Convention churches geared to provide Bible training, missionary understanding, opportunities for self-expression, and Christian recreation for boys.

Leader of the Pioneer chapter at Fellowship Church is Paul C. Foraker. Crusader chapter leader is John Crews.

Acc-I-dents To Play After Game Dance

Plans are being completed for the "After the Game Dance" sponsored by the Avon Park Junior Woman's Club. Music will be by the Acc-i-dents, a group from Okeechobee. The dance will be held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 22 following the Avon Park-Sebring football game, and will be held at the American Legion Hall, West Bell Street.

The Jr. Women are hoping that the many Avon Park Alumni who are home for the Thanksgiving weekend will find this an excellent opportunity to renew friendships they have made here throughout the years.

Tickets will go on sale this week and may be obtained from any club member.

Sweet Trial Nears End

How did John Sweet and Irene Maxcy happen to meet at the South Lake Wales Yacht Club and share bits of steak after his indictment for Von Maxcy's murder?

Sweet has said he just happened to be there and she hailed him over to her table while he was en route from the bar to the men's room. She was having dinner there with Tommy Baddock, former bartender, employed by the Sheriff's department as her bodyguard.

Irene Maxcy testified on the stand at Sweet's trial in Bartow that Sweet had called her before she left Sebring, and she had mentioned she was going to the club.

"It scared me when I walked in and saw him. I went to cryin'," she testified. What was Baddock supposed to do. "See that nothing happened to me."

Sweet passed her a note, she said. It read, she said, "Meet me in Lakeland at the Eli Witt parking lot."

Sweet was at the other end of the bar, she said. Why did she not leave? "I wanted to hear what he had to say."

What he had to say, she testified was that "he wanted me to change my story. He got a book Mr. Manley (Defense Attorney Walter Manley) gave him. He wouldn't do nothing to me in there, too many people. He asked me to go outside and talk. He said 'Do they know everything?' I said 'they know everything'." He said then he wanted to talk to Mr. Trulock."

As the bodyguard rested with his head on the table, she said Sweet said he had a deal worked out, Irene testified. "Tommy was not asleep."

"First Sweet wanted me to change my story. He had a book with Mr. Manley's name on it. I said I had told them everything. We danced. He asked me to marry him, so I could not testify against him."

On the way home, Sweet pulled up beside them at a traffic light, she said and "kept asking if I would change my story. I took the book home with me." She said later it dealt with perjury.

She said she saw him a week later in a food market "but I ran out."

On one occasion previous to Sweet's arrest, Irene had had coffee and doughnuts with Investigator Trulock at the Progressive Cleaners on Pine Street. She said Sweet, keeping tabs on her apparently, called to tell her to bring him a pair of pants.

Irene recalled that when she and her husband stayed at the Plaza Hotel in Daytona over the Labor Day weekend, they were in the motel part and Sweet was in the main building.

"He told me he was watching me with binoculars from the window," she said.

Asked how many times Sweet had called her since his release on bond, she replied "several," and added that Sweet "called me three or four times a day." She said Sweet talked to Trulock twice and quoted Sweet as saying he would tell the investigator the name of the man who had done the killing and "get a lighter sentence."

Mrs. Maxcy said she is taking nerve pills and had been ever since Sweet "started talking about killing my husband."

Mrs. Maxcy said that Sweet had warned her that should he be picked up he would be allowed one phone call—and that would be it—"the killers who killed my husband."

She said Sweet had told her Wimpy was one of those who helped pull the Brinks job and "they could kill anybody. From what he told me, they killed my husband. Walter was the head of the gang, he said."

Mrs. Maxcy said even after the indictment, brought on by her testimony before the grand jury, Sweet continued to call her and she him. But she said her calls were on orders of the law enforcement officers, to get more information.

When she went to Las Vagas on vacation with Baddock, she told Sweet, she said, she was going to California. "He said he was going to follow me," she said. Marivon was with her grandmother in North Carolina.

The day Sweet got out of jail on $25,000 bond, Irene said, "I was shakin' so I could not drive. She asked Trulock to drive her to Sarasota." She stayed at the Sandcastle, she said, "and the whole hotel was lookin' out for me." Trulock left the next day.

Irene Gets Phone Call

The day Charles Von Maxcy was killed, Irene Maxcy was at Walker Memorial Hospital, visiting her daughter, Johnnie Ruth Higgins who had just lost her baby.

"I was in the hospital all morning," Irene testified. "Von was supposed to meet Cathryn Higgins, (Johnnie Ruth's mother-in-law) and me at the hospital, and then go to dinner at Griffin's restaurant.

"At the hospital, the phone rang about 8 P.M. It was John. He said 'It's all over, dear.' I went back in the room and got Mrs. Higgins and we came back to Sebring. I asked if she would go home with me. I could not believe it had happened. I went in the front door and saw Von laying in the bedroom and I almost passed out. I told her to call a doctor. We went to Van Inwagens and Walt Pickett heard me screaming." She indicated Mrs. Higgins had no inkling of what had happened until they entered the house.

The night before Maxcy's death, she said, Sweet had told her "the boys were here and going to do the job that week—that they were in Daytona in July. He said one man had been to Sebring and followed Von around and was going to shoot him." She said she "begged him not to have him killed in our home."

Sweet, she said, "would try to have it done on the road and if not, they would have to kill him in the house. He said he would see they put him in the trunk and carried him off."

Sweet, she said, told her he went to the Elks Club the afternoon of Von's death.

"He told me at the nursery in back of our house two weeks after the death," she said. "He said he left the Elks at 4 P.M., went to the bank and got a check cashed and then to his apartment; then to the shopping center and into Publix to buy cigarets and waited on the killers to get there. He was going to take them to Von's office and introduce them. He drove them to my house. He got in their car. There was a tall one and a short one" and it was hard, she said, for the big one to get down in the back of the car.

Sweet, she said, "had on blue sun glasses and a white cap. He turned the Massachusetts tag on the car down. He let them off at the Maxcy house, she said, got in his own car and went to the Elks Club.

She said "he said if I ever opened my mouth I would not have a baby." At this she choked up and wiped her eyes.

After this, she said, "he moved in, took Marivon to school, would not let me do anything with her. He said there were guns and knives laying on the floorboards (of the killers' car) and it scared him to death."

Sweet, said Irene, told her he "had spent $75,000 of his own money and he could call Boston. They was killers, not playboys." She said he was referring to Walt and Wimpy in this manner about a month before he was picked up.

Some time in April, she said—about April 14, she went with John Sweet and Julian O'Neal to Bradenton to look at groves.

A few days before, she said "we sat up all night long. He said he saw a Massachusetts car in our lane and John followed it to the Bair's Den and blinked his lights." Somebody in the car asked if he knew that Walt was missing.

"At Bradenton, John stopped and made a call to Walt's place to find out who Nick Valenti was. He called Mrs. Bennett. He said Nick wants $200 and they do not know Nick. John was scared and I was scared and a gun was fired outside our house before we went to Bradenton." Both she and Sweet were so frightened they had all the locks in the house changed.

Upon questioning by counsel, Mrs. Maxcy admitted she was married to Heath four years, to Davis six and that she married Maxcy the same year she was divorced from Davis.

Explained Defense Counsel James McEwen: "I want to show that her having an affair with Mr. Sweet is not a new experience."

Sweet Brought Irent Tales Of Husband

John Sweet prodded Irene Maxcy into their affair with tales of her husband's infidelity, she testified at his murder trial.

"He brought tales about my husband." Why did she believe them? "I wish I could explain but I can't. I was hurt when my husband was running around. John J. Sweet told me about Doris within three weeks after he started coming to our house. This was the Fall of 1964."

One time during a party, she related, Sweet had her go out one door while he went out another, and unexpectedly surprised him with his arms about another woman—Doris.

"It hurt me, but I did not hate him. We did not argue in front of Marivon. He dated one more, Betty Benschoter. I saw them together at the Lake Wales airport when they landed. They took off. He was sorry. Yes, it upset me when he hit me."

Mrs. Maxcy testified there was "a fight over me at the Elks Club. He told John to stay away from Marivon. John Sweet followed us home that night and they made it up and shook hands. He was at our house every night. John hated Von's guts."

The Maxcys spent a week in the Caribbean—and "Sweet was there (at home) with Marivon. He called to let me know he was at the house."

One of the plans Sweet had, she said, "was to kill Von in a grove—to take the killers to his office, introduce them and leave them with him."

She said Sweet had told her "everybody in town knows I am guilty but they can't prove it. Keep your mouth shut or I'll kill you and your baby, too."

Lover Asked To Be Pallbearer

There was much to do in the days after Von Maxcy's death.

"We was at Harry Lee's office almost every day after Von died," his widow testified Thursday at John J. Sweet's murder trial.

"He would not let us talk in his office," she testified. "Sweet would not talk in my house except in the patio."

Sweet, Mrs. Sweet and their son, John, helped check for "bugs" in the lights and light bulbs.

At this point, Defense Counsel McEwen asked that Mrs. Sweet and John Jr. leave the courtroom. They did so.

One of the problems in the wake of Von's death was whether Sweet should be a pallbearer.

"I wanted to make him an honorary pallbearer, not a pallbearer," she stated. "He said it would be better if he was an active pallbearer. I begged him to kill all of us and he said he was not ready for us to die yet."

Two or three weeks later he moved into the house, she said and was "with me constantly. Wherever I went he watched every move I made, listened to every telephone conversation."

"Sweet," she said, "said he had to have $36,000 by November 15. He got his wife and son and carried the money back. He got Harry Lee to ask for the insurance money."

Their amorous relations continued, she said.

"I got $25,000 and Lee asked Mr. Howard to bring a check from Citizens."

She said she put $5,000 of the $25,000 in her lock box and John took $20,000.

Attorney Lee, she said, read Maxcy's will and "answered questions in my hearing. I took it to Sweet at the shopping center. Lee asked Sweet if he had any gloves. Lee said he was well prepared. Sweet told me to wipe off fingerprints and take it home."

The gang in Boston, Sweet said, were demanding more money and she "got it up," she said—$5,000 from Citizens, sold some cows to Bailey at Ocala.

Sweet she said, told her "the boys" said he could bring part of the money shortly after the murder and "the rest by January 10."

They got the $25,000 in $100 bills from First National Bank of Sebring and "we were afraid the bills were marked." Sweet's son-in-law, John Gallagher, is a policeman.

In the Spring, John and Irene were in an auto accident, which wrecked Sweet's car. She gave him $5,000 for a new Cadillac, she said. "He was broke and needed money to send home to his wife and he sold things and took money." She was informed by Sweet's friend Hy Grees, she said, that Grees "had loaned the s-o-b $1,000."

She had met Mrs. Sweet, she said, about a year after meeting John and the couples went on trips together.

After Sweet's indictment, Mrs. Maxcy dispensed with Lee's services as attorney. He was paid $10,000.

"He was attorney for the estate. I fired him because he was not my attorney to begin with." She reiterated several times she had hired him on Sweet's insistence, and did not feel he represented her.

Mrs. Maxcy said, in the beginning, she had told sheriff's officers she knew nothing about the murder because "I knew if I talked, I'd be next." Lee called the sheriff's office, she said, and told them to leave her alone.

"You are making statements about a lawyer," Defense Counsel James McEwen warned.

"I am telling the truth," Irene shot back. "I am answering the questions as you ask them. I am doing the best I can."

In addition to the insurance trust of about $300,000, two life insurance policies on Von Maxcy's life in the amount of $1,000 and $4,000 were paid to his widow, she testified.

When the first $25,000 was drawn out, "John Sweet took $20,000 to pay off the killers and the rest was put in lock boxes."

Part of their dealings with money were done with a Wauchula bank using the names Mary and John Johnson. They had an account and "He was going to have it all checked out if I had not had him picked up," she said.

Irene Didn't Want To Marry Sweet

Irene Maxcy did not want to marry John J. Sweet, she testified at his murder trial in Bartow.

"He was going to get everything my husband owned. He knew what come with me. I never asked him to get a divorce. I did not want to marry him, but if he said so, I would have," she said.

About two or three weeks after the murder, Sweet moved into a bedroom at the luxurious Sparta Road ranch house, she said.

"He come in and took over and tried to sell everything," she related. "I didn't have no say so, whatsoever. He owns 30 per cent of the ranch where I live. I signed a trust under threats."

Their love affair continued, she said. "He would meet me at the shopping center and pick me up and we would go to the apartment. He was at my house constantly." They would meet about once a month in "Boston, Daytona, Tampa—anywhere he wanted."

What has Sweet got out of the murder of her husband, asked defense counsel?

"He got $41,000," spit out the widow, "and he sold pieces of property and he had groceries free for six months at my house." She added that Von at first was interested in doing business with Sweet, "but Von found out John did not have any money. He was a gambler. He made it gambling."

Asked by Defense Counsel James McEwen if she had called "Alice" and told her to write no more letters to Sweet, Irene retorted that she had and "that John J. Sweet was standing right there beside me telling me to tell her that. If he had told me to jump out the window, I would have." (An Alice Piasecki of Boston was one of the listed witnesses of the prosecution.)

Do you know how much you stand to gain from your husband's death, she was asked.

"I have lost everything," she cried. "I have not gained a penny. Money does not mean anything when you have lost your husband and your child's father. $290,000? Nobody knew I was going to get that."

After the trial is over, her attorney, James Brett of Orlando, is expected to file suit to void the transfer of a 30 per cent interest in the ranch to Sweet.

Was it true that she and Sweet had various arguments?

On March 31, a man from North Carolina was in Mr. Sweet's apartment and Mr. Sweet was trying to make me sell my body for $100," she related. "It was during the races and he said I could make $300 a day."

Sweet took her to the Nan-ces-o-wee Hotel, she said and "we left there with the man. Anything he said to do I had to do. I was at his disposal. The man was drunk and nothing happened. Sweet thought I took money from the man. I did not.

"I did not need to sell my body. He (Sweet) was going to get money anywhere and everywhere."

She said that Sweet tried to make a prostitute out of a 16-year-old girl and that Sweet told the girl she could make $100 in 30 minutes from a Sebring man, whom she identified only by his last name.

"On April 20," McEwen asked, "did you have an argument over a male dog?"

"No," Mrs. Maxcy replied.

She explained a big dog had been obtained from the Humane Society. It was tied up, she said, but broke loose and ran away.

Hood Offered $5,000 To Murder Maxcy

As 11 armed guards stood by Saturday, Convict William A. Geraway testified in Bartow's Courtroom A he was offered a $5,000 underworld contract to murder Charles Von Maxcy of Sebring.

Geraway, serving time for bad checks in Massachusetts, said he was offered the "hit" by Walter Bennet of Boston, Mass., in talks during the last three weeks of April and the first week of May, 1966.

He said he was told it was to settle a romance. Maxcy was shot and stabbed to death in his home West of Sebring October 3, 1966. The state contends John J. Sweet, formerly of Foxboro, Mass., paid hired Boston killers to eliminate Maxcy.

Geraway said he turned down the contract "because I'm a checkpasser."

Yet he admitted he is under indictment for a pair of gang style murders in Boston involving the slayings of David Sadlauskus and Tony Veranis in April, 1966. He says he is innocent.

Geraway was in prison when Maxcy was killed. He was brought here from the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., and the heavy guard was necessitated by his record of escapes in the past.

Geraway testified that he knows Sweet by sight although he has never talked to him. He identified Sweet and said he had seen him several times in the vicinity of Walter's Lounge in Boston, owned by Walter Bennett.

An earlier witness, George Pomfret, of Mansfield, Mass., said Sweet in the 1940's used to run a weekly dice game with Sweet acting as stick boy and Bennett handling the money. A stick boy hauls back the dice after a player rolls them.

Geraway testified he was told Walter could send him to Florida "where I could pick up $5,000. I asked him how and he said 'It's a hit'," the witness testified.

Geraway testified Walter gave him a card and on it were two names and two telephone numbers. One name was Duke Sweet. The other was C. Von Maxcy. One of the numbers began with EV 5. Sebring phones have an Evergreen prefix.

The hefty Geraway, 31, testified as a detective sat at his elbow.

"Walter asked if I had somebody I could trust, could take to Sebring with me. He said I would get a $1,000 retainer and $4,000 in payment when I got back.

"He said he wanted me to drive down. I could call Duke Sweet and he'd advise me."

He said Walter Bennett wanted the job to look like a robbery. He said he was told Maxcy "lived off by himself" and that Geraway and a henchman could easily be driven there for the killing.

Geraway said he read of the slaying in a Boston paper while in prison and got in touch with the prosecution. He tried to get across the idea that at age 31 he wanted to mend his ways.

Defense Attorney James McEwen moved promptly for a mistrial after Judge William K. Love refused to strike the testimony as hearsay. Love overruled him.

Telephone officials appeared with records showing Sweet's unlisted telephone number was the terminal point for two collect calls from Boston numbers related to Walter Bennett's activities and that one call was made from the number to a Bennett-connected number in the two months prior to Maxcy's death.

Mrs. Vee Vee Stiles of Sebring told of hearing what sounded like a shot at the Maxcy home at about 4:40 P.M., October 3, 1966.

Cottie Mae Davis, a maid in the Carlton home, told of seeing a car speed out of the driveway between 4:30 and 5 P.M. Mrs. Mary Curl, cashier at the Publix market in Southgate and wife of Sebring Police Chief Lonnie Curl said Sweet was in the market between 4 and 4:30 P.M., October 3, and appeared to be looking for someone. He left without taking the cigarets he had bought.

Jr. Scout Troop 305 Celebrates Halloween

Junior Scout Troop 305 enjoyed a masked Halloween party Tuesday Oct. 31, at the home of Mrs. Mervin Rehrer given by their co-leaders, Mrs. Rehrer and Mrs. James Cravey.

The patio for the party was gaily decorated in keeping with Halloween and Spanish moss.

Prizes for the best costumes were won by Melinda Limcongo, first prize dressed as a buxom cleaning lady, second prize, Margie Limcongo, dressed in a boxed-in paper costume, third prize, Julie Filppula, a tramp.

Refreshments of Sloppy Joes, brownies, potato chips, doughnuts, relishes and cold drinks, were served.

Twenty-one scouts attended.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late A. D. Knowles extend their thanks and appreciation to their friends and relatives for the cards, flowers, food and sympathy extended to them during their recent bereavement. A special thanks to Mr. Wilson Smith and Dr. Ostling for their kind services.

MR. AND MRS. C. F. DANCE

First Christian Church Honors New Pastor with Reception November 5

The First Christian Church of Avon Park gave a reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Clifford F. Dance, welcoming them to Avon Park and the ministry of the church, Sunday November 5 from 2 o'clock until 5 o'clock at the Florida Power Lounge.

Mr. Dance came to Avon Park from Lake Butler where he served the Church of Lake Butler for thirteen years.

Mrs. Dance was presented a corsage of white orchids with yellow throat, and Mr. Dance a yellow carnation boutonniere.

In the receiving line Mr. and Mrs. Fred Davis introduced the guests to Mr. and Mrs. Dance.

The reception room was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and roses. The refreshment table, overlayed with a white linen cloth, was decorated with a scroll in the center bearing the words "Welcome Ruby and Clifford. A yellow and white color scheme was carried out with yellow tapers, napkins and flowers. Crystal service was used from which yellow punch, mints and nuts were served.

The Guest Book table had white linen cloth and an arrangement of beautiful fall flowers.

Many Avon Park residents representing a number of the local churches were in attendance at the reception. There were 32 guests present from the following towns, Lake Wales, Wauchula, Bowling Green, Arcadia and Bartow. Among the guests were Mrs. Dance's sisters and brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Martin, Mrs. R. L. Holtzendorf, Mrs. Lewis Ambler all from Arcadia and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blackburn of Bartow.

Reception committee: Mrs. Fred Davis, Mrs. H. J. Rutherford, Mrs. Charles Balding, Mrs. James Brooks, Mrs. Orelon Corban, and Miss Ann Karrick.

Presiding at Guest Book: Miss Winifred Davis, Miss Saundra Alderson, and Miss Loraine Streeter.

Presiding at refreshment table: Mrs. Raymond Ward, Mrs. Henry Streeter, Mrs. Merle Roudebush, Mrs. Johnie D. Berry, Mrs. George Beckham and Mrs. Norris Brooks.

Eulalie Ginn To Speak Nov. 12 At Meth. Church

On Sunday evening, Nov. 12, Miss Eulalie Ginn, Director of Christian Vocations of the Florida Conference of the Methodist Church, will be the speaker at the First Methodist Church.

The evening will begin with a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m., each one bring a covered dish and their table service. All Methodist-related youth, ages 11-21 are invited; also they would like to invite their parents to share their supper and hear the speaker.

Miss Ginn will bring materials that will represent all types of work open to young people, from ministerial to secretarial work, including medical and hospital, and will be prepared to answer any questions the youth may have. This will give the young people a complete picture of the opportunities for them in church vocations.

FIX-IT TIP

Water pipes can be kept from freezing on very cold nights if a tiny drip of water is left running from a faucet on each house level. The idea is that running water is less likely to freeze than stagnant water.

Paint the exposed pipes with a mixture of equal parts of glycerine and melted paraffin.
