alco- topics

By PAUL C. FORAKER
Editor, Information Services

A professor at a southeastern medical school says even so-called "social drinking" may result in a great deal of damage to the brain.

Making this statement is Dr. Melvin H. Kinsley, a specialist in alcohol research and head of the department of anatomy at the Medical College of South Carolina.

Dr. Kinsley made this claim while attending the 22th International Congress on Alcohol and Alcoholism in Washington, D. C., last September.

"When his level of social drinking is such that he feels very happy a man is beginning to kill a few brain cells," says Dr. Kinsley. "And the damage is permanent."

A heavy intake of alcohol, once the professor, causes such changes in the blood and blood vessels that brain cells can be destroyed by oxygen starvation. This has been proven by research, he says.

"The alcohol causes agglutination, or thickening, of the blood," says Dr. Kinsley, "and this sometimes leads to blockage of the blood through some of the brain cells. Starved of oxygen for as little as three minutes, the affected cells die."

"The effect of brain damage is cumulative. The brain consists of between ten billion and 18 billion cells, but if only as few as 10,000 cells are destroyed at a time this could be significant over a long period of heavy drinking," he adds.

Among the abnormal manifestations of brain damage are increasing forgetfulness and progressively less ability to work efficiently.

As an example of the ravages of brain damage, Dr. Kinsley says bodies of skullless crabs show such extensive destruction of cells that their brains are worthless for use in teaching brain structure to medical students.

Dr. Kinsley's work is typical of research going on throughout the United States and other parts of the world in the field of alcoholism.

There is still much about alcoholism we do not know. But one thing we at Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program are sure of—We can never fully solve the problem of alcoholism until enough people become aware that the problem exists and that it is a gigantic monkey wrench in our "works" today.

This is why FARP is anxious to get its literature before the public. Some 40 pamphlets and brochures on various phases of the problem of alcoholism are available now, and these are all free of charge.

Are you interested in some aspect of alcoholism? Just write FARP's Information Services, Box 1147, Avon Park, Fla., 33825.

Jeril Clenny Accepted In Charolais Assn.

Jeril B. Clenny of Avon Park has been accepted for membership in the American International Charolais Assn., Houston, the nation's fourth largest, and fastest growing beef breed.

Originating in France more than 200 years ago, Charolais has become well established in this country because of the breed's greater weight for age, greater feeding efficiency and improved carcass value that produce a greater ratio of quality lean meat to fat than other breeds.

The Avon Park Sun

A 208th STREET PAPER

Avon Park, Fla., Nov. 14, 1968-18

Many a green tree needs must be a deep wide sea of money, say experts from Every Body's Savings Lines. While America's Economic Health improves the more money we have, says James Hugh Turnbull, has written many a fortune for us.

The issue of the Avon Park Sun is in the little hands of students whose studies have been interrupted by the school's suspension of classes for the week of the Thanksgiving holidays.

Students have been asked to make a donation to the fund which has been set up to help the needy students who are unable to pay for their books and supplies.

Gavin McAlister is the head of the English department, but he is not the only one who is interested in the success of the school. He is the only one who is not only in the faculty but in the student body.
