Avon Park Needs More Revenue As New Building Construction Soars

Money, it has been said will cure all ills, it might not cure all but more of it sure would help a city with the tremendous growing pains that Avon Park has had in the past year. Building permits have soared the highest in the history of Avon Park.

With new businesses and industries moving in the area the city is faced with supplying increased services such as police protection, fire protection, water, garbage and in some cases sewer disposal which means putting in new lines, and has had no increase in taxes. In 1960 city property was taxed at 14.45 mills, after the property revaluation that year the millage was reduced to 11 mills and then in 1961 the millage was reduced again to the present 10 mills.

There are over 860 houses in Avon Park now valued under $5,000 and pay no taxes at all on the general operation of the city. Present council members agree that property owners have just about as much tax as they can stand on property and every resident should pay his share.

The only solution to the problem is a utility tax which almost every city in Florida has. Avon Park, Frostproof and Lake Placid are the only ones in this area that do not have the tax.

Avon Park would receive from $85 - $75,000 according to figures on other towns the same size. With a ten percent utility tax and a maximum of $1 on each utility for residential property, the maximum would be $4 per month or $48 per year.

Materials are up 40 percent in one year. The council had to increase city employees salaries four percent (cost of living increase), which amounted to over $10,000 this year.

One additional fireman and two new policemen were needed to curtail the increase in lawlessness in the city. The cost in these alone will amount to $10,000 from the time hired to the end of the budget year.

Highway 27 is being four-laned from the mall to Fairmont Drive in Sebring, but before work could begin Avon Park had to have water lines relocated, install future water and sewer crossings that cost over $18,000 which the city had no choice but to fork out.

All these expenses along with others cost additional money that Avon Park had not planned on such as having to buy 130 new water meters at one time for the federal housing project. The project is being built on the south side of Lake Tulane and south of the Avon Elementary School which cost over $2 million. Also sewerage had to be provided for the project. Streets had to be installed at the units on Lake Tulane.

A new tractor with back hoe had to be purchased for the water department at $8,250 to do work on Highway 27 and at the South Florida Junior College, which the city was fortunate enough to have located here. The buildings are already being constructed and Avon Park promised to provide water and sewer which the engineer's fee alone cost $6,000 with labor and materials cost another $50,000. SFJC will repay over a five year period.

Avon Park is getting a new $200,000 post office now under construction and the city had to widen the street and rest the curbing at a considerable expense.

In order to encourage new industry in the area, Avon Park City Councilmen leased Crutcherfield Marine the old Airport hangar to build fiberglass boats and the company is now employing approximately 150 people. Then the city built a new hangar for $20,000 which they are paying off at $6,000 per year. Another $2500 was spent for offices and rest rooms which was necessary before an operator would lease it.

Another $42,143.31 went for repaving and lighting the runway, of this amount the city will pay half and the rest will be paid by the federal government. Now the city has a modern airport in good condition with an operator and expects to start recovering the money invested.

The list of city owned vehicles probably reveals the longest list of dilapidated equipment of any city on the Ridge with some as old as 20 years and the average age of all the vehicles 10 years. What's worrying council members is more and more man hours are lost each week from broken down equipment and at the present time there are no funds to replace it.

No matter what steps the city decides to take it is best for all to pay some than some to pay all.

City Asks Commissioners To Buy Post Office Building

An otherwise routine county commission meeting was enlivened Tuesday as board members and attorneys declared, "Highlands County Commissioners have never mortgaged property and have no plans for issuing bonds of any kind."

The board had received a letter from Highlands County Farm Bureau opposing any "further mortgaging of property through sale of bonds" to meet needs which accompany population growth.

County Attorney Hue E. Nunnallee explained that the commissioners have, in the past, issued revenue bonds pledging repayment from a specific source of revenue "which is different from a general obligation bond pledging full faith and credit."

The commissioners are seeking permission from the Legislature to sell $1.5 million in certificates of indebtedness pledging repayment from this county's share of race track taxes. This issue, if permitted, would be in addition to the $1 certificate sale made four years ago.

Commissioner Cecil P. Skipper said Tuesday that income from the race track tax is high enough to support the new sale. Smaller counties—worried about possible loss of the race track income to large counties—have sought to retain their race track funds through bond sales. Possible use for some of the income, if Highlands County makes a new sale, was revealed at Tuesday's commission meeting. The old post office at Avon Park is due to go on sale soon, and the city of Avon Park has asked the county to consider purchase of the building to use for county offices.

Avon Park Clerk Malcolm Crews said at Tuesday's meeting, "The county health department held clinics every Wednesday in the basement of city hall. That is not the cleanest place with the rats and roaches. Then when vehicle tags are sold in Avon Park they have to be sold at an auto agency."

"We could use a place for people to apply for homestead exemption and to pay taxes. The city is willing to donate land for the county to build a building—we'd suggest buying the old post office," Crews said.

The city of Avon Park, through special legislation is transferring all tax assessing and collecting work to the county.

Crews also presented, to the commission, a request for the county to share in the cost of providing fire protection to areas outside the city limits. He said that for small cost, the county could share with Avon Park and Sebring in providing such protection outside the city.

When Attorney Nunnallee explained that present law forbids such an expenditure, Commissioner Earl Crutcherfield chimed in, "And that is why we need ordinance-making powers on county level so we don't have to go to the Legislature to get permission for things like this."

Population Laws
The request from Highlands County Mental Health Association for a 6000 share of the $5,000 the county appropriates for mental health and mental retardation programs brought to light that the next census will jump Highlands County right out of many of its old special laws.

The commission requested Nunnallee to prepare a report on ways the county laws will change when the new census is published in 1971.

The Mental Health request was approved.

Other Business
In other business the commission voted to drop negotiations to buy the LaGrange building at Lake Placid from the State Road Department.

Set 2:30 P.M. on May 29 for a conference with State Health

Department officials on obtaining a new county health director.

Approved erection of a 60-foot tower at West end of the court house to carry wires for the Civil Defense radio. The Florida Industrial Commission threatened to close the court house elevator if the wires were not removed from the elevator shaft.

Promised Sheriff Joe Keene that funds for jail plumbing will be included in next year's budget.

Help the veterans and buy their poppies Friday.

THINK CITIZENS

Who Tells you of your MORAL OBLIGATIONS without revealing his identity?

Also this BOLD ANONYMOUS statement is far from accurate.

Your school board has no authority under law to meet its local financial obligations EXCEPT by taxing property.

The defeat of our last bond issue by just a few indifferent citizens (looking for a Santa Claus) has already cost YOU $1,000,000 in increased interest cost and increased construction costs. I have been looking for outside help for over 20 years and it is not coming. Our state and U.S. Government does pay from other tax sources a great portion of teacher salaries, school lunch expense, educational improvement programs, Text books and many other important educational expenses and has agreed to a much improved assistance program to help us take care of future growth, but they will not help us catch up the building program we are already behind and if they should give us such help your school board is pledged to use any such money to reduce your taxes that we will impose to service this bond issue.

NOW what have they offered us or you in its place?—NOTHING.

The truth is if the bond issue is not passed the school board has no choice but to increase your taxes far more than the cost of servicing the bond issue would cost. This increased tax still would not catch up our building needs for 15 years even at the much higher tax rate because piece meal construction and delayed construction will greatly increase the cost of each phase of the construction program so badly needed NOW.

We figure that we will only have to increase the School construction part of your taxes by 2/10 of one mill or just 20c for each $1000.00 assessed value of non exempt property more than this years 1½ mills designated for building and bus reserve. To put it very simple, if you have a home assessed at $12,000 and have homestead exemption your added cost for the bond issue would be only $1.40 per YEAR or 12c per month. Our need is NOW.

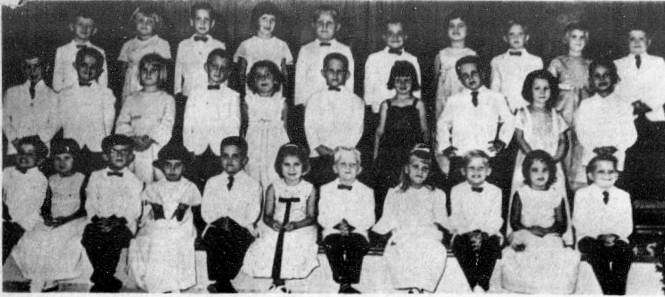

Our anonymous friends say don't vote for higher taxes on yourself. I know from 20 years close study and work as a school official, to vote No on the bond is to vote for more taxes on yourselves. All school board members are paying big taxes and we don't want higher taxes so we urge you to vote for the issue so our taxes will be less than you can possibly be with NO bond issue.

It seems our nation is plagued with all kinds of rebellions. Please do NOT join this rebellion against our sacred duty to our youth.

I am sure 90% of our citizens attended schools built with bond issues and now it is time for us to provide schools for our younger generation. With inflation the bond issue is the only safe way to do it. We have not had a school bond issue in 23 years. Now is the time.

If you know the facts you can not vote against the bond issue with a good conscience.

Pink Ladies Attend District Conference

With D. W. Bradley, public relations director of Florida Sanitarium and Hospital, Orlando, and Donald Schroeder, Medical Director of Hospital and Clinic in Dunedin, as speakers, the members of the hospital auxiliaries got it "straight from the shoulder" to use a slang expression.

The president sounded the keynote of the conference in her opening remarks. Her advice was to keep the membership involved, get the members to meetings, give them varied tasks to do. The hospital's responsibility is to keep the auxiliaries informed about changes in policy.

Mr. Bradley had good advice for all along with a pat on the back. In Florida there are 107 hospitals and auxiliaries with 28,620 members. These members contributed over two million hours during the last year and raised and turned back to their hospitals a total of $1,242,380.

Mrs. H. D. Crump of Lakeland stressed the importance of the "Candy Strippers" in the auxiliary program. In this volunteer program in a youth may become motivated to make some form of health service their career. One out of every 42 persons employed is employed in a hospital.

A welcome to Tampa was extended to the group by Mayor Dick Green. The conference was held in the DeSoto dormitory on the campus of USF. The Tampa auxiliary associations are to be complimented for a difficult task well done, in hosting the conference.

Our American system of voluntary health care, with some governmental assistance has produced better health care for more people than any other system in the world and the future is brighter than ever.

Those attending from Walker Memorial Hospital were: President Edna Henderson, Madames Green, Ward, Slocum, Howard, Longanecker, Langman, Ormiston, Fillmore and Krenierick.

THE CAREFREE ALL-ELECTRIC MOBILE HOME!

Mobile homes have come a long way from yesterday's cramped, utilitarian trailer. Today, more and more manufacturers are producing all-electric mobile homes. They're spacious, decorator-styled, and all-electric... providing clean, safe, flameless heating and cooling, cooking and refrigeration, water heating and garbage disposal. They give you the utmost in modern, comfortable, carefree living. That means more time to enjoy the beautiful settings, recreational facilities, and congenial neighbors of today's mobile home parks.

Isn't carefree living the key reason you're interested in a mobile home? So be sure and ask your mobile home dealer about the advantages of an all-electric mobile home. That makes it the best investment — an idea to consider from

ROTARY CLUB NEWS

By GUY GARRETT
The program for Wednesday, May 7, was presented by our new county engineer, Chish Morgan.

He gave an informative talk about his responsibilities and duties. Primarily, he is the executive arm of the county commissioners and is not concerned with policy-making but more with carrying out the policies of the commissioners.

His second hat is that of planning roads and seeing that regulations are followed in sub-divisions and secondary and primary road construction.

With one man responsible for these and other duties, Mr. Morgan feels that efficiency is so much greater in the overall county operation.

White Sands Construction Awarded Franchise From Stran-Steel

White Sands Construction Company of Sarasota has been named an authorized Stran-Steel Franchised Builder for the Florida west coast area.

Award of the franchise was announced by James W. Cliff, vice president-sales for Stran-Steel Corporation, Houston, Texas-based manufacturer of steel building systems and components.

White Sands Construction is owned by Douglas C. Matcham and Warren C. Beall. Both men have been associated with the company since it was established in the area five years ago.

"Stran structures afford a vast array of construction, flexibility of design and make future expansion easier."

Smith noted that Stran buildings blend effectively with brick, stone, etc., for structures of lasting strength and beauty.

Brownies Have Flying-Up Ceremonies

By SHERRY CORBIN

On Monday afternoon, May 12, Girl Scout Troop 206 held a welcome ceremony for 19 Brownies who were "flying-up" to become Girl Scouts.

The Girl Scouts formed a horseshoe to welcome and explain Girl Scouting to the Brownies. Then Brownie leader Mrs. John Sechrist of Troop 140 pinned the following Brownie girls with their fly-up wings: Jamie Clifton, Kim Taylor, Loreta Barber, Gwen Durham, Pat Andrews, Terri Thompson, Tawna Avery and Margaret Miracle.

Mrs. Clarence McInvalle, leader of Troop 47, pinned the following Brownie girls from her troop. They are: Kathy Sneed, Sandra Sauls, Patti Todd, Janet McInvalle, Nancy Cribb, Sharon Ridgdon, Donna Crews, Louis Fowler, Kathy Lane, Deborah Weeks and Rose Sinsler.

Then one by one the Brownies crossed the bridge into Girl Scouting. They were met by a member of the Junior Scout Troop. After all had crossed the bridge the girls repeated the Girl Scout promise and Girl Scout laws. The new Scouts then received their Girl Scout pins, and welcomed into Troop 206, by its leader, Mrs. T. DeLaney.

Refreshments were served, followed by a song fest. The afternoon ended with the girls joining together to sing taps.
