

Watson Aide Visits In City

Wendell Watson, State Representative from the 51st District, like many of his constituents, fell victim to the flu bug and was unable to visit Avon Park on January 16 as planned. Fortunately, his administrative assistant Jim Fleming escaped being bitten and was able to make the trip in his stead.

Mr. Fleming spent a busy morning on behalf of his boss receiving ideas, suggestions, and just plain political impressions from a number of Avon Park citizens including city council member Ed Touchton Jr., Ann Belle Worden of the Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Lilla Ogilvie of the Mayor's office, Mrs. Roberta Broomhall of the Family Services Division, and Avon Park building inspector C. W. Ellerbe.

Some questions raised during this visit have already been answered by mail from Mr. Watson's office. Others may be answered or more fully explored during the February visit scheduled for the 13th.

Those interested in contacting representative Watson during his Avon Park visits should note that the February and March visits will be made on the second Thursday of the month. Succeeding visits are planned for the third Thursday of each month.

One of the first steps in improving a store is removal of unsightly overhanging signs which women shoppers do not like to walk under. These signs were erected to keep horses and buggies away from the store. A lot can be done inexpensively with paint, glass, patty, trim, wood and metals stated Brabe and the "nicer the entrance the longer the shopper stays in the store."

In a discussion of the airport a request was heard from Jimmy Benfro in which he asked the city to close 300 feet of State Street, which is beyond that closed by the city, thus allowing him more room for a building and taxiway on his property. It was moved by the Council that this action be recommended to the County Commission.

The Council also inquired about the installation of electric lights and power outlets in the city built T-hangers at the airport. The two T-hangers have light and power outlet but airplane owners renting the other hangers are unable to work at night or have power in their hangers. Bids have been received from Palmer Electric and Florida Power. The Council instructed Fire Chief Mack Flowers to check into the costs of materials and installation of electric power for these hangers.

Hays Lectures At New Commissioner Meeting

When it comes to county roads, donations are not an unmixed blessing, an expert in road design and construction told Florida county commissioners.

Gordon Hays, who is Highlands County engineer and two times president of Florida State Association of County Engineers and Road Superintendents, lectured at the school for new commissioners held in Tallahassee, Jan. 13-14.

He pointed out, "Many counties rely on donation of right-of-way. This means you've got to accept it where the owner wants it in the case of new construction, and this is not always the safest and most economical route."

Hays described another pitfall: "Occasionally, people will come to your board meetings, offering to donate a right-of-way to the county. They may also indicate that they don't expect the county to construct a road in the right-of-way."

"This offer should be given much consideration as to whether or not it would be beneficial to the general public, if accepted, because sooner or later, these same persons will return, demanding that the county construct a road since it now owns the land."

"I have heard of right-of-ways being deeded to a county and recorded without the board's knowledge and the county had to adopt a policy whereby it would deed back to the original owner, in self-defense."

Another problem is sorting out county responsibilities. "Your constituents will contact you about a certain road, saying 'the road needs grading' or 'the road needs patching.' It may or may not be county maintained. Almost all of them believe that when a plat is recorded, the county takes over maintenance automatically. The law is stated thus: 'Even though a county accepts a plat for recording, it is under no obligation to maintain the streets, however, it may do so at any time.'"

Hays said Florida has many prescriptive roads which Florida Highway Code says are "presumed to be dedicated". They were constructed by county or city, or maintained, kept in repair or worked uninterruptedly for a period of four years.

Florida has many of these roads, but the law provided that the public control is only over the portion of the road actually paved. Hays told commissioners it is wise to adopt a policy of not paving any existing road unless the minimum right-of-way, set by the county, is acquired in advance of paving.

Although Hays expertise in road construction has been recognized by his appointment to state and national advisory commissions, he skipped construction details with the commissioners. He sagely noted "The base materials differ in each section of Florida and you will probably be using the most economical material available to you."

After his lecture in Tallahassee, Hays flew to Chicago for a meeting of the board of directors for the National Association of County Engineers. He is vice president for southeastern region.

The 14 inch well with a 12 inch pump will be geared to inject 1400 to 1800 gallons of water per minute into the city water system. Chlorination equipment will be installed in the second room. be given to the selected architect by March 1, bids could be accepted in July and the contract let in August.

According to Douglass' timetable, the project would be completed in time for Placid 9th through 12th graders to start classes in their new school in September, 1976.

"We should have prime bidders; they will be looking at a $2.5 million job," he remarked. "And our construction will be assisting the economy."

The cost of a new Sebring Middle School is estimated to be $1.9 million, with an additional $45,000 for razing the present building.

By shifting around facilities and equipment, notably moving the garage and maintenance divisions to E. O. Douglas, the superintendent feels the Sebring middle school can be built on the same site it now occupies with little disruption of education.

As a side note he told the board that for maximum usage he will recommend that Sebring City Council open up Eucalyptus Street and close Orange Street.

Douglass pointed out that once the new Lake Placid high school is operational, the middle schoolers will move into the high school, liberating portable classrooms which can be moved to Sebring High.

Asked by board member Steve Roberts why the Avon Park middle school is at the end of the construction line, Douglass told him that according to the Florida Inventory School Housing report, Avon Park middle and elementary schools are losing population, whereas population is increasing in the other two cities.

The proposed swimming pool at Sebring High School is also on the list for discussion this afternoon. Members of the pool committee were asked to join the board at 4.

At the last regular meeting the committee proposed an $80,000 pool, with the school district contributing $20,000 to the venture and the pool group raising $60,000. The idea of a pool was endorsed without a commitment of funds, and the matter will be gone over again.

Also planned for today is a re-visit by Edward Simon, spokesman for the Highlands County Educational Association, which has been recognized as official bargaining agent for given members of school personnel. Approval was given pending confirmation that the unit represents the majority of

In a report filed by Sgt. Bob Oberther, City Police Dept., he stated that while checking doors of the business in the downtown area, he observed a black male run from in front of Bill Owens Ford, across the mail to the theatre. Oberther further stated that he called for the subject to halt, but when the subject did not respond, a warning was fired. A few minutes later Cpt. Presley Selph joined Oberther in a search attempt in the alley behind Delaney Hardware Store. County Deputies Keith Albright, Glen Bass and Mike Mercer also assisted in the search, and investigation. A close check of the Ford Motor Co. disclosed that the building had been entered and that several filing cabinets had been ransacked. Preliminary inventory failed to reveal any items missing.

Child Development Class Observes Nursery Children

Mrs. Violet Moseley's Child Development Classes, 10th, 11th and 12th graders, at Avon Park High School took a big step when they invited children from the ages of 2 to 5 years to attend their class for a two week nursery school.

Under the direction and supervision of Mrs. Sharon Leland, a local resident and former owner of a kindergarten in Jacksonville, the students in two of the three classes are getting first hand experience in dealing with small children.

The demonstration kitchen in the Home Economic facility, which is a very versatile room, was used for this project.

The students brought a lot of different toys, books, and even a live hamster from home for the children to play with.

In the one hour period the girls occupied their small friends with four basic classes music, art, storytime and snacks. During this time the children get a chance to express themselves, which can be very interesting, while the students observe their behavior.

The children's music period consisted of singing, dancing and acting out parts of songs such as "Thumper" and "The Terrible Weenie Spider". In their art center they had finger paint, brush, sponge and night time picture painting. Lynell Rogers made their play dough out of flour, cooking oil, food coloring, salt, cream of tartar and winter green for the aroma. The dough will last from four to six weeks in a covered container.

During storytime the girls read illustrated children's short stories.

It was interesting to observe that many children during their first time would fall into the familiar house playing role of mother and father.

Unfortunately one Child Development Class was unable to have the children come in. So under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Green, the media specialist, they are making film strips and slides. These illustrate children's storybook tales which will be used in future Child Development classes, kindergarten programs and story hour in the Elementary schools.

Mrs. Moseley and the students appreciate the cooperation they received from the mothers during the nursery school. They hope that next year the program will be even bigger and better.

Sun SportsWriter Defends Sixth Spot On Ladder

Six challenge matches on the women's "A" ladder last week were played in the Highlands County Tennis Association. Elin Baker moved up to spot number 3 with an 8-2 win over Mary Jane Lloyd. Lucy Derkman defended her number 8 position with an 8-5 win over Marilyn Smith, who challenged from number 8 slot. Evelyn Jones moved from 12 to 10 with an 8-2 victory over Kristine Bjorn. Trusty Wadley defeated Nancy Bryant 8-3 to move up from 20 to 18 and to go over Mary Jo Schubert 8-6 on the "A" ladder. Cheryl Lee stayed at her number 15 position with an 8-4 victory over Mary Jo Schubert.

The top of the men's "A" ladder was very active last week. Eric Annett stayed at the top without a challenge but Eugene Bengston took over the number two spot from Bill Johnson with a 3-4-5-6-4 win. Ken Haysley held on to the number 3 position with a 6-3-6-3 victory over Al Marrow who was number 5 at the time. Then Marrow challenged Bill Johnson and won the number 4 spot with a 6-2, 3-4, 6-0 score. So the men's "A" ladder now has Annett, Bengston, Haysley, Marrow, Johnson, and Bill Baker in the top six spots. There were two matches on the men's "B" ladder. Bill Page stayed number one with a 6-2, 6-3 win over second place Larry Johnson and Bruce Wyse moved from 6 to 4 with a 6-1, 6-3 win over Chet Brojek. The top six men on the "B" ladder are Page, Johnson, Hines, Wyse, Bob Baker, and Brojek. Three challenge matches were played on the women's "B" ladder. Sandra Beck won over Yetta Bengston 8-5 to move from position 5 to number 4. Becky Crittenden defended her number 2 spot with an 8-4 victory over Sandra Beck who had challenged from number 4. Jean Rosser jumped from 17 to 15 with an 8-1 win over Leslie Pollard.

Assistant State Attorney Wilson Resigns

Assistant State Attorney Thomas D. Wilson has submitted his resignation to State Atty. Glen Darty in Bartow. Wilson has been the Highlands County representative since late spring.

Wilson said he intends to go into private practice in St. Petersburg. "I want to get into the private world. It is not a pleasant move. I was considering it back in November and December." A native of Ohio and a graduate of Stetson University, St. Petersburg, Wilson said he has nothing but praise for law officers in Highlands County. "The local police and the sheriff's department have given me complete cooperation and they work well with each other. They have an excellent team spirit."

Wilson's resignation will become effective at the end of the month.

Devils Regain Lead For Close Win

In the most exciting game of the season, the Red Devil cagers stunned the Lake Placid Green Dragons with a 71-70 defeat last Friday night on the Dragons' home court. Lake Placid had one final shot at the basket when they took the ball in from under their own goal with three seconds left in the game but missed to give Avon Park the big win.

Last Tuesday night the Devil varsity hosted the Mulberry Panthers here at the high school gym in a district game. Tomorrow night (Friday) the Devils will go to Frostproof for a return game with the Bulldogs. Frostproof defeated the Devil here in Avon Park by a score of 97-49. Next Tuesday night the Fort Meade Miners will be here for games with the two Red Devil squads.

In Lake Placid last Friday night the Red Devils jumped off to an 11-0 lead before the Dragons could score. The Devils had a 21-10 lead after one quarter and were ahead 39-26 at halftime. In the third period the Dragons edged up within 7 points with a 54-46 score at the end of that period. Then in the final period the Lake Placid team scored 22 points while Avon Park managed only 16 but the Devils took the one point victory on the missed final Dragon shot.

Recreation

The Avon Park Recreation Department will sponsor a dance for all area young people, Saturday night, Jan. 26, from 8:30 - 12:00 p.m. The music will be provided by a very good band from Tampa called "Duncan." Admission to the dance at the Avon Park Recreation Center will be $1.00 per person. If you are invited to attend the dance to the sounds of "Duncan."

Craig Pressley and Mickey Claitt both pulled down 16 rebounds and Melvin Collins grabbed off 13 rebounds as he turned in an outstanding performance. Pressley led the Devils scoring with 19 points on 9 field goals and 1 of 2 free shots. James Ross hit 7 from the floor and 1 of 3 from the line for a 15 point performance. Melvin Collins scored 12 points, Mickey Claitt hit for 10 and Reggie Tolbert scored 9 counters. Kenneth Burley added 4 points and Ricky Claitt pumped in one field goal for two points. The Devils hit only 5 of 12 free shots while Lake Placid hit 14 of 20 from the line. Avon Park had ten fouls called in the second half. Lake Placid made only five fouls in the last half.

Coach Tom Lund is expecting three more players out this week as Sam King, Terry Hicks, and Mark Perry become eligible the second semester. They will join the team with eight games left on the regular season schedule. The district tournament is set for the week-end of February 21 and 22 and the regional tournament will be played the following week-end. After eleven games the Red Devils have a 6-5 record. Craig Pressley leads the scoring average with 27.1 per game. Mickey Claitt and Melvin Collins both have a 12.7 average and Reggie Tolbert has averaged 8.4 points per game. James Ross has averaged 6.6. Ricky Claitt has averaged 4.0 points per game. Clifford Coleman has hit 3.5 points, and Ben Wright has averaged 3.2 points per game.

County commissioners seek landfill solutions

By SHERMAN WANTZ

Finding a reasonable solution to the county's mounting solid waste disposal problems may prove to be the most difficult task the board of county commissioners has faced during the past 10 years.

People are becoming aware of environmental pollution. They are beginning to accept ecologists' claims that the beauties of nature should be preserved and that the quality of life ought to be improved. They are even accepting the fact that environmental improvements carry with them a price tag — inconvenience, alteration of habits, cash outlays.

Public recognition of environmental pollution has brought with it too a tolerance for governmental regulation to achieve desired improvements.

Legislative bodies, executives and administrators spend considerable time setting standards, establishing procedures and threatening penalties — all ostensibly aimed at curbing man's natural inclination to pollute his surroundings.

It is in this unfamiliar milieu that county commissioners find themselves, searching for a solution to local solid waste disposal problems.

Dumps vs. Sanitary Landfills

Dumps are no longer acceptable; sanitary landfills are.

Civilized men have an aversion to dumps in which garbage and rubbish are discarded in open areas. Rats, flies and other insects soon take up residence. Winds blow loose paper everywhere, detracting from the landscape's natural beauty. Foul odors emanate from uncovered mounds of refuse. Scavengers ply through unsightly piles of debris. Fires rage and threaten adjacent property; acid smoke crawls over nearby cities and shields the earth from the sun.

A sanitary landfill, operated according to governmentally-imposed standards, does none of the above.

Garbage and trash are deposited in landfill cells (trenches) 20-30 feet deep. At the close of each operating day, employees use bulldozers to compact and cover the daily waste intake with at least six inches of earth. The cell, when full, is covered with two to three feet of earth, is compacted and is planted with grass.

The daily cover of earth placed atop collected refuse eliminates insect and rodent infestation and represents the prime factor that differentiates a sanitary landfill from its predecessor, the open dump.

Finding A Landfill Site

County commissioners have met staunch opposition from the public each time they have attempted to purchase a new sanitary landfill site.

In June 1971 commissioners tried to buy a 40-acre landfill on Airport Road, northeast of Red Beach Lake. When it was determined that a zoning regulation variance would be required to use the parcel for landfill purposes, the case was brought before the county's Board of Adjustment. In February 1972, the board denied use of the site as a landfill.

In October 1972 commissioners selected a site north of Lake Sebring and attempted to have it rezoned for a landfill. Again, the Board of Adjustment denied their petition.

Throughout 1972 and early 1973 the State Department of Pollution Control pressured county commissioners to act decisively. In February 1973 the department threatened to fine the county over an open burning incident at the Lake Placid dump.

Stern warnings were again issued by the pollution control agency in April 1973 because of a fire that broke out at the Sebring dump. Then, in May 1973, the Avon Park dump on SR-64 was the victim of an open fire that offended nearby residents and brought down the full wrath of the pollution control board on commissioners — in the form of a violation notice.

At a public hearing held July 11, 1973, a pollution control examiner ordered the Avon Park dump closed and demanded that commissioners begin operating the SR-627 dump in Avon Park as a landfill, covering each day's trash intake with earth. Failure to comply carries with it a $5,000 per day penalty assessment.

In August 1973 commissioners advertised for a "centrally located" landfill site large enough to serve the entire county. They were offered a piece of land on Grand Concourse Road, Josephine Creek area, but local residents objected.

In September 1973 they advertised again for land — on a lease or a sale basis — and found an attractive site near Red Beach Lake, DeSoto City area. Again nearby residents objected. So did the department of pollution control which claimed the tract unacceptable.

Commissioner Robert Skipper expressed the board's frustration. "All we seem to do when we change a proposed landfill site, is change the set of faces of those who oppose it."

Recycling and Disposal

In March 1974 Jack Adams, president of Ecologics, Inc., Red Lion, Pa., dangled before commissioners the ultimate solution to its solid waste disposal problems.

Adams proposed building a plant in Sebring that would process 50,000 tons of county trash per year. Ferrous materials, aluminum and other non-ferrous metals, and glass would be separated for sale. Other matter would be removed from collected refuse, sterilized and used as fertilizer, mulch, or inert road bed material. Remaining trash would be buried or burned at high temperatures to produce steam that could be sold to commercial users.

The $1,800,000 plant, to be built by Ecologics at no cost to the county, would be so profitable, Adams predicted, that commissioners might want to buy it and have the county operate it.

Adams' no-risk offer appeared too attractive for commissioners to pass up. They knew if the plant lived up to expectations, Highlands County would move ahead of every county in the state in terms of waste disposal efficiency.

It is difficult to fault commissioners for bypassing the landfill type solution and going directly for the ultimate answer to solid waste disposal, i.e., a process that recovers and re-uses abandoned materials.

In fact the Florida legislature fashioned a law last year that would give counties and municipalities only two years to implement resource recovery and management programs to collect, separate, process, recover and recycle locally generated waste materials.

Fortunately, the law provides that the pollution control board must approve the processing system before the two year deadline countdown begins.

The Ecologics deal fell through—for reasons commissioners may never fully know. Adams hinted that delays were caused by problems in financing the new plant during a period when money was tight. He even mentioned that his company's directors were split on the question of proceeding or dropping the Sebring project.

Finally, in December 1974, Ecologics agreed to proceed with construction of the plant but only on the basis that the county pay a $8.40 per-ton toll charge for refuse delivered to it. The company's previously quoted toll charge had been $3 per-ton. One year would be required to build, equip and start operating the plant.

Commissioners showed little disposition to believe Adams' latest offer.

"I'd be scared to trust him any further," commissioner Kelley Phillips said.

Board Chairman C.J. "Buddy" Wise agreed.

"I have no confidence left at all in Ecologics," he said.

The Ecologics episode had delayed the landfill search by almost a year.

The Search is Renewed

Late in December 1974 commissioners appointed a committee to resume attempts to find a central landfill site.

The committee's present intent is to recommend the purchase of land that adjoins its DeSoto City landfill (Skipper Road east of U.S. 27), a 26-acre clay and sand pit owned by the Coca-Cola Company, which permits the county to use it free of charge. If commissioners agree, and if a reasonable purchase price can be arranged, the county will have its central landfill.

This time, zoning regulations should present no bar. County attorney Robert Dux Jr. now feels the board is not bound by its own zoning ordinance and can, if it chooses, designate land for public use without referring its decision to the Planning and Zoning Commission or to the Board of Adjustment.

Three Sites or One?

The department of pollution control has recently issued a permit for the continued operation of Lake Placid's landfill, located just north of SR-621 behind the LaGrow Irrigation Systems, Inc. plant. However, the permit expires in October 1975.

Wise has expressed his belief that the Lake Placid landfill might be full within the next two months and has suggested an urgent need to find a replacement in the south end of the county.

The Avon Park landfill located on SR-627 north of the truck route and the DeSoto City landfill are now licensed by the state for operation until January 1978. (The Sebring landfill is closed.)

All three sites previously operated as dumps, are now treated as sanitary landfills in that bulldozers cover debris with fresh earth daily, the areas are fenced, scavenging is not permitted, and attendants are on duty seven days a week.

Questions raised at the Jan. 7 meeting of the landfill committee threatened to introduce old regional jealousies into the selection of a "central" disposal area.

What happens when Lake Placid's landfill site is filled in 1975 and Avon Park still has its site available until 1978? Can residents living in the south end of the county rightfully expected to carry their garbage and trash as far as 30 miles to a central landfill while residents living in the northern end have access to a site nearby.

Would it make sense to close the Avon Park landfill before its permit expires in 1978 just to make the burden of hauling waste materials to a centrally located area fall equally on residents of the county?

What if a gasoline shortage develops again soon? Will people living in the Lake Placid and Venus areas resort to discarding their garbage and trash along county roads, turning the southern half of the county into a huge, unsightly, unhealthy dump?

Of course, no one knows the answers to these questions. Most residents take pride in the appearance of their county and will act responsibly, no matter what the cost.

But commissioners must wonder how many irresponsible litterers reside in the county when they hear planning and zoning director Bill Stephenson report that he receives an average of two reports of unauthorized dumping each week.

Commissioners know they can impose mandatory refuse collection charges on all county residents to discourage most indiscriminate dumping. At present citizens are free to use or not use the services of the county's franchised trash collectors.

As a last resort commissioners know, too, that they can adopt a "head hunter" ordinance under which those who report litterers receive a portion of the fine that the county judge imposes on the offender.

But these are extreme measures commissioners are reluctant to take as long as other, more reasonable, policies can be applied.

What About Cost? The Board of County Commissioners had $377,000 in its fiscal year 1973-74 budget for a central landfill project.

About $140,000 was earmarked to purchase equipment needed to operate the landfill. Included were a large bulldozer-type machine required to dig cells, to compact piles of trash and to cover the cells with fresh earth.

A portion of the equipment money was earmarked to purchase about 100 "green boxes" — heavy metal containers each having a four-cubic-yard capacity, which would be placed along highways throughout the county at convenient locations for residents' use in discarding trash.

Two Dempster Dumpsters, trucks having hydraulically operated arms used to lift and empty the contents of each "green box", would also be required. Such trucks would carry the waste collected to the central landfill.

Also in the 1973-74 budget was $185,000 to be used to purchase and prepare a centrally located site.

When the fiscal year 1974-75 budget was prepared, however, commissioners were counting on Ecologics, Inc. to solve the county's disposal problem. Therefore, they removed from the budget about $236,000 intended for landfill acquisition and operation. This money was allocated to other county expenses.

All that remains in the 1974-75 budget earmarked for landfill use is $73,000, most of which is to be used for employee salaries.

This year's budget does not provide commissioners much latitude for adjustments to permit them to recover from Ecologics' failure to produce its solution.

They have $115,000 budgeted for courthouse renovation which might be transferred if the renovation job were delayed until next year.

Likewise, $40,000 now earmarked for construction of a county office building in Avon Park might be used if start of construction there were delayed until October 1975.

Once the central landfill is in operation, cities, commercial users and franchised trash collectors will be expected to pay for use of the facility. Payment is expected to be on a per-ton basis. Later, if practical, individuals driving trucks and station wagons may be asked to pay a "nominal" charge for trash delivered to the landfill.

What's The Answer? It should be obvious that commissioners have some difficult decisions to make, as they attempt to balance the county's need for a new sanitary landfill against objections raised by citizens who want it located anywhere except in their neighborhoods and against objections by voters who want it situated in their section of the county. Then, too, there's the shortage of funds that makes it difficult to reinstate the project during this fiscal year irrespective of location.

Add to the above the continuing pressure being exerted on commissioners by the state to institute even more strict controls on the county's present landfill operations, the shortage of money to do so and the uncertainty that surrounds legislature's timetable for phasing out landfills altogether and their replacement by solid waste plants.

Citizens who recognize the many political, social, technical and economic complications that must be overcome can be happy that they aren't standing in their commissioners' shoes.

Next Week: Commissioners give their opinions on which of the several alternatives each favors.

CouncilHear Department Reports

The 1975 Avon Park City Council at its regular meeting Monday night received reports from different departments along with a report from the Recreational Council. The activity report for the Fire Department submitted by Chief H. M. Flowers showed the following fire calls:

Construction, one; grass or woods, seven; automobiles, two and miscellaneous, one, for a total of 11 fire calls for December with a no dollar value loss. Fire loss to date $5,100.

The monthly recreation report submitted by Recreation Director Dennis Guenther showed a variation in the number of youngsters using the recreation facilities because of the Holiday season, "varying from 368 in the first week of December to 190 during the Christmas week, 254 during the New Year week and back up to 370 using the center during the week of January 6-11.

There was also a corresponding drop of attendance in the special activities at the rec-center. The Young Life group and the bingo groups did not meet during the two holiday weeks.

The Recreational Council meeting minutes submitted by Eileen S. Martin, secretary indicated that Dan Davis, an original recreation council member was interested in resuming work on the council since having completed his degree work. Recreation Director Dennis Guenther reported to the group that other city directors were not charging non-profit organizations for the use of facilities but charges were made for all money making projects.

Guenther also announced he had been approached about starting a special activities program at the Hopewell School playground which the council was going to study further.

Action was delayed on the Recreation Council pending receipt of a model ordinance and by-laws being studied by the group. Recreation Director Dennis Guenther said this ordinance should be ready by the next regular Council meeting.

POLICY HOLDER SUES
A suit has been filed in circuit court charging that State Farm Mutual company had "refused to pay disability benefits" to a policy holder. Junior Richbow of Sebring route 2 claims he suffered injuries in a traffic accident on June 14, 1974, and his insurance company has not paid the benefits which he believes are provided for in his policy.

Financial Institution Doing Well Here

The Avon Park branch office of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Hardee County has in three months exceeded a financial peak that usually takes three years, according to association president Doyle Spears.

In making his yearly report to the membership Spears reported that the Avon Park branch which opened last October has passed the break-even point and is now making a profit. Spears said most saving and loan associations expect to carry a loss for branch offices for the first three years. Spears said the branch is generating considerable savings from new accounts as well as Highlands County residents adding to their savings. He said they are also making loans and are participating in financing homes in the new Sun 'n Lakes Estates of Sebring Development.

DEEP AS THE SEA

Standing in the sand, looking at the sea, one cannot help thinking of the boundless, fathomless love of God toward us. Oh, how he loves us, uplifts us, protects us and encourages us. There comes to mind many of his precious promises and the heart swells with gratitude. Recalled first of all, perhaps, are verses like these:

"Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee: yea, I will help thee."

"Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love: therefore with loving kindness have I drawn thee." Jeremiah 31:3.

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

"For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved." John 3:16, 17.

Many more words of comfort await you in the Bible and in the Church as His words are proclaimed from the pulpit. We invite you to attend church this week. You will be glad you did.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Between The Bookends

By MRS. R. D. MOORE

Football season is over but if you need something to tide you over until next year try Bear: The Hard Life and Good Times of Alabama's Coach Bryant written by the Bear himself. Bryant's colorful, straight forward style fills every page as he recalls the long distance he has come, from his hard early days as a poor Arkansas farm boy through his turbulent years as a coach. Fletcher Knebel's new book has arrived. The Bottom Line is a story of an annual convention of large company presidents. The "jet set" is here with all the glitz, lavishment and uninhibited extracurricular activities and here to the corporate position — jockeying is more deadly.

The Complete Book of Breads by Bernard Clayton is perhaps the most complete and most satisfying collection of bread recipes ever published. Covering the whole range of breads — from simple soda breads to holiday fruit loaves — this presents recipes for the tenderest, crustiest, most soul-satisfying breads from around the world. The author has devoted a chapter to collecting and testing these recipes, and he offers simple step-by-step directions that even a beginner can follow with assurance.

On April 10, 1963, sometime between 9:14 and 9:17 a.m., the nuclear submarine Thresher tripped some thousands of feet below the surface of the Atlantic Ocean with the loss of all 129 men on board. John Bentley puts the reader of his book The Thresher on the bottom of the submarine from the beginning of the cruise to the last terrifying moments when disaster became inevitable. The Book of Old Silver, English, American, Foreign by Seymour Wyler is a history and guide to Old Silver and Old Sheffield Plate, with the most comprehensive table of hallmarks ever published in one book. Here is the fascinating story of the great silversmiths and their art. All the factors of interest to the amateur, connoisseur, or collector of Old Silver and Old Sheffield Plate are authoritatively covered.

Gladys Taber reveals her love for nature and her philosophy of life in a commentary on her beloved 17th century Connecticut farmhouse and its surroundings in Country Chronicle. An ace American fighter pilot and his Japanese counterpart, bonded by their respect for one another, are forced into a duel in Martin Caidin's The Last Daylight.

A Mexican restaurant owner is accused of murder when a headless, handless body is discovered on his property in the new mystery Matthew's Hand by Charles Larson. Astrology is enjoying a resurgence of popularity these days. Derek Parker's new book entitled The Complete Astrologer's Sunsigns Guide gives a brief history of astrology along with general information on the personality traits, love relationships, and career activities associated with individuals born under each zodiac sign.

Shell Crafts by Elizabeth Logan offers guidance in book The Thresher on the bottom of the submarine from the beginning of the cruise to the variety of jewelry pieces and decorations. We have added a beautiful new biography of Verdi to our Collection. Verdi by Joseph Wechsberg examines Verdi's formative years and genius as a composer as well as discussing his private life and relationships.

A man living alone in a Brooklyn apartment house slated for demolition finds himself plagued by ominous, supernatural sounds and the knowledge that something seeks his death in The Search For Joseph Tully by William Hallahan.

How To Help Your Child Get The Most Out of School by Stella Ches discusses ways in which children learn and offers parents concrete suggestions for helping youngsters cope with the educational experience.

Linda Shad has written a dramatic account of a family's desperate effort to flee to Pakistan following the withdrawal of British rule from India in Refugee. Award-winning author Joyce Carol Oates has written 25 stories exploring women's struggles to achieve personal identity in a male dominated society despite the odds in which they are cast in The Goddess And Other Women.

An anthology of firsthand accounts written during the 15th, 16th, and 17th centuries offers reports of poltergeists, occult phenomena, devil worship, possession, and witchcraft in William Woods' A Casebook of Witchcraft.

A young man's dreams bring him to the realization that he had a previous life in Max Ehrlich's The Reincarnation of Peter Proud.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will republish in the Federal Register of Jan. 9 a complete edition of current regulations and amendments for operation of the Food Stamp Program. IT'S COMMON SENSE

A pedestrian's best defense against injury is using good common sense. Little things like crossing the street only at marked intersections, don't step into the street from between parked cars without looking, and if you work during hours of darkness use reflectorized markings on your clothing. They'll add years to your life.
