State Representative Will Tour APCI And Alcoholic Center

To Check How
Tax Dollars
Are Spent

It was announced by Beverly Burned, State Representative District 50, that the Florida House of Representatives Appropriations Committee (1) will tour the Avon Park Correctional Institution and the Avon Park Correctional Institution on Wednesday, Jan. 11.

The committee will leave the Holiday Inn, Lakeland, to visit the Polk City Correctional Institution, the HRS Sub-district Headquarters, G. Pierce Wood Hospital, Arcadia, DeSoto Correctional Institution, Avon Park Rehabilitation Center and the Avon Park Correctional Institution.

"Visits to the various institution provide valuable information to the committee, as well as providing a check of how our tax dollars are being spent and used," stated Mrs. Burned, the only first term legislator appointed to the powerful Appropriations Committee.

93 Families Get Christmas Boxes

Thursday, Dec. 22, 1977, the cheer organization and members of the Avon Park Lion's Club along with a number of ladies packed Christmas Baskets for the needy of Avon Park with all kinds of groceries and toys for the children so that all of them could enjoy a most beautiful Christmas at their respective homes. There was 13 Lion's led by none other than George Kelsey who is treasurer of the Avon Park Lion's Club. There was also 122 Ladies from Avon Park that packed all of the toys for the children. There was a total of 93 food boxes packed along with a box of toys for each of the children of the families. Last year there were 87 boxes packed. The churches and organizations of the community deserve a lot of credit for responding as they have over the years to this most important project at Christmas time. This also includes the residents of Avon

Park Lakes as well as Avon Park proper. Friday morning, Dec. 23, 1977, there was six Lion's and two ladies that helped take boxes of groceries and toys to the cars of people that came for them. They all worked a total of 24 hours. On Thursday there was a total of 56 hours by all concerned in packing the boxes and toys. All of us worked to try and give those less fortunate a Merry Christmas and a Happy Prosperous New Year.

Home Health Care Will Start In January - Board Approves Budget

Highlands County Home Health Care Service did not arrive in time for Christmas, but will appear before the 12th night of Christmas.

The county commissioners' approval of the service's 1977-78 budget and appointment of administrative staff have added finishing touches to preparations at the local level. Final okay from the state licensure agency is expected any day, according to officials for the county health department which is the administrative agency for the new home service.

At its Dec. 13 meeting the board of county commissioners approved a schedule of fees, based on ability of clients to pay.

Clients who have incomes of less than $49 per week will be treated without charge. Individuals who have incomes of more than $100 per week may be charged as much as $25 for a visit from a professional nurse. The fee schedule includes provision for consideration to be given to such things as length of illness, family indebtedness, routine expenses of family and probable length of time home health service might be needed. Some clients will be asked to make very small payments for visits — 50 cents or $1 and the commissioners directed that in so far as possible, service will be rendered on a cash basis. In recent years Medicare and private insurance companies have begun making payments for health services given at home and such payments provide a large part of the income for any home health service. The Highlands service is not limited to Medicare patients, but will serve persons from any income and age group.

The budget approved this week calls for the nursing supervisor to be paid at the rate of $11,000 per year. Two other registered nurses are to be paid $10,000 each. Two home health aides are to be paid $6,200 per year. The administrative assistant for the service is to be paid $5,500 and the receptionist $4,200.

Medical supplies are budgeted for $3,394 and office supplies at $2,089. Travel allowance is set at $3,745, insurance and bonds at $2,505. Equipment is budgeted at $1,960. Total budget for the year is set at $57,214. The county had earmarked $75,000 in its 1977-78 budget for home health care.

As another part of the launching procedure the commission approved expenditure of $200 for remodeling in the county health department offices to make room for the health care headquarters.

A committee to review patient care records was named this week: Dr. Glenn Hough, Mrs. Joan Endicott of the county health department; Mrs. Dorothy Dilling, health service nursing supervisor, and Mrs. Alpha Satterwhite of the service's advisory committee. Medicare requires periodic review of cases where it has a financial interest.

Holiday Schedule

Due to the Post Office, banks, state and county offices being closed on the Mondays following Christmas and New Year's, the Avon Park Sun will also be closed. Deadlines for those two weeks have been shortened.

All advertising copy, whether display or classified, must be in by noon Friday, Dec. 23 and Dec. 30.

Social, religious, civic organizations, subdivision and mobile car news must be received here by noon Friday, Dec. 23 and Dec. 30.

"Hard news," will be accepted up until Tuesday noon.

City Hall will be closed for the New Year's holiday on Monday, Jan. 2, but garbage pick-ups will be on their regular schedule.

The cold front that moved in over Florida's citrus belt may have left tourists shivering but was "most welcome" by the state's citrus growers.

Florida Citrus Mutual Executive Vice-president Tom Osborne said the temperatures which moved down around the 30's in some areas were "just what the industry needed" not to add color to the fruit but to put trees into a better state of dormancy.

Dormant trees can better withstand severe cold. "With the current short supply, the one thing the growers do not need is a hard freeze," Osborne said.

He made his comments following a county-by-county survey of the citrus belt which shows that citrus trees have made an excellent recovery from last season's freeze. What was bothering some growers was a new flush of growth, especially on young trees which could be damaged in the event of severe cold weather.

Groves with good cultural practices, according to Mutual's field representatives, have developed dense foliage with good color. While rainfall has been slightly below normal, moisture conditions in general are adequate for citrus trees.

Harvesting of this season's orange crop is on the increase as oranges reach maturity. "We have had, however," Osborne said, "some reports of dryness in Hamlin oranges as they reach maturity."

Otherwise, most factors affecting the citrus crop can be termed "very good," ranging from little splitting of fruit, normal dropage and no heavy build-up of pests, except in some isolated areas.

This season's orange production is expected to reach 164,000,000 boxes as compared to 186,800,000 boxes of oranges harvested by the end of last season.

At the same session two other youths were placed on probation. One youth was charged with aggravated assault and dangerous display of a dangerous weapon. The same youth was ordered to study a criminal law booklet, to attend group counseling, Judge Clifton M. Kelly withheld adjudication in this case.

A youth charged with petit larceny was placed on probation, ordered to attend group counseling, ordered to study a criminal law booklet; adjudication was withheld.

Adjudication was withheld in the cases of two youths charged with burglary. Final disposition of their cases deferred for six months and the youths were ordered to return to their out-of-county homes.

In the case of a youth charged with fleeing to elude a police officer, disposition was deferred for six months and the youth ordered to study a criminal law booklet.

A criminal mischief and two petit larceny cases were dismissed.

Two dependency cases were before the court in the long Dec. 19 docket. In both these the children were found legally dependent and custody placed with a foster family.

Juveniles Complete Probation

Nine juveniles who had been involved in tangles which led to juvenile court celebrated Christmas with a successful completion of terms of probation. The probationers were formally terminated with appearances in Highlands County Juvenile Court on Dec. 19.

At the same session two other youths were placed on probation. One youth was charged with aggravated assault and dangerous display of a dangerous weapon. The same youth was ordered to study a criminal law booklet, to attend group counseling, Judge Clifton M. Kelly withheld adjudication in this case.

Eatman Receives Senior Trophy

By MARK ALBRIGHT
G. Thomas Eatman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bates of Lake Wales, and vice president of Robert and Company Associates, architects-engineers-planners, is the 1977 recipient of the Ivan Allen, Senior Trophy, given each year to a member of the Atlanta Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, for outstanding service to the community.

The award was announced at the AIA Chapter's recent annual meeting, and was presented to Eatman by business and civic leader Ivan Allen III, whose grandfather, Ivan Allen, Sr. established the award in 1957 to recognize and encourage greater civic participation by members of the architectural profession.

Eatman's citation recognized his contributions through service as the first chairman of the Atlanta Sister Cities Committee. He led an expansion of the Sister Cities program that resulted in increased participation by business, cultural and educational interests.

Eatman is a native of Lakeland, and a graduate of Georgia Tech.

Thomas Eatman

He served in the Navy from 1962 to 1965, and is presently a lieutenant-commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve.

He is also president of the Downtown Council of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and past chairman of the Council's international affairs committee.

Robert and Company Associates performs a wide range of professional services to industry, municipal and other governmental organizations, hospitals and educational institutions.

It's Back To School Monday, But They Will Close Early

Early school closings for Monday, Jan. 2, have been announced by Dr. Dan Davis, Highlands County Superintendent of Schools.

"All schools will close two hours early and bus schedules will be advanced two hours, to correspond with the national New Year's holiday," Davis said.

Approximate closing times for the Avon Park Police Chief Robert Brooks would like to remind everyone to be careful this New Year's Eve and not drive if you are intoxicated. "We want everyone to have a good New Year, but anyone caught for Driving While Intoxicated (D.W.I.) will receive a very expensive bid for the night at the

Avon Park schools will be:
Avon Park Elementary . . . 12:10 p.m.
Avon Park Middle . . . 12:45 p.m.
Avon Park High . . . 12:30 p.m.

It was reported, that if the schools were closed on this Monday, they would have to be in session on a Monday in June.

Be Careful Driving New Year's Eve - Brooks

Avon Park Police Dept., Chief Brooks said.

Chief Brooks added that the bond for D.W.I. is $250.

In closing, Chief Brooks said, "The police department would like to wish everyone a happy and prosperous new year."

Candidate For Governor

Jack Eckerd, former head of the General Service Administration, will be a candidate for Governor of Florida next year.

During his speech announcing his candidacy for the office of governor, Eckerd said, "the greatest tragedy in Florida today is the 245,800 unemployed people who want to work. My administration will immediately appoint a task force of businessmen and civic and labor leaders from all parts of Florida to tackle this problem."

Hitting some of the themes that will shape his campaign, Eckerd cited the need in Florida for a government that will work with the people to implement the imaginative ideas that will make Florida an even better place to live.

He said, "You and I know that the days when throwing tax dollars at problems are — thank God — over. The evils of an unbalanced budget and resulting inflation have hurt most the poor and the sick and the needy and those who are retired. State government should set an example of economic honesty and responsibility. This requires strong leadership — leadership which I have demonstrated both in public and private life."

Born May 16, 1913, in Wilmington, Del., Eckerd graduated from Calver Military Academy in 1930 during the depths of the great depression.

After a year at the University of Pittsburgh, Eckerd began and completed training as a commercial pilot. Unable to find work as a pilot during the depression, he went back to Erie to work in his father's drug store. Before long he'd worked his way up from the basement stockroom to the soda fountain, then to drug clerk and finally to store manager.

During the war he flew the "hump" between China and India as an Army Air Corps pilot. He came home a major, with his share of service awards and medals.

He plunged back into the drug business, this time in Wilmington, Del., and Jamestown, N. Y. In 1958 he sold his drug stores in the north, and settled in Clearwater, Fla., believing that the nation's future economic destiny lay in the South and the West.

From the beginning of his business career Eckerd has been one of Florida's and the nation's most articulate advocates of economy and efficiency in government.

His political platform in 1974 when he was the Republican candidate for U. S. Senate called for an end to wasteful government spending and a head-on attack to solve the problems of inflation, the energy crisis and health care. He lost the election by a narrow margin, after winning the Republican nomination by a landslide.

In November 1975 he retired from the business he had built to accept an appointment from President Gerald Ford as Administrator of the General Services Administration (GSA). President Ford told him to run the GSA on a non-political basis.

When Democrat Jimmy Carter became President, he asked Eckerd to stay on. President Carter made a commitment to him that he would be free of political pressure. Eckerd accepted.

Less than a week later, Eckerd resigned the post after refusing to bow to political pressure brought at the instigation of Democratic House Speaker "Tip" O'Neill.

Eckerd's personal commitments to educational institutions, especially private colleges and universities, have demonstrated his belief that free and independent institutions offer the best hope for preparing today's youth to solve the nation's major social and economic problems.

Gunter Names Board

Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter today named a seven-member board of Florida chiropractors to assist the Insurance Department's Division of Fraudulent Claims in the investigation of insurance fraud.

Gunter said the Chiropractic Advisory Council will give the Department of Insurance "a vital, new professional depth which will greatly improve our ability to analyze and evaluate suspicious insurance claims."

Members of the council will serve voluntarily and without compensation. Gunter said cases of suspected fraud involving chiropractors will be referred to the council when necessary.

"In many cases, our investigators have no way of determining whether a particular treatment might have been fully justified, or whether it may have been administered to fraudulently inflate an insurance claim," Gunter said. "The council will help us determine the difference."

Gunter said the board will also work closely with the Florida Chiropractic Association which assisted in creation of the council.

"In this way," Gunter said, "the council can also investigate professional discipline of a chiropractor when evidence merits it."

"We are extremely grateful to all the chiropractors on the council, and especially to Dr. Ed Williams, who was the moving force in its creation," Gunter said. "What they are doing is a tremendous public service and it exhibits a high level of professional consciousness and awareness."

The chiropractors who will serve on the council are:

Permits For Use Of Poisons

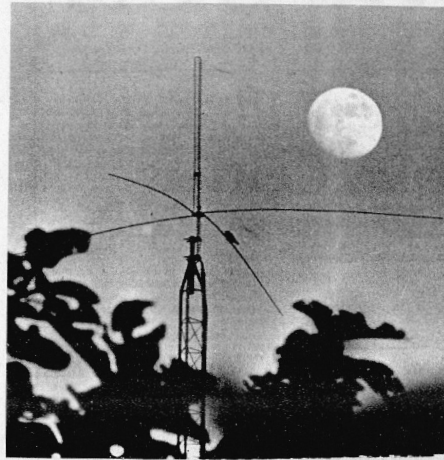

A rash of dog-poisoning cases prompted Humane Society officials to issue today a reminder that use of poison is, by state law, closely regulated.

The Florida Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission director must issue a permit before poison may be used or placed for the purpose of killing birds or mammals. The state attorney's staff said violations of such regulations are usually prosecuted as misdemeanors.

Sally Gifford, president of the Humane Society, said the society has received many complaints about dog poisonings recently — eight in one mobile home park, Mrs. Gifford said.

She said the society has also received inquiries about the use of traps. She said state law bars ownership of leghold traps.

The state law does give property owners the right to kill animals which are causing destruction of crops, fruits or animals. However, the destructive animal must be killed in the immediate vicinity of the destruction, on the property of the executor and may not be by poison, Mrs. Gifford pointed out.

School Board Goes Over Building Costs

Plans to start one new building program and finish an old project occupied Highlands County School Board during a special meeting Dec. 21.

A contract was awarded to Concrete Systems, Inc., of Lakeland to build a business class wing at Sebring High School and new classrooms at Fred Wild Elementary School. Total cost of the project is $693,095.

There will be five laboratory rooms at the high school and four kindergarten classrooms and two primary classrooms at the elementary school.

Proposed covered physical education areas at Fred Wild Elementary School were deleted from the program because costs of construction would have been at least $775,000 with these options.

Wayne Blackwell, one of the four bidders on the project, said the call for bids was confusing. He felt it did not spell out clearly the possibility of the two covered play areas being dropped as options.

Blackwell bid $834,000 on the total package of classrooms and play areas compared to $775,000 bid by Concrete Systems, low bidder.

Without the optional covered play areas, the Blackwell bid was $707,000 compared to Concrete Systems' $693,095. Board Chairman Mrs. Ruth Davis said she agreed the bidding procedure can be confusing and said there will be efforts in the future to make it more understandable.

She said calling for new bids would delay construction and allow inflation to eat up any savings that a new bid might offer.

Joe Pavelchak, project architect, said he contacted the other two bidders who also were higher than Concrete Systems and was told they felt the call for bids was understandable.

The board has budgeted $659,110 to build the additions and Walter Shirley, financial officer, told the board there are adequate state funds to meet the higher-than-expected total project cost.

The budgeted amount, approved in August, does not reflect the higher estimate presented in November by the architect. Last month Pavelchak told the board a new estimate for the project was $765,000 including the covered play areas.

Board member Steve Roberts said he couldn't understand why the board sets a budget figure "way back yonder" when it has to wait until the end of planning to approve a final cost figure.

Pavelchak said a preliminary budget gives the architect some idea of how much can be spent. From there, the architect can design a project and draw up final plans based on the ball park figure.

Construction costs are also climbing and the new estimate reflected this fact. Under terms of the contract awarded during the special meeting, wages paid by the contractor won't be subjected to guidelines called for in the federal Davis-Bacon Act.

Under terms of the law, projects that receive 25 percent of the construction costs from federal funding sources have to pay wage rates the federal government considers to be prevailing and these are usually similar to union pay scales.

Because the construction funds are coming from the state, the contractor will not have to pay the higher scale.

An amendment okayed by the board calls for a check in the sources of project funds to insure no federal money is included on the project.

Dr. Ferrel Smith, of the school's administrative staff, told the Sun, the contractor must pay minimum wages and state prevailing wages to project workers.

Pavelchak said Concrete Systems, Inc. is experienced in school and other public building construction. It has been in business for 10 years.

While the board approved the contract on the new construction, it considered ways of handling completion of the much-delayed Lake Placid High School and possible termination of the contract with the builder K. D. Hedine Construction, Inc. of Vero Beach.

The board agreed to give the firm notice that on Jan. 4, action about possible termination of the contract will be considered. A special meeting has been scheduled for that date at 7:30 a.m.

The board heard recommendations from Eoghan Kelley of Safford, project architect, and James McCollum, board attorney, that termination should be considered because the contractor has not lived up to terms of the agreement.

Construction started on the project in September 1975, and was expected to be finished within 360 calendar days. The architect said that Hedine had experienced some defaults on agreements with subcontractors and this caused part of the delay.

Kelley said he understands the contractor plans to complete the school by Feb. 1.

In the meantime, court action related to the project has begun.

Insurance ID Cards Needed

Beginning Jan. 1, Florida motorists will receive identification cards which will be accepted as proof of required insurance coverage when a vehicle is registered or license tags are purchased, Treasurer-Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter said.

The new ID cards will be issued by the insurance companies when new policies are purchased, current policies are renewed or when there is a change in the required information. The cards will provide information about the coverage each motorist carries as required by 1977 Florida law.

In addition to the name of the company, policy number and name of policyholder, the ID cards will also show the effective date of the policy and if the driver has bodily injury liability as well as the required Personal Injury Protection (PIP).

The cards will be valid for one year after the effective date.

Prisoners Get Christmas Dinner

Even the prisoners at the Avon Park Police Department had a Christmas dinner.

Mrs. Pat Strickland of the Police Department said that the two prisoners who were in custody on Christmas Day were served such prison rarities as ham and candied yams. These were served with green beans, creamed potatoes for those who did not care for candied yams, rolls and ice tea.

Things Out My Way

By Alice Smith

With 1978 just three midnight a way, it's time again to clear out the clipping file.

Some of them have turned yellow — nine months is a long time in the life of newspaper — and by December it's hard to remember why they were saved in the first place.

There's a full-page article entitled "The Vast Wasteland of TV Books." The author reports in blistering terms on the current paperback novels based on various television series. He is right, of course, they are a crime against literature. What caught my eye, however, was the name of an old friend, Dick Deming, as the chief writer-villain of the piece.

I knew Dick Deming thirty years ago when he quietly resigned from a well-paid job and told me he intended to earn a living writing. Seven hundred short stories and seventy books later, he's doing just that. Deming, who also writes under the name of Max Franklin, is a "formula" writer. He turns out a book a month for his editor; the latest was "Charlie's Angels." For this he received a $5,000 advance against a two percent royalty (3 cents on a $1.50 book). Should a million copies be sold, he will make $30,000. It may not be deathless prose but it pays well. Happy writing and a golden typewriter to you, Dick!

And old news item from New York

City must have been saved because of sheer delight in the spirit occasionally shown by the common man.

Picture, if you can, a forty foot windmill atop a five-story tenement building on New York's East Side. Boggles the mind, doesn't it? This was a burnt-out shell, which the present tenants bought and renovated themselves with a long term, low-cost loan. In a dispute with Con-Edison, New York's power car, over a bill, their power was cut off. Said one tenant, "A windmill seemed the perfect solution because wind is free and it is clean."

To make it legal, they filed a petition with the Public Service Commission asking to sell power to Con Edison. Last May the commission ordered Con Edison to buy any excess power generated by the windmill. It is estimated that this will cost the power company about fifty cents a month. Hooray for the little guys!

And this from a recent column dealing with the common-sense jury in basic figuring given to high school juniors. One question was: "Look at a calendar for November, 1977. If you are away on vacation from November 3 through November 29, how long are you gone?"

So I said smartly, to myself, twenty-six days or three weeks and five days — simple. Only that a wrong. Count it on the calendar. It's three weeks and six days.

And a Happy New Year to you, too.

Stone Advises Closer Look At Canal Treaty

U. S. Sen. Richard (Dick) Stone has said that the Carter Administration should take a closer look at the Panama Canal treaties and assure that they do not signal "a yielding on U.S. defense commitments and human rights in the western hemisphere."

Stone said he believes that what is needed is "a renewed Monroe Doctrine," which would state that the United States will not accept any Soviet military base or an increased Soviet military presence in the western hemisphere.

Stone, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the Western Hemisphere Subcommittee, was the first Senator to question witnesses about discrepancies in U. S. and Panamanian interpretations of the treaties during committee hearings this fall.

At that time, Stone said that the Administration's interpretation differed with that of Chief Panamanian negotiator Dr. Romulo Escobar Bethancourt in several crucial areas including: giving U. S. ships the right to go to the head of the line for passage in an emergency; and giving the U. S. the right to intervene militarily to maintain the neutrality of the Canal.

On Dec. 13, Stone told the Winter Park Chamber of Commerce that the treaties should be modified to assure these rights and to remove restrictions on building a sea level canal other than in Panama. Stone also insisted that no U. S. tax dollars should be used for payments to Panama required by the treaties. These payments should come exclusively from Canal revenues, and other aid programs should be judged on their independent merits, he said.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee plans to resume hearings on the treaties in late January or early February.

Stone, who has not yet decided how he will vote on the treaties, said, "I believe that Americans are very reluctant to accept these treaties because we aren't sure what they mean for U. S. policy. What is needed is a clear and unequivocal statement to the world that the United States will not renege on its pledges. I think that part of this renewed doctrine also should be that the United States will maintain its bases in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, and in other defense installations necessary to insure the safety of ships passing through the approaches to Panama."

Stone also has said that a vote on the treaties should be delayed until the U. S. determines that Panamanian General Omar Torrijos has lived up to his promises to improve human rights and to hold free elections in Panama.

"Thank You"

The Christmas Cheer Committee of Avon Park wishes to take this way to say "thank you" to all those who contributed money, canned goods or toys and to all those who gave so generously of their time to Pack the 100 plus boxes of food and toys.

We are sure because of it there will be children who will have a good Christmas that otherwise would have had none or very little. Again thank you to you who helped in any way.

From Antarctica To Saudi Arabia- James Logan Winters Exclusively

An exclusive wintering spot could more aptly be called an isolated area for James W. Logan and his fellow technicians at Siple Station on the Palmer Peninsula in the Antarctic Continent, where they lived for a year gathering scientific data.

Logan, who was born in Thomasville, Ga., and attended Avon Park High School, is a communications technician working with high frequency radio-telephone communications equipment. Indirectly under the National Science Foundation through sub-contractors.

His trip began when leaving Point Mugu, Calif., about 90 miles north of Los Angeles, for Hickam Air Force Base on the Hawaiian Islands. The next leg of the flight was aboard a C-130 Starlifter, a military transport, to Pago Pago, Samoa, then on the Christ Church, New Zealand.

Christ Church is the staging area for the United States Antarctic missions. During his three day stay, Logan was issued Antarctic clothing and gear.

From Christ Church it was a six hour flight to McMurdo Naval Station on the Antarctic Continent. They landed in one of the worst storms of the year, in blowing snow at 19 degrees Fahrenheit.

With other men of the group, they stayed for about 10 days at McMurdo in November, 1976, before being air-lifted by a ski-equipped 130 Hercules air carrier, 1300 miles across the continent to Siple Station on the Palmer Peninsula.

The station is completely covered by snow and ice. However, exhaust vents and air intakes are extended above the snow. Having all of the utilities, it was built to house five men comfortably, but it has at times accommodated 15 or more scientists and technicians, he said.

The last flight into Siple, before the onset of their winter season, was on Jan. 20, when all planes were pulled out. The average winter temperature was 30 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. The coldest 75 degrees below zero, came in the spring (September). Isolated as they were, they kept in touch with the States by amateur radio.

There was no animal life for hundreds of miles, Logan said. It is only on the coast that it is found. This also referred to bacterial life, as the men had no colds or respiratory illnesses. Their biggest worry was some type of accident that would require surgery, as it meant a 1300 mile round-trip for a plane from McMurdo to Siple and six hours by air to Christ Church. Thus they used every precaution to avoid accidents.

For entertainment they had 32 movies, which went through several reruns. What Logan enjoyed most was having a good meal, though he did most of the cooking. However, all of the men took their turn at the household chores.

For food they had fresh frozen fruits and vegetables and meats, along with canned goods and all the basic ingredients for bread and biscuits. They even had Florida lobster tails. Some of the best eating for Logan was frozen New Zealand corn-on-the-cob. To avoid sickness, if the food didn't smell right, they didn't eat it and if it didn't taste right, they didn't eat it.

Working outside in 20 degrees below zero weather was an experience stated Logan, especially when one had to remove gloves to work with equipment. At minus 20 degrees it didn't seem to make much difference if the temperature dropped to minus 40 degrees. The wind chill factor was extremely dangerous to exposed flesh. While they had many hardships, Logan said, there was nothing compared to those experienced by Bryd and Scott as they made their explorations.

The Antarctic Continent contains about 5,500,000 square miles and is almost as large as the United States and Europe combined, said Logan and is covered with an ice cap up to 11,000 feet thick. There are some mountains as tall as the Alps which are covered with snow and ice. About 90 percent of the world's fresh water is contained in the polar ice caps, he added.

The Antarctic Continent contains about five feet a year. The original station was built above ground. In 1975 it was drifted over and in 1977 there was 8 to 10 feet of snow above the foot.

It was not uncommon, Logan said, to wake up during the night and hear metal rivets snapping out of the corrugated metal dome above the housing facilities, as the heavy weight of the snow and ice along with radiating heat caused the floor ice to buckle up under the buildings. Construction of a new Siple station above the snow has started.

The time period from December, 1976 to November, 1977 was termed as a successful scientific year in regard to the quantity and quality of data gathered, stated Logan. The primary purpose of the Siple Station was the gathering of scientific data from the ionosphere which extends from about 25 miles to about 250 miles above the earth. It contains free electrically charged particles by which radio waves are transmitted great distances.

As part of their equipment, they had an antenna 13 miles long lying on the snow about 5000 feet above the surface of the earth.

Part of their work was to monitor "whistlers" which were detected during World War II. These can sometimes be heard on power lines and with bolts of lightning. These radiations have wave lengths that funnel them through the magnetosphere to the earth's magnetic pole areas. (This is a region of the upper atmosphere that surrounds the earth, extending out for thousands of miles and is dominated by the earth's magnetic field so had to remove gloves to work with equipment. At minus 20 degrees it didn't seem to make much difference if the temperature dropped to minus 40 degrees. The wind chill factor was extremely dangerous to exposed flesh. While they had many hardships, Logan said, there was nothing compared to those experienced by Bryd and Scott as they made their explorations.

An exciting an incredible experience of the year came one morning about 2 a.m. (close to Eastern Standard Time) when recording equipment revealed "very low frequency" information. All personal were awakened and all of the recording equipment was placed in operation for this unexpected data. Information on this low new frequency phenomenon had been accumulating since the inception of the research project, under the direction of Dr. Hellwell of Stanford University, said Logan.

Back in New Zealand before returning to the States, Logan enjoyed his stay, finding that the town is free from the automobile congestion of the U.S. cities. There was no worry about getting robbed or mugged. He found the people most accommodating. Life moved at a leisurely pace.

Although the island is surrounded by water it has a dry climate and a mild climate. Snow run-off from the mountains has formed many lakes. To Logan, New Zealand sounded like Shangri-La, a place to retire to. In the meantime he has left Avon Park on another assignment — Saudi Arabia.

Power Customers To Get 70 Cent Refund

By MARK ALBRIGHT
"According to reports, Florida Power Corp. will be giving its customers a 70 cent credit refund in February or March of 1978." Brock Lucas of the Florida Power Public Relations Office in St. Petersburg, said.

Last March Florida Power requested that the Public Service Commission (PSC) allow a $61.5 million increase in rates to cover the cost of Florida Power's share of the Crystal River nuclear power plant. After deciding that some of the items listed as reasons for a rate increase were unwarranted, the Public Service Commission granted Florida Power an increase of $60.2 million, effective as of last June.

Since that time, the PSC has decided there were more allowable items listed for the Crystal River project than it had originally excluded from the rate increase. This resulted in a further reduction of the allowable rate to $59.4 million.

Lucas said that although he hasn't received the order yet, Florida Power would be giving its customers an estimated $1 million credit refund in February or March of next year.

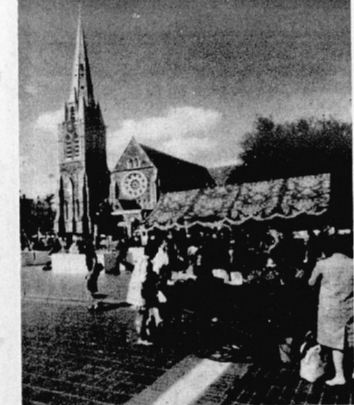

As a result of power received from the Crystal River nuclear plant, there has been a noticeable reduction in the cost of electricity.

Lee's Married 70 Years

Christmas day, 70 years ago, Molly Wise, age 15 and Charles S. Lee, age 21, ran away (eloped) from their homes in Elba, Ala. to Paxton, Fla., and were married in a quiet private home wedding by a Justice of Peace. "And it lasted pretty well," stated several of their children.

Charles and Molly made their home in Elba, where he worked in the sawmill business. He also did some farming in Elba and continued farming in Crescent City, Fla., when they moved there in 1939.

Charles also filed saws but stopped because of failing eyesight. However, following an operation for the removal of cataracts his eyesight has been good. In Walker Memorial Hospital for tests, Charles is expected to be out in a few days.

Molly and Charles had seven children: Laura Pearce and Ruth Collier live in Avon Park; Mildred Pearce, in Elba, Ala.; Joe in Ft. Lauderdale; John in Louisville, Ky. and Kenneth lives in St. Louis, Mo. A daughter, Betty died in 1933 at the age of five.

They have 17 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren and three great, great grandchildren. Visiting family members were treated to a Christmas party at the home of Laura and Jim Pearce on West Pleasant Street.

California Raisins Are Favorite In Holiday Recipes

During the holiday season, yummy Christmas goodies are always on call. But when time is running short, and the fruitcakes and fancy cookies can't fit into your busy holiday schedule, make a batch of Sugarplum Raisin Squares. These chewy bar cookies are full of the goodness of California raisins, coconut, and nuts, with a taste of candied ginger for extra delight. 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted flour
Raisin filling

Blend butter with sugar and salt until fluffy. Mix in flour. Spread with spatula in 9-inch square pan. Bake at 225 degrees for 15 minutes. Meanwhile prepare raisin filling. Remove baked crust from oven. Carefully spoon raisin filling over baked crust. Bake 15 to 20 minutes more or until filling is set. Cool; cut into squares with sharp knife.

Makes 16 squares.

Coffee Time Talk

With the hustle and bustle of Christmas at our doorsteps, aching legs and hurting feet our sales force still maintained a friendly attitude and a warm smile for our J. C. Penney customers. They are certainly to be admired.

Mrs. Martha Fountain, office supervisor, had a very pleasant surprise Monday noon when she looked up from lunch to see her son, Douglas from Columbus, Ga., standing beside her. Douglas, his wife Merry and two children will be spending the holidays with grandma and grandpa.

Approximately 150 people attended the Christmas party held at Avon Citrus Bank last Wed., Dec. 21, from 1 until 3 p.m., said Mrs. Pat Smith, receptionist and public relations at the bank.

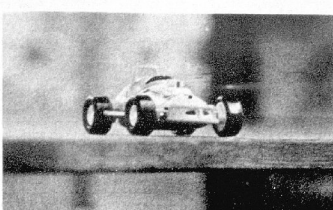

Candy canes and complementary pictures of children sitting on Santa's lap were given away.

In telling the reactions of the children towards himself, Santa said, "The younger children were a little bit scared and some of the older ones were a bit skeptical."

Customers were also served punch, nuts, cookies and coffee by bank employees.

Avon Citrus vice-president, C. Edwin Bailey said, "One lady reacted to the party by saying she liked Avon Citrus Bank because we try to do things differently."

In speaking of the public's reaction to the party, Mrs. Smith said, "Everyone enjoyed it."

A LONE RACING car was all that remained on a shelf at a local toy department, where 85 percent of the toys were sold by Christmas Eve. Sunphoto by Lew Miller.

Mrs. Charlene Edwards is very happy and thrilled this Christmas. Her grandmother Mrs. Myrtle Servais, from Arcadia, Wis., arrived in Avon Park, Dec. 21. Charlene hasn't seen her grandmother, since she was nine years old.

A long time resident of Avon Park, Mrs. Judy Todd, has joined forces with the staff in J. C. Penney's Coffee Shop.

Those celebrating birthdays this month at Avon Citrus Bank were, Rene Hunter, Master Charge Coordinator, Dec. 28, and C. Wayne Taylor, Director, Dec. 29.

New employee of the Highlands County Bank is Rick Hemmingway, a bookkeeper. He came from the University of Florida in the co-op program of three months of classes and three months of on the job training. Rick was born and raised in Frostproof.

Linda Klein is back from Jacksonville University for the Christmas holidays and is working at the Drive-up teller windows. She will be with the Avon Citrus Bank for three weeks before returning to school.

MEDICAL MESSAGE

from the Florida Doctors

Be careful what activity you engage in on New Year's Eve! There is an old superstition that warns whatever you do on the eve of a new year will be what you will be doing for the remainder of the year.

According to subscribers of this theory, if you are happy on New Year's Eve, you will be happy all year. Likewise, if you are doing chores at the stroke of midnight, you may find yourself laboring through 1978.

The physicians of the Florida Medical Association don't necessarily support this notion, but do suggest you start the new year out right by observing some common sense rules for your good health.

Alcohol is often synonymous with New Year's revelry, but over-indulgence can be damaging. If you drink regularly you may be flirting with cirrhosis of the liver, alcoholism or numerous other ills. If you drink too much, even on rare occasions, you are risking accidental injury, particularly if you are driving at the time.

Since New Year's resolutions are usually broke, Florida's physicians suggest a pledge to yourself instead. Make 1978 the year to consciously improve your health. Ninety per cent of the ills affecting modern society are self-inflicted maladies you can do something about.

If you stop smoking, chances are you will be healthier and subsequently happier.

Make this year the one in which you'll lose that excess weight. Every year you put it off it becomes more difficult and you suffer from it.

Get into the habit of having regular medical check-ups. For most this is not necessary every year, but your doctor can tell you the best schedule for you.

The physicians of Florida hope 1978 will be a healthy year for you, but remind that maintaining good health is your responsibility too.

This is a medical message from the Florida Medical Association in behalf of the doctors of Florida and as a public service feature of this newspaper.

S.G. Ellis Arrested

Stephen Guy Ellis, 21, of Joplin, Mo., was arrested by Highlands County sheriff's deputies Tuesday afternoon and charged with two counts of possession of a controlled substance.

According to Deputy Tom Tipples, Ellis and another man were walking along the northbound lane of U.S. 27 near Sparrow Ave. when they spotted Tipples' patrol car.

The two then walked quickly into Ort's Mobile Village where Ellis dropped a package from his pocket, the officer said.

There were two bottles found, one containing amphetamine and the second Valium, department lab tests showed.

KRISTIN KIRBY LOOKS as if she may be dreaming about the Christmas presents she would soon be receiving as she takes a nap during the Christmas party. Kristin is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Kirby, an Avon Citrus employee.

Walker Memorial Hospital Christmas Party

Walker Memorial Hospital hosted over 450 employees, auxiliary members, medical staff members and their families at their annual Christmas party held Tuesday evening, Dec. 13 at the Highlands Lakes Junior Academy gymnasium. The party was moved from the hospital to the gymnasium this year because the hospital cafeteria would no longer accommodate the large number who attend.

The program feature this year was a visit by Lester Tolar, his friend "Charlie", and songs by Mark Garner. Lester and "Charlie" involved John McClellan, Administrator, Becky Farrens, Personnel Director, Mary Denesky, Emergency Room, and Dot LaFlam, Medical Records in their program.

The program included Christmas songs by all present as requested by "Charlie" and led by Harry Bennett, Hospital Chaplain and accompanied on the piano by Ruth Myers. Lester's young associate Mark Garner, who is 13 years of age, sang several Christmas songs. Lester's wife Angie is employed in the Dietary Department of the Hospital.

Following the program John McClellan, Administrator presented service award pins to employees of at least 5 years of service or multiples of 5 years of service. Receiving pins for five years of service were: Sylvia Norton, Medical Records; Phil Weber, Pharmacy; Clarice Dunn, Nursing; Louise Ezell, Food Service; Shirley Hodge, Respiratory Therapy; Dot LaFlam, Medical Records; Lenora Pressley, Housekeeping; Lucile Stone, Central Service; Blair Seifert, Anesthesiology; Debbie Vanderbilt, Medical Records; Margie Whitbeck, Central Service.

Those receiving pins for 10 years of service were: Curtis Davis, Nursing; Carl Selby, Patient Accounts; Rose Williams, Food Service; Beulah Christensen, Associated Physicians; Agnes Landress, Physical Therapy; while Paul Richardson, Laboratory received a pin for 25 years of service.

At the conclusion of the service awards food was served as prepared by Jim Raymond, Nutritional Services Director and his staff. Several members of the Ladies Auxiliary served nuts, punch, finger sandwiches and cookies. Santa arrived, as the last few persons were going past the tables of food and after passing among the children for a few minutes sat down in his sleigh. All children up to age seven sat on Santa's lap in the sleigh, received their gift and had their picture taken on a polaroid camera by Joe Newcomb, Accounting Office. Other children then came up to Santa and received their gifts.

As Santa was passing out the gifts and talking with the children Rudolph, Santa's most popular reindeer, came in and immediately surveyed the activity around the sleigh. After visiting with everyone Rudolph retired to a room near Santa's sleigh awaiting Santa's departure.

In conclusion, all employees, auxiliary members and medical staff members received their gifts which were presented from a gift catalog earlier in the year.

AT A CHRISTMAS party in the Seventh Day Adventist gym, Walker Memorial Hospital honored employees who had worked 5, 10 and 25 years at the institution. From the left: Paul Richardson, 25 years; Phil Weber and Sylvia Norton, 5 years; Beulah Christensen and Carl Selby, 10 years; Debbie Vanderbilt, Blair Seifert, and Margie Whitbeck, 5 years; Curtis Davis, 10 years; Louise Ezell, Dot LaFlam and Shirley Hodge, 5 years. Unseen to be present: Clarice Dunn, Miller.

STARTING OFF ANEW! MAY 1978 BRING YOU ALL THE JOY AND HAPPINESS IT CAN HOLD! WE'VE ENJOYED WORKING WITH YOU IN THE PAST AND WE HOPE THAT WE CAN CONTINUE TO SERVE YOU IN THE FUTURE.

Joe May and Warren Moreland were presented trophies for most improved players on the team and Gerald Bristow and Dawayne Durrance were chosen as the two players to win sportsmanship awards.

The Bar-B-Que was cooked by Leroy

Stirling, Ed Touchton, and Johnny Barnes. Also contributing to the success of the supper were Tony Thompson, Rodney Sheldon, James Smithson, Archie Hancock, and members of the APCI Employees Club for the use of the Staff Training Facility.

Guests other than the team members and the cheerleaders were coaches Cecil Walley and Ben Nelson, athletic director John DuPriest, Principal Dan Kirkpatrick, Asst. Principal Bill Boseman and many who had helped out at the ball games throughout the seasons.

Happiness - Cat Or Dog

For many families this Christmas, happiness was a warm dog or cat adopted without charge from the Highlands County Animal Shelter.

Following a suggestion from Charles Cullens, county administrative assistant, commissioners waived fees on dogs and cats at the pound for one day, Dec. 23. The move was designed to allow adoption of pets for Christmas gifts and "it was very, very successful," Colleen Hildebrandt, general manager said.

Twenty dogs and five cats were adopted. Dogs ranged from puppies to full grown. There were 30 dogs and about 20 cats on hand when the shelter opened.

Fees normally charged are $10 for animals under four months of age and $15 for those over four months. The fee includes necessary vaccinations and tags.

She said, "We had customers in here from the time we opened until we closed."

Buc Tickets Help Children

The area fans of the Tampa Bay Bucs who were elated with the Bucs' win over the New Orleans Saints on Dec. 11 can obtain souvenir tickets (unused) by sending a "buck" or more per ticket to WFLA Radio, Bucs Ticket, P. O. Box 1410, Tampa, Fla. 33601.

The two radio stations, WFLA and WWL (New Orleans) are working together to raise money for the All Children's Hospital in St. Petersburg and for a rehabilitative center for the mentally retarded in New Orleans.

Since the tickets are unused they can not be made available until after the Superbowl game in January.

Quotas Required For Bobcats And Otters

A new federal requirement will mean harvest quotas and a tagging system for otter and bobcat in Florida.

Col. Robert Brantly, executive director of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said the requirements are in response to export guidelines set forth by the federal government's Endangered Species Scientific Authority, an agency created to monitor the international trade in certain wildlife species, including the otter and bobcat. "We anticipate the harvest quotas will be liberal due to the healthy status of Florida's otter and bobcat populations," Brantly said, "although they have not yet been established."

Vinson Bags Christmas Package

A Christmas present on the hoof was bagged by Paul Vinson, Tordon Road, Avon Park Lakes at about 8 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 25.

football team last month at the APCI Staff Training Facility. Sunphoto by Roy Amburn.

The tagging system will require that hunters and trappers have their otter and bobcat pelts tagged in order to meet legal requirements for export and subsequent higher prices.

Once quotas for otter and bobcat pelts have been reached, no more tags will be issued. Untagged hides, which will not qualify for a federal export permit, will have less value.

Tags will be available through the regional offices of the Commission. Information regarding the status of tags and quotas may be obtained after January 1, 1978 by calling the regional office in Lakeland, 1-800-222-8002.

Karate Lessons Have No Age Requirements

What would happen if on some lonely night you were attacked by an armed assailant? For many their lives would be flashing before them. But for some local citizens, it would be a time for immediate and precise action. In but a few moments the otherwise dangerous foe would be helplessly sprawled on the ground.

Sounds like a good deal? Well here is how you can be content as those select Avon Park citizens. Every Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Avon Park Recreation Center on the corner of Verona Avenue and Waycross Street, the U. S. A. Go Ju Karate club of Avon Park teaches students the fine points of this portion of the Martial Arts.

The instructing team of Jerry Weeks and Mike Thomas provide the student with as much training as he or she wishes. The new student can progress from the starting white belt to the widely acclaimed black belt. Jerry and Mike, who are both first degree black belts, hold classes in Go Ju self-defense techniques for men, women, and children. Go Ju Karate is not to be confused with Kung Fu or Jujitsu.

The advanced student can continue training through tournament sparring, street sparring, and even professional tournament sparring. The average student can become a black belt in two to three years, if their sport is practiced regularly.

In tournament sparring no pads are worn on the hands. The punches and thrusts are held back or pulled so that no one is hurt. The rounds are scored according to the number of well executed maneuvers and precision techniques used.

Professional tournament sparring, sometimes referred to as knockout sparring, makes use of lightweight sparring gloves and foot pads for protection. This type of bout ends when one fighter is knocked down or is unable to continue any longer.

In just three to six weeks a student in U. S. A. Go Ju Karate should be able to begin preliminary sparring in class. This class is not only available for learning self-defense, it can be used as a source of exercise for those who enjoy being physically fit.

Although the instructors do not have any age requirements on their students, they must be able to hold the student attention for at least one hour instruction. Karate is a year-round sport and can be practiced as much as the student want to practice.

The student can attend weekly classes in Winter Haven, Wauchula, Arcadia, Punta Gorda, and Avon Park. In order to show their appreciation for the usage of the city's Recreation Center, Jerry and Mike have guaranteed that if any law enforcement officers would like to attend classes, there would be no fees, although they would have to supply their own equipment.

Hahn Golf Trickster To Hold Exhibition

Paul Hahn, Jr., golf's supreme trick shot professional, will entertain local sports fans at an exhibition and instructional clinic to be held at Little Cypress Golf & Country Club on Jan. 14, 1978 at 2:30 p.m., in Wauchula.

Hahn's entertaining antics involve using bent clubs, elongated tees and stacked balls. A good golf club includes a driver with a rubber garden hose attached to the shaft — good for a shot of at least 200 yards and a wood with a car antenna. With a driver 74" long, (the regular length is 43") he pounds out 300 yards drives consistently.

height from six to twelve inches, with shots that prove his ability as one of the longest hitters in the game.

Hahn attributes his mastery of the game to consistent practice and a thorough understanding of the fundamentals. During the clinic session he explains these basic principles to the audience.

Hahn believes that "good golf is easy golf. A good golfer swings with no apparent effort, making it look easy." Watching him hit golf balls from kneeling, sitting and one-legged positions three feet above the ground, local golf fans will understand how Hahn earned his reputation as one of golf's most versatile stars.

Cortinia, "Daddy And Ho Ho Built It."

COMPLETE WITH AIR intake stacks, electric brakes and centrifugal clutch, three year old Cortina Chae Fazzini's walking speed. Sunphoto by Lew Miller.

"Cortina what do you want for Christmas?" Colin "Corky" Fazzini asked his daughter last October. Without much hesitation she pointed to a colored picture of Pete Crocker's red and white full-bodied sprint car.

Christmas morning as Corky pulled back the cover from the red and white mini-sprint car on the back of his pickup truck, Cortina's eye grew wide as she asked, "Is that mine?" And on the way to grandmother's house, guess where three year old Cortina rode? In the seat of her red and white racer midjet on the pickup truck.

Working a couple of nights a week, Corky, a welder-and front end mechanic at the Bombing Range, laid out the frame at Pete Crocker's place, with the differential next.

For power, Corky used a one cylinder gas engine from a lawn mower. A Cushman electric golf cart supplied the rear end and also the electric brakes. A lady at the Air Base helped sew covers for the midjet racer.

To Corky the hardest part was the adjusting of the centrifugal metallic clutch to release at the right engine speed. He used large wheels to give a sprint car appearance and to avoid tearing up the grass along with not getting stuck in the sand.

The hood was cut to scale from a super modified hood that he had for over 15 years and was stored in the attic of his home. The body was made from fiberglass off of a sprint car.

There are no belts or chains used in the car which eliminates noise along with wear and tear on gears or pulleys. The speed of the midjet sprint racer now is an easy walk according to Corky, which would be about 2 to 3 miles per hour.

Stopping the racer is no problem stated Corky, as one can pick up a rear wheel, turn off the switch or hit the kill switch.

The red and white colors are the same as painted on Pete Crocker's sprint car.

Why did Corky spend all that time and effort to build the midjet sprint car for his daughter? As he told it, "Children and Christmas are something special. A homemade gift means a lot to a child."

With almost all homemade parts, Corky can unbolt the entire car in a matter of minutes. And as Cortina grows, the seat can be moved back and the brake and clutch pedals can be moved forward or the frame can be lengthened, so it is a Christmas gift that will last a long time, stated Corky.

Under the Christmas tree at the Fazzini home were dolls, "Baby come back" and a wash and scrub with their doll clothes. On a hanger, never tried on was a red velvet dress with white trim, that somehow just couldn't go with a race car, said her mother Robin.

And what did Cortina say, "Daddy and 'Ho Ho' built the car."

Builders Association Start Salvage Operation Of Carroll Properties

Through the cooperation of builders, realtors and financial institutions some of the Carroll Construction houses are being finished and placed on the new home market.

The workings of a "salvage" plan are outlined in a letter which Roy P. Alexander, Sebring builder-realtor, sent to sub-contractors and suppliers who had been working with T. Ronald and Jerry S. Carroll.

In the latter part of September the brothers closed their construction company office here and dropped out of sight. At that time the company had home-building projects underway in all parts of the county and were involved with most of the construction sub-contractors, suppliers and home financing institutions in the county.

Ted Trousdale, assistant secretary and treasurer for Home Assets Inc., contacted the Carrolls (in north Florida) and suggested that a third party step in, finish the houses and get them on the market.

Alexander was named trustee for five home sites in Lake Haven Estates where Home Assets holds the mortgages. Arrangements were made for disbursing funds remaining in the construction accounts for each of these houses and the sub-contractors and suppliers agreed to cooperate in completion of the buildings.

Alexander told the trades people, "The properties are at such stage of completion that it should not take too much time to get them finished and on the market. They will be placed in the Multiple Listing Service to bring about more exposure and quicker sales."

"The selling realtor will get a full six percent sales fee to encourage concentration on the properties in question," Alexander wrote.

He added, "This approach seems more in keeping with the purposes and principles of the Builders Association rather than sitting idly by and letting the usual legal process take its course."

John Sebring, vice president of Home Assets, said, "We hope everybody gets his money. With luck all the houses will be finished and some are on the market already."

Sebring said he believes other financial institutions in the county are moving toward arrangements similar to those Home Assets has made. Heartland Federal Savings and Loan Association has worked out an agreement with Alexander as trustee.

Some of the bankers are, however, proceeding along the mortgage foreclosure route for some of their holdings in Carroll properties.

JOY TO THE WORLD and other Christmas music could be heard when driving slowly or stopping by the Davis home on East Canfield Street on Christmas Eve or Christmas Night. Sunphoto by Lew Miller.

Christmas Scene Attracts Viewers

On both Christmas Eve and Christmas Night many people stopped to see the Christmas scene at the Donald and Vera Davis residence on East Canfield Street.

The manger scene and other Christmas materials were brought from their home in Pittsburgh, Pa., when they moved to Avon Park last spring. Donald said it took about a week of working a couple of hours a night to put it up.

Recorded music from within the house gave it the cheery sounds of Christmas. The luminaries lighting the way from the street to the house were made from plastic milk jugs.

Eberle To Go To Columbia

By Mark Albright
Mike Eberle, a resident of Avon Park and a member of the University of Florida Pep Band, will travel with the band on its trip to Manizales, Columbia, January second through the ninth.

Columbia's Tourism Bureau is sponsoring the trip which is the first foreign engagement for any UF performing group.

The trumpet player, Mike, is one of 54 students traveling to Manizales, to perform at an annual coffee festival.

High in the heart of coffee country, Manizales was recently chosen Gainesville's Rotary Club "sister city" because of its universities and a UF graduate who is a businessman there.

Members of the band will leave Miami on Monday, Jan. 2.

They will fly to Medellin, Columbia where they will take a chartered flight to Pereira, Columbia.

From Pereira the students have a 35 mile bus ride to Manizales.

Mike Eberle

The band will stay at the Pedro Dribé, Mejía School and eat at the Hotel Tama International while they are in Manizales.

The band will perform in a nightly concert held various places in the city throughout the week.

On Thursday, Jan. 5, the band will march in the annual Coffee Fair Parade and Princess Procession. The parade winds through three miles of city streets and ends at the Soccer Stadium where the band will perform on the field.

The group will play in a Bullring Concert on Friday, Jan. 6 and Sunday, Jan. 8, while Saturday is free for the students to go shopping and sight-seeing.

The group's last performance in Manizales will be at the trophy presentation to the Best Bullfighter of the Week.

On Monday, Jan. 9 the band will pack for its return trip, and on Tuesday they will return to Miami.

Ceramics - Hobby And Business

"THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN ALMOST FIVE YEARS AGO. AT THIS TIME I WAS TEACHING 25

different hobbies", said Oscar. He has done gem stone cutting, leathering, tooling, engraving, and wood work are a few of those. Hollenbaugh concentrates on ceramics now.

A Swan Waiting For Completion.

Photos And Text By

Betty Amburn

Mr. Hollenbaugh Thumbs Through An Album For Old Photo's Of His Work Shop.

Mr. Hollenbaugh or his help pours the slip into the molds, cleans the greenware and then fires it. He sells his 'bisque' ware to customers and the price of paints used and firing is included with the price of the product! stated Oscar. "If they want to take their piece home to finish, paints may be purchased at a reduced price", he said. Hollenbaugh went on to say "that most people prefer to paint and finish their products here though."

He does paint some of the ceramic pieces, but doesn't get to spend as much time on this as he would like to, as he is busy with the business and keeping plenty of bisque ware on display for his customers.

Mr. Hollenbaugh holds a work shop five nights a week, where he shows customers how to paint and finish the product. There are no classes during the day. He has three kilns, but can only fire two a day. It takes a minimum of 24 hours before the ceramic pieces can be removed from the kiln. Oscar works out of his home, therefore pieces may be picked up from 9 a.m. until 11 p.m.

"No bisque ware from other studio's will be fired, nor my paints be used for these items," said Mr. Hollenbaugh.

He went on to say that the reason that he only sells bisque ware is because of the time involved with pouring of the slip and also the cost of the molds in the event of them getting broken or chipped. Some of his molds cost up to $150 a piece and if they get chipped the mold is no longer useable.

Oscar C. Hollenbaugh retired three years ago from the Florida Alcoholic Center at the age of 70. He was employed there for 12 years as an occupational therapist.

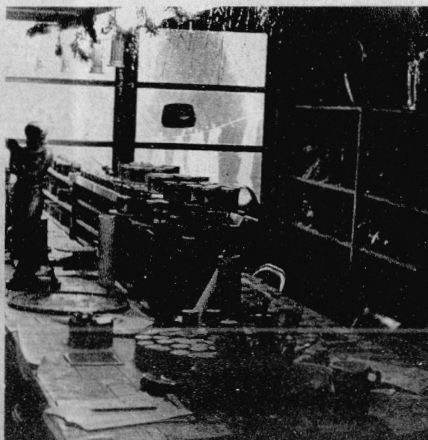

Since retiring he has gradually gone into a full time business. He owns and operates a ceramic shop on West Pine Street. He started his business almost 16 years ago, with just one small room. Oscar now has eight rooms chock full with ceramics. They are beginning to take over his house. Available space is getting scarce, as he even puts some in his bedroom. He has had to hire part-time help to keep up with public demand of his ceramic pieces.

Oscar said that it was all fun for him. From pouring the slip up to the finished product. He became interested in his hobby at the early age of nine. At this time, ceramics were made from clay and fired in the ground. The process is much simpler now.

There are many steps to go through before getting the finished product. The slip or clay is poured into the mold, and after a period of time depending on the size of the mold, the piece is removed from the mold, at this time is called greenware. It is then cleaned and fired in the kiln and now the piece is called bisque. Bisque is painted and or glazed and fired again. Some people prefer to use a stain and then spray the piece with a clear spray instead of a clear glaze. The product is now finished.

A STORAGE ROOM, for ceramic pieces that customers have not completely finished.

His work shop room has plenty of space and paints to enable you to complete your project.

Oscar Is Working On One Of His Projects.

Holiday Ranch News

By Barbara Ebmeyer

The big event of the week at Holiday Ranch was the Christmas Party on Wednesday night in the Community Room. Forty-eight residents enjoyed the caroling led by Doris Somers and Bob Waterhouse, the lovely tree with the gifts to exchange piled beneath it, and the punch, cookies and other goodies. Hilarity was caused by the trading of gifts, after each person had selected one, such as the bath beads traded to a big six-footer, a set of yellow towels all of the women seemed to want, and a box of chocolate cherries that no one wanted to give up. The last I saw of those Dudley Bacon had them, but whether or not he got safely home with them I don't know. The Women's Committee received a lot of praise for their work on the party. Irene Bergstrom capably took over for Mariann Petters, who with husband Al, were under the weather and could not attend. Saturday night, Christmas Eve, was the big dinner. The same women and Bob Waterhouse, this week's wagonmaster, was in charge. Bill Lynn took over on Monday as wagonmaster. Mr. and Mrs. Max Croussett, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Reno, and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Somers attended the Christmas cantata Sunday night at the First Baptist Church. The Reno's were in Lakeland, Monday shopping and had dinner at Duff's in Winter Haven. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hackett and children were Tuesday's luncheon guest of Karl and Ida Walter. Mrs. Hackett is Karl's niece, from Adrian, MI., and they are spending the holidays with Florida relatives. Dick and Doris Somers had dinner and spent the evening with Bill and Dorothy Webb at their home at Fairmont Estates, Sebring, Thursday. Albert and Doris Marble are guest of the Max Croussetts for several days. They are from Elba, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grate and children, Steven and Kellie, from Camden, NJ., are spending their Christmas vacation in Florida and are spending a few days now with Bob and Mildred Savage. Mrs. Grate is Mildred's niece. Bill and Irene Bergstrom went shopping at Brandon Thursday and lunched at the Bonanza. Howard and Cara Jones are spending the holidays with relatives in Venice and Ft. Myers. Howard, who has been calling bingo since it was started, with assistance now and then of Clair Reno, announced Monday night that he and Cara wanted more time for traveling, therefore he would no longer be calling. He deserves a rest, and thanks for past favors. New people in the park are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Greene from Hebron, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Knecht, from Onaway, Mich., both for one month.

Winter Guest Club News

Pinochle
On Monday, Dec. 19, there were twelve tables for pinochle. Howard Long was high with 767 and Chris Cabezas was second with 751.

Bridge
On Tuesday, Dec. 20, there were 6 1/2 tables at play. Emma Carlson was high with 4500 and Tom Chase was second with 4380.

On Thursday, Dec. 22, there were 8 1/2 tables for duplicate bridge. North-South saw Ada Johnson and Edith Harden in first place. Second went to Al Allen and Ida Allen and Juanita Bruce and Irwin Johnson were third. East-West, first place went to Maurice Brewster and Win. Porter. Helen Dixon and Barbara Ebmeyer were second while Louise Reinsner and Carlo Scavella were third.

Crafts
On Thursday, Dec. 22 there were forty nine members for the regular craft class. Macrae is still holding the attention of some. This project will continue as long as there is interest.

Other members were creating darling Christmas trees from egg cartons. These take some time but are lovely when finished. Pine needles are still holding the attention of many members and some beautiful articles are being made.

Next week Thursday there will be an informal class. Members will be finishing many projects on hand. Members are invited to bring a friend or friends to visit this one time.

The first meeting in January will be the start of a new project. This will be Bargello taught by Annie Hatch and Darlene Wells and they will assist in getting supplies needed. Also Ruth Brel will introduce the making of milk bottle purses. This project will need a number of bottles so members interested should start collecting them at once. Hallie is interested in a project of very beautiful Navaho jewelry and would like some one to learn and then teach the project. In Navaho it is "Ojo de Dios" and in English it is "The Eye of God". Hallie will instruct interested members at her house. She strongly urges members to participate so that classes can be held at the Club. This is a project which could put our Craft Class at the very top. A Happy New Year to Everyone.

Food For Thought

"There never was such a goose."

And was there ever a more frequently quoted sentence?

But when I recently heard Dr. Lester Hale of the University of Florida give an effective reading of "A Christmas Carol," I decided that at this season Charles Dickens' story is always new, always welcome, always warming. Aside from the tale's sentiment — or sentimentality, depending on your viewpoint — does it not contain some of the most appetizing food writing you ever read?

The goose that was the focus of the Cratchit's Christmas dinner was cooked at the bakery, you will recall, because Mrs. Cratchit's kitchen was too limited to accommodate its preparation. Master Peter and the two young Cratchits went to fetch it.

And when they returned, "the dishes were set on, and grace was said. It was succeeded by a breathless pause, as Mrs. Cratchit, looking slowly all along the carving-knife, prepared to plunge it in the breast; but when she did, and when the long expected gush of stuffing issued forth, one murmur of delight arose all round the board."

"There never was such a goose," Bob said. He didn't believe there ever was such a good cooked. Its tenderness and flavor, size and cheapness, were the themes of universal admiration. Eaten out by the apple-sauce and mashed potatoes, it was a sufficient dinner for the whole family."

I hadn't roasted a goose for two decades, but after hearing that passage I felt like doing so again. Alas, goose is no longer cheap, though it remains mouth-meltingly tender, delicate and rich flavor, dark-meat throughout, with yield per pound less than that from the more familiar turkey.

I paid $1.49 a pound or more than $12 for a bird weighing between eight and nine pounds. Extravagant? Yes, but Floridians who can stretch their budgets might enjoy a goose for Christmas dinner. A good many people over the centuries have served it on that feast.

Not only the English but also the French, Germans and Poles have associated geese with revelry and fine cooking. In 1580, Michel de Montaigne called the goose "the darling of nature," perhaps thinking of its down and feathers as well as its flavor.

Prices are high, Howard M. Helmer explains, because of limited supply, probably deriving from limited demand in this country. Helmer, representing producers of geese, reports that in a recent year, only about half a million birds were raised on "approximately 1,500 farms in the Dakotas, California, Iowa, Wisconsin and Montana. Some restaurants in metropolitan areas with Middle European cuisine—the Czechoslovak Praha, for example, on First Avenue in New York City—served goose the year round. Red cabbage in a sweet-sour sauce is a favorite accompaniment.

Leading meat packers dress, package and freeze geese, printing directions on the labels similar to those on frozen turkeys. I followed the directions on the goose I bought exactly. Correction: not quite.

They said to cook the bird on a rack in an open roasting pan, breast side down, picking it all over with a fork after an hour to release the fat. This I did, continuing the cooking. But I was sure on the basis of the softness of the thigh meat that the bird was tender half an hour ahead of schedule. I was wrong. I had to return it to the oven to finish off. "Cook until the thigh meat feels very soft," should be taken very literally.

Or better, use a meat thermometer and roast until interior temperature of the thigh registers 180 to 185 degrees.

Why release the fat? Of all birds, the goose must be fattest. The specimen I roasted provided two cups during the cooking. Then another cup derived from "trying out" or melting the solid fat that I removed from the bird before inserting it in the oven.

Europeans argue goose fat is a superior delectable, to be used as a flavoring for vegetables—the mashed potatoes, for example, that accompany the roast goose. Germans like it in what they call greben. For this you brown chopped onion in a little of the goose fat, then drain off the fat, discarding the onion. You mix the flavored fat with some of the plain, then serve the spread on dark breads. Without question it is tasty, as are the cracklings that result when you fry out the solid fat.

The group of producers that Helmer represents have developed a slightly different method of roasting a goose than the one you find on the frozen-product packages. I'm giving it here.

One easy, highly satisfactory "stuffing," if such it can be called, is the insertion of orange and apple sections which, though not highly palatable in themselves after the bird has been cooked, nevertheless flavor it delightfully. Should you prefer a conventional stuffing, choose one relatively low in fat and containing fruit.

Thaw frozen goose in the normal storage area of the refrigerator, which will take a couple of days.

Remove neck and giblets from the body and cook in water for a couple of hours until tender. Add the liver about half an hour before cooking is completed. Chop giblets and liver fine and use, along with the goose broth, to prepare the gravy, as you would prepare a gravy for roast turkey.

If stuffing is used, stuff neck and body cavities loosely. Skewer neck skin to the back with a skewer. Tie legs together. Place goose, breast side up, on a rack in a roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer deep into inside thigh muscle. Roast uncovered for 45 minutes to an hour in a preheated 400-degree oven. Spoon or siphon off fat as it accumulates. Prick goose all over.

Reduce oven temperature to 325 and continue roasting. If goose seems to be browning excessively, cover loosely with a tent of foil. Roast to 180 to 185 degrees. A stuffed eight-pound goose will take three to three and one-half hours.

GREEN GEBEN
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup goose fat
Cook onion in one-fourth cup of the goose fat until onion browns. Strain fat into a crock or jar; discard onion. Add remaining fat, stirring to combine. Refrigerate. To serve, spread on rye or pumpernickel bread and top with hard-cooked egg, shrimp or radish slices.

Or for a contemporary geben, combine a half-cup of goose fat with two tablespoons crumbled blue cheese, two teaspoons instant minced onion, a pinch of onion salt and freshly ground black pepper. Work in a three-ounce package of cream cheese. Refrigerate, to let flavors mellow. Serve on dark bread.

PART OF THE fun of a Sebring Academy Barbecue is the added attractions, as Molly Frodge goes for a pony ride during the week.

Parents And Friends Attend Academy Barbecue

Crisp weather and good food helped make the Sebring Academy chicken barbecue a success. The barbecue and holiday craft sale was held Dec. 19 at the school, located at Pinecrest Country Club. An estimated 670 dinners were served. Hand-crafted Christmas items, a father-son basketball game and pony rides were added attractions.

Chairman for the event was Mrs. Donnie Rucks of Frostproof, aided by Mrs. John Watson, Mrs. Jack Macklin, Mrs. Tom Crutchfield, Mrs. Charles Barker, Mrs. Paul Church and Mrs. Charles Hoke. Parents and friends of Sebring Academy contributed their time and much of the food on the menu. Students had a big hand in the barbecue's success by acting as salesmen for the tickets. Grand prize winner in the schoolwide ticket-selling contest was Michael Gallodoro, who won a $25 saving bond plus 25 silver dollars.

Class winners were: Staci Lyn Smith, 3 R class; Baxter Troutman, elementary; and a tie between Cynthia Bell and Michael Gallodoro in the high school. (Savings bonds for class winners were provided by Avon Citrus Bank, Highlands County Bank, Barnett Bank and the First National Bank of Sebring.)

A drawing for door prizes produced as winners Gladys Herbold, Neal Morris, Elton S. Martin, John Murray, Charlie White, Grace Jones, Terry Murray and J. L. Young. A film entitled "Because You're Right" was shown following the barbecue. This film tells the story of several Christian schools around the United States and the efforts of several bureaucratic agencies to restrict or control Christian education.

Proceeds from the barbecue will go toward the school's athletic fund and the Junior-Senior missionary trip. Each year the upper classmen of Sebring Academy take a trip to see missions in action and to learn the culture of that nation. This year's destination will be announced soon.

After many years of successful thrift store operation in Avon Park, Ridge Area Association for Retarded Citizens is planning to open another store in Sebring. The new store will be located at 435 Lennon Street and will feature clothing and ornamental plants along with the occasional "real find".

All proceeds from the resale of items donated to Ridge Area go directly into the many programs and services to the mentally retarded of the county. John Murren, Executive Director of Ridge Area, stated that the location was selected because it will be easily accessible to those living near the Circle and the residents of Washington Heights.

"The operation of a thrift store is a real service to all segments of the community; those who donate, those who shop, those who volunteer and those who benefit from the proceeds, are all beneficiaries of the operation," Murren pointed out. The volunteer positions, now open for application, will provide special opportunity for those persons interested in spending a few hours each week in a meaningful and interesting position. Murren suggests that anyone interested in a volunteer slot call Ridge Area at 385-4628 for more information.

Each of a life of devotion and adherence to a common cause, that of joining hands, hearts and thoughts with our heavenly parent. He will lead us each in a final preparation for the fulfilling of His announcement of His return to this earth to take His prepared ones to be with Him in His heavenly home.

Scranton Injured In Hunting Accident

Randall Eugene Scranton, 21, of Tampa was treated at Walker Memorial Hospital Saturday afternoon following a hunting accident in the Alpha Bombing Range near Avon Park.

Highlands County sheriff's deputies said Scranton was hunting with three other men from the Tampa area when he was hit with several pieces of shot. The shot was apparently fired from the gun of John Bridges, 47, of Tampa. Deputies said the shooting was accidental.

As we review the benefits which have come, many times unmerited, and our almost constant supplications for the desires of the soul, we marvel that our heavenly parents keep us in His good graces. May this new year be the beginning of a new life for us

FAITH WILL REVEAL THE JOY OF FORGIVENESS

If you are burdened with a feeling of resentment against someone who has wronged you in the past, you are bringing far more unhappiness to yourself than to the person whose action you resent. The Bible tells us to love one another; and to love is to forgive, no matter how serious the offense. If the Son of God, whose teachings you follow, was able to forgive those who had subjected Him to the most heinous crime in all history, you can forgive someone a far lesser offense. Go to your Church and learn how love brings peace and happiness, while resentment can cause only misery to yourself and those around you.

To err is human, to forgive divine.
