Nuclear Plant Is Almost Complete

The Governing Board of the South Florida Water Management District authorized its staff Friday to determine if Florida Power and Light Company can start filling its giant 7,000 acre cooling reservoir at the new Martin County Plant (Seminole), located northwest of Indian River.

On Thursday, Mr. Carol Crawford, FPL's environmental coordinator, appeared before the Board and warned that if the Turkey Point nuclear reactor plant in Homestead should be shut down for extensive repairs, FPL would not be able to meet the electrical demands of South Florida, unless their Seminole plant was placed on line at an earlier date in 1979, about one year ahead of schedule.

In 1973, the SFWMD agreed to give FPL the water for the 100,000 acre-foot reservoir on the condition that water would not be needed until 1979, and that the water would be supplied over a period of two years.

However, facing problems with its nuclear reactor plant, FPL would like to start receiving a portion of the water whenever it becomes available. The request comes right on the heels of SFWMD obtaining permission from the Corps of Engineers to increase the storage in Lake Okechobee from 15.5 feet to 17.5 feet above mean sea level (msl).
John R. Maloy, SFWMD Executive Director, pointed out that the power company's pumps, operating at full design capacity, would fill the reservoir in three months to fill the reservoir. He added: "We know that ideal operating conditions never happen and the pumps will need a 'burn in' period to break them in before pumping to capacity."

Ms. Crawford told the Board that all the power company wants is "a small portion of the capacity of the Lake to start filling the reservoir." She pointed out that FPL has invested $50 million on the reservoir, and it might deteriorate some unless water is placed in it as soon as possible.

The Governing Board generally agreed that if the Lake continues to rise, it would be wise to allow some pumping in the reservoir. And, if it is a real wet season, all three water possible should be pumped into the reservoir. When the Lake reaches 15.5, the staff will again review the request and make recommendations for pumping. At the present time the Lake is at 13.30 and rising. Board member Robert Padrick assured the power company that the Board would cooperate.
