

Seventy four seniors who had skills to make up from last year's Junior Assessment were tested on December 12 in the auditorium at the high school. Of the 74 students who retook the math skills portion, 30 signed off all the skills. Twenty-two students took some portion of the English skills over, and 15 were able to sign off all of the English skills they were deficient in.

The number of students cleared for graduation out of the approximately 167 seniors is 106. Of those who have not signed off all the portions of the Junior Assessment Test, 15 need one skill in order to graduate with a regular diploma.

For those students who failed the test the second time, they will be able to retake the test again in April. This will be the last chance seniors have to pass the test prior to graduation.

The 1978-79 Emergency Schools Aid Act Program (ESAA) has been in full swing since September. Its main function is to provide federal assistance to the schools in Highlands County. The ESAA Program is devised to help the Time Out Program in the schools throughout the county.

The Time Out Program is set up as an alternate method for students subject to suspension for too many tardies, detentions, or serious misbehavior.

In order to carry out the needs of the Time Out room, each of the three high schools in Highlands County have selected members for the Student Aid Committee (SAC). These students, grades 9 through 12, are a regular part of the ESAA Committee on the Time Out rooms in their school and discuss different methods of improving the Time Out room.

During the last four or five meetings the SAC attended, the general topics of discussion were home visitation, a deep concern for the Time Out Program, and

Time Out and school visitation in Highlands County.

So far, ESAA has already visited Lake Placid High and Middle School where the members were taken on a tour of the schools and observed the functions of their Time Out room.

Also, the committee has already decided to provide funds for isolation booths and for a tutoring system at Avon Park High. This action first has to be verified by Mr. Lester Watson, principal. ESAA meetings are open to the public, and everyone is cordially invited to attend. So, come see what's happening with ESAA. It just might involve you and your children by Eugene Cox

The sophomore English classes will have a treat in their classrooms for the two weeks following Christmas break. Mr. James Provencher, the poet-in-the-schools, will be teaching a special two week poetry unit during this time.

Provencher, a native of Maine, has been sponsored by the Tri-County Teachers' Education Center and funded by a federal Fine Arts Grant. His two week mission is to introduce a basis of poetry and creative writing to the sophomore English classes.

Provencher, who is presently residing in Sebring, has won many literary awards and honors. Some of his poems have been published in many national magazines as well as in a collection of all-time great poems. A graduate of Dartmouth and Stanford Universities, Provencher stated that he would like to make his students understand that poetry is not a status of femininity, rather it is a form of personal expression.

After Provencher finishes his work at Avon Park High School, he will continue to introduce his program in the remaining high schools in Highlands, Hardee, and Okeechobee counties. by Mark Myers

Last Wednesday Santa made his annual visit here at Avon Park High School to see the little children who had been in Mrs. Moseley's child development class for two weeks of preschool.

Santa has been coming here for the last two years and when asked how the children liked seeing him, Mrs. Moseley stated, "They seemed very excited, happy and unafraid." Mrs. Moseley also said that she and the students in her class enjoyed it very much too.

When Santa first arrived, he gave all the little children a candy cane, then he had them one by one sit on his lap and tell what they wanted for Christmas. A few of the things they wanted were race cars, a baby doll with a rash, a sewing machine, trains, and a few other things. When the little children got through, some of the big children sat in his lap and told him what they wanted. Most of them wanted cars like a Cadillac and a Z-28, but there were a couple who said that all they wanted was a companion. After they finished telling Santa what they wanted, the little children sang "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer" and "Jingle Bells" for him.

Santa stayed for about 30 minutes, and before he left, he told the children to go to bed early and that he loved cold milk and cookies for a snack on Christmas Eve.

On Friday, December 15, the Keyettes held a Christmas party at the Hillcrest Nursing Home for Mr. Pulio, a man whom the Keyettes have been visiting since September.

Each Keyette brought a treat to the party, but the special treat for Mr. Pulio was a stocking full of buttered candy which he had especially requested. Mr. Pulio has grown a beard for "his" Keyettes so that he could play Santa Claus for them, and in return, they sang Christmas carols for him.

Tips For The Homemaker

By Beki Brock

An abundance of food, a great deal of it rich and sweet, is as much a part of today's holiday tradition as Santa Claus. Many people consider any holiday incomplete without creamy egg nog, cakes, pies, candy, and second helpings of everything good.

Unfortunately, such holiday traditions tend to increase waistlines and over-power good intentions of dieting.

And although dieting is next to impossible during the holidays, with a little imagination, any cook can prepare nutritious, lower calorie foods that are in keeping with the holiday spirit. You might choose to serve a fruit punch or mulled cider instead of egg nog. And for party hors d'oeuvres include carrot and celery sticks, cucumber strips, radishes or cauliflower florets along with a low calorie "confetti" cheese dip. This dip is extra low in calories because cottage cheese is substituted for the usual sour cream or cream cheese. Green pepper and pimientos in the dip carry out the holiday color scheme.

If available, cherry tomatoes stuffed with minced tuna fish, onion and green pepper also add a splash of color.

Of course, everyone has their own favorite stuffing recipes, many of which call for large amounts of bread or breadcrumbs. One way to cut down on calories is to use a stuffing with little or no bread, such as one made of water chestnuts and mushrooms.

Many holiday dinners include several varieties of potato. Why not substitute for one of them another fresh vegetable such as beans seasoned with savory? And if a fresh garden salad is part of the feast, use a low calorie dressing, or one made with tomato juice and herbs.

If you just can't resist sweets, limit yourself to one serving of dessert a day. You may want to eat half a lunch and half at dinner. Fresh fruit, nuts in the shell, and cheese also provide a light and nutritious touch after any hearty meal.

It is hard not to have candy and cookies around during the holiday season, especially where there are children. Dates with their natural sweetness, offer a nutritious alternative to candy canes and sugary plums. They can be eaten "as is," stuffed with nut meats, or used in sugarless cookies.

It's a challenge to be calorie-conscious when planning foods for holiday feasts. But health agencies and cookbooks offer a wide variety of delicious low calorie recipes for you to try.

Lake Glenada Camping Resort

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carle, Michigan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McConaughy of Northwood, Ohio and Mr. James Floyd of Toledo, Ohio. Names were omitted from our list of newcomers to our camp grounds last week, we are sorry about this.

Among our newcomers this week, we are glad to welcome back Lavone and Paul Brown from Iowa, who came in yesterday for the season believe it or not he didn't even get stuck in the same this year.

Some other folks to arrive are Mr. and Mrs. Homer Felder, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. John Clayton, W. Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Stalker, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Sells, Ky; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roscoe, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Norris, Tenn.

Mr. Harry Curtis is on our birthday list for the month of Dec.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Kindlin received word from Peoria, Ill. that their five year old grandson Scott was hospitalized with pneumonia but is recovering.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob James and family Scott and Stacey from Yorktown, Va., will be visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert James for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Misen of Sunny Ridge Trailer Park visited with their daughter and son-in-law Helen and Herb Kindlin on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph

Rockafellow, friends of Claude and Irene Withers have spent several days in our camp while visiting.

Mrs. Robert Warren was by far one of the happiest ladies in our camp this week as she had the good fortune to be the double Bingo Winner, winning $2,000 from Winn-Dixie.

Visitors of the Carl Miller's Thursday afternoon were Ralph and Vivian Ellingwood of Anderson, Ind. and their neighbors Faye and Steve now of Lake Markai, Fla.

There were 50 present at our Sat. Pot Luck, all enjoyed a delicious meal.

With our camping decorations it really looks as though all our northern friends are really in the Christmas spirit rhymes our snow and zero temperatures which we are all glad not to have.

Our camp is very pretty and Christmas making it a lot easier for us who are away from our families at this time of year. We will be having our Christmas Party next Sat. night and we're all looking forward to this.

A good time was really had by our bowling buddies this week. There were five new bowlers this week. George Bitters had high series with 333. Herb Kindlin had high single game of 204. We almost brought the roof down cheering Irene Witter after she made a strike!

On Christmas Day
By Annette Metheny

Celebrate Birthday:

Greetings Friends,

Welcome to Southside Park Community News. This is a very special time of year in Southside Park as well as throughout the Christian world. The rush is on and the fragrance of festivity and celebration literally fill the air. The homes and streets are decorated with lights and various emblems and the Christmas tree again is everywhere, all sizes, shapes and colors. Welcome home students, relatives and friends and Merry Christmas to all of you.

Calvin Gibbs

Calvin Gibbs and Henry (Manboy) Hinson were born on Christmas day in the same year. They will celebrate their birthday on Monday, Dec. 25. Annette Metheny Does It Again:

The following poem was voted the winner by the Sixth grade pupils at Avon Park Middle School. Suzanne Bigby and Kelly Prevatt won runner up.

How'd you like to be a doll on Christmas day?
Not a new one, but the old one thrown away.

How'd it feel to be just thrown on the floor and not to be loved, by a child anymore?

How'd you like to be a truck that belonged to a boy. That is now put aside for some other toy. Isn't there a place for toys like these. Is there some other child these toys would please?

If I were that doll I'd speak out and say, Find another child with whom I can play. Don't let me go on unloved you see, When some child has nothing under the tree.

Recovering at Home:
Mr. Louis Lee is home recuperating after two weeks in Lake Wales General Hospital.

Celebrate Birthday:

Mrs. Mary Tate will celebrate her birthday on Monday, December 25. Mrs. Mary Alice McCoy, and Mrs. Azzie Lee Walker will celebrate their birthday on Monday, Dec. 25, also.

Christmas Birthday Hospitalized at Press Time: Retha Kirkland, Sarah Sheltz, Helen Ervin, Caesar Davis, John Zachary, William Young, Courtland Brown and Fay Watson.

Food For Thought

Christmas Day Dinner Recipes

By Jane Nickerson

Though most of us observe tradition in planning Christmas Day dinner, we are open to suggestions, too, provide they do not crush custom entirely. For some ideas on that important family feast, probably the year's most important in rallying households and friends, I went to three good Florida cooks.

All were professional men whose names came to me not because they are leaders in their fields but rather because of their dedication to the kitchen and their tireless practice of it. No Sunday chefs, they donning a conspicuous coat and turning out an occasional omelet, but rather people who regularly go to supermarkets, select their materials and prepare them with finesse and modesty.

The cast: Walt Ferguson, landscape gardener, Winter Haven; Carl Feiss, professor of urban planning, University of Florida, Gainesville; and Claude M. Harden, Jr., lawyer, Lakeland.

Ferguson and Feiss cook daily for their families; Harden often does. In addition to his legal activity, Harden operates two kitchenware shops, is planning an unusual restaurant and on his frequent travels searches out novel dishes to duplicate at home.

"After our family got down to four," Ferguson says, "I discovered those small turkeys of about eight pounds, and they are delicious."

For a Christmas Day dinner for an abbreviated household, this garden designer proposes a gobbler of size with a stuffing of wild rice and fresh mushrooms. Mashed branded sweet potatoes, fresh pole beans and hot rolls and butter team with the turkey. Follows a molded salad of ground cranberries, supplying a color note of seasonal red, and then in the best Southern tradition pecan pie — "with or without ice cream," Ferguson says.

To drink with the food, also in Southern fashion, iced tea, and as a digestive afterwards, hot black coffee. Yankees may think the former is a midsummer beverage but native Floridians like Ferguson demand chilled tea year round, regarding it as even more essential than corn bread.

"I buy a non-basted turkey," Ferguson says, "and cook it the old-fashioned Southern way in a tightly covered roasting pan. The dressing is as easy as it's delicious. The directions: 'Cook the turkey giblets till tender; chop; set aside. Prepare a six-ounce package of long grain and wild rice, following the label instructions. While the rice is cooking, saute a half-pound of fresh mushrooms, sliced, in two ounces of butter. Combine the three — giblets, rice, mushrooms — and you have the stuffing.'"

"Some friends attribute my resemblance to Santa to the number of Christmas dinners I have cooked," Feiss says. Though a giant in his specialty of urban planning, the professor is small of stature, with the rounded figure and beard of S. Claus. "In 37 years of married life," Feiss says, "I have prepared 36 Yule dinners."

On 362 days of the year, he continues, cooks may innovate, but on the remaining three, Christmas, Thanksgiving and Easter, they must bow to family tradition. Unlike Ferguson and Harden, Feiss is not a native Florida son; his customary Christmas dessert of plum pudding or mince pie is more Northern than Southern.

"I go commercial for dessert," Feiss says, "and buy a canned plum pudding, then bathe it in brandy and serve it aflame."

But somehow his menu has started with the conclusion. To go back to the teacher recommends the following main course: Roast Stuffed Turkey, mashed sweet potatoes "lightened," as Feiss puts it with applesauce and orange juice, and brussels sprouts mixed with chestnuts.

"We boil the shelled chestnuts about 15 minutes," Feiss explains, "remove the inner skins and gently saute the chestnuts in well salted butter until they are lightly browned. Then they are added to the cooked-just-till-tender sprouts. No more butter is needed; the nuts are rich and delicious."

"I am violently opposed to frozen turkeys, but hunting for a fresh one in Florida is as challenging as stalking wild birds in the wild and nearly so much fun. Also, fresh turkeys cost a lot more. No edible beast is provided with as many inconclusive recipes in the universe of cookbooks as is the turkey. Beaton, in her British Kitchen classic, seems to fry hers in bacon fat. The last 60, or so 12 to 18-pound turkeys I've roasted have been successful without basting at all.

"At kick-off, bird and stuffing must be at room temperature and the oven preheated to 350. Allow 25 minutes per pound. Place bird on a rack and add a half-inch of the broth that has been previously prepared from the giblets and salt, and cover loosely with an elliptical dome of foil, with the bright side, which reflects the heat, nearer the bird. Moisture condensing on the under side of the foil drips back on the turkey and into the pan, keep the pan wet.

"About 30 minutes before the cooking time is over, remove the foil, turn the oven to 450 degrees and brown the dickens out of the turkey. When she's the right shade of mahogany, put her on a platter, cut the trussing strings and let her relax for 25 minutes or so while you and guests sip a dry sherry and munch buttered salted pecans hot from the oven. At that point salivation begins."

Harden, too, proposes that Christmas Day dinner begins with buttered roasted pecans, to be offered with a fine dry California champagne, which he recommends throughout the meal. At the table he favors a festive loin of pork. His menu goes like this:

Salad of asparagus and cauliflower florets marinated in oil and vinegar, roast loin of pork with glazed apricots, wild rice mixed with sautéed walnuts, grated zucchini baked with fresh tomatoes and cheese, and no less than three very Deep-South desserts — coconut layer cake with seven-minute frosting, ambrosia and pecan pie.

The cake is a Christmas tradition particularly in Key West, the ambrosia is familiar on this side of the Mason-Dixon Line on all winter holidays. Doesn't just about everyone know by now that it is a celestial combination of orange sections and grated coconut? If, as the French insist, you enhance your cuisine with fresh, readily available materials, then ambrosia has to be the Florida Yuletide dessert par excellence.

Recipes implementing the Christmas dinner menus follow.

BUTTER-ROASTED PECANS

Harden says this recipe derives from "The Pleasure of Your Company," by Diana and Paul von Welanetz. Harden has attended the cooking classes they conduct in Los Angeles.

2 cups pecan halves
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon coarse salt, like kosher salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper or more to taste

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Toss pecans lightly with butter; arrange in single layer in shallow pan; bake 15 to 20 minutes, stirring often to prevent burning. Watch carefully toward conclusion of baking lest nuts burn.

Transfer pecans with slotted spoon to a brown grocery bag. Reserve butter remaining in pan for flavoring vegetables. Shake nuts to remove excess butter; add salt and pepper; shake again to distribute seasonings evenly. Serve warm.

BANDIED SWEET POTATOES

Ferguson contributes this recipe.

4 cups mashed sweet potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons brandy, see note
3 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper to taste
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 tablespoon finely grated orange rind

Mix all ingredients except rind; turn into a 5 to 6-cup buttered casserole; sprinkle rind on top. Bake at 375 degrees about 40 minutes.

Yield: 6 to 8 portions.

Note: Increase brandy, if desired. Ferguson favors a halfcup.

SWEET POTATOES WITH FRUITS

Feiss says amounts are approximate; add more or less apple sauce and orange juice, as you prefer. The result, in his words, is "a lovely, sweet but tangy, light dish."

6 to 7 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1 cup apple sauce
¼ can (6-ounce) orange juice concentrated, thawed
2 tablespoons butter, melted
Salt to taste

Combine all ingredients; beat until smoothly blended in electric mixer. Turn into a 2-quart greased casserole; reheat in 350-degree oven, the time depending on the temperature of the ingredients.

Yield: 12 servings.

ROAST PORK WITH APRICOTS

Harden says this recipe is adapted from one in Charlotte Adams' "The Four Seasons Cookbook."

1 (6-pound) pork loin roast, trimmed of fat
¼ cup oil
2 carrots, sliced
1 medium onion, chopped
1 rib celery, sliced
¼ teaspoon dried sage
1 bay leaf
Salt and pepper to taste
1 cup dry white wine
1 cup canned beef gravy
1 pound dried apricots
¼ cup honey

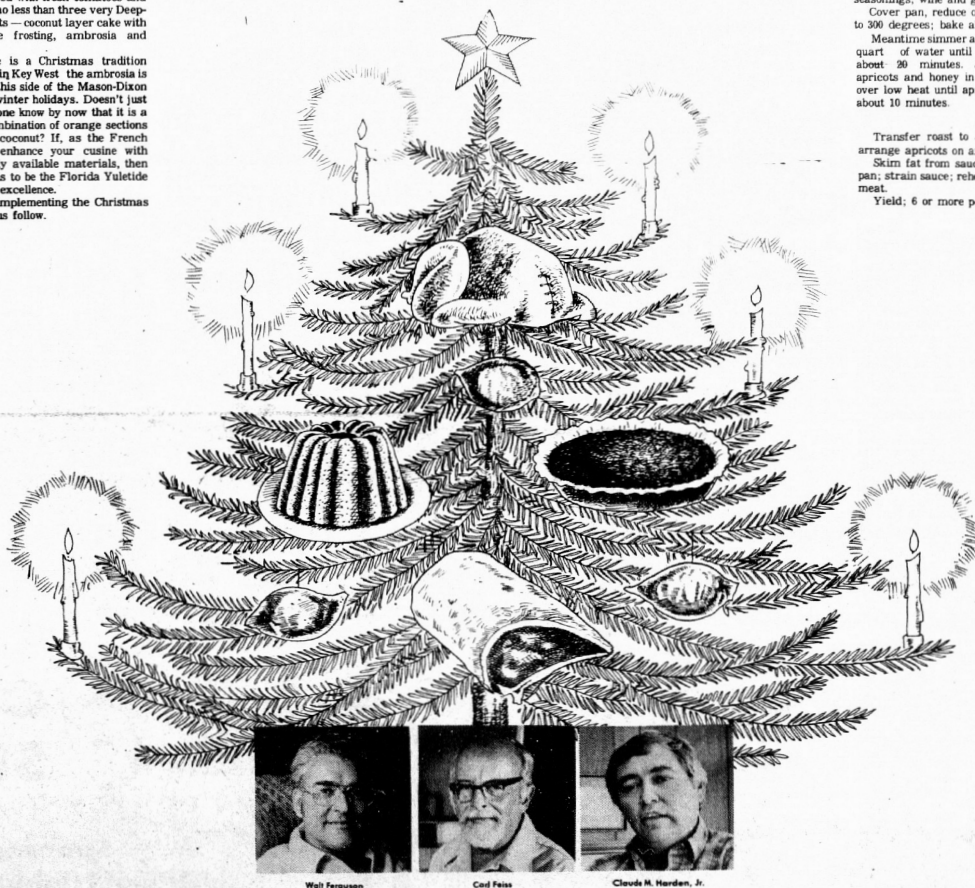

Arrange pork in pan that can be covered; add oil. Cook 10 minutes uncovered in a preheated 450-degree oven; add vegetables; cook till they start to brown, or about 3 minutes. Add herbs, seasonings, wine and gravy.

Cover pan, reduce oven temperature to 300 degrees; bake about 2 hours.

Meantime simmer apricots gently in a quart of water until barely tender, or about 30 minutes. Strain; combine apricots and honey in a fry pan; cook over low heat until apricots are glazed, about 10 minutes.

Transfer roast to a heated platter; arrange apricots on and around it. Skim fat from sauce left in roasting pan; strain sauce; reheat and serve with meat.

Yield: 6 or more portions.

Peachman Alford has lived in Levy County all of his life, except for two years back during World War II when he went off and joined the United States Navy and got himself shipped over to Europe where he went up inside that leaning tower that is so famous over there. Before he had gone up in the leaning tower Alford had made a living doing a little fishing off of the Cedar Keys, so that is what he did when he came back to Levy County at 19 when the war business was over and married that Rowland girl and had six children, bam, bam, bam, one right after the other.

One thing about fishing, though, is that you cannot depend on that money coming in regular, and when you have six kids you need regular money, so Alford took a job in 1953 at Randolph Hodges' ice house. Three years later he decided that he had no business raising six kids in a little rented house near the water that he did not make a living in anymore anyway, so he found a place up the county way back in the woods and he figured he could afford it because it was cheap, and even if it was not cheap for the money he was making at the ice house he had to buy it anyway if he wanted to raise his four boys and two girls like they ought to be raised.

And for the next half dozen years Alford raised those kids, worked at the ice house and worked on his five acres, and he was proud of the five acres because he never had owned anything before, except for that land on Black Point that he thought his daddy had homesteaded before it turned out that his daddy hadn't homesteaded it at all and it belonged to somebody else.

The thing is, though, Alford really wanted to be working out on the water, and in 1962 he finally quit the ice house and went into the crabbing business, where he guessed he could make good money all right if he would work hard and regular at it. He knew there were some fine crabs off those keys, and for another ten years he went after the crabs and usually he got what he needed. By the time those big boys of his were just about all grown Alford figured he and the old lady (whose name was Nellie even if he did not call her that) could stay closer to home instead of leaving the woods and making that long drive to the Gulf every day, so he bought some hogs and got the restaurants on the key to give him swill so he would not have to buy feed.

Today, Alford calls himself a hog farmer, even if he does pick up a few dollars here and there in enterprises he would rather not talk about, and you had better not talk about either if you are smart. He has respect for the law and what he does is mostly legal, but the law does not put food in your mouth does it, and a man does not take kindly to some one who talks so much he takes food out of another man's mouth.

Peachman Alford was a little bit on the defensive when I tracked him down in the woods near the community of Rosewood. If it had been someone with the government coming back on his land, he said, it might have been worse than back in the 1920's when they had the big riots in Rosewood and the white folks ended up lynching the black folks. Still, Alford said, he did not know about this business of me writing about him, when the way he figured it there was nothing to write anything that was not true, but the way he figured he had only finished the sixth grade, never made much money and never did much of anything. Nobody would be interested in him.

"I ain't even pretty, Hoss," Alford said. "The old lady don't think there's nothing much interesting about me, and I ain't never heard nobody say nothing about me but, 'There goes old Alford.' What the hell."

All the while Alford was building a fire under a black kettle to cook those parts of a hog you have left after you have skinned him and hung up the carcass. After the kettle came to a boil, we reached an agreement: If I would go out in the back country with him, around the marshes, and help him with the work he did out there every day, but not write anything about the work itself, then he might give me the story. Might. And then he might not. His son had injured himself pretty bad the last time out and the boy just was not in any condition to help. If I would take his place I might get the story of Peachman Alford.

I thought that sounded like a pretty fair deal. We got in the truck and headed out of the woods.

"See those trailers, Hoss," Alford said, pointing to four trailers that were set back in the woods on the trail that led from his house to the hard road. "Them's my sons' trailers. All those old boys still live by their old pappy. What the hell."

In half an hour we made it to a place near a rise called Shell Mound. The mound is deserted now, and sits over fingers of water that come in from the Gulf at high tide.

Up With People Thespians To Perform January 9

Their casts have performed from Peking, China to Belfast, Ireland; before millions at Super Bowl X, Carnegie Hall, and now in Sebring.

On January 9, 1979 an international cast of Up With People will perform live in concert in Lake Placid High School at 7:30 p.m. sponsored by the Lake Placid Chamber of Commerce as a community involvement project. A second performance will be given at the South Florida Junior College at 7:30 p.m. sponsored by the Sebring News.

The 1979 Up With People show is an entertaining blend of music and dancing which includes a broad range of contemporary and traditional materials backed by a complete instrumental section of guitars, percussion, piano and brass.

Know for the youthful enthusiasm they employ to promote understanding among people, the college-aged performers are here on part of a ten month tour which will take them to some 107 cities in the U.S., Canada, Mexico, South America and Europe.

"Up With People's family entertainment is truly an event for everyone of any age," explained one reviewer.

Casts of Up With People have performed in all 50 states and in 42 countries on six continents as well as on national television across the world.

Their global tours include a recent visit to the People's Republic of China where a group of Up With People representing nine nations spent three weeks visiting six cities. Their performances were both formal and informal in schools, factories, and communities.

Approximately 425 young men and women from 18 countries are currently traveling with 5 casts of Up With People. They represent a cross section of economic backgrounds and ethnic origins.

The acceptance of applicants is based on personal interviews conducted throughout the year. Approximately 700 people apply monthly and one in 17 finally participates.

The performers do their own stage work, promotion, day-to-day logistics, and may work for college credits through a program of independent study projects. An essential part of their education is living with families in the communities they visit.

During its 12 year history, 4,800 young men and women have stayed in approximately 41,000 host homes, each traveling some 32,000 miles in an average tour.

Up With People is an independent, non-profit, educational corporation headquartered in Tucson, Arizona. The organization endeavors to establish a creative format for communication and interaction between people of different cultures, nationalities, ages and points of view.

The New York Times put it this way: "Up With People's message is simple. People are what matter. And that's an idea worth celebrating." Tickets are on sale at Touchdown Drugs in Avon Park.

Huber of Sebring and Mary Moran were Sunday dinner guests of the Ellis Martins, in honor of Mrs. Huber's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Helt and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Henderson of Brentwood Park spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stewart of Wabass.

Mrs. Bee Tingler will leave on Wednesday for Seffner and Durendin, for the Holiday with her family. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lowry will leave on Tuesday for Fort Wayne, Ind. for the holidays and to see their new great-granddaughter. Congratulations, friends!

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Baker, Helen Smith, Thelma South, Audrey Near, Marie Mazurek, Verna Fero and Helen Andrews enjoyed the 1100 voice choir and the beautiful lighting at Disney World Sunday evening. Despite the cool weather, the parade was quite an attraction and thrilled the ladies to the heart.

Holiday Ranch News

By Barbara Edmeyer

The Christmas spirit is very much in evidence at Holiday Ranch with most of the trailers gaily decorated with lights and greens. The community room is adorned with bells and streamers by the women's group Wednesday afternoon after their planning meeting was over.

Mariam Petseys was in charge and it was decided to have the Christmas dinner on Saturday evening the 23rd at 5 p.m. and the party on Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. Menus and activities were tentatively planned with a gift exchange and carol singing for sure.

The last of the regulars have arrived. Gordon and Lucille Willnow came in on Sunday the 10th. New people in the park are Al and Phyllis Ewen of Mukwonago, Wisconsin who also arrived Sunday. They were introduced at Monday morning coffee, which 33 attended.

Harold Mangos took his wife Dok to Orlando, Fla. on the 9th to take the plane to Henderson, Ky. to visit her mother, who recently underwent surgery.

On Wednesday the 13th Harold and Al Headleys went to Clewiston to visit friends. Wilson and Naomi Rider had Indiana visitors, his daughter and her husband the Norman McCartneys. They stayed stayed from the 3rd thru the 10th. The McCartneys were joined by their son at Everglades City for two weeks of fishing, then they will come back to spend Christmas with their parents before getting home by New Years. On Sunday the 10th Naomi went into Walker Memorial Hospital for tests.

Clarence and Hortense Kost are visiting her sister in Sarasota. They left the 10th. The Carl Peters camped at Lake Arbuckle last weekend with her brother and his family, the Robert Lynchs of Avon Park and on Ron Robert of West Virginia.

Letson and Madeleine Clute went to Winter Haven Monday through the 11th on business and shopping.

The Willis Lehmans spent Sunday afternoon the 10th visiting the Ira Bucks at Mallard Campground.

The Max Crossetts and Ted

Lees attended the Christmas service at the Baptist Church Sunday evening the 10th. Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. John Deers visited the Lees Thursday evening.

Lowell and Bertha Belding of Adrian, Michigan, who are spending the winter near Winter Haven, called on Bob and Mildred Savage Wed. the 13. The next day the Savages visited Harold and Estella Brown at K.O.A. camp and Purl and Bernita Burk at Gays Trailer Camp, both in Ruskin.

Wednesday the 13th Mr. and Mrs. Clair Reno went to Cypress Gardens with the Karl Walters of Lake Bonnet and had dinner at Duff's in Winter Haven. They then visited Clair's brother and wife, the Selber Renos at Fish Haven Lodge in Auburndale.

Pete and Joan Mechanic and Al and Miriam Petseys went to Haines City Monday to visit Lawrence Older.

The Levi Adamases are now visiting at their home in Gainesville, Georgia, but plan on coming back before Christmas.

Bonnie Brae Mobile Home Park

By Margie Wells

There was a full house again this week at the coffee house on Wednesday. Hostesses were Emily Webster and Lorene Campbell. Cecil and Wilma Fredericks of Finely, Ohio, were introduced as new residents of the park. They recently bought a new double-wide in the new section. Sy Faby introduced her guest, Annabelle Otteen, who is visiting here from West Palm Beach. Residents welcomed back were Florence Bieley, the Fitches, and the John Herrens. Florence Bieley gave us the good news that Ron Boyer is better and that he and Florence will arrive sometime after the first of the year.

Plans for the Christmas Dinner and the Christmas Eve party were discussed and finalized. Emily Webster entertained the group with a comical story. Everyone seemed to be in the Holiday spirit and a lot of fun was had by all.

The Bonnie Brae Belles had their arts and crafts meeting on Wednesday afternoon and were busy making dish towels for the rec hall. Jane Paris donated a lot of toweling for this project. We hope more of the ladies will plan to attend these meetings after the holidays.

All of us were saddened this past week by the death of Fred Geiger and we extend our sincere sympathy to Edna. Funeral services were held at the Fountain Funeral Home on Friday night.

Last Monday a group joined Doris and Charles Palmer in the "Winnie" and made a trip to Webster, where they spent the day. They took a picnic lunch and had a picnic. Couples accompanying Doris and Charles were Margaret and Eugene Brown, Marie and Mahlon Divine, Sylvia and David Fahmy, and Louise and Louis Loh.

We forgot to report last week that Anne and Ford Giffin showed slides of the West on Friday night. They were to show more slides this past Friday but it was cancelled because of Fred Geiger's funeral.

Sam and Ann Rugeri entertained week-end visitors, Al and Dolores Roosen, from Cocoa Beach and one of the highlights of their visit was having dinner at the Sun and Lake Estates. Sam and Ann had previously visited the Roosens at Cocoa Beach where they saw a space shot for the first time and had dinner at Captain Ed's Restaurant in Cocoa. Sam and Ann will be spending the holidays with the Roosens in their home at Cocoa.

Speaking of space shots, quite a number of our residents watched the space shot on Friday night and could see the rocket quite clearly. It was quite a sight when the rocket passed over the full moon. Margie and P.D. Wells entertained Gertrude and Stan Fluker of Sun Ray on Monday night with a spaghetti dinner after a game of golf at River Greens. It was a hard fought game with Margie and Stan beating Gertrude and P.D. However, there is a return match next Monday! Bobbi Wells of Orlando, was also a visitor at the home of Margie and P.D. on Monday evening. Varina and Joe Asher spent last week-end on the West Coast visiting several of Joe's relatives at different places there.

Ann and Ford Giffin and Leila and Winnie Kinch spent last Sunday at Lake Buena Vista where they visited friends from Monticello N.Y. who live in a town house there.

Thelma Miller entertained the Saturday night penchule group this week. Those attending were Helen Dyon, Lorn and Phyllis Johnson and Ethel and Max Putman. Visitors of Leila and Winnie Kinch on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Abgarian of Monticello.

Harry Lee's Trailer Village News

By Mabel Stocker

A winter roast was held at the shelter on Saturday evening with 39 members of the Auda-Vin Social along with their guests. Later cards were played.

The ladies of the club met last Tuesday at the shelter and made new seat covers for all of the benches.

On Wednesday a Tupperware party was held at the shelter with 12 guests present. The party was hosted by Lydia Glen who also served the refreshments. Contests were also enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Scott of Dyers Bay Ontario have arrived to spend the winter in the village. Also arriving were Dick Gilbert and his aunt, Helen Turner, for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cowie of Wyandott Michigan are visiting their mother Rita Kalash.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Meekins now of Bradenton spent the week-end with Mr. Tom, Harold Ayers and son Tom. The Ayers and Meekins are all from Iowa. Cleat Abraham is still recuperating at home and the village wishes him improvement.
