

FLA. C. OF C. CONSIDERS STATE TURNED CORNER

Reports Heard and Special Committees Named at Meeting

Jacksonville, Nov. 5.—The Board of Directors of the State Chamber of Commerce feel that the state has definitely turned the corner and that brighter days are here, according to G. G. Ware, of Leesburg, president of the organization following the regular quarterly meeting held in this city on October 31.

"Today the State Chamber of Commerce has the livest committee and the best program for constructive work it has ever enjoyed," said President Ware in commenting upon the quarterly gathering of the directors. "The sentiment expressed by the meeting was that it is almost time to sing 'Happy Days are Here Again.' That does not mean that all our problems are solved but that the economic contraction because of the real estate inflation is beginning to subside, and that by a continuation of right living and right thinking the future will soon be up about its usual business."

A feature of the meeting of the Board of Directors was the passage of a resolution that all enterprises in the state make the fullest possible use of Florida products before purchasing like products from other markets. This resolution particularly covered construction material which is produced in the state.

Special committees were authorized by the Board for the following purposes: To endeavor to establish closer relationship between the State Chamber of Commerce and the citrus industry and to study the proposed Pan-American Highway project as it affects this state.

Reports were made to the board from the agricultural, industrial, aviation, publicity and National Soldiers Home committees outlining progress made by these groups during the past quarter. David Sholez, counselor to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States outlined to the board activities of the national organization.

The Board of Directors ratified in full the proposals of the United States of the State Chamber for a national campaign, as outlined by Harold Cole, chairman of the publicity committee. In connection with this program Hamilton M. Wright, of New York, a nationally known newspaper syndicate executive was elected as vice-president of the State Chamber of Commerce in charge of national publicity.

The Board also ratified the holding of the annual meeting of the State Chamber of Commerce at West Palm Beach on Tuesday, Dec. 2nd at which time a full outline of the organization of work during the current year will be presented to the membership.

Saving Mothers and Babies Important Red Cross Task

Saving mothers' lives and better babies were important features during the past year of the Public Health Nursing Service of the American Red Cross. In the fourth of the 794 nurseries in the Red Cross work made more than 100,000 prenatal and maternity visits, in addition to assisting doctors in the examination of 1,509,409 school children.

Statistics reveal that the lives of two out of three American women who die in maternity cases could be saved if they received proper medical and nursing care. As more than 15,000 women die in the United States each year from various diseases of the maternal state, this means that more than 10,000 of these deaths are preventable.

Home Care of Sick Taught

Methods of home care of the sick and the invalid, as taught in the American Red Cross program of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, reached 84,475 students during the year. The courses also deal with sanitation in the home, care of infants and children, and the sick, reached 84,475 students during the year. When You Get Yourself a Date

When you buy dates, to stuff, to put in the favorite of all tortes, or the children's lunch box, be sure you buy the pasteurized dates. They have been purified with the famous Pasteur process, the same which is applied to milk, which makes them as pure as food can be and adds to their delicate texture too. Pasteurized dates are never treated with any kind of preservative, and are safe as pure as the day they were born.

Will Modern Jazz Music Become Classic of the Future?

Singers Think Radio Performers Do Not Fully Appreciate Modern Method

New York City.—Will our grandchildren speak in sweet tones of our jazz as classics? Lulu Quinn Weyant and Ethel Horton, nationally famous radio performers, think they will. "I am sure that we here in America do not hold jazz any more lightly than Germany held Wagner in his youth," declares Lulu Quinn Weyant, who speaks with the knowledge of a music teacher. "There has never been a single universal or great style in any art that the same thing hasn't happened and jazz must be an exception or it could never have come the universal language which it has," explains Ethel Horton, pianist of the team. "For the first time in history there is an international music. Not understanding its universal appeal we speak of it lightly and often say 'You are right in the midst of what is probably the world's greatest forward step, musically.'"

"True, many of the numbers are trivial, especially novelty songs, but an exception and a distinct contribution. For one thing, it has a new type of lyric which is especially marvelous for dancing. It is in the class of 'Pop Goes the Weasel,' which has existed since before the advent of the gramophone and which we think of as a real classic. Probably our generations hence will be singing 'Around the Corner.'"

HIGHLANDS COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION MEETING

Had Enjoyable Time at Avon Park Thursday Evening

A meeting of the Highlands County Bar Association was held Thursday evening, last week at the West Beach hotel, Avon Park. The business session was preceded by a dinner and a musical program, the music being furnished by Miss Marsh, violinist, and Miss Marsh entertained the members with three selections in her usual gifted and charming manner, while Mrs. Chapman claimed to have a cold, she certainly appeared to her audience to be in perfect voice and her rendition of "Daddy Boy," in particular, was truly delightful. Both ladies submitted to demands for encores until they politely but firmly declined.

The association wishes to express to both ladies its appreciation for the enjoyment so generously given. The main business of the evening was a consideration of the draft of the Constitution and by-laws, prepared by the committee appointed for that purpose. The Constitution was adopted as drafted with slight changes, while adoption of the by-laws was postponed until the next meeting.

Judge W. J. Barker and Miss Mattie W. Tompkins were selected as delegates to the conference of local Bar Associations, which will meet in Ocala, Nov. 15th. There was a motion passed for the appointment of a committee to draft resolutions on behalf of the Association endorsing W. H. Hollman for the position of Federal District Judge, for which office he is applying.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 20, in Sebring, the place to be arranged by the entertainment committee.

FLA. C. OF C. LAUNCHES NATIONAL ADVERTISING

Plan To Spend $500,000.00 In Three Year Advertising Campaign

Jacksonville, Nov. 5.—Hamilton M. Wright, Sr., of New York City, prominent newspaper syndicate executive, was elected as a vice-president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the directors held here the latter part of last week. Mr. Wright who is well known in Florida will be in immediate charge of the State Chamber of Commerce national publicity plan as presented to the Board of Directors by Harold Cole, of St. Augustine, chairman of the publicity committee.

The plan of the State Chamber of Commerce to spend $500,000.00 for the organization of a National Publicity Council composed of large business interests of the north and east in the state. Under the plan the $500,000 national publicity campaign recently announced will be carried out over a period of three years.

The publicity committee of the State Chamber of Commerce, under the leadership of Harold Cole, has been working on the details of the undertaking for the past several months and expects to launch active work within a short time.

"This is the first time Florida has ever attempted an organized publicity campaign with a definite contact maintained in New York, the nerve center of national publicity," says Chairman Cole. "The optimistic feeling that is prevailing in Florida at this time backed by the concrete knowledge that the state is progressing along sound lines makes this a logical time for us to inaugurate such a program of publicity advertising."

"The State Chamber of Commerce Committee," continued Mr. Cole, "feels that a campaign of this scope and character as the one to be launched is of paramount importance to Florida. The thought behind the undertaking is to make it continuous throughout the year and not upon a seasonal basis. Every community in the state will have opportunity to be represented in the publicity and advertising carried on under the plan. Prominent business and professional men throughout the state have pledged their support to the plan and it is felt that it will stand out as the greatest movement ever carried forward in the name of the state."

"The National Publicity Council is now being formed and the personnel of the council will be made public within a short time," concluded Mr. Cole, "as well as operative system under which the plan will be carried on."

FROSTPROOF PREPARES FOR MEETING NOV. 17

Hon. C. C. Teague of Federal Farm Board To Speak in Evening

Frostproof, Nov. 5.—In preparation for the important citrus meeting which will be held here Nov. 17th, officials of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Sebring Rotary Club have just been in conference.

At 10 o'clock on Nov. 17th the Committee of Fifty will be in session to adjourn at noon. In the afternoon Honorable Nathan Mayo, W. J. Howey, J. C. Morton and Dr. Charles Northern will speak on different phases of "The World's Citrus Outlook." In the evening Honorable C. C. Teague, of the Federal Farm Board, will speak for the first time in Florida and after the 17th will visit various parts of Florida with Mrs. Teague.

As several thousand people interested in the citrus industry of Florida are expected, various committees have been formed in Frostproof under the direction of a general committee made up of Harry Murray, W. E. Saunders, A. J. Stocks and N. Vissering. Traffic and parking; meeting and entertainment of guests on the program and otherwise; publicity; locations for various meetings, should the weather be unfavorable; cleanup of industrial debris of manufactured citrus materials; and refreshments to consist of fish fry for as many thousands as choose to assemble in Frostproof, have all been provided for.

The United States is now supplying 21 percent of the machine engines imported by Siam, whereas Germany supplies 55 percent and the United Kingdom, which formerly supplied two-thirds of the engines, now ships less than seven percent.

Scenic Highlands Notes and News

Important: October 30 saw the complete organization of the Professional Committee of the Associated Boards of the Sebring Rotary Club last week that he expected to have a Highlands County band in the near future, bringing in 17 members from Avon Park and 10 from Lake Placid.

Mrs. Eymann is of distinguished Welsh ancestry and has been interested in many Elstedfodau in Wales and in the United States.

Her associates on the Committee are: Jay Burns, Jr.; Mrs. T. M. Campbell; John D. Clark; N. D. C. Lewis; S. A. Passer; H. F. R. Rock, and Mrs. Lee A. Wheeler. Three sub-committees were immediately appointed to make the selections to be used in the competitive contests on March 4, 1931, within the Musical, Literary and Dramatic Departments.

Classification blanks were created October 31st and mailed in duplicate on November 1st to the chairman of each local committee with the request by Mrs. Gardner that all classifications in which each community will compete be checked and mailed at the earliest possible moment to Mrs. Eymann; for the sub-committees on selection will need to meet with the local committees as soon as possible after the classification lists are returned.

Be There.—Every grower and shipper of citrus should mark down Nov. 17 as a red-letter day. There will be held a citrus meeting of importance at Frostproof. The Committee of Fifty will meet at 10 a. m. At three under the chairmanship of O. F. Gardner, president of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Sebring Rotary Club.

Dr. Charles Northern will speak on four differing phases of the subject, "The World's Citrus Outlook as Affecting Florida's Outlook." Dr. Northern will be welcomed by the citizens of Frostproof to the thousands who are expected. Early in the evening Hon. C. C. Teague, of the Federal Farm Board, and formerly outstanding in the Marketing problems of California, will speak on "The Federal Farm Board in Relation to Florida's Citrus Industry." The chairman for the evening will be Hon. C. C. Teague, of the Federal Farm Board. Mr. Teague was invited to Florida by the Associated Boards of Trade of the Sebring Rotary Club. He has never visited the State before.

Wonderland.—In a description of Hooker Hammock, Frank E. Oiler, president of the Sebring Tourist Club, says two impressive things: "The park is densely wooded with all kinds of trees indigenous to a semi-tropical climate, and the curator has already found many rare specimens which are being carefully preserved as the winding paths are being cut through and around the beauty spots, so that none of the natural charm may be injured."

"The dense foliage overhead filters the sunlight and gives the effect of soft twilight, while the mossy carpet and ferns growing from the rough bark of trees many feet above the head makes the visitor think he is walking through a garden."

The property is now in the hands of the Florida Tropical Parks Association, Rex Beach, president. The generosity of the late Mrs. John A. Roebeling rendered the purchase possible.

Coming.—Harder Hall at Sebring will open December 16; Kentucky League at Sebring, December 18; Lake Placid Club opened the new buildings November 3rd. Holly Hill Club at Davenport expects, according to G. G. Spangler, "the biggest and best season." The Dixie-Walesbilt is booked for many tourists that will strain its capacity. Two large rooms on the ground floor are being turned into an extra dining room for special groups of tourists.

Fine Arts.—Haines City has a Fine Arts Club, with four divisions, each with its own chairman: Education, Prof. Carl Plank; Dramatics, Miss Bernice Mory; Dancing, Miss Virginia Holliday; Music, Mrs. P. A. Siegfried. The president is Mrs. Fred Pickett.

Gas.—Lake Wales and Haines City are now supplied with illuminating and cooking gas from a Central Plant at Winter Haven. The Central Florida Gas Corporation of that City reports 100 miles of main line in use.

Good News.—The State Bank of Haines City is expected to re-open on November 10th.

A ten percent dividend from the Sebring First National Bank of Sebring was distributed last week.

Candles.—The Sundial Candles at Davenport is being made under beautiful surroundings. The grounds have been ornamented profusely with tropical and sub-tropical shrubs.

The Kandy Kan plant at Frostproof is offering more contracts than it is possibly fill without enlarging its facilities.

Correct.—There is 31 pecking hours in a week between Davenport and Lake Placid, instead of 28 as announced two weeks ago in this column. Our figures were based on the announcement made earlier in the season by the Inspection Division.

Bankruptcies are much less frequent in South Florida, an indication that the business situation is getting cleared up and that stable conditions are setting in.

There is hope that the government plans for aiding the unemployed will mature with sufficient rapidity to enable the survivors of the coming winter to buy a load of coal about next August.

Fifteen years ago there was hardly a mile of good road in all Florida. A few days ago representatives of 35 countries came here to inspect the State's system of splendid roads. That indicates the tempo of Florida's progress.

When we see a picture of one of these aesthetic dancers, with few clothes, and hair floating in the breeze, gyrating in the open, we wonder if it will speed her up, or otherwise, if in one of these gyrations she would alight in a nest of sandspurs.

Edgar Wall's theory that throwing a bomb into a baby hurricane will keep it from becoming a big one received no encouragement from this country's weather experts, but over in France a like experiment is being used to reduce the violence of hail storms, and the people over there declare the plan a success. Perhaps our Tampa friends are on the track of a very useful protective method, after all.

When the statement is made that the present month was ushered in as the coldest November 1 ever experienced in Florida, the word "cold" must be considered in a relative sense. The lowest temperature reading was 42, or what might be expected for a September morn further north. These ideal autumnal days have been just cool enough to make folks feel good and to stimulate trade. Jobs of shoveling snow will continue to be very, very scarce in Florida.

McIntyre complains that passing through the peach belt in Georgia peaches are not served on the diner, even in season. And it is not altogether easy to get oranges or grapefruit served in many Florida hotels when millions of boxes are ripe upon the trees. We do not appreciate the good things that are plentiful and familiar, and forget that others, not so used to them, would find special enjoyment in them.

Several men charged with flogging three others because of the activities of the latter in connection with a no-fence law, will go on trial at Ocala. Perhaps they may not be convicted or punished, but the fact that they have been haled before the courts to account for a cowardly and unwarranted deed is encouraging, and is creditable to the law-abiding citizenry of Marion county. Five of the alleged floggers sought immunity because a "rat" in the name of a member of the grand jury returning the indictment had not been crossed. Please equally ridiculous have often been effective, but there seems to have been a judge on the bench with common sense and a regard for justice, for the plea in abatement was denied.

Hugh Walpole, novelist, states that there are only six books in the world worth of being called literature. They are: War and Peace, by Tolstoy; The Illiad, Homer; Pride and Prejudice, Jane Austen; the first volume of Keat's Poetry; Arabia Deserta, by Doughty; and Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. It is a safe bet that not one person of a thousand have read all these books, and many who are considered well informed have read none of them. It will be noted that the list excludes the Bible, Shakespeare, Emerson, the Rev. Milton, to say nothing of Chic Sale and Eugene Walpole himself.

Some remarkable testimony, of which the average newspaper reader knows nothing, must have been adduced to justify the grand jury's report in the Eberhardt-Carlton case. The findings seem to convey the assurance that Eberhardt didn't accuse the governor of anything, and that the governor isn't guilty of what Eberhardt accused him of. And if that makes sense, we are Venus at the pump.

"There is no issue in this race—the other fellow has a job and I want it," is said to be the frank declaration of a candidate for Senator from South Dakota. That is practically all there is in politics—the patriot who makes such an impassioned plea to be allowed to save the country, generally has in his mind the ecstasy that attaches to signing the pay roll. Turning the rascals out and letting the faithful in is the prime consideration that holds political parties together.

Reading of conditions in many parts of the country one must be impressed with the comparative lack of unemployment and destitution in Florida. Nowhere in the State do these things present an acute problem. Practically all the needy and unemployed are drifters from beyond our own State boundaries. There is some poverty, to be sure, but it is lacking in the harrowing aspects of the poverty north of us.

Lynchings are usually defended on the ground that they are committed "in defense of womanhood." A convention of Southern white women in Atlanta the other day, emphatically repudiates this idea, declaring that "lynching is not a defense of womanhood or of anything else, but rather a menace to private and public safety, and a deadly blow at our most sacred institutions." Certainly our laws make adequate provision for the defense of womanhood, else our civilization is a most lamentable failure. The fact is that most persons who participate in lynchings do so solely because of the opportunity to give rein to their vicious impulses. Many of them are cowards, whose only chance to appear brave is when, in the strength of numbers, they may safely set upon a helpless victim.

Winter Haven has been all torn up over the question of corporal punishment in the schools. The advocates of the "relic of barbarism" seem to have won out thus far. They ought to be very rare need for corporal punishment in schools, though in some exceptional cases it seems that proper discipline can be maintained in no other way. Such cases are always traceable to lack of discipline at home. Parents who love their children too well, and too quickly lose control of them, and the children who, given a little firmness and proper correction, would be tractable and lovable, develop into veritable pests. Then they are turned over to the teacher, and if she attempts to control them in the only way their undisciplined natures can understand, the same foolish parents are up and coming. That's the reason the youth of the land, who ought to be the hope of the nation, are today forming the bulk of the criminal classes. But, of course, nothing like that could happen to your child—so humor him and let him have his own way in all things, and if the teacher undertakes to correct him, for doing the things you have encouraged him to do, you can't help but pitch into the teacher. Doubtless you will have plenty of time to think it over while the law is attending to him and you are nursing a broken heart.

Echoes of the State Press

ONE WAY TO LEADERSHIP—ADVERTISE.

The importance of advertising under present conditions was emphasized recently by the head of the New York agency, who pointed to it as the biggest opportunity to seize leadership that has come in a long time. "Executives who maintain a healthy mental attitude toward business," he says, "who do not allow themselves to become panicky, will be found on the top of the heap when the smoke has cleared away. It has always happened that way during times of depression. I have noticed that advertisers who redouble their advertising and sales activities are those who become leaders and maintain leadership thereafter." He mentions outstanding examples of results to national advertisers who have redoubled their advertising this past year, saying that the good results are due to hard common sense, careful analysis of conditions and unwillingness to be victims of fear psychology.

The beauty of advertising is in its continuity, and the benefits are in proportion. When the many retrench on advertising expenditures, those who refuse to be stampeded shine forth by comparison and in the lead when good times come because they have proved their way in the public thoughts. Public opinion of a city or a product is formed by the quality of its advertising continued without interruption. Recently a visitor from California was asked the difference between California and Florida. He said the chief difference was that California had never ceased to advertise and was reaping benefits in a continuing and increasing tourist business summer and winter. He added that California wondered why Florida with so many attractions to advertise had ceased to tell the world about them.

"ONLY TEMPORARY"

HITTING THE AD RACKETEERS.

The Chief yesterday printed on the front page an editorial on "Ad Rackets" taken from the Florida State News at Tallahassee. The Chief has had something to say on this matter on several occasions but was glad to reproduce the State News' editorial to show how the problem is being attacked by the other papers of the state. Thanks to the Orlando and Orange County Advertising club, a concerted effort is being made to curb the activities of the ad racketeers and protect the business men who are always being hounded and molested by the gentry. This local Chamber of Commerce has always had a solicitation and approval committee before whom the solicitor for any kind of business must present his case before he is given the approval of the Chamber, and permitted to use its name in soliciting local business. Some merchants either forget or are indifferent to the protection thus afforded and occasionally are victims of the racketeers when a little forethought or consultation with the Chamber of Commerce would protect them. This makes it all the more important that every business man display the metal sign furnished by the solicitation and approval committee and refuse to give any encouragement to the solicitors whose credentials are not approved by that body.—Winter Haven Chief.

OPEN SEASON NERS.

With the winter months in the offing and hundreds of thousands of folks headed for or preparing to head for Florida to enjoy this balmy clime during the months of cold up north, new problems are brought to state and municipal officials. Among them are the wanderer who hasn't any particular place to go but just goes, the people who, having nothing better to do, come south; organizations of one kind and another which roam through the country extracting a living as they go under the amusement calendar.

Each winter tent shows of one kind or another come along. Some offer fair amusement, others very bad amusement. They bring little of anything of value to the state, but they do cost the state dollars. Often they slip into a city and under the license wires by securing the sponsor of some local organization which is supposed to benefit somewhat therefrom. We do not say that such is not all right, but we do believe that the most benefit, if any, is derived by the traveling showmen.

Local organizations will doubtless, in looking out for some amusement vehicle whereby they can make a little money, will do well, we believe, to consult our local theater management before tying up with some fly-by-night amusement institution which is merely wintering in the state. Doubtless agreeable arrangements may be made for benefit performances of special interest which would not bring a questionable amusement outfit into the city tax-free or very nearly so.—Plant City Courier.

TELLING ABOUT EVERGLADES AFFAIRS.

Conditions in the everglades country are a Chinese puzzle to most people. While countless columns have been written about the drainage problem, of two boards in charge of affairs, of engineers and surveys of attorneys hired at boom-time salaries, of proposed bond issues and innumerable other things in the same connection, the people of the state still know little about the situation down there. It is a puzzle to know why the water is maintained at a high level in Lake Okechobee during the storm period when it could be let out, thus menacing the lives of thousands of people in the district. The ordinary layman feels that with a large number of people assigned to the task of looking after this problem, there should be something concrete and definite done about it some time.

Howard Sharp, editor of the Everglades News at Canal Point, has often been quoted in various matters, and he probably knows his everglades better than any other man who lives there or anywhere else. His office overlooks the big lake, and at the present water level in the lake it seems to a casual visitor that the floor of the printing office is a foot or two below the surface level of the water.

But what we started out to say was that in a recent issue of his paper Editor Sharp seems to sum up the situation above referred to in a very few words. "The bond-holders and the engineers and the lawyers and the drainage board members have gotten themselves all balled up," he says. "Of everybody who has anything to do with the everglades the 'smart men' have proven themselves the most ludicrously incompetent."

"There is something about the system of everglades administration that tends to make an ass out of a man who has heretofore been esteemed as having common sense. When they get into it they get befuddled, and this is because none of them, as they come and go, from the start down to Governor Carlton and his crowd, have the industry to get the facts and the courage to act on them. But around the shore of the lake the plain farmers are making progress by faithfully doing the duty at hand."—Arcadia Arcadian.

BETTER TALKS FOR FLORIDA.

Florida has been patient. When the boom bubble burst, it was the Florida people that were most disastrously hurt. The blunderbuss blew away, carrying money or soreheads, according to whether they sold out at a lucky time or got caught in the slump.

Victims that were caught in the slump returned to their northern homes, embittered against Florida. They found that in their absence, it had become common pastime to say hard things about the state that had attracted northern money to its real estate mart. To this talk the "trimmed" investors added their invectives, and forgot entirely that behind them in Florida they had left a million men, women, and children saddled with debt that the boom had brought, and faced with the need of working, perhaps for years, to remove the debris of one kind and another left by that influx of gamblers.

These home people, including, of course, the loyal Florida people who stood by Florida with encouraging faith, have carried their burdens bravely. They have gone courageously on, knowing that no real estate in Florida has been destroyed, certain that from the depths of depression this state would rise to the heights of prosperity again.

And now the rewards are coming. Florida begins to stand out as the most favored state in the Union. Unfriendly talk has almost ceased—indeed it is becoming the fashion to "point with pride" to the state that is "coming back stronger and better than ever before."

The result will be another inrush of people who want to get in on the ground floor for another boom period, which, please God, may Florida never see again. In its patience, in its quiet study of that orgy of speculation, Florida has learned a thing or two.

This state intends to attain a prosperity this time that its own people can keep.—Melbourne Times.

MARGARET ROEBLING PARK

A movement has been started in Highlands county to call Hooker Hammeck the Margaret Roebling Memorial Park after the noble woman who died recently, whose generosity made it possible to save this bit of the forest primeval for the people of coming generations.

It is an excellent movement and The Highlander hopes that those in charge of naming this lovely bit of woodland will be inspired by the suggestion and carry it out.—Lake Wales Highlander.

The Lake Wales News opened up real gangland fun on green fruit shippers last week, and incidentally charged Commissioner Mayo with desecration. If all the editors in the citrus region would do likewise that crime and curse to our leading industry would soon be prohibited.—Bowling Green Exponent.

a three yard loss, forcing them to kick. The ball went out of bounds and Avon Park then kicked, the ball also going out of bounds on Okechobee's five yard line. Okechobee kicked from behind its goal line to Baldwin who returned three yards, but Avon Park lost the ball on the next play on fumble. Both teams failing to gain exchanged punts, with the ball resting on Okechobee's 22 yard line. Okechobee completed an 11 yard pass, contributing to two first downs, but lost the ball when Barwick intercepted another attempted pass. Epperson and Maddox made a first down and Maddox made six yards at right end as the quarter ended.

In the fourth period Baldwin made a first down at left guard and Maddox went through left guard for 10 yards and a touchdown. A line buck by Maddox failed to make the extra yard, but Avon Park lost the ball on a fumble. Baldwin intercepted a pass on the next play. Sibley made first down at left end and Epperson made first down at right end, but the ball was lost on a fumble, and Okechobee kicked. A pass to Baldwin for 10 yards, a first down over center by Maddox and another pass for 10 yards to Daley took the ball to Okechobee's four yard line, where Baldwin went over center for a touchdown. A kick for point failed. Avon Park kicked and the game ended in six plays later.

The Red Devils will play Mulberry next Friday afternoon at Mulberry in an attempt to avenge last year's defeat of 19 to nothing.

R. P. W. E. Attend Emblem Program at Sebring

Fourteen members of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Avon Park attended an Emblem Program put on by the Sebring Business and Professional Women's Club Monday evening, Nov. 3. There was also a good representation from the club of Wauscha.

Members of the Sebring Club, dressed in Greek costumes, took part in the ceremonies to represent the various figures on the Emblem, and each of these characters was preceded by a little girl, similarly dressed and bearing a lighted candle, with a placard designating the character following. As each character took her place on the platform the central figure, the Winged Victory of Samothrace, read from a scroll handed her the characteristics and meaning of the figure so represented. The ceremony was very beautiful and very impressive, and the Sebring club is to be congratulated on the success with which it was crowned.

Mrs. Hortense Wells, state president of the Florida Federation, was present and gave a very interesting talk on the Club Emblem and why we should belong to the club as an organization.

The Emblem Program was followed by club songs and very delicious refreshments, and the Avon Park members felt they had been fully repaid for their drive to Sebring by the enjoyment derived from the entertainment and the meeting with old friends and the making of new acquaintances.

O. F. GARDNER SCORES ETHICS OF PACKERS

In Speech Before Sebring Club Lake Placid Man Scores Green Fruit Shipper

Scoring the lack of business ethics in the citrus industry, O. F. Gardner of Lake Placid spoke before the Sebring Rotary Club Monday noon at their regular luncheon.

Mr. Gardner came to Florida from the apple country in the state of Washington and he said it was the great difference in the methods of the growers and shippers of that section and those of Florida that caused him to take for his subject "business ethics in the citrus industry." He said that he knew of no standard of business ethics than a proper standard of ethics.

He told of experiences with representatives of different packing concerns, one of which endeavored to get his company to color, pack and ship temple oranges as early oranges, shipping them green, and openly admitting that the fruit was unfit for food, which Mr. Gardner stated, opened his eyes to the deplorable condition existing in the industry.

Mr. Gardner also touched on the careless methods and practices in the banking circles of the state, which he stated at the present were improving rapidly. He then took up the tax situation, stating that the only honest and fair way to do, is to carry out the standard we have in tax collection, without compromise as in the past, when the full amount was collected from some that were willing and ready to pay and others were allowed to compromise, thereby destroying the foundation of our state finances.

State Station Will Also Join In Program November 8

Three Florida radio stations will join in a 47 station hook-up of the National Broadcasting company Nov. 8 to pay tribute to 4-H club work by broadcasting a program in co-operation with the United States Department of Agriculture and 37 state extension services. This is the first nationwide 4-H Club Achievement Day radio program.

Then breaking the hook-up each station will broadcast a 30-minute local program, and at 1:15 they will all join for an address from Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Florida stations that will carry the full program are WJAX, Jacksonville, WIOD, Miami, and WSUN, St. Petersburg. State station WRUF, Gainesville, will join in as the stations break for the local program.

The national program has been arranged by the United States Department of Agriculture, and the four local programs by the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

Plant Dill Seed Hint From College Farm

Dill seed are being planted now at the College of Agriculture farm at Gainesville, by A. W. Leland, farm foreman. Mr. Leland is sowing the seed in rows about two feet apart, and after the plants are three or four inches high they will be thinned to four inches in the drill.

Mr. Leland has found that dill planted from September through November matures during the next May or June, and is best for use for flavoring pickles being made from cucumbers. All parts of the clusters are best.

Dr. E. W. Berger, an authority on the subject, states that dill seed can be obtained from seed dealers, and that a complete fertilizer or stable manure should be applied before the seed are planted.

Drying Florida Hay To Be Investigated

An artificial hay drier is now being installed at Gainesville, and will be used in a co-operative experiment between the Florida Experiment Station and U. S. Forage Crops Office. The drier has a capacity of 500 pounds of dried hay per hour.

Some of the first crops to be artificially cured will be a number of species of Crotalaria, according to Geo. R. Ritchey, agent in charge. Roland McKee, agronomist in charge of legume work in the Southeast, was recently at Gainesville in connection with this and other co-operative experiments.

Madison Farmers Buy More Tennessee Grade Jerseys

Another lot of 61 grade Jerseys has just been distributed to farmers of Madison county, according to an announcement by County Agent R. E. Lawton. These animals, like previous shipments, were brought in from Tennessee.

Florida Medical Plant Bulletin Just Issued

A bulletin on the Collection of Medicinal Plants in Florida, prepared by Dr. R. V. Christiansen, College of Pharmacy, Gainesville, has just been published by the Department of Agriculture, Tallahassee. This bulletin is designed to give the average layman enough information to enable him to collect and place on the market a good quality of crude drugs obtained from the plants listed. Eighteen medicinal plants native to Florida and growing in quantities sufficient for commercial collection are described and accompanied by photographs to aid in identification. Directions for collecting, drying, packing and marketing crude drugs are given, together with a classified list of drug buyers.

A copy may be obtained by addressing Department of Agriculture, Tallahassee, Fla., and asking for Bulletin No. 45, New Series—Collection of Medicinal Plants in Florida.

Poultrymen Assisted In Keeping Records at Series of 10 Meetings

Offering farmers practical assistance in keeping poultry records, Frank W. Brunley, extension economist, farm management, is now conducting a series of 10 meetings with poultrymen in four counties and helping them start keeping records on an up to date record book he has just prepared and the Florida Agricultural Extension Service has just published.

On October 28 and 29 meetings were held in Orange county. Hillsborough poultrymen were helped by meetings on October 30 and 31. Meetings are now being held in Duval and Nassau counties. The meetings are held in co-operation with the county agents and local poultry associations.

For the past three years 184 Florida poultrymen have kept such records, and they afford valuable data about the poultry business in this state. Farmers who are keeping complete records are realizing that they are better business men since they can determine when and where they are making or losing money.

November is still time to plant Italian rye grass on the lawn, and keep it green all winter. Two to three pounds of seed will not hurt the old grass, but will be sufficient for the rich green color.

SELECT SWEET POTATO SEED AT DIGGING TIME

Best Tubers Can Be Chosen and Much Disease Eliminated

Gainesville, Nov. 6.—Seed sweet potatoes should be selected at digging time, since that is the time to eliminate trouble from such diseases as mosaic and stem rot, and to select the best tubers from the best hills. Erdman West, psychologist at the Florida Experiment Station at Gainesville, points out.

Bedding tubers should be saved from hills that have been found to be free of disease. By selecting from such hills mosaics practically eliminated since the main source is in the seedbed, and affected hills would not be chosen.

When the hills have been selected after the stem or crown of the vines and look for stem rot. A brownish color instead of a healthy white or greenish color indicates the disease and should be discarded. Tubers from such a stem would likely produce weak, infected draws, and only serve to scatter the infection.

After the hills have been dug out to be bright, clean, and unimpaired potatoes should be saved as seed. These potatoes should be stored in new or disinfected bins or barrels, and should be treated when they are bedded. The bins and containers may be disinfected with either a formaldehyde or bluestone solution, one pound to 25 gallons of water, whitewashed, or sprayed with Bordeaux mixture. Before being bedded, the potatoes should be dipped in a solution of bichloride of mercury made by dissolving one ounce of crystals in eight gallons of water. They should be in the solution for 10 minutes, be allowed to dry, and bedded immediately.

Breed Brood Sows To Farrow In March and Hit September Market

Gainesville, Nov. 6.—It will soon be time to breed brood sows if they are to farrow in March and be ready for the September market, according to W. J. Sheely, extension agent in animal husbandry.

By all means breed the sows to a purebred boar. The pigs at weaning time will be worth $1 to $5 more than common sows. They will make quicker, cheaper gains, and will be preferred by packers, due to large, thick, good quality loins and hams, and a minimum percent of lard and cheaper cuts.

The Duroc-Jersey, Poland China, Hampshire, and Berkshire are the leading breeds for Florida.

To Study Effect of Burning Woods On Turpentine Yields

A co-operative arrangement for studying the effect of burning the woods on the yield of turpentine gum from pine trees in Florida has been made by the Florida Experiment Station and the Southern Forestry Experiment Station of the United States Department of Agriculture at New Orleans. Dr. R. M. Burnett, associate chemist of the Florida Station, has been appointed collaborator. The Florida Station's chemistry laboratory will be used to assist in the soil phase of the work.

Carbon bisulfide is cheap stuff, but almost invaluable when it saves about 25 percent of the stored crop from weevils. Ten pounds per 1,000 cubic feet in a tight bin will do the work. The application should be repeated when necessary.

Motor Injuries Treated By Red Cross First Aid

In line with its work for the preservation of life and prevention of accidental death, the American Red Cross has adopted a new program of emergency first aid stations on the highways of the nation, where victims of automobile injuries will be helped.

In the last year 31,000 persons were killed as the result of automobile accidents and more than 1,000,000 were injured. As its contribution to the nation wide safety campaign of other nations, the Red Cross will aid through the emergency stations. A number already are in operation by Chapters on such important traffic arteries as the Westchester County, N. Y., park system, the Valley Forge and Gettysburg highways in Pennsylvania and the White Horse Pike in New Jersey, connecting with Atlantic City.

NATURAL ADVANTAGES WILL HELP FLORIDA BECOME DAIRY STATE

That Florida is on the threshold of a new era in dairy development was the statement made by A. Frohock, secretary of the Florida Gurnsey Cattle Club, in speaking to visitors at the first annual auction sale of the State Dairyman's Association at Monticello last week. He listed the following natural advantages possessed by this state which will help to make it a great dairy state:

First, Florida has a longer growing season, or as he expressed it, "the state has a longer growing season than any other state in the union. Second, the state has an abundance of artesian water available. Third, plenty of cheap land is available to grow feed in abundance is obtainable. Fourth, the state is centrally located, with key cities. Fifth, housing costs are cheap, as it is possible to build ideal houses for this warm climate at low cost. Sixth, milk trucks can be run every day in Florida, where the roads and streets don't get clogged with snow in the winter time. Seventh, there is a good market for milk in Florida, and local demand is not filled by local supplies.

He said that Florida dairymen, while building an industry to supply local demand, can gain expertise which will enable them to compete with producers in other dairy states.

After having listed the advantages accruing to dairymen in Florida, Mr. Frohock then listed the handicaps which have kept the industry from growing as it should. "The main handicap in the past," he said, "has been the fact that these are the cattle ticks, which are being eradicated from the state."

After its eradication, this handicap will be removed. The second is the low production per individual cow, which is partly due to the cattle tick. Increased production will be obtained by the selection of purebred lines in areas where the tick is eradicated. The third handicap is the fact that there has been no intelligent breeding program followed by Florida dairymen. They should breed their cows to freshen in the fall, so that there will be a free flow of milk during the winter, when demand is greatest, and a smaller flow during the summer when there is a surplus. The fourth and last handicap he listed is the fact that growers have not followed an intelligent feed production program. It is necessary to cut feed costs per individual cow, and this is hard to do when using all purchased feeds.

Seems to me that fellow had the situation sized up about right. What do you think?

Life Savers Numerous

More than a quarter of a million persons are entitled to wear the American Red Cross insignia, denoting they have been taught the expert life saving methods of the organization. The number enrolled to date is 273,202.

No dairy farmer has ever made any money running a boarding house for unproductive cows.

Some Sauce-y Thoughts on Cooking

Do you know how to be sauce-y? In a culinary way, of course! Being sauce-y implies no impudence in the kitchen, but it does imply more than a nodding acquaintance with the methods of making sauces, for the dessert and the entrée.

If you do know how, you'll be able to add nutrition and flavor immeasurable to your dishes, and to tempt palates galore, and embellish lowly left-overs in such a way as to make foolish the famous Brillat-Savarin who dared say "one must be born a sauce maker!"

Most cooks know how to make dessert sauces—or can take recipes and follow them with ease. For those who believe that "sauce is to the entrée as perfume is to the rose," here's a sufficient word to the wise about the sauce for the entrée, the meat, or the main course.

Generally speaking, the basis for most of these is White Sauce, made from a white stock or milk, and thickened with cornstarch, or Brown Sauce, made from milk or water and brown stock and thickened with part of the "blender" browned and part plain cornstarch. For the stock, the fat in which the meat or vegetables have been cooked is often used, or a melted shortening. For the shortening modern cooks are using a cooking oil made from corn because it saves time, and because the individual flavor of the particular dish.

Flour is also commonly used as a thickening agent, but in the kitchen it has given way to the use of cornstarch, not alone because of the convenience of keeping the small package atop the refrigerator, but because of the smoothness of the finished product.

White Sauce.
1½ tablespoons cooking oil
1 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup milk

Heat oil. Mix cornstarch and water, stir into oil, and add to oil. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in rest of milk and stir over fire until sauce thickens. Boil three minutes, strain and serve.

Brown Sauce.
2 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon onion
1 cup meat stock
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
Salt and pepper

Cook onion in oil until slightly brown. Add cornstarch and brown in the oil. Stir in the stock gradually, and add the seasoning. Stir over fire until sauce thickens. Boil three minutes, strain and serve.

New cooks invariably ask "How much cornstarch shall I use?" Here's the answer: With each cup liquid: for a very thin sauce, use one-half teaspoon cornstarch; for a medium sauce, use one teaspoon cornstarch; for a thick sauce, use two teaspoons cornstarch; for a very thick sauce, use three teaspoons cornstarch, and for a cold paste to use in making mixtures for croquettes, blanc mangas, etc., five teaspoons cornstarch.

If you want to use cornstarch instead of flour in other recipes (and you will if you are wise) use just half as much cornstarch as flour called for.

Always mix the cornstarch with some of the cold liquid, and stir smoothly before adding to hot liquid. Cook until quite done—15 minutes at least, and decrease heat slowly.

Tomato Sauce.
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 tablespoon onion
1 bay leaf
½ teaspoon cornstarch.
½ cup water

Pepper and salt.
Cook chopped onion and bay leaf in oil until golden brown. Add cornstarch and stir until smooth. Cook two minutes, stirring constantly. Add tomatoes, and seasonings. Boil three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain and serve with cooked meats or fish.

Hollandaise Sauce.
2 yolks of eggs slightly and add oil slowly, beating constantly. Add lemon juice and boiling water slowly, and stir vigorously. Stir over hot water about five minutes until it thickens. Add salt and pepper. Serve hot on cauliflower, broccoli, asparagus or fish.

Mock Hollandaise Sauce.
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ cup milk
1 tablespoon salt
Pepper and paprika
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Heat oil, add cornstarch and stir until blended; cook two minutes stirring constantly. Add milk, salt, pepper, and paprika. Stir until smooth and thick. Boil three minutes. Add a little of the hot sauce to beaten egg yolks and stir this into sauce. Add butter bit by bit and lemon juice. Beat well.

What? No Whipped Cream!
When you've a dessert that demands a nice topping of whipped cream, and your ice-box is as empty as old lady Hubbard's pantry, try this simple substitute for "topping":

Fruit Fluff
½ cup corn syrup
1 cup water
¼ cup orange or pineapple juice, grape or loganberry juice.
Beat the egg whites stiff and whip in the corn syrup and fruit juices. Serve at once. This is excellent instead of whipped cream.

NINETY DISASTERS CALL OUT RED CROSS

Vice Chairman Fieser Cites $1,200,000 Spent in Relief—3,500 Chapters Aid in Work.

Readiness to act in an emergency, should a disaster strike, has become part of the Red Cross Chapter program in thousands of communities. The need for this training of local committees was revealed last year, when more than ninety consecutive serious disasters occurred. Vice chairman Fieser cited last year, when more than ninety consecutive serious disasters occurred. Vice chairman Fieser cited last year, when more than ninety consecutive serious disasters occurred.

As in former years, tornadoes brought the greatest danger. Twenty-four serious tornadoes occurred. Fire also took toll of life and property in twenty-four communities. Seven forest fires did great damage. Eighteen areas were affected by floods, and nine storms caused heavy losses. Other disasters were earthquakes, cyclones, epidemics, mine explosions and shipwrecks. In the insular possessions of the United States the Red Cross saved relief in twelve disasters, chiefly from hurricanes. In foreign countries relief was given by the American Red Cross in six instances of earthquakes, floods and to refugees.

The disaster relief work of the Red Cross cost $1,200,151 last year. Statistics showed an approximate death rate of 790 persons in these disasters; buildings destroyed or damaged, 19,578; persons injured, 1,487, and persons assisted by the Red Cross, 98,572.

Through disaster preparedness of Red Cross Chapters, untold numbers of lives were saved, and much distress and grief following the calamities was prevented, according to James V. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations of the Red Cross.

"This type of work is supported by the members of citizens of the United States, their volunteer contributions, and their devoted work," Mr. Fieser said.

"Twelve men and women are urged to join as a member of the local Red Cross Chapter, not only to be a partner in supporting the work through his membership, but also to serve should an emergency occur."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR NOVEMBER 9, 1930.

SUBJECT: Thomas; the Honest Doubter.
GOLDEN TEXT: "Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God." John 20:28.

LESSON TEXT: John 11:14-16; 14:5-8; 20:24-29; 21:1-2.

CENTRAL TRUTH OF LESSON: The evidences of Jesus as the Savior are sufficient for an honest inquirer.

All four of the Gospels name Thomas as one of the Twelve Apostles. But John makes special mention of him, as in today's lesson.

Thomas was also called Didymus, and each word means "twin."

Since Christian faith is not always clear from doubt.

In Mark 9:24, one who appealed to Christ for help said, "Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief."

Just before our lesson began Jesus had been requested to come to the home of his sick friend Lazarus, but had delayed several days. "Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead. * * * Let us go unto him. Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him." The Jews had endeavored to kill Jesus, and his disciples tried to persuade Jesus not to go near Jerusalem, but he determined to go. Then Thomas said to his fellow disciples, "Let us also go, that we may die with him." This shows that Thomas, though slow to believe, was courageous and faithful to the Lord.

Some weeks later and just a few days before the crucifixion of Jesus he was telling the disciples that he was going to prepare a place for them, and said "Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know." The disciples could not understand, and Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest; and how can we know the way? Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, the truth, and the life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by me."

Thomas confessed his ignorance, thus showing his honesty and humility. Thus, Thomas provoked the Lord to make a great statement, "I am the way, the truth and the life."

"The way," was one of the first names given to the teachings of Christ. His followers were called "men of the way." It is said, "Take the right road and ye will reach the right goal."

After Jesus was crucified and buried and had risen from the grave he appeared to the disciples who were gathered in an upper room with the doors shut for fear of the Jews. "But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them, when Jesus came. The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe."

Concerning this attitude of Thomas a teacher said, "I have seen others in the same plight as Thomas * * * unable to believe, unable to realize, that Jesus is alive. I have received letters such as Thomas might have written on any one of the ten days after the Passover. 'I can see no gleam of light, and have lost my hold on God,' writes one out of the mist of a crushing grief. And that was exactly the case with Thomas."

"And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them; then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you. Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side; and be not faithless, but believing. And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord and my God."

Jesus understood the human nature and weakness of Thomas. He did not chide him nor complain of his unbelief. But he appeared before him and invited Thomas to examine his body, and the wounds in his hands and side to make certain that he was the Christ that was crucified. And Thomas was fully convinced, and accepted Jesus as the Christ and Savior. Then "Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed."

We may think those disciples were blessed by being with Christ, asking him questions and receiving answers; yet they understood that he would establish a worldly kingdom. Not until Christ died and rose again and the Holy Spirit appeared did they understand. We have their experience, their teachings, the written scriptures and the guidance of the Holy Spirit to aid us. Are not we more favored than they?

COMMISSIONERS MET MONDAY AND WED., THIS WEEK

John A. Taylor Makes Plea For Protection From Fruit Thieves

Meeting in regular session Monday the county commissioners prepared the ballot boxes for the election Tuesday, following which they transacted routine business, including the allowing of bills and then adjourned to meet again Wednesday. Previous to preparing the ballot boxes the commissioners heard John A. Taylor make a plea for protection from fruit thieves, who are a serious menace to grove owners. He said the cost of guarding the depulping of grove workers and thought the expense incurred would be more than offset by the fines and costs imposed on the apprehension of the thieves. The commissioners took the matter under advisement for future consideration.

Attorney J. O'Dell Gregory appeared before the board regarding an error in assessment of lot 10, block A, Orange Crest subdivision in Avon Park. It transpired that the lot had been assessed as improved property but was simply a vacant lot. The board passed the necessary resolution rectifying the error.

Before adjournment T. E. Elliott, manager of the Interior Florida Traffic Bureau, with headquarters at Lakeland, told the board of the work done by his organization with regard to freight rates and expressed his thanks for the help and co-operation shown in the past. The board voted to continue the contributions and to pay the bureau $125 per quarter during the year 1931.

Reconvening Wednesday afternoon, the commissioners received a petition signed by a number of Sebring merchants and business men and residents in the western section of the county asking that the spoil bank of the Hooker Hammock drainage canal be designated a county road and extended to the Hardee county line. The petition was presented by C. S. Jones, Allen C. Altwater and J. W. Hawkins and the latter explained that the spoil would make an excellent road and that the extension for a short distance together with a bridge over Charley Bowlegs creek would open up a considerable trade territory to the merchants of Highlands county and also give residents of Hardee county better access to the Hammock.

Commissioner Marshall suggested the matter should be considered as county-wide proposition and Commissioner Butler not being present, the petition was tabled for consideration at the next regular meeting.

Other business transacted was the acceptance of the supplementary assessment roll for 1929 and tonnage assessment roll for 1930.

The bonds of the bond trustee were ordered reduced to $15,000 and the clerk, H. C. Chance, was instructed to submit a report of the trustees at the next meeting of the board.

Street Accidents Take Thousands of Child Lives

Estimate Based Upon Accident Statistics, Says Secretary Wilbur

Washington, D. C.—If history repeats itself, many thousands of children will be killed or maimed by automobiles within the next few months in the United States.

This statement, according to Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior and chairman of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, is based upon the accident statistics of past years.

"When I was a boy," said Secretary Wilbur, "the only thing we feared out in the open country, was a rattlesnake. But the rattlesnake is a domestic pet compared with the automobile. Rattlesnakes may kill a few thousand persons a year in this country, but automobiles kill thousands of children and because our safety precautions are not as modern as our mode of travel.

"Worst of all, the automobile is only one of the many new modern dangers to which our children are exposed."

"Members of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection which will meet in Washington November 19-22 at the call of President Hoover, have been working for the past year upon the problems of childhood."

"All they have discovered—that is, every bit of scientific knowledge relative to children now in existence in the field of medical service, public health, education and training—will later be at the service of what the President has rightly called the 'deeply concerned parents of this country.'"

More than 1,100 experts from every field will gather at the Red Cross and D. A. R. buildings in Washington for the Conference. Secretary Wilbur, as chairman, will make the closing address. The Secretary has served both the American Medical Association and Stanford University as president.

here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Watters.
