Gridiron Gossip

Punta Gorda fell before the terriffic onslaught of the Red Devils Friday. The final score was 18-0

The scrubs played a steady game for the first quarter. They'll all be in there regularly next year probably.

Did Epperson and Sibly look good when they were sent in! On the first play Epperson carried the ball in a magnificent broken field run for about 35 yards. Then Sibly flashed it down 15 more before being tackled.

The boys displayed a splendid fighting spirit when pushed into their own territory, and always got out of danger easily.

Although the fine work of Bailey was missed, Nelson Smith showed himself to be reasonably good in Carroll's position.

There weren't as many people out to see the game as should be there. Only one more chance to see the boys play here. Thanksgiving day, the game with Sebring will determine the success of our team this year.

Frostproof Friday at Frostproof.

Red Deviltry

The predicament of Avon Park cheering section was screamingly amusing at the football game last Friday. One cheer leader had her tonsils taken out, and the other such a sore throat that she couldn't even talk. But the rest of us cheered anyway. No joke to the girls though, I guess.

It is really quiet remarkable what a splendid orchestra Miss Marsh has welded together in the short time that she has been at work. Monday morning they played a few selections for us in chapel and was it surprising! The orchestra consists of six violins, a saxophone, an alto, and a cornet in addition to the piano. Considering the youth and inexperience of the players, very few discords are made.

The Junior class is offering an award of one dollar for the best poster advertising their class play Smile, Rodney, Smile. The competition is limited to school children. Several posters have been submitted, and many students have announced their desire to compete.

I see in the paper that the Juniors have a great deal of histrionic ability. Well, we always thought they had something, but didn't know it had got that bad. Well! Well!

—Don Ramon.

Junior Class Play

Right this way. Tickets? How many? Don't ask what for. Didn't you know that the Juniors are going to give their class play Tuesday, December 9. And is it good? You just ask the Juniors. You'll laugh your head off.

The play is Smile, Rodney, Smile, a three-act comedy with nothing but laughs all the way through. Forget your troubles and come out and laugh with us. A little of the plot follows:

Rodney is a wealthy young man surrounded by high society friends. Rod's uncle, Mr. Bradley, wants his step-daughter and Rod to make a match, but Rodney flatly refuses. This refusal means that he is to lose half of the estate. Isn't that perfectly awful? But, goodness! I almost told you. If you want to know the rest, come to the high school auditorium, December 9 at 8 o'clock. The prices are 15 and 35 cents.

Miss Eleanor Bryant is directing the play, so you know it is going to be really good.

The Juniors are offering a prize of one dollar to the pupil that submits the best poster advertising their play. Get to work everybody. A dollar's worth working for.

Believe it or not, the Juniors have put down their pride and are really working with the hope of pleasing the public. Here's hoping the public pleases them.

Station W. S. R. B.

This is Station W. S. R. B. broadcasting from the Senior Class Room. Hello, everybody, this is the Senior Prophets speaking again. We hope every one is enjoying the W. S. R. B. program, for we are doing our best to make it interesting. This time we shall broadcast the future of Miss Helen Schweigart.

Helen will attend the Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee. History will be her most important subject. After four years at Tallahassee, she will receive her A. B. degree. She then expects to start teaching History in the Avon Park High School. She intends to be an "ole Maid" simply because, she doesn't like the men. She's afraid that she can't find one that will surpass her in scholastic knowledge. We wish Helen much success, and that she will be appreciated in the Avon Park High School, for we know she will be a competent teacher.

This is Station W. S. R. B. signing off until next Wednesday.

Jokes

Sebring thinks they are going to win the big game Thanksgiving Day. We don't know if this is a joke or not—it's rather funny just the same!

Mr. Mummau: "Where do all the bugs go in winter?" Alvin Overstreet, a biology student: "Search me!"

An old colored man was burning grass when Martin Roberts, a "wise guy" (?), stopped and said: "You're foolish to do that, Uncle Eb; it will make the lawn as black as you are."

"Don't worry 'bout dat, suh," responded Uncle Eb, "Dat grass will grow out an' be as green as you is!"

The Home Economics students can't understand why they put so many holes in Swiss cheese when Limburger needs ventilating so badly.

"You will have your little jokes, Bradley," says Pickney Herring, in "Smile, Rodney, Smile," the Junior class play. We wonder what these Jokes are? Sorry we can't publish them, but you can hear and see everyone of them December 9th. Now, this is no joke—"Smile, Rodney, Smile" is a "bally" good play, as the Englishman says. Just wait and see!

Senior News

The Seniors have decided to have a class book. Mr. Cox, representing a photography company, is coming to Avon Park in January and take photographs of the Seniors and under-classmen. From this company the Seniors are buying a scrapbook. The inside is ruled so that it can be filled with information concerning school activities. Each Senior will have his picture in this book. The Seniors look forward with much anticipation to the arrival of these books.

The Seniors and Juniors, having taken the challenge issued by the Sebring Seniors and Juniors, appointed their various committees. The decorating committee has been appointed from the Junior class and the Seniors have charge of the general arrangements for the party. Those of the Senior committee are Barbara Weaver, Inez Dawson, Mary Vilkaitis, and Joyce Powell.

The Junior class is glad to have back with us the smiling face of Dorothy (Dainty) Roberts, cheer leader for the Red Devil team. Carrol (Chubby) Bailey, star center for the Red Devils, is also back serving one week indoors as the result of a broken collarbone, received during a dummy-tackling practice.

Well folks, here's good news. The girls' basket ball team began practice this week under Coach Chesser, and the following Junior girls will help make up a fine winning team: Agnes Vilkaitis, Ira Gunter, Dot Roberts and Oleta Bigbie.

Well, well, the Juniors score again by winning the P. T. A. attendance prize of fifty cents. That means fifty cents in the old sock for us.

HICORIA School News

Last Wednesday afternoon Rev. Wilber Head, the Baptist Evangelist, paid our school a visit and lectured to pupils and patrons. To say that this visit was appreciated, is expressing it mildly. We wish that we might have the great man with us often as such men are an inspiration to schools and communities. He was accompanied by Supt. F. N. K. Bailey.

Friday night was the regular meeting night of our School Improvement Association. Before the regular meeting a short Temperance Program was rendered. The meeting of the association was then held. It was decided to hold a Box Supper at the school house on the night of Nov. 26. The proceeds are to go to the school fund. We are contemplating putting several things in our school. We trust that we will have a successful evening. All are invited. Try and come, girls, and bring a tempting box. Various amusements will be provided and a good time is assured all that attend.

The lamps for our school have been ordered. This will certainly be a great help to us. We need more light on the subject.

Last week we observed as "Book Week." To say that we were surprised at our own shelves is useless. A drive was put on for the Library. We asked for books and magazines. As a result, 68 books were collected. That will give us a good start when we get our new books, which have been ordered. Wallace Hope led the students in the drive. He secured 32 of the books.

Miss Winfield was here last week. All the girls taking her work are interested and we look to see good results from her coming to us.

A number of us went to Arcadia last week to the Rodeo. All had a good time.

Janet Peoples, Florence Huff, Ethel Ray Peters, Mamie Weeks, Eloise and L. W. Burns are the leaders for honor points in Miss Holton's room.

We missed James Weeks, this week. He was absent for several days.

Janet Peoples had to be carried home one day last week She was taken very ill during the noon hour. She is back now, we are glad to say.

Some of you other schools send in some school news from your school. If your teacher doesn't seem interested, you eighth Grade or some other grade send in some. Don't let us do it all. Lets make the school news a big item. We read our weekly every Friday morning.

POULTRY STRESSED IN COUNTY AGENT REPORT

Industry Shows Large Increase In This County

The county agent's annual report covers the poultry industry in Highlands county very thoroughly and shows the increase made in the past few years. The entries in the home egglaying contest are noted and the results obtained from the lessons learned therein. The report also stresses the need of cutting production costs. Going into more detail, the county agent says:

More attention than ever before was given to poultry this year and this has resulted in a large number of calls being made. There were seven entries in the Grow Healthy Chick campaign but only four completed and turned in reports. These have had fair success and produced good chicks. They had practiced all factors as far as possible. Two of them stated that they felt that because of practicing these factors more than ordinarily they had decreased the mortality at least 10 percent.

Eight pooltrymen entered the Home Egg Laying Contest and five finished the year's work. There were 2471 birds in these five flocks and the average profit for labor and interest on buildings and permanent improvement was $2.47 per bird. The above figures were reached after deductions were made for six percent interest on the poultry, cost of feed, cost of baby chicks and equipment, decrease in value of pullets from $1.50 to $1.00 at the end of the year, and the loss of chickens by death. In 1927 the profit per bird was $2.39, in 1928 it was $1.53, while in 1929 $2.93. The amount varies from year to year to a certain extent because of change in feed and egg prices, change in inventory and sale of hatching eggs. Last fall and then again this November the records for the year were summed up and figured out and then poultrymen privately shown how he could improve his business and make greater profits. One big factor that influences profit has been total egg production and there has been an increase from year to year of those who have been in the contest. One flock in the contest increased from an average production of 177 eggs per bird to 215 eggs per bird in three years. When summing up the year's business growers were shown that another factor was high egg production during November, December and January when egg prices are highest. Another factor is large number of birds cared for by one man, while still another factor was low feed cost per dozen eggs. These factors are all fully borne out by results in this county and are supported by economic surveys of commercial poultry farms in other parts of Florida. Stress has been placed on an increase in the poultry industry in this county this past year and there has been a substantial increase but not a big flare up which latter condition was certainly not desired.

Two poultry culling demonstrations only were given this year, while two demonstrations on holding post mortems and identification of internal parasites were given. Dr. Thomas from the Experiment Station conducted one and showed growers from various sections of the county that they had internal parasites in their chickens. Largely as the result of this work 11 poultrymen who had a total of 10,956 chickens treated their flocks for internal parasites, especially round worms. The results from this treatment were greatly increased flock vigor and higher egg production in every case. In addition to the above, as the result of four personal calls one flock of five thousand birds was treated as above. The result of this work has been better poultry sanitation. This line of work will be stressed more next year.

Egg prices are highest from November to January and five poultrymen were influenced to feed a crumbly mash at noon to get them to birds to lay more eggs. All reported good success from this as their egg production rapidly increased, they got good prices for their eggs, and will do the same next year.

Port improvements, road extensions and repairs and the exploitation of water power resources are proceeding rapidly in all of Syria under French mandate.

THE HUMBUGGERY OF A LUXURY TAX

By PETER O. KNIGHT.

Nearly a century and a half ago an American statesman observed that "taxes which are imperceptibly paid are more dangerous than others, because by their invisibility they seduce the people from thinking to what purpose their money went." The truth which he uttered was not new, being almost as old as the subject of taxation itself; but perhaps no statesman or economist has more succinctly summed up the evils which inhere in a system of indirect taxation. In literal truth the American people have paid and are paying billions of dollars in taxes which, being invisible and imperceptibly paid, cause the payers thereof to forget that they pay them.

Mr. Barnum may have been wrong when he said that the public loves to be humbugged. But if the keen-eyed showman had chosen to exploit the field of politics it is not altogether improbable that he would have arrived at the same uncomplimentary conclusion. The politician, no less than the showman, knows his public, and strives no less assiduously to please it; while those who like to be thrilled by the spectacular performances of the circus ring are not more numerous than those who dearly love to be indulged in the illusion that they have been denied a square deal in politics; that government, while a boon to others, is a burden to them.

Until within recent years the ad valorem tax furnished almost the whole support of our state government, and when candidates proposed to reduce taxes they meant to do so by reducing governmental expense. While such promises were seldom, if ever, literally kept, the efforts of governors and legislators to redeem their tax reduction pledges were a most effective check on state extravagance. The proposal to reduce or abolish the ad valorem tax is not a tax reduction proposal at all, but a proposal to change taxation from a direct to an indirect basis and to collect from a few corporations and business concerns the revenue which is now being collected from the whole people.

There can be no question that taxes on real property in Florida must be reduced by placing a tax somewhere else, but when we do let us directly distribute it on all the people so they may know what they are paying and not indulge in humbuggery by pretending we are taxing the rich in a luxury tax.

In the last decade or so Florida has advanced from the status of a cow and fruit country to that of commerce and industry. Along with this development there has been a marked trend toward the taxation of business and especially of business of a public or semi-public character. When taxes are changed from direct to indirect, when they are collected from the few instead of from the many, it follows that governmental expenses will increase. The State of California, in which income and other taxes collected from the few have been substituted for the ad valorem tax, has been cited as an example worthy to be followed by Florida. In fact, the states which have economical governments are those which, almost without exception, have adhered to direct or ad valorem taxes.

When taxes are collected from the few, from corporations, business concerns and those with big incomes, the few who actually pay the taxes have no representation, neither the voting strength nor political influence to keep down extravagance, while the masses of the people, who alone have the power of enforcing economy upon their public servants, forget to use that power because they have been seduced into forgetting that they themselves must ultimately pay the tax by reimbursing the few. Nobody understands this better than the politician. He knows it is safe to raise the tax of a corporation when he would not dare to raise a tax which bears directly upon all the people. Yet the people pay the one as truly as they pay the other, for no corporation, however big it may be, has any means of getting money except from the public. It must pay higher taxes, just as it pays higher rent, higher interest or higher salaries, by passing it along in the form of increased charges to the public which it serves.

Nowhere does this truth stand more clearly revealed than in the enormous expenditure of the Federal government. If the founding fathers could survey the government which they established, they would be astonished at the billions of dollars which it collects each year. By leaving to the states almost the whole field of government as they understood it, they thought they had limited the central government to such a sphere as would make it for all time a simple affair, with its activities confined to the management of foreign concerns, the control of interstate commerce, and such other matters as might be of common interest to all the states. The per capita cost of the government of the United States is today more than 50 times what it was in the presidency of Thomas Jefferson, a record of increase unmatched in any age or country.

Ask the man in the street or on the farm where to find a Federal tax collector and he'll tell you he never heard of one. Yet every bill collector and every girl who stands at a cash register is a collector of Federal taxes. Every manufacturer, every corporation, every business, big or little, has been drafted into the Federal tax-gathering service. A Federal tax forms part of the purchase price of every article offered for sale, even the commonest necessities of life. Many a man pays more to the Federal government on the cigarettes he buys than his state ad valorem tax amounts to, and never thinks about it, perhaps never knows it. And he may be the very man who applauds the loudest when some candidate for governor or the legislature tells him that his state tax is a grievous burden which he should no longer be compelled to bear.

To this manner of collecting the Federal revenues must be attributed, in a very great degree at least, the enormous increase in Federal expenditures. Money has flowed into the treasury with such surprising ease and with so little protest that at times the chief problem has been not how to get it, but how to get rid of it. In Jacksons' day no proper and constitutional use could be found for all the funds in the treasury and millions were distributed to the states as an outright gift. One of Cleveland's most forceful messages to Congress was on the subject of a hundred million dollar surplus which he denounced as a menace to good government.

Now that constitutional scruples on the subject of Federal limitations have all but vanished and every congressman is intent upon grabbing off all he can for the benefit of his particular district, it is not probable that official Washington will ever again be embarrassed by a treasury surplus. The six hundred millions which are expected to accrue to the Federal treasury from the latest tariff law will be collected from a mere handful of importers. But no American citizen can escape the ultimate payment of his share of that tax. Nor are the six hundred millions by any means the full measure of the tariff burden which the consumers must bear. They must pay an added tribute, so enormous as to be almost beyond computation, which the beneficiaries of the tariff are enabled to levy because of the elimination of foreign competition. Ad valorem taxes are simple of calculation, but income taxes may be almost infinitely complex, as is evidenced by the hundreds of millions which have been refunded. So every great corporation must, in common sense, protect itself against that contingency, and the protection necessarily takes the form of an increased price on the commodity which it sells to the public.

The total burden which Federal taxation imposes upon the people cannot be definitely calculated, but it is by far the greatest of their tax burdens and the greatest factor in that high cost of living which troubles so many in their efforts to make both ends meet. And yet the fight for tax relief is always being waged in the field of state politics and not in the field of Federal politics.

The abolition of the state ad valorem tax does not mean tax reduction; it means a tax revolution in which the most effective barrier against state extravagance and waste will be broken down, the barrier which exists in the ever present realization on the part of the people that they themselves are paying the expenses of their government.

Hothouse For Every Plant.

To shelter them from chill and speed their development every plant on some English truck farms is being provided with a hot-house of its own. The hot-houses take the form either of forcing jars of solid glass or pyramid-shaped metal frames into which panes of glass are set. The latter type is most popular because the panes can be replaced if shattered. Each type provides the necessary ventilation through a hole at the top.

SIX 4-H CLUBS IN HIGHLANDS COUNTY REPORT INDICATES

Alsmeyer Stresses Club Work In Annual Report Monday

The work of the 4-H Clubs in the county is stressed by the county agent in his report made to the county commissioners Monday. Many projects were undertaken and carried on through including poultry, calf club and pig club work. The report says:

1. Organization.

There were six organized 4-H clubs and 4 boys belonged to these organizations, leaving only six boys who did not belong to a community club, and these had a total of 69 projects.

2. Leadership.

The local leadership was handled through the school teachers as it is very hard to get a local grower to help in this work as the time when more attention should be given to the club work is when the growers are very busy. The older former 4-H club boys are off at high school or college in most cases. Held a special leadership meeting under the direction of Mr. Blacklock and the boys got a vision of what club work calls for them to do in their community activities. The full results of this meeting cannot be estimated until a few years have passed.

3. Special Occasions.

Four of the clubs sent exhibits to the Florida State Horticultural Show at Sebring and they certainly got all the flowers possible in their communities. They filled up more space than the committee had allotted to them and more display space had to be allotted to them. The DeSoto City club won first prize, a free trip for a club boy to the 4-H Club short course at the University donated by Mr. Blacklock and the county agent, and their exhibit more than filled a table five feet by eight feet.

The annual club camp was held at Brighton with a total attendance of 24 boys from this county and eight from Okeechobee county and was a joint camp of these two counties. The boys enjoyed the camp very much and wanted to stay more than the five days allotted. The usual preliminaries as exciting as the race itself. First, to see whose band of swarthy Arabs can climb the palms and pluck the ripe dates fastest. Then to sort them, to send them under the command of Arab chieftains to be packed and put on the ship. All in a hurried, flurried, incredibly short time!

Romance dead indeed! Romance in the Desert, so that there may be later, romance in the dessert! After the dates arrive in this country the romance of science steps in and they are pasteurized just as is pure milk. Then they are ready for you, and you may let your daughters have as many of these dates as they like—for this kind is good for her!

When you open that package of dates to have your share (there will be enough this year so that every man, woman and child may have at least 23 dates) you won't be able to forget that thrill and romance doesn't have to exist in moonlight and poetry alone—it can be right in the ingredients, along with health and taste!

In case you don't want all your share plain, as "nature's candy," here are some tested recipes into which they may go. You'll like them!

Date Torte.

½ cup flour
½ tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ tablespoon vanilla
1 cup nutmeats
1 package dates.

Sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs; beat in sugar gradually; add the vanilla, nuts and sliced dates. Stir in dry ingredients. Bake in a shallow pan which has been lined with paper and oiled, in a moderate "the desert" to the waiting housefe) about one hour. Cut in squares when cool. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Filled Surprise Cookies.

3 cups flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
½ tablespoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients. Add sugar slowly to shortening, then beaten egg and vanilla. Add flour, baking powder and salt alternately with the milk. Shape the mixture into two long rolls about two inches in diameter. Chill thoroughly.

Filling.

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup boiling water
½ cup nutmeats
1 package dates
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Make the filling by mixing the flour and sugar and adding to boiling water. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Add chopped dates, nuts and lemon juice. Cool.

Cut the chilled dough into thin slices. Place a spoonful of the filling in the center of a round. Cover with second round and press the edges together firmly. Bake on a well-oiled baking sheet in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Makes six dozen small cookies.

Sunflower Salad.

Place a mound of sliced dates in the center of a leaf lettuce. Surround with sections of orange or canned grapefruit arranged like flower petals. Serve with a favorite salad dressing.

Richmond Sandwiches

2 packages cream cheese
½ package dates
¼ cup butter
¾ tablespoon powdered ginger
1 1-lb. loaf bread.

Follow general directions for sandwiches, spreading one slice of bread with softened butter and the other with sandwich mixture. Add sliced dates and ginger to the cream cheese. If necessary, add a little cream or rich milk so filling will spread easily. Twenty-four sandwiches.

4. Results of Project Demonstrations.

The work in citrus fruit was mainly with citrus disease and a few field trips were taken and the boys learned the identification of citrus diseases. This followed up the previous years work in citrus insects.

The work in truck crops and in corn did not show up very good as the unusual weather in the spring and early summer caused most of the crops to be drowned out. Four of the boys did raise a good supply of fresh vegetables for the home though.

The work in the pig club was mainly raising barrows. Three of the boys had fair success, one fairly good, but two of them had their pigs run over and killed by automobiles.

The calf club work was mainly in raising calves through their second year and two of them should be milking soon.

Twenty of the 26 poultry club members completed their year's work and cared for 453 head of chickens. The boys were encouraged to increase the number of birds which they are caring for and so it is hoped that they will have bigger flocks this next year.

5. Summary.

4-H Club members completed 58 of the 69 projects they started and this seems very good considering the unusual season which we have had for crops. More and better club work could be done if the county agent could devote more time to this work. There are so many demands upon the county agent's time that in order to get any time to do 4-H club work he has to tear away from the adult work, and the latter is very difficult because a citrus grower has a very high investment in his business and he feels that a call or a visit to his grove is more important than anything else can be. It is not fair to the club members to come around to the schools and get them started in club work during the slack season and then fail to visit them regularly during the rush season when they should be helped the most. Under the conditions in this county it seems best to balance up the amount of club work and adult work in the best possible ratio.

Romance and Dates Arrive In Ships — $1,500,000 Worth!

THE good ship Gorjistan, straight from the land of the Arabian Nights, arrived in New York harbor, bringing romance enough to last the girls all winter! For the Gorjistan, as you may not know, brought dates — $1,500,000 worth, 10,000,000 pounds of dates, the kind you eat—and, in being the first to arrive from over those choppy seas, won the big prize awarded the winner by the importers of this country.

Each year at the opening of the date season in Iraq, where the best dates are grown, all the big importers charter special steamers, to see who can first get the "gold of Ophir" aboard and start the long voyage to the United States. This year, the boat captained by the jovial Henry Peeps made it first, and carried off the proud prize before the Montaban and its sister ships so much as got started on their perilous journey.

The big race to America is the year's most thrilling event in this land on the site of the original Garden of Eden, and starts only after many preliminaries as exciting as the race itself. First, to see whose band of swarthy Arabs can climb the palms and pluck the ripe dates fastest. Then to sort them, to send them under the command of Arab chieftains to be packed and put on the ship. All in a hurried, flurried, incredibly short time!

Romance dead indeed! Romance in the Desert, so that there may be later, romance in the dessert! After the dates arrive in this country the romance of science steps in and they are pasteurized just as is pure milk. Then they are ready for you, and you may let your daughters have as many of these dates as they like—for this kind is good for her!

When you open that package of dates to have your share (there will be enough this year so that every man, woman and child may have at least 23 dates) you won't be able to forget that thrill and romance doesn't have to exist in moonlight and poetry alone—it can be right in the ingredients, along with health and taste!

In case you don't want all your share plain, as "nature's candy," here are some tested recipes into which they may go. You'll like them!

Date Torte.

½ cup flour
½ tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ tablespoon vanilla
1 cup nutmeats
1 package dates.

Sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs; beat in sugar gradually; add the vanilla, nuts and sliced dates. Stir in dry ingredients. Bake in a shallow pan which has been lined with paper and oiled, in a moderate "the desert" to the waiting housefe) about one hour. Cut in squares when cool. Serve with whipped cream or vanilla ice cream.

Filled Surprise Cookies.

3 cups flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
½ tablespoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon vanilla
½ cup milk.

Sift dry ingredients. Add sugar slowly to shortening, then beaten egg and vanilla. Add flour, baking powder and salt alternately with the milk. Shape the mixture into two long rolls about two inches in diameter. Chill thoroughly.

Filling.

1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup boiling water
½ cup nutmeats
1 package dates
2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Make the filling by mixing the flour and sugar and adding to boiling water. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly. Add chopped dates, nuts and lemon juice. Cool.

Cut the chilled dough into thin slices. Place a spoonful of the filling in the center of a round. Cover with second round and press the edges together firmly. Bake on a well-oiled baking sheet in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 10 minutes. Makes six dozen small cookies.

Sunflower Salad.

Place a mound of sliced dates in the center of a leaf lettuce. Surround with sections of orange or canned grapefruit arranged like flower petals. Serve with a favorite salad dressing.

Richmond Sandwiches

2 packages cream cheese
½ package dates
¼ cup butter
¾ tablespoon powdered ginger
1 1-lb. loaf bread.

Follow general directions for sandwiches, spreading one slice of bread with softened butter and the other with sandwich mixture. Add sliced dates and ginger to the cream cheese. If necessary, add a little cream or rich milk so filling will spread easily. Twenty-four sandwiches.

PUMPKIN PIE TIME.

What moistens the lips,
What brightens the eye,
What calls back the past
Like rich pumpkin pie?

—Whittier.

The golden yellow pumpkin, or cushaw, such a symbol of the autumn harvest to the thankful Pilgrims, can be made into a delicious pie that will be a favorite at any Thanksgiving dinner. Many such pies will bedeck the tables this year as friends reunite to enjoy a day of Thanksgiving, dining, and merriment.

Two of the most common mistakes in making pumpkin pies are excessive baking and over drugging with spices. Too much flavoring will destroy the original choice taste of the pumpkin. To prevent excessive baking remove the pie from the oven as soon as the filling has baked firm. Further baking is apt to cause the pie to become watery.

Making the Filling.

For making the filling the following recipe and procedure is recommended: Mix one cup brown sugar, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ginger, and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg. Add two cups of steamed and strained pumpkin, two well beaten eggs, one and one-half cups milk, and one-half cup cream. Beat until a foam is formed on top. Line a pie plate with pastry, and brush the pastry over with a little white of an egg. Pour in the pumpkin mixture, and bake in a moderate oven until firm.

Scots Dig Up Roman Bath.

The Roman bath-house discovered on a natural plateau at Cadder, Scotland, where a fort had been excavated by archaeologists, was heated by an ingenious, though perhaps common, method. Hot air was supplied to two of the rooms by a circulation system under the floor and around the walls from a furnace chamber at the rear. The Roman idea of a bath, of course, was profuse perspiration, followed by a cold dip. Many of the details are wonderfully clear and the hypocaust pillars on which the floor rested, still stand in place, their sides reddened by the heat.

Due to the dumping of Russian grain on the British market the farmers of southern Ireland are getting for the oats the lowest prices in 30 years.

Snuff-taking is again in vogue in Europe.

NATIONAL SOLDIERS HOME COMMITTEE

Will Be In Jacksonville Soon and Will Hold Hearings Pertaining To Home

Jacksonville, Nov. 19.—The Florida State Committee on the National Soldiers Home is fully prepared to present Florida's case to the sub-committee of the National Soldiers Home Board which is expected to visit Florida in the very near future and hold a hearing in Jacksonville, according to a statement made here today by Herman A. Dann, of St. Petersburg, chairman of the State Committee.

"The State Chamber of Commerce," said Chairman Dann, "will arrange for every community in Florida desiring to appear before the hearing to do so. As chairman of the state committee I have requested the State Chamber of Commerce to prepare a list for the committee of all communities that will be represented at the Jacksonville hearing.

"I wish to emphasize the fact communities need not send large delegations to Jacksonville," said Mr. Dann. "The sub-committee of the National Board has notified me that only one citizen will be allowed to appear for a community and present the facts to any one particular site. Duplication is to be eliminated and delegations will not be allowed to take up the time of the hearing by a series of speeches in support of my projects.

"General Wood and General Ireland, who will comprise the sub-committee visiting Florida," continued Chairman Dann, "will notify the state committee as to the time they will arrive and the hours of the hearing. As soon as this information is at hand it will be given statewide publicity and all communities notifying the State Chamber of their desire to be heard will receive telegraphic advice as to the meeting place and hour. Every facility will be used to see that all concerned are notified and that all have opportunity to appear before the National Board members.

"Co-operation is requested in carrying out the wishes of the National Board representatives," concluded Mr. Dann, "to the end that there be no confusion at the hearing and that every community be alloted ample time in which to present its story. We want the institution in Florida but unless we work together our past efforts may prove of no avail."

CITRUS NO CON GAME.

Citrus growers, addressed by C. C. Teague, at Frostproof Monday were told that they have got to come to a grower-owned and controlled citrus marketing system if they expect to share in the future prosperity of the industry. The speaker is a leader of the California co-operative citrus marketing system and a member of the federal farm board.

Coming at a time when the Florida citrus market is in its most chaotic state in recent years, this warning, sounded by one of the country's greatest authorities, will be deeply pondered by citrus growers.

Demanding that the growers organize, the speaker said; "Get behind your organization, and if it isn't as you want it, make it right. You can't cure the ills of a co-operative from the outside. Get in. It's all in your hands, but you can't do it by standing outside and criticising."

There is nothing new in the argument. It is the same sound logic that has been handed down by co-operative leaders since the beginning of the movement, but today it has a truer ring than ever before, and is falling on more receptive ears than ever in the past. Seeing is believing, and growers are seeing with their own eyes the remarkable work of the California Citrus Exchange that controls 76 percent of that state's crop, and stabilizes the market to such an extent that growers are getting 5.00 a box for fruit, as compared to fifty cents for the Florida product. And the injustice is that the Florida fruit, honestly marketed, is the better of the two.

What is to be done? Only one thing can restore the confidence of the American consumer in Florida fruit, and that is to introduce some old fashioned honesty into the industry. Grower and shipper must combine in putting on the market an honest product. Florida has an industry that has developed into big business, and it must be conducted along business lines. Honesty and integrity are the intangible assets that will place the citrus industry on its proper footing, and nothing else will. Deception and hood winking must cease. We are deceiving nobody but ourselves, and we are being hook-winked out of millions by our own folly. The citrus industry is no con game, and the sooner that idea is abolished and in its stead a sound, honest policy of selling a product that will stand on its merit is evolved, the sooner will our problems be solved.

The Mediterranean fly has flown, officially—the federal quarantine being withdrawn last Saturday. Whether there has ever been such an animal as the M. F. F. it is now unprofitable to argue. Certainly it is that since its alleged discovery in April, 1929, it has cost the state of Florida an incalculable sum, exclusive of what has been spent in eradication work. Perhaps the lessons in connection with the care of groves will repay in some part this tremendous cost. Now if a bug could be discovered that would give a grower a vicious bite for every unripe orange he attempted to ship from the state the citrus industry would be in a fair way to make some profits.

Over Sebring way, the folks get stirred up now and then over this and that, and the question now seems to be who built the dam? The outlet to the lake was dammed during a low water period sometime ago and was later blown up. Now the illuminating disclosure is made that although the city paid for the dam, there was no authorization for its construction by the city. Without casting any bouquets at our local city council, we have known of bills to be tabled indefinitely in cases where work was unauthorized. We have a couple of watchdogs of the treasury sitting down there in the city hall that don't let things like that get by.

Edward Bok expressed the opinion that a man should prepare himself for retirement in such a way that he would have other interests in life after he had laid aside the cares of business, otherwise he would be apt to settle back and "write letters to the papers." We believe we can see some evidence of this lack of preparation over Tampa way in the "As Tribune Readers See It" department. Judging from the frequency and regularity with which some of these contributors "write pieces" it is even doubtful if they have retired at all. They seem to be making a business of it.

It is announced that the sub-committee that is to pick a site for the new soldiers' home is to do its picking from a hotel room in Jacksonville. It is hard to see how the committee can make a judicious selection without viewing the many sites offered, unless it be that all sites are so good that it is merely a matter of closing the eyes and sticking a finger somewhere on the map and calling that "it." The Tampa Tribune says it should be located in or near Tampa and we can't fall out with them on that, but somewhere along the Scenic Highlands would be OKer.

Word comes from Lake Wales that the skating rink which had some five or six weeks run here, is being operated in "Florida's skyline city" on Sunday, and we are constrained to ask what has become of the sky pilots over that way. The outdoor rink, immensely popular with local skaters, met with official disfavor here and the license was raised to $100 a year in an effort to keep them out even on week days. And it is needless to say that they couldn't operate here on Sundays at any price.

Repeal of the eighteenth amendment has been definitely discarded by President's Hoover's law enforcement commission as a solution of the present prohibition problem, says a dispatch. For a long time we have been wondering whether or not there is a problem after all. Those who want prohibition have it, and those who want liquor have that, and from the present outlook it seems that's about the way it will remain for some time to come.

Soon all waste will be eliminated in handling citrus fruits. After utilizing juice, peel and seed, the refuse is to be made into fertilizer, a factory for this purpose having started operations at Frostproof. But, somehow, it seems there is still a lot of slack to be taken up in the process of getting the fruit to the consumer and money back to the grower. There must be quite a bit of waste along the line somewhere.

Friedlander's and the B & B take a six-page supplment of the Highlander to announce the opening of these two new stores in Lake Wales, which is big league stuff in a big way. There may be larger stores in Lake Wales, but this kind of publicity will establish these firms as leaders in their respective lines.

The great American sport of gangsters at the moment is the racket of kidnapping some wealthy Who's Who and holding them for ransom. It's one form of crime that can hardly be charged to prohibition.

Echoes of the State Press

THE TAX MUDDLE.

We are trying to understand the tax muddle in Florida. As an instance a friend owns a property in which the real estate cost him $1,250; the building less than six thousand. It was last year valued in Winter Haven at $11,175 and he pays a city tax of $111.75 at 10 mills on the dollar. At Bartow the county seat, this $11,175 property shrinks in value to less than a thousand dollars and at the 85-mill levy he pays $83.00. At home he pays on a valuation about double what he could get for the property. In Bartow he gets by for less than one-fifth the cash value of his holdings.

In these extremes of estimating the worth of a property for taxation one can see the extent to which favoritism or lack of personal information as to each particular holding may affect what is paid and what is worse than guesswork is employed in the systems to arrive at what our taxes should be.

It can also be seen that we pay 33 percent more city tax than we do for the combined county and state taxes with our costly road system included in the latter. Truly our home government is financially the most important, not in mills but in dollars, and if we are tax-burdened we should look more closely at home than abroad.—Winter Haven Herald.

DEMOCRACY IS HOME AGAIN.

By the returns of the recent general election it is shown that the democratic party has returned to its normal state and that a solid front now greets the republicans with a fighting force that will count. This election was void of much of the hatred and malice of the campaign of 1928 wherein the solid south was broken and many of the states that, under normal conditions, were democratic. It plainly goes to show show that the south was not really undemocratic in a sense of the word, but that the voters purely registered an anti-Al Smith vote, caused by his religion and his stand upon a few other questions.

The election shows a united democratic stand because of the defeat of Hoover-democrats in other states, such as Simmons of North Carolina and Heflin of Alabama, two widely known figures and anti-Smith fighters.

The religious prejudice against Al Smith can no longer be feared, for, in a measure, his place has been taken by a much stronger and better liked man in the personage of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was given a huge victory in his race for governor of New York. Roosevelt's victory places him in the presidential class and in the opinion of the Journal, far ahead of Smith with his trailing influences and following. In short, the election practically places Roosevelt at the head of his party and it will be seen this to be a fact when the proper time comes around two years hence.

Since the election democratic prospects have never looked brighter and unless all signs fail the party will be successful in 1932.

Verily, democracy returns home again.—Brooksville Journal.

SECOND ANNUAL STATE AIRTOUR IN JANUARY

Starts at Miami With Highlands County Included in Itinerary.

Jacksonville, Nov. 20.—The Second-Annual All Florida Air Tour, sponsored by the National Aeronautic Association under the direction of the Aviation Bureau of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce will be held January 11 to 25, 1931, according to a statement made today by Paul E. Grassfield, director of the State Bureau.

"The Tour will begin at Miami following the "All American Air Races," said Director Grassfield. "Two weeks will be taken up in covering the State during which time a series of Air Races and Stunt Flying programs will be held in the various cities visited by the Tour."

"The National Aeronautic Association will be represented during the Tour by Fred V. Blair, of St. Petersburg, Florida, Governor of the association, and Buck Freeman, of Jacksonville, tour manager and official representative of the association in Florida during the tour.

"Preliminary plans for the event," continued Director Grassfield, "include aerial circuses, glider flights, model airplane contests and races with prizes offered for the successful entrants at the various stops. Interest in the tour this year is greater than last, which was the initial venture of its kind in Florida. More planes and a greater variety of types are being lined up for the 1931 tour than was possible last fall.

"Tentative plans call for stops at Miami, West Palm Beach, Ft. Pierce, Vero Beach, Sebring, Wauchula, Arcadia, Ft. Myers, Sarasota, Lake Wales, Winter Haven, Lakeland, Tampa, Orlando, Cocoa, Sanford, Palatka, Daytona Beach, Ocala, Gainesville, Tallahassee, Lake City, St. Augustine and Jacksonville," says Director Grassfield. "This year the tour will south West Florida as well as the West and East coasts of the State."

Director Grassfield and Mr. Freeman, who will be in direct charge of the tour, will begin at once a trip to the various prospective stops to outline in full the purpose of the tour and the local program.

Eberhardt Makes Appearance Bond

Sheriff Oscar Wolff went to Tallahassee Monday with the warrants charging Fred O. Eberhardt and Fred O. Eberhardt, Inc., with criminal libel and they were served on the defendants and the necessary bond made. The sheriff had previously telephoned Eberhardt that he would be there Monday with the warrants and asked him to have the bond ready.

The defendant willingly complied with the sheriff's request and had the bond prepared and awaiting the sheriff's visit. He also thanked Sheriff Wolff for the way he had handled the matter.

CALDWELL PROMOTED BY AIR TRANSPORT CO.

Son of J. A. Caldwell Made Divisional Traffic Manager

T. P. Caldwell, of Tampa, representative of Eastern Air Transport, was promoted Wednesday to divisional traffic manager in charge of combination air mail and air passenger service to be inaugurated into Tampa, St. Petersburg and Miami Jan. 1. The announcement was made in Wednesday's Tampa Tribune.

Tom Caldwell, well known in Avon Park, is the son of John A. Caldwell, manager of the Avon Manufacturing company, and his friends are gratified to learn of his promotion. The Tribune announcement says further:

A downtown office will be opened by the company in Tampa and all other cities on the line where the company's new cabin passenger ship will make scheduled stops, Mr. Caldwell said. Tickets may be purchased at these offices for air trips or air-rail connections to every corner of the United States, Canada and Cuba.

Twice-a-Day Mail Service.

The southern division coming under Mr. Caldwell's supervision will have twice-a-day airmail service each way and once-a-day passenger service each way at Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, West Palm Beach, Miami, Orlando, St. Petersburg and Tampa, with principal headquarters at Jacksonville, Miami and Tampa.

Beginning some time in February the line will operate ships northward from Florida to New York over two routes out of Jacksonville, the one now in operation by nightflying air-mail ships by way of Atlanta, and another to be opened up through Brunswick, Savannah, and Columbia, joining the other route at Richmond. This short cut will place Florida within 11 hours of New York.

Expect Schedules Soon.

Announcements of schedules and passenger rates are expected soon. The company is already operating passenger ships between New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Richmond, charging rates closely approximating railroad passenger plus Pullman fares.

With inauguration of the new service the company will handle air mail for the government under a new air mail contract in accordance with the Watres bill passed by the last session of congress in order to stimulate passenger flying in conjunction with air mail.

Bar Association Met at Sebring Last Night

The Highlands County Bar Association had for consideration and adoption the by-laws of the organization at its dinner at the Pennsylvania hotel in Sebring last night. The constitution was adopted at the last meeting, but the by-laws submitted by the committee, were held over for the later meeting.

Highlands County To Be Advertised In Radio Broadcast

Highlands county is going on the air it is claimed. On motion of A. L. Butler, seconded by O. C. Parrish, the county commissioners voted to allow R. Arkell $50 per month for five months beginning with November to advertise the county, including Sebring, Avon Park and Lake Placid in his broadcasts. He claimed he is broadcasting every week from a station in Tampa and another in Miami and would include mention of the possibilities of the county in poultry, citrus, truck and other ways in his talk.

At the request of the Interior Florida Traffic Bureau that the board name one of its members as a member of the board of directors of the bureau, O. C. Parrish was voted to the position.

Alsmeyer Makes Annual Report To County Comm'rs

The use of high analysis inorganic fertilizers has increased each year and the results the growers are securing from same are so good that they encourage others to follow the same practice. Four years ago this type of fertilization was talked of but was said it could not be used on a grove. Today most of the groves in the south half of the county use these concentrated cheaper materials. The county agent is regularly called on to advise large numbers of growers as to fertilization for groves and more of this work could be done if time permitted as demand is increasing steadily.

Mrs. Hartt Is Hostess at Pretty Bridge Party.

One of the most attractive parties of the early fall season was given by Mrs. J. B. Hartt on Saturday afternoon at the Parrish house.

The spacious reception room was very effectively decorated with the various colored autumn flowers in baskets and vases. Upon the arrival of each guest they were presented with a turkey in the strut tally on which scores were kept during the afternoon. Nut cups filled with nuts, candy and raisins, portraying the Thanksgiving idea, were given the guests as favors of the occasion.

At the close of five progressions of bridge scores were totaled and Mrs. J. V. Chapman held high score, Mrs. T. A. McNicholas second high, Mrs. Horace Garner was given a consolation prize and Mrs. A. H. Able was lucky on the cut.

Mrs. Hartt was assisted in serving by Mrs. J. S. Francis, Mrs. Norton Smith, Mrs. M. E. Covington, Mrs. W. D. Dorminey, Mrs. D. G. Perry and Mrs. A. C. West. The refreshment menu consisted of a salad course, coffee, fruit cocktail and cookies.

The guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. Auben Johnston, Mrs. D. G. Perry, Mrs. S. Y. Hartt, Mrs. Dorothy Chappin, Mrs. Henry Timm, Mrs. M. E. Covington, Mrs. Olive Anderson, Mrs. E. F. GENERAL EXODUS TO HUNTING GROUNDS

County Officials and Others All Set For Season's Opening

The court house looks like Goldsmith's "Deserted Village" this week. There has been an exodus to the happy hunting grounds. A visit to the edifice Tuesday afternoon disclosed just three males, W. L. Long, county registration officer, Col. F. N. K. Bailey, county school superintendent, and O. S. Bowles. All the rest of the sterner sex had gone hunting, except D. F. Canfield, the tax collector and he was attending the funeral of Rev. Murrish.

Inquiries revealed that several parties had been made up of various county officials and their friends who planned to meet at Deep Lake and be all set for the opening of the hunting season when day dawned this morning. Those in these parties include: H. J. Chance, L. C. Pearce, L. T. Farmer, Chas. Beresford, Deo Collier, Judge M. C. Whitehurst, W. W. Whitehurst, Neil Huff, A. F. Helms, Cyril Baldwin, Judge W. J. Barker, I. N. Kennedy of Eustis, E. J. Etheredge and George Whitehurst of Fort Myers.

BLUE MOLD CAUSE OF HEAVY CITRUS LOSSES

Injuries Caused During Picking Assist Fungi To Develop

Blue mold decay is likely to prevent about three-fourths of the citrus fruits that are mechanically injured during picking, packing, and shipping from ever reaching the consumer, according to careful estimates recently explained over state radio station WRUF by E. F. DeBusk, extension citrus pathologist-entomologist. This fungus decay has possibly resulted in a greater loss to the Florida citrus industry than any other citrus disease.

The fungi are developed from small spores which are unable to penetrate the rind of sound, uninjured fruit. But when the rind is broken by clipper cuts, long stem punctures, finger-nail stratches, and other bruises the fruit is likely to be a loss to someone and an indirect loss to the grower.

Investigations have brought out the fact that less injury is caused by the nipper type than the scissors type of clippers. This is due to the fact that the concave side of the scissors may be turned to the fruit; thus bruising the rind or leaving a long sharp cut stem. Clippers should always be kept in good repair. Pickers should wear gloves to prevent fingernail scratches, and fruit should not be piled up on the field crates and allowed to roll off.

Just after a rain the fruit is more turgid and thus more easily injured. Artificial coloring tends to make blemishes more pronounced, and such blemished fruit is in great danger of decay.

Few growers realize just how expensive cheap, poor pickers are, but the final cost of picking must consider the percent of defects. A competent, energetic picking foreman should be employed, and a premium should be paid for quality picking.

Cutworm Damage Ends With Taste Of Poison Bait

The pesky little cutworm may spend his nights prowling around cutting off nice young vegetable plants only to take a few bites, but when a little poison bran bait is preferred, that's the fatal bite.

In a recent radio address over WRUF, J. R. Watson, entomologist at the Florida Experiment Station, at Gainesville, recommended mixing one pound of paris green or one-half pound of calcium arsenate in 25 pounds of bran and slightly moistening with water to make the bait. The mixing should be done thoroughly, and the mixture must not be made sloppy. With close planted crops this mixture should be broadcast over the land at about the rate of five pounds per acre. With some crops it is best to scatter the bait up the rows, while with crops that do not cover the ground a little bait may be dropped around each hill.

If grasshoppers are giving trouble a little sirup and ground citrus fruits added to the poison bran will make it more attractive to them. Many grasshoppers and cutworms will be killed if the plants are sprayed with a poison, but this is expensive unless other biting insects are giving trouble.

The cutworm is the caterpillar of a moth. Its eggs are laid on grass and other plants, upon which the cutworm later feeds. Since cutworms are likely to be feeding on grass, when sod land is to be used for vegetable crops it should be plowed two weeks before it is planted or set. About two days before the crop is planted some baitlike collard leaves, should be dipped in a solution of paris green or lead arsenate, one and one-half pounds to 50 gallons of water, and scattered over the field. This should be done in the late evening since the hungry cutworm will hunt feed at night. If the cutworm attacks the crop later the poison bran bait is recommended.

Pair Steal Mail Van.

One of the most audacious of recent post office robberies in London was the work of a carpenter and a jeweler. Evidently the jeweler had information that a particular motor van used by Benjamin Juverter, postman, would carry many registered packages of jewelry. When the postman entered a shop to make a delivery the robbers leaped into the mail van and drove off. The robbers were captured.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

SPUDS AND MARY PLAN TO DEVOTE MORE TIME TO CULTURAL THINGS

Along about this time every year most of us begin to look back and make a mental survey of what we have accomplished during the year. We say to ourselves that we will try to do some things next year that we haven't done at all this year, and other things we will try to do better. One thing that Mary and I have decided to do next year is to spend more time and money for what is usually called cultural things.

To begin with we are going to try to see and appreciate more of the wonderful beauty that is all around us every day here in our state. We are going to visit around more, and see some of the sights that people from all over the country come to Florida to see, and seeing, we are going to try to appreciate. Of all people, it seems to me that folks who live in the country ought to be in closer harmony with Nature and her many beauties than any others. As a rule, this is not true.

Another thing we are going to do is to buy and read a few good books. In these days a farmer is expected to know most of the times just as much as any business or professional man, and most of us do not read enough to do it. Of course we have always subscribed to the home paper, and the farm papers, but next year we are going to take two or three good magazines that we have been wanting for some time.

We are making plans to help out with some neighborhood sings that are to be held. Most of us don't sing enough anyhow. We experience emotions while singing that we do not get any other time. Our radio brings us some fine music but it is not quite like taking part in it yourself.

Now all this does not mean that we are going to let up on our fight with the bugs and other enemies we have to face every day. We are going to work just as hard as ever before, and I believe we will accomplish more when we rearrange our schedule to include a few minutes each day for the enjoyment of the beautiful and spiritual things of life.

FLORIDA BOASTS LARGE NUMBER OF SCIENTISTS

More According To Population Than Any Other S. E. State

"Florida seems to have more scientists in proportion to population than any other Southeastern state, according to the latest (1927) addition of American Men of Science and the 1929 directory of members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science," says Dr. Roland M. Tarper in a recent issue of The Florida Naturalist. A condensed review of Dr. Harper's article follows:

In the American Men of Science, which contains the names of those pursuing scientific work, are listed 86 Florida residents, of which 13 are retired. Three were women, of which one was retired. Gainesville, principally the University of Florida, including the Agricultural Experiment Station, accounted for 34 of this list, Tallahassee 9, Miami, Orlando and Winter Park, 4 each, and Jacksonville, Tampa, Sanford, and Quincy, 3 each.

The scientific interests of members of this group were classified as follows: Botanical sciences (mostly plant pathology) 20, chemistry (including pharmacy) 16, zoology (mostly entomology) 15, medical science 9, physics or engineering 8, agriculture (or agronomy) 6, mathematics, geology and psychology 2 each, and a few others one each.

The membership list of the American Association for the Advancement of Science carries the names of 145 residents of Florida. In this list are 32 fellows of the society, members of a more select circle who have been elected to the higher rating by their colleagues for having done original research work of outstanding merit.

Of this 145 residents in this list, 41 were from Gainesville, 21 from Miami, 13 from Tallahassee, 8 from Tampa, 6 each from Orlando and St. Petersburg, and 3 each from Jacksonville, Winter Park, Sanford, Sarasota, Daytona Beach and Pensacola.

Florida Birds Lead As First Month at Egg Contest Closes

With Florida birds at the top the 580 pullets in the fifth Florida National Egg Laying Contest, located at Chipley, have just finished their first month's lay with an average of 10.3 eggs for a 31.4 percent production, according to E. F. Stanton, supervisor.

The Florida entry leading the entire contest was the Pinebreeze Farm White Leghorns, from Callahan. During October the 10 birds layed 293 eggs for 293.03 points. Second place went to Gilbert's Chipley Hatchery, of that city, with 221 eggs for 184.15 points. E. H. Rucker's entry, from Ottumwa, Ia., trailed into third place.

Considering individual birds, a pullet from Jefferson, Tenn., owned by R. K. Godwin, stood first with 25 eggs for nearly as many points. Then the birds from Pinebreeze Farm ran in to take second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth places in the individual rating.

Most of the birds entered the fifth contest in splendid condition. Very little cold and poor have developed, and only eight birds were replaced during the first month.

Four of the birds in the last contest closed the 365-day period with records over the 300 mark. First for the most points went to a bird owned by Engleman Poultry Farm, Avon Park, with 305.7 points for 286 eggs. The largest number of eggs were turned in by one of the F. Galvez Poultry birds, Tampa, which layed 314 eggs that counted, along with four that were too small. Other birds going over 300 eggs were owned by White Feather Farm, Clearwater, and Farrington Brothers, Canada.

CLUBS CHANGE WORK TO GAME OF PROGRESS

Palm Beach Banker Tells Radio Audience of Club Work

"To correct the psychology in work, changing it from drudgery to a game of progress is one of the great accomplishments of 4-H club work," Howard Selby, West Palm Beach banker, recently stated while speaking in a club achievement program from WIOD. The spirit of contest which has been introduced has resulted in many fine records being made by the youth of recent years. To produce a larger yield, or a higher quality product than any other boy or girl is something to be proud of, he said.

"With such rapid change in agricultural methods many older folks have become doubting farmers, and still stick to old-time methods. Many a boy has taken an acre of his dad's land, followed the instruction of his 4-H club leader, and produced as much as three of his father's adjoining acres. Thus the elders have been led to change to the more progressive methods, and this is no small accomplishment to the credit of 4-H club work.

"Keeping records is generally a burden to the farmer, but 4-H club members, competing for honors, must not only produce more and better crops, but must show the costs and profits. This type of training develops financial ability, and gives an insight into correct business methods.

"The work of 4-H club girls is revealing a new sense of home responsibility and opportunity for improvement of home life. Many homes have been completely transformed through the inspiration and enthusiasm of these girls.

"The young people also receive splendid training at their regular meetings. Ex-Policeman Burglar.

Without food for two days, a former member of the Newcastle, England, police force turned burglar and was captured by some of his comrades of other days. Starving and penniless, Albert Charlton broke into a hotel. A man next door heard him prowling through unused rooms and summoned the police. In a few minutes the hotel was surrounded by Charlton's former colleagues, one of whom pursued him into the bar and captured him. Charlton, retired from the force last spring because of illness and at that time was presented with $500 by his colleagues. He was sentenced to two months in jail.

Scenic Highlands Notes and News

Well Done.

Frostproof did on Monday which would have appeared impossible to it or any other town in the Highlands six months ago. It attracted the attention of the entire citrus world to day's program, dealing with "World Citrus Markets as Affecting Florida's Outlook." The news of the day has already been carried in the daily papers. The statistics gathered from the world for this event will appear in the produce papers of the nation, and thus reach the world with knowledge that the Scenic Highlands is alert and preparing for the great citrus competition that is coming.

To pick out any one speech and mention it at length in this column is impossible. Some few points must be brought out, however.

Italy.

This great lemon and orange country has a National Institute of Exportation to study the requirements of foreign markets and to bring into being improved methods of grading, packing and shipping Italian fruit. Is there any such far-seeing plan at work in Florida?

Palestine.

Under an ordinance of 1927 the High Commissioner of Palestine has power to prescribe regulations with reference to the grading, packing, storage and inspection of oranges intended for export. Will he be content to have an orange shipment just get by? Quality is being sought, and Palestine far excels the United States in oranges shipped to Europe.

Japan.

There is an association of mandarin exporters united in an effort to improve the standard of grading and the quality of packing fruit intended for export. Nothing but the best is good enough to build up a steady export trade.

South Africa.

Here we find a government body named "The Perishable Products Export Control Board." Is it successfully fighting its way into the quality market? It is! During the five years from 1910-1914 the average export from all South Africa was 28,000 boxes of oranges. The 1929 orange exports were 1,100,000 boxes. Grapefruit exports have gone up 500 percent in recent years.

Brazil.

In 20 years this will be the giant in the citrus world. Professor P. H. Rolfs, well-known among Florida citrus men but now resident in Brazil, said only years ago, "One may say that the orange region of Brazil is so vast that the world would never be able to eat all the oranges that Brazil alone could produce."

Totals.

The estimated orange production of the world is now 116,000,000 boxes; of lemons 18,000,000 boxes; of grapefruit 10,000,000 boxes. The citrus production of the United States now 50,000,000 boxes is expected to be 80,000,000 boxes by 1940. The promotion of skillful marketing here and abroad is the only sensible answer—raw fruit sold only on a quality basis; processed fruit the same; and every waste particle gathered up and returned to the soil for greater enrichment.

Morton.

J. C. Morton, chairman of the Committee of Fifty, swayed the crowds with his eloquent appeals for an awakened citrus conscience.

Howey.

W. J. Howey showed the immensity of Florida's stake in a crop raised in the best manner possible and shipped on honor. He also indicated the profits to come from the discarded fruit arising from rigid grading.

Northen.

The most startling point in Dr. Northen's learned address was that by modern methods of treating the wastes of the citrus industry could be made profits; and that the value of treated waste was intrinsically as great as if it had been successfully marketed.

Mayo.

Nathan Mayo, whose official position as Commissioner of Agriculture brings him into conflict with every unworthy practice in the industry, took the whole industry to his heart as if it were his own personal interest and in "Why Insist on Quality" pleaded for fair play for all by all, particularly condemning those racketeers of the business who try to get around regulations that are for the protection of the grower and the consumer alike.

Teague.

The total effect of C. C. Teague's first visit to Florida is yet to be measured; for he is still meeting groups in the State. However, his past experiences in California led him to emphasize in Frostproof the importance of a true and practically complete co-operative spirit in Florida; that it did not yet exist; and that when it arrived brands would be fewer, advertising less expensive and scattering, and distribution to the consumer much more simple and effective.

Local Energy.

Frostproof hired amplifiers so that the thousands could hear all that was said; it handled over 2000 automobiles during the day without confusion; it held telephone wires into Orlando for three hours at heavy expense so that WDBO could broadcast; it fed 4000 people most liberally at its complimentary fish fry. It erected a grand stand and arranged seats for 3000.

Explanation.

How was this effort carried through in one day? The Associated Boards of Trade of the Scenic Highlands with headquarters at Lake Placid planned the program, secured the speakers and assembled the world statistics. The men of Frostproof, when they came to see what the meeting meant raised and spent over $1000 to take care of every local detail. People from Lake Placid to Davenport swarmed, as they always now do at the call of the Associated Boards of Trade; and Sebring threw in its whole splendid band to complete the effort.

Color experts in England are advising all who have anything to do with advertising to study the psychology of color. Recent tests, they say, have proved that red, although it attracts attention, tires the eye too quickly. The eye is drawn away from red in much the same way as a finger that touches a red-hot stove. The proper method is to balance colors.

STATE FOREST SERVICE LAUNCHES NEW PROJECT

Firebreak Demonstration Outfit To Show Value of Work

A complete firebreak demonstration outfit is being offered to the members of the eleven Forest Protective Associations in Florida in a letter just released by State Forester Harry Lee Baker. The outfit consists of a tractor, plows designed for forest work, and a truck and trailer for transporting equipment. L. T. Nieland, former county agent in Flagler county will supervise the work. This equipment and the services of the tractor driver are being offered to turpentine operators and land owners of protective units at a nominal cost, according to the State Forester, in an effort to demonstrate the value of firebreaks on forest tract and to encourage individual initiative in firebreak construction.

One feature of the new educational movement is the sowing of carpet grass seed upon limited portions of the plowed strips in order to emphasize the possibilities of improved pasture with this practically non-inflammable and exceedingly valuable forage grass.

It is expected that the new project will start about November fifteenth on the Black Creek Forest Protective Association lands in Clay county and work westward covering the entire 1,172,000 acres now under protection in the state.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR NOVEMBER 23, 1930.

SUBJECT: The Rich Young Ruler.

GOLDEN TEXT: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." Luke 9:23.

LESSON TEXT: Mark 10:17-27.

The events of this lesson took place as Jesus traveled southward along the east coast of the Jordan River on his last journey to Jerusalem. In teaching his disciples Jesus said, "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein." That is, a true Christian will have the simple, trusting faith in God and Christ that the little child has in its parents or those whom it loves.

Today's lesson begins, "And when he was gone forth into the way, there came one running, and kneeled to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I do that I may inherit eternal life?"

Luke says this person who came was a "ruler," probably of a synagogue, and Matthew says he was "a young man." The kneeling to Jesus is said to have been the customary greeting of a layman to a rabbi. Mark and Luke use the question "What shall I do" to "inherit" eternal life? While Matthew says "what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?"

"And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God." Practically, Jesus asked "Do you address me thus through mere complimentary form, or do you address me as God?" If the young ruler were addressing Jesus only as a devout, able teacher, then he regarded him only as a man; but if he addressed him as "God," then he had recognized Jesus as the Son of God, and might accept him as a savior.

Jesus called his attention to the commandments, "Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Defraud not, Honour thy father and mother. And he answered and said unto him, Master, all these have I observed from my youth."

The young ruler was doubtless honest in his statement. Like many who are depending on their morality, he did not realize his real nature. It is so hard for a moral person to see the need of salvation through Christ. "Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow me."

Jesus saw the young man's wealth and that his love of wealth was his weakness.

The having of wealth need not be a bar to accepting and following Christ, but the love for wealth must not exceed the love for Christ. Before we can follow Christ we must be willing, if necessary, to abandon whatever stands above Christ in our love and desire. Therefore Christ demanded of the young man that he sell his property and distribute to the poor, that is, make the desire to love and obey Christ have first place in his mind and life. But the young man did not feel that way. He wanted both his wealth and eternal life through Christ's aid, But he was most interested in his wealth. He could not willingly surrendered that. Therefore when Jesus made that statement to him "he was sad at that saying, and went away grieved: for he had great possessions."

Failure to accept Christ is usually caused by unwillingness to surrender some one or two things. With that young man it was the love of his property. Jesus said "one thing thou lackest." But that one thing was sufficient to keep him from eternal life. "And Jesus * * saith, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God! And the disciples were astonished * * But Jesus * * saith unto them, Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches to enter into the kingdom of God! * * And they were astonished * * saying, Who then can be saved? And Jesus * * saith, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible."

It is not impossible for the rich to be saved through Christ. In fact, wealth may be so used as to advance its owner's spiritual life and also to spread the gospel and build up God's cause. Neither the miser nor the socialist has correct views on wealth. The spirit which takes the wealth of another is selfish and sinful, but the use of wealth to benefit one's fellow man is a compliance with Christ's command. But the love of wealth must not rise above the love of God nor the acceptance of Christ.

Be sure to study the standard requirements before selecting birds to enter in poultry shows.

RED DEVILS CONTINUE THEIR WINNING STREAK

Outplay Punta Gorda and Are Easy Winners By Score of 18 To 0

Avon Park's Red Devils took another game last Friday, as they defeated Punta Gorda at Cardinal field 18 to 0. The Red Devil second string team played about half of the game and were good enough to hold the visitors scoreless, but it took the first stringers to put over the punch that brought victory.

The Red Devils completed ten first downs to Punta Gorda's four although Avon Park fumbled four times to their once. The Red Devils were forced to kick only fourtimes during the game while Punta Gorda had to kick nine times.

The Red Devils are improving on their passes and completed three out of five, and showed strong on the offensive in breaking up passes, preventing five passes out of seven that Punta Gorda tried.

The game was featured by end running, and Avon Park excelled in this department. Epperson in six tries round end gained 82 yards and Sibley made 26 yards on two runs. The Red Devils made a total gain on end runs of 110 yards, and the two last touchdowns were made via the end route on ten and twelve yards gains respectively. Epperson carrying the ball both times. Maddox made the first touchdown over center plunging four yards for it. A pass and two end runs all failed in the three tries for extra points.

The Red Devils will play Frostproof next Friday at 3:30 at Frostproof. We beat them last year 18 to 0 and unless all signs fail it looks like a repetition is in order.

The game: First quarter--Punta Gorda kicked off. As they only kicked the ball ten yards they recovered it and the Red Devils held them and forced them to kick, but Avon Park lost the ball on a fumble and forced them to kick. Barwick caught Maddox's pass good for 20 yards. Avon Park kicked to Punta Gorda but on the next play Maddox intercepted a pass and they made a first down by busting the line and Barwick again caught a pass for a first down. The Red Devils got the ball within five yards of a touchdown, but lost the ball on a fumble, and Punta Gorda kicked out of danger as the quarter ended.

Second period—Barwick and Bostic made a first down and Maddox made six yards at right end and then one over right guard for four yards and a touchdown. Baldwin tried a quarterback sneak for the extra point but failed. Avon Park kicked off to Punta Gorda who returned five yards. They make one first down by bucking the line and on their fourth down they completed a pass good for another first down. Avon Park received the ball on down and Epperson ran 35 yards down right end and Sibley reeled off 15 yards around and a touchdown. They failed to make the extra point. Avon Park kicked to Edwards who returned 20 yards, but Avon Park held them and they kicked to Maddox who returned it four yards as the half ended.

Third period—Avon Park kicked to Punta Gorda on their 48 yard line. Baldwin intercepted a pass. An end run and another pass to Bostwick were good for 15 yards, but Avon Park lost the ball. Punta Gorda was unable to advance and kicked. Maddox hit center for 10 yards, but they kick and it was a touchdown, and Punta Gorda's ball on the twenty yard line. Roberts and Ebi threw them for a loss and they kicked to Avon Park. Maddox hit right guard for 11 yards. Avon Park made another first down, then fumbled and Punta Gorda recovered and the quarter ended.

Fourth period—Punta Gorda was forced to kick, Baldwin returning the kick ten yards and Epperson going right end for 15 yards. Maddox hit the line for 15 yards and Epperson skirted right end for twelve yards and a touchdown. A pass for the extra point failed. Avon Park kicked to the forty-five yard line. On two completed passes Punta Gorda gained 16 yards but on the next three plays Punta Gorda was thrown for a 14 yard loss, and kicked to Baldwin who returned five yards. Punta Gorda intercepted a pass on Avon Park's 17 yard line, but lost the ball after one first down and Sibley ran around left end for 11 yards, and Epperson made two end runs of four and six yards as the game ended, with the final score 18 to 0.

BOTH DIAMOND BALL GAMES GO TO SEBRING

Girls Win First Game 8 To 1 and Boys Take Advantage 10 To 9

The Sebring girls took the diamond ball game Monday night from the local girls' team eight to one in a five-inning game featured by lively hitting. The local girls were shy two players when the game started and were loaned these two by the Sebring players, Leona Jaeger did the pitching for Sebring and Verta Bradley hurled for Avon Park.

The boys' game which followed was a close contest from start to finish, the Sebringites taking the decision 10 to 9 in the ninth inning. The game was tied in the eight nine all. Sebring shoved over a lone marker in the last inning which was enough to take the game. In Avon Park's half of the last inning Jiggs Jackson came near tying the game with what should have been an easy home run, except for the fact that he tripped and fell down between third and home, and this fatal delay was just enough to allow the throw-in to catch him at the plate.

NEW CHEVROLET SIX IS WELL RECEIVED

Thousands Who Throng Show Rooms Impressed With Improved Model

Thousands of people who thronged showrooms throughout the nation last week to get their first view of the new 1931 Chevrolet commented particularly upon the features new to the low priced field achieved in the current line of Fisher-Chevrolet bodies.

First remarked among the new features are the increased size and roominess made possible by the longer wheelbase, while numerous other changes not obvious to the eye combine to make the bodies stronger, more rigid, and as completely squeak-proof as human ingenuity can devise.

A surprising amount of handwork goes into every individual body in the new Chevrolet series. In the application of the exterior finish, alone, 22 individual steps have to be taken along the line, ranging from the cleaning of the metal with an acid solution on through the glazing and wet-sanding operations, the dry-sanding and application of a mist coat, to the final Duco-ing, touching up and striping.

The combination steel-and-hardwood method of body construction, the most durable and desirable known to the industry, is continued, although with important changes at vital points. The new roof construction, for example, is now a separate assembly known as the slat-and-bow type, the strongest known to the industry. The bows, instead of being steam bent, are cut to shape so that they will retain their shape indefinitely. Double steel braces easily accessible for servicing, replace the wood strainers formerly used along the sides of the roof, and strong steel braces are now used at the corners to add to the roof rigidity. The roof structure is thoroughly padded to prevent drumming, and is covered with a material consisting of two layers of fabric bound by an inner layer of rubber.

Anti-squeak material in liquid, rubber dough or friction form is used between all steel braces and their respective wood parts. As a further aid to quietness, insulating material is used wherever wood touches metal.

Exclusive patent rights just obtained by the Fisher Body Corporation for a new type of spring never before used in automobile seat construction assure greater comfort for the passengers. The coils of these springs are larger, with strips of burlap running lengthwise to separate the rows of coils.

In the sedan 32 coil springs make the front seat unusually resilient, and 45 coils are in the rear seat, nine more than in the 1930 models. Over the springs is placed a thick layer of padding unusually durable and soft. The upholstery cloth is piped with another layer of padding, and the seats are trimmed with a "Turkish" front, with tufts and buttons ranged along the front side of the cushion, a style of trim which adds much to the tailored beauty of the interior.

For the greater protection of front seat passengers a layer of jute or felt, is vulcanized, this year, to the rubber floor mats, and an insulated pad covers the entire dash to keep out heat or cold and add to quietness. The mats in the rear compartments of the coach and sedans are a round wire tapestry type of great durability, and in the sport sedan the carpet has a high wool content with a new mottled pattern.

Option of broadcloth or mohair upholstery trimming is provided with every closed body in the new Fisher line. Curtains on all bodies have a high luster, and curtain tassels are provided in the special sedan and sport coupe.

All interior hardware has been newly designed and beautified. Exterior handles have the Protectalok feature which foils the would-be thief. Doors are locked from the inside simply by lifting the door handle.

Dome lights come with the coach, sedans and sport coupes. A highly polished robe rail is found in the sedan, while a silk cord type is used in the special sedan. Foot rests, comfortably located in all sedans and the coach, are regulated from the front seat adjuster.

Congregational Choir Will Render Te Deum, Thanksgiving Anthem

The Congregational choir chorus will sing the Te Deum by Jackson as the Thanksgiving anthem at the morning service, Sunday at 11 o'clock. A Thanksgiving sermon, and the great Thanksgiving hymns will be other enjoyable numbers of the service. This is the first occasion on which the choir has appeared in special work this autumn, and many in addition to the usual attendants will be glad of the opportunity of hearing them. On Sunday evening at 7:30 Dr. Vaughn will give the last of the series of parable studies under the title, "The Parable of the Perfect Family."
