

Here and There

About Avon Park

By W. M. Hetherington

The Mutual Crate Mill started this week and we hope that it will be mutually profitable.

If a poor boy rolls into town looking for a job give him a meal, give him a bed, give him a lift and help him along his way, but save the jobs for home folks who need them. This may sound selfish, but it will be best for him and for the home folks. Avon Park has a surplus of labor that needs all the work that is available. Many local people have been out of employment at least part of the time all summer, and now that work is picking up they should have the first call. Give them a fair break.

Referring back to green fruit shipments, we can say that so far Avon Park has clean hands. No fruit has been shipped from here thus far. There are some picked and hauled out of here this week, but not shipped from here. There is a state-wide movement against the shipment of immature fruit that may check these early shipments, who are able to get by on the technicalities of the present law. But however that may be, there is a greater law of right and wrong, of supply and demand, of confidence and deceit that will furnish plenty of check to shipments later on if the practice is further indulged in by shippers over the state.

We do not believe we will attend Lake Wales' Elatedfest. We are afraid we would not know how to behave at an Elatedfest. Later, if Lake Wales decides to put on an Elatedfest, a Convey, or a Shredfest, we'll be glad to assist—Avon Park Times. If you don't like our Elatedfest you are not welcome to see our TYCOWMY. Mebbe you'll like it better—Lake Wales Highlander.

Our pi stacker was working we would tell you where to go to.

For no reason at all we would like to know: Is the cover of this week's SE Post a daughter, the mamma or just a girl friend waiting for a street car.

Meat Inspection Ordinance Will Be Retained by City

There will be no change in the ordinance providing for meat inspection and regulation. At the meeting of the city council, it was decided at a special council meeting Monday night, after catlemen had expressed their approval of the present ordinance.

The meeting was called due to complaint of Mrs. H. E. Godwin at last week's council meeting, which was asked for a reduction of fees charged, and stated that the ordinance was costing them more than it was worth. Mr. E. Godwin was present at Monday night's meeting and though disapproving of the ordinance, stated that he was willing to abide by the majority decision.

Other catlemen present were, F. H. Skipper, Dick Skipper and William Lanker of Crewville, Finnis Wilkins of San Marcos, Gardner and Julian Montecosa of Fort Kissimmee, the latter representing the Lykes Brothers cattle interests on the Kissimmee river. He stated that the ordinance was one of the best things that was ever done for the catlemen by the city and said that it should be retained by all means. Catlemen agreed that the fee charged was not out of proportion to the work involved, and considered the charge reasonable.

Eastern Stars Are Invited To Be Guests Of Bowling Green

All chapters of the district are invited and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Four of the local officers will fill the stations at the meeting, and Mrs. E. E. Meiton is on the program for a reading.

All members having cars and expecting to go are requested to meet at the Jaccaranda at 6:30 this evening and motor over in a body.

ASKS PREFERENCE BE GIVEN TO LOCAL CITRUS WORKMEN

Norton T. Smith Makes Appeal For Local Workmen In Preference to Itinerants Who Will Throng State.

The home man should be given preference over the itinerant workman by grove men and packing houses employing help to handle the citrus crop this season, Norton T. Smith told Rotarians in an address on the employment situation before the club at its Wednesday luncheon.

The speaker said that unsettled labor conditions over the country and lack of employment would send thousands to Florida this winter who would be hunting work. The advance guard of the usual crop of itinerants had already begun to make their appearance, attracted to Florida by stories of better times down here, and lured here in the hope of finding employment in the citrus industry, he said. Many of these people will live in tourist camps and tents and get by on the cheaply that they will offer to work for almost any price that will furnish them the bare necessities, and as a consequence the home worker will be at a disadvantage unless local grove men and packing houses play fair with him, the speaker said. He asked that the local workman, who was a year round resident and many times a home owner and taxpayer, be given the preference by those employing grove and packing house help.

President J. S. Francis, who presided for the first time since returning from his extended vacation, made a brief report of the Chicago convention, attended by him as delegate from the local club, and he presented each member of the club a framed copy of "Objects of Rotary."

Visiting Rotarians were F. T. Haskins, P. G. Guist and Charles Beresford of Sebring, and R. W. A. Duncan, A. J. Starks and S. P. Clifford, of Frostproof.

Caldwell Replies to Sun Editorial on Limits Suit

Editor Times: In the issue of "The Saturday morning Sun" under date of Sept. 6th, I read the glaring headlines of that brilliant newspaper Editor of 22 year vintage under the caption on the first page "Ultimate Motive For City Litigation." Said article alleged that everything that his fertile mind can conceive, plus City Attorney, S. C. Pardee's answer to the bill of complaint deposited to Tallahassee to be filed before the Supreme Court.

In the mind of the Editor, as expressed under a column editorial "End is Near" he takes a few of us for a ride, using such paragraphs as this—"It is the damnable selfishness as this that clutters up the Courts and ties up the wheels of Justice, for it requires time to kick such balls as the Legislature, and the Public pays"; he further states in this editorial, if he sat on a Court to hear a case, and such misstatements were made, somebody would spend a few days in jail for contempt of Court.

As to me, I was during a recent trial of some Bankers at Sebring, he "flashed" the verdict of the Grand Jury which caused him to say "I am not a lawyer, but I am a citizen." Being a member of the Sun, he would not say such things. He is a citizen, and certain special privileges to wag his tongue, in an effort to create public sentiment against the most iniquitous piece of legislation that was ever put over a set of people, without their consent. The time this bill was put before the Legislature, and the members of the lower house, and the Senate that the citizens of Avon Park wanted this bill passed, without delay, "Senatorial Courtesy" did the job.

"I was fighting the annexation, together with a group of gentlemen, and I was not a lawyer, but I am a citizen." I was fighting the annexation, together with a group of gentlemen, and I was not a lawyer, but I am a citizen.

When we built the Mutual Crate Company, the President of that Corporation and myself were old if we located it at the present site, there would be no annexation to the City. We had that assurance from the "powers that be" at the time. Later on, when we built the Avon Manufacturing Company plant, the same assurance was given to us.

Dear Sir: I have read in the issue of the Avon Park Sun of Sept. 6th an editorial in regard to a suit that has been filed in connection with the city limits of Avon Park, and the editorial endeavored to place blame on the city, and on the President and General Manager of the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, and with the hopes of eliminating any blame on others who are parties to the suit.

The editorial was no doubt the outcome from a brain-storm that was the result of the action of the city, and he will be convinced in the proper way of the misstatements that he made, as such statements were not founded on fact, and were with the evident intent of misleading the readers of the Sun. Therefore I will let it rest with these few remarks until the matter is handled in a more effective way.

Will say further, that I was solicited by numerous tax payers in what is called the new territory to join in this suit, and before doing so, I had several conferences with the Mayor of the City who seemed very much concerned and felt that the matter could be handled in a different way, and leading to that, he agreed to have an appointment arranged for me with others to be held with the city council and City Council and try to get their cooperation in getting the tax situation adjusted without litigation.

I am too busy to get into a controversy with the learned Editor-in-Chief, but, it being my day of rest, I am giving this to the thoughtful people of the city, and may have something more interesting and a little more sensational to say later.

J. A. CALDWELL.

Walker Makes Statement of Position in City Limits Suit

Editor, Avon Park Times. ANSWER FILED IN CITY LIMITS SUIT BY CITY ATTORNEY

Benefits To Property Owners Shown In Answer To Claim In Bill That New Territory Receives Nothing for Taxes

City Attorney S. C. Pardee has filed an answer in the Supreme Court to the original bill as presented by attorneys for Avon Florida Citrus Corporation and others represented in the suit to reduce city limits.

In his answer the city attorney sets forth general and specific benefits enjoyed by property owners in the city as a result of the charges in the bill that no benefits have been received by the new territory. As a prelude to the answer the attorney gives a brief history of the founding of the city of Avon Park and the growth of the city leading up to the present action.

Among these benefits are cited a police department, furnishing protection to residents of the city, especially to the crate mill section, which is part of the territory petitioned to be eliminated from the city. The answer further states that a special mounted police has been furnished for the protection of fruit producers against the loss of fruit by theft.

The answer calls attention to the first department, goes into detail as to equipment and states that the introduction of the present fire fighting organization and equipment, which cost the city a single year from $50,000 to $70,000. The answer shows that in the new territory there were 38 fire alarms in 1929, 32 in 1930, and 39 in 1931. Among these are cited fires at Pine Crest Lakes, Avon Manufacturing company, Mutual Crate company and numerous residences which are named, all of which are in the new territory.

Other benefits specifically pointed out are the St. Johns highway lighting, highway streets and roads and their maintenance, city parks, city chamber of commerce, health department, etc.

Quoting from the answer under the heading of "The Status of the Citizens of the State," the answer states:

"There are 184 names of Citizens who are holders of some interest in citrus groves purchased originally from a corporation known as the Pittsburg-Florida Citrus Corporation, which was founded in 1927; was sold out under mortgage foreclosure and the property bought in by a committee representing the holders of the mortgage. This committee incorporated as the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, which, in its charter, provided that in its suit, if successful, it was to be succeeded by the Pittsburg-Florida Citrus Corporation. The Avon Florida Citrus Corporation since 1926 have been receiving money yearly from property owners who originally purchased from them, for the payment of city taxes, aggregating a large sum of money, which money was not however turned over to the city of Avon Park, but was retained and is still retained, unlawfully, by the Co-Relators, the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, without the knowledge of the said owners."

"In January 1930 the city council instructed the city attorney to proceed with the immediate collection of all delinquent taxes, which of necessity required the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation to pay to the city the tax money which had been placed in its hands for that purpose and which these property owners have been remitting since the year of 1926."

"These respondents allege and affirm that the real purpose of the respondents in this case is to effect, despite in the matter of turning over to the city the monies thus received by the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, a complete and total expropriation of the tax money which is operated by certain nomadic residents who are actually aliens so far as concerns community interest and integrity."

"The Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, in furtherance of this scheme to delay the payment of taxes to the city, dispatched several communications, under the name of the Avon Park Tax Payers Association, an organization which is in the city of Avon Park since January 1928, and

NUMBER OF CASES HEARD IN COUNTY COURT THIS WEEK

Charles Krause, Jr., Out On Bond Pending Appeal To
Circuit Court

County Judge M. C. Whitehurst had two full days with court on Monday and Tuesday and a number of cases were disposed of. The fine and forfeiture fund was swelled by the bonds estranged, some cases were nolle prossed or dismissed, several defendants pleaded guilty and some decided to take their chances before a jury. County Attorney J. M. Lee handled all the cases for the state.

In the case of the state vs. Charles (Gussie) Krause, Jr., who was charged with fornication, the court room was crowded with everyone except interested parties. Attorneys S. C. Pardee of Avon Park and M. R. McDonald of Sebring defended the defendant in a constant barrage of objections raised by both sides with the court overruling a number of those interjected by the defense. After the hearing of the evidence the jury deliberated but a short while before bringing in a verdict of guilty. The defendant is at liberty under a $500 bond pending the filing of an appeal to the circuit court.

Krause was also charged with parking without lights and pleaded guilty to this and sentence was suspended in this case.

Leola Gaylord was also arraigned on a statutory charge and was found guilty by a jury and received a sentence of 90 days in jail. G. A. Gregory, charged with driving a car without the proper license, was found guilty and assessed $25.00 and costs or 60 days in jail. The defendant claimed the car in question was not his and belonged to another party and he had been working on it and had driven to the filling station for gas and oil when apprehended by Deputy Sheriff W. C. Mathis.

J. W. Belcher, charged with having an improper license tag, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.00 and costs or 60 days. John Lewis, colored was charged with possession of moonshine. Deputy Mathis said he saw the defendant hide the bottle of alleged shine, and which was produced in court, in a slop bucket at the rear of the kitchen where he was working. Lewis denied this but the jury found him guilty and he was ordered to pay $25.00 and costs or spend 10 days as the guest of the county.

S. F. Newton from down Venus way was charged with the possession of homebrew. He was ordered to pay the costs in the case and the sentence was suspended on account of his family.

Florida May Basher, colored charged with stealing a sum of money from another negro, was found guilty and ordered to pay $100.00 and costs or spend 90 days in jail.

Richard Ellis was charged with using profane language and entered a plea of guilty. His sentence was suspended.

The charge of parking without lights against T. F. Meeks was dismissed.

Ed Scrivens was charged with operating a motor vehicle without proper lights and was acquitted by the jury.

Lenward Waldron, charged with reckless driving, entered a plea of guilty and was assessed $25.00 and costs or 30 days.

Lamar Wise was charged with operating a motor vehicle on the highway with a steel tire. His plea was guilty and he was fined $10.00 and costs or 30 days.

G. Pearce was charged with operating a motor vehicle without a proper license. It appeared he had a North Carolina license on the car and had only been in this state about 10 days. This case was nolle prossed on motion of Attorney J. M. Lee.

Other cases and their disposition were:

Noah Whidden, charged with having an improper license tag, case passed temporarily.

SAY RAILROAD RATES ARE UNREASONABLE

Hearing Held In Lakeland
Last March By the
I. C. C.

Because of protest filed by the Interior Florida Traffic Bureau, W. P. Bartel, director, Interstate Commerce Commission, has held and proposed that the Commission to find that the rates on shipments of sulphate of alumina (paper makers' alum), ground iron ore, mortar color, ochre, lead and zinc compounds, and hot water and steam radiators from points in the official and Southern territories to points in the peninsula of Florida are unreasonable and unduly prejudicial to the extent that they exceed class rates contemporaneously maintained to and from the Florida peninsula on other articles of commerce.

T. C. Elliott, traffic manager, Interior Florida Traffic Bureau, advises that the hearing in the above case was held in Lakeland by Director Bartel in March of this year, at which time able assistance was given in the presentation of the case on behalf of the shipper interests by the traffic units of the Tampa Traffic Association, St. Petersburg Chamber of Commerce, and the Miami Rate and Traffic Board.

Mr. Elliott also states that in addition to the above mentioned items the carriers have since that time published similar rates to apply on shipments of muriatic acid, baking and yeast powders, sulphate of barium, clay furnaces, fruit pectin, sulphate of magnesium, phosphate of lime and dried beans and peas bond estrated.

R. E. Williams, driving without proper license, bond estrated.
Wayne Maynard, assault, bond estrated.

Wallace Agnew, entering into a contract to defraud, nolle prossed.

E. R. Mills, operating a motor vehicle without a proper license, bond estrated.

Cynthia Richardson, possessing moonshine, bond estrated.

Two juries were summoned and served during the various trials. One consisted of L. T. Johnson, R. C. Davis, J. Winston Kelsey, G. G. Budd, James O'Brien and George Layport. The other jury was made up of W. C. Waldron, A. A. Bates, David Stuckey, Robert Adams, Otto Skipper and J. C. Newton.

The case of Perry Drawdy, charged with larceny was set for tomorrow morning at 9:30. Another criminal case and some civil cases are also set for tomorrow.

DUSKY BUDDYS CAPER IN WAR

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, Prove There's Fun at Front

Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, will be shown at the Avon Theatre, Avon Park, Monday and Tuesday, in a sure-fire laugh production called "Anybody's War."

Based on the novel, published several years ago, "The Two Black Crows in the A. E. F." by Charles E. Mack, leader of the team, "Anybody's War" is so richly endowed with excruciatingly comical material that its makers could have made two full length pictures out of it, had they a mind to. They have packed "Anybody's War" so full of mirth that it seems to overflow, from start to finish, in lavish out-pourings of jocosity.

The story, as you would suspect, deals with the adventures of the two dusky comedians in the trenches of France. It opens with scenes in the quaint little town of Buford, Tennessee, where Mack is the official Dog Catcher, an office-holder who is so kind-hearted that he never kills the dogs he has captured. Instead he takes them to his little shack and boards them there, hiding them in the cellar whenever a higher official from the town pays him a visit. Moran is seen as his side-kick who gets soldier-fiever and joins the recruits for the big scrap overseas.

Mack tries to enlist but is thrown out because of his feet. Picking up Stuffy, his favorite canine companion, he sneaks aboard the transport from his wife. Pringle has been ill for seven years, and to get the benefit of unemployment relief three years ago, he married a second time.

Meanwhile Joan Peers, daughter of an aristocratic Southern family of Buford, and Neil Hamilton, her telegrapher boy friend, manage to get overseas as a "Y" entertainer and a lieutenant respectively. The fortunes of their love forms the romantic thread that holds the comedy capers of Moran and Mack together in a loosely woven plot fabric. Of course the lovers are happily united at the finish after their exciting adventures.

But it is the classic art of Moran and Mack's clowning that gives the picture its chief raison d'etre. Whenever they have something to say or do in the picture, the audience has something to roar about. Their discussion of the Sad Fish is priceless grand; Mack's scene in the potato bin is a gem; the X-ray business with the pair of dice is a panic—in fact "Anybody's War" is everybody's fun; a riot that sends you home with laughs and grinnings.

STATE COLLEGE NAMES 32 NEW FACULTY AIDS

More Than 150 Instructors
Now Listed For Tallahassee
see Institution

Tallahassee, Sept. 10.—Thirty-two new faculty members and other instructors have been engaged for the coming year at the Florida State College for Women, the college management announced. With these instructors, of whom four are filling new positions, the faculty list now includes over 150 members. Twenty-three of the new appointments will serve as professors and instructors, three as librarians, two as nurses in the college infirmary, and one each as a registrar, social director, graduate assistant, and stenographer. Of the 23 on the teaching staff, six hold doctor's degrees, 10 master's and six bachelor's. One is a graduate of the New York School of Fine and Applied Art. The new officials are from many sections of the United States, only eight having Florida as their home State.

The college management has made no changes in the more outstanding instructorships such as the deans of the schools or heads of departments, such officials having been found to fit in admirably in the administrative affairs in years past.

The college is scheduled to begin operations this year on September 15 when the freshmen are to be registered for class work. The older students will take up their work on September 18. Indications are that this year's enrollment of students will be about the same as that of the first term last year, approximately 1600, the management said.

It is better to be right (here) than President—of a South American republic.

Haven't heard much hard times talk of late—and that's the first unflinching sign that good times are in the offing.

Add tragedies of prohibition: A ship named Louisville was christened by a Kentucky girl—with a bottle of spring water.

Some Plant City people report having seen a white buzzard the other day. Bet there was a little white mule not far away.

The French fliers got $25,000 for making the Paris-New York-Dallas flight, but that wasn't the principal Coste of the crossing.

The reason taxes are piled on gasoline is that, regardless of price, the great American family must have its gasoline, whether it has food or not.

Maybe Edgar Wall slipped down into the Caribbean and hurled a bomb into that hurricane while it wasn't looking. If so, here's our vote of thanks.

The Times-Union says: "Lake Wales Highlander reports ten babies in one issue of the paper." Gee, that must have been a big issue—how many pages, Avery?

There is little reason to believe that Editor Eberhardt ever had a thought of killing the Governor. He lambasts His Excellency most enthusiastically, but then, hard words break no bones.

Florida could live up to its name and beat the world in floriculture. Gladiolus, caladium and lily bulbs are being grown successfully on a considerable scale in many parts of the State.

Our forecast for the season: Lots of oranges, lots of strawberries, lots of truck, lots of tourists and lots of money. All of these are better lots than are lots of lots we went crazy about in '25.

Every paper spells this Elsteadoff thing a different way. We had too many d's in the d—thing last week, but this time, if the lino-type man backs us up, the spelling is that approved by Mr. N. Webster.

It will be a great thing when the government projects in the Okeechobee section are completed, and the whole State will not hold its breath in terror of disaster every time a storm is reported in far southern waters.

It was the Tampa Tribune, we believe, who offered as a national ticket James W. Cannon for president, and Aimee Semple McPherson for vice-president. We suggest Amos and Andy and the Four Marx Brothers as members of the Cabinet.

We are a little leery about visiting Jacksonville. They arrested a man up there the other day, charging him with vagrancy, and found $20,000 in his pocket. They released him, but we might be sent up for life if they searched our pockets.

We are looking for headlines in the northern papers blaming the destruction of Santo Domingo on a "Florida hurricane." Of course, Santo Domingo is a greater distance from Florida than Canada is, but that makes no neverminds to the boys who like to put Florida in the headlines.

A majority of prominent American clergymen participating in a symposium conducted by a Chicago magazine, declare that prayers for rain are futile. All the same, when it gets dry enough, these same ministers doubtless will be brought to their marrowbones. Sincere and earnest prayer never hurt anything yet.

Mussolini's plan of dealing with terrorists—binding them to chairs, backs to a firing squad, and perforating them with bullets from 56 gunners—might be a good idea for dealing with our gangsters and racketeers. Of course, over here, the firing squad might be in the pay of the gangsters, and the bullets might have no effect except to cut the cords binding those it was proposed to execute. That is, of course, in the unlikely event that the corruption pervading our whole police and official system ever allows gangsters and racketeers to be brought that near to punishment.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND CHARITY.

It would be interesting, if anybody could find out, to know how many families and individuals in the United States habitually live on charity.

Poorhouses are disappearing. In most sections of the United States the town pauper is a thing of the past. But there are hundreds of thousands, perhaps a million, of grown-up people who do little or no useful work, who get nothing which can be measured in dollars and cents, and still manage to survive, somehow.

The nation-wide agitation of the past few months over the unemployment situation has revived interest in this subject and has disclosed some interesting and peculiar conditions. The total number found to be out of jobs, when compared with the total number usually employed, showed a wide discrepancy. Investigators, particularly in the large cities, discovered that most of the unemployed didn't really want work. They either wanted a particular kind of work, which was not available at the time and place, or they wanted charity.

In several parts of the country large farmers were trying to get labor, and were willing to pay high wages, but the unemployed of the cities would not go to the country.

In all probability more real distress and suffering has been caused by the wide-spread drought than by the industrial slump which followed the Wall Street crash. There are more people on the verge of starvation in the drought-affected districts than were brought to that condition because of unemployment.

This is a situation in which charity is called for. In many instances, the policy under which the Federal Government is planning relief measures will mingle charity with business-like methods. Federal funds will not be given away loosely, nor will they be lent on insufficient security, if President Hoover has his way about it. Each case of suffering will be judged on its own merits. A man's neighbors know what sort of a man he is. If he is shiftless, a poor farmer, the type which can never get ahead, it would be a waste of public funds to lend him money with which to get a fresh start. Better let the Red Cross take him and his family to food enough to tide them over until he can get another job. That is charity.

But the farmer who owns his land and will put it up as security for a loan from the Federal Farm Loan Board, or whose neighbors will endorse his notes to the Federal Intermediate Credit banks, is on a different footing. He is entitled to a loan, and will be able to pay it back in time.—Safety Harbor Herald.

FOR BETTER TIMES.

A statement from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, says that there has been no increase in unemployment during the past few weeks, and he believes that this fact probably "forebodes the fall increase in industrial activity." Roger W. Babson, who predicted the paralysis of the stock market last fall, has just issued his first bull statement in which he advises careful buying of sound stocks (whatever those articles may be). Frequent official statements from high sources have been coming along gradually from Washington, and many of the country's leading manufacturers and financial chiefs have prophesied good times ahead. The fact that Green and Babson have joined their voices to the "cheerful chorus" furnishes encouragement to the multitudes who have been patiently waiting, as a character in Dickens' novel said, "for something to turn up."—Lake Wales News.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH.

Our tax worries would end if the government could find some way to tax foreign bootleggers who come over to this country to organize gangs and spread a reign of terror in our big cities, and at the same time collect millions of dollars from the thrifty public that should go into the coffers of the government.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

FOR BUYERS AND SELLERS.

Almost every inhabitant of Frostproof has been told that it is his or her duty to "trade at home." There is much in the idea, but the theory often advances that it is always of one's interest to buy at home in half-baked.

The business of Frostproof includes a selling duty as well as a buying duty. The selling duty rests as a buying duty. The selling duty rests upon the brain and experience of Frostproofers here. It is their duty, if they wish this section to prosper, to be efficient in their business, to bring to the people here bargains of value and to give them service that cannot be duplicated elsewhere without additional expense and delay.

The Frostproof News has always urged its readers to patronize alert business houses here, but it has also pointed out to the local merchants that they have an obligation in the matter. We do insist that "trading at home" is the best policy for any community, but only when sellers as well as buyers assume the joint obligations that such a policy entails.

Readers will thereupon ask the question: "What retailers in Frostproof are performing their full duties as sellers?" We cannot answer the question, but we can indicate that there are some merchants who are on their toes, who keep their stocks up to date, who are modern in their stores, who advertise their attractions and invite new customers are generally the best ones to deal with.

Here and there you will find an exception and there may be a few in Frostproof here in the long run buyers can rely upon the firm that cries out to the world that it has the goods, that it gives the service and that it meets competition. Such a firm deserves your support.—Frostproof News.

CULLING THE CULLS.

Statistics show that Florida's 1929 citrus crop was greater than any similar Florida crop recorded in the past ten years. The turnover was quicker, and the best part about the entire project was the fact that the recent and flourishing condition can largely be attributed to the interest of Florida's own citizens in this great crop.

All these facts have been brought out before, but a new fact in connection with this great industry is made known in the announcement that 75 percent of the Florida citrus fruit growers have already pledged their entire crop of culls to by-product concerns thus insuring the majority of the growers against the dangers which surround the shipping of what may be termed undesirable fruit. This pledge of culls includes the next five years and each year the percentage of growers signing the pledge increases.

It is only a question of time before the Florida growers will have united under this system and thrown up an effective and impenetrable wall against all fruits within the cull class.

However, the cull fruits are not necessarily bad or spoiled products. Culls, in the common use of the word, are those fruits which will not enhance the marketable value of the whole crop. They constitute the small or odd-shaped fruit, the blemished product. Although these culls are often just as juicy and sound as the first choice fruits, they are not as acceptable to the eye and often their presence on the market serves to detract from the advantageous marketing of the first-class product.

Consequently Florida's citrus industry is on a sounder, more business-like basis than it has ever been before.—St. Augustine Evening Record.

WHAT THE CENSUS TOLD.

The Industrial Index, of Columbus, Ga., "sympathizes" with Florida. "Poor Florida"—it has suffered so much during the past decade. Yes, Florida has been wrecked and ruined to the extent that it could only reach second place among the 48 states in percentage of population gain. It has lost so heavily that it increased only 51.4 percent in population during that period. It has been crushed and crippled so utterly that it ran almost neck and neck with California in population gain, leaving the other states far in the rear.

The Index, in pointing out how Florida has silenced its critics by its great census showing, proceeds to show that, if it is claimed that percentage gain doesn't mean much, then the industrial population census is interesting. "Poor Florida" gained 47,499 persons in 10 years, and only 10 other states had larger increases in the actual count of heads or noses. Florida was third in the South, exceeded only by Texas and North Carolina, in the actual number of new residents, and 11th in the whole country. So the Index concludes: "Condolences are in order, and in both respect and affection, we affix this bit of crepe."—Clermont Press.

EARLY CITRUS SEASON.

"Everybody says your business is better this week" said a barber to us a few days ago as he whittled off the rough edges of what hair we have left.

There's a good reason. Dawn is about to break after a rather dark night over the country. Prospects for a good winter in Florida were never better. Citrus fruits are ripening earlier than usual and the people are going into a market that will want them all season. Canning plants for the first time in Florida's history are demanding all the odd sizes that are available and probably will be taking standard stuff before the season is over.

This week packing houses opened and started business in several counties, among them Dade, Lee, Sarasota, Manatee and DeSoto. Some of our own Parson Browns here in Lake county are nearly ripe enough to ship and will be in the game this month. Production over the country has been cut by drought in some of the trucking industry should thrive this season as never before, taking the aggregate.

Everywhere we look there is a bright prospect ahead. Why shouldn't everybody be looking more cheerful?—Leesburg Commercial.

THE latest endurance contest is between some of the fruit shippers to see which can ship enough immature fruit to kill the market for Florida fruit.

IF Argentine wants to attract much attention, let her revolutionists had better make it snappy, as the World's Series opens the first of the month.

B. P. W. C. Women Make Merry.

What is considered one of the most successful affairs of the Business and Professional Women was held Thursday afternoon and evening, Sept. 4, at Pine Crest Lakes Club House when the clubs of Wauchula, Sebring and Avon Park joined in a picnic. A swimming party at five o'clock was the beginning of the jolly time and gave the women an appetite which caused them to pile up their plates with the delicious and delectable food spread out in abundance on the long table in the club house dining room, cafeteria style. Meat loaves, sandwiches, salads, deviled eggs, drinks, pies, cakes—in fact everything that is needed on an occasion of this kind. The supper was followed by music, dancing and last, but not least in any sense, a talk by the President of the State Federation, Mrs. Hortense Wells of Tampa, on the duties, responsibilities and accomplishments of chairmen of the various committees, National, State and Local.

Former Red Devils To Play With State College Grid Teams

Two former Avon Park Red Devils will covet on two different Florida football teams this fall if Freddie Wild, Red and White star fullback last season, enters the University of Florida which he hopes to do.

The Gator coach, Charles Bachman, has been dickering with Wild since the conclusion of the 1929 season.

The other is Jimmy Davis, who is slated for the fullback post with the Southern College (Lakeland) Moccasin squad. In the story in Sunday's Tribune written by Harris Sims, instructor of Journalism at Southern, states that: "Jimmy Davis, an Avon Park boy weighing 185 pounds is being counted on heavily by coaches Hood and Kimbrough to fill the fullback post this season."

"Little John's" grave at Hathersage, on the outskirts of Sherwood Forest, in England, was visited recently by 20,000 members of the Ancient Order of Foresters. One hundred foresters in costume were in the procession, which was headed by the High Chief Ranger, Arthur Marsden, of Derby. He was accompanied by the Sheriff of Nottingham, one of whose predecessors took part in suppressing Robin Hood and his followers. A floral bow and arrow were placed on the grave.

Fred Simpson May Report To Red Devils Squad This Week

Fred Simpson, substitute fullback on the Red Devil squad last season is expected to report for the workouts this week and will be primed for one of the backfield positions.

With "Plunge" Maddox being counted on heavily for the fullback post it is likely that Simpson will be given one of the halfbacks posts opposite Cameron Epperson, veteran halfback.

Simpson has had some experience in the field behind the line while substituting for Frederic Wild last season. In the Sebring game on Thanksgiving Day Wild was removed from the game late in the first quarter and Coach Carmichael, Red Devil mentor, was forced to substitute Simpson, who although he failed to carry the ball, showed up well in giving interference for Durrance, Epperson and Roberts.

"Boots" McRaney, who entered school here at the beginning from Oklawaha has attended the daily workouts and the Coach may be forced to use him at one of the guards, which are yet to be filled.

Wealthier classes of Arabia have indicated a preference for French classical music, while the natives cling to marches and Oriental chants.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR SEPTEMBER 14, 1930.

SUBJECT: Jeremiah; The Prophet of Individual Religion.
GOLDEN TEXT: "Every one of us shall give an account of himself to God." Rom. 14:12.

LESSON TEXT: Jeremiah 1:1-10; 14:22; 31:21.
TRUTH: In the matter of salvation no individual can take another's place.

Jeremiah was a son of a priest at Anathoth about three miles from Jerusalem. His father was Hilkiah, but not the high priest mentioned in our last lesson. The Lord told Jeremiah that he was selected before his birth to be a prophet. He protested, saying, "Ah, Lord God, behold I cannot speak for I am a child." That statement meant that he was only a young man and inexperienced. The Lord said, "Say not, I am a child; for thou shalt go, and whatsoever I shall command thee thou shalt speak." Similar humility and modesty were shown by Moses, Gideon, Saul and Solomon. Jeremiah began prophesying in the thirteenth year of King Josiah, of whom we studied last week. He continued to prophesy through the reigns of Josiah, Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin and Zedekiah, and after the Jews were taken to Babylon. Jeremiah was forbidden to have a wife or children, Jer. 16:1. "Thou shalt not take thee a wife, neither shalt thou have sons or daughters." The Lord said to Jeremiah, "Be not afraid of their faces; for I am with thee to deliver thee." Jer. 1:8. "Go," said the Lord, "and speak the words which I command thee. And, lo, I am with you always."

Jeremiah's task was to denounce sin, destroy idolatry, root out immorality; but he was also to plant and to build. One's criticism should be constructive as well as destructive. "Happiness is far more fruitful than grief." "Remember that you are God's property," his gifts are not yours to keep. "At the command of the Lord Jeremiah prophesied, 'In the gate of the house of the Lord, in the gate of the children of the people, whereby the kings of Judah come in.' 'In the court of the Lord's house,' at 'The house of the king of Judah.'"

Our lesson passes from the first to the thirty-first chapter, but the intervening chapters give much of Jeremiah's teaching. In speaking to the Jewish church, which had lost the true spirit of worship, God, through Jeremiah, said, "If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow and shed not innocent blood, neither walk after other gods, then will I cause you to dwell in this place," but this promise was not to be fulfilled until the Jews returned from Babylon. "Will ye steal, murder and commit adultery, and swear falsely, buy and sell for Baal, and walk after other gods? and come and stand before me in this house," and so on. "I will cast you out of my sight," and to Jeremiah God then said, "Pray not thou for this people; neither make intercession for them; for I will not hear thee."

Looking beyond the captivity of the Jews, and upon the destroyed cities and country, Jeremiah said for the Lord, "I will sow the house of Israel and the houses of Judah with the seed of man and seed of beast." So will I watch over them to build and to plant." However much God's people may wander away from him, yet, if they repent and return, he will watch over them and bless them. In the olden times the tribe or family was the unit of civilization, and the whole family was punished for the sins of one. Thus, they "Took Achan," his sons and his daughters, and all that he had, and stoned him with stones, and burned them with fire." But Jeremiah announced a new rule, "Every one shall die for his own iniquity."

Ezekiel 18:20, says "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father; neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son." Then Jeremiah announced the new covenant, "I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah." "I will put my law in their inward parts; and will be their God and they shall be my people." "they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord; for I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more." Jesus completed this covenant for us.

CITRUS MEN CONDEMN GREEN FRUIT SALES

Mass Meeting In Winter Haven May Result In New Green Fruit Legislation

Citrus growers, shippers and officials of the clearing house and citrus exchange in a mass meeting in Winter Haven Monday unanimously condemned the shipment of grapefruit "unfit for human consumption" and pledged support to Nathan Mayo, state commissioner of agriculture, in steps he might take to end such shipments. Mayo appointed a committee of 18 growers, shippers and business men to aid him in working out new regulations governing the shipment of early fruit.

The fruit men were assembled by Mayo to give him their views on conditions this year which have caused complaint that fruit unfit for eating, though it passed the technical maturity tests, was being rushed to northern markets. He sought the support of the fruitmen in measures to stop these shipments of fruit that might injure consumer confidence in the quality of the 1930-31 Florida crop. More than 300 attended the meeting.

Jack Worthington, attending the meeting from Lake Wales, gives expression to the sentiment of the meeting in the Lake Wales Highlander, as follows:

"Mayo and various other speakers were frank about the situation which is that as much damage is right now being done to the market as though there was unrestrained shipping of green fruit.

"The very dry weather in July and August has left fruit with little juice but plenty of solids. The ration of acid tests can be met by a great deal of fruit which, when it is cut into, contains little juice and only a lot of dry pulp almost like rice in its makeup. Put makeup in the coloring room, it turns a beautiful color and looks like good fruit but when cut into the customer will find that he has been 'stung' again. Thirty-eight cars of such fruit were shipped last week, and many more are in packing houses. If unrestrained shipping of such fruit will utterly ruin the market until after Christmas and Florida fruit shippers will again be stigmatized as crooks.

"Growers and shippers agreed with Mayo that the situation was very bad. Some shippers who were sending out such fruit said growers owning it insisted on its going to market though they knew it was not fit for food.

"Mayo asked what he should do and got the unanimous reply that if he could stop such crooked work he ought to do it. Attorney General Fred Davis expressed the opinion that Mayo might be able to stop the fruit going out under the clause which permits him to refuse certificates to fruit he regards as unfit for human consumption. That he will have the full co-operation of the responsible elements in the industry if he does this, was made plain and it will probably be the course adopted."

Lon Raulerson Dies In Jacksonville

Lon Raulerson, former Avon Park resident, was found dead in the bath room of his Jacksonville home Tuesday morning, death apparently resulting from apoplexy. Raulerson was raised in this section and is well remembered by old residents, though he has been living in Jacksonville for the past ten years or more. Word of the death was received here Tuesday by Albert Raulerson, a brother, who has just returned after an absence of several years. The deceased is also survived by another brother, Clayton Raulerson of Frostproof, a wife and two sisters, Mrs. E. L. Dunn, Wausatcha, and Mrs. Ruth Cleve, Tampa.

Door Substitute
When bedrooms are tiny, closet doors may have to be omitted. The old-fashioned way of treating the closet opening was to hang a loose curtain in front of it. The new fashioned way is to hang a roller shade made of oil cloth or glazed chintz in the doorway. It may be necessary for the housewife to make her own shade, in order to get one long enough, but that is easily done if she buys a first-class roller, and is extremely accurate in making the measurements and in tacking the fabric to the roller.

paper to reflect upon me as much as possible.

The editor of the Sun and City Attorney apparently thought they would be a little more sensational to select one individual for making this attack on in connection with this suit, and they decided that I should be the victim, and this is to say that I will handle this matter in the proper way with the proper force at the proper time.

As to the allegation that the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation has collected city taxes and failed to turn the money over to the City, I wish to say that every grove owner has been notified of the fact that city taxes on his or her grove had not been paid due to the pendency of the suit to test the validity thereof and all money sent to us has been accounted for to the parties sending it and is a matter between suit parties and this company.

Possibly the arrangements carried out by the City with the Highland Lakes development company were satisfactory to both parties, but they failed to state that the benefits enjoyed by the Highland Lakes development were not enjoyed by any of the properties of the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, and where the Highland Lakes development had a water-works system with fire protection and same are being paid for by the City, the properties of the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation do not have those benefits and the outlying groves should not be required to pay taxes for the up-keep of the benefits enjoyed by other outlying sections of the city.

As to police protection, will say that I have never known that we needed such protection or that the city had contributed in any way towards policing our properties, either in connection with the people who live on the properties (and will say that we have a very law-abiding set of employees), nor can I find anyone on the properties who has any knowledge that the City ever furnished any police protection in connection with guarding our groves against theft thieves, and the only policing that I can find any evidence of is that a marshal or a deputy marshal was commissioned to take up and impound stray cattle, and I understand that his fees were paid by the cattle owners and not by the City.

And further, there is no city street lighting within possibly one-half mile of any of the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation properties, and where the City pays for lighting in some outlying sections of the City, the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation has had to furnish its own lights for its own properties.

Will say that the school children living on our properties attend the schools and we are paying our full share of the school taxes out of the pockets of those schools, which go to the County and is not a part of the City expense.

The article in the Sun mentions money spent by the City on the streets adjacent to and on the properties of the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, and this is to say that I can find no evidence that the City has spent as much as $50,000 in that connection, and if anyone will inspect the street lighting from the entrance of our groves to our Packing House, he will see that the principal work done on that street has been done at the expense of this company.

However will say that there has been very little work done this year but we will very soon have to spend considerable money in repairing that street in order to move our fruit trucks over it. However, such street is outside of the old city limits and we are perfectly willing to repair same without expense as it is not under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners because of the fact that it is in the city limits and that is one point that the tax payers on outlying grove properties are overlooking, which is that any properties within the corporate limits of the city are not under the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners. Therefore we are being deprived of any benefits from the County road funds and are receiving no benefits from the monies paid into the city for such purposes.

It is generally supposed that the editor of the oldest paper in town and the City Attorney would feel that they had the support of the city administration and the merchants and business men of the town when making an attack on an individual such as they have seen fit to make on me. Therefore it places me in a very unpleasant situation but I hope to be able to carry on my own affairs and will continue to do so for the interest of those whom I represent and who are associated with me in business.

Would like to say that the "dig" was evidently intended for me in saying that the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation is operated by certain nomadic residents who are actually aliens so far as concerns community interest and integrity, and such statement is uncalled for and not justified, as I have lived in the same home for 30 years and been in the same line of business, which might not be the case with those who have made this statement.

As to the statement by the City Attorney regarding the taxes assessed against this company, will say where he uses $16 per acre as taxes against certain grove plots in Section 5, he fails to tell you that most of that property is swamp land and has never been planted in trees, and he further fails to tell you that our taxes on other grove plots were much higher for 1926 and were increased in most instances from 200% to 300% in 1928, and without any assurance that they would not be possibly doubled or tripled for 1929 and 1930, and this without any benefits being derived from the city by those properties.

Yours very truly,
C. H. WALKER,
Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

with which neither the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation nor its officers nor agents had any connection whatsoever, inviting property owners in the new territory to join the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation in having declared void and unconstitutional the city charters of 1929 and 1927. This letter portrayed the enterprise as one of such transcendent merit that it was entitled to their unstinted support, especially in a pecuniary way—and they were modestly requested to contribute towards the costs of the suit and the attorney's fees. Those respondents are informed, believe, and allege that many of the co-relators were constrained to enter into the case by reason of the positive statement made by the Co-Relators, Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, that unless they did so the enterprise would be a failure, since the charters are good as to all property within the city limits or but as to all property represented in this suit or not.

"An inspection of the information shows that out of 232 Co-Relators 33 are residents of an insignificant number, considering that the new territory has a population of 1500, the majority of whom are property holders, and practically all of whom were urged to become parties to this suit."

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that distraint proceedings will be initiated for collection of delinquent taxes on personal property and privileges.

This announcement I make with great regret, since it is no pleasure to the city officials or to the city attorney to collect taxes by means of a levy upon and sale of personal property of taxpayers.

However, it affirmatively appears that these taxes will not be paid upon simple request; nor does the urgent need of the city for money move delinquent taxpayers to settle their accounts.

There are those who are unable to pay, but who would pay if they could; and there are those who are able to pay, but who will not pay. It is the last named condition which makes it necessary to undertake collection by levy and sale against both classes, whereas payment by those who are able would perhaps operate as a respite for those who are not.

S. C. PARDEE,
City Attorney.
