First Dinner Dance at Highland Lakes.

One of the most beautiful dinner dances of the season was the one given at Highland Lakes on Thursday evening of last week.

This affair was the formal opening of the hotel to the winter guests.

The dinning room and lobby were attractively decorated with mistletoe and vines. The beautiful chandeliers were shaded with pastel colored crepe paper which lent an effective color to the affair. The individual tables were arranged with shaded lamps and the large party tables had several tall lighted candles. Flame vine, fern and callendulas carried out the other decorative ideas very effectively.

A delicious seven course dinner was served to the many guests. Mrs. Paul Stanton's orchestra played for the dancers during the evening.

Several innovation dances were featured, ballon dances and spot dances for which prizes were given to the lucky ladies.

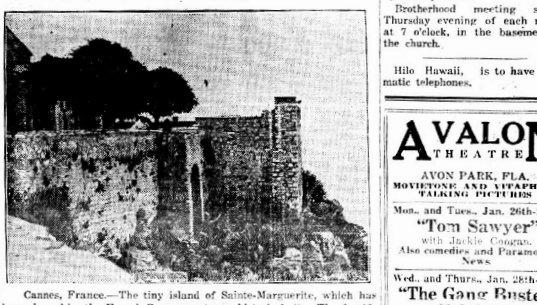
The Isle Which the Man In the Iron Mask Made Famous



Cannes, France.—The tiny island of Sainte-Marguerite, which has been classed by the French Government as a historical site. The fortification was constructed in the reign of Richelieu and was enlarged under the Spaniards in 1636. It is here that the Man in the Iron Mask was imprisoned and who for many years was thought to have been the twin brother of King Louis XIV. It is now conclusive that he was the secretary of Charles IV, Mattioli, a duke, and was arrested after having betrayed the confidence of Louis XIV. The mask was thought to of been made of iron, but since has been established as having been made of velvet.

Photo shows the cliffs along the fortification in which some stories claim the Man in the Iron Mask descended towards the sea with the help of a rope.

Grove, Farm and Garden

DON'T ECONOMIZE ON NITROGEN TO CUT COST

Wet Season Causes Leaching and Nitrogen Must Be Supplied

Gainesville, Jan. 21. — Citrus growers who are trying to economize in grove expenditures were recently warned that nitrogen is a limiting factor in citrus production, by E. F. DeBusk, extension citriculturist, who was speaking from state radio station WRUF. He explained that this winter's heavy rainfall means that much of the nitrogen that usually accumulates in the soil during dry winters has leached out. Growers should not wait for the foliage to show a need for nitrogen, but should give an ample supply of some quickly available form immediately to enable the tree to bloom and set a heavy crop of fruit.

Experiments conducted by the Florida Experiment Station have shown that the amount of potash may be varied from three to 10 percent, and phosphoric acid from three to 25 percent, with about the same results, but that when nitrogen varies, production varies accordingly. DeBusk explained that this may be due to a phosphate and potash reserve that has been built up in the soil, while no nitrogen has accumulated. Analyses have show that citrus fruit production takes nitrogen, phosphorus and potash from the soil in about a 4-1-5 ratio, while the ratio for tree growth is about 4-1-4.

He stated that phosphoric acid may be left off for the year and potash may be omitted in the spring application without impairing the quality of the fruit or injuring the trees, but that the trees must have ample nitrogen if they are to grow and set fruit.

The nitrogen equivalent of one pound of nitrate of soda, or ¾ pound of sulphate of ammonia, is required to produce a 100-pound box of citrus. A 19-year-old grapefruit tree has been found to contain in its entire makeup the nitrogen equivalent of about 30 pounds of nitrate of soda. When using these facts as a guide for applying nitrogen, remember that some nitrogen will be lost, by leaching. One to two pounds of nitrate of soda, or ¾ to 1½ pounds of sulphate of ammonia, per box capacity is not considered excessive for the spring application, and it is not necessary to work this material into the soil for best results.

He stated that nitrate of soda, sulphate of ammonia, calurea, or calcium nitrate may all be applied liberally without danger, provided excessive cultivation is not practiced, and cover crops have supplied organic matter.

Destroying Weed Blossoms Prevents Damage By Thrips

Thrips, though scarce at present, have plenty of time to develop in large numbers, and cause many citrus blossoms to drop as well as scar young fruit, J. R. Watson, entomologist at the Florida Experiment Station, at Gainesville, recently explained. Unless the crop of bloom is scarce, blooms that are caused to drop will do little harm, but the ugly scars that the thrips are likely to put on the fruit about March will lower its grade. These scars resemble those made by the wind, except that they are smooth and somewhat sunken. They are permanent, and rather conspicuous.

January and February are the proper time to take precautions against these thrips. He explained that spraying for them is expensive and not entirely satisfactory, and that a much cheaper way to combat thrips is by destroying weeds in which they hide and breed. The citrus grove is almost the only breeding place of thrips, and they prefer to hide in blossoms that have rather small crannies into which they can crawl. They do not like blossoms which produce a large amount of nectar. One of their favorites is the white blossomed Spanish needle, or sticktight. Spanish bayonet is another favorite. A two months' period beginning row, in which weed blossoms are kept out of the field will practically limit thrips numbers to those which fly in. Thus weeds should not be allowed to blossom anywhere in the grove during this period.

Thrips do considerable damage to roses, causing the petals to drop before they mature. In the rose garden the best means of control is a thorough cleanup. All old roses should be picked and the new buds should be sprayed with nicotine sulphate. One part of nicotine sulphate to 700 parts of water, plus a pound of soap, for a spreader, to each 10 gallons was recommended. Certain commercial spreaders will allow the use of less nicotine than soap. Weeds in the vicinity of the garden should be cleaned up to prevent reinfestation.

Thrips do about the same damage on tomatoes and chrysanthemums, both of which are more easily reached by the nicotine spray than the citrus bloom.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

THE UNKNOWN FARMER

Someone, at a recent meeting of the national Farm Bureau Federation at Boston, suggested that a monument be erected to the Unknown Farmer, in order that fitting tribute may be paid to this unsung benefactor of humanity. Such a monument may or may not be erected at some time in the distant future. However, the editor of American Farming was moved to quote a tribute which has been proposed by Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, the wife of an Indiana farmer. Mrs. Sewell's tribute is worthy of repetition. Here it is:

"The unknown farmer lives and dies a life of service for others unheralded and unsung. Legion is his name. He lives in your country and mine. He dwells on the plains of the Texas Panhandle and in the farthest recesses of the Kentucky mountains.

"This unknown farmer doesn't amount to much. He doesn't make a great deal of noise. He is seldom acclaimed in the headlines. Public speeches are a bit out of his line. He flies no red flags. He lives unobstrusively. At elections he votes his convictions. He is one of the great average.

"No monument has ever been erected to this unknown farmer. He really doesn't figure very big. All he does is feed and clothe the world."

Movable Breakwaters Work.

Tests of movable breakwaters in protecting bathing beaches, have met with success along the Baltic coast in Germany. They are of concrete and in small units resembling baffle plates. Imbedded in the sand a short distance from the shore line they cause the receding waves to build up sand behind. The breakwaters are gradually moved farther out until the beach has been extended as desired.

Java now has 1,897,00 acres of teakwood.

FUMIGATION CHECKS DIARRHEA IN CHICKS

Fumigation of Incubator During and Between Hatches Is Recommended

Recent discoveries have shown that bacillary white diarrhea is an air-borne disease, and that it may be transmitted to baby chicks while they are still in the incubator. In the incubator the air becomes filled with dust particles and dried down, which become infected and are inhaled by uninfected chicks.

Dr. E. F. Thomas, assistant veterarian with the Florida Experiment Station at Gainesville, recently recommended fumigating the incubator to check the spread of this chick malady. Cleanliness in the hatchery and incubator is essential, and a maximum of moisture in the incubator reduces the circulation of infected down and dust, as well as makes the fumigant more effective. A wet bulb reading of 85 to 90 degrees F. is desirable at the time of fumigation.

The incubator should be fumigated and thoroughly cleaned between hatches, and then about three times at eight-hour intervals during the time the hatch is coming off. All dry chicks should be removed before the second and third fumigations during the hatch, but the gas does not seem to injure moist young chicks nor eggs. Fumigation between the first and fourth days of incubation seems to lower the hatch.

The material used to make the formaldehyde gas is 40 percent commercial formalin, and for each 100 cubic feet of incubator space 35 cubic centimeters of formalin is used with 17.5 grams of potassium permanganate. The permanganate should be placed in a vessel in about the middle of the incubator, and the formalin added. The vessel should be about five times the size of the mixture so that the solution will not boil over. The incubator doors should be closed immediately, and should be opened in 20 to 30 minutes, except that still-air incubators should be kept closed for one hour.

He explained that this fumigation only destroys the infection with which it comes in contact, and is not a substitute for testing the breeding stock for bacillary white diarrhea.

Florida Beef Cattle Industry Is Making Rapid Development

The beef cattle industry in tick-free areas of Florida seems to be developing rapidly, and along the lines of permanent pasture and purebred bulls, W. J. Sheely, extension agent in animal husbandry, recently stated after attending several district conferences with county agents.

He stated that in Marion county, Jim Taylor, Ocala, has already secured 2,000 pounds of grass seed to be planted in the near future, and plans to get 3,000 pounds more. The Model Land company is now fencing 2,000 acres near St. Augustine, and will sow it to grass seed. The Meade-Bach Construction company last year put in 150 acres of carpet grass and lespedeza in Taylor county, and this year have ordered 7,000 pounds of seed for planting more pasture. The Putnam Lumber company recently made plans for sowing 500 acres of pasture in Dixie county.

One hundred hens, laying heavily, will transpire three or four gallons of water as vapor in a day. The non-layers will give off about half this much.

Listening at a farm radio program is a fine way for a farmer to spend his noon rest period.

To Feature Bee Exhibit at the So. Florida Fair

Bee exhibits at the South Florida Fair, to be held at Tampa February 3-14, will be larger and more helpful than ever before, according to R. E. Foster, apiary inspector with the State Plant Board, who is in charge of arranging the exhibits.

This time the bee show will be an all-state show with no competitive exhibits coming from out of the state. Around $600 worth of cash prizes are being offered in the different honey and bee classes. The United States Department of Agriculture will again show a complete, but remodeled, exhibit that traces honey from the flower to the consumer. Talks and demonstrations are scheduled to be given throughout the fair.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Weekly from Home Demonstration Specialists, Tallahassee

CITRUS JELLIES.

While citrus fruits are plentiful the housewife should be busy preserving some of these health-giving delicacies for later use. Jelly is one of the many delicious home products into which citrus fruits can be made.

Kumquat Jelly.

The jelly is made by adding one pound of sugar and two pints of water to each pound of kumquats. Clean thoroughly, and sprinkle with soda, using one tablespoonful of soda to each pound of kumquats. Cover with boiling water and allow to stand for 10 minutes.

Pour the water off, and rinse through three changes of water. Cut the fruit the long way, place it in a kettle, with two pints of water for each pound, and boil for 30 minutes. Pour into a cheesecloth bag and press until no more juice can be obtained. Strain this juice in a flannel jelly bag, pour in a kettle and bring to a boil. Then add the one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, and boil until the jellying point is reached; that is when the syrup flakes or sheets from a spoon as it cools. Pour immediately into sterilized glasses and seal.

Take the mashed kumquats remaining in the bag, add a pint of water for each original pound, and boil for 15 minutes. Repeat the above method, except adding half the amount of sugar, and another extraction of jelly can be made.

Sour Orange Jelly.

This jelly is made from one pound of peeled sour oranges, one pound of sugar, and two pints of water. Remove the yellow part of the peel from the oranges, leaving the white, since it contains pectin. Weigh, and cut into small pieces. Add two pints of water for each pound, and boil until the fruit thoroughly disintegrates—about 20 minutes. Pour into a cheesecloth bag and press, then re-strain the juice in a flannel bag without pressing. To this juice add one pound of sugar for each pound of fruit taken, and boil to the jellying point.

Grapefruit Jelly

Grapefruit jelly is made the same as sour orange, except that ¾ pound of sugar is used with each pound of fruit.

Two Friends of Farm Progress Pass Away

Two friends of agriculture and staunch supporters of county agent and agricultural extension work in Florida recently passed away. They were J. O. Singletary, county commissioner of Polk county, who died at Fort Meade January 12; and Frank Brown, clerk of the Duval county court, who died at Jacksonville, Jan. 13.

The Agricultural Extension Service has expressed its appreciation for the services of these two friends of rural progress.

The best fertilizer for tung-oil trees seems to be a 5-8-5 mixture, according to recent tests at the Florida Experiment Station, at Gainesville.

THE HOUSEWIFE FIGHTS WITH SUGAR BOWL TO KEEP LABOR EMPLOYED

The American housewife, always on the firing line to help in time of trouble, is again called upon to assist in keeping American labor employed and to overcome the increasing hardship brought about by unemployment.

This time her help is most vital —comes at a time when most needed—and comes without cost or penalty to her.

Her weapons are the sugar bowl and spoon. Her fight is based on keeping her sugar bowl filled with sugar refined in the United States, by American labor, and under sanitary conditions, supervised by the laws governing the manufacture of pure foods, known throughout the world to be the best.

This clarion call for cooperation is sent out on account of the unfair advantage given to the Cuban refiners over the American refiners in the Tariff Bill just recently passed. In this Bill a subsidy is given to the Cuban refiner of three cents a hundred pounds, as he can export and enter into the United States 100 pounds of granulated sugar for three cents less duty than the American refiner has to pay when importing raw sugar and manufacturing it into refined. This saving, unfortunately, is not passed on to the American housewife. She usually pays the same price whether the sugar is refined in this country or abroad.

This un-American and unsatisfactory situation brought about by the Tariff Bill which was passed last summer, amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars to the United States refiner, when one considers the hundreds of thousands of tons of refined sugar imported, because of this two cents preferential given to the Cuban refiners, but when this differential is reduced to the per pound price to the housewife, it is so fractional that it is lost to her.

The loss to the refiners in the United States of hundreds of thousands of tons of sugar to refine, due to the influx of foreign refined sugars, causes the refiners in this country to lay-off labor and add to unemployment without any gain or saving on the part of the American housewife.

The tariff law charges a duty of two cents per pound on the raw sugar imported from Cuba to be refined in this country. The same law puts a duty of $2.12 an hundred pounds on sugar refined in Cuba and imported into this country. But, under the most favorable conditions, it requires 107 pounds of raw sugar to be refined into 100 pounds of refined sugar in the United States, which means to get one hundred pounds of refined sugar in the United States, there is a duty cost of $2.14, or 2 cents a hundred pounds more than the cost to a Cuban refiner.

In 1925 only 25,000 tons of foreign sugars were sold in this country, but in 1929 it had jumped up to approximately one-half million tons, and some state that over one million tons will be sold in this country the next two years without one cent of saving to the American housewife, and with the additional penalty of reducing the output of refiners in the United States, which in turn will cause thousands of laborers to become idle.

Over 80,000 workers and their families are dependent on the refineries in the United States for a livelihood, and if the output of their employers is reduced, either their wages will be reduced, or their number will be reduced, without any benefit to the housewife.

By demanding that her sugar come from refineries located in the United States, employing American labor, and refined under sanitary conditions in this country, unemployment can be avoided and conditions returned to normal in this industry.

Many have pointed out the fact that the United States is appropriating hundreds of millions of dollars on one hand to aid the unemployment situation, and on the other, give foreign competition a subsidy which will permit an import duty to established industries that will beget increased unemployment.

Calhoun and Pollard Arrested Tuesday On Liquor Charges

The sheriff's office is congratulating itself on the arrest of W. H. Calhoun and J. K. Pollard on a charge of illegal possession of moonshine liquor which was effected about 6:30 Tuesday evening on the Hooker Hammock road by Deputies L. C. Pearce and Lamonte Wolff. It was stated by Deputy Wolff that they had been on Calhoun's trail for sometime and he was alleged to have made the statement that he was immune from arrest.

The officers had been informed there was a five gallon jug of liquor concealed under a palmetto clump near the hammock road and it would be picked up at a certain time. They lay in wait near the spot in a downpour of rain and arrested Calhoun and Pollard when the jug was being transported to a waiting automobile.

Both the accused men were taken to the county jail and were later released under bond of $500 each.

St. Paul's Catheral Safe.

FIVE CROWDED DAYS AT ORLANDO FEB. 24-28

Central Florida Exposition Will Stimulate Visitor and Resident

Five crowded days, rich in new sights, stimulating alike to the visitor to Central Florida and the resident who has watched its development in the last 10 years await the visitor to the Central Florida Exposition, which opens in Orlando February 24.

Each day will be devoted to some particular phase of Central Florida's activity. Opening Tuesday, Feb. 24 with a gala parade and celebration at which Governor Doyle E. Carlton will be honor guest, each day will bring those representing different interests to the Exposition.

Wednesday will be known as All States Day in recognition of the thousands of winter visitors who annually participate. All visitors to the Exposition will be asked to register, giving their home state and city, and each will be given a badge indicating the home state. Special features for the benefit of visitors will distinguish this day.

The third day is to be devoted to Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club work, and will be featured by demonstrations of work done by girls of the home demonstration clubs of Central Florida. Boys and girls poultry club work will have special recognition on this day, and a series of short pageants will be staged by the 4-H girls in front of the grandstand in the afternoon. This featuring of home demonstration and 4-H club work is a distinctive note of the Central Florida Exposition not stressed by any other fair in the state.

Saving the best to the last, Exposition officials have designated Friday as Carey Hand's Big Day when more than 7,000 Orlando school children, accompanied by four bands and entertainers from the Johnny J. Jones carnival and Hoaglan's Hippodrome will march down Orange Avenue and into the Exposition grounds as personal guests for the day of Carey Hand, Orlando business man.

This feature, sponsored by Hand for the last three years, promises to attract an even larger group of children than ever before in the Exposition's history. Mayor Mayo will be an honor guest on this day and will be present for the second annual Editor's Press breakfast, when editors of Florida will gather at o'clock that morning as guests of the Exposition and the Orange County Chamber of Commerce for a press breakfast lasting far into the wee small hours of Saturday morning.

This press breakfast, inaugurated last year for the first time, created such widespread interest throughout the state that it has been incorporated as a permanent feature of the Exposition. Throwing aside the cares of editorship, the publishers and editors of Florida's newspapers will besport themselves informally, indulging in much satire and wit at the expense of their fellow men, much in the manner that Washington newspaper men annually take part in the meeting of the famous Gridiron club.

On Saturday, the last day of the Exposition, will witness some of the fastest auto races ever run on a dirt track. Preliminaries for the races will be run off Tuesday afternoon, and the finals in which world champion drivers in the world will compete, including Sig Haugdahl, who has held the world's championship for dirt track racing, are expected to furnish some real thrills.

Deer Invade Villages.

With a heavy snow in the Highlands of Scotland, deer have come down from the mountains in search of food, and are invading the villages. If the heavy weather continues the animals will have to be hand-fed. Otherwise there will be a heavy death rate.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FOR JANUARY 25, 1931.

SUBJECT: Jesus Tempted.

GOLDEN TEXT: "For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted. Heb. 2:18."

LESSON TEXT: Luke 4:1-13.

SCRIPTURE TO BE READ: Luke 3:21 to 4:30.

CENTRAL TRUTHS: Jesus was really tempted to do wrong; temptation, sin and evil can be overcome; the best method for overcoming temptation.

TIME OF LESSON: A. D. 27, place wilderness of Judea.

"Satan himself claimed to have larger powers over the kingdoms of this world (Luke 4:5, 6). Three times Jesus called him the prince of this world. Paul spoke of him as 'the prince of the powers of the air, of the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience' (Eph. 2:2). Having this character and these powers Satan is at this time working havoc with human life in the individual and in the social group."

Jesus was baptized by John when he was 30 years old, which was the age at which the priest took up their work in the Jewish church.

After his baptism Luke (3:22) says: "And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased." "And Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness." This wilderness was and is "a long, narrow district, thirty-five miles north and south and ten miles east and west, lying along the western side of the Dead Sea.—This is one of the driest and dreariest regions in all the land."

"Being forty days tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended, he afterward hungered." A writer says, "We must be on the outlook for satan when we are alone. * * Stand clad in your fullest armor when alone." And yet the strongest spiritual impressions come to us in solitude. Dr. Lyman Abbott wrote, "The infinite always reveals himself in silence. In the most impressive manifestations of power it was the still small voice that spoke with final authority."

THE PHYSICAL TEMPTATION.

"And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread. And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God."

You will notice the "Ifs" in satan's suggestions, "If thou be the son of God,' was intended to suggest a doubt. But Jesus assumed that fact and replied, "It is written." Forty days fasting and increasing hunger would cause food to be a temptation, but Jesus quoted from Deut. 8:3, "Man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live."

II. THE TEMPTATION OF AMBITION.

"And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time. * * If thou therefore wilt worship me all shall be thine."

It seems true that satan can furnish much of this world's pleasures to entertain and seduce his followers; but most of those who have traveled with him have known that "the wages of sin is death," and that at last most of his pleasures "biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." Such was the reward here offered by satan, power, riches, worldly glory.

But Jesus said, "Get thee behind me, satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." The rewards for such worship and service may seem delayed but are certain to come to those who accept and follow Christ.

III. THE TEMPTATION TO SUCCEED BY WRONG METHODS.

"And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down * * For it is written, He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee: * * least at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone. And Jesus answering said unto him, It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

It is said that from the top of one side of the temple to the bottom of the cliff on which it was built was about 700 feet almost straight down. Jesus refused to use his supernatural power to advance his personal interest, and said to satan, "It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God."

Then the devil * * departed from him for a season." But often he returned to tempt Jesus, as he will often treat you.

CHEVROLET CONTINUES ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN

6,700 Newspapers Used To Announce New 1931 Car In November

Another aggressive advertisement campaign, with newspaper display columns carrying the brunt of the attack, is promised for this year by R. K. White, advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Long one of the nation's leading advertisers, the Chevrolet organization lent its endorsement to the pulling power of the newspaper by using 6,700 dailies and weeklies to announce its new 1931 car in November, the largest newspaper schedule ever used by Chevrolet in one campaign since the inception of the company. This move was made despite sub-normal business conditions and the generally slackened promotional activities of manufacturers in and out of the automobile industry.

"We made this move," Mr. White explained, "because we are in direct accord with the frequently expressed view that the only way to make bad business good and good business better is to put abnormal effort into your activities when you face sub-normal conditions.

"Not only did we carry the largest newspaper schedule we ever used, but we enlisted new forms of advertising to put our new car message across. Both the radio and the motion picture screen were added this year. Both are new media in our program, and both were added because a manufacturer with a national market intensively cultivated cannot afford to overlook any new means of approach to that market.

"We are continuing to use the radio and the screen to supplement and buttress our newspaper campaigns just as we have always used national magazines, outdoor boards, direct mail and other media for the same purpose.

"The newspaper, however, continues to form the backbone of our campaigns, and for the present will continue to do so. It, in the parlance of the gridiron, carries the ball and the rest run interference."

Rae Samuels Finds the Theatre Is Coming Back Into Own

Houses for Legitimate Will Again Dot Land, She Declares

New York City.—All this talk about the passing of the American legitimate theatre is bunk, says Rae Samuels who as the "blue streak of vaudeville," has toured every town and hamlet in the U.S.A.

"The public wants good shows just as much as it ever did," she declares. "For a time all our playwrights became scenario writers and now they are doing talkies. What we need now is a new crop of writers and then you just watch the public step up to the box-office.

"In vaudeville, the same situation holds. Good acts always get over. I think that in a few years from now there will be more legitimate theatres than ever and more houses playing vaudeville.

"The theatre is an integral part of our life and the personal touch with the audience can never be supplanted.

"Music, too, needs a lot of coming back. For a while all of our writers did nothing but theme songs, simply because 'Ramona' made a fortune for its writers. The country wants good novelty tunes and sweet ballads. 'Sweetheart of My Student Days,' comes as near to being what the public demands as anything I've heard. It carries you back to life's happiest days and does it in a deliciously tuneful manner."

Miss Samuels, one of the few stars of the stage who has not succumbed to pictures, is one of the best loved singers.

Organization Work of Eisteddfod Being Handled Minus Cost

Answering an inquiry in regard to the cost of organization work in connection with the Eisteddfod, the following quotation is taken from a letter from Grosvenor Dawe on the subject:

"You are invited, or even requested to explain to the public through those who sell tickets that no one is receiving any salary in connection with the very elaborate organization work which is being carried on from this office. Every cent coming from the sale of tickets will be expended for the needed equipment to attract the attention of the Highlands, of Florida, of all our winter visitors, and of musical people generally in the United States to the musical, dramatic and literary culture of our Scenic Highlands. Enthusiasm directed towards the first Eisteddfod in the history of the Scenic Highlands will justify second and later efforts, and it is hoped to establish permanently a great cultural enterprise of pleasing character in this favored part of Florida."

"Tom Sawyer" Will Delight the Kids and Grown-Ups at Avalon

FAMOUS ARTIST WILL PAINT PARK SCENES

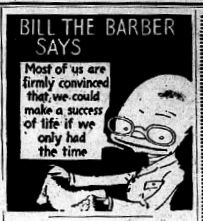
Road In Park Closed; Two Deer Presented By A. R. Updike

Ernest Lawson, the celebrated painter who visited this section in November, was especially charmed with Highlands Hammock and plans to return here in a few weeks with his easel and brushes to put onto canvas some of the picturesque beauty of the jungle.

Mr. Lawson, whose studio is in Washington Square, New York City, has painted old Spanish cathedrals and towns, Hudson river scenes, wild western views, many ice and snow pictures and will now show in oils bits of Highlands Hammock where palms and oaks intermingle. Mr. Lawson's canvases hang in many fine galleries at home and abroad and have been accorded places of honor in the Paris Salon.

The road to the hammock is now closed for several weeks while the asphalt is being put in the mile and a half stretch of main entrance.

The hammock maintenance force is finishing up a deer house for the two deer presented by A. R. Updike of Brighton. The shed is built of material in the park and thatched all over with palm leaves. These deer will tame the wild deer in the park which are now very shy.—



The central highway in Cuba is to be completed in February.

...SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

By GRACE VIALL GRAY

BROWNIES ARE FAVORITES

There comes inevitably in every little girl's life the moment when her sense of hospitality is aroused and she will want to make something all by herself to serve the little girls who are coming over to play with her in the afternoon. Mother will undoubtedly be appealed to and, if wise, will suggest the ever-favorite "brownies," sometimes referred to as baked fudge.

Brownies have the advantage of being extremely simple to make, nutritious but not over-rich, and are always greeted with murmurs of delight.

If the following simple directions are followed, good results can be expected, even by the little girl who has had no previous experience. Remember that all measurements should be level and accurate. By using self-rising flour, no baking powder nor salt is required, as these ingredients have already been added in just the right proportions by the manufacturer before you buy the flour. Such flour is easy for children to use. There is no measuring and mixing of baking powder or salt and success is easily assured. The flour needs only one sifting.

Little girls have to have tea parties. They like to prepare cookies themselves. This is possible by using self-rising flour which takes all the guesswork out of baking. This little hostess is serving to her guests grape punch and brownies made by herself with ready-prepared flour or self-rising flour.

Brownies.

½ cup butter
2 squares or oz. cooking chocolate
1¼ cups sugar
2 eggs
½ cup self-rising flour
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup nutmeats

First add the butter to the chocolate and melt over hot water. Add the sugar and eggs, unbeaten. Beat until well blended. Then add the remaining ingredients in the order given and when well mixed pour into a greased and floured cake pan to the depth of one-half inch. Bake in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) until quite firm but not brown. Cut into squares while still warm.

These may be served with a beverage such as lemonade or grape punch, or in the place of cake with ice cream if a more substantial collation is desired.

THE AVON PARK TIMES

PUBLISHED IN THE METROPOLIS OF THE RIDGE SECTION OF FLORIDA

VOLUME II.—NUMBER 49. AVON PARK, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 1931. PRICE: FIVE CENTS.

Here and There About Avon Park

By W. M. Hetherington

The sheriff has issued orders to his deputies to go out and get automobile drivers who are operating cars with improper license and without proper lights. 1930 license tags are few and far between, and certainly ample time has been allowed in which to secure new tags. The other form of violation on which a drive will be made—improper lights—is a menace to every driver on the road, and the sheriff will have the approval of the public in its suppression. One-eyed cars and cars without tail lights present a danger to the motoring public that should not be tolerated, and if the sheriff's forces are successful in their drive they will be ruled off the road after the first.

The annual financial statement of the chamber of commerce shows a cash balance at the end of the year of nearly $400, which indicates that there has been some mighty good management in the organization's affairs, considering the limited amount of money provided for the year's operations. When a chamber of commerce of any man's town winds up the year with a cash balance, the accomplishment is worthy of more than passing notice. The secretary and directorate stand in danger of being drafted by Big Business to show how it is done.

The re-election of ten of the past year's directors constitutes a vote of confidence on the part of the membership that was unquestionably deserved. Any of the others appearing on the ballot would have given their best thought and efforts to the advancement of the organization's work, but it was impossible to elect them all. Without disparaging the other ladies and gentlemen whose names were proposed, we believe that a splendid set of directors have been chosen—and more power to them.

Chamber of commerce members showed their appreciation of the splendid public service rendered by Mark Covington by making him high man in the director's election Tuesday. Mr. Covington has been active in beautification work, his latest efforts being directed to cleaning up and improving the cemetary. He was lately appointed park commissioner and in this capacity will have the opportunity of rendering further service in keeping the mall a beauty spot of which Avon Park people are justly proud. Certainly, the high vote given him was richly deserved.

Some twenty-five entries have been determined on for Avon Park's participation in the Eisteddfod, competitive musical and literary festival that will be held in Lake Wales March 4th. Every town in the Scenic Highlands is reported to have entrants for this great event, which is enlisting the support and cooperation of lovers of music and literature throughout this section. Avon Park is fortunate in having some excellent musicians, both vocal and instrumental, who should make the competition worth while for the rest of the towns of the Highlands.

Caldwell Says No Steps Taken For Removal of Mill

Referring to his interview in the Winter Haven Chief recently, reproduced in last week's Times, J. A. Caldwell, general manager of Avon Manufacturing company, stated: "There is nothing further to say just now in regard to removal of the mill from Avon Park to Winter Haven, other than was quoted in the Times. No steps have been taken up to this time and the matter remains in status quo."

INJUNCTION STOPS DISPOSAL NOTES IN RUSS LUMBER DEAL

Receiver of Avon Park and Sebring National Banks Is Successful in Stopping Disposal of Notes.

A temporary injunction was issued Monday by Judge W. J. Barker, restraining the Highlands Securities corporation and A. A. Skipper, both of Sebring, and Harry Foster and George Flint, both of Philadelphia, from disposing in any manner of four promissory notes given by the Russ Lumber company, aggregating $60,000 and payable to George Flint and Harry Foster for the purchase of timber from the DeSoto Land and Lumber company.

The defendants are further restrained from assigning, transferring or selling 500 shares of stock of the Mutual Crate company issued to Harry Foster and George Flint.

The restraining order was issued on petition of A. W. Doepke, as receiver for the First National banks of Sebring and Avon Park. The court denied the receiver's petition to have a receiver appointed for the DeSoto Land and Lumber company.

The receiver's petition asking for the temporary injunction alleges that the DeSoto Land and Lumber company prior to May 1, 1929, held and owned 500 shares of the capital stock of the Mutual Crate company, and all of the timber in township 36 south, range 28 east in Highlands county; that the defendants, Harry Foster and George Flint owned and held all the preferred stock and more than fifty per cent of the common stock of the DeSoto Land and Lumber company, and that they exercised absolute and exclusive control of the affairs of the corporation; that the said Flint and Foster, without authority sold the timber in township 38 to the Russ Lumber company, and received notes aggregating $60,000, payable to them in their individual capacities and took as security for the balance of purchase price, a mortgage deed upon the timber.

The petition further alleges that Flint and Foster took possession of the corporate stock owned by the DeSoto Land and Lumber company in the Mutual Crate company, and had the stock assigned to them personally, and caused the Mutual Crate company to issue new stock for the 500 shares to them individually.

The petition further recites that the sale of timber lands and the corporate stock of the Mutual Crate company constituted a transfer to George Flint and Harry Foster as individuals, of the entire assets of the DeSoto Land and Lumber company, "and such transfers, complainant charges, were made without any consideration whatsoever to the DeSoto Land and Lumber company, but were made solely for the purpose of hindering and defrauding the creditors of the said DeSoto Land and Lumber company."

The petition further alleges that the notes of the Russ Lumber company and the stock of the Mutual Crate company have been transferred to the Highlands Securities corporation, without any consideration in furtherance of the original plans of Flint and Foster to place the assets of the DeSoto Land and Lumber company beyond the reach of its creditors and to confiscate and appropriate the same for their own use and profit.

Under the temporary restraining order the Highlands Securities corporation, C. A. Skipper, Harry Foster and George Flint are enjoined from transferring or assigning the notes of the Russ Lumber company and the certificates of corporation stock of the Mutual Crate company issued to Harry Foster and George Flint for 500 shares of stock, or for any other shares of stock of the Mutual Crate company, or from in any manner interfering with or disturbing the status quo of the stock. The Russ Lumber company is temporarily restrained and enjoined from paying to Flint and Foster, C. A. Skipper or the Highlands Securities corporation any sums of money due on the promissory notes of the Russ Lumber company. N. H. Trent, as receiver of the Mutual Crate company is restrained from in any manner disturbing the present status of the capital stock of the Mutual Crate company issued to Harry Foster and George Flint or other defendants, and from issuing any new certificates or transferring said stock upon the books of the company. The Highlands Securities corporation and other defendants are temporarily restrained and enjoined from receiving from the Russ Lumber company, or its agents, any sums of money payable by virtue of the promissory notes given by the Russ Lumber company to Harry Foster and George Flint.

Sheriff's Office Orders Arrests For All Light and Tag Violations

The word has been passed from Sheriff Oscar E. Wolff to his deputies to begin making arrests of all operators of motor vehicles with improper tags or lights on and after February first. Coming under the head of improper tags are last year's tags, truck tags on passenger cars and vice versa, and no tag at all. Practically no arrests on these charges have been made as yet, this year, and the sheriff believes that ample time has been allowed the public to secure new tags, but from February first the law will be strictly enforced, according to orders given to his deputies.

In addition to tag violations, sheriff's forces have been instructed to arrest operators of cars with improper lights. A drive will be made against cars with one head light and no tail lights, in a campaign to force off the road violators of this nature.

Eberhardt Fights Jurisdiction of Highlands County Court

Tallahassee, Jan. 29.—The Florida supreme court was asked Tuesday to decide if a newspaper publisher charged with libel can be tried in a county outside the one in which the newspaper is edited and printed.

The question was raised by Edgar W. Waybright, Jacksonville, attorney for Fred O. Eberhardt, former publisher of the Florida State News here who is scheduled for trial in Highlands county on a charge of libel against Gov. Doyle E. Carlton.

Eberhardt, through Waybright, asked the supreme court to issue a writ of prohibition against Circuit Judge W. J. Barker before whom Eberhardt is scheduled for trial in Highlands codnty. The petition was taken under advisement.

In his brief to the court, Waybright contended that the alleged libel was written and printed in Leon county and that circulation of the newspaper in Highlands county gave the court there no proper jurisdiction. He claimed Eberhardt's trial in Highlands county would be contrary to the Florida state constitution and previous court rulings in like cases.

If circulation of an alleged libel outside the county of actual publication were ground for trial, he contended, then circulation of each separate newspaper copy would be ground for criminal prosecution and a Florida publisher might be tried in all 67 counties as many times as he circulated copies of his newspaper.

FORGERS PASS CHECKS JAILED AT FROSTPROOF

Fleece Wauchula Merchants Out of $200 on Forged L. Maxcy Checks

Three young men from Georgia who attempted to make their getaway last Saturday night, after passing forged checks are in jail in Wauchula facing charges of forgery, while like charges await them at Frostproof, and a charge of stealing blank checks is held against them here.

The young men are Talmadge Anderson, Luther Gerald and Grover Williams, all from Collins, Ga. They came here about two months ago, and have been engaged in fruit packing. Talmadge Anderson had been in the employ of L. Maxcy, Inc., and is charged with stealing the blank checks, twenty in number, which were forged for various amounts and cashed among the merchants of Wauchula last Saturday night. The forged checks all bore the signature of W. R. Stone of the L. Maxcy organization and upward of $200 in goods and cash was secured through their passage.

Theft of the stolen checks was reported Wednesday by the Maxcy company to Officer W. A. Roberts, who secured the numbers of the missing checks and notified local merchants to be on the lookout for them. But no attempt was made to pass them here. Instead the men, waiting until Saturday night, elected to work Wauchula merchants. Returning here, they left their purchases at their stopping place, and proceeded to Frostproof in a borrowed car. While attempting to pass one of the checks there, they were apprehended by local police, and held. Meanwhile, Sheriff Ches Deshong had gotten in touch with the local police. He was joined here by Officer Roberts, who identified all of the men through his description furnished, and the two officers visited the boarding place of the men, but found they had gotten away. Then word was received that two of the men had been caught at Frostproof, and the officers went there and found all three in the custody of the local police.

The officers recovered $51 in cash and the articles purchased, which were returned to Wauchula merchants. Sheriff Deshong took the three men to Wauchula with him for trial in that county.

"Dad" L. A. Wolff Injured in Auto Wreck Wednesday

"Dad" L. A. Wolff received painful injuries Wednesday night, when his car was wrecked on the Wauchula road in the outskirts of town by a head-on collision with a car driven by Herbert Dukes, of Arcadia. Dukes was said to have been under the influence of liquor, and was arrested by Sheriff Oscar E. Wolff, who arrived on the scene shortly after the accident. The sheriff said he found a pint bottle of liquor in the pocket of Dukes' car, and recovered another pint bottle partially emptied, which had been thrown away.

"Dad" Wolff's injuries consist of painful lacerations of the forehead and scalp, and chest and back injuries, sustained by the terrific impact of the collision which totally wrecked both cars. The wreck occurred at about eight o'clock as Dad Wolff was returning from Zolfo, in company with a workman who was driving for him. He states that he was traveling at a slow rate of speed and, seeing the speeding car approaching, had the driver pull over to one side, and was partially off the road when hit.

Sheriff Wolff is holding Dukes in the county jail, and charges placed against him will be determined on the outcome of Dad Wolff's injuries.

Red Devil'try.

Yes, indeed, it is certainly remarkably how much time Jimmy Roberts spends on his bookkeeping. Why one night he didn't leave until after five o'clock. I mean that is going some. Do you suppose he gets double time from Mr. Good for overtime? By the way, I haven't heard anything about all those bookkeepers getting a raise, yet. It can't be that they aren't worth it because they are fussing around trying to get their trial balances all the time.

Those chemistry students! Do you know what they did Monday? Along towards the end of the first period we were nearly suffocated. They had made some kind of a sulphurous preparation that smelled very much like over-ripe eggs. I think I'll hire some of the Spanish class members to go down and tell them about it.

Pst! Some one told me that Martin Roberts' personality is just another demonstration of the Einstein theory. Relativity. Ooops!

Ow, wow, wow! We poor old Seniors and Juniors. All of us have to write 1200 word theme for the Elsteddfod on the Scenic Highlands. There is going to be some work for the one who corrects all of them.

I see that there is an announcement in the papers announcing a teachers examination at Sebring, February 5, 6 and 7. Do you suppose that means a holiday? If things are just, we will get one, but quien sabe? Prof. Fairey also says that we may get a half-holiday in March in order to attend the Eisteddfod. At least that will be a help.

The juniors have started to select committees to arrange their annual banquet. They all claim that their treasury is full to overflowing so that the Seniors may expect something better than usual this year. It is thought that the great event will take place in the latter part of March.

Tuesday night the high school basketball teams played the town quints and sextets. During the first part of the game the high school lassies held the town's team down, and ran up a total of 12 points, but in the third and fourth quarters they quit fighting and the former stars nearly caught up with them. The boys' squad made a very creditable showing indeed, against some of the best players Avon Park ever had. Though they lost, their opponents had to work like Trojans to register the win. .

Around School

SCHOOL SPIRIT.

Always boast your school and class,
Never let even one day pass
But what you've done your best
In every game and every test.

Never talk of your school in ways
that are not right,
Take up for your colors, the Red and White;
Let Avon Hi stand out above all the rest,
Be sure that you help her to do
only her best.

Cheer for your team with her players so true,
Bearing their colors, the Red and the White;
Join in with the spirit of true work and play.
What matters the cost? It will always pay.

When your marks are so low, and so poor,
Study and then make them a much higher score;
By writing and reading and working each night
For an hour or so, and work with your might.

Does our school have the right kind of School Spirit? Look around and see what kind you find. Do we have good sportsmanship in our schools? If we haven't, why can't we have it? We will, if everyone will try and do his best. In the last four months of this term we should make Good School Spirit our goal and work hard toward it.

School Spirit does not merely mean going to a Basket Ball or Foot Ball Game and yelling one's self hoarse for his team. School Spirit goes further—in the class room, chapel, and even outside of school. In the class room, have respect for the teacher and co-operate with her. Don't "rag" when she assigns a lesson—do what she says without grumbling.

Have co-operation in your class room meetings and outside of school say things that will help the school instead of tearing it down. There are just lots and lots of things we can do to show School Spirit so why not start now?

GIRL WANTED

A girl who always stands and sits gracefully, who speaks in soft, even tones and who conducts herself in a lady-like manner.

A girl who listens intently to all that is meant for her and is not inquisitive about things which do not concern her.

A girl whose finger nails are shapely and clean, whose face is her own, whose clothes are clean and well cared for, whose hair is always combed and whose teeth are gleaming white.

A girl who moves quickly but quitely and is never awkward or noisy.

A girl who knows it is not lady-like to whistle.

A girl who is always smiling and never pouts, who makes you feel good when she is around.

A girl who does not smoke, even if it is the style.

A girl who never looks down on other girls because their station in life is different.

A girl who never "shows off" or is "smart" or in any way attracts attention.

A girl who always admits it when she is wrong and always says, "I'm sorry."

A girl who, when asked to do anything at all, promptly says, "I'll try."

A girl who stands for the truth, no matter what happens.

A girl who finds pleasure in reading good books and never abuses the English language.

A girl who is not self-conscious, but who is always perfectly at ease in the company of other people.

A girl who is more intimate with her father and mother than anyone else, and who knows that "mother knows best."

A girl who treats others as she would have them treat her.

This girl is wanted in every family, office, school, and community; the boys and girls want her—she is wanted badly—this girl with a personality.

Now what kind of a boy do we want?

Tourists.

Have you ever stopped to think of the importance of tourists to the State of Florida and why people come here from other states? They come for many reasons among these are: First, because Folrida is the land of sunshine during the winter months; second, because of our unexcelled fishing, hunting, golfing and other forms of recreation; third, because of our flowers, birds, green grass, trees and shrubs.

We all like to live in beautiful surroundings and it is up to the people of Florida to keep Florida beautiful. As I was riding along the highway, I noticed the blackened ground, brown needle pines, charcoal covered snags, and stumps. Do you think the tourists would be impressed with such desolation? They would no more seek such surroundings than they would build a house in a desert. In your mind contrast this black dismal picture with nature's beauty that has been unharmed by fire, which has been carelessly caused by a cigarette or match thrown from a car. The preservation of the natural beauty along the highways of the State of Florida will have a great influences upon the tourist. Therefore, I think the people of Florida should co-operate against the burning of woods along the highways for after all we are out to satisfy the tourists, for a satisfied tourist means more business.

Senior News

Next Wednesday the Seniors expect to entertain the High School with a chapel program. The play which the Seniors are giving is not only for the amusement of the general High School but it serves as a test of the acting ability of the Seniors who stand a chance to be the Senior class play. A new scheme was used in chosing the characters of the play. The class in general voted on certain members of the class who they thought would be fitted for the different roles in the one-act play. Mrs. Ginn stated if this plan works she expects to use it for the annual play.

Of interest to the Juniors: Seniors decided that the party which they are to give you will be given after the Senior play has been given. Please don't get discouraged, we'll give it.

The Seniors sure are rushed this week. You see it's test week. Spanish, English, Typing, Bookkeeping and Math. test,—all these come in one week. Then too there's that nice 1200 word theme about the Scenic Highlands. Say, did you ever hear of that place?

America's Problem

Today, America is facing the great problem of wastefulness and luxury. This great problem if it is not given immediate attention will lead to poverty, degeneration, and unemployment among the citizens of our country. Our President is giving his attention to this great problem at the present time, and no doubt remedies will soon be found.

In the meantime, what can we, as citizens, do towards economizing and remedying the situation? It seems to be the idea of the young citizens of our country to take such situations too lightly. For instance, young social butterflies making their debut into society, have a great deal of money wastefully spent on flowers, gay decorations, pretty dresses, and other things. I don't wish to appear radical or as one who wishes to take the joy from life—but do these debutantes need a ballroom transferred into a garden of orchids, most expensive of flowers, to make their entrance into society? Could it not be just as pretty and just as proper with less array of luxury and wastefulness? Perhaps, if the young debutante would stop the thing, that as close as right across the block from her ballroom, some one might be starving—her debut would lose some of its glamor and importance and she would fully realize the waste and luxury she is adding to the nation's downfall.

Thrift

Thrift is a coveted quality that intelligent human beings long for and try to practice, but it is a virtue that is owned by few. Many people are born misers and hoard money and property alike, to the great disgust of their fellowmen. Thrift must not be considered akin to such miserliness. Thrift is the opposite of wastefulness and means, therefore, not to waste.

A discriminating and careful purchaser is one of the helpmates. Another important factor in this modern age is the ability to live within one's wages, if this be possible. Thrift is to be practiced in many fields—domestic, industrial, and others. It is a quality that, once obtained will help one to become a success in any path of life, no matter how humble. It is also a major factor on the road to a peaceful and happy life.

CAN SEND TELEGRAMS FROM GAS STATIONS

Extra Western Union Service May Be Had In Many States Now

Only a few years ago the motorist left behind all contacts with the world when he left town and chugged out on the open highway. He was completely isolated. Distances between gasoline stations were great, and distances between points from which he could communicate with home, business or friends were far greater.

Enormous mileage of telegraph lines, elaborate facilities for instant communications with all parts of the country and abroad through telegraph and cable lines, telegraph offices at every railroad station, and in almost every town and city in the nation, all stood ready to serve—yet the motorist was cut off instantly and completely when he drove out of town.

To remedy this situation, and to give service to areas between its 25,000 telegraph offices, Western Union began in May, 1926, a program of tying up those open spaces along the highways with the nearest telegraph office.

At first a red dot would be inserted on the telegraph map, here or there, in some yawning gap needing service. Signs notifying the public that "Western Union telegrams may be telephoned from here", (to the nearest telegraph office, of course) began appearing on service stations. Telegraph facilities were provided at several thousand stations in this way.

This movement was so gradual and the stations linked were so scattered that the motoring public were scarcely aware of the fact. Highways were built in every direction; motor traffic grew like magic, even faster than the highways. Demand for communication service on all main highways became greater and greater, and in 1930 Western Union signed contracts with practically all of the large chains of service stations, blanketing the nation.

This was perhaps the most noticeable and significant change in the motorist during the past year. In this state and in every other in the nation the gaps between points from which telegrams could be sent were closed up, and now there are very few miles between points along any of the main highways where one does not notice a telegraph sign.

The significance is that telegraph service has ever reached to the outposts of civilization, first to restore contact in time of disaster, and now it has followed the highway, as the fastest growing artery of traffic and commerce today, making service available to the public, wherever it may be.

One of the large chains which has signed with Western Union is The Texas Company, of Texaco fame, with numerous gasoline service stations in each of the forty-eight states. Another important chain whose stations carry Western Union signs is the Gulf Refining Company.

Phillips Petroleum Company adds more than a thousand mid-western stations to the list. The Tidewater Oil Corporation, with Veedol and Tydol stations all along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to the Carolinas, is an important factor in this service.

Shell Eastern Petroleum Company of New York, the Richfield Oil Company of New York, Richfield Oil Company of California, Atlantic Refining Company, Cities Service (Michigan), Long Oil Company of Topeka, Kansas, and Skelly Oil Company, Community Service Station Company of Kansas City, are other large chains with Western Union.

Pure Oil Company, operating in thirty eastern and central western states has now joined the system. The National Autohaven Company will provide this service in all of its tourist hotels. Union Oil Company stations in California are boosting it.

Western papers have published a story adding to the well-known slogan "Don't Write—Telegraph", the words: "When you telegraph, you don't have to look for a telegraph office—merely drive into the nearest service station".

While their cars are being serviced at stations throughout the country, people are lifting telephone receivers and calling Western Union. This act places the telegram sender in direct contact with the nearest Western Union office, and insures immediate transmission of the message.

As the patron dictates the telegram, a Western Union recording operator writes it on a typewriter and gives it to a telegraph operator. Messages to small towns are then typed on a Simplex printer and reproduced automatically at destination. Messages between cities are sent with automatic machines simultaneously with as many as seven other messages.
