Cardinals Take Fast Game, 2-1

Get Long End of Score in Last Game of Training Season
With House of David

The House of David baseball team wound up its spring training here Monday with an exhibition game with the St. Louis Cardinals, losing to the world's champions by the close score of 2 to 1.

The game was all that the score implies, the bewickered lads giving the Cards a tough battle for the first three innings, but their money's worth in baseball terms.

The game, played in a little less than an hour and a half, showed that both teams were at an advanced stage of training, and the Cards had to extend themselves to ease out a victory.

O'Grady held the Cardinals to nine hits. These were fairly well scattered, and with few errors, he gave little support save for the fifth inning, when two hits and two errors gave the Cards their two runs. In this frame, Frisch was safe on a fumble at short, and went to third on Bottomley's single. Collins brought him home with a hit to center.

He scored when Barrett dropped the ball at the plate, after an attempt to catch Collins at second.

The House of David made their only score in the last inning when Bandrimer was safe on Frisch's fumble, was advanced to third by Vann's single and scored on Friedman's long sacrifice fly to right.

They threatened in the first and seventh, but double killings by the machine-like Card infield cut them down.

In the first Dizzy Dean walked. Shadowen, Martin singled and Bandrimer hit to Dean. He threw to second to catch Martin, but Gelbert dropped the throw and all were safe. Vann hit into a double ending the inning, Dumas having struck out in the meantime.

In the seventh Vann singled and Friedman walked, but Barrett had the ill-luck to hit a fast infield roller that was an easy double and Haller ended the inning by striking Collins for the Cards collected three singles, Jim Bottomley got a couple and Sparky Adams annexed a double and a single. Dean hit a double and was robbed of another one by failure to touch first base.

In the five innings he worked Dean allowed only one hit—t Martin, while Vann collected the other two hits for his team off of Starr who relieved Dean in the sixth.

Pepper Martin of the Cards did not play, due to an injured foot.

House of David Beat Placid Nine

Immense Crowd Witnesses Whiskered Professionals Perform

The House of David nine took a well played game from the Lake Placid Firemen at the latter's diamond last Sunday, the whiskered players getting an eight to five decision.

The visiting professionals garnered nine hits off the delivery of Lefty Mackay while the locals got to Cronk and Day for seven bingles. One of the largest crowds to witness a ball game was on hand to watch the play, many of the Sebring and Avon Park fans being in attendance.

FOR SHERIFF

W. R. (Bill) ENGLAND

A Business Administration

IN THE OFFICE OF THE SHERIFF OF HIGHLANDS COUNTY.

Will cut the cost of that office to the bone, relieving the burden of the already overburdened taxpayer.

Will endeavor to eliminate useless and petty arrests of minor violators whom in most instances the county must keep and feed for from 15 to 30 days.

Will faithfully account for every penny spent and collected in the enforcement of the law.

Will make accessible to all citizens the actual records of the office so that the public may know what has been done.

WHO HE IS

For many years a public accountant who has made a specialty of putting public offices on a BUSINESS BASIS.

For fourteen years a resident of Avon Park.

At present a member of Sheriff Oscar Wolff's force and in charge of the fingerprinting and bureau of identification work which was begun during Wolff's administration.

Established the present State system of checking for "Lost or Stolen" tags, which after being proven practical by the county officers, was turned over to the State without compensation.

WHAT HE PROMISES

Fair and impartial enforcement of the laws on the statute books.

Complete co-operation with all other law enforcing agencies and all other branches of the city, state and Federal government.

Well-kept records which will stand the scrutiny of the public.

No entangling alliances with political "cliques" which will tend to defeat justice in important cases.

Faithful performance of all duties.

If nominated and elected to the office, I promise to attend to the office personally and to the best of my ability and will only employ bonafide residents of the county to assist me in the office who are not members of my family.

I will appreciate your vote and influence.

J. Lee Johnson

with all other law enforcing agencies is necessary in order to efficiently manage the Sheriff's office.

Having devised the systems now in use in several county offices, I am in a position to effectively co-operate with all other agencies of government.

Elect a business man and put the Sheriff's Office on a Business Basis.

Brisbane pays Florida a visit, and his column recently indicates that he likes the State almost as well as he does Russia.

Bill Murray is amusing, and not uninteresting, but Florida's preference for a presidential candidate is Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Our idea of a well-posted man on current politics is one who is able to name all the candidates for Governor of Florida.

"I hain't got no what you might call regular platform," remarked a candidate the other day. "I'm going to run on this here economy and equal rights to all."

Question of the day—is the old straw top piece in good enough condition to be brought out from retirement for service another season or part of the season?

There is said to be a considerable decrease in the number of those unemployed. But think how many candidates will be out of a job when the primary is over next June!

Some of our exchanges are complaining that Congress spends $850 a month for printing speeches that are never sent out. But isn't it worth the money not to have the speeches sent out?

A loyal Floridian, being asked how the depression is affecting this State, replied, "Depression—why there is no depression down here." "But," he added as an afterthought, "its the smallest boom we have ever had."

New Orleans lady is suing for a divorce because her husband did not tell her he had a wooden leg before his marriage to her. Still many a woman finds out after marriage that her husband has a wooden head, and yet sticks to her bargain.

A. P.—not Associated Press, but Avery Powell—says "Some people will tell you that a country editor gets no kick out of life." A. P. was one of them things himself once, and must know well that no one gets quite as many kicks as a country editor.

We haven't much sympathy for that group of butt-ins who feel that they must investigate conditions in the Kentucky mines, probably stirring up more trouble. Around the section where those mines are located it used to be said that the first rule of health is to "keep your mouth shut and move on." Where one has no real business that's a pretty good rule to follow.

Murray criticizes other candidates for the presidential nomination for failing to express themselves on some public questions, but when called upon for his views on prohibition, he had only the illuminating statement that there are "lots of dam fools on either side." Evidently he is courting the dam fool vote on both sides—which would constitute a noble following.

Some of the candidates for Governor are devoting much of their speeches and advertising to knocking Cary Hardee. That's all right. The most clubs are found under the best apple tree. Meanwhile, Mr. Hardee is going along, like the fine up-standing gentleman he is, knocking no one, and steadily maintaining the lead which it is impossible for his competitors to overcome.

Newton D. Baker thinks Congress should be in session continuously. Sometimes we have thought one session of the body in ten years would be sufficient, and would cause enough trouble. The late Adrian P. Jordan, brilliant Florida journalist, used to argue that the Florida legislature should be abolished altogether. It does look like there are too many legislators, too much legislation, State and national.

There are 658 varieties of fish in Florida waters, and conservatively, an average of 658 million of each variety.

The first car-load of tung oil to be produced in America is ready for shipment at Gainesville. It is the forerunner of a potential hundred million dollar revenue for this State. Those who know state that the high lands of South Florida are ideally suited to growing the tung oil trees. It does not require a large capital to make a venture in this industry. It is worth the investigation of enterprising planters.

"The Way Back" was the topic of an address by a distinguished bishop in a Florida city the other day. But we don't go "back." We have never gone back. Sometimes it may seem that we do not go forward. But we are changing always. Old methods, old habits, old ways of living go, and they are gone forever. If through the changes of time and circumstances we may find fast to the fundamentals of faith and truth, and honesty and loyalty, we shall progress. And progress is our appointed destiny.

NOT AFRAID.

There is one thing—or rather there are two points of one thing—to be remembered when one considers the candidacy of J. M. Lee, who has announced for state comptroller. In his service to Highlands county and the state he has proven himself unafraid.

There are two sides to that statement. First we must remember that the colonel is not a common, cheap persecutor hunting the limelight. His fearless conduct in relations with big interests have never bordered upon persecution.

But, he isn't afraid of the biggest of them. We recall that two years ago he seized an Atlantic Coast Line railroad train here, levied on it legally, and held it until payment of taxes due this county was assured.

But he did not impose unusual conditions and he did not levy on the train until he had exhausted every effort to induce the railroad to pay its taxes in time to prevent our schools from closing.

Likewise he wasn't afraid of the Seaboard Air Line when it refused to pay its proper share of the taxes on its subsidiary lines—the Florida Western and Northern and the Seaboard-All Florida—for rolling stock. Failing in all other efforts the Colonel went into the courts and before long the eighteen or twenty counties traversed by these lines were paid.

The colonel was one of the stormy petrels in the racing bill fight in the legislature, being one of those who exposed the attempt to bribe legislators—yet he has never been accused of persecuting any one in that fight.

Here in Highlands county, who you know him best, know that he'll go the limit for you—big interest or little interest—if you are right.

And he will go the limit against you—big or little—if you are wrong.

As comptroller, he'll do the same. There'll be no persecution of the interests, and no special favors to them either.

Echoes of the State Press

HOW MUCH FOR YOU?

One of our friends is connected with the municipal government in a city not far distant from here. He has charge of the public buildings and grounds. Recently he asked for bids on a certain job.

After talking it over with one of the artisans, he asked him what he would take to do the work. The artisan looked at him and said: "How much do you expect to get out of it?" He asked this in all sincerity for he had done work for the municipality before.

Our friend is not a fourflusher; neither is he one of those "I am holier than thou" souls. Quietly he informed that mechanic that all he wanted was a good piece of work at the lowest possible expense to the municipality.

It is notorious that public work costs over so much more than the same work costs a private party. One of the reasons lies in the practice that actuated the contractor to ask the official how much he wanted out of the deal. The average artisan is honest, and would like to work for the public as efficiently and economically as he serves the individual. But the average artisan also knows that there are numbers of public officials who must "get theirs" before they award the work.

Let us elect honest officials. Only thus can we protect ourselves against petty graft so prevalent in many of our municipalities.—Haines City Herald.

From the looks of his picture it would not be wise for J. Ham Lewis to visit Avon Park after making his address to the Tampa bar association they might get him signed with the House of David baseball team who are training there. You know with that bunch whippers reign supreme.—Wausola Herald.

It is almost a foregone conclusion that the Literary Digest poll is going to be wet if not "all wet," and that being the case it will be interesting to see what the wets are going to do about it. Even John Raskob, you know, doesn't believe the eighteenth amendment can be repealed at any time in the near future.—Ocala Star.

Interesting Book Subject of Review

"Souvenirs: My Life With Materlinck" Treated by C. P. Turner at Library

"Souvenirs: My Life With Materlinck," in which Georgette Leblanc tells a story of her life with the Belgian poet, was reviewed at the library Wednesday afternoon, by C. P. Turner of Highland Lakes, who filled the book review hour on invitation of the library committee. The book, translated from the French by Janet Flanner, was issued March 15, 1932 by E. P. Dutton & Co.

Sketching the life of the author, the reviewer told of her regrettable marriage early in life as an escape from the restraints of her father's house, where her only contact with the world was through her singing from her balcony for those who would assemble in the park below. A year later she was alone studying hard and finally achieved great success as a prima donna in the Opera Comique.

Falling in love with the text of the Preface to Emerson's Essays, and with the man who could write it, and inquiring where he lived, she threw aside her successes in Paris, and journeyed to cross the scheme an acquaintance with Maurice Materlinck.

The reviewer told of how she found him, shy young lawyer bent on leaving the law for a literary life, of exerting himself to awaken an interest in her and succeeding in establishing a close intimacy. Materlinck proposed marriage, which to her unconventional mind was an unnecessary for love such as theirs, even if the obtaining of an annulment of her previous marriage would not be such a nuisance.

In the venture lasting two decades, she brilliantly assisted him in developing his literary talents, and with the man who could write it, and inquiring where he lived, she threw aside her successes in Paris, and journeyed to cross the scheme an acquaintance with Maurice Materlinck.

While his growing fame necessitated increased activity on her part in protecting him from worries of household and literary matters, and caused her frequent and extended absences in presenting his plays in the cities of Europe, a younger woman brought in for the presentation of "The Blue Bird" took her place in the household and ended in her marriage to Materlinck nine years later. The reviewer recounted Georgette Leblanc as antagonistic to conventions, generous and even careless in the use of money, and one with an intense love for the beautiful. On the other hand, he presented Materlinck as a direct opposite in many matters, according to the story, and characterized their union much as the attraction of the negative for the positive.

Mr. Turner recommended the book as enthusiastically, simply and well written, and translated, and a mine for serious contemplation.

In 1866 lands were granted to the Florida Railroad company and construction began on the first through State railroad.

To Control Water In the Hammock

Plan to Construct Series of Dams at Hammock For Dry Weather

Considerable comment has been heard regarding the drying up of a number of pools in Highlands Hammock and at a recent meeting of the trustees Alexander Blair explained this was due to the abnormal dry weather and not, as many by some, to the canals that have been dug. A communication has been received which explains what is intended in the future to control the water by means of dams and reads as follows:

"In planning the protection for Highlands Hammock a great deal of thought has been given to the definite control of the water table. Every abnormally dry year (such as the past season) is not only injurious to some of the canals that have been dug. A communication has been received which explains what is intended in the future to control the water by means of dams and reads as follows:

"For several months visitors have asked the question, 'What is the purpose of those large steel sheets that we see from the road?' The answer is simply that they will be used in constructing a series of dams to control the water in the Hammock.

"For more than a year engineers have been planning intelligent drainage to guard against too much water at one time and too little at another. The canals and ditches which have been made have had no bearing on this condition, up to the present time, as nothing has been done toward relieving the flood condition at the lowest point where all water must pass.

"The dams will retard the flow at this point when there is a subnormal rainfall and those dams higher up in the system will impound some water which will be of immense value during an extended dry season.

The muck and peat areas which are subject to danger from fire when dry will, when the dams are completed, be sufficiently moist at all times to remove this hazard.

The natural water courses together with the canals and ditches, even in the present unusually dry season have sufficient water in them to form an almost perfect fire break which will effectively prevent fire from entering from surrounding land.

Practically all phases of protection for the Hammock property have been contemplated so that with intelligent management, the future security will be safe-guarded.

Chevrolet Makes Cut in Prices

Avon Motors company received a wire from the Chevrolet Motor company yesterday announcing new low prices on Chevrolets. The new price list, published in full elsewhere in this issue lists the roadster at $445, the coupe at $490, the sedan at $590, with proportionate cuts on other models. Announcement of new prices appears on page eight of the Times. The cut became effective Monday.

New Ford Models Here Wednesday

"Henry" Puts Best Foot Forward With Brand New 8-Cylinder Car

Announcement that the new Ford V-8 and new model four-cylinder cars would be on display at the showrooms of Park Motor Sales Wednesday, April 6th, was made today by T. C. Hobbs, local Ford dealer. The new model to be shown here will be a standard sedan. The Tudor model will sell for $500, the Fordor for $590 and other models are priced approximately. The new four are $26 less than the V-8 type on all models.

T. C. Hobbs, Jack and Dick Head, Henry Hilday and J. O. Witt from the Park Motor Sales organization were in Jacksonville Tuesday to get a look at the new Ford and attend a school for dealers, salesmen and mechanics at the Jacksonville Ford plant.

They returned enthusiastic over the new car and the low price at which it is offered. In discussing this angle Mr. Hobbs said:

"For weeks, since it became practically certain that Henry Ford would offer a V-8 and a new four-cylinder car, the universal question has been, 'How much will they cost?' Answering that, the price announced instantly gave rise to another:

"How can he do it?"

"I has been known for weeks that the Ford company was bringing out an almost revolutionary eight-cylinder V-8 type motor that would be interchangeable with a greatly improved four-cylinder motor in any one of fourteen standard and de luxe body types. Likewise it has been known that new cars would have longer wheelbases, roomier bodies, and a variety of other new features."

"Low Price Explained."

"How can he do it?" Ford Motor company officials were asked.

"Back of the price, it was explained, is the cardinal Ford policy to produce the best possible automobile priced at a figure and sold on terms within the range of the most modest income to own and maintain. The new cars may be purchased for a small down payment, on convenient, economical terms through the authorized Ford finance plans of the Universal Credit company."

"The prices announced, however, would not have been possible two or three years ago. Within the last twenty-four to thirty-six months the economic situation has undergone radical change."

Material Costs Drop.

"Steel and iron are lower in price than at any time in the last two decades. Copper is lower than in the last 30 years, while aluminum is cheaper to day than at any time since its development. Likewise, rubber, used in one form or another in hundreds of parts of the new Ford, has reached a new low level. "All of these factors, as well as the important fact that the Ford Motor company owns vast natural resources of basic materials entering into the manufacture of its cars, contribute to the low production cost which make possible the new prices, and which conform to another Ford principle that 'it is better to sell a large number of cars at a reasonably small margin of profit, than to sell fewer cars at a large margin of profit.'"

The Tallest Fish Story Ever Told

Key West Said to Have Pond Full of Educated Fish

Do-Land, Fla., March 30.—(Special)—Did you ever hear of a five-acre fish pond, stocked with angel fish, porcupine fish and other exotic members of the fish family, each of which has an individual "pet" name to which it responds when called? No! Then you have not been to Key West lately.

That town away down on the tip end of Florida has just that kind of a fish pond and it is the kind of fish, and if you don't believe it, ask J. A. Mackintosh, superintendent of exhibits for Florida at the Century of Progress exposition, in Chicago, next year, or you should have seen the news reel at the New Circle Theatre last night showing the pond and the fish.

And that isn't all of that particular "tall story." Mackintosh avers that when each fish is called by his "pet" name, he or she comes to the edge of the water to be lifted out by the owner of the pond and while being held in the hand eats a cracker or some other tidbit, the owner always carries in his pockets for just such occasions.

"I know that story will be scoffed at," said Mr. Mackintosh, "particularly by those who know their geography and realize that Key West is rather close to the source of supply for that particular kind of inspiration for tall stories, but it is true nevertheless."

"I went to Key West to look after exotic plants and tropical fruits for the Florida exhibit at Chicago, and while there was plotted over the island by William L. Porter and his charming daughter, Mrs. Kirk. Among other things shown me was this remarkable fish pond. While I was there, a moving picture was being made of the pond and I heard Mr. Lopez, the owner of the pond, call certain fish and saw them come at his call, to be taken from the water, to be fed. He did this not only with one fish but with 25 or 30—a different fish every time and a different variety. It was one of the most remarkable things in its line I ever saw and the news reel people were as much astonished as I."

"Mr. Lopez, when he learned my mission to Key West, volunteered to arrange to send some of his trained fish to the Florida exhibit at Chicago and I surely will try to induce general manager Brown and the Commission to finance that very remarkable exhibit."

Fine Variety of Films at the New Circle Theatre

Theatre patrons have been asking the management of the New Circle, "Sebring's Friendly Theatre" how it happens that such splendid pictures with well balanced programs of short reels are being shown there while other theatres in small towns show pictures that are anywhere from two to six months old with just any kind of a comedy film as the only addition to the program. The answer is quite simple.—Manager Charlie McKintosh, who has been managing big theatres for the past 10 years and is applying his theatre showmanship to his own small place. Realizing that he can't show every feature picture made, he books the best pictures that he can and because of close personal contact and friendship with the bookers of the six exchanges with whom he does business, he manages to secure the larger pictures as close as one or two weeks behind what are known as the "key" cities. Charlie also puts himself on the knowledge that short reels often make or break a feature picture, he books the best of the short reels and because of close personal contact and friendship with the bookers of the six exchanges with whom he does business, he manages to secure the larger pictures as close as one or two weeks behind what are known as the "key" cities. RURAL COMMON SENSE

BETTER QUALITY BEEF MEANS HIGHER PRICES FOR CATTLE PRODUCER

"Sell both ends of your beef animal," is the appeal of R. F. Warner of the United States Department of Agriculture in the March issue of Southern Agriculturist.

And to do this, he explains, it is necessary to produce good beef animals.

Quoting his observations in a Memphis packing plant, which had received sales for carloads of "heavy boning calves," Mr. Warner stated these proved to be native cattle of either sex and any weight, and of low market grade. Northern meat dealers wanted them because the hindquarters of these cheap calves are thick enough to make passable steaks and roasts, the front parts, however, being far too thin for retailing and are boned for beef trimmings.

Why should the Southern farmer produce a whole calf and sell it for practically the value of its hind-quarters? he asks, in effect.

"The flatwoods can produce good beef," he says, and adds that good pastures, purebred bulls, and some feed will turn the trick. "Enough good cattle are coming from the woods to prove that they can be produced, and that the consumer value of Southern herds can be increased until they will sell on an even basis with the cattle from the cornbelt."

"Flatwoods beef does not have to come from heavy boning calves. Farmers who improve the breeding and feeding of their cattle will find a ready and appreciative market for both ends of their steers, and that will add materially to their income."

Hathaway Gets More Figures

Hotel Commissioner Compares Operating Costs Under Two Governors

Fons A. Hathaway has been asking for more figures relative to the cost of operating state departments. Last week in which he plays the stellar role. New Circle Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 1, 2, and 3.

Tallahassee, March 24, 1932. Hon. Fons Hathaway, P. O. Box 773, Tallahassee, Florida.

Dear Mr. Hathaway:

Replying to your request for a statement of the operating expenses of the State Hotel Commission, in giving you this statement I feel that it is only fair to the department, under the present administration, to also give you a comparative statement covering three years of the previous administration.

TOTAL OPERATING EXPENSES

Year 1926	$104,628.27
Year 1927	$116,728.56
Year 1928	$108,240.49

Total for three years $329,640.62

Year 1929 $72,641.27

Year 1930 76,643.33

Year 1931 77,325.51

Total for 3 years $231,610.15

Total reduction in operating expenses for 3 year period $115,227.47

I wish to also call your attention to the fact that the amount of our budget for 1932 is $61,240.00.

I trust that the above explanation is entirely satisfactory. However, should you want further information, I shall be glad to furnish same.

Very truly yours,
BEN H. BOSTAIN,
Hotel Commissioner.

BETTER QUALITY BEEF MEANS HIGHER PRICES FOR CATTLE PRODUCER

"Sell both ends of your beef animal," is the appeal of R. F. Warner of the United States Department of Agriculture in the March issue of Southern Agriculturist.

And to do this, he explains, it is necessary to produce good beef animals.

Quoting his observations in a Memphis packing plant, which had received sales for carloads of "heavy boning calves," Mr. Warner stated these proved to be native cattle of either sex and any weight, and of low market grade. Northern meat dealers wanted them because the hindquarters of these cheap calves are thick enough to make passable steaks and roasts, the front parts, however, being far too thin for retailing and are boned for beef trimmings.

Why should the Southern farmer produce a whole calf and sell it for practically the value of its hind-quarters? he asks, in effect.

"The flatwoods can produce good beef," he says, and adds that good pastures, purebred bulls, and some feed will turn the trick. "Enough good cattle are coming from the woods to prove that they can be produced, and that the consumer value of Southern herds can be increased until they will sell on an even basis with the cattle from the cornbelt."

"Flatwoods beef does not have to come from heavy boning calves. Farmers who improve the breeding and feeding of their cattle will find a ready and appreciative market for both ends of their steers, and that will add materially to their income."

The bulletin describes the symptoms of the principal pepper diseases, enabling the grower to recognize them. Many of them are illustrated. Control measures, where known, are recommended.

Record-Making Firestone Rail Car

Harvey S. Firestone (left foreground) finds the new Firestone rail tires in perfect condition after they had enabled an automobile running on railroad tracks to set a record between Miami and Jacksonville, Fla. The car, covering 403.7 miles at an average speed of 61.39 miles an hour, bettered by 42 minutes the fastest railroad run between these two cities made over a route 40 miles shorter. The smooth and quiet operation of the flanged pneumatic tires was a revelation. Mr. Firestone believes that miles of unused railway tracks will be reopened through their use. With Mr. Firestone, who is chairman of the board of The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, are, left to right, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., vice president; Clifford D. Smith, development engineer, who operated the car; and John W. Thomas, president of the company.

Many Fine Talks Are Scheduled For Horticultural Meet

When members of the Florida State Horticultural Society met at Gainesville April 19, 20, and 21 for their 45th annual session they will find a program filled with practical, up-to-date discussions, according to the tentative schedule announced by B. F. Floyd, secretary.

Among the list of selected speakers is J. W. Jones, Federal Farm Board, W. V. Yethers, U. S. Department of Agriculture, outstanding workers with the Florida Experiment Station, Agricultural Extension Service, and College of Agriculture, and nurserymen, truck farmers, and fruit growers from every section of the state.

Tuesday evening April 19, officials of the Experiment Station, Agricultural Extension Service, College of Agriculture, and State Plant Board will try to acquaint the visitors with their departments and tell of the work they are doing.

Wednesday morning there will be a special and separate ornamental section which will be followed by the afternoon by a meeting of the Florida Rose Society. At five o'clock University students will participate in a military dress parade in honor of the visitors.

Talks ranging all the way from the home orchard to the most specialized citrus grove are scheduled. Important citrus topics to be discussed are fertilization, mulching, soil response to organic matter, cultivation, hailing by truck, canning, refrigeration, Satsuma culture, insects and diseases, and important economic factors affecting the industry.

A number of talks about practical all-around culture, the growing of peaches and avocados, mangoes, and other sub-tropical fruits, will be given. Special attention will be given to the horticultural crops of Northern and Western Florida.

Remember the fatigue eliminating value of food. Eat when you are tired, but do not over-eat. Eat slowly, eat in peace. This is most important.

Dress properly. Clothes should be both attractive and appropriate. Too many women lose sight of either or the other of these points.

From the psychological standpoint, attractiveness in dress is as important in fatigue elimination as more appropriate dress. Many women feel that they are economizing when they continue to wear shoes all worn and run-down at the heels instead they are paying and paying dearly.

Take time to rest when you are tired. In every home there should be a bed or cot provided where you can lie down flat without even the trouble of turning down a white spread. Learn to relax. Ten minutes of rest taken in time will often do more in fatigue elimination than ten hours after you have

ELIMINATE FATIGUE

Start each day fresh. Every task is divided into three parts: (a) get ready; (b) do it; (c) clean up. The end of each day should see its tasks cleaned up. There is great rest value in beginning the new day with yesterday's clutter out of sight.

Arrange your household tools to best advantage. Few women have the privilege of designing the home in which they live. But every woman can arrange her "tools"—that is her pots, pans, silver, linens, brooms, brushes, etc. See to it that they are arranged to save the most waste motion. Every unnecessary step creates unnecessary fatigue.

Poor Containers Cause Heavy Loss To Truck Shippers

Poor containers and poor packing causes Florida truck growers heavy losses each year, reports M. R. Ensign, truck horticulturist with the Florida Experiment Station, and a recent study of Florida produce as it leaves the field and as it arrives at the New York, Philadelphia and Detroit City markets.

Much of the loss is caused by broken packages, due to poor containers, overpacking or too much bulge, and improper loading. In many cases buyers take advantage of mixed grades and pay on the basis of the poorest one. The general appearance of Florida produce compared with that from competing areas is decidedly unfavorable due to many broken containers, poorly made or carelessly placed labels, and often a poor variety of poor quality produce.

In some cases, Mr. Ensign said, we must change our varieties to conform with consumer demands. A good example is the decided trend of the market for small, round, firm cabbage, and for the iceberg type of lettuce.

Our containers should be well ventilated, strong, and should be easy to handle and store. There are a number of good ones, but those that seem to be proving best are similar to the lettuce crates commonly used in the west or a similar, slatted, wire-bound crate recently used to ship sweet corn from the Alachua area.

Mr. Ensign could find nothing in favor of the bulge pack, but says it is evident that this practice results in much of the improper loading and damage of the produce. Neither the grower, shipper, nor consumer receives more due to the bulge, and the damage it causes is charged to the grower.

become over-tired.

It is fairly believed that with the elimination of those factors that lead to fatigue the home will prosper and the family will be happier. Women have it in their power to lighten their own fatigue in innumerable ways that the average housewife never tries.—Ruby McDavid.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile

—Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ripe to Go

If this life is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just dangles in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin breaks out in itches. Your bowels act and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes time good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, meaning when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't take liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Repeat a substitute. Be all at once. © 1931, C. M. Co.

AVON PARK High School News

Sophomore News

The Sophomore Class seems to be riding a rough sea. We can't decide on one thing all together. We attended the big "Show," The Ghost Parade, in full force. Oh! Boy! Can those Seniors (our sister class) act! They swept the audience off their feet last Friday night; had them sitting on the edge of their seats in expectation; and then gave them a period of relaxation when every thing turned out as it should.

We Maddox, our long absent class member, returned to school Tuesday morning. We were glad to see him back. We are all in a hurry to see our report cards Monday. This has been a bad month with most of us, and we want to see if we passed and at the same time we are almost afraid to look at them.

Eighth-A News

We were sorry that our president, Carman Booth, was absent last Tuesday on account of illness. The vice-president, Linda Wingate, took charge of the meeting. She appointed Sara Francis Hancock chairman of the Program Committee. Sara Francis appointed Pauline Greene and Marie Timney as helpers.

A member of our class found a quarter in the middle of the street last week. If money is getting so abundant that folks find it convenient to drop quarters it must be a sign that good times are coming.

Senior Happenings.

Did you see the play Friday night?

As I was taking notice one night, I found these instances most prominent in the following characters:

1. Wasn't Charlotte good as the heroine?
2. And Novell has that lovable disposition. He couldn't act mad, could he?
3. Claude can really take a talking fellow's part and a champion at flirtation.

4. Cameron has a malicious look at times, but didn't he serve as sheriff well enough?

5. Frances can surely serve as a patient old-lady, good at speaking slowly.

6. Jimmie has that cane handy, the old man qualities will creep out.

7. Mary Wild suited for the sophisticated lady's part exactly. How calm she seems on the stage.

8. Oleta can make those cute notions with her hands and is also good at looking worried.

9. Mary Turner can naturally move and take the scary part. Voice carries well also.

10. Carrol Bailey couldn't help grinning and is on the minute for back stage man. Looks good as the village sheik also.

11. Virginia can pretend to be from the city by loosening up a bit, can't she?

12. Agnes suits for a little girl.

13. Dorothy knows how to say "black boy" and had good taste in picking her riding clothes.

14. Raymond is still the type for these sick-looking. Youths that can act in an "Irish" way.

15. Paul knows that old negro brogue, and can make those negro motions.

16. As for me, to keep from laughing was all I could do; and that old man business, a crook's part ruins your reputation.

These Seniors surely helped lots even though they were not included in our play. Maude as our ticket chairman surely sold plenty of tickets, and Bubba, as charge of the program committee, got up a swell program, even if he was rushed.

J. T. Connie, Clarence, Gordon, and Lawrence helped with the ads and back-stage movements.

When is Senior "Kid Day" coming along? Sometime soon—you may see some of these Seniors turning into two-year olds, etc. That will be when everybody is in a jolly mood and ready for such fun.

Junior Class News.

Paul Baldwin of the Senior Class who seems to have a little interest in the Junior class has been having plenty of experience making gondola mint cups and butterfies for the Junior-Senior Banquet. He thinks that after he graduates he will go into the gondola business.

And when he gets firmly established he will build one huge gondola and have a reunion of the Senior Class of '32 and the Junior Class of '33. Instead of having just a mealy little old banquet, he will have one big gondola party somewhere on the ocean.

Junior-Senior banquets can give people pipe dreams as well as stomach-aches. Maybe that's what ails the Juniors. We all seem to be flying around with wings of butterflies or sailing around in purple gondolas.

Wednesday the Juniors decided to give Robert Stewart two dollars to help pay his expenses to Jacksonville, as he is the bookkeeping representative to the contest. We are certainly proud of Robert, and we hope he will carry off all the honors that can be won.

Claude Daly is certainly escort.

ing the Junior lads around. Wednesday he took Marcus Covington to the Rotary Luncheon. For once they came back early they must be that type of people who always have plenty of time to eat but have to hurry away afterwards.

Just heard this on the Seniors. It could be called the "Remark of the Week." The trouble with most Seniors who try to be blasé is that they never get beyond the first syllable.

Circuit Court To Convene Tuesday

The Spring term of circuit court for Highlands county will convene Tuesday. Judge W. J. Barker will sound the docket and draw the grand jury venire for the term. As far as is known at present there is nothing of serious import to be considered at this term and the session is expected to be short.

mental expense. And a man in Liberty county told me the other day that all you have to do is compare the appropriation bills of the two administrations to see which of us asked more in taxes.

The writers of the Constitution meant that we should have a cabinet form of government. Under my cabinet officer, the auditing department cost $15,000 in 1924 with not many jobs but real efficiency. During the last year of his administration, the cost as a separate department was $94,000 with many created jobs.

The tag department cost about a hundred thousand during my last year and as a separate department with more jobs, it increased to $465,000 the last year of the administration.

It is a crime to saddle upon the people of this State useless positions. If I am elected governor, no position will be for the purpose of strengthening a machine. Is there any person in this audience who ever heard of any Cary Hardee machine? One of the finest compensations that has come to me is that there were no scandals during my administration and the finger of suspicion never pointed to me in any instance. If I go there again, it will be that way again and when I get through I will go back to Live Oak and for the next four years I will not be a candidate for any other office.

Strict Banking Laws.

"Continual reference has been made to my being a banker, I have three banks and I am going to keep them open. Anyone having money in any of them can go and get it tomorrow. Would it be fair to a farmer or merchant to say that he couldn't run for governor because another farmer or merchant had failed?

"Twelve banks closed during my administration with deposits of four millions and sixty—Five banks closed during his administration with deposits of forty-eight millions and yet he had the legislature there in 1927 and didn't do a thing about it.

"I propose that the governor's office shall have largely the supervision of this department, with a supervisor and adequate assistance. Incompetency in a bank may break it. I want to see in laws the same rule I have in my own little banks, that is that no notes of my own ever go into them."
