Thanksgiving Was Celebrated at the Presbyterian Church

Thanksgiving was quietly celebrated in the homes of most of Lake Placid citizens, while others spent the day hunting and picnicking, and a few found time in the morning to attend the Presbyterian church, where the Thanksgiving service was held in charge of Rev. R. E. Huey, pastor. The service opened with several hymns of Thanksgiving and praise, and were followed by a brief statement by the pastor, in which he told why this day is celebrated once each year, in memory of the first Thanksgiving many years ago when the Puritan Fathers, after many years of hardships and sufferings, were rewarded by bountiful crops and peaceful relations with the Red Men, who were their neighbors.

Following a prayer of Thanksgiving offered by the Rev. G. H. York, pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Huey also brought the message of the morning, basing his remarks upon a few verses found in the latter part of the 66th Psalm, in which the Psalmist gives many reasons for giving thanks to God for his many blessings. At the close of the message, Rev. D. Steel, a retired minister and a pioneer citizen of this city, offered the closing prayer. Those present enjoying this quiet hour of worship were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pope, Mrs. Pendarvis, Rev. and Mrs. G. H. York, Mrs. Ivey Fitch, Lolla Mae Doss, Rev. L. D. Steel and his family from Chattanooga, Tenn., who are spending the winter months as his guests.

LOW EXCURSION RATES TO SOUTH FLORIDA FAIR

To Go Into Effect On January 28 and Good From 28 States

Tampa, Nov. 30. — Excursion rates to Florida, the lowest winter season tariff ever offered, amounting to one and one-third fares for the round trip, have been established by railroads operating in 28 states, embracing a territory as far west as Wyoming and Colorado, as far north as the Canadian border and east to the Atlantic coast, to bring tourists to the South Florida Fair and Goparilla Carnival, January 31 to February 11.

The low rate tickets will go on sale January 28 at all points and will continue in effect until a 26-day return limit in effect. Western, Southwestern and South-eastern passenger associations and the Illinois Central lines in the Central association are participating in the liberal reductions granted to the South Florida Fair. To stimulate travel to the south during the period of the low rates, fair officials, co-operating with chambers of commerce, ticket agencies and travel agents, are launching an extensive advertising and publicity campaign to bring the attention of prospective Florida visitors to the reduced fares and to the economical living conditions in Florida.

While all direct routes terminate in Tampa, liberal stop-over privileges will be permitted at all points in either direction of travel. First class coach fares for children and customary baggage allowances offered on full fare tickets will also apply to the reduced rates.

South Florida Fair officials have invited Florida organizations or individuals to send names and addresses of friends in the north who may be induced to come south this winter in order that literature and complimentary venetian postcards may be mailed to them. All of the campaign expense will be borne by the South Florida Fair.

Eggs Cost 28 1/2¢ Per Dozen To Produce, State Study Shows

The average cost of producing a dozen eggs was 28 1/2 cents on 42 Florida poultry farms for the 1930-31 laying season, Norman R. Mehrhoff, poultry specialist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, explained in a recent radio address. The study was made and the figures compiled by him and Frank W. Brumley, economist in farm management.

Feed cost amounted to 13.9 cents or approximately half. Man labor accounted for five cents, and 4 1/2 cents was allowed for depreciation on birds. These three items made up 88 percent of the total cost of producing eggs. The other 17 percent was divided between such items as land, buildings, equipment, interest, use of fuel, etc.

There was quite a variation from farm to farm. Some of the owners were producing eggs at 23 cents per dozen while it was costing others 51 cents per dozen. On the average the farms having the lowest cost had the greatest number of birds, got the highest production per bird, and had a lower feed cost per dozen eggs. As the size of flock and egg production per bird decreased and feed cost per dozen eggs increased the cost of production increased.

Mr. Mehrhoff explains that some of the main factors to consider in trying to produce eggs for less are size of flock, feed cost, mortality, water production, and total production per bird.

Mr. Mehrhoff is giving a series of such addresses, one coming at noon each Friday on the Florida Farm Hour from state radio station WFUE.

Congress during the ensuing session will almost surely take favorable action on establishing a national park in the Everglades. A bill to that effect has passed the Senate and has been favorably reported to the House.

There is such a difference between preaching and practice! In a speech the other day Bernard Shaw said "public speaking should be made a criminal offense." And then proceeded to speak thirty minutes over his allotted time!

About this 30-hour week, now, it used to be the custom in Georgia—and may be yet—to hire a farm laborer with the understanding that he work from "kin to kint"—that is, he starts as soon in the morning as his "kin" see and works until he "kint" see.

An optimist has started a pretzel factory at Sanford. Pretzels are a total loss without a certain accompaniment, but perhaps the adventurous manufacturer thinks he may twist a profit out of pretzels—or that they may "go good" with that Sanford sulphur water.

Man named Lines has been made advertising manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange. Lines is an appropriate name for an advertising man. And that chap who handles advertising for the Bartow Record, and whose name is Space, ought to be good at his job, too.

Don't know what we can do about it, but we're all for Colonel W. F. Stovall having that job of customs collector at Tampa. People who have lived long in South Florida remember the great work he did for this section as publisher of the Tampa Tribune for some 30 years. They think he is entitled to any political appointment he might desire, not only because of his splendid service as a booster and developer, but because he has always been a consistent and aggressive exponent of Democratic principles and policies.

Labor is moving for a 30-hour week, with no reduction from the present pay for 48-hours. That would be fine if employers could stand it. But no industrial enterprise, large or small, could operate with such an increase in labor costs without a general readjustment of the economic situation. The 30-hour week probably will come. Not so very long ago men worked 12 hours a day. Then the 10-hour day came into existence and the people of that time thought that a great step forward. When the eight-hour day began to be discussed its advocates were looked upon as visionary. The six-hour day did not look nearly so far away as the eight-hour day did then. Only, we do not believe that now is a good time to press the idea—certainly not with a threat of using "force," as Mr. Green suggested the other day at the American Federation of Labor Convention. We have troubles enough without agitation that can only aggravate them. In these times labor should be the most anxious to lead the way to economic recovery. Then, by patient and sane policies, eventually it may bring about the 30-hour week, at the present 10-hour pay, and that accomplishment may be a benefit and a blessing to all. But such a result cannot be brought about by any ipse dixit, or without taking into consideration the other phases of economic life. And "force," in the discussion of such a proposition, is an ugly word, unworthy of the head of the great organized labor forces.

I don't know who it was elected me a member of the National Unemployment Relief Board, but for the past ten days I been gettin' letters from him and you from folks I never even heard of, askin' me to use my influence to help 'em get a job.

Some of 'em want to manage a post office, others would like to INSPECT Prohibition, or collect internal Revenue, or play around in the Customs Office and one bird even wants a job as doorman at the Capitol.

They say, "You remember me, I'm the guy you met at the Firemen's Ball in 1923, you know the fellow with the overcoat and tan shoes," and another tells me I never met him but he knew my Aunt Fanny out in California, and she's talked about me so much he feels we're old friends.

Each of 'em thinks if I would just write a letter to Mr. Fletcher or Mr. Trammell or Mr. Green or Mr. Somebody Else it would help 'em on account of my INFLUENCE.

Now maybe I got INFLUENCE and maybe I ain't, but my experience has been that influence is something you THINK you got until you try to use it.

The way it stands now if I am to be kind and accommodating I've got to write fourteen different letters about fourteen different guys to each of our Congressmen and Senators tellin' 'em who's who and why; and that set me to thinkin'.

There's twelve million folks out of work in this country and all of 'em would like a nice job and naturally their friends will be glad to do anything they can to help 'em, so it looks like there'll be more letters written to Congress this month than there will be to Santa Claus.

And since you have to stick a three cent stamp on each letter, it ought to at least wipe out the Postal deficit. But imagine a Congressman settin' down to his morning mail the first day he arrives in Washington. And then he's gotta figure which man to put where so as to insure the most votes and make the least enemies.

But since we're havin' such a time raisin' revenue to balance the budget, why should we be givin' all these fat jobs away, why not sell 'em or better still auction 'em off.

That would relieve our Congressmen and Senators of a lot of worry and bother and ought to bring in enough Jack to build a flock of new Federal Buildings.

I know a lot of guys that would be glad to pay a reasonable commission just for a chance to get ON OWE. I think it's only fair to make a fellow pay something for the privilege of parkin' his pants in a swivel chair and hangin' his hoofs on a slab of mahogany, to say nothin' of havin' a salary check crossed on him with more or less regularity.

Or maybe the sensible thing to do would be CUT OUT a lot of these offices and see what kind of luck we'd have gettin' along without 'em. Maybe Mr. and Mrs. Citizen don't need as much murkin and lookin' after as we think.

I know we been spendin' a helluva lot of money tryin' to show our farmers how to make two blades of grass grow where but one grew before, until now we get more blamed grass than we know what to do with.

Well, there's twelve million folks out of work, Mr. Congressman, and if you can figure out a way to give 'em all jobs, believe me, I'm for it and you can consider this an open letter in behalf of each and every one of 'em, no matter who they voted for, but remember, you got to reduce expenses and balance the budget at the same time.

LEADERSHIP

By JUDGE JOHN W. DODGE

THREE CENTS TO MILLIONS.
"The pen is mightier than the sword," is a famous and oft-quoted expression.

The pen, wisely directed, with printers ink and a widely distributed circulation, next to the Word of God, is the most powerful instrument or tool used by man. It both creates, destroys, and remedies continuously decay and progress, death and life.

Cyrus H. Curtis, owner of the Saturday Evening Post, Ladies Home Journal, Country Gentleman, Philadelphia Ledger, New York Evening Post, and other large holdings, with an income from advertising alone between fifty and seventy-five millions, and not a penny from whisky or cure alls, started business with three cents, and the use of pens, printers ink, distribution and circulation.

As a lad he got his first papers to sell based on credit, which he ever kept good. At thirteen he started a paper of his own.

The secret of his leadership lies in the fact that he never wastes time messing and fussing with what he has already got. His policy is to GOO and GET something else. HE LETS HIS SUCCESSES ALONE," writes another.

Curtis practiced leadership. He was never idle—he was never satisfied to live on the past but was always looking ahead—he pressed forward—thought urged him into activity and activity created new ventures ahead.

Leadership is the conversion of imagination into realization—using the talents at hand to secure more talents—seeking only the best and discarding all that may be injurious—always being on the lookout for something better, seeking constantly for improvement—knowing what is right, avoiding all that you feel to be wrong, fearing no man but only God.

We have read Senate calendar No. 893, being a report of the Senate Finance Committee on payment of adjusted compensation certificates, which was mailed to us by Senator Fletcher, and are still of the opinion that the soldier boys should have been paid in full. In presenting the view of the bankers' trust Mr. Knook of the finance committee did a good job, and the senate in voting down the bill and refusing to issue the currency contemplated thereby, favored the bankers trust instead of the people by congress and given to the bankers trust, been voted out of the hands of the government (the people) by congress and given to the bankers trust, and the bankers trust has deflated the currency, destroyed credits, centralized wealth, and left a wake of destruction, starvation and suffering greater than that caused by all the wars engaged in by the United States during its history.—Jasper News.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON E. WAITE

Merchants who advertise are always anticipating the wants of their customers and always believe in good merchandise and courteous service.

The housewife who knows how to plan and shop does not worry. She reads the ads and shops where the best values are to be found.

She appreciates the variety and excellence of what the up-to-date stores have to offer. The only way to save money is to save it by buying where you get the best value for every dollar you spend.

Up-to-date merchants put "conscience" into business.

Live merchants do not consider customers as mere names on their list, but consider them as friends.

Echoes of the State Press

EDITORIALS AND NEWS.

It would certainly cause the frowns of a newspaper reporter if the people could more readily distinguish between a news story and an editorial expression or conclusion. It often becomes necessary for a reporter to write a story that he would much rather overlook, but his obligation to the reading public requires that it be written and printed. But there is a vast difference between printing a news story and writing an editorial.

The news story merely reflects what is happening in the community. The reporter and the editor of the paper have no responsibility in creating the story, but only in writing it. Its length, the handling of the detail, and the writing of the head depend on the element of news value. None of these things should be considered as reflecting an opinion of anyone connected with the paper.

The Arcadian would be glad if nothing ever happened in the community that anyone would like to have withheld from print. It is no pleasure to print things that will hurt the feelings of anyone. The fact remains that things do happen, and it is the duty of the paper to print the news. This paper, however, never permits a personal feeling to intrude in the recital of a news story, and is sorry when such an interpretation is given, as happens sometimes.—Arcadia Arcadian.

YOU SAID IT.

And while it is changing the subject to a certain extent, the Wauchula Advocate last week printed the following little yarn:

Ham Strung and Hog Tied.
The story is told of a well-known character who recently got out of the state penitentiary after serving less than a year of a life sentence.

He walked into a local drug store and called for a package of cigarettes.
"Put them on my account," he informed the clerk.

"But you haven't any account here," the clerk replied.

"On opening one now," was the reply, and the man walked away.

Fool laws, crooked lawyers, and the wrong sort of men in our courts have ham strung and hog tied justice. In fact, it makes one wonder if there is any such thing as justice any more.

"The Advocate may be using this as a 'tip' or something. It doesn't say. Anyway it strikes a popular chord in its protest against the handicaps to law enforcement through resort to technicalities. One of these days, this nation is going to have to do something in regard to this.

The whole badly legal mess is no compliment to our national intelligence or courage.—Nate Reece, in Arcadia Arcadian.

WORTH CONSIDERING.

A gentleman whose interest in Lake Wales is undoubted but whose name we cannot use at this moment, makes a suggestion that will interest many and may be of benefit, not only to this city but to the Ridge cities in general. He is an advocate of municipal ownership of light and water plants. The Highlander has never been specially impressed with the claims made for municipal ownership, it is frank to say, feeling that the many of the stories of great profits in operating city plants did not take into consideration all factors of expense as a privately owned plant must do, if it hopes to stay in business. Yet of course there must be a profit in the business, else private companies would not go into it, and while the stories of profits may be overdrawn evidently there is money in purveying electric current. But we wander away from the point our friend made and which we had intended to present.

None of the Ridge cities except Sebring, have a municipal electric plant. Why not pool the interests of all, buy a proportionate interest in the Sebring plant, enlarge it if needed, and furnish light and power from our own plant for the Ridge cities?

Haines City, Lake Hamilton, Dundee, Lake Wales, Frostproof, Avon Park, Sebring, DeFots City and Lake Placid are the incorporated towns along the Ridge. There are a dozen other communities that might be served.

Why not form a stock company in which these towns could have an interest proportionate to their population, issuing bonds in the same proportion for any enlargements that might be needed or extensions that would be necessary and go into the electric business?

It's an intriguing idea at least. Why not? If municipal ownership is so good, here is a field for its operation that it would seem is almost ready made for a success.

Without straining the Highlander to support such a plan, for we can see obstacles as well as a smooth pathway, we invite discussion. If our readers think the idea has merit, sit down and write us about it. If, on the contrary, you think it a bit wild, sit down and write us that. We feel that we are invited to discuss from the other communities of the Ridge and ask the newspapers published in other Ridge towns to print this editorial and make their own comments.
Let's go.—Lake Wales Highlander.

Memorial Services For Leigh Chapter

On Sunday afternoon, November 26th the Leigh Chapter Number 85 O. E. S. held their annual Memorial services at the Masonic Temple at 3 o'clock.

The opening song, Rock of Ages, which all joined in singing, was followed by the roll call of departed members since the organization of the chapter in 1914. First of these, and one who received special mention since he so faithfully worked in the organization of this chapter was J. P. Leigh, in whose honor this chapter was named.

A scripture reading, I Corinthians 13th Chapter, by Father Heber Weller followed the opening prayer by Rev. W. K. McClure.

A very interesting address was given by the Rev. A. H. Hancock. He took as his text the 12th verse of I Corinthians.

Mrs. George Scott McKnight, in her usual charming manner, rendered an appropriate solo, following which Father Heber Weller gave the closing prayer.

The members then adjourned to the cemetery, with an abundance of flowers and decorated the graves of the departed members. Those were: J. P. Leigh, for whom the chapter is named; J. P. Canfield, W. P. W., died November 24, 1916; Frank A. Carpenter, April 22, 1921; Mrs. Joseph Stebbins, May 29, 1921; W. S. Butler, June 28, 1922; J. J. Jamour, July 11, 1925; Mrs. Maude Sargent, January 14, 1926; George F. Smith, October 20, 1926; Mrs. Katherine Tompkins Bardill, August, 1928; Mrs. Dorothy Masters, December, 1930; Mrs. Pearl Stebbins, P. W. M., March 1, 1932; Mrs. Mary Dart, 1932; W. A. Marshall, April 28, 1932; Mrs. Laura S. Smith, May 15, 1932; Mrs. Lucy Boone, July 11, 1932.

The following poem was read following the Necrology:

Live like these so gently and true,
Die not with the passing of years,
But leave their impress on our hearts,
Still our doubts and fears,
Guiding our feet into straighter paths
Through the earthly storms and strife.
Until we too, like them we loved,
Receive the crown of life.

Review of Shaw's "Guide"

George Bernard Shaw was born in Ireland in 1856. "His father was a gentleman without property who educated his children as well as possible, but did not consider the sons of the butcher and the lord as good enough to associate with his children, even though they were wealthy. Shaw, when a child, thought such notions pure nonsense, and all his life has battled for equality of income for everybody."

He began life as a grocer's clerk and left it as soon as possible to write. For years he was a poor man, working as reporter, then as musical and dramatic critic on the London Standard. "The Perfect Wagnerite" is his contribution to musical literature. The Quintessence of Ibsenism, and Dramatic criticism of Shaw's work at this time. From being a dramatic critic Shaw became an actor and then a producer of plays. In each of his many volumes of plays, a preface to each play is a long essay embracing his opinions on the profession of drama, the art of acting, marriage, marriage nevertheless; the question of population; the old mistake of right to motherhood; divorcement; without asking why; economic difficulties against the right difficulty, etc.

The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Capitalism and Socialism is, according to Heywood Brown, "a gathering together of every treatise scattered once among all of Shaw's prefaces. Will your first edition to your great, grand children!"

The book was hailed as a literary event of great importance. Shaw worked on it for many years and referred to it as his "last will and testament to humanity." Dorothy Canfield says of it, "I don't see how anyone capable of thought, man or woman, can ever dip into this thought-provoking book without feeling his own brains spinning vigorously around in new ideas. Any book that makes you think about what you usually take for granted, is simply not to be missed. Such works don't come twice in a generation, but once in a generation."

activity is specially valuable because it is directed upon the subject of how human beings can best measure their life in common. This subject usually (let us be frank) sends people to sleep or stirs in them nothing but the most outrageous violent, reflex prejudices. Most of us will not, or cannot, read books on how to govern ourselves without being bored (and I'll guarantee that Mr. Shaw's book will not bore you) or without having a vague self-defensive sense of alarm when any possibility of change of government is openly spoken of. Mr. Shaw knows exactly how to deal with these prejudices and mental dangers, and before they begin he shows us humorously and unanswerably, how harmless they are. "No, he tells us, there is no nationalization of women, direct or indirect, involved in his plans for a better way of living, nor any bomb-throwing nor any revolution more bloody than the change from paying toll at a bridge to walking over it free — which change in our habits (although truly socialistic) he holds to be the only one that families asunder nor changed the basis of personal morality. He performs the astonishing feat of keeping our minds so calm and diverted by his wit and homely directness, that we can listen to his reasoning, even those of us who never can keep our attention on ready-made holdings to copy the present ones, but for the purpose of realizing that intelligence and not prejudice must be used in the problem of how the human race can best arrange that part of its life which is lived in common with others. It is a book to read aloud, slowly, with plenty of time allowed for hot discussions. They will melt away any old sheets of mental lethargy, the deadly unimaginable ability to see how things could be different without being dangerous."

Sunday School Lesson

FOR DECEMBER 4, 1932.
 SUBJECT: Living with People of other Races.
 GOLDEN TEXT: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons." Acts 10:34.
 LESSON TEXT: John 4:5-10; Acts 10:30-35.

One of the serious problems before our country now is the residence among us of so many people of different races, "attracted by the many opportunities for earning a good livelihood, men by the million every year for many years flocked to the United States from every land under the sun. The presence of so many whose standards of living and whose ideals conflicted with our own was becoming a rapidly growing menace. True the greatness of the United States is largely due to these immigrants, their brawn, their industry, their diversified talents. One of the most serious of our problems is that of living with these men of other races as Christians should. The first factor in this solution of the problem must be the aid of God. We must pray for the foreigners among us and for ourselves in relation to them; and that is why our first extract is three verses from Solomon's great prayer at the dedication of the temple, as follows: "Moreover concerning the stranger, that is not of thy people Israel, but cometh out of a far country for thy name's sake; when he shall come and pray toward this house; Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling place, and do according to all that the stranger calleth to thee for: that all people of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel; and that they may know that this house, which I have builded, is called by thy name."

You will do well to read that speech of Solomon at the dedication of the First Temple, 1 Kings 8:22-53, for it is a great petition to God.

Our lesson calls attention to the old story of the Good Samaritan who aided the wounded traveler on the Joppa road. The Samaritan lived on the west side of the Jordan River between Galilee on the north and Judea on the south. 2 King 17:24-34, tells how the King of Assyria removed the people of Samaria and brought men from Babylon and other cities of Assyria to the cities of Samaria and they dwelt there. "Wherefore" the Samaritans spoke to the king of Syria and he sent one of the captive Jewish priests back to Samaria to teach the Hebrew religion. "However every nation made gods of their own." They had a mixed religion. "Feared the Lord and served their graven images." This made enmity between the Jews and Samaritans, for God had said (Lev. 20:26) "I the Lord am holy, and have severed you from other people, that ye should be mine." Humanly the hatred between the Jews and Samaritan was natural; but in the spirit of Christ there would be no hatred against the individuals.

Today's lesson gives a sample of Christ's treatment of the Samaritans: "Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar. Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus sat on the well; and it was about the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink." The woman well knew the hatred between Jews and Samaritans, and said to Jesus, "How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest me to drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans. Jesus saith unto her, If thou knowest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water." To win a foreigner speak kindly to him. Jesus recognized a difference between Jews and Samaritans, for in that conversation he said "Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship: for salvation is of the Jews." But Jesus was anxious to give that "Salvation" to the Samaritans.

In Acts 10:2-16, Peter, on a house top in Joppa saw in a vision "A great sheet . . . wherein were . . . beasts and creeping things and fowls of the air. And there came a voice to him, Rise Peter, kill and eat. But Peter said, Not so Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is common or unclean. And the voice spake . . . What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common."

Thereupon Peter went to the house of Cornelius as to a Jew. The food with a Christian should be what would Christ do? How would he have me act? and the Christian should act accordingly.

An Alarming Situation

AVON PARK High School News

Silence.

"Learn to be quiet," "silence is golden." Don't keep up a constant "rattle" of conversation. Many people talk continually, often contradicting themselves in the most in the same sentence. And they don't say anything either, nothing of any importance at any rate.

Of course don't be a clam. Cultivate conversation. Not by talking all the time but by thinking before you speak. If few people talked and more people thought, the world would be a far better place to live in. Look before you leap and think before you speak. Those proverbs, if heeded, would prevent much suffering.

Senior News.

Just as Mr. Fairly walked into commercial class Tuesday morning the most terrible crash was heard. When the din died away, we saw W. A. Maddox sitting on the floor in the midst of a much scattered desk. There is something suspicious about that desk—must have been a carefully planned affair. Perhaps a certain Sophomore girl and Senior boy could throw a little light on the matter.

The Seniors in a business meeting Tuesday morning voted to go "haves" with the Juniors in securing a stair-case for the stage. Poor old Juniors, they seem to be having more than "Heart Trouble"—one of our Senior boys seems to have some heart trouble too. Commercial arithmetic is one of the most interesting classes we have. Report cards came out yesterday—chewing gum and notes—"C" in department—Some people (a good many) just will "chew" and others seemingly can't refrain from expressing their sentiments in writing. The library is the most popular room in the building.

Here's wishing the Juniors unbounded success with their play Friday night. We're expecting quite a banquet in the spring from the proceeds, so naturally we're very much interested. Of course, we would be anyway, but the banquet makes the interest double.

Football season is over. Guess we can settle down to business for a few weeks. The basketball season will be here. Basket ball though not so colorful as football, is interesting, probably because the girls have a part in it.

Sophomore News.

Well, today is Tuesday, folks, and we certainly have enjoyed the Thanksgiving holidays as much as the Sophomores. We've heard just a lot of criticism about our "school spirit" but, say, did you notice that cheering squad out at the game Thursday?

I guess you have heard all about this big event coming off here at the school house next Friday night. The Juniors are putting on a play, entitled "Heart Trouble" and they certainly have the best wishes for success from the Sophomores. Just think, folks, we'll be in their boat next year. The Sophomores are still anticipating that the party that the Seniors have been hinting about.

7-B News

Say, folks, we surely are busy in school this week. We are working on a play we are going to give in chapel this Thursday. We hope that we will all say and play our parts well.

In school it seems that our work gets harder and harder every day. I am sure we don't mind that though, because most in our room like to work.

Next week maybe we will have better news for you.

Sports.

Thanksgiving the Red Devils lost to the Sebring High School 18-0. It was the last game of the year for us, and also the third year straight that Sebring has beaten us. The Red Devils won only two of the nine games they played, but next year the team should be a lot better, because the boys will have had quite a bit of experience.

The Junior and Senior high classes are going to get up teams this week with letter men of the regular team as coaches and play for the school championship. Boys who make "B" grades on the Red Devil team will not be eligible to play on their class team.

Now that the regular football season is over, basketball will begin their practice Tuesday afternoon with Miss Cheever as their coach, and the boys will begin the following Monday.

8th A Grade.

Last week, folks, we were too busy to write. There were tests on everything. We received our report cards yesterday; think every one of us girls made pretty good grades. Miss Atchley could not be present at department meeting so she gave us pupils the department grades she thought we deserved. I think almost everyone made A on department.

Wasn't that just too good for words?

Last Tuesday morning at our chapel period in our rooms, Evelyn Thomas started a most exciting story. She wrote it. So you see we have authors in our room. We wonder why she doesn't write stories often because she can write such exciting and thrilling ones. The title is "Snowbound".

Well, this is all that has happened in the past two weeks, so we'll see you all next week.

7-A Grade.

Yesterday afternoon our report cards were given out. "Everyone in our room made good. We have an honor roll in our room and seven were in it. They are as follows: Frances Cloud, Dorothy Hughes, Lenell Meadows, Charles Sherman, Edward Touchman, Neal Trent, and Jane Hart. Some of the girls and boys in our room just missed the honor roll on one C. You can make all A's and A's and still be on the honor roll. Just think just a few more weeks and our Christmas holidays begin. Will we all be glad? And now?"

Chloe Wingate has gone to Tampa today. That is going to pull our average down for the P. T. A. press. We'll see you all again next week.

The Critic's Column.

This is not a scandal column, and don't look at it as one. I write the criticism in as clean a way as I know. I do not write as to injure anyone or hurt anyone's feelings. I hardly ever mention names, but if the proverbial shoe fits you, please wear it with a smile.

Miss Bryant's diagnostic tests proved that there were more than a few dumb English students in school.

Why does Zelda make eyes at the best looking man in school? "Listen to Leon" sure burned the Junior's chance to get ads for the programs.

And then we wonder why some people come to school highly and daintily toilet every day.

Last Thursday Sebring had a crippled team and still they won. Now, we must dig again into our pockets and give them a party. Let's have a football team to compare with their next year. Get our public "football minded" next year and we may be successful. Still (Rittsky).

The Griddler's Carol.

About a month ago I wrote a verse bearing the same name as the one below, so we will call this Part II. It is dedicated to the Seniors football stars:

The Griddler's Carol

The season is over and past. We have tried our very best. Our team mates are left aghast, But now it's our time to rest.

We leave them our best wishes, With double and "aches" and pains that sting.

And hope they don't play fishes, But will next year "Beat Sebring."

—By Clarence Hewell.

Freshman News

Tuesday morning during the home room chapel period Mr. Mummam lead the devotional exercises. He later excused the class to go out and ring goals until the bell rang.

All the report cards were greeted with worried looks this month. Surely we shall make better the coming month.

Next time we are expecting to get that P. A. press given for attendance. Almost everyone in the class is "pulling up his department grade, but there is still room for improvement.

All home economic projects are to be in the end of this month. This means someone will have to get busy. Many interesting ones were taken. Two parties were given; several flower gardens were planted; several took dog projects; and two girls undertook the responsibility of making home made toys and scrap books for a small child's Christmas box. These were very successful.

Home Ec. News.

You will now hear the cooks again. You haven't heard from us in quite a while, but we've been having a grand time cooking. Now that all our tests are over and we have gotten our reports, we will start cooking again.

We don't have to have any more home practice unless we want to. It surely is a help to some of us.

After Christmas the Home Ec. girls are going to start sewing. Turn our fingers cooking but that isn't half as bad as having them picked to pieces when sewing. Here's hoping we like it as well as cooking.

You should come up to visit the Home Ec. department. We have two new posters showing the one hundred calories portion.

Premiere Showing New Picture at the New Circle Sunday

A pre-release showing of a brand new picture which will be its premiere showing throughout the southeast and possibly thruout the nation, is scheduled for Sunday and Monday, with matinee Sunday at 3:30 when Manager Charlie Morrison of the New Circle, "Sebring's Friendly Theatre" offers his patrons "Me and My Gal" with Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett, Marion Burns, Geo. Walsh, J. Farrell MacDonald, Henry B. Walthall and others in the cast. Although this picture is to be released December 11th, Manager Morrison, by a lucky break, managed to secure it for a premiere showing a week ahead of national release. "Me and My Gal" is fast moving entertainment containing everything that appeals to movie fans and its showing in Sebring will be watched with interest by Fox Film Corporation officials throughout the country.

The current attraction at the New Circle showing thru Saturday of this week is Will Rogers in his very latest picture, "Too Busy to Work". This is not to be confused with "Down to Earth" shown here recently as "Too Busy to Work" is positively Rogers' latest vehicle and is being shown before many big cities. Next Tuesday and Wednesday, "He Learned About Women" with Stewart Erwin, Susan Fleming and Allison Skipworth will be the feature attraction, while on next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a magnificent Lubitsch production "Trouble in Paradise" with Herbert Marshall, Kay Francis and Miriam Hopkins will be shown. Manager Morrison offers just a word of caution about this picture—it really should be seen from its very beginning as it is one of those pictures which, if not seen from the start, is hard to follow. It is reputed to be one of the worthwhile pictures of the season and will start at 7:30 and 9:30 each night during its run.

Troy Cox returned on Monday from Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Ga., where he recently underwent an operation in the government hospital. He has been out of the hospital for two weeks and has been visiting Mrs. Cox's family at Savannah, Ga.

J. S. Francis returned home today from Birmingham, Ala., where he has been for the past several weeks for an operation and treatment. He was accompanied by Mrs. Francis, who has been with him during his stay at the hospital.

State To Maintain Lookout Station For Forest Fires

The Florida State Forest Service will maintain a forest and woods fire lookout service in Sebring, according to Fire Chief Alvin Altvater and at its meeting Tuesday night the city council gave its consent to the use of the water tank at the light and water plant for a station. Chief Altvater said the state proposes to erect a shelter at the top of the structure, enclose the ladder with a suitable guard and install a telephone at the top. Similar stations will be maintained at Avon Park and Lake Placid he said, and will greatly aid in the curbing of woods fires in Highlands county, filling a long felt need, at no expense to the city.

Automobile Tags For 1933 On Sale At Court House

The new automobile licence tags for 1933 go on sale today at the agency office in the court house. The price will be the same as last year and the title certificate and registration card will be required in applying for the new tags. A new tag for light weight convertible trucks is being issued and the local agency will carry these as well as tags for motorcycles this year together with the plain series for light and heavy weight trucks, passenger cars and trailers.

INDIAN OPERETTA PRESENTED FRIDAY

Arcadian Music Club Rendition Delights Large Audience

The Indian Operetta sponsored by the Lake Placid Woman's Club and presented by the Arcadian Music Club of Arcadia on Friday evening in the school auditorium, was very beautifully and attractively rendered by the visitors, to the enjoyment of a large audience. The title of the operetta was "Feast of the Red Corn" by Paul Bliss. The stage was very attractively decorated by Mrs. J. H. Jones, Mrs. J. B. Dozier, Mrs. J. A. Parker and Miss Alice Scott, with moss, palm leaves and corn stalks from which hung ears of corn. The floor of the stage Indian blankets were spread, in the rear of the stage was seen an Indian wigwam, the entire stage setting representing an Indian camp in the woods.

Before the curtain rose on the opening act the audience was delightfully entertained by the De Soto high school orchestra under the direction of Professor G. E. Mayhall. The musical number of the evening program was a violin solo, titled "Indian Legends," presented by Professor A. G. Vredenburg, violinist and Mrs. J. H. Jones, director of violin at Southern College.

As an opening number of the first act the chorus sang "Dead Leaves Amid the Corn," Mrs. W. B. Hall, as a squaw, led the chorus in singing "O Little Town of Bethlehem," in which she played the role of the north wind to come and give them a blessing and grant their wish in finding the red ear of corn. At this time Mrs. J. G. Jones and other members of the chorus appeared on the stage singing "Somebody's Been Up To Something," at the close of this number Mrs. H. G. Jones led the chorus in singing "She is a Regular Indian," which was followed by the entire chorus singing "Burn Her at the Stake."

Mrs. J. L. Scott, playing the part of an Indian Queen, sang "O Star of the Farthest North" in which the Queen pleads with the star god of the north to bring her tidings of her lost king. The next number on the program was an Indian dialogue titled "What Did the Indians Do?" presented by Miss Alice Scott representing the Indian Maiden Pidgee, Mrs. C. W. Morris, that of Pidgee and Lane Orr Albin, representing Impie Light, sang "Two Inherited Traits," the first of which was followed by a Ghost Dance. The first act closed with the Queen, leading the chorus in an Indian Song.

Act two opened with the Indians asleep in camp. In the midst of peaceful slumbers Impie Light comes upon the stage growing as a bear. After awakening the inhabitants she leads the chorus in singing "The Little Bears." Mrs. Austin Carlton led the chorus in singing the Canoe Song. In the next number the chorus sang "Song of Sorrows," which was led by the queen, in which the Queen wept for her three maidens who are supposed to have been drowned. The entire chorus, which later proves to be only a joke. While the funeral march was being played the bodies of the maidens were brought in and placed near the queen. While the queen weeps the three maidens arise as the entire chorus sang "Was there ever Anybody?"

The next number entitled "Somebody's Been Up To Something" was sung by the three maidens Pidgee, Pidgee and Widgee. Just before the closing number the Old Squaw appeared upon the scene and at the request of the queen invokes the red ear of the winds to come and grant the Indians wish in finding the red ear of corn. At the closing number the entire chorus sang "O Little Red Ear," in which the Indians gather the ears of corn and then each one of the three maidens were brought in and placed near the queen. There was much rejoicing when the Indian queen finds the Red Ear and has her wish granted.

Those in charge of the production of this beautiful operetta were: Mrs. Lanier Allin, president of the club, Mrs. J. J. Heard, chorus director and accompanist, and Clara Nell Scott in charge of the drum.

Double Wedding Here Monday

Rev. R. E. Huey, pastor of the Presbyterian church, solemnized the wedding of Earl Peoples and Miss Frances Fiedt, and the wedding of Edna Edman and Miss Jundelle Peoples at a double ceremony at the parsonage on Monday afternoon. Only relatives and friends of the two couples were present to witness the ceremony. Friends of these young people will wish for them a happy wedded life together.

Epuworth Hi-League Meeting Monday

The Epuworth Hi-League met at the church on Monday afternoon for their regular business meeting with the president, Julian Holman, in charge. After hearing reports from officers, plans were made to hold a candy sale on Saturday, Dec. 17th, in the Stewart Arcade building, also plans made for holding a Christmas social. A Christmas program is now being prepared by this group of young people. These present were: Julian Holman, Virginia Holman, Mary Bessie Poppell, Edna Trammel, Edna Andrews, Edwin Kelley, Willa Grace Kelley, Joyce Moore, Jacqueline Moore, Mildred Lofton, Mrs. A. R. Trammel and Mrs. M. E. York.

"My country and its relation to the world," was the Epuworth Hi-League topic discussed at the devotion. The short talk on the subject, with Miss Mildred Williams as the leader, assisted by Miss Grace Austin, Elton Austin, Willa Retha Kelley, Miss Edna Andrews, James Trammel, Estey Kelley, Julian Holman and Mrs. G. H. York, who made the short talk on the subject, and Miss Virginia Holman. As a special number Miss Edna Andrews, Elton Austin and Julian Holman sang "We've a story to tell to the Nations."

Coast Line Makes Crossing Safer

In connection with the Atlantic Coast Line Railway's safety campaign which they, from year to year, have been putting on in each division their road, the company has a work train and crew stationed here for several weeks, excavating sand from the right of way north of town near the road crossing which connects the state highway with the Lake Placid Road. This has been more or less a dangerous crossing and the railway company is going to eliminate this danger by removing the embankment on each side of the road so that motorists approaching the crossing may have a clear view of the track in both directions and be less liable to serious accident. The sand taken from this embankment is being used in the construction of their track in the muck section. Members of the crew stationed here are: N. Johnson, S. E. Wainwright, J. E. Holt, D. M. Chatman, N. Glover and L. R. Glover.

FLORIDA ORANGES ARE TOPPING CALIFORNIA

Bringing 20 Cents a Box More In the Auction Markets

Winter Haven, Dec. 7.—(Special)—Florida orange growers are proving to Californians that "the old order changeth" in the matter of prices paid for oranges. Florida again is leading the way with a margin, during the past week, of twenty cents a box over California's new crop of navel, a bulletin just issued by the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Association reveals. The average price, delivered to the auction markets, for Florida oranges brought $3.10 for 344 cars as against $2.90 for 326 cars of California navel.

This situation was reversed a year ago at the same time, the Clearing House bulletin points out, and the reason was that the time by 30 cents, her average price being $3.25 and Florida's being $2.95 on practically the same volume sold at auction.

"Florida growers generally," the bulletin states, "have come to take it for granted that Florida oranges should trail the California navel orange prices year in and year out. A month or so ago this feeling was not pronounced in that Florida's problem appeared rather complicated because of the irregularity of the blooming period with its consequent difficulty in securing enough mature fruit to ship. It now develops that this was a false alarm and that the state has done better better than the orange growers of California in the matter of production have been taken. Unusual precautions have been predicted for maturity, and the industry has even gone so far as to insure the quality of its fruit during the coming three weeks by having the official inspection period extended 30 days after the ordinary period closes. In that both states are now moving their new crop oranges, the market for Florida oranges is being established on a new basis. This obviously speaks well for the Florida orange and indicates that our old belief that California should command a premium in the market over fruit from Florida is merely an empty superstition."

Controlled By Electricity He Talks, Sings and Smokes

Tampa, Dec. 7.—Willie Vocellite, robot, science's most successful mechanical man, is coming to Florida in January to mingle with the crowds attending the South Florida Fair and Gasparilla Carnival, January 31 to February 11.

Through negotiations just completed with the Westinghouse interests, arrangements have been made for the appearance of the talking, singing, smoking mechanical wonder that has been acclaimed the nearest replica of living man that has ever been devised.

Sound of the voice, transported on light beams to the intricate mass of electrical relays and cells that constitute Willie's brain and heart, trips the gadgets that cause him to break into song, answer questions, smoke cigarettes or go through the hundred or more other human actions that make him the wonder of the scientific age.

Willie is the creation of J. M. Barnett, electrical genius from the Westinghouse Engineering department at Mansfield, Ohio. It is said to be the only robot that performs to the vibrations of vocal commands. Every afternoon and evening he will greet visitors to the fair and on every opportune occasion he will deliver an address in which he will describe the advances of electrical science to which he is indebted for his mechanical brain.

Willie makes his first appearance at an American exposition when he comes to Tampa although he has been a great feature at several gatherings of scientists and at electrical shows throughout the north and in Europe.
