TO MINT NEW GEORGE WASHINGTON QUARTER

Will Bear Image of First President of This Country

The new George Washington quarter dollar, to be issued by the United States Treasury as a feature of the nation-wide George Washington Bicentennial Celebration, will be coined in large enough quantities to satisfy a normal demand, officials of the Treasury have informed the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission. It is expected that the quarter will be ready for distribution before June 1.

The design of the new coin was approved by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills from more than a hundred models, many of them submitted by leading American artists. It was executed by John Flanagan, New York sculptor and designer of the Department of Agriculture World War Memorial.

The obverse of the new coin bears the portrait of George Washington in profile. Over the head appears the word "Liberty" and below it is stamped the date "1776". To one side is the motto "In God We Trust."

The principal design of the other side is a spread eagle with the inscription "United States of America" and "E Pluribus Unum" above, and "Quarter Dollar" below. An olive branch also appears in the eagle to complete a stately, dignified design. The new coin is exactly the same size, weight and fineness as the present quarter dollar. The George Washington quarter is the first coin of the series ever to bear the image of the First President. It was authorized by special act of Congress making it possible for the Treasury to share in the Bicentennial Celebration.

As a coin of regular issue, the George Washington quarter will replace the twenty-five cent piece now in circulation. No other quarter dollar will be coined for the next twenty-five years unless authorized by special act of Congress. Minted at San Francisco, Denver and Philadelphia, it will be placed in circulation through the regular channels of the Federal Reserve Bank and will be used simultaneously in all parts of the country.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

PLANT GRASSING CROPS NOW FOR ANIMALS TO HARVEST NEXT FALL

The Progressive Farmer-Bureauist said the other day that if you don't want to "wait table" for hogs and cows, now is the time to be planting some grazing crops for local hogs and cows. Now is a busy hour late in the afternoon and early in the morning "waiting table" for local hogs and cows. I know that crops which they can graze and harvest themselves do save a lot of trouble and the cafeteria style of feeding suits me considerably better.

The tendency in everything nowadays is to cut down the costs of production. One of the best ways in which hogs and cattle raisers can obtain low production costs is to let the animals harvest their own feeds. Of course, range cattle harvest their feed of grass on the range, but even on the farm, supplemental feeds during the winter when the grass crop is short.

It is possible in the fall to have some kind of grazing crop each month in the year for hogs and plenty of grazing for cattle, hogs and cattle. Most of us know the crops which are suited best to our lands and conditions. One of the best suggestions regarding crops to be grown by writing to the Agricultural Station at Gainesville.

The main thing to bear in mind for us not to neglect to plant these grazing crops. Many of them are already planted. However, if we do not have enough already growing, we should not lose any more time in getting them started. Crops now will furnish good grazing next fall when it is needed.

STAFFORD CALDWELL ISSUES STATEMENTS

Has Personal Message For Democratic Readers of This Paper

From time to time until the primaries are over I will have a personal message for the Democratic readers of this paper. It is entirely proper that I carry my message direct to the Democratic masses of Florida. I shall discuss frankly and fairly public questions and public records in a manner entirely free of personalities. The welfare of the people demands this discussion and if the time ever comes when candidates are afraid to conduct such discussion and when the people do not welcome them then we may know that the masses of the people have departed from this State has departed from this State. I stand ready at all times to publicly correct and apologize for any error which may creep in.

Ever since before man first established a civilized government the people have been engaged in a never-ending struggle against those who would curtail their privileges. In the early days the power applied was physical and the people had to sacrifice life and spill blood to win the rights they enjoy today. In modern times the weapons employed to control the people are money, power, cunning, and sometimes the law. The Florida politicians are trying to convince the people that out of a field of candidates for Governor the people can only choose between two. Such an argument is based only on the desire of the politician to lead the people into a trap between two men whom the politician has picked out for his own purposes may be satisfied with either, or the particular politician may believe that his favorite ex-Governor can defeat the other ex-Governor and is not able to defeat a new man, but whatever the reason the politician has an axe to grind and wants the people to turn the grindstone. We have the first and second primaries and there is nothing to prevent the people from voting for the candidate of their choice. My candidacy is submitted upon that basis. What the people wish to elect for the man whom you believe will make the best Governor and tell the people to quit trying to vote for a man around your neck.

Every now and then some Hardie supporter will say to me, "I have discussed Mr. Hardie's record and claim that I have not discussed Mr. Hardie's record. The truth is that I have been discussing State affairs generally and fully including my remarks upon a study of the State government, especially from the year 1925 to the present time and including the administration of ex-Governor Martin."

My candidacies are based solely on my record of public service to this County in the past and I trust that my efforts have been such as to warrant your continued support and favor. In exchange for this support I elected I promise to continue to go along, we will have every county between now and the first primary a real discussion of the issues in this campaign in the presence of all of us, instead of the long distance potshot campaign that has been going on in this State in Florida with these gentlemen and have a good time discussing the government of Florida for the benefit of the people. Mr. Hardie's record is a record of failure and of Mr. Martin's record face to face with the gentleman who has been in the State for a long time and turning the task of debating with Mr. Martin over to me. My candidacies are important to us but the big thing in every campaign is to elect the man who will solve our problems and their solutions.

Spray Cycad Palms With Bordeaux To Stop Frond Blight

Cycad palms that are being killed by frond blight should be sprayed with 4-5-50 bordeaux to which calcium caseinate has been added at the rate of one pound to ten gallons, according to Dr. G. F. Webster, associate plant pathologist with the Florida Experiment Station. Before spraying he suggests that all the affected fronds be pruned off and burned.

The first symptoms of frond blight on cycads are usually a loss of small yellowing of the fronds over the pinnae leaves. These spots will enlarge, finally turn brown and kill the entire frond. The first spray should be made or less a dormant spray, and should be applied before the new growth starts. That will mean in the near future. A second application should be made when the new growth of fronds is about half expanded.

The California extension service says it costs in California $12.88 a year to keep a doe rabbit, and that on the average a doe returns $16.66; a net loss of $27.72.

CHILDREN'S HOME ISSUES WARNING

Supt. Fagg Asks Lookout Be Kept For Imposter Soliciting Funds

"Watch out for a man travelling about in a Jordan car — soliciting funds for The Children's Home in Jacksonville — or for The Children's Home Society of Florida — for he is an imposter and has no right or authority to solicit funds for The Children's Home Society of Florida — which organization has no solicitors at any time anywhere."

The above statement is issued by Supt. Fagg, State Superintendent of The Children's Home Society of Florida with headquarters in Jacksonville — and branches at Lakeland — Pensacola and Miami.

Supt. Fagg reports the recent receipt of a letter from one of the Society's friends and contributors at Bradenton, Florida — who reports that just recently a man travelling about in a Jordan car, which he claims was given to Supt. Fagg by the President of the Jordan Auto Company — when the company went broke.

This man spoke glowingly of the great sacrifice being made by Supt. Fagg and Treasurer R. V. Covington of the Home Society — and was having considerable success in list of contributors.

His name was not secured — but he was soliciting for the Home Society — for the Society has no solicitors at any time and needs every dollar it can possibly secure and does not want one penny to fall in the hands of imposters.

Please report any one who solicits for the Society — by telegram to Supt. Fagg, Jacksonville — at his expense.

For County Tax Assessor

The county is a big corporation; each taxpayer is a stockholder. You are hiring a man to manage an important department, and I am applying for the job. For eleven years I have held this position and feel that I am partly responsible for the good condition of the county to-day. Let my record be my reference.

I thank you for past favors, which I have tried to merit by an accurate, honest, unbiased performance in my service to the taxpayers.

Your support again will be greatly appreciated.

He Will Make Good Again
(1933-1936)

It is with pleasure I call the attention of the people of Highlands County to the following facts:

FIRST—During my administration of more than seven years the schools of our county have been wonderfully improved and developed until they now rank among the best and most efficient schools in the state.

SECOND—In spite of boom times, bank failures, and the financial depression we have kept our schools open, and the running expenses of the school system paid.

THIRD—By the strictest economy and the pursuance of the very best business methods in every department of the schools and in the purchasing of school supplies we have been able during my administration not only to accomplish the above facts, but also to pay off the bonded indebtedness inherited from old DeSoto County. The Board will close the present school year out of debt, and with a small balance in the treasury.

FOURTH—Last year the school taxes were greatly reduced, and I have already recommended to the Board that we will be in position when we make out our budget in June to make another considerable reduction in school millage for next year.

During my entire administration I have had only one purpose in view—to conscientiously administer the affairs of this office to the advantage of the people of Highlands County.

I greatly appreciate the splendid help and co-operation that you have given me all over the county in making my administration a success, and I assure you that your further support and co-operation will be greatly appreciated.

To the Voters of Highlands County

The office of County School Superintendent is one of the most important offices to be filled in the coming election.

The SUCCESS OR FAILURE of the public schools of our county for the next Four years depends largely upon the superintendent.

The superintendent should, of course, have a broad Educational experience, possess decided Business ability and be a good Executive.

The children of our county are the greatest treasures we have. They have a right to expect the people to place at the head of our schools the very best and most capable person that can be secured.

When you cast your vote on June 7th conscientiously think over these things, and vote for the one you honestly believe is the most capable to handle the affairs of this office.

Respectfully,

A Cohen has just become a member of the Senate. Now watch a Kelly try to crash in.

Hoover went fishing the past week. Suckers were not biting as well as they did in 1928.

An Avon Park incident indicates that it is best, even for a bootlegger, no matter how wet, to keep his bed dry.

Mr. Heflin didn't win a seat in the Senate but he got to talk a whole afternoon, and to him that's almost worth a Senate seat.

Since the government is distributing flour among people who have heretofore patronized the baker, we'll bet there'll be some awful biscuits produced.

It appears that in Tampa so many residents enterprising candidate scattered his cards of cemeteries registered as voters that one all about the tombstones in one of the cities of the dead.

The Japanese Minister of war says Japan is going to make Manchuria "a paradise on earth, safe for everybody." Thanks, but what we've heard of the two places, we think we'd prefer the good old Paradise they used to tell us about in Sunday School.

Philosophic Mrs. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania sums up the story of her political race by saying, "People did not seem as anxious to send me to Congress as I was to go." This formula will come in handy for use by some Florida candidates for Congress next June.

Let us hope Key West will not lose its naval base. It would be a blow to that good city, and it seems a pity for the government to abandon a $30,000,000 investment in such a strategic point. Senators Fletcher and Trammell are working to have the order rescinded.

Lady in Los Angeles became so enraged at the sound of a neighbor's lawn mower that she committed murder. We wouldn't encourage such action as a general proposition, but we can understand how one might take a pot shot at the blythe individual who gets up at dawn to set the lawn mower whirring.

If the Massie trial had been held in the United States it would have taken the jury very few minutes to have returned a verdict of acquittal. We are not as a rule very strong for the unwritten law, but if there ever was justification for it, it was the slaying of this Hawaiian brute.

These "picturesque" Senators may be good vaudeville but not so good when it comes to sane and wise lawmaking. The Senate is well rid of one of this type — the frenzy-haired and wild-eyed gentlemen from Alabama; but there are indications that it has been afflicted with another slightly different stunt-puller in the person of Huey (an erroneous spelling of Hoey) Long.

When a gang attacks a lone individual we are in hearty sympathy with the individual. Consequently, when reading of a number of students at William and Mary College gang a freshman working as a waiter, we were pleased to read that "four of the gang were identified by marks of a clubbing administered by the waiter." That's the way to mark gangsters of every type.

By a 64 to 18 vote the Senate refused to accept the plea of Tom Heflin that his defeat in 1930 by John M. Bankhead was the result of election frauds, and the blatant Alabama voice will be heard in the Senate no more. Heflin, a man of considerable talents and abilities, but erratic and in many ways lacking in the deliberate and judicial temperament that makes for fitness in the Senate, played the part of a poor loser in his contest against the seating of Bankhead. The people will be the gainers by the substitution of the latter for the fiery Heflin, who was not much concerned with constructive legislation, but found his chief enjoyment in setting up windmills and fighting them — it being an easy matter for him to furnish the wind.

It seems that the same college professor wrote a speech for Al Smith and one for Franklin D. Roosevelt, which explains why exactly the same expression appeared in both speeches. From the campaign speeches we have heard we might suspect that the same person had a hand in writing the speeches of all the candidates for Florida State offices.

Despite the small number and the feebleness of surviving Confederate Veterans, they refuse to abandon their annual reunions. There is no reason these gatherings should not be continued after the last veteran has disappeared. The Confederate army may be a memory, but the grand army of sponsors, maids of honor, etc., shows continuous growth and for years past the reunions could have gotten along about as well without the few old boys in gray. These gatherings are worth while, however, if only to perpetuate southern memories and traditions.

Echoes of the State Press

WORSE THAN NEPOTISM.
The Tallahassee Democrat praises Ernest Amos for his great work in saving a small bank in Tallahassee a couple of years ago, while a couple hundred banks in other cities of the state were failing.

The Democrat seems to think that because he saved that one bank he should be re-elected.

We admit the people of Tallahassee should vote for him. He saved their bank. But what about your bank and my bank; your vote and my vote?

We have heard Mr. Amos accused of lots of things—including nepotism, which is feathering his own nest by hiring his relatives. But this statement by his home town paper—that he feathered his own nest by saving his home town bank, while the rest of the state "took it on the chin" is about the same ghastly picture we have seen drawn of the man.

What a man to have in a position of power, supposed to serve a great state—a man with sixteen years experience; a man with great courage, a man of tremendous ability, so his own paper tells us—turning his back on the people of a hundred communities while he saved the bank in his home town where only his relatives and neighbors had money.

We believe J. M. Lee will try to look after all the banks, that's why we are supporting him.—Inverness Chronicle.

CARY A. HARDEE SPEAKS.
While the speech given last Saturday by Cary H. Hardee might not have fared so well at an oratorical contest as the thunder of some of the other aspirants for the gubernatorial nomination, it was filled full of honey logic and might have been the expression of a current chapter taken from the lives of most of us. Bring the expenditures of the state government within the ability of the people to pay, was one of the outstanding thoughts of the address. In our public affairs, do as the average individual is trying to do in his private affairs, don't spend more than you make and at the same time try and take up a little slack in the old obligations which may be hovering near.

Mr. Hardee did not jingle the bells of silver language before his audience, but he dealt, rather with visions nor fancy, but with what are more important to most of us, facts and figures. He did not promise a single thing, except perhaps, to go to Tallahassee and do his best to run the government efficiently and economically. He made no such statements about what he would and wouldn't do, but rather pointed to his record in office of former years and left his audience to judge what might be expected of him.

Public institutions operated for the benefit of the people as a whole, he stated, should be carried on in a manner assuring their returning to the commonwealth value commensurate with the money expended in their operation. Economics can be effected, he said, in the various government departments which he did not see the curtailment of any of our public enterprise, while at the same time reducing the cost of government to the people as a whole.

Mr. Hardee gave some interesting figures in connection with the conduct of office by his successor, not maligning him, but rather calling attention to certain things which indicated a free and easy manner of spending the public's money. He spoke of money borrowed from Tampa and Jacksonville banks, money which he declared has not as yet been paid back. He spoke of the swapping of funds from one department to another, a practice of which he does not approve. He spoke of mounting expenditures in various departments, which, he declared, did not reflect the growth in business handled by these departments. He talked of the power of a political unit or private individual to take over the property of the individual when the taxes on that property are confiscated.

He said one of his greatest aims is to bring back the time in Florida when property will be regarded, not as a liability because of burdensome taxes, but as an asset to the individual.

These and many other things were discussed by Cary H. Hardee in his address, things vital to the people of Florida as a whole, vital to the individual by virtue of his tax obligations to the commonwealth. Cary A. Hardee did not ascend the mountain tops to hurl rainbow phrases to the four winds and thrill his listeners with visionary promises. He spoke of things in at the back door and talked the matter over with his neighbor.

Such is the man who has come before the people to ask that they again honor him with a residence of four years in the Governor's mansion at Tallahassee. Such is the man who is calmly going about the state talking common sense and practical economy in governmental affairs. And such is the man, many are agreed, who will succeed Governor Doyle E. Carlton as governor of the great State of Florida.—Plant City Courier.

So-called newspapers which are financed by politicians who tell the editor what he can print, never have much influence. No legitimate newspaper will support a candidate because of "funding" him. A candidate and respectable newspaper do not try to borrow money from candidates pleading support in return for financial aid.—Melbourne Times.

kept alive until used. Lobsters are one of these. Put a kettle of water on the stove, add a handful of salt and heat to the rolling point. Plunge in the lobsters that have been wiped clean and whose claws have been tied to prevent them from climbing out on to the stove. Boil 20 to 30 minutes, according to size. Too long boiling will toughen the flesh. Drain by laying in upright position. Now lay on its back, cut lengthwise and remove the delicious meat.

There are many ways to prepare the lobster, but of them all what can excel the delicate flavor of the broiled tender meat, seasoned with butter, salt, pepper and lemon juice?

The lobster is a healthful article of diet, though price may effect its use. Being a shell fish it contains nearly twice as much ash as shellfish; the calcium concentrated for ash; iron stored in the liver furnishing the red color that we like to see, and iodine in abundance recommends this creature to frequent use.

Recipe:
Lobster and Mushrooms.
2 cups cooked lobster meat
2 cups mushrooms cut small
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup cream
3 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup oil
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Mince parsley to sprinkle over

Melt butter, add mushrooms, do not brown, but cook slowly. Make a smooth cream sauce of oil, flour, milk and seasonings. Stir until well blended. Now add the mushrooms and lobster. Heat through. Serve in ramekins or on thin slices of toast. Garnish with a thin sprinkling of parsley.

Florida Fish and Seafoods
The speed of the Florida Lobster may be due to the weight of man under which it travels. They are "spiny lobster," "crawfish," "sea crawfish," "langoustine" and "rough, horny or rock lobster." They are generally termed crawfish but shipped as Florida Lobster.

To Key West gave the distinction of the largest lobster fishery of the State. The Southern variety is known as Florida, Northern as Maine. Though no fisheries of commercial importance are found north of Florida.

It seems that this sea creature enjoys the feel of terra firma for it is fished for not farther than a mile from shore.

The fisherman, acquainted with his way always takes along equipment for fish so that, should the weather prove unpropitious, the lobster elusive, he may turn his trip to good account and bring in a load of fish.

There are three ways of taking the lobster, by "traps," "buly nets," "dolly net." In case of the traps the traps are allowed to remain until fair weather returns but the lobster is caught in case of the "buly net" fishing is done usually at night with two men to a boat, for greatest success. With a lantern and net, one man searches the prey while the other man maneuvers the boat so that the net may be dropped over the unsuspecting lobster. This does the frantic efforts of the sea creature only serve to further entangle the legs and it is lifted aboard.

"Stirking" is carried on in the day. Before that time they were seldom shipped outside the State. In 1929 there was marketed 418,200 pounds valued at $36,481. The greatest drawback to the industry is the fluctuating quality, which is affected seriously by weather conditions.

The Florida Lobster, because of its glycogen content, is sweet, delicately and deliciously flavored and tender if not too large. The average length for market purposes is 9 to 10 inches. The male is larger than the female partly because of longer legs. The flesh of the male is firm which lends itself to boiling.

I announce myself a candidate for nomination in the Democratic Primary for the office of Representative from Highlands County in the state legislature.

If nominated and elected I pledge myself to a program of strictest economy for the State in all its departments and to work for a reduction of taxes, and when I speak of a reduction of taxes I do not mean reducing it on one item and raising it twice as much on another.

I will vote and work for a reduction of taxes on homes and farms.

I will vote and work for a reduction of auto tag costs and the elimination of the fee collecting tag agencies, placing the distribution and sale of tags in the tax collector's office without fees.

I will vote against and work against any new tax of whatever nature.

I am not the candidate of any group or faction. I am an independent business man and grove owner, and am not employed directly or indirectly by any corporation or individual.

Parrish House Scene of Lovely Party.

Upon entering the Parrish House on Monday afternoon, guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses, Mrs. A. M. Morgan and Mrs. D. V. Rouse and were at once charmed with the artistic appearance of the spacious room arranged for the twenty-one table May Day bridge party. Mrs. Morgan was wearing a lavender eyelet embroidered dress and Mrs. Rouse was attired in a green frock of the same texture with bolero jacket effect. Both wore beautiful corsages in shades of pink, green and lavender, the chosen color motif for all the party appointments. In the center of the room was a flower table with May pole with wide ribbon streamers extending to the chairs and tied in a large bow. On either side stood Alice Rouse and Mrs. Morgan, small daughters of the hostesses, dressed as a rose and a violet and holding an inverted rose and violet cup which held the contract and auction tallies, portrayed in green and lavender with pink ribbon bows.

A gorgeous profusion of spring's loveliest flowers in floor baskets were at intervals about the room while green bowls and vases of pink roses and blue and white shades of pink and lavender tones from a light orchid to a deep purple were placed on each window sill and the mantel. The fire place was banked with greenery interspersed with flowers in the desired shades.

The three choirs of the girls were again in evidence in the table appointments, each table being centered with a miniature May pole entwined with ribbon and flowers at the four corners. Lace doilies and pink napkins added to the pretty table effect. The guests were served after arrival and the delicious refreshments were a fruit parfait, topped with lavender tinted whipped cream, ribbon sandwiches in pink and green and fancy cakes in a variety of designs. Passing among the tables with additional delectable sweets in baskets were the little girls in pink and lavender frocks representing flowers and Bobby Rouse who wore a green suit.

"Every Time You Save a Dollar You Put a Man To Work"

This is an old saying, but very true. We can make no better suggestion, now, than to suggest that you start "Financial Farming." There are several rules to follow:

First as in planting any seed, you would select the GROUND. Select a good bank.

The second step: let the dollars represent SEED, and sow a "crop" of them regularly by depositing in a savings account.

Let the interest earned represent CULTIVATION, and we will take care of that part. The CROP, when harvested, will represent anything for which you have purposely saved this money.

Money saved makes available money for spending. Money spent makes employment available.

Sunday School Lesson

FOR MAY 8, 1932.

SUBJECT: Esau Sells His Birthright (Temperance Lesson).

GOLDEN TEXT: "Every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things." 1st Cor. 9:25.

LESSON TEXT: Genesis 25:27-34.

TIME AND PLACE OF LESSON: 1805 B. C.; Beersheba.

Twenty years after the marriage of Isaac and Rebekah their twin sons, Esau and Jacob, were born. The name "Esau" means red, while "Jacob" meant "deceiver" or "supplanter." Esau was a few minutes older than Jacob, and under the Hebrew law was entitled to twice as much of his father Abraham's estate as the younger son. The older son was also head of the family or tribe, and entitled to act as priest for the family. These privileges were called the "birthright."

Our lesson says, "The boys grew; and Esau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man, dwelling in tents." Esau enjoyed the wild life of the desert and the dangers of the hunter of big game, while Jacob loved a simple home life.

"And Isaac loved Esau, because he did eat of his venison; but Rebekah loved Jacob." For years before his death Isaac was blind. For food Esau furnished him with the best of the wild game he killed. Jacob remained at home with his mother and they were companions around their home tents.

Isaac and Rebekah both made the mistake of being partial toward one of their children. Such a course is almost certain to cause suspicion by the children toward the parents and hatred among the children. In speaking of such favoritism by parents a writer says, "Miserable discord ensues when the two guides do not confront the children as one being; one thought, one heart, one head; when appeal is made to the one from the other; when children use one parent as a shield against the other; the one permits what the other prohibits; the one assents, and the other refuses."

The lesson says, "And Jacob sold potage; and Esau came from the field, and he was faint." The word "sold" in the text means "boiled," and the "potage" was similar to bean or pea soup, and was a favorite dish.

When Esau smelled and saw the food he "said to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with that same red potage; for I am faint; therefore was his name called Edom." Esau was a small territory lying south of the Dead Sea, and Esau is said to have been the ancestor of the Edomites.

When Esau asked for the potage, "Jacob said, sell me this day thy birthright." Jacob took advantage of his brother's hunger to secure his birthright and all that he would inherit as the older son.

For that conduct Jacob has always been criticised. Many think Rebekah conspired with her favorite son to thus swindle his brother.

Esau was a man of strong appetites and desires, "And Esau said, Behold, I am at the point to die, and what profit shall this birthright do to me?" But Jacob wanted the strongest transfer that could be made. "And Jacob said, Swear to me this day; and he swore upon him; and he sold his birthright unto Jacob. Then Jacob gave Esau bread and potage of lentils; and he did eat and drink, and rose up, and went his way; thus Esau despised his birthright."

It is said this only gave Esau's consent to the transfer, but the birthright was really transferred by the blessing of Isaac obtained by the treachery of Rebekah and Jacob, as described in Chapter 27 of Genesis, which you should read.

Each of you has a birthright, the love of God and favor, prepared by Christ, furnishing to you the blessings of a Christian life in this world and of eternal life after death here. We are offered these blessings without price. Believe in Jesus as the Son of God, and acceptance of him as our savior are the conditions. The text and comments of this lesson are applied to temperance and prohibition.

Under the heading, EVILS OF INTOXICATION, Peloubet's Notes on the Sunday School Lessons, says "As opium is to the Chinese, so is alcohol a source of many popular delusions among the western nations, many impressions are most deceptive; alcohol promises rest and actually makes the body less fit for exertion; it promises comfort, and then increases the total misery, sickness, and poverty; it promises warmth and makes men freeze more quickly; it gives momentary relief from care and the next day after the night before brings a new crushing burden, mental, emotional, physical, and social." "Earlier fatigue, susceptibility to accident and disease, and greater mental depression." Esau's yielding to his appetite is similar to our surrender to the use of liquor.

Chicago, Ill., May 4.—A. B. Miller, one of the members of the California Century of Progress commission and president of the California State board of agriculture, has been in Chicago arranging for California's exhibits at the exposition next year.

"In keeping with the general spirit of the Century of Progress exposition," said Mr. Miller, "we shall make the California exhibit, as far as practicable, one of processes as well as products, utilizing dioramas, working models and machinery, wherever possible to give it life."

Mr. Miller said, "In the citrus exhibit, for instance, we will show, in addition to great dioramas of citrus groves, the actual processes of packing and shipping the fruit to market, with actual machinery on the ground. We hope to make an especially good exhibit of our citrus industry, which is one of our major industries, with a view toward making the millions of visitors to the exposition California-conscious, so far as oranges are concerned."

Mr. Miller was accompanied to Chicago by Theodore Harlow, managing director of the California commission, who discussed with exposition officials the requirements for all of California's many exhibits.

Rev. DeWane Gives Book Review of the Purpose In Prayer

"Purpose in Prayer," by Edward M. Bounds was the subject of a book review at the library last Thursday afternoon, given by Rev. Chas. E. DeWane, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene. In part, Rev. DeWane said:

"In the opening chapter great emphasis is given to the importance of prayer. The more praying there is the better the world will be and the mightier the forces against evil will function. Prayer is in one phase of its operation a disinfectant and a preventive. There is in its influence such a positive force for righteousness that men are held from doing many things and will do many other things that should do through the direct force of prayer. The prayers of God's saints are the capital stock in heaven by which Christ carries on his great work upon earth."

There are great possibilities in prayer. Such as very few individuals have any appreciation. The progress of God himself are changeable and have been changed by men of prayer. Job's miserable, mistaken, comforters had so departed themselves in their controversy with Job that God's wrath was kindled against them. God changed His mind when Job prayed earnestly for his friends. Pharaoh was a firm believer in prayer. Moses interceded for him and changed the plague of God. Down to modern times Martin Luther when once asked what his plans were for the following day, were, "Work, work, from early until late. In fact, I have so much to do that I shall spend the first three hours in prayer."

There is a secret that few find in praying. The secret is learned by more praying. Christ left the message that his house was not a house of merchandise but it shall be an house of prayer. But what has it been turned into to-day? The progress of God himself are changeable and have been changed by men of prayer. Job's miserable, mistaken, comforters had so departed themselves in their controversy with Job that God's wrath was kindled against them. God changed His mind when Job prayed earnestly for his friends. Pharaoh was a firm believer in prayer. Moses interceded for him and changed the plague of God. Down to modern times Martin Luther when once asked what his plans were for the following day, were, "Work, work, from early until late. In fact, I have so much to do that I shall spend the first three hours in prayer."

It is said that the late C. H. Spurgeon, that he glided from laughter to prayer with the naturalness of one who lived in both elements. Such shows the possibility of having prayer a second nature. We acquire a new atmosphere when we acquire the art of praying.

Prayer is not an opiate but a tonic. It does not lull to sleep but arouses anew for action. The lazy man does not and when there is Paul the apostle calls it striving, and agony. With Jacob it was wrestling. With the Syrophenician woman it was a struggle which called into play all the higher qualities of the soul, and which demanded great force to meet. The church is not an asylum for the indolent and worthless Christian. It is not a nursery where babes belong. It is the battlefield of the church; its citadel; the scene of heroic and unearthly conflicts.

Prayer in its highest form and grandest success assumes an attitude of a wrestler with God. It is the contest, trial and victory of faith. There is neither encouragement, nor room in Bible Religion for feeble desires, listless efforts, lazy attitudes; but must be strenuous, urgent, ardent, undivided desires, impassioned, unwearied insistence delight the ear of God.

To experience prayer one must be intimate with God. Intimacy requires development. Christ exhorts men that they should always pray and never to faint. The goal of prayer is the ear of God.

The cause of God has no commercial age, no cultured age, no age of education, and no age of money. But it has one golden age, and that is the age of prayer.

There are a great number of hindrances to prayer which are having effect upon the nations of the world in general. Religion is bound to decline when praying is hindered. Business and other duties are good but we are so filled with these that they crowd out and destroy the best. This practice will have its inevitable effect on the spiritual man and will demonstrate to the world the weakness of our religion. We must live for God out of the prayer closet if we would meet Him in the prayer closet. It makes a great deal of difference whether we come to God as a criminal or a child; to be pardoned or approved; to settle scores or be embraced. Our lives not only give colour to our prayer but they give body to it as well. Bad living makes bad praying. We pray feebly because we live feebly. The stream of praying cannot rise higher than fountain of living. We cannot talk to God with confidence when we have not lived before Him in all good confidence and Godliness.

The object of prayer is to receive. The aim of seeking is to find. The purpose of knocking is to arouse the attention and get in. This is Christ's prescription for praying.

As our great example in prayer, our Lord puts love as the primary condition—a love that has purified the heart from all elements of hate, revenge, and ill will. Love is the supreme condition of prayer, a life inspired by love. Without love in the heart and without prayer the Christian life is robbed of its sweetness and its beauty. It becomes cold, formal, and dead. But rooted in the secret place where God meets and walks and talks with His own, it grows into such a testimony of Divine power that all men will feel its influence and be touched by the warmth of its love.

Edward McKendree Bounds was born in Shelby County, Mo., August 15, 1835 and died August 24, 1913 in Washington, Ga. He received a common school education at Shelbyville and he was admitted to the bar soon after his majority. He practiced law until the call to preach the gospel which was at the age of 24.

Mr. Bounds was the embodiment of humility, with a seraphic devotion to Jesus Christ. At the age of 76 years he came to Mr. Hodge of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the early hour of 3 o'clock in the morning. So burdened was he for the lost of the world he besought help. Thus he went to his room and under the inspiration of God wrote this great book, "Purpose in Prayer."

POPULAR EGG DISHES.

Housewives should take advantage of the cheapness of eggs by using them more liberally in the diet. Eggs can be served in so many different ways that no one should ever become tired of them. In whatever way they are served they are an efficient source of protein, minerals, and vitamins needed for building the body and keeping it healthy.

Aside from boiling, poaching, frying, and baking eggs, there are many popular combinations with meats, cheese, or vegetables, and such other delicious dishes as omelets, souffles, whips, custards, and dressings.

Baked in Tomato Cups. Scoop out the center of large, firm, ripe tomatoes. Sprinkle the tomato cups lightly on the inside with butter. Break an egg into each cup, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and fine bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the tomato skins are slightly wrinkled.

Hollandaise Sauce.

Use four eggs, four tablespoonfuls lemon juice, 1/2 cupful butter, 1/4 teaspoonful salt, a dash of cayenne, and 1/4 cupful boiling water. Divide the butter into three portions. Beat the egg yolks and lemon juice together, add one piece of butter and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture begins to thicken. Remove from the stove, add a second piece of butter and stir rapidly. Then add the remaining butter and continue to stir until the mixture is completely blended. Add the salt, cayenne, and boiling water. Return to the double boiler and stir until the sauce thickens.

Eggs Benedict. Toast slices of bread. Place on top of each toasted piece a thin slice of cooked ham or crisply cooked bacon, and on top of this a poached egg. Cover with hot Hollandaise sauce and serve at once.

National I-H Broadcast. The National 4-H club radio broadcast for May will go over an N.B.C. network Saturday, May 7, from 12:30 to 1:30 P.M. EST. America's favorite songs will be played by the U. S. Marine Band, and club members from West Virginia and Indiana will speak. Florida stations to carry the program are WJAX, WIOD, and WSUN-WFLA.

She was brought to the hospital Sunday by her parents but too late for medical treatment to be of any avail.

She and her brother saw two rabbits run into a hollow log and they drove one out with a stick and caught it. She reached in for the other and the snake struck her on the right hand at the base of the thumb.

Burial was Tuesday afternoon in pinecrest cemetery. Besides the parents there survive five brothers and sisters.
