Letter From Father to Daughter On Hoover Prosperity

(From Okcechobes News)

My Dear Daughter:

You ask me if your husband should keep his present position at an "adjusted" salary, but I forgot to tell me what he would do if he didn't. You and he couldn't very well come here just now. Your brother Sheridan's salary has been "reconsidered." So he moved into his old room at home and brought me and you.

Your sister Eloise telegraphed the next day that Wilfred had been offered a contract that was an insult. So your mother is airing out her room. Wilfred never could endure insults. Your sister Frances, who you will recall, has been a private secretary. Your sister last week that if anybody thinks she is going to drop to the level of a common typist, they are mistaken. We expect her any day.

What with the children and the young children, I imagine that as long as Rupert's salary is being adjusted, he had better stay. An adjustment is nothing like a reduction.

My own business is coming along fine. It was sold on the court house steps last Friday, but there were no bidders. So the sheriff let me keep it. I think the best month I've had since the Hoover upturn.

YOUR DAD.

Lewis F. Spink Passes On After Lingering Illness

The funeral service for Lewis F. Spink, long time resident and property owner of Avon Park, was held from the undertaking parlors of Stephenson and Nylke at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon. The friends gathered to show their last respect and honor to the deceased overflew the casket, flowers and porches and onto the lawn, and the flower tokens, set pieces and sheaves sent by the sympathizing friends and organizations covered the casket and were banded across the entire end of the room.

The vocal numbers of the service were given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Gargner of the Congregational church and Dr. A. F. Vaughn of the same church conducted the service. Interment was made in the family plot in Bogusville cemetery, where Mr. Spink's parents are buried. The pall bearers were Fred M. Smith, Guy McGibboney, E. W. Welch, E. R. West, C. W. Thomas, and W. M. McCarthy. It was a day of golden autumn weather and a long train of autos followed the hearse to the cemetery to share in the final ceremony.

Lewis F. Spink, son of Andrew M. and Alvira M. Spink, was born May 14, 1875 at Spink's Corners, Mich., and passed away from his home on Central Avenue, Avon Park at 1:30 Monday afternoon, October 31, aged 57 years, five and one-half months.

Mr. Spink early learned the printer's trade and for many years was employed by prominent newspapers in cities in Michigan.

On January 18, 1903 he was married to Pearl Adams at Benton Harbor, Michigan, and some twenty years ago they moved to Avon Park and have since made it their home. Mr. Spink was affiliated with the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Suffering from a malignant ailment, Mr. Spink had sought the aid and treatment of the most skilled experts in medical science and at times was hopeful of a cure, a hope that was not to be fulfilled. And through years of suffering and increasing weakness he has endured with admirable courage and fortitude the ravages of the disease that finally was fatal. He was survived by his widow, his sister, Mrs. Ada Dilley, and his brother, Glenn H. Spink, all of Avon Park.

Highlands County Poultry Make Good Egg Laying Record

Two Highlands county poultrymen appear on the report for the past year of the Florida Home Egg Laying contest. The report covers the period from October, 1931, to September, 1932, inclusive, and Mrs. Dorothy Nixon, Sebring, with a group of 250 birds, whose flock consists of 100 percent pullets, White Leghorns, and averaged 289.71 eggs per bird for the period.

In group four, over 500 birds, Mrs. Edith M. Payne of Sebring stands second. Her 706 White Leghorns averaged 184.88 eggs per bird for the 12 months period.

PARISH HOUSE KITCHEN PARTIALLY DESTROYED

Fire Does Damage To Contents, But Firemen Save Main Building From Loss

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the kitchen of the parish house at about midnight Wednesday. Prompt response of the fire department saved the main part of the building, which was only slightly damaged by smoke and water.

The ladies of the Episcopal guild had been working all day Wednesday and into the night making preparations for serving luncheon Thursday noon to about 500 women of the Service League of the Episcopal church coming here for a neighborhood meeting. The ladies left the building at about 10:30 Wednesday night, after having arranged the tables and set everything in readiness for the luncheon. No fire had been lit in the kitchen, the ladies stated.

The fire, apparently starting on the floor of the kitchen at about the center of the room, ate its way through the floor and spread to envelope the kitchen. The alarm was turned in by Mrs. Heber Weller, and the blaze was quickly extinguished, with little damage as possible to the building. The main room was opened and cleared of smoke by Fire Chief W. H. McCarthy and his men and the main room cleaned and mopped of water that had come through from the kitchen, and the ladies were able to use the room for the luncheon Thursday noon. As the building was left open, Chief McCarthy stationed Firemen Matt and Overstreet to stand guard over the premises the remainder of the night.

The damage, estimated at several hundred dollars, will be repaired immediately, it was stated by volunteers of the church. Contents of the kitchen including a large quantity of dishes, silverware and cooking utensils, which were lost. The loss is covered by insurance.

Mr. Farmer Makes Answer to Carson Statements Here

Because circumstances have prevented him from making a public reply to a speech recently delivered in Avon Park by W. Z. Carson, the Times has been asked by L. T. Farmer to reply to certain references made to him by the speaker. Regarding Mr. Carson's failure to get his name on the list of the primary and other points covered by the report of the speech, Mr. Farmer has this to say:

"I never did at any time object to my opponent's name going on the ballot, as will be borne out by the county commissioners. The contents of campaign expenses be filed at a certain time and the county records by the county clerk. I have thirty minutes of advertising over the radio. The broadcasts were made in the near future, and each city is invited to prepare a veterans program to be sent out through the courtesy of the public service company. One city will be on the air each week until all have had their turn, and the cost will be borne by the company, according to announcement of E. E. Melton, local manager."

"I did not furnish any blanks to anyone or notify any candidate, as this matter was supposed to be handled by the Democratic executive committee."

"My daughter never was employed in my office at any time on a salary or otherwise."

"The recording fees charged by me are provided by the statute and if the controller and attorney general will authorize me to charge a lesser fee I will be glad to do so."

Negro Shoots Wife and Commits Suicide

Willie Ash, Avon Park negro, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Della Ash, for November 1, in celebration Monday night in the negro quarters and then killed himself.

The shooting occurred at the home of the woman's father, N. H. Higgins, with whom she has been making her home for several months, following her separation from Ash. The husband had been attempting a reconciliation for some time, Higgins stated. The woman died in a Sebring hospital Tuesday night, where she was taken for an operation in an attempt to save her life. She received four bullet wounds.

Avon Park Contempt Case Is Dismissed By Judge W. J. Barker

The contempt of court proceedings brought against the officials of Avon Park by the Guaranty Title and Trust Co. of Wichita, Kansas, were dismissed by Judge W. J. Barker after a hearing in chambers Tuesday afternoon. Attorneys for the Kansas company contended the present and the former council of Avon Park had failed to make and collect a mill levy to pay notes ordered by the court in a mandamus suit in 1929.

C. S. Pardee, city attorney of Avon Park, defended the city officials of which only one, E. A. DeLaney, was present. Mr. Pardee cited the action of the council in effect at the time of the suit, and showed that they had passed an ordinance levying the five mill levy and stated that negotiations had been entered into and a settlement had been made. The court refused to grant the ruling for contempt on the grounds that too long a time had elapsed since the filing of the mandamus suit and the petition for a rule of contempt, but that in the court's opinion a new mandamus suit would have to be brought.

ALLEGED KIDNAPING NEAR ISTOKPOGA

Henry Taylor Forced To Abandon Daughter at Point of Gun

An alleged kidnapping is reported to have taken place Monday evening near Arbuckle Creek in the Istokpoga neighborhood when Henry Taylor was forced to leave his little daughter at the point of a gun. Mr. Taylor had instituted divorce proceedings against his wife, and the court had given him custody of his two and half year old daughter.

Mrs. Taylor is said to have returned to her parents home in company with another woman and two men. They proceeded to Istokpoga where Taylor was working and under the pretext of Mrs. Taylor's father wanting to see the little girl, persuaded Taylor to get in their car with his daughter and accompany them to Sebring where the grandfather was supposed to be. When a lone car was seen leaving the scene, Taylor was forced from the car at the point of a gun and the car sped off, leaving the little girl, left for parts unknown.

So far no trace of the alleged kidnappers has been found by all sheriffs and police officers have been notified. Taylor was unable to identify any of the party except his wife and could give but a meager description of them.

Public Service Co. Sponsors Broadcast of Florida Cities

Through an arrangement between the Florida Public Service Company and WDBO of Orlando, Avon Park and Sebring will have thirty minutes of advertising over the radio. The broadcasts will start in the near future, and each city is invited to prepare a veterans program to be sent out through the courtesy of the public service company. One city will be on the air each week until all have had their turn, and the cost will be borne by the company, according to announcement of E. E. Melton, local manager.

Recall Case Set For Argument Nov. 18

The recall case, in which petitioners of the City of Avon Park asked for the recall of the Avon Park city council, has been set for oral argument before the supreme court for November 18. The city councilmen are represented by S. C. Pardee and F. T. Haskins. The petitioners will be represented by T. A. McNicholas and J. M. Lee.

Congregational Sunday School Picnic Saturday

The Sunday school of the Union Congregational church will have its annual picnic at Lake Wales, Saturday afternoon, November 5, starting at 2 p.m. All members of the Sunday school and the church, as well as their friends, are cordially invited to attend.

HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL IS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Woman's Club Provides Entertainment and Makes Sum for Treasury.

The Halloween Carnival sponsored by the Ways and Means committee of the Woman's Club given on last Saturday evening proved highly successful, both from a financial standpoint, as well as affording an evening of fun for those attending.

From about four o'clock on, the streets began filling with the crowd, dressed in Halloween attire, many partaking of the delicious hot dogs, hamburgers, doughnuts and candy. The party was surrounded by the members of the committee served in the store room formerly occupied by the Sweet Shop cafe.

Poison balls, taffy and confetti were sold on the streets while the fish pond proved a popular concession. The fortune teller's tent in the park was surrounded by a crowd all evening for those wishing to have their future foretold.

The children's parade began at seven o'clock, leaving the bandstand, which was gaily decorated with jack-o-lanterns and festoons of black and orange crepe paper, and passing around the park and before the judges, returning to the bandstand where prizes were awarded.

Josephine Brown and Garth Spencer received the prizes for the cutest costumes and Eugenia Vandewater of Newburgh, N. Y., and granddaughter Mrs. Ida Calender, was awarded the prize for the most unique. The other prizes which were disposed of to the benefit of the club were distributed at this time. Ferd d'Anguera received the duck, Mrs. F. Grey, the pocketbook and Sport, the cake.

Later in the evening a street dance was enjoyed in a section roped off for this purpose, with good music accompanying the dance.

Mrs. D. V. Rouse, general chairman of the carnival and Mrs. W. T. Gooch, chairman of the Ways and Means committee wish to thank each one who contributed and those who assisted in any way to make the affair a pronounced success. The evening was marked with a spirit of good wholesome fun and those responsible for the successful event features are to be congratulated for their ability to put on a carnival which everyone was able to enjoy and at such a reasonable price.

Fairly Attends Service Officers' School at Arcadia

R. T. Fairly, service officer for Highlands post, attended the school for service officers of the American Legion held in Arcadia Tuesday. He represented the local Legion post, which he has served the past year and will continue to serve for another year. The school was held at the Highlands post and was attended by a number of veterans and their families.

On October 29th, he stated, he received an additional check for $40.00. Mr. Carson exhibited this last check which was dated October 15th. The envelope was postmarked October 19th, and he received it the morning of the 29th, he stated.

Mr. Carson asked that this statement be made in order to sustain his former statements, made in his speeches that he had not received any more refund money than had Mr. Farmer or any other candidate. The additional check was paid to him on October 29th.

Mrs. Johnston Dies After Short Illness

Mrs. Margaret Virginia Johnston, mother of Mrs. John Sears Francis and Reuben Johnston, of this city, passed away at her home in Wauchula, Florida, Tuesday night, following a short illness. Services were held in Wauchula Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the chapel, and the remains were shipped to Livingston, Alabama, for interment.

Mrs. Johnston is survived by Mrs. Francis and Mr. Johnston of Avon Park, Mrs. Hortense Reese of Wauchula, and Mr. J. O. Cooper of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Francis and Mrs. Reese accompanied her remains to Livingston, Alabama.

The Forgotten Man

By EDWIN MARKHAM

Dedicated to Franklin D. Roosevelt, after hearing his lofty and noble appeal for the Forgotten Man.

NOT on our golden fortunes bailed high—
Not on our boasts that soar into the sky—
Not upon these is resting in this hour
The fate of the future; but upon the power
Of him who is forgotten—yes, on him
Rest all we hopes reaching from rim to rim.
In him we see all of earth's toiling bands,
With crooked backs, scarred faces, shattered hands.

HE seeks no office and he asks no praise
For all the patient labor of his days.
He is the one supporting the huge weight:
He is the one guarding the country's gate.
He bears the burdens on these earthly ways:
We pile the debts, he is the one who pays.
He is the one who holds the solid power
To steady nations in their trembling hour.
Behold him as he silently goes by,
For it is at his word that nations die.

SHATTERED with loss and lack,
He is the man who holds upon his back
The continent and all its mighty loads—
This toiler who makes possible the roads
On which the gilded thousands travel free—
Makes possible our feasts, our roving boards,
Our pumps, our easy days, our golden hoards.
He gives stability to nations; he
Makes possible our nation, sea to sea.
His strength makes possible our college walls—
Makes possible our legislative halls—
Makes possible our churches soaring high
With spires, the fingers pointing to the sky.

SHALL then this man go hungry, here in lands
Blest by his honor, bled by his hands?
Do something for him: let him never be Forgotten: let him have his daily bread:
He who has fed us, let him now be fed.
Let us remember all his tragic lot—
Remember, or else he ourselves forget!

ALL honor to the one that in this hour
Cries to the world as from a lighted tower—
Cries for the Man Forgotten. Honor the one
Who asks for him a glad place in the sun.
He is a voice for the voiceless. Now, indeed,
We have a tongue that cries the mortal need.

W. Z. Carson Makes Statement To Clear Up Certain Rumors

In order to clear up rumors which he states are being circulated, W. Z. Carson, candidate for clerk of the circuit court, said today that up until October 20th, he had not received one cent more from the Democratic executive committee than had Mr. L. T. Farmer. There was a surplus left over after holding the primary and caucus. "It has also been rumored that Frank Wyalog of Sebring will be appointed deputy clerk, if I am elected. There is no foundation for this rumor," stated Mr. Carson. "Whatever work Mr. Wyalog has done for me has been voluntary and out of friendship for me," he added.

Girl Scout News

The girl scouts were pleased to have a visitor Friday night. Mrs. A. H. Brookes attended the meeting.

We will surely look forward to next Friday night. We are planning to have a camp fire instead of the regular meeting. Stories and songs will make up the campfire program.

At our signalling class, Miss Kington let some of the scouts signal a few letters to the rest of the troop. One would surely see the whole troop were to signal if the whole troop were to signal.

Legion Installation Followed by Supper At Mandis Dairy

New officers of Highlands post American Legion were installed at the Legion hall Wednesday night by Judge W. J. Barker, acting on behalf of the department of Florida.

An interesting report on the service officers' school at Arcadia was given by R. T. Fairly, who attended on behalf of the post.

The post voted to give the new officers a special award, a medal this year and to make the presentation an annual event.

Judge W. J. Barker, who is post judge advocate, announced that incorporation papers had been completed and a charter granted to Highlands post, and that he would effect the transfer of Legion property from the trustees to the corporation.

Ushering in the new year in Legion affairs, the membership gathered at Mandis Dairy farm Thursday night and enjoyed a roast pig supper. Several invited local guests and Legionnaires Jimmie Ball and George Wyandt of the Sebring post also attended.

J. S. Francis To Re-Enter Hospital

Following the burial of Mrs. Virginia Johnston at Livingston, Alabama, J. S. Francis will re-enter the hospital at Birmingham, Alabama, and undergo further treatment and an operation. His recent operation did not remedy his trouble and he is going back to Birmingham to be treated by physicians. Mrs. Francis accompanied him and will remain with him.

AGREE ON SETTLEMENT OF CITY'S LIGHT BILL

Florida Public Service Company Accepts Six Yearly Notes in Payment.

A plan for the settlement of the city's light and water debt to the Florida Public Service Company was agreed upon at Tuesday night's council meeting. The plan was worked out between City Clerk Francis Shockey and E. E. Melton, representing the light company, calls for the payment of the $75,542.52 delinquent light and water bill in six yearly installments of $3,252.32 each. The notes with interest added until maturity will range from $3,474.40 due November 1, 1933, to $4,423.16, due November 1, 1938. The total indebtedness will amount to $23,611.86. The plan also contemplates the payment monthly of the current light and water bill. It was estimated that the city's light and water bills would amount to about $1,000 a month. The council, however, considered this the best way out of the situation.

The time limit for accepting bonds in payment of delinquent taxes, which expired on November first, was extended to December first upon request of City Attorney S. C. Pardee who asked for more time in closing certain tax collections now under way, but which he was unable to complete within the original time limit.

Reduction of light and water rates to consumers was discussed briefly and is still being considered though nothing definite has been developed. Councilman E. A. DeLaney stated that he would insist on a reduction of ice prices to correspond with prices charged in neighboring towns served by the Florida Public Service Company. Mr. Melton promised to take up the matter of rates with the company, and gave assurances there would be no discrimination against Avon Park users.

An estimate of the cost of a fire works display, which Mayor M. E. Covington has promised to have for the city for Christmas eve, was given at about $150. The council decided to defer the proposition to the chamber of commerce and ask that organization to stand half of the expense.

A request from Mason Draper, Sebring, for reduction in the $25 license fee charged agents, was refused, the council holding that the fee was in line with other neighboring towns.

Grand Jury Is Drawn To Meet Wednesday; Civil Cases Are Set

Circuit Judge W. J. Barker drew the venire for grand jury duty at the courthouse Tuesday morning following the sounding of the docket and the setting of trial dates for civil cases.

At least seven civil cases were set for trial beginning November 9 and 10 following which criminal cases will be heard.

The docket is rather lean this year. Many of the cases sounded involve persons who are dead, others were read in which either plaintiff or defendant have long since sought the bankruptcy court.

The venire as drawn by the judge which will be summoned for duty on November 9, at 9:30 o'clock by Sheriff Wolf, is as follows:

G. W. Williams, N. W. Hill, D. W. Cobb, C. D. Godwin, H. H. Ray, C. M. L. For, E. W. O'Brien, C. W. Williams, Whiff W. Masters, W. T. Conell, F. S. Bee, Chas. Calmes, E. A. DeLaney, E. B. Franklin, Sam Shepherd, Marvin Green, G. S. Sloman, Jr., W. W. Bell, L. Stokes, H. C. Eyrnes, H. B. Cobb, R. M. Bishop, R. A. Franklin, Sam Dugger, W. B. Archer, Edward Hask, M. H. Gries, M. W. Davis, A. M. McAlauly, Henry H. H. Halliday, J. W. B. drew.

Following the drawing of the jury venire court was adjourned.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

Pride in the boys of the fire department and Legionnaires was doubly increased by their untiring energy and skillful management shown Wednesday night at the burning of the kitchen of the Sebring house.

Service, not only along the line of duty, but many little acts of kindness in the way of help and preparation for our guests of the following day is appreciated.

—The Guild of the Church of the Redeemer.
Mrs. Kathleen Jones, Secretary.

Seed Sweet Potatoes Should Be Selected At Time of Digging

Seed sweet potatoes should be selected at digging time, since that is the time to eliminate trouble from such diseases as mosaic and stem rot, and to select the best tubers from the best hills, Erdman West, mycologist at the Florida Experiment Station, points out.

Bedding tubers should be saved from hills that have made good yields of potatoes that are of the desired color and shape. By selecting from such hills, mosaic is practically eliminated.

When the hills have been selected split the stem or crown of the vines and look for stem rot. A brownish color instead of a white or greenish color indicates the disease and should disqualify the hill. Tubers from such a vine would likely produce weak, infected draws, and only serve to scatter the infection.

After the hills have been dug only the bright, clean, and unimpaired potatoes should be saved as seed. These potatoes should be stored in new or disinfected bins and containers, and should be treated when they are bedded.

The bins and containers may be disinfected with either a formaldehyde or bluestone solution, one pound to 25 gallons of water, whitewash, or sprayed with Bordeaux mixture.

Before being bedded, the potatoes should be dipped in a solution of bichloride of mercury made by dissolving one ounce of the crystals in eight gallons of water. They should stay in the solution for 10 minutes, be allowed to dry, and bedded immediately.

Alachua Boy Wins 4-H Prize As Best Producer of Meat

The Thos. E. Wilson $50 gold watch given annually to the 4-H club boy in Florida who has made the best record in the production of meat animals has been won by Bill Chug, 17-year-old Alachua county club boy, according to an announcement by R. W. Blacklock, state boys' club agent.

Bill has been in the 4-H club for four years during which time he has earned a gross income of $900 from his club projects. He is now practically an independent farmer, practicing diversification, improving the soil, and doing all around good farming. He is now conducting 4-H club projects, in co-operation with County Agent Fred Craft, in growing corn, peanuts, cotataria, calves, fat barrows, and breeding pigs.

One of Bill's outstanding projects was a litter of nine fat barrows which he recently sold for 30 cents above the prevailing market price and at a profit of $39.44. The pigs were fattened in February in a clean house and immediately turned on a field of oats. They were kept on such grazing crops until four months old, when they were weaned and turned on a field of corn. This system, worked out by the Florida Experiment Station, kept the pigs free from worms. This fact and the fact that they were fine stock, averaging 182 pounds, and in good condition accounted for the extra price Bill received for them.

Last fall Bill was given a free trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago as the champion club boy in his county. He has won many other prizes in his county contests and has been a busy club leader in his community, Mr. Blacklock explained.

Florida Will Have Representatives At National 4-H Camp

Florida will be represented at the National 4-H Club Camp to be held in Washington, D. C., next June, according to an announcement from club headquarters at Gainesville. The four outstanding club members in the state, two boys and two girls, will be selected and given the trip.

The boys will be picked by R. W. Blacklock, state boys' club agent, from the county winners submitted by county agents. In like manner Miss Gladys Gleason, state home demonstration agent, will select the girls. To win this trip is one of the highest honors in club work. Only four winners are allowed to attend from each state.

Two of these trips are being given by the Atlantic Coast Line Railway, while the concerns giving the other two have not been announced.

Last year the club members to represent Florida at the National Club Camp were Martha Brink, Escambia county, Ruth Ansley, Marion county, Ralph Arant, Santa Rosa county, and Herbert Fritz, Palm Beach county.

"WAS YOU THERE--?"

An unusually informal study of that world famous traveler, hunter, lecturer and side-splitting comedian, Baron Munchausen, who has a weakness for combining several of his traveling costumes, man-aging by that strange genius which has made him the talk of the stage and plain, to retain the world's interest in the form of roars of laughter in the act of scowling down a look of skepticism he noticed on a number of his listeners' faces. He demands loyalty from his following and gets it in the form of roars of laughter which have already won him a place among the ace comedians of the air waves.

Baron Munchausen (known to thousands of theater-goers as Jack Pearl) is heard each Thursday, beginning at 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, from station WZAP, over a nation-wide NBC network, as one of the features of the three-weekly magic variety program, which also bring listeners the world's finest dance music, the voices of Evelyn Herbert and Robert Halliday; the thrilling and authentic Crime Case Dramatizations, and the breezy chatter of Walter O'Keefe, pilot of the famous carpet.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

COMMENDABLE PROGRAM FOR HIGHER STANDARDS OF LIVING IN FLORIDA

The home demonstration agents of Florida have been rendering yeoman service to the women and girls of the rural sections, and even of the cities and towns, practically ever since this work was inaugurated in 1914. However, in recent years their services have seemed of greater import, and have come into a higher appreciation, due to the stress of economic conditions.

In their annual conference recently at Gainesville, the State's 30 home demonstration agents studied to find ways in which they could give the following year to the people of the State. They drew up plans for another year's work. As a program of work, they drew up the following general plan, which should be of interest to all of us.

"We the home demonstration agents of Florida realize our responsibility in helping to stabilize the morale of rural citizenship during this critical economic situation. Therefore we accept this responsibility by pledging anew our united efforts to bring about higher standards of living for the Florida farm family.

"First, by assisting in planning and growing well balanced food and feed crops. The essentials of this program include year-round orchard, with fruits adapted to the section in which they are grown; calendar vegetable garden; home dairy cow with some place for pasturing; farm poultry flock, with home-grown, rye, oats and grain feeds; production of sufficient meats to supply family needs; and beans to supply home for use.

"Second, by assisting in planning a food budget and conserving a sufficient quantity of foods to keep the family in health.

"Third, by endeavoring to establish close relationship between the producer, the dealer and the consumer.

"Fourth, by increasing the sale of home products through improving the quality, and the quantity where necessary.

"Fifth, by encouraging thrift in clothing through a wiser choice in selection, care and renovation.

"Sixth, by encouraging a wholesome community spirit through well planned programs of entertainment.

"Seventh, by encouraging women in the home to save their time, health, money and labor by improving their homes and adopting improved practices.

"Eighth, by focusing the attention of the entire family on the home as the source of income, comfort, culture, health, power and influence."

Cutworms Best Controlled With Poison Bran

Cutworms, well known by their habit of cutting tender vegetable plants off just above the ground, to take only a few bites and cut another, can best be controlled with a poison bait, says J. R. Watson, entomologist with the Florida Experiment Station.

Cutworms are the larvae of a moth that flies around mostly at night. The moth lays eggs on the plant near the ground. The worm hatches and digs into the ground, coming out at night to feed. At this time of the year there is a generation every month.

These worms are usually abundant in grassy fields. For this reason the land should be plowed as far in advance of the setting of the plants as possible. If the field is kept fallow for a month most of the worms will starve.

If it isn't feasible to plow the field a month before the plants are set, the worms can be poisoned. This can be done by poisoning cutworms, or some such material, with an arsenical and scattering them over the field after it has been plowed and the worms have had time to become hungry. This poison should be scattered late in the evening so that it will not dry out before the worms can get it.

If the worms are found destroying the crop after it is set, the poison bran bait is the best control. This is made by thoroughly mixing 25 pounds of bran with one pound of paris green or calcium arsenate and moistening it with enough water to make it damp but not sloppy. This bait should be scattered over the field late in the afternoon. It should be scattered evenly if the vegetables are closely planted, and should be treated about five acres. In the case of plants spaced far apart, like cabbage, it is only necessary to drop a little bait around each plant.

Asbestos Mail Sacks

Burbank, California.—A new development in methods of insuring air mail has been inaugurated by the United Air Lines. Asbestos air express sacks, heavily padded to insure against fire, are used to transport bills, checks, bonds, and other documents of great value. These sacks weigh about 20 pounds each, and because of their excessive weight, cannot be used for all air mail, but merely for documents whose loss would be a distinct loss to the owner. Milo Carlin, air mail clerk, is shown holding one of the sacks, loaded ready to go in the plane.

WHISPERS!

Do you believe in a whispering campaign? Most fair minded people do not.

I have not conducted a whispered campaign. Every statement made has been supported by documentary proof. There have been rumors and insinuations. I am W. Z. Carson's candidate and I will be YOUR clerk, giving everyone the same courteous, reasonably priced and efficient service.

FIRST: No individual group brought me out. I did not announce "at the solicitation of my many friends." No one urged or even requested I run for office. I will be YOUR clerk, giving everyone the same courteous, reasonably priced and efficient service.

SECOND: No one has donated one cent to my campaign expenses—nor have I borrowed one dollar for such expenses, except from my immediate family.

THIRD: It is rumored one man brought me out and is financing my campaign. That man said this man tried to get some tax adjustment and was refused by my opponent, but that I will make such adjustment. THIS RUMOR IS AN INSULT TO THE INTELLIGENCE OF THE CITIZENS OF HIGHLANDS COUNTY. We know the clerk cannot compromise taxes.

Only the Commissioners and County School Board can do so. The clerk could only act under direction of those bodies. He has no discretionary power.

There is no flat charge for recording instruments. The fee is based on the number of words in the instrument. Yet the fact remains that a statutory form Warranty Deed, with the same number of words, including description, cost $1.35 in Hardee county while the citizens of Highlands County pay $1.85 to record the same instrument. Ask any packing house organization that records the same identical form of crop contracts in several counties.

There are as many lies, rumors and denunciations in this Presidential campaign as if the stake were a constable's job or membership on the village school board. Big or little, politics is ever a dirty mess. It's a pity.

Italy rounds out ten years of Mussolini's government, less adversely affected by world conditions perhaps than any other nation. Sometimes we could almost be persuaded that a Mussolini would be good for this country, what with our people floundering about, apparently incapable of managing their own affairs.

The Presidential election has had a hard time the past few days in keeping from being pushed off the front page by details of a new code of laws for contract bridge. But what is a Presidential election compared with the world-stirring announcement that "doubled not vulnerable undertricks penalties are increased?"

We can all get a certain amount of satisfaction by observing that others are worse off than we are. So when you feel your ire mounting because of an eight-cent tax on gasoline, console yourself by reflecting that if you were in France you would be paying on every gallon of "gas" customs and other duties amounting to 14 cents.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Ford were sufficiently interested in the country's welfare to qualify as voters. Mr. Ford's advice to the people of the country to vote for Hoover will therefore hardly carry conviction. Mr. Ford has ability as a manufacturer of automobiles, but when he leaves that field he seems to have no more gumption than the rest of us.

These folks who feel it is their duty to reform the world develop queer quirks. Out in San Diego a gambler became so indignant because of gambling in Wall street that he threw a bomb into an office building of his home city, tearing things up a bit. He explained he did this "in protest," and would have preferred to have thrown the bomb in Wall street, but it wasn't convenient. Let us hope that he doesn't hear of South Florida's pastime, bolita. He might shoot some good San Diegoan in protest.

The exemption from State taxes of a modest home, say of the value of $3,000, is an idea that has merit, and we hope some day to see its adoption and practice in this State. However, such a plan is a luxury that can not be enjoyed until expenditures for State government have been lowered. As a matter of fact State taxes at the present rate are not onerous. It is county and municipal taxes that pinch.

Each and every one of those brutes who took several white women from their homes at Jacksonville and flogged them ought to be given a ten year sentence at Sunbeam Camp, with that prize little sunbeam, Capt. Courson, in charge, and a nice sweat box provided for each of these cowardly creatures. Our laws are defective in that they do not prescribe sufficiently severe penalties for this type of offender.

Candidates should not be too definite in their promises. When they tell the voters that they are going to cut expenses, lower taxes, hand the government back to the people, etc., that is generalizing, and the people will forget about it. But when a promise is made of two chickens in every pot, that sticks in the memory, and when there is no chicken — and hardly any pot — that promise is likely to rise up and smite the candidate who made it.

Britain continues to have troubles with the unemployed, incited probably to a considerable extent by communist influence. Some way, though, they seem to be able to handle these disturbances better than we do. Instead of using tear bombs, machine guns and armored trucks, the British bobbies wade into rioting mobs armed only with their clubs, and outside of a few cracked heads there are rarely any casualties. British policemen never use fire-arms, and they are the most efficient in the world.

STILL AT IT!

With 15,000 people finding employment in handling the citrus crop, with returns from the crop beginning to come in, with shipments of vegetables already going to market, and some mighty good money being brought in by the tourists, Florida is getting in excellent shape to work out her own salvation, independent of any artificial improvement of business that may be reported elsewhere for political purposes.

Lengthy prison terms should be given the self-appointed guardians of the public morals who took a number of persons including several women from their homes at Jacksonville and brutally whipped them. Nine or ten men, alleged to be members of the gang committing these cowardly acts, have been indicted. Conviction in such cases is difficult, but it is hoped there will be no lack of diligence in bringing those guilty to justice. Whether or not those mistreated deserved punishment is wholly beside the question. The crux of the matter lies in the fact that no man or band of men has the right to usurp the authority and functions of the law and the established legal tribunals. Countenancing such usurpation tends to anarchy.

Giving Mr. Howey credit for being a good business man, and a person of good intentions—there are hundreds of such in Florida—we can not see the slightest reason why he should kid himself into believing he has even the remotest chance of being elected Governor of this State. He has demonstrated no special fitness for the place—instead, he has in his speeches displayed a lamentable ignorance of State affairs and the operation of the State government. His public utterances have been wildly extravagant, consisting of promises impossible for him to perform, and statements based upon a deplorable lack of knowledge of the matters he undertook to discuss. Had he talked less his campaign would be in better shape, though from the first he has been doomed to decisive defeat. With a solid and united front, and with such a leader as Sholtz, Florida democracy is assured of probably the most overwhelming victory in the history of the State's politics.

Well, its all about over, the evidence is practically all in, and the people will give their verdict next Tuesday. It looks very much like a landslide for Democracy; yet, down here where sentiment is largely one-sided, it is difficult to get a true perspective. Believe it or not, in spite of the failure of the party to cope with conditions, there are still some Republicans in the country. One senses that when one sees in the news reels acres of people enthusiastically cheering Hoover. On the other hand, when one sees or reads of the tumultuous throngs that greet Roosevelt wherever he speaks there is a conviction that an overwhelming victory for Democracy is assured. The election next Tuesday is perhaps the most important to occur in the country's history; yet we do not believe the effect will be cataclysmic regardless of whether Hoover or Roosevelt is the successful candidate. Mr. Hoover sees the "end of the American system" if the Democrats win, but we cannot accept this gloomy forecast. This country is going to right itself—slowly, perhaps, but surely. We believe this result will be hastened by the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt. But whatever party may be placed in power, all of us can be good citizens, good Americans, doing our bit towards perpetuating the great fundamentals upon which our nation was founded, and which we have confidence will survive, despite the mutations of partisan politics.

The Public Forum

(Editor's Note: Under the heading Communications on pertinent subjects, from non-permanent contributors, the theory that constructive comment and criticism are welcome is held. However, personal attacks and abuse are not permitted for the opinions expressed.)

VOTE, ANYHOW!

I have heard a number of citizens say "I don't think I'll vote in this election. I'm so disgusted with the whole mess!" But that only makes matters worse. That is why we are in a mess — because the voters don't take the pains to find out what the trouble is, and to try to correct it by voice and ballot.

One of the greatest crimes against a citizen is to prevent him or her from giving expression to honest opinions. We have been taught to boast of our country with its freedom of speech, of the press, our liberty to vote, and so on. We have nothing of the kind.

When an employer can hold over the heads of his employees the brutal fact that they will be fired if they don't vote his ticket, there is no such thing as liberty! Ford sends out this statement to all his employees: "The Ford Motor Co. is not interested in partisan politics. We do not seek to control any man's vote. We feel, however, that the coming election is so important — to prevent them from getting worse and to help them to get better President Hoover must be elected."

The Pennsylvania railroad, the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone Rubber Co., chain stores, mill and factory owners, are all telling their "hands" how to vote, else there will be no jobs. Mayor Curley, Democrat, of Boston, warned city employees that if they voted for Hoover there would be no other cut in the city pay-roll.

Here in Avon Park some men were refused work by their "big boss" after the primary when the vote went against that boss's interests. Another lot of men have been warned that there will be no jobs for them in a certain organization because they brought action for wages rightly due them against a company that is not affiliated with the organization.

I tell you such conditions are unbearable. It is nothing short of tyranny and we will have that sort of thing until you learn to stand up for yourselves and change the system under which we just exist.

I know you think if we vote the Democrats in we will have things better. We will be trading Hoover for Roosevelt, but that won't change the system. Roosevelt is a pussfoot, the same as Hoover is.

Vote a protest ballot. The managers of the old parties have tried hard to disfranchise all the disgruntled voters. In Maine they resurrected an old poor law — passed in seventeen hundred and something — that takes away the vote from anybody who has accepted poor relief. In Ohio, Oklahoma and Florida—to mention only three states—they have tried to keep the Socialist ticket off the ballot. There are nine separate tickets in the field this election—some protest! The strongest protest party is the Socialist party. To vote that, write in the name of R. G. Cox below the printed names of the electors of the Republican and Democrat parties — and put an X before the name.

That seems a feeble gesture to make when you are boiling over with indignation at things in general. But that shows you how we have been put down. How our liberties are being trampled upon —How we've got to fight to get back the right to express ourselves. How we've lost our rights by neglecting them.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY.

By RUSSELL KAY

I went to the State Press Convention at Hollywood last week and it was one swell little party. Among other things we took a joy ride around Greater Miami. That is, they call it Greater Miami, but if you ask me, that's a little premature. It's GREAT alright, just like you see it now, but wait a few years and it will be GREATER MIAMI and no fooling.

You know there's something about that section of the State that reaches out and grabs hold of you. That up and at 'em, punch and pep, that gets right under your hide and makes you want to kick your heels and wave a flag and cheer.

Those folks down there have been through more hell and highwater than any other part of Florida, and they've taken it on the chin until they were darn near punch drunk, but you can't stop 'em. Back 'em up against the ropes and they come out with the old left and right and back it up with a "Grin."

And do you know what the darn fools are doing down there right now? They're building a lot of new houses and laying out new streets and improving in this and that. You might think there really was a Santa Claus the way they're carryin' on.

And if anybody down there knows anything about the alleged depression or grief or hard luck they sure ain't taking time out to talk about it. "I said to George Hilly, 'Man, this sure is one swell little village,' and George says, 'What, you're TELLIN' ME, wait, you ain't seen nuthin' yet, got a lead of that sky-line, boy?'"

Hollywood, Miami Beach, Coconut Grove, Hialeah, Coral Gables, Miami, and the people that live there. What a set up. Say, if I had my way I'd pass a law requirin' every man, woman and child in Florida to visit this section before I'd permit 'em to lay claim to possession of an education. And at the same time I'd make these peppy Miami-bops in their cars and take a little jaunt to other sections of the state, when everybody would come back home this badly burdened down with new ideas and Florida would go over the top like a Zeppelin.

And now the Clearwater Chamber of Commerce is all worked up about the new geography books somebody wished on us, and object to havin' them kind of playthings passed out to our boys and girls. From readin' it you get the impression that the United States is a nickname for a place called CALIFORNIA which is bounded on the west by the Pacific Ocean, on the south by Mexico, on the north by a sister state and on the east by the ALBORAN.

The book grudgingly admits that there is a place called Florida, but the way it's described leaves a guy wonderin' WHY. About the only excuse it has for existence is to serve as a breach-of-promise between the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean. Now we found out what those California press agents do for a livin' between booms. — They write school books.

But at that it won't hurt our youngsters to take a lesson or two from California. If we ever include a school-ship on our govt.-owned State Marine Corps in our schools I'm in favor of a California write it. When it comes to sellin' a big idea, those folks out there have got the rest of the world lashed to a banana tree, and the reason is they did a darn good job of sellin' themselves, before they started out to crowd it on the rest of the world. They've been slapping themselves on the back so long and tellin' each other how good they are that they not only BELIEVE it themselves, but they sell the idea to the whole cockeyed country.

And while readin', writin' and arithmetick are important and all that, if we could just find a way to instill into the hearts and minds of our boys and girls the IDEA that FLORIDA is the original cat's paw of the direct descendent of the Garden of Eden and Heaven's nearest competitor and get 'em to stand up and yell about it like they do for our 'Fmigh' Gators, why we'd go by California like she was standin' still.

Four more years of government subsidy of international banks and big business and Insull's descendants can boast of him being the first settler in the American colony in Greece.

LEADERSHIP

By JUDGE JOHN W. DODGE

FORETHOUGHT AND PRUDENCE.

Tactis, an ancient historian, once wrote: "Forethought and prudence are the proper qualities of a leader."

As we survey our history for the past five years it is clear, to any thinking man, that our so-called leaders neither exercised nor possessed either forethought or prudence.

I have before me a copy of a letter which I wrote to a high public official on May 28th, 1929, several months before the stock market crash in October, 1929. In that letter, I wrote:

"We need to remember that Grover Cleveland in his Annual Message (1888) said: 'The communism of combined wealth and capital, the outgrowth of overreaching cupidity and selfishness, which assiduously undermines the justice and integrity of free institutions, is not less dangerous than the communism of oppressed poverty and toll which, exasperated by injustice and discontent, attacks with wild disorder the citadel of misrule.'"

If those in public power had exercised the forethought and prudence outlined by Grover Cleveland, we would not now have over twenty millions of Americans today begging for bread and work.

The leadership of the past five years has had neither foresight nor prudence. In 1920 and 1921 they were still ignorant of the conditions, if we can believe the statements they publicly made.

But, before it is too late, there will be a new deal. Practical (?) politics piled up poverty upon our people for privileged plutocrats. Protecting power is, when used for a few, public plunder.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

POSSIBLE TO OBTAIN GREATER WINTER EGG RECORDS AND PROFITS

Winter is the time when eggs are generally scarce, and consequently sell for a high price. The hens have been laying heavily through the summer, and eggs have been cheaper. People who keep poultry could obtain a considerable amount more profit if they could get more eggs through the winter months, even if they received less through the summer. It is possible to get more winter eggs than are now being obtained in a large number of poultry flocks. Following are some points that should be considered in this connection.

Pullets and hens, to do their best, should be comfortably housed. Plenty of ventilation should be provided but drafts should be avoided. Have clean houses, clean birds, clean feed, and clean water. Parasites, both external and internal, retard egg production.

Provide some form of green feed each day. It contains minerals and vitamins, both of which are essential. Such feeds as kale, collards, rape, sprouted oats, lettuce, etc., are being used by poultry raisers.

Dryer shells, charcoal, and grit should be available in open hoppers.

Feed a well balanced ration. The concentrates consist of a mash and scratch feed. The common method of feeding is to have large open hoppers in which the dry mash is put. The birds can consume this dry mash all day. Provide a non-sticking hopper and one that can be cleaned. Place the water fountain near a mash hopper. This will induce a greater mash consumption.

The grain or scratch feed is fed either once or twice a day. If twice, feed only a small amount in the morning and the greater part at night.

Adopt a feeding practice and follow it out with regularity.

Hallow'en Party On Monday.

In celebration of the Hallow'en holiday the missionary circles of the Baptist church sponsored a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carter on Monday evening. The home and lawn were gaily decorated with orange and black crepe paper with festoons of moss causing a weird effect over the rooms. Black cats, witches and other Hallow'en symbols were used effectively, with lighted pumpkins placed about at vantage points.

A number of delightful games were enjoyed and the guests were put through a lot of Hallow'en pranks with lowered lights making a spooky feeling as various articles of uncertain identity were passed around.

Mr. Cardwell was awarded the prize for the most original costume and received a small black cat with an orange bow on its neck as a gift.

Wieners, rolls, pickles and hot coffee were served later in the evening.

Between seventy-five and one hundred guests were present, and among those attending were Rev. and Mrs. W. K. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Caldwell, Miss Louise Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Radcliffe and daughter Barbara Ann, Mrs. Radcliffe, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ellis West, Mrs. J. B. Coen and daughters, Mary and Gail, Mrs. Virginia Cloud and daughter, Frances, Mrs. H. M. Harrowe.

Mrs. B. M. Fussell, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Noland, Mr. and Mrs. Alderman, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McGibbons, and daughter, Willa Pearl, Mr. D. Sherman, Miss Gerlie Hunt, Mrs. W. B. Archer and two children, Winifred and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Orr and others.

Episcopal Guild Hostess at Meeting.

The Woman's Church League of the Episcopal church was hostess on Thursday to the neighborhood meeting of the Church Service League. About one hundred guests attended from nearby towns.

This affair was a social meeting and affairs of the Woman's Service League of the Diocese of South Florida were discussed. Mrs. Dean Turner, of Fort Myers, president of the league, presided. Co-operation communion was held at ten o'clock with Bishop Wing in charge of the service.

A delicious luncheon was served at twelve o'clock in the dining room of the parish house, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a tasteful arrangement of cut flowers in autumn shades.

The meeting adjourned at four o'clock.

L. D. Roberts Family Reunion

The family of Leslie D. Roberts held a reunion at their residence, 235 South Forest avenue, Sunday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Booth, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Booth and three children, Martha Nellie, Eugenia and Marjorie, Mrs. Birdie Booth and five children, Doyle, Marcelle, Juanita, Forest and Mary Jo, all of Plant City; Col. and Mrs. M. A. Wilson and son, Bobby of Fort Meade; Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Booth and daughter, Carmen, of Avon Park; and the hosts Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Roberts and little daughter, Bessie. All brought well-filled baskets and had a spread on the lawn. W. W. Tilla and Mrs. A. I. Mann, father and sister of Mrs. S. E. Booth, were invited guests.

Auxiliary Met On Monday.

The American Legion Auxiliary met on Monday afternoon at the Legion Home. Members met early and sewed on garments for welfare work and the business meeting was held at four o'clock.

Various bulletins were read on departments of the auxiliary and plans were perfected for a membership drive.

The welfare work which the organization is doing was discussed and it was decided to meet at the Legion Home each Tuesday morning at nine o'clock to sew on articles of clothing.

Other matters of interest were brought to the attention of members. Those present were Mrs. S. Y. Hart, Mrs. Demos Mandis, Mrs. H. J. Chesney, Mrs. A. M. Morgan, Mrs. Charles D. Sherman and Mrs. W. M. Hetherington.

Miss Pearson Re-elected President.

Miss Millie Pearson was re-elected president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. L. E. Hagood on Tuesday evening. The other officers who will serve this year are: vice-president, Mrs. Catherine Bristol; recording secretary, Miss Mattie Tompkins; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Phil Abrams; and treasurer, Mrs. O. C. Wilkes. These are all the same as last year with the exception of the recording secretary.

The club voted not to become a department of the Woman's Club as they had been invited to be as they later will join the National Federation of Business and Professional Woman's Clubs. The local club was a member of the national organization at one time but withdrew temporarily.

Mrs. B. P. Read was voted in as a new member.

The next meeting will be a social meeting and will be held at the home of Miss Mattie and Miss Kate Tompkins in two weeks.

Members attending were Mrs. Olive E. Anderson, Mrs. Catherine Bristol, Mrs. Phil Abrams, Miss Mattie Tompkins, Miss Millie Pearson, Miss Eleanor Bryant, Mrs. Fred Peden and Mrs. L. E. Hagood.

Delta Deck Met Wednesday.

The Delta Deck Bridge Club met on Wednesday evening with Miss R. Kempton as hostess. Wild flowers were used as a decoration in the party rooms where the three tables enjoyed several progressive games of contract during the evening.

Miss Barbara Weaver received high score prize and Mrs. Francis Shockley was awarded second high. Pineapple upside-down cake topped with whipped cream and hot tea were daintily served after the distribution of prizes to Miss Barbara Weaver, Mrs. Phil Abrams, Miss Lillian Smith, Miss Christine Reeves, Miss Inez Dawson, Mrs. Russell Timney, Miss Ethel Clark, Mrs. Roland Drott, Miss Lee Kempton and Mrs. W. H. Kempton.

Contract Luncheon Club Meets.

Mrs. H. F. Keller delightfully entertained the contract luncheon club of which she is a member at her home in Hollyhurst on Tuesday.

A dainty color motif of green and yellow was chosen for all the appointments in both the dining room where the two course luncheon was enjoyed at twelve thirty o'clock and in the living room where several progressions of contract were played during the afternoon. Colorful autumnal flowers lent an additional charm.

Mrs. Mel Bass was fortunate in securing high score and received an attractive prize.

Mrs. Keller's guests at this time were Mrs. Mel Bass, Mrs. Jack Lead, Mrs. J. E. Fowell, Mrs. E. Booth, Mrs. T. W. Coates, Mrs. W. P. Pilcher, Mrs. D. V. Rouse and Mrs. C. E. Crabtree.

Miss Baldwin Entertains Friends

Miss Virginia Baldwin entertained a number of her friends on Monday evening at her home, 44 Highland avenue with an informal Hallow'en party.

The rooms were gay with their decorations of orange and black with symbols of the Hallow'en season about at intervals causing a weird effect.

The evening was spent in games of various kinds and grape juice and cookies were served to the guests' present who numbered about eighteen or twenty.

Wednesday Bridge Club Meets

Mrs. T. A. McNicholas was hostess to her bridge club at her home, 316 Palm Avenue. Lovely roses and other autumnal flowers formed a pretty decoration.

High score was won by Mrs. W. T. Coates and second high by Mrs. Earl Hart. Both prizes were dainty handkerchiefs.

A tempting salad course was served by Mrs. McNicholas after the games to those present who were Mrs. Earl Hart, Mrs. Herbert Hart, Mrs. R. L. Rumpsey, Mrs. C. E. Lanier, Mrs. W. D. Dorminey, Mrs. W. C. Touchton and W. T. Coates.

Missionary Circle Meets.

Missionary Circle No. 3 of the First Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Ben Fussell this week.

Those attending were Mrs. J. L. Collins, Mrs. S. J. Pendleton, Mrs. B. F. Martin, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Radcliffe, Mrs. W. M. Hetherington, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. Tim Collins, Mrs. J. D. Sherman and Mrs. Heath.

"Susie's Kitchen Band" On Nov. 17th.

"Susie's Kitchen Band" given under the auspices of the Woman's Friendship Bible Class of the Methodist church will be presented at the high school auditorium on Thursday November 17. The band will be composed of twenty-four pieces and the small admission fee of twenty-five cents for adults and ten cents for school children will be charged.

A record attendance is anticipated.

Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Morgan were in Lakeland Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Ruth Bass Hylen spent several days this week in Tampa.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Burdick and small daughter, Joan spent Saturday and Sunday night in Auburndale.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Wilkerson and daughters, Hazel and Sophronia motored to Ft. Pierce and Vero Sunday.

O. D. Godwin left Monday for the Veterans' Hospital in Lake City. His friends hope that his health will soon be much improved.

Mrs. Eva Van Wei left this week for Albany, New York, where she was called by the serious illness of her brother, George Fox.

B. M. Davis and son, L. C., expect to go to Titusville, Sunday, and will be accompanied home by Mrs. Davis who has been visiting relatives there for several weeks.

Mrs. W. A. Marshall and Mrs. Jack Head and small daughter, Yvonne spent the past week end very pleasantly as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Head.

Mrs. W. M. Carter and daughter, Anne Catherine, Miss Zola Maud Ford and Miss Maud Martin spent Sunday afternoon in Frostproof with Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Connel.

The many friends of Mrs. Carlos Skipper will be pleased to learn that she is improving following an operation which she recently underwent at St. Francis Hospital in Wichita, Kansas.

Mrs. T. C. Hobbs spent last week in Tampa with Mrs. Hobbs who is at present located there. They returned to Avon Park on Saturday, Mr. Hobbs going back to Tampa on Sunday.

Mrs. Demos Mandis and daughter Peggy and son, Philip Boardman spent the week end in Orlando with friends, Philip going on to Rollins College at Winter Park where he attended a fraternity rushing party Saturday evening.

Carley Fender arrived Sunday from his home in Valdosta, Ga., and has accepted a position with the Touchton Drug Company. He is located at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Carter on Highlands Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. K. J. Bailey and son, Roland accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Vickery spent a delightful day in Gainesville Sunday with their sons, Carol Bailey and Raymond Vickery and other boys from Avon Park who are attending the university. They enjoyed a picnic lunch at noon.

Mrs. Ruth Vandewater and daughter, Eugenia, left Monday noon for their home in Newburgh, New York after a short visit here with Mrs. Vandewater's mother, Mrs. Ida Calender at her home on Lake avenue. Mrs. Vandewater has not been in the best of health for some time and her condition became worse, necessitating her return to her home. She will undergo an operation at a hospital in Newark, New Jersey in a few days and her many friends in Avon Park will hope for a speedy return to good health.

Book Review and Tea Friday.

Rev. Heber Weller, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, gave an interesting review of the book, Job by Joseph Roth, at the Woman's club room on last Friday afternoon.

A pretty arrangement of autumn flowers created an attractive atmosphere in the club room, and following the review, a tea hour was enjoyed. Mrs. Heber Weller poured tea which was served with cookies.

Mrs. W. A. Davis, president of the Woman's club, presented the book, "Confessing Man Dies" to the library as a gift from the Junior Dramatic club.

In his review of Job, Rev. Weller said:

"A close this delightful novel for a book review primarily because I believe there is an ever-growing desire among our 'natural Americans' to understand our 'adopted Americans.' Too long have we exonerated ourselves from the burden of different heritage, environment, and emotional temperament, to enter this nation and, over-night, become good citizens.

This novel is named 'Job' and is written by a true Jew named Joseph Roth. The title at once calls to mind a broad plan of the story, being based somewhat upon the Bible narrative of that title.

The novel divides itself into three parts as a natural consequence of its type—the simple narrative, the emotional force, and the religious influence. The plot is quite simple and is one we may see very often, particularly in dealing with Spanish, Russian, and German narratives.

Narrative. Mendel Singer, his wife Deborah, his two sons Jonas and Shemariah, and a daughter, Miriam, live in Zuehnow, Russia. A true Russian Jewish family. Mendel follows the footsteps of his father and his father's father in his profession and manner of life, being a teacher of Holy Scripture for the children of more wealthy neighbors. As Joseph Roth so dramatically describes the class period with Mendel chanting first a verse, the children patting their feet and chanting in return, we can see in mental imagery the zealous religionist in a long coat, an old red skull cap, uncut hair, chanting the Old Testament through from memory, watching every act and change of expression of each pupil, concentrated upon every word to correct or chastise an erring student. Mendel Singer enters the narrative as one whose religion is his life, one whose God is stern but just, one who cannot understand the heritage of weakness and disease but sees only the punishment upon the third and fourth generation for sin. A God whom we must obey. Mendel Singer is a man of whom we saw "the world has conquered from the beginning." He lives in constant fear of God, then of men, and of dogs. Even though young he shows the weight of cares, fears, and age far beyond his years. His income is slight—barely enough to furnish the meager necessities—and his ambition for a higher station has never been born. A poor teacher by heritage rather than choice.

"Deborah is somewhat different. As a girl she has had the desire to see much of life and to enjoy the comforts wealth can give. Feeling that she has voluntarily become Mrs. Singer and therefore must accept the conditions as such, she does her best with the poor material at hand, scrubbing the house until not a spot is in evidence, repairing on her best what the best possible shift of any odds and ends that she may procure, losing her temper at her husband from time to time because of his lack of ambition, yet observing meticulously his religious rites and observances and assisting Mendel by making the condition of the house the best possible for his work. Her frugal nature causes her to save some money whenever possible and she is overjoyed that since their marriage, several years, she has been able to hear day under a board in the floor an amount of Russian money amounting to approximately six dollars in American money. As the narrative opens, Mendel and Deborah are living in domestic bliss, having three splendid children—two sons and a daughter—and expecting shortly the advent of the fourth. Soon the poor material and it is another son. His head is too large, his neck too thin, and his legs are hopeless, yet the parents insist upon blinding themselves to the fact that he is not normal. After eight days the child is circumcised and is named Menachim. A full year passes before Mendel or Deborah will admit to themselves the possibility of the child's deformity. He is not weaned. He cannot speak, his neck will not support his head, and his legs are hopeless. This admission draws both parents away from the older children and to the baby. Love formerly divided amongst all is now concentrated upon Menachim. The health of the older children becomes an obsession to the parents the helplessness of the baby a punishment by God for some forgotten sin of the parents.

At length, the boys Jonas and Shemariah reach the age of Army conscription. To the poor Jew this meant death or worse and so the boys were started to make them unfit. Other boys who had lost an arm or a leg were considered fortunate and health was a curse. When they were finally called and examined both were found fit despite the self-inflicted privations. Upon their return home for a few months stay prior to entering active duty, Deborah was distracted and journeyed immediately to a city nearby to see a lawyer who could help the boys escape. Her life savings was enough for one boy only and so she had to leave it to the boys to decide which would serve and which escape. Jonas, the burly son, lover of animals, peasant bear, and desirous to experience the immorality of peasant army and life, readily offers to join the army. It was, in reality, his desire and so no sacrifice on his part. Shemariah, adhered to his father's moral code and the Jewish faith of conscription. Thus it was that Jonas went to the

AVON PARK High School News

Politics.

At this particular time it is hard to refrain from expressing one's viewpoint on politics. Everyone is doing it. It is very interesting to listen to the views of various students as expressed in the school room or on the campus. Some of them have read and seem to really know something about the trend of events, but the vast majority give the verdict, "It is a lot of hot air."

To a certain extent they are right. There is a great deal of "hot air" being used right now, and it is annoying to twist the dial and find only politics on the air.

But after all, politics are rather important to us whether we realize it or not. At the next election, four years from now quite a number of the Seniors of today will have the privilege of voting. If we are to know anything about it, now is the time to become interested. We are taught American history and civics government that we may become better citizens. Let us take an interest in history in the making.

The Grider's Carol

The school day is over, My school work is done. Now for the daily Grider's Carol, And no small amount of fun.

At the field we'll meet, My teammates and I, I'll work for no defeat, For place on team I'll try.

If I play very, very hard The honor of the school, I'll keep, And a good position my reward But to fail, it's time to weep.

Jus' Gossip

Well! Well! Now that Halloween is over, maybe everything will get a little quieter. The Seniors gave the Juniors one swell time and did they all look cute? Well I should say!

It seems since this is the gossip column that it should live up to its name, so here goes—The other day we two were sitting down on the campus and overheard some talk about this column. The persons were wondering who wrote it. Of course we just kept quiet and, believe me, you had better not let us hear you "slamming" us or we'll surely put you right in this column and jus' gossip sumpin awful about you.

Everybody's kind acted sorta quiet since Halloween so I guess we won't be able to gossip much. We just wonder these few things: Why a certain Freshman kinda looks forward to seeing a certain Senior everyday? Why a certain Freshman boy is so popular with the Juniors and Sophomores. We also wonder, not only us but all the girls, why the boys like to bunch together and go by themselves to parties—Oh! Snap out of it boys, we won't bite you!

Well, goodbye everybody until next week—Beware or else you'll be gossiped about. So long.

—Jus' two kids.

Pep Majestic.

Great day! Did I have a bad dream last Monday night or was it Halloween? Of all the proceedings, we had them. Great thunder rolled (roared). That, my friends, was a few dozen suspicious tin cans tied to the southern exposure of a bicycle, I presume propelled by the sturdy legs of several youthful rogues.

Then over the country roamed many an evil spirit. For suddenly there would appear on a smoothly mowed lawn many a pile of fifth and rubbish and rime of rusted Fords and other ancient conveyances. After these mysterious visitations not a sound could be heard but the laughing of some mischievous school boys who chanced to be passing that way. Ah me! I have been wondering all day long how Mr. Baas, our commercial teacher, and Mr. Fairley ever got a semblance of order and beauty to their lawns and porches.

That isn't all. A pep meeting was heard around town and for blocks all around all one could see was little lightning bugs and cars without lights driving around I don't know what for. Somebody said that more deputies and etc. were sworn in Monday night than ever before in the history of Avon Park. And I don't doubt it. You wouldn't either if you had been trying to dodge all of them at the same time, like a few people I know.

Well, I don't exactly know what Halloween is all about, but I do know that it's a jolly good time to be around town. Mayor Covington told the student body that they could have as much fun as they liked so long as they did not destroy property. What a swell idea though!

I don't think that any of the high school students really tore up anything very badly either. See we do appreciate kindness and forethought a little anyway, don't we? He at least gave us credit for having a little sense, which is a thing seldom done by the modern "grown-up" public.

RE-PEP.

Juniors.

Let's see—party, show, play, holiday, however, tests, report-cards—Oh gret! It's getting "hot and bothered" already—how can I write everything I want to? Really, this has been one "hectic" week.

The Pirate Party given us by the Seniors was a huge success. Everybody came dressed as pirates, left their dignity at home and were bold, had pirates in a big way. Thanks, Seniors.

The Juniors and Seniors were both invited to Mr. Fairley's theater party. I think that this must have been due to the unusual success of our content. We broke all past records. Anyway last Thursday night we all met Mr. Fairley at his show and enjoyed a grand football picture at his expense. "70,000 Witnesses" was the feature and I may be partial to football pictures but anyway, I'll say I've never enjoyed a picture more. Thanks, Mr. Fairley.

During home room chapel Tuesday morning, Mr. Funderburk presented the class with five dollars which he had promised us provided we won. The class also voted awards to the four best Jr. salesmen, Virginia Baldwin, the green back captain, Marcin Weisner, Martha Thomas and Evelyn Clements, are to receive these awards. I'll tell you more about it when they come.

Did we enjoy our holiday Friday? I think the teachers were grand to see the need of such a teachers' meeting. We had a sweet weekend with our Halloween celebration—everything.

Do you have heart trouble? We have a good case of it in our class. That folk, in the name of our class play—"Heart Trouble". Bear that in mind and we'll tell you more later. As for our daily actions was revised this month and given out Monday afternoon. I think as a whole the Juniors did somewhat better than last month. We hope you were as pleased as we were. See you next week.

—Evelyn Clements.

The Critics Column

Hollo folks! I suppose you missed this interesting in a magazine content that I did not take time to write it. Here I am this week with some more news.

A certain person who writes a column for this section seems to cover a lot of territory. She really takes up quite a lot of the news of the general reporter. Oh well! Some people try to get all the glory.

Did I scare the jokes editor out? Or is she waiting for some one else to write a joke for her?

One of our teachers can't seem to get the names of his pupils correct. A certain pupil who moved to Sebring, seems to have had a popular name, at least.

We see a few bad effects of some "jamborees" that just happen around here. There's "Our sleepy team".

—Rittaky.

Eighth-A

Today seems to be a busy day for the girls. We are going to have a test on Health and History. We'll have to put our old heads to thinking. Last Thursday afternoon some of the girls stayed after school and fixed our room in a very nice way. We had our room decorated with roses and garden flowers. In the back of the room we had a very pretty palm. The sev-

Seventh-B News.

Hollo everybody! Well, here we are again wondering what we are going to make on our report cards this afternoon. We hope we all make good. Say, you know that party we all have been buzzing about? Well, we had it and we surely did enjoy it. We had it at Mrs. Smith's home. The house was decorated in paper witches and other things concerning Halloween. The fun was when we were playing post-office. We had two visitors, who were large white ghosts. Well, I guess we'd better sign off.

Helen Delaney.

J. C. Still.

Seventh-A.

This week I'm going to give you some real news. In geography we have been studying about South America. And every state and city we have studied Will Rogers has written about in the papers. It is very interesting to see what we have studied about the papers. This week our report cards came out and did we see some expressions on the boys and girls faces? We know they must have either failed or made extra good on something. —Evelyn Martin.

Sophomore News.

We have discussed all except the last two rows of pupils in our room and will now open the pages to their future.

No. 1 This first one is Mary Coen. Can anyone imagine her as Greta Garbo.

No. 2 Is the great mystery woman of the screen, Lorey Mae Blackard.

No. 3 Here's George Bryant, who will be a regular "Tarzan".

No. 4 Ralph Heim is cracked up to be a farmer. We know that is exactly what he will be. Careful, Ralph, corn has ears, you know.

No. 5 Walker Beasley will be the village shiek because he has personality plus (?). This ends our fourth row. Only one more row is left and then we'll soon have to start something new. Oh! I have it—

What would happen if—

1. Junior would work an algebra problem?

2. Patsy didn't blush when Mr. Funderburk looks at her?

3. Helen should come to school without Greta?

4. Woodson wouldn't always suggest a party during home chapel?

5. Martha Walden would have white hair for a change?

I guess you readers are getting tired of reading this so I'll pack away my old pen and ink for today. We have some very good news to bring to the Seniors before long.

that is if you don't say anything about it. The other half of the Turner sister.

Senior News.

Can you imagine Evelyn Clements deliberately murdering a poor little defenseless roach? Or Louise Barshell down on her knees pushing a bottle top across the floor with her nose? These and other stunts just as comical took place at the pirate's party last Wednesday night. However, everyone had a grand time.

The theatre party given the Juniors and Seniors Thursday night was a decided success. We wish to extend our sincere thanks to Mr. Fairley and Miss Bryant and the theatre management who made the party possible.

Wonder what happened to our critics column last week.

Our mayor came up Monday morning and talked to us in chapel. He said for us to have a big time Halloween but to refrain from abusing property. He's mighty right, too. It may be fun while it lasts, but it doesn't last long enough.

Freshman News.

Mr. Munnaw conducted the devotional exercises in the Tuesday morning home room. Later the meeting was turned over to the president, Corbett Howell. News and old business was discussed. We began a "Who's Who" contest but we were interrupted by the bell. This will be published next week.

We are glad the monthly tests are over. Now we may begin anew and try to make better next month.

Mr. Carmichael delegates his first year Algebra students are not studying as they did the first six weeks of school. —Clarice.

Athletics.

In a close game here last Friday the Red Devils again suffered defeat. Okeechobee won a hard fought victory of 6-0. Twice Okeechobee got the ball 'way down in Avon Park territory, but the Red Devils held them long enough to get the ball and kick it away from the line. Maddox intercepted a pass and made a good gain.

This coming Friday we play Auburndale there. By the law of averages we ought to win. Come on, team, let's go!

Maddox has a sore shoulder this week which we hope will very soon improve.

World's Fair House Hunters Protected

Plans to protect world's fair visitors from overcharges by conscientious racketeers, have been taken by the world's fair management according to advices received by the Deland headquarters of the Florida commission, A Century of Progress.

Reports had been received to the effect that unauthorized persons are already soliciting fees from rooming house proprietors on promise to keep all rooms filled during the life of the fair next year and were sending out circulars to all parts of the country promising, for a fee, to provide prospective visitors with rooms.

At a meeting of representatives of all civic bodies including the association of commerce, the several hotel associations, the churches and many of the service clubs, steps were taken to block the efforts of the racketeers and prevent the

To The Voters of Highlands County, Florida

In conducting my campaign for re-election to the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court I have refrained from saying anything that would reflect upon the character of my opponent, but since he has seen fit to make certain charges against me I feel that it is only fair to you that I should make a statement.

In the first place my opponent charges that before I came to Florida to live I was on the payroll as a Republican in the office of Secretary of State in Kentucky. This fact has never been denied by me and I would have given him the information if he had asked me. I also held office under the Democratic Governor during that same administration. BOTH OF WHICH POSITIONS WERE BY APPOINTMENT.

Since I came to Florida in 1919 I have affiliated with the Democratic party. I have complied with laws governing said party and supported its nominees, which my opponent is not doing.

He charges that my daughter worked in my office until she was married. The facts are, she was never at any time on the payroll in the Clerk's office. She never worked for me in that office a day in her life.

He also charges that my wife worked in the office until he became a candidate. When I came into the office I followed a precedent established many years ago, not by me, and almost universally practiced by all State and County officials, that of putting some member of the family in the office. I put my wife in the office but when the Democratic Executive Committee recommended that only one member of a family be employed, I complied with this recommendation and she left the office. While she was in the office she did not receive as much salary as some others.

Why will anyone make such statements? The answer is obvious.

The recording fees charged in this office are provided for in the Statute and approved by the Comptroller and State Auditor. If other Counties charge a different fee I do not know why.

It is being stated by my opponent that M. R. McDonald called the Clerk's office and asked if all the candidates had qualified and was advised that they had. The following affidavit from Mr. McDonald explains itself and needs no comment. (The first paragraph constitutes an affidavit being circulated by my opponent):

State of Florida,
County of Highlands.

Personally appeared before me the undersigned, M. R. McDonald, who being duly sworn says that about ten o'clock A. M. Friday, May 13th, 1932, deponent telephoned H. J. Chance, Deputy Clerk of Court, who was in charge of the minutes of the County Commissioners, and asked him all candidates in the Democratic Primary to be held June 7th, 1932, qualified and he told me that they had, excepting Mr. Franklin, who had withdrawn from the race as a candidate for County Commissioner.

Deponent says that in calling Mr. Chance he inquired SOLELY with reference to whether all parties spoken of as likely candidates for the office of SHERIFF (and no other office) had actually filed their oaths and paid their fees to enter the Primary. That he did not inquire and did not refer to the candidates for Clerk of Court nor did he have in his mind nor ask the question whether any candidate had failed to file the statements required by law, because at the time he called Mr. Chance candidates still had (according to the opinion of the Attorney General) FOURTEEN hours in which to file their statements.

Deponent was making this inquiry solely because of the fact that he was interested in the candidacy of W. B. Crawford for Sheriff, and at that time it was rumored that A. F. Helms probably would not enter the race, and Mr. Chance merely informed deponent that all likely candidates, including Mr. Helms, had filed their Oaths and paid their filing fees, for candidates for sheriff, and adding that a Mr. Franklin had withdrawn from his race.

M. R. McDONALD

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 27th day of October, 1932.

Leona A. Jordan, Notary Public, State of Florida at Large. My Commission expires Dec. 18, 1933. (SEAL)

Reference is made to the speeches of the Hon. Dave Sholtz. In his speeches he also begged all Democrats to stand by the nominees from President to Constable. Will my opponent do that?

My opponent paid $80.00 to the Democratic Executive Committee, all of which was returned. He paid $120.00 to the Democratic Primary Fund and $58.73 was returned, the same proportion as to other candidates. All of this would have been refunded but the Attorney General ruled that the Commissioners had no authority to return all of it.

As the regular Democratic Nominee I solicit your support. Make an X in front of my name on the ballot and it will be appreciated.

Yours very respectfully,

Army while Shemariah escaped and came to the United States. During this period their sister Miriam developed into adolescence. She was a beautiful and very attractive girl but her relationship with the Cossacks belatedly distressed both parents extremely.

"At length a letter came from Shemariah, enclosing ten dollars, and telling the family that he is well settled in America and will soon send for them. Shemariah is called 'Sam' in New York and the letter is delivered by his business partner, Mendel and Deborah at length decide to come to America and bring Miriam to get her away from the Cossack influence, but to leave Menuchim in the care of a young couple recently married.

"The trip is not uneventful and they are met by Sam, his wife, and his partner, Mac. A small apartment in the Jewish quarter is rented for Mendel and Deborah but Miriam begins as a clerk in Sam's store and goes to live with Sam and his wife. Mendel and Deborah are greatly affected by the miracle of automobiles, the elevated trains, and the theatre and while Mendel lives in fear and awe, Deborah delights in them. However, both miss Menuchim greatly and so Mac agrees to go to Russia and return with him. Just as he prepares to leave the World War begins and the trip is impossible. Mac and Sam go to the army. Soon Mendel and Deborah, now old, consider themselves that Jonas has been killed in battle and that Menuchim has been killed in the pillage. As they become accustomed to this belief Mac returns bringing Sam's watch and some pictures. In his intense grief, Deborah dies. Mendel is left in a dazed condition and a few days later Miriam loses her mind and is placed in a sanitarium as incurable.

"Then Mendel loses his religious faith. He burns his books, packs away his phylacteries, ceases to pray, and announces that God is unjust and he is ready to die.

"The following months as Mendel's age becomes more apparent in his dragging steps and weakening mind, is dramatically told by the author and is well worth the time and effort to read at least twice. One day a beautiful piece of music catches Mendel's fancy and when he asks its name it is 'Menuchim's Own Song'. The name recalls his own apparently dead son and he mentally applies the music to Menuchim's physical condition. He is told the composer is in New York and soon the composer seeks him, using an assumed name and professing to be a relative of Deborah. At length the composer reveals himself as Menuchim and relates a delightful story of his miraculous cure and his rise to fame. He takes the aged Mendel to his comfortable hotel, assures him that Jonas is probably alive, that the best specialists of the world shall do all possible to restore Miriam's sanity, and that within ten days they shall start back to the land of Mendel's youth. Mendel is happy, his faith and trust in God restored, and he goes to sleep looking joyfully to the morrow. Such is the death of Mendel.

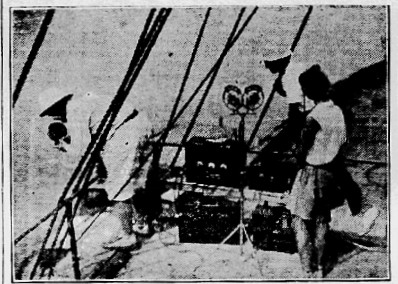

Emotional Force.

Compared with the vast majority of biographical sketches of today the emotional force portrayed in the story is vastly superior. While the emotional condition arises often there is not always sufficient moral fiber to sustain the truly God-like impulse.

"Mendel has not only paternal love but he has also the moral stamina to fulfill to the best of his ability the requirements of patriotism. Menuchim draws upon his fathers emotional reserve to the very limit. It is only in order to save his daughter from ignominy among the Cossacks that Mendel finally consents to part with his crippled infant. His strict adherence to Mosaic morality, animated by fear of God, and further inflamed by a hate and scorn of the customs and moral tone of the peasantry, bring forth emotional situations that generally wreak havoc upon family relations, yet are borne and conquered by Mendel with a faith and love almost too great to be affected by things human. Deborah becomes a part of many emotional situations. She draws severely upon the good points of her character, but having a background of strict Mosaic history she has full control of self. When mutual desire of husband and wife ceases the family continues, to outside appearances, as closely knit as before. The discovery of age and the loss of beauty are a great shock and places forever another bar between them, yet only they knew. From the beginning of the story to the great expression of mother love which culminated in death Deborah stands as a scene of self-control. The great stress of reunion of father and son, long mourned dead, brings them to a sympathetic understanding seldom achieved by an author.

"Throughout the narrative the reader feels happy, sad, ill-treated, poverty-stricken, bewildered, overjoyed, each in turn as the author

When Millions Traveled Nearly Half a Mile Down Into the Ocean

At Sea—Over the NBC network a nationwide radio audience listened to an exchange of comments between Dr. William Beebe, noted zoological explorer and head of the current expedition of the New York Zoological Society, and his assistant at the surface, Miss Gloria Hollister, who recorded the terse sentences of the scientist as he descended to a depth of 2,200 feet, practically half a mile, in his specially constructed bathysphere, to make a new record. He told of the falling light, and the phosphorescent animal life that at times studied the black depths with points of light like stars in a clear sky. This picture shows the preparations being made. John Bond, NBC announcer, who handled all the deck apparatus, looks things over, and Miss Gloria Hollister prepares to make her notes.

so realistically portrays conditions and events.

"One must truly live with the characters through life to grasp the great emotional force which forced their lives into channels the average man does not understand.

"Like Job of old, Mendel loved and feared God. Like a modern Job he saw the miracles of God as existing many centuries in the past. He worships God for past goodness to his people, he fulfills his religious rites in fear of punishment, and his hope in the Beatific Vision after death.

"To understand the Jewish mind one must understand the religion of the Jews which has produced the ancient mental condition in a modern setting. The predominant Jewish characteristic is his conception of the sacredness of property, but combined with the over-riding passion for acquisition. Perhaps the most obvious characteristic is the passively observant Gentile is in making religious rite and ornament the objective of religion, rather than a means to an end, which is personal knowledge of and communion with God. The necessity of the most obvious characteristics, particular rituals for prayer and worship gives one the impression that Mendel's religion consists of the external fulfillment of the law.

Scout News

The scouts held their regular weekly meeting last Friday evening at the Armory. Meeting called to order and the scout oath repeated. Then the roll call and dues collected. We were 100 percent in attendance.

The Fireman's patrol put on a stunt and also gave a demonstration in first aid in case of electrical accident. Vernon Lanier's patrol then gave a handbag demonstration and Junior Reek's patrol a stunt in sign language.

The troop went through parade drill and inspection and "Pewit Patrol" won. Four new members were received into the troop giving us a full troop, they were, Redick, Morgan, Beasley and McGiboney. We are glad to have these boys with us.

Assistant Scout Master Brunk is going to take the troop to Sebring Monday night, for a basket ball game. Meeting adjourned by repeating the Scout law.

Advertising Public Again Is Warned

The state is being flooded again with men and women soliciting advertising for books, pamphlets, brochures, blotters, signs and countless other devices, which their advocates assert will be distributed from the Florida building at the World's fair in Chicago next year.

The Florida commission warned the Florida public several months ago that no advertising would be permitted to be distributed from the Florida building at the Chicago exposition or under Florida auspices from any other part of the exposition. For a time the solicitors of that sort of advertising were quiescent. They have resumed activity, to the annoyance of the businessmen.

Senator W. C. Hodges, chairman of the commission, has called on Earl W. Brown, manager of the Florida exhibit, again have announced that no permission definitely has been refused many solicitors of advertising for booklets and other forms for distribution at or in any Florida exhibits at A Century of Progress exhibition next year, and no advertising to be permitted to give advertising to anyone pretending they have been given permission to solicit such advertising.

Suwannee River Diorama Attractive

The diorama depicting a sunset scene of the far famed Suwannee river, which will be one of the features of the Florida exhibit at A Century of Progress exhibition in Chicago next year and upon which Charles E. Plastow, chief of the staff of artists, has been working for several weeks, after painstaking research, has been completed and is attracting great attention around the old cabin home seat to play the accompaniments as well as singing the songs.

The diorama is believed to be the best of Mr. Plastow's many dioramas produced in his deland studio, not only because of its execution from the standpoint of art but because of the ingenuity displayed in the mechanization of the picture to make it a perfect visualization of the scenes described by Stephen Foster in his song.

The diorama has been animated or humanized to the extent that by the use of mechanical devices instrumental and vocal renditions of the song, "Way Down Upon the Suwannee River" are reproduced and the figures of the negroes around the old cabin home seat to play the accompaniments as well as singing the songs.

The diorama is believed to be the best of Mr. Plastow's many dioramas produced in his deland studio, not only because of its execution from the standpoint of art but because of the ingenuity displayed in the mechanization of the picture to make it a perfect visualization of the scenes described by Stephen Foster in his song.

Turkey Shoot at Wither Haven Armistice Day

Winter turkey shoot of the Wither Haven Rifle club will be staged on Armistice Day, November 11th, at the junction of the Lynchburg road and State Road 17, northwest of the city. It was announced today by officers of the club. Riflemen from all parts of south central Florida are invited to participate.

The shoot will be conducted practically the same as the last two years, both shotgun and rifle being used. The shotgun range will be 50 yards on targets furnished at the range. Ammunition for the shotguns will be supplied at the range and no other will be allowed.

Any shotgun, 12 gauge or smaller can be used. The range for the rifles will be the same, or 50 yards. Any rim fire caliber 22 rifle can be used. Targets will be furnished in glass. Shooting will be done in any position the shooter desires, including rest. Targets will be the standard N. R. A. 50 yard rifle target with 3-inch bullseye.

For each turkey, ten shots will

Sholtz Promises Aid Against Importation of Diseased Fruit

Jacksonville, Nov. 2 — Dave Sholtz, Democratic nominee for governor, has advised the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Association that as chief executive of Florida he will do "everything within the constitutional powers and legal limits of the governor to protect Florida against the importation of any diseased fruit which might in the slightest injury or jeopardize the citrus fruit industry of this state."

The Democratic nominee's letter under date of October 25, was in reply to a communication of October 13 from the association, in which it asked his attitude with reference to protecting Florida's citrus fruit from outside infestations.

Among other things, Mr. Sholtz said, "permit me to say at the outset that I am not unmindful of the importance to our state of the citrus fruit industry. I appreciate fully its tremendous value to the business and economic life of Florida."

The complete text of Mr. Sholtz' letter follows:
Jacksonville, Florida, October 25.
Florida Citrus Growers Clearing House Assn. Winter Haven, Florida.
Gentlemen:

Under date of October 13 you sent me a copy of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the committee of fifty, in Frostproof, on October 12.

I regret my delay in replying to this letter, but you will realize that I am engaged in making an active campaign and have been moving around the state making several speeches each day. It is therefore difficult for me to keep up with my correspondence.

Replying to your communication, permit me to say at the outset that I am not unmindful of the importance to our state of the citrus fruit industry. I appreciate fully its tremendous value to the business and economic life of Florida.

Therefore I have no hesitancy in stating to you that as chief executive of this state I shall do everything within the constitutional powers and legal limits of the governor to protect Florida against the importation of any diseased fruit which might in the slightest injury or jeopardize the citrus fruit industry of this state.

Yours very truly,
Dave Sholtz.
