MRS. SHOLTZ HOSTESS AT LUNCH MONDAY

Entertained Woman's Advisory Committee of State Democrats

Jacksonville, Sept. 28.—Members of the Woman's Advisory Committee of the State Democratic organization, meeting here last Monday with a state wide conference, were guests of Mrs. Dave Sholtz, wife of the Democratic nominee for governor, at a perfectly appointed luncheon at the Hotel George Washington.

Over two hundred Democratic women, representing every county in Florida, were present.

Mrs. Sholtz, wearing a lovely gown of black satin pebble cloth combined with rich black crepe, a close fitting black hat, and a corsage of shell pink roses, graciously received her guests who were later seated at a long luncheon table arranged banquet fashion and adorned with exquisite arrangements of roses and plumosa, presented by the Griffing Nurseries of Glen St. Mary.

Each guest received as a favor a tiny white Democratic denim bearing in gilt letters the names "Roosevelt-Sholtz."

Frank Morris' orchestra rendered a program of music including such appropriate selections as "Suzanne River, Dixie," and "Back to Ole Virginia and other melodies of the South."

At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mrs. Sholtz, briefly stated she was happy to have had the opportunity of entertaining the Democratic women of Florida and hoped to have them again as her guests next January after a Democratic victory had placed her husband in the office of governor.

"The situation in Florida," she declared, "reminds me of the story of a ship. It is a seaworthy story and those aboard have no cause for alarm or uneasiness, but just the same—both night and day—officers make their rounds to make sure that there are no leaks."

"The Democratic party is like that ship. We know it is seaworthy and that it will weather all storms and all perils in safety, but just the same we make the rounds to see that all is well."

Mrs. Sholtz was enthusiastically cheered by the delegates, who expressed their appreciation of her hospitality and renewed their pledges of active support to both the state and national Democratic ticket, declaring that they will be satisfied with no less in November than the most impressive victory in the history of the state and nation.

Many Bees Lost Each Winter Due To Lack of Food

Many beekeepers make the mistake of taking the honey too close, and as a result lose many bees each winter, says E. Foster, apian inspector with the State Plant Board.

October is the time to look at the bees and see that they have plenty of honey. Mr. Foster reports that every spring while going over the state he finds that hundreds of colonies of bees have died during the winter. He attributes most of this loss to a shortage of food.

Because the winter months are not severe in Florida is not sufficient reason to expect the bees to work every day. When they are forced to do this, and two or three cold days come along, many die. Fifteen to 20 pounds of honey should be left in each hive at all times, he stressed.

In case there is a shortage of honey in the hives, Mr. Foster advises feeding a mixture of equal parts sugar and water. The best way to feed this is to take an empty sugar without frames, and place it on top of the hive after the cover has been removed.

Large Crowd Grooms Sholtz at Cross City

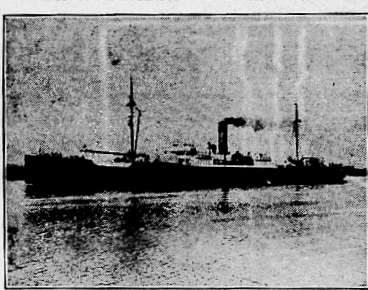

Cross City, Sept. 28.—What is declared to have been the largest crowd ever assembled in Cross City to hear a Democratic politician, greeted Dave Sholtz, Democratic nominee for governor, on his appearance here last Monday night.

Party leaders here declare that Roosevelt and Sholtz will overwhelmingly carry Dixie county in the general election November 8.

The nominee's address, dealing with state issues and advocating a new deal for the people, aroused the big crowd to a high degree of enthusiasm.

J. H. Hodges, of Lake City, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, likewise addressed the crowd. Judge Hal Adams, of Mayo, presided.

Liner Will Refuel Planes In Atlantic

Berlin, Germany.—The North German Lloyd Company announced recently that it had ordered a floating Air Station in mid-Atlantic to facilitate the establishment of regular air mail between North America and Europe. The liner will be equipped with a mother ship for transatlantic planes; that is those carrying mail. This will include an airtight platform, stores of tools and spare parts, radio equipment and weather forecasting paraphernalia. The liner will be permanently stationed between Southampton, British Gambia, or a nearby point on the African Coast.

Preparing Garden Soil Better Than Deteriorating Plants

Money and energy spent in preparing the soil for flower and ornamental plants is far better than trying to doctor ill-nourished specimens later, Dr. R. M. Harnette, chemist and soil specialist with the Florida Experiment Station, explained in a recent radio address to garden club members.

Efforts spent in restoring soil conditions favorable will have a lasting effect and do much toward increasing the enjoyment of the garden. Plants on fertile soil will stand more drought or flood and resist diseases and diseases better than poorly nourished ones, he said.

An adequate supply of organic matter, he termed the most essential condition for the growth of garden plants. This organic matter must be in a well-decomposed condition to facilitate cultivation and not be unmanageable. The compost heap is therefore a prerequisite for successful gardening.

Complete removal of the soil for a foot or more around where the plants are to be planted and the building of a fertile soil in its place is often advisable. The poorer sandy soils. Rich earth and compost may be dug into the bottom of the bed from the garden. The sand has been removed, and the bed of the bed may be filled with compost, woods mold, peat, muck, and manure.

Organic matter decomposes very rapidly in Florida soils and it is necessary to keep supplying it in large quantities to maintain a fertile soil in the garden.

Most Florida soils are distinctly acid, with the exception of a few. The addition of lime to a few calcareous soils and soils with shells, he explained. If liberal quantities of fertilizer material have been added, the acidity problem is minimized. A large number of plants grown in gardens will tolerate a relatively high degree of acidity, especially on fertile soils. Lime should be applied very judiciously. To make the soil more acid for the plants as the azaleas, peats and mucks are fine. However, emphasis should be placed on getting a rich, well-drained, well pulverized soil if we want the best of success with gardening.

Alligator Valuable Tourist Attraction and Fish Protector

The alligator is valuable to Florida as a tourist attraction and as a destroyer of gars, turtles, and other water life which are destructive to game fish, Varley Carr, biologist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, said in a recent radio address.

"To the people of the world, Florida is the Gator state," said Mr. Carr. "To miss seeing alligators in a trip over the state is the keenest disappointment to tourists. Another Florida attraction is thus being greatly depreciated by the ruthless destruction to scarcity of this famous inhabitant. The inhuman shipment of baby gators to northern kills where the rigorous winter kills them, and the commercial slaughter of the adults have played a deplorable part in the situation as we find it today."

"No one doubts the great value of the alligator to the state, but recent droughts and illegal cleaning have almost made a clean sweep of this fresh water game fish. Florida waters are filled with predatory fish and turtles which if unchecked will get the few bass that are left. One of the best ways to reduce the numbers of the predators of game fish is to increase the state's supply of alligators."

"Remington Kellogg, of the U. S. National Museum, in his bulletin about the habits and economic importance of alligators, says they live chiefly upon crabs, crawfish, fish, turtles, and water snakes. It does not appear that they are seriously destructive to useful forms of wild life, as important

FOOD FOR THE SCHOOL CHILD

A child builds both physically and mentally and he cannot be stronger than his foundation. If he has good food habits during his growing years he is almost certain of carrying them through life. Good food habits should start today. Tomorrow may be too late.

When a child of six enters school he may feel he has no time to eat breakfast, or at best he may have only a hurried meal. This condition is due largely to the hours of sleep. By regulating the time for going to bed and arising, the breakfast hour easily adjusts itself.

If one meal is omitted or is low in food value, it is very difficult for the child to get enough food in the other two meals. It is better to divide the food for the day into three meals of moderate size.

The school child's breakfast is the most important meal in his day and should be well planned, with time allowed for eating. Breakfast should always contain a fruit, loaf or bread (a dark bread at least part of the time), a cereal (preferably a hot one), milk or cocoa, and perhaps bacon or eggs. Except in very hot weather one dish should be warm. A cooked breakfast food is more economical and as a rule more nourishing than a prepared one and should be served most of the time. When a prepared cereal is served, hot milk may be used. Cocoa occasionally made with whole milk, toast, muffins, bacon, and eggs all add variety to the meal.

Supper should be planned with the noon meal in mind. If the child carries a lunch at noon, particular emphasis needs to be placed upon vegetables at night. Two vegetables besides potatoes should be served daily. One of these may be served at noon or both may be included in the night meal. In addition to these, eggs, meat or meat substitutes, bread, fruit or a simple dessert, and milk will make a nourishing meal.

The child's diet should contain: Foods to build, such as milk, eggs, cottage and other cheese, fish, meat and chicken. Foods to regulate the internal activities of the body, such as vegetables, fruits and milk. Foods to stimulate growth and promote health, such as milk, tomatoes, cabbage, carrots, spinach, oranges and lemons.

Foods to provide sufficient energy for all the activities of the child, such as breads, soups, cereals and butter.—Anna Mae Sikes.

Massachusetts To Go Democratic

Jacksonville, Sept. 28.—Claims that the Roosevelt-Garner ticket will carry Massachusetts and will turn Connecticut into "hotly" contested ground, have been issued by Democratic national headquarters.

"All indications are that Massachusetts will go Democratic," said Andrew J. Peters, former mayor of Boston, former member of congress and former assistant secretary of the treasury.

"It is a significant fact that a large number of disappointed and dissatisfied Republicans are openly announcing their purpose to vote for Governor Roosevelt," he declared.

Peters asserted that it is necessary to change horses while crossing a stream, if the horse one is riding lies down.

food fish do not bulk large in their diet. Their depredations on crabs and shrimp are not planned to cause fishermen any difficulty in meeting market demands.

"It is high time that the people of Florida awaken to the fact that its natural wild-life resources, black bass and alligators being among the most valuable for commercial and other interests, and take the necessary steps to protect the wild life of the state."

NEW TIRE PERFECTED FOR USE ON TRACTORS

Firestone Introduces Large Size Low Pressure Tire For Farm Use

Of timely interest to grower and carters because it is said to be very well adapted to the sandy Florida soils and affording excellent traction, is a new low pressure tractor tire, pioneered and developed by Firestone, and now being introduced by tractor manufacturers and dealers as a revolutionary advancement in power equipment for farms.

It makes the farm tractor an all-purpose machine.

This tire is large in cross section and diameter, and carries only 12 pounds air pressure. It is the first practical all-purpose tractor tire worked out with due consideration of overall diameter, clearance, ground contact, width of foot furrows, and all other necessary factors. It is so designed that it makes the tractor stable and free from wobble or sideways, permitting the use of customary agricultural attachments.

This development has gone forward with co-operation of implement manufacturers, and has been tested by them and by farmers in many parts of the country. Important tests of overall diameter, tests were performed at the 600 acre farm of Harvey S. Firestone at Columbus, Ohio, where Mr. Firestone carries on his experimental farming with the most modern equipment.

The results of actual experience with these tires on farms indicate that the whole future of the farm tractor will be affected because of the wonderful performance of these tires from the standpoint of decreased fuel consumption, very greatly increased life of the tire, improved traction on both hard roads and soft fields, higher operating speeds, greater comfort for the operator, and longer life of equipment due to the protective cushioning of the low air pressure.

Both front and rear tires have the patented construction features of Gum-Dipped Cords and Two Extra Gum-Dipped Ply Layers under the Tread—extra values that give extra strength and endurance.

This new tire enables the ordinary farm tractor to do much more work and adds varied uses. It makes the tractor available for the hedges and equipment on paved highways, orchards, meadows, groves, and on golf courses it does not injure the surfaces, and does not pull the seed bed. It can be driven into farm buildings without injuring the floor. It minimizes power loss, increases draw-bar horsepower, and makes possible operations in high gear heretofore only possible in second gear.

The tire does not pick up or throw dirt. It can be inflated with the ordinary hand tire pump. Firestone engineers have pioneered a drop-center rim for use with these tires, both front and rear, which gives the most dependable and economical service, and is the first adaptation of the drop-center principle, almost universal in the passenger car field, to use in the large tire field. Detachable weights are supplied for use in heavy plowing or where maximum traction is a factor, fastening to the spokes and resting on the hub.

Farmers and other tractor owners will at once see many advantages of this new tire for their tractors, and, in fact, implement manufacturers and others who have seen its remarkable performance. Implement dealers throughout the country will be prepared to apply these tires to tractors now in use or furnish new tractors with this equipment.

A Critic's Error

That minor personal habits have no important bearing upon one's ability is illustrated by a little joke that the late General Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, was fond of telling on himself.

Long before the now ubiquitous "cotton balls" became popular, or even respected, General Goethals became an inveterate cigarette smoker. He also parted his hair in the middle.

When Goethals, then a major, was assigned the difficult task of building the canal in 1907, after other eminent engineers had failed, a Washington newspaper editor commented unfavorably on his selection for the job. After recounting the failures of others to accomplish the task, the newspaper said:

"And what in heaven's name can we expect of a man who parts his hair in the middle and smokes cigarettes?"

Yet Goethals did build the canal, although he continued to part his hair in the middle and smoke cigarettes as long as he lived.

Big Double Circus Has Vast Program

The colossus of all amusements, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus is definitely scheduled to exhibit in Tampa, Saturday, Oct. 1.

The No. 1 advertising car, the first of three in advance of The Greatest Show on Earth, is now in this vicinity. Elliptical, basemen, lithographers, radio men and press agents are heralding the great event, and soon everyone will be planning for a gala visit to the world's largest "big top," the center of the biggest canvas city ever assembled to thrill, entertain and amuse a great and discriminating populace.

Traveling on four trains of double-length steel railroad cars, the giant of super-circuses will bring 1600 people, 1000 menagerie animals, 50 elephants, 700 horses and a herd of the largest and tallest giraffes ever exhibited.

Pre-eminent features are many. A tribe of monster-mouthed Ubangi Savages from the jungles of equatorial Africa are presented this season by popular demand.

The Flying Codons, featuring Alfredo, the world's only triple mid-air somersault to a hand-to-hand catch; the Concellos and Harolds, sensational aerialists; Miss Tamara, Europe's greatest circus star; Lucile Leary, supreme aerial gymnast; The Wallendas, defying death in astounding feats; a steel wire in the peak of the big top; Al Powell, flying aerial contortionist; The Robs Sisters, Yacopis, Danvills and Hagony Sisters, amazing acrobats; The Riefenach Troop, heading the new five-continent congress of bareback stars; Maxine, beloved comedian of the slack wire—these are but a few of the stellar attractions.

There are 800 performers and 100 internationally celebrated and beloved clowns. The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey horse fair has become the performance of the slack wire—these are but a few of the stellar attractions.

ALL-STARS DEFEATED FIREMEN SUNDAY 8-4

Numerous Errors Contributed To Placid's Downfall Sunday

The Orange Belt League All-Star team, picked by the directors of the league at a meeting last week, won their first game with the Lake Placid Firemen Sunday, in a loosely played game on the part of the Firemen, six errors contributing to the Firemen's downfall and the score ended eight to four.

Cox, first up, singled to left field and was followed by Basie who singled to left field, Cox going to third, Alsbrook sacrificed Bass to second, Mackey received a pass to first, Thomas was safe on short's error and Cox scores. Cobb and Thomas are out on a double play to retire the side. McIntosh was safe on short's error, Moore going out to center field, Murphy passed to first, went to second on a passed ball and stole third. H. Albritton singled over third, scoring Moore, stole second and was left on base as Larissey went out pitcher to first.

McAulay, was out to second, Sharpless was safe on first through short's error, Leaphart was safe on short's error with Sharpless going to second, Leaphart and Cox are out on a double play retiring the side. The All-Stars rang up three runs and two hits to force ahead of the firemen. Keene was safe on pitcher's error, Bryant singled, advancing Smith to third, Keene to second. On a double play, Smith was safe on Bryant's error, advancing Smith to third, Keene to second. McIntosh struck out, Moore went to second on short's overthrow of first and Bryant and B. Albritton scored. Murphy struck out.

Bass in the third frame singled over second, Alsbrook and key striking out. Thomas was out second to third. H. Albritton for the All-Stars doubled to center field, Larissey was safe on right's error and Albritton scores, Larissey is out third to second as Keene is safe on a fielder's choice. Keene striking out and Bryant was out pitcher to first.

Sharpless received the only hit for the Firemen in the fourth frame with three up and three down for the All-Stars in the fourth and fifth frames. While Placid rang up one run and three hits in the fifth with Bass leading off with a single to left field for his third hit of the game. Alsbrook was out second to first. Alsbrook singled to right field, Thomas singled to left field scoring Bass, and Thomas was out at second as he tried to stretch a single into a double. Sharpless in the sixth frame doubled to center field, Sharpless singled scoring McAulay, Leaphart singled, scoring Sharpless. Leaphart was out at second as he tried to steal. Cox was out to left field.

Smith for the All-Stars singled to center field, Keene singled over third, Bryant sacrificed and Smith scored. B. Albritton singled to center field, Mathews was safe at first on a fielder's choice as Keene is out at the plate pitcher to catcher and Moore was out pitcher to first. Alsbrook and Mackey received singles for the Firemen in the seventh frame but were left on base. Murphy, first up, passed to first. H. Albritton was hit by pitcher, Larissey received a fielder's choice as H. Albritton is out at second and Murphy scored on the play. Larissey and Smith went out on a double play. Sharpless and Leaphart singled for the Firemen in the eighth frame. Bryant, hit by pitcher, went to second on a wild pitch and B. Albritton strike out to retire the side. More Fine Pictures Being Shown at the New Circle Theatre

Continuing his policy of showing the best available pictures, Manager Charlie Morrison of the New Circle, "Sebring's Friendly Theatre," has booked another week's program of exceptionally fine pictures, Thursday and Friday of this week will find "Three Wise Girls" with Jean Harlow, "Platinum Blonde" and "Red Headed Woman" star, in a happy go lucky role, the type that suited her so capably before the recent tragedy, still a mystery, which caused her husband, Paul Bern, to take his own life. Saturday, one day only, matinee at 3:30 and night at 7:30 and 9:15 will witness the screenings of "The Part Mayor," said to be based on the recent Jimmy Walker shake-up in New York City. Sunday and Monday with matinee Sunday at 3:30, and with first night shows starting at 7 p. m. "Chandu, the Magician" with Edmund Lowe and Bela Lugosi in the leads, will hold forth and advance reports state that this is one of the finest pictures of its type ever made. "My Face Red" with Ricardo Cortez and Helen Twelvetrees, one of the outstanding "colossal pictures," will be the attraction for next Tuesday and Wednesday with Will Rogers in "Down to Earth," the Sequel to "They Had To See Paris" concluding next week's line up. Each picture mentioned above is really splendid entertainment and the program stands a varied array of film fare for local fans.

The Epworth Hi-League held an enjoyable social at the church on Friday afternoon of the past week, after a pleasant hour spent in playing games refreshments of sandwiches, cake and drinks were served. Those attending were: Julian Holman, P. D. Moore, Erwin Kelley, Edwin Kelley, Estey Kelley, James Trammell, Virginia Holman, Gertrude Morgan, Willis Grace Kelley, Verna Williams, Jacqueline Moore, Mrs. W. M. Roberts, Mrs. A. R. Trammell and Mrs. G. H. York.

Services at the Methodist church were well attended Sunday. The Sunday school had an attendance of 60 which is an increase over the previous Sunday. The Junior girls class came within four points of tying the Young Peoples class for first place for attendance. A special feature of the evening service several young people of the Epworth Hi-League furnished the music and as a special number they sang a selection entitled "To the World." The pastor delivered forceful messages at the morning and evening hour of worship.

Mrs. John Coleman and Mrs. Lloyd Thomas entertained the fortnightly card club Wednesday evening of the last week at the home of the latter. The Lake Placid Firemen have drawn Roscoe Bass of Avon Park to handle the second sack, Cobb who has played second during the season going to second position taking the place of LaMonte Roberts who has resigned.

Good stock and a good system of grading and fattening crops allowed Hill Creek, Alachua County 4-H club boy, to get $445 per hundred pounds for his litter of nine pigs which were sold in Moultrie, Ga. when the prevailing price was $3.75, reports County Agent Fred L. Craft.

The pigs were farrowed early in February. They were raised under a co-operative agreement with the Florida Experiment Station and on a grazing crop system worked out by the Station. They were fattened in a clean house and immediately turned on a field of oats. Later they were grazed on millet and sudan grass. They were fed shorts, dry peanuts, corn, and milk and supplemental feeds and had a mineral mixture before they were weaned at two months old, and about the middle of July were turned on a field of corn to fatten.

The total cost of producing the pigs was $33.64. The nine pigs, averaging 152 pounds, brought $72.89, leaving a profit of $39.25. County Agent Craft says there are two main reasons for the pigs' success: the market; they were free of worms and they were of fine quality and the size which the market prefers.

Bracing Will Prevent Breaking Tangerine Limbs By Big Crop

To prevent a heavy crop of tangerines from breaking the limbs and causing permanent injury to the tree, bracing the limbs is recommended by E. F. DeBusk, citrusulturist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service.

The best method of bracing that has been found consists of inserting screw eyes in the limbs to be braced, and then drawing the branches up to the proper position by means of pieces of wire, one end of which is fastened to the screw eye and the other to a large ring held in place just above the center of the crown of the tree by attaching a few short wires to the ring and central limbs or by a post or piece of pipe set in the center of the tree.

Governor Roosevelt is accused by Republican leaders of stealing the prize from the program, and we've been wondering how on earth the program found out what that program was—Miami Daily News.

Treating chickens for worms is practiced in Florida is apparently not only useless but harmful and expensive," said Dr. E. F. Thomas, assistant veterinarian at the Florida Experiment Station, in a recent radio address.

He has recently completed four experiments, three in co-operation with poultrymen over the state, and one here, in which a total of 1,629 birds were treated under farm conditions with two well-known worm treatments—tetrachlorethylene-kamala, and iodine vermicide. The untreated birds in all the experiments finished the test with higher egg production and consumed less feed per dozen eggs than those treated. Each of the four experiments showed the same general trend of production.

"These experiments indicate," Dr. Thomas explained, "that hens given one worm treatment and placed back on the same ground as worms before they have time to recover. From the evidence shown in these studies, which will be carried further, the best procedure for poultry to follow would be to institute sanitary measures

Roosevelt's Western trip has been a triumphal progress.

Wonderful weather, and the best eight months of the year just ahead of us.

The Literary Digest is electing Roosevelt. That's not official, but it's a good sign. The people will ratify the job in November.

Our prediction is that the next session of Congress will provide for full payment of the Legion Bonus. And that such payment will not break the country.

After all, it seems Los Angeles made a mistake in voting against the recall of Mayor Porter. His failure to meet and welcome Candidate Roosevelt when the latter visited his city stamps him as a very small man.

It is so easy to write this modern poetry. Just take this paragraph and set each word or perhaps each two words—in the middle of the line, and there you are! A "pome" built according to modern specifications. And it fills a column rapidly.

Citrus money will soon be rolling in; then returns for truck, strawberries, etc.; seasonal labor opening up; and prospects for a good tourist crop. Everything ahead encourages hope and optimism.

One of the things we believe we could give up for the benefit of our health is petting parrots. We know other things we can pet and perhaps get something, but it won't be psittacosis.

There is growing dissatisfaction with the direct primary wherever that system is in operation. It is the path of preferment for the opportunist, the four-flusher, the politician with the most prolific promise and the loudest ballyhoo.

Perhaps the day will come when bus and truck companies will build their own roads for their own exclusive use, as the railroads have done. There would be no injustice about this, and the public roads would be relieved of the burden of commercial traffic.

Tammany has endorsed Roosevelt. Now will those holy Hoovercrats who could not vote for Al Smith "because he is the Tammany candidate", knife Roosevelt for the same reason? Not on your life—because they knifed Al Smith for an entirely different reason.

A little brown man, worn and weakened by care and hunger, successfully opposes the power of the great British empire until it comes to his terms. Fear of the reactions of the teeming millions of India of the death of Ghandi, from voluntary starvation, brought about the concessions by the British government which Ghandi asked for his people. Truly the victory is not always to the strong.

If municipal conditions in Florida grow much worse it will not be an uncommon thing to see cities and towns holding tag days to pay off city officials.

In Kansas the temperature dropped 28 degrees in five minutes the other day. Must have been in and near a bank where somebody had asked for a loan.

Kinda miss the good old days of the primary campaign. Heard so many wonderful promises then that they kept our spirits up, notwithstanding that we know what we know. Some of the candidates don't even remember half they promised by this time.

St. Petersburg officials don't do things by halves. When the holders of bonds of that city asked for a levy of $1,700,000 for bonds and interest, the St. Pete fathers levied $7,800,000. Now the only thing left to make everybody happy is to get the money.

One of these uplift articles going the rounds states, "A good driver never looks back." We've "contacted" several of that kind of drivers who backed into us, as sundry donks on our flivver will prove. But we didn't know at the time that they were good drivers.

One cannot but admire the spirit of our neighboring city of Lake Wales as shown by its determined efforts to bring to justice the dastardly assassination of Attorney Joe Beal. Clues hopefully pursued run into dead ends, and the murder seems destined to become another unsolved crime mystery, but if this shall result it will not be the fault of the good citizens of Lake Wales, who are desperately trying to erase this foul blot on their city's good name.

At a Kansas political speaking some one displayed a large flag bearing the inscription, "Hoover or Saloon—What Would Jesus Do?" Confronted with that dilemma, it is rather difficult to conclude what Jesus would do. Knowing His love for humanity, however, we are far from convinced that He would condemn the people to four years more of Hoover. Fortunately the people do not have to accept either alternative. In voting for Roosevelt they certainly are not favoring the saloon. Instead, the attitude of Hoover has been such that the banner could just as truthfully have been inscribed "Hoover AND Saloon."

Georgia farmers have a just kick when they complain that they can get only 19 cents a gallon or less from milk distributors in Atlanta. In the dim, dear past we have massaged a Bossy's udder, and we hold that it is worth 10 cents to get a gallon of milk by that process, counting Bossy's part in production not at all. The consumer pays a fair price, but the middle-man it seems takes all the profits. In Florida the price of milk has held up reasonably well in proportion to other commodities, retailing 13 to 18 cents a quart in various communities, which is none too much for a good quality of milk.

I don't know who the guy was that invented the term "Gentle Reader" but all I got to say is, he lacks experience. I'd like to get him in a corner and read him a letter I received this morning.

You know I've broken out two or three times lately with a line of chatter about things really gettin' better and passed out the hint that maybe Santa Claus wasn't dead after all, but was just playin' possum.

But accordin' to the love letter I've got in my hand, I'm the world's champion POOR DUPE. I'm a tool of Wall Street, a poor blind imbecile, led astray by Republican Propaganda. I ought to be ashamed of myself for standin' 'round paintin' rainbows when I should be out with a hammer and nails boardin' up the plate glass before the storm hits us.

To begin with, my correspondent informs me that conditions in this country are worse right now than they've ever been, then he goes on to say that all these mills and shops openin' up and people goin' back to work ain't nothin' but a low down Republican trick, he even blames recent real estate sales on the Damnyankees, and judgin' from what he has to say about a certain guy named Herbert Hoover, I'm led to believe he's a Democrat.

Now I make mistakes, just like the next bird, that's why I got bumpers on my car and rubber on the end of my pencil. But in this case I don't aim to do any errand and what's more I ain't takin' back anything I've said.

Whether the gentleman likes it or not, there's been a decided improvement in this country during the last 60 days, and there'll be a lot more in the next 60.

Now maybe the Republicans are to blame for it, and maybe they ain't, anyhow givin' 'em all the credit looks to me like one of the sweetest little tributes it's possible to hand out and a darn sight bigger compliment than I'm willin' to pay 'em.

It was bad enough when we had to go gallopin' around tryin' to find out who to blame the depression on, but now if we got to sit up nights and chew our finger nails in an effort to determine who's responsible for things gettin' better, then I'm willin' to admit that we sure enough are in one helluva fix. If you really want to know who's to blame for most of our troubles all you gotta do is just take a nice long look at yourself in a full length mirror.

Maybe I'm dumb, but I never could see why we have to take our political affiliations so cock-eyed seriously. In the end of the day what we're really tryin' to do is elect the BEST MAN to the office, be he Democrat, Republican or Independent.

Ninety nine out of a hundred of these birds that you see tearin' their hair and frothin' at the mouth about being a staunch this or that, couldn't tell how they got that way or why they are, if you asked 'em, all they know is that they're right and the other poor sap is wrong.

They are so darn busy bein' GOOD Democrats or GOOD Republicans that they forget all about the more important duty of bein' a GOOD American.

And if Mr. Roosevelt can just switch enough of those GOOD Republican votes next November, why he'll be elected a Democratic President, while Mr. Hoover's problem on the other hand is to make himself click with a lot of GOOD Democrats so he can win as a Republican.

It's a great racket, one gang kneels in homage to the lowly donkey, while another grovels in the dust at the feet of the elephant while the glorious American EAGLE soars over-head unseen.

So the League of Nations is short of funds and with dues unpaid. Sounds like a report of the finance committee of the Chamber of Commerce in any average American town.

Price and quality well advertised will always remain the determining factor so far as the demand for a particular article is concerned, and if a foreign made article is considered a better article and is better advertised, people will buy it even though the home made article should have the preference.

The clamorous arguments of our Economists at the collapse of business seem to be attracting more attention than the cries of dismay of our farmers, laborers, merchants and manufacturers. It's about time that there is less talk about Economy and more action in improving business conditions.

Every city is full of men who are just as clever as those in neighboring cities.

Mortality among poultry on country roads is remarkably low. Many feathered pedestrians are to be found on most roads. The most leisurely are geese, which perambulate in haughty disdain all over the road. Drivers allow for their slow habits and few of them seem to come to grief. But ordinary fowls are faster movers and capable of last minute sprints. Consequently, motorists show them less consideration, with the result that they would head the list of poultry accident casualties if they were compiled.

You should know the traffic rules of your city.

One of the easiest things to do is to offer criticism concerning some other fellow's mistakes. Why not try a hard one? Try correcting your own mistakes.

Your city will be just as great as your citizens make it.

A MORATORIUM ON BANK RUNS

This government of ours is no doubt the best the world has ever yet devised, but that does not mean that it could not be improved in many respects. It has been tied into many how-knots by legal red tape that the wonder is it is able to function as well as it does.

In Chicago, according to a news story, a member of the police force is about to lose his home because of his failure to pay his taxes, when the city owes him more earned salary as a policeman than his taxes amount to—several times more. And thus we have the picture of a government failing to gettin' better and passed out the hint that maybe Santa Claus wasn't dead after all, but was just playin' possum.

All "legal," of course, but those who are responsible for the mess the legal chaos which we call government have nothing to be proud of, and there is no wonder that the people are in a frame of mind to kick out every official who could have had a part in it.

But from Kansas comes a gleam of hope in the discovery of another official who had the courage to break through the red tape and do something in an emergency. The only bank at Bonner Springs, Kansas, was in the throes of a "run" one day last week and was going to have to close. Mayor E. S. Lightfoot issued a "warning" declaring a thirty-day holiday in banking functions for the bank and set about through civic organizations and leading individuals to restore confidence in the institution and persuade the people who were demanding their money to give the bank a chance and leave their money in.

This is what the mayor of Bonner Springs tried to do, and while it was contrary to custom and probably quite outside the law, it is plain to be seen that it has a good chance to be successful and save a bank and avoid disaster for an entire community.

In all probability somebody will raise a ruckus about this way of handling a situation and yank the mayor into court and declare him unconstitutional, but it is hoped that before this can be done the people of the community will have come to their senses and decide to lay off their stampede and permit the bank to continue to serve them.

HOLD YOUR GREEN FRUIT

With the opening of the citrus shipping season, it is apropos that the usual timely warning should be issued against the shipment of green or unfit fruit to the various markets. In view of past experiences, it would seem that such a warning should be unnecessary, but history seems to prove otherwise. There always have been and probably always will be growers and shippers who hope to profit by taking advantage of every opportunity to secure the "high dollar" for early shipped fruit, regardless of how much such a practice may operate against all shippers, including the shipper of unripe fruit, later on in the season.

One car of green fruit distributed in each of a dozen Northern distributing centers will do more to disrupt the market and lessen the demand than the shipment of a hundred cars of ripe fruit to each of those markets later on can do to counteract the folly.

Commissioner Mayo and his corps of inspectors doubtless are doing and will continue to do everything in their power to prevent the shipment of unripe fruit, but they should have the united support and backing of every grower and shipper who has the welfare of the industry at heart.

There is one safe rule for the shipment of citrus fruit, and that is this: "Ship no fruit that you would not be willing to put on your own table for yourself and your family to eat." If this rule is followed, Florida citrus growers may safely count upon a profitable market for their fruit.—The Citrus Industry.

HARD THING TO PUT OVER

The state generally seems to be taking enthusiastically to the plan of Rep. Curtis Waller of Leon county to reduce the number of counties from 67 to 30. Yes, there's a lot of enthusiasm now, but wait till they try to get the bill through to bring this about. There'll be squawking from every county involved, and particularly from every county official involved. We'll wager that, unless the order of things changes, there won't be any fewer counties in Florida after the next session of the legislature.—Ocala Banner.

Childhood Feeding Habits Outlined by State Medicos

Childhood Feeding Habits
(This is one of a series of articles sponsored by the Florida Medical Association. These articles are intended to tersely give to the reader vital information on general health subjects from an authoritative source. This newspaper is presenting them to its readers in the hope that the information contained therein will be of use.)

The common complaint of many mothers is this: "How can I get my child to eat these things that I know he must have?" The answer is largely a matter of psychology. Every individual is fundamentally negative; that is, the first reaction to anything new is usually, "No!" This is especially true of the young child. He resists any innovation either in his regime of his dietary. This is more particularly true of the child who has not been accustomed to a variety of food early in life, especially before his second year.

Variety Early
The importance of early feeding habits then becomes apparent not only from the point of view of proper nutrition but also from the psychological standpoint. The early feeding of cereals with the addition of vegetables and other foods shortly thereafter is the secret of forming successful feeding habits. The infant becomes accustomed to new foods, finds he likes them and by the time he has reached the age of reasoning is not resentful of dietary innovations.

Parents' Attitude

For the child who has not been fed early a variety of foods, the answer to the problem is found in the mother. A period of dietetic discipline must be instituted. The child is probably taking only milk and a few of the sweeter things which he happens to like. Other foods are automatically and categorically refused. There is only one way to overcome this: Those things which the child likes must be withheld until after he has taken those things which he must have to maintain proper nutrition. The practice of teasing, urging, playing with and otherwise trying to force food on the child, must be stopped. The meal should be served in front of him, offered and if refused taken away and no more effort made to feed until the next meal. Once the infant or young child becomes convinced that he is not going to get what he doesn't like, the fight is won.

Expressions of likes and dislikes by the parents in the presence of the child is a common mistake. The child imitates his parents and refuses the same food that they do on the plea that he doesn't like it. Therefore, do not express such dislikes in front of him. The building of proper feeding habits often requires moral courage on the part of parents. This and nothing more.

Lovely Party at Parish House.

One of the delightful social events of the early fall season was the bridge luncheon given by the ladies of the Episcopal Guild at the Parish House on Wednesday.

A beautiful pastel color motif was portrayed in the room decorations, pink, yellow and orchid blossoms in a clever blend of shades being placed at points of vantage in floor baskets, bowls and pockets. Bad vases, each containing a spray of orchid and pink flowers were placed on the center of the small tables for where the luncheon was served, followed by the card games in the afternoon.

The daintily appointed luncheon served in two courses consisted of pressed chicken, cold slaw, hot buttered rolls, individual buttered potatoes, pickles and tea followed by the sweet course of sherbet and cake.

When scores were totaled, it was found that Mrs. Charles Sherman held high score among the contract players while Miss Kate Thompson received high score in the auction games. The contract prize was kitchen towels and the auction was both towels; both were attractively wrapped and tied in the chosen colors.

The ladies of the guild who assisted in the hospitalities were Mrs. G. T. A. Gibson, Mrs. A. C. West, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. M. E. Covington, Mrs. D. M. Orr, Mrs. Demos Mandis, Mrs. Kathleen Jones, Mrs. M. V. Picher and Mrs. D. Y. Rouse.

Among others attending were Mrs. A. M. Morgan, Mrs. D. V. Rouse, Mrs. G. P. Thayer, Mrs. Joe Lanier, Mrs. C. P. Turner, Mrs. S. C. Pardee, Mrs. C. H. Pardee, Mrs. Francis Shockey, Mrs. C. H. Baker, Mrs. J. L. Wells, Mrs. E. P. Loomis, Mrs. George Harvey, Mrs. A. Gilmore, Miss Kate Thompson, Miss Mattie Thomas, Mrs. M. E. Roberts, Mrs. J. L. Parks, Mrs. J. B. Moore, Mrs. Kempton, Mrs. M. B. Wingate, Dr. Louise Eastman, Mrs. H. W. McCallip.

Chattanooga Visitor Is Honored.

In compliment to her house guest Mrs. Charles Clarence Chumley of Chattanooga, Mrs. G. S. McKnight was a cordial hostess on Tuesday afternoon when she entertained in her home.

Plumage, hydrangeas and roses lent a colorful note to the rooms where the bridge games were enjoyed. Mrs. Chumley received a guest gift from Mrs. S. C. Pardee was awarded high score prize. Miss Eleanor Bryant was crowned queen for her luck in holding poor cards during the afternoon. The tallies bore a clever bridge design and a delectable dessert course was served.

Sharing the delightful affair with the honor guest and hostess were Mrs. S. C. Pardee, Miss Eleanor Bryant, Mrs. J. B. Hart, Mrs. G. P. Thayer, Mrs. H. E. Godwin, Mrs. H. W. McCallip, Mrs. Chas. Baker, Mrs. Olive Anderson and Mrs. A. C. West.

Dr. and Mrs. McKnight entertained with two tables in the evening as a courtesy to Mrs. Chumley with Mrs. Olive Anderson, Mrs. and Mrs. H. W. McCallip and Mrs. Frank Corrine.

A sweet course was served and Dr. and Mrs. Morgan were awarded a prize for the couple with the highest score.

Many Babies Entered For Baby Show.

Quite a large number of mothers have already registered their children for the baby show to be given next Saturday afternoon at the Jacaranda Hotel. The affair promises to be most delightful and will start to finish, in addition to viewing a bunch of adorable babies and children, a Mother Goose Play will be given.

Registrations may be made with Miss Christine Reeves at the Democratic Headquarters in the Jacaranda Hotel and every mother is urged to make entries as soon as possible.

The baby show is sponsored by the Ways and Means Committee of the Women's Club and the small admission fee of 10 cents for school children and 25 cents for adults will be charged at the door.

League Party at Rawlings Home.

The Senior Epworth League of the Methodist church spent an enjoyable evening on last Friday when they were invited to the home of Miss Elizabeth Rawlings on East Walnut street for a party.

Yellow flowers were tastefully arranged about the living room and sun porch where a number of interesting games were played. Later delicious sandwiches, cookies and iced tea were served.

Among those enjoying this delightful affair with Miss Rawlings were: Miss Marie Kinney, Miss Sara Smith, Miss Anna Dee Roberts, Miss Madge Attie, Miss Caron Boudin, Miss Mildred Ford, Miss Patty Loomis, Miss Helen Bryan, Miss Sara Hill Trent, Miss Novella Connell, Miss Elsie Higbie and Miss Mildred Martin.

Really Sale By Hodges to State Upset by Court

Tallahassee, Sept. 29.—Circuit Judge E. C. Love today held State officials were without right, power or authority to purchase from State Sen. W. C. Hodges a block of property situated east of the Capitol building here.

He granted a perpetual restraining order against such purchase in proceedings brought by John E. Mathews of Jacksonville against Nathan Mayo as Commissioner of Agriculture and against other State cabinet members comprising the Board of Commissioners of State Institutions.

"The contract for the purchase of said lot, as alleged in the bill of complaint, is null and void insofar as the State of Florida is concerned," Judge Love said in his order.

The court held that Mayo and the Board of Commissioners had no right to pay for the lot from the general inspection fund "as it is charged in the bill of complaint said defendants have agreed to do and have restrained therefrom by this order."

Ernest Amos, as State comptroller, is hereby perpetually enjoined and restrained from drawing or issuing his warrant or order on the treasury for the balance of the purchase price of said lot of land purported to be due the said W. C. Hodges, amounting to the principal sum of $15,000 or any part thereof.

Likewise, W. V. Knott, as State treasurer, was perpetually enjoined from payment of the sum.

Learn To Fritter If You Would Feast

"Life to me is never bitter. As long as I have time to fritter." —Silly Sayings.

What do you do with your time? If you are clever you will fritter some of it away, especially at mealtime. Crisp golden fritters, deep-fried to a deliciousness, are the perfect food for autumn, and while lending a note of quiet elegance to your meal, still they manage to work wonders with a reduced budget.

You need eat but one perfect fritter to become a fritterer for life; to teach this important first one, you need only get the basic method straight and then begin to make fritters of everything under the sun. There are the meat and fish and vegetable fritters for the main course, and these incredibly good ones made of fruit—apple, peach, banana, cherry, pineapple, orange, grape, etc.

First, you must have a really good fritter batter (euphonious words), one that comes out right every time. Nine out of ten expert cooks use this one:

Standard Fritter Batter.
2 cups flour
3 teps. baking powder
1 tps. sugar
1 1/2 cups milk
3 teps. oil
3 eggs whites
1/4 tps. salt

Sift flour with baking powder, sugar and salt. Add milk and oil to sifted mixture. Beat well, add beaten egg whites.

Frying is Easy.
While the batter is standing get your kettle ready for the deep-frying. Use an iron or aluminum kettle, but use a frying basket only if you wish. You will want the frying to be a smokeless, odorless process, so you will choose mazola, which has a high smoking point and gives an even brown crust to the fritters. Fill your kettle half full of the oil.

Heat until very hot. If you have a thermometer, use it; if not, toss a cube of bread into the hot oil and wait until it takes to brown; will show the approximate heat. Fritters usually require a temperature of 375 degrees F. or hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 60 seconds.

You previously will have prepared your fruit or vegetable for the frying (we trust). When all is ready dip the food to be fried into the batter, allowing each piece well. Fry until brown, drain on brown paper. Some cooks like to dip the vegetables in flour and the fruit in sugar before putting into the batter.

The standard batter recipe will do for almost any kind of fritter but is especially good for the meat, fish and vegetable varieties. For the fruit fritters, a slightly different batter is used.

Fruit Fritter Batter.
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1/2 tps. salt
1/2 tps. sugar
1 tps. mazola
2 teps. lemon juice
Milk or water.

Sift the flour and salt together. Beat eggs with the mazola and lemon juice; add flour. Mix, then add enough water or milk to make a thin batter (usually 1/2 to 2/3 cup). Beat until smooth and use.

In the case of large slices of fruit such as bananas or apples, you will coat with the batter and fry. Smaller fruit slices may be added right to the batter and then dropped into the deep mazola.

When your main course fritters are fried, drain them on paper, and serve either plain or with a cream or Hollandaise sauce. Fruit fritters are sometimes sprinkled with powdered sugar, but the most delicious way to serve them is with a generous serving of syrup, either the dark or light karo, or the caramel flavored variety. Fruit fritters make a luscious dessert although apple fritters are just right with the meat course. Cheese and rice fritters are also popular—and to try making the cheese ones with corn meal! Just sift 4 cups flour and 1 teaspoon baking powder and a teaspoon salt and add to 2 cups corn meal mush. Add a cup of grated cheese and one beaten egg. Then drop by spoonfuls and fry.

Cape Cod Clam Fritters.
2 cups minced clams
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
2 cups flour
2 teps. baking powder
Extra milk.

Beat two eggs and mix with milk. Add to the minced clams. Sift flour with baking powder, and add to first mixture. Add more milk to make this batter that will drop from a spoon. Drop by spoonfuls in deep mazola and fry. Drain on brown paper and pepper and serve with lemon.

Miami Man Named Director of District Home Loan Bank
Washington, Sept. 29.—Directors for the Fourth District Federal Home Loan Bank, Winston-Salem, N. C., were announced today by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The district comprises Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama and the District of Columbia. The bank has a minimum capital of $10,000,000.

The two directors representing public interest were Dr. J. A. Chandler, president of William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Va., and Ernest Woodruff, director and member of the advisory board of the Coca Cola Company, Atlanta.

The nine directors representing home financing business of the district are:

F. W. Spencer, Rock Hill, S. C.; C. C. Duke, president Provident Savings Bank, Baltimore; W. A. Padillo, Birmingham, Frank C. Chase, Duke County Securities Co., Miami, Fla.; J. F. Stevens, Greensboro, N. C.; Julian Price, president Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co., Greensboro; J. Newton Gordon, Lynchburg, Va.; E. C. Balt, perpetual Building and Loan Association, Washington, D. C.; and T. H. Welsh, Hyattsville Building and Loan Association, Hyattsville, Md.

The selections complete the directorates of seven of the 12 regional banks. The board expressed hope that directors for the remaining banks will be announced this week.

Sunday School Lesson

FOR OCTOBER 2, 1932.

SUBJECT: The Christian's Devotional Life.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." 2 Peter 3:18.

LESSON TEXT: Matt. 6:3-15; 2 Timothy 3:14-17.

We add to the text, 1 Psalm, verses 1-2. PRACTICAL TRUTH OF THE LESSON: The more we meditate upon the Scriptures, the more natural does prayer become.

Introduction: We have for this quarter one of the series of lessons, in which we range over the entire Bible, studying the most important passages on the most important themes.

We begin with the first Psalm, which emphasizes the delight in prayer which a Christian feels; for we shall not know the real meaning of prayer if we go to it merely from a sense of duty, merely in a formal and perfunctory way. The Christian longs for the "sweet hour of prayer, sweet hour of prayer, that calls him from a world of care." In prayer he finds a relief from all his sorrows, guidance in all his perplexities, strength for all his tasks, companionship in all his loneliness, forgiveness of all his sins, power against all his temptations, and a steady growth in all the ways of a happy life. If we do not love prayer, we shall not pray, or pray to any purpose. This first Psalm is a picture of the godly life with its happiness as against the ungodly life with its discontent.

This Psalm indicates the place of the Scriptures in the devotional life. The two have always been linked together. The godly man goes apart with his divine book. Reading its sacred pages, he soon finds material for praise and prayer, for contrition and for petitions for forgiveness. It is quite impossible to be a man of prayer without being a man of the Bible, or a man of the Bible without being a man of prayer. The two duties and privileges are one. "It is not enough to read the Bible as a duty," we must come to it with delight."

The first Psalm, verses 1 and 2 describes the man or woman of prayer. "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful. But the delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night."

The first printed passage in today's lesson is taken from the "Sermon on the Mount," in which Jesus taught the disciples how to pray. "When thou prayest, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are: for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets, that they may be seen of men. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But thou, when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and the Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly. But when ye pray use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefore like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him."

In those days men sat to teach and stood up to pray. If the real spirit and purpose of prayer can be expressed by beautiful words it may be well to use them, but a beautiful or learned prayer may be, and often is, worthless. Neither is a true prayer a lecture to God nor address to an audience. Jesus gave a sample prayer, "After this manner therefore pray ye: Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen."

And the reasons for praying in the Spirit of that form are set out in verses 14-15 of the lesson. "For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you: But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses."

Paul wrote to Timothy, "Continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of. The holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus. All scripture is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness." Earnest prayer is never vain. Prayer brings us into God's presence, strength and peace.

WOMEN OF FLORIDA DEMOCRACY WERE ORGANIZED FRIDAY

Every County in State Was Represented at Jacksonville: Smashing Victory Predicted at Polls in November.

Jacksonville, Sept. 27.—Florida Democracy, meeting in Jacksonville last Friday, completed its state wide organization for the success of the ticket in the November general election, when members of the Women's Advisory Committee—representing the 67 counties in the state—gathered in the George Washington Hotel and mapped out the part women will play in the campaign.

The women's committee, authorized by the State Democratic organization, responded 100 percent to the call for the conference. Each of the 67 counties sent one or more delegates to the meeting. Roll call showed approximately two hundred women in attendance.

J. B. Hodges, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, presided. He declared the gathering struck a new note in the Democracy of Florida. "The organization which has been perfected in Florida," he said, "presages a smashing victory at the polls in November."

When the conference was called primarily for organization purposes, Democratic nominees, including Dave Sholtz, candidate for governor, embraced the opportunity to personally meet the women and thank them for their interest in the cause of Democracy.

Other speakers included W. J. Sears, nominee for congressman-at-large; J. M. Lee, nominee for state comptroller; Judge Cary D. Landis, attorney general of Florida; George B. Hills, who managed Roosevelt's primary campaign; J. P. Newell, state campaign manager; and Mrs. W. S. Jennings, who had charge of the Woman's Victory Fund drive in Duval county.

The gubernatorial nominee was accompanied by Mrs. Sholtz. They were given an ovation as they entered the hall and escorted to the speakers' rostrum.

Introducing the nominee, Chairman Hodges declared that just as the "hand of Providence had reached into the skies to station a champion to lead the national ticket, it also has reached into the same skies and handed to the people of Florida the brilliant young statesman, Dave Sholtz, as their standard bearer."

Cheers greeted the nominee. "I want to talk to you informally," he said. "I want to tell you something of my hopes and ambitions with reference to the great responsibility which the people have placed upon me."

"I first ran for governor," he declared, "because I felt it my duty to help the people improve our state. I realize the people expect leadership, and need it now more than ever."

"I have often wondered if there is a chance in Florida for your children and my children. I believe there is and I want to do my part that they shall have that chance."

He declared the cost of government must come down; that extraneous taxes must be lifted from the people's homes that they may not only retain but regain those lost because of high taxes.

"I want to help the school teachers get a decent living wage and I want to develop Florida that it may be a still better and finer place in which to live," he said.

"I am more concerned about these things than I am about the mere honor of being governor. My philosophy is that we all should be prepared to make some sacrifice for the privilege in living in Florida, which has better opportunities for further development than any other state in the Union. I am prepared to make this sacrifice and my wife, Alice, is prepared to make it."

He said his one great ambition is to give Florida four years of the best and most economical government it has ever had. "I pledge you," he declared, "that I will try to do with all the talent and energy which God has given me."

Mrs. Sholtz, who was introduced by Mrs. Hortense K. Wells, National Committee woman, spoke briefly. "May I not take this opportunity," she said, "to thank you for the confidence you have placed in my husband. When I married him I, of course, took a chance, but my experience since that event has demonstrated to me that you have taken no chances with him."

After scoring the Republican party as the "party of special privilege," Judge Landis paid a high tribute to Dave Sholtz and the nominee's family, stating that he "probably knew Dave better than any other human being, except Dave's father."

He said, "I personally represented Dave's father, Michael

Sholtz, for 15 years and, in my opinion, Mike Sholtz is as honorable a man as God ever made."

He described Dave's mother as the "motherly, womanly kind of woman that any man might feel proud to call mother."

"Dave," continued Judge Landis, "is made of the same stuff. He is a true, honorable and noble son of noble parents and a fine and splendid citizen. He is a man of right purpose and proper instincts and he is and will be a great leader of our party."

Following the speaking program, the meeting was turned over to campaign manager Newell for a round table conference. Reports from each county were to the effect that all Democratic women were active and the party will roll up a tremendous majority in the November balloting.

Among a score of telegrams sent to the conference was one from Franklin D. Roosevelt, stating that he is "delighted to know that the Democratic women of Florida are devoting themselves aggressively to our campaign for a sweeping victory in November."

After the morning session, the visitors were guests of Mrs. Sholtz at luncheon. During the afternoon conference members, together with women of Duval county, met the wife of the gubernatorial nominee at an informal reception.

PROFITS OR LOSSES ON POULTRY FLOCKS SHOWN BY RECORDS

Went over to a neighboring farm yesterday and was talking to Mrs. Gus Weeks, who raises poultry while Gus runs the rest of the farm.

On inquiring of Mrs. Weeks how she had come out with her chickens this year, she answered without hesitation, "Well, I have made something over $500 clear profit on them since October 1 last year, not counting the eggs we have eaten in the home during the year."

Over $500 profit on 350 chickens struck me as being pretty good, and I wondered if she were guessing or if she knew. She certainly talked as if she knew.

"I have the records in here in a record book which I obtained from the Agricultural Extension Service at Gainesville. Shows how many birds I had at the beginning of the year, how many I disposed of each month, how many eggs I sold, prices received, amount of purchases and prices paid for feed, and expenses and receipts. So that I know just where I stand in the poultry business."

"Years ago I didn't keep any records. I just sold eggs and bought feed and supplies and other things for the farm. Sometimes I didn't have enough money with which to buy feed, and Gus tried to tell me that the chickens were not profitable. I started keeping records and showed him that the chickens did pay."

"Of course, if they had not been paying, it would have been up to me to do one of two things. Either I would have had to cut and feed so that the chickens would be profitable, or else I would have had to dispose of them. But the records would have shown exactly where the birds were from the standpoint of profit and loss."

Now, the beginning of the fall egg-laying season, is a good time to start keeping records on poultry flocks. Probably around the first of the year is a good time to begin keeping records on other farming activities.

CITRUS EXCHANGE WILL NOT INCREASE CHARGES

Economies in Costs Offset Greater Unit Overhead Due to Smaller Crop

Tampa, Sept. 27.—Selling rates of the Florida Citrus Exchange for the most intensive production campaigns in the history of Pinellas county were mapped by Democrat at a recent meeting in St. Petersburg with the campaign committee of this county.

The entire county has been organized and will be systematically cashed. Nine separate Democratic organizations were represented at the meeting.

Lake Worth.—High School athletic field improved.

Picking, hauling and packing charges, materially lowered in recent seasons, will be no higher this year in any of the associations, while they are to be further reduced by several, it was reported. With the better conditions existing in the markets promising more satisfactory prices, the low sales costs are expected to assure profitable returns to Exchange growers producing good fruit.

Plans for conducting the business of the organization, agreed upon by the finance and executive committees in several lengthy sessions, were approved by the board. These included, in final form, the budget governing outlays of money, which may be deviated from only in emergency. Appropriation of funds for purposes not enumerated in the budget is to be discontinued.

Report of his recent trip to St. Petersburg in the north made by President Edwards revealed that they are efficiently managed. Recommendations were offered by the president for improved methods in handling fruit and radical steps were suggested by Mr. Edwards as a means of overcoming the demoralization of markets through unrestrained movement of unpacked fruit and oranges.

Of the amount yielded by the advertising retail, commodity campaign sponsored by the Clearing House and went up $100,000 from the brand advertising of the Citrus Exchange and the board considered use of possible unexpended balances in other funds to replace the amount, many of the directors questioning the direct sales value of the joint effort.

General Manager C. C. Commander, Sales Manager P. W. Davis and other heads of departments submitted detailed reports on the activities and plans under their supervision. Prospects are encouraging, the former stated, for material reductions in transportation charges, both by rail and boat.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile—Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly erect and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your system daily.

John Ruskin

It's this bile not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. One bloated up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good dollops of LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."

They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, meaning when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Insert a substitute. 25¢ at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

AVON PARK High School News

Pep Majestic

Ship ahoy, mates! Here we've been going to school for very near a month and haven't said a thing worth printing yet. What do I mean? Oh well, the Freshman, the Sophomore, the Junior or the Senior may know a lot, but let him start printing. That's the reason I've kept my mouth shut so far.

You see I used to be a printer of great renown. What am I now? Look! I type my master pieces with my thumb and fore finger and who knows the difference? I'll warrant you that the majority of the readers of this paper wouldn't give a whoop if I never wrote at all and you can't blame them.

Now if you don't know who I am by this time I'll tell you. I'm Avon Park High's new cheer leader. They elected me because they say a cheer leader to be really good, must be half cracked. That's me, lady, that's me. Now you take my assistant, Robert Stewart, he's not HALF cracked. We ought to have a little laughter this year if nothing else. What this school needs is more pep and less pep. Am I right?

Here's a new song I wrote. You will please sing it to the tune of "Happy Days Are Here Again." Football days are here again. Our hearts are full of cheer again. Cause our team is gonna win and win. Football days are here again. The Red Devils are feelin' right! There'll be no (Lake Wales) tonight. Here's three cheers for the Red and White. Boys we've gotta fight and fight and fight. Get that ball and make a great big gain. Football days are here again.

—Re-Pep.

What Would Happen If:

Frances Cason got a pink slip for chewing gum?
Minnie Lee Lewis came to school on time?
Thelma Lisceny didn't have to stay in after school for talking?
Wenona Kennedy could get fat?
Elizabeth Rawlings wasn't mad in Math Class?
Thelma Perry was quiet?
Jean Correll could miss one afternoon staying for Miss Atchley?
Reba Wingard didn't talk in English class?

Senior

Once upon a time (no, this is not a bed time story) a young man was invited to spend the evening at the home of an elderly friend. When he asked if there should be any young ladies present, he received this reply, "Wal, I got one grown daughter and two 'a-growing." Judging from the way the Senior boys sit—or should I say lounge?—in their desks they must be suffering from growing pains, too.

The first school month is up already. Just eight more and then the grand climax—graduation. Nelson says that they will quit having graduations and diplomas by the time we get there. But here's hoping, anyway.

Ever since school began, we have noticed that something was missing in Senior High. I have finally discovered that the something is Mrs. Ginn. We have a very, very good History teacher this year, but Mrs. Ginn has a place in our hearts that no one else can hold.

"Luck will aid any man across the ditch if he jumps hard enough"—Just ask any typing student. A certain Senior boy remarked the other day that he simply couldn't understand why he was always falling for says freshmen. This same young man has also been caught talking to himself recently. It really is too bad for a dignified Senior to get in any such position.

Suggestions

"There comes a tide in the affairs of men" and also a tide in the lives of girls and boys. Where is it bearing "YOU"?

Which takes at the flood—"Are you using the flood?" The flood of knowledge that eddies about you day by day? "Louds on to fortune—" What will be your fortune?—"Omitted, all the voyage of their lives. Is loud in shallows and in mist-taken."

Do not neglect opportunity now—It maybe your last chance. Since we are all fish, swimming in this flood, let us be deep sea fish. Don't be a poor fish; a Minnow in the shallows. Any one can be a Minnow but it takes will power, determination, effort to become a big fish.

Just Home

When I'm sitting alone by my window at dusk, And I'm thinking of ones who are honest and just; Of ones whom I love and of ones whom I trust, My thoughts run back to home.

When I list to the wind and gaze at the stars And I think of the book called too "Teen Seaman's Dream," And I feel the warmth of a cozy fire, My thoughts run back to home.

Home with its sorrows, its tears, and distress, Home with its cheers and happiness, Home! a place of security and rest— Home all it is, is just home.

As I sit I think of the hours spent back there, Hours of happiness as well as despair, Hours of aches with mother's sweet cares, I know I owe all to home.

My eyes fill with tears as I think of the day, I told home goodbye and went faraway, Its intricate fingers still and I'm glad I can say, I owe everything to my home.

Home is a place that will welcome you now, Home when in trouble will not turn you down, Home is a house where peace can be found— Home! all it is, is just home.

—Ola Mae Meriwether.

Juniors

The "big moment" with most of us Juniors and all other classes, too, it seems is Avon High's first night game. How will all those who so deeply want to go get to Lake Wales in a body? Pardon me, it is 37 miles, isn't it? But to get back to the point, I just want to tell you how well those Juniors are coming out on said field of fame. We are represented by Clyde Clark, Clarence Hewell, Eddie Flowers, Otto Foster, W. A. Madrox, A. E. Wells, Fred Bodick, Charles Kempton, Billy Wilder and Arthur Johnston. Here's hoping they all make first team and come out with many laurels Friday night. We're with you Red Devils, let's beat Lake Wales.

We are all very anxiously awaiting the first edition of our report cards. That's a "first edition" which will all read and whether the story in said printed page causes mirth or tears depends entirely on the purchaser. We buy this book with our daily works in school and since each day counts let's make them count in the right way while the day is still young. May it be the first edition for every thing you could wish it to be. Worry hard on it—it's more than worth the while.

And, fellow students, you should see our new chemistry supplies. But then, you can't appreciate them cause their beauty is in their use. We certainly are proud of our laboratory and the experiments we're learning to perform.

Evelyn Clements.

Sophomore

Hello News! Here I am back on the old job again. Today our class had a very interesting program. Martha Walden and Martha Weaver had charge (they must have been stuck on the same Martha) and isn't the new Bryant boy popular? I'll say! Last week we had him play the harp, and then again today. He started playing "Comin' round the Mountain" and did he play? He's as good as any of the old men who play for barn dances. Oh! We're proud of our little Honduras boy friend.

Sassy, What's the matter, everybody? "You all lookin' so down hearted, and I know—these month-long tests getting you, huh? Oh! Well, we may as well make the best of them, there'll be plenty more."

What's this I've been hearing? About a picnic? Is that right? We're all waiting anxiously for the time to come when we do have this picnic.

From the way things look, there are going to be some famous football players in the future of the sophomore class. Here's to you, boys!

—Myrtle Turner.

Mr. Smith: "Gladys stop talking to the boys and turn around."
Gladys: "I wasn't talking to them, I was just telling them something."

Seventh-A News

Well, here we are again this week, and are still keeping up our good work.

Tuesday morning in our home chapel period we had a program. Those taking part were: Ray Gordon, Mary Lydia Stebbins, Jane Hart, and Frances Clod. Then the room sang some songs. It was very good.

Well, there hasn't been much happening these days so we'll see you again next week.

THE RED DEVILS

Whoopie! Folks, come on and let's get right. Pull out your two-bits, push out your model "T" and let's go to Lake Wales. The Red Devils (pronounced Red Devils) play their first hair-raising game there Friday night at eight o'clock.

The boys are all used to playing in the day time, but they are planning on using the diamond ball court a few nights this week in preparation for the coming event. The Red Devils lost in a practice game last Friday to a team consisting of a few scrubs and several of last year's first string. The causes of this defeat have been discovered though, and are speedily being remedied.

The team lost another of last year's first string. All players in "Personality" Roberts, who was a star player on our team, moved to Waukegan last week.

Home Economic News

Here we are! The Home Economic Class of the Avon Park High school thinking hard and trying to work out the hard problems our teacher, Miss Atchley, gives us.

For the past two weeks we have been studying the house and the home. We learned that a home is a desirable sanctuary wrought out of desire, built into memory where kindred bonds unite the families in sharing labor, leisure, joy and sorrow. A home represents the spiritual side while a house represents the material side. A house is a place of abode or shelter, built of brick, stone, and wood. It may be a humble cottage, unpainted and worn by the wind and storm or it may be a stately mansion, built attractively and of the finest materials.

But whether it is a humble cottage or whether it be a stately mansion, within its walls may hold a Home of priceless beauty and rich in love's eternal gold.

A good home is more than just a house. It establishes the right kind of ideals and standards such as honesty, love, loyalty, cooperativeness, thoughtfulness and self control. It is a desirable place to raise and train children—to some extent a place of production and consumption and furnishes opportunity for spiritual, mental, moral and physical development. Good family life has a refining influence on its members and provides satisfaction and intimacies which are necessary for our development and happiness.

Our class has enjoyed the study of the house and home and from now on before we grumble or complain about our home we will make sure that we are not the disturbing element. We are planning to organize a club next week and are hoping this year will be one of interest and success.

Freshmen News

The ninth grade is rolling along fine so far. Teachers seem to be giving surprise tests, so this must mean the month is flying by.

Wednesday the English Club had a meeting, Madge Atchley took charge. Many interesting current events were given. The class voted on the best one. The honor was given to Aletia Nicholson.

The Latin class is decreasing in number. Jimmie Roberts, the senior, moved away. Martha Weaver taught the class Friday. She made the lesson very interesting. Maybe Miss Pearson is afraid Martha

8th A

This the second issue of the 8-A news. This week we've been taking our monthly tests for our grades. We've all made pretty good so far! We're going to have three tests today so we'll have a rather busy day. Nothing has happened so far this week.

Today in our home room fifteen minute chapel program Thelma Perry and Dorothy Weisheyer are going to give us several selections on their violin and cornet. We'll be signing off till next week.
