

Growing Pullets Need Clean Range; Rotation Suggested

Gainesville, April 19.—In the development of healthy poultry, clean range is an important factor, according to Norman R. Mehrhoff, poultry specialist with the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station. This is important, he says, when considering the quality of the pullets that go into the laying house determines to a large extent the returns that can be expected from the poultry flock.

The range should not be considered clean unless it is free from all poultry manure has been spread on it for at least a year. Clean range is important because growing pullets can easily become infested with coccidiosis, worms, and other troubles from a year or two to three years of rotation is to be preferred. Cultivation will help to keep the land clean.

Mr. Mehrhoff suggests a system of three ranges, raising the chicks on a different one each year and culminating the other two. Such a system will keep the soil free from becoming contaminated.

Pullets that are infested with worms or coccidiosis will develop properly, but the longer they are kept free from these troubles the more resistant they will be to them.

Spray Cycad Palms With Bordeaux To Stop Frond Blight

Gainesville, April 19.—Cycad palms, which are killed by frond blight, should be sprayed with 4-4-50 Bordeaux to which calcium caseinate has been added at the rate of one pound to 50 gallons, according to Dr. G. F. Weber, plant pathologist with the Florida Experiment Station. He suggests that all the old affected fronds be pruned off and burned before spraying.

The first symptoms of frond blight on cycads are usually a few of small yellowish spots appearing on the pinnae leaves. These spots will enlarge, turn brown, and finally kill the entire frond.

The first spray should be a dormant spray, and applied before the new growth starts. That will mean in the near future.

Mr. Mehrhoff suggests a system of three ranges, raising the chicks on a different one each year and culminating the other two. Such a system will keep the soil free from becoming contaminated.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

ALWAYS FUNDAMENTAL. FARM LIFE IS PROVING SALVATION OF NATION

Agriculture, which always has been and always will be fundamental in the nation's industries, is coming into a greater appreciation among the nation's people. As a buffer against dire adversity, it is proving to be a very present help in time of need. Quite naturally, it is leading the country back to normalcy, after the other industries in a group of other countries through a period of "riding high" and into another period of riding very low.

The farm, the forest, the outdoors in general, figure prominently in the President's plan for relieving the unemployed situation. Men can be put to work growing crops which will provide food for man and feed for animal, clothing for man, and material which man can use in building his home and conducting his industry or other business. The rural industry has been used with reckless abandon. It now seems that men will be put to work conserving the remnants and increasing the resources for the future. This generation will benefit, and future generations also.

Life on the farm is not always a bed of roses, but the life on the farm is once again receiving a proper degree of appreciation. The income from the farm may be small, but the farm family is never hungry. Most of the primal needs of the family can be produced on the farm.

Little wonder, then, that many unemployed families have returned to the farm. Fortunate indeed is the man who when factory closes, or business fails, can go back to the farm.

Many Growers Now Attending Schools

The fourth of the school was recently completed here. At 12 consecutive meetings the County Agent and other citrus specialists discussed citrus problems with the growers. The growers voted to continue meeting once each month for similar discussions.

7c Gas Tax Two More Years.

Tallahassee, April 19.—The House bill providing for reenactment of the seven cent tax on a gallon of gasoline with revenue going to the general treasury, was signed by Governor Sholtz. The seventh cent tax was levied during the 1931 legislature, as an emergency measure. The new bill extends this tax for two more years, beginning July 1.

Watermelon anthracnose is best controlled by spraying with 4-4-50 Bordeaux. Add nicotine sulphate to the Bordeaux, according to the Florida Experiment Station.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Plates, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual, National and International, are well as the problems of the Local Welfare.

Among the most significant and outstanding developments of the moment is the continued improvement in the banking situation. The return of gold, reduction in circulation (when money in circulation is unusually high it means widespread hoarding and is of course an unfavorable sign), and decline in borrowings from the Federal Reserve have been little short of sensational. Banks which were kept closed after the holidays, or which operated on a restricted basis, are reopening in all parts of the country. In 10 days ended March 25, 265 national banks with $350,000,000 in deposits had been reorganized or strengthened so that they could carry their business.

Bankers are preparing to meet revolutionary changes in practices. These, according to present indications, will have two features: First, the separation of banking functions by divorcing investment and trust banking from commercial banking, and second, the introduction of a national system, either through forcing all banks into the Federal Reserve or by legislating state banks out of existence. Bulk of leading bankers are favorable to these proposals.

Beer has become legal in states comprising about 60,000,000 people. It will become legal at various dates within the next four months in a group of other countries through a period of "riding high" and into another period of riding very low.

The principal reasons for immediate legalization of beer were the jobs it would provide, the income it would bring, and the indications are, shortly after its acceptance, that it is living up to expectations.

First result has been a sharp jump in employment, sizable returns to the federal, state and local governments, and an increase in spending. But for other articles. Railroads have hired additional crews to man their trains. Related businesses—such as the trucking, the shipping, and the food business—report a sharp pickup. Thousands of men are working at remodeling old breweries and building new.

Reliable figures will be difficult to obtain for some time—until the novelty of "beer is back" has worn off and the statistics of the new sets in. It seems, however, that it will do much in helping the causes of employment, purchasing power and governmental revenue.

In accord with President Roosevelt's habit of doing the exceptional, he is holding the line of the principal powers to Washington. Invitations have been sent to Hitler, Mussolini, McDonald and the presidents of France, China, Japan, Brazil and other countries. Others, it is said, will follow later. Subject will be world peace, international co-operation for achieving it. The representatives of the governments will not hold round-table discussions; they will talk separately with Mr. Roosevelt.

Importance of world trade was the subject of a statement by Secretary Hall which at once followed the Presidential announcement. He said it is high time to call a halt to existing trade barriers, and pointed to the fact that America's share of the world trade that has been lost in the last few years totals about $8,000,000,000. A volume of business which means the difference between depression and comparative prosperity.

The industrial picture is mixed. However, it is much improved over what it was a few months ago, even bypassing the favorable consequences of the legalization of beer. Retail trade is improving. During a recent week electric power production was the most favorable comparison with 1932 for some time.

During the last few days of March and early April a definite sales upturn in the automobile industry was registered. The industry sees this as an indication of a normal month during April now that banking difficulties are settling and financing can continue unimpeded. Increased requirements have already resulted in substantial gains in steel ingot production. On the black side is the gradual shutting down of American copper mines—indeed, when this is read there may not be a single one in production. Products are simply unable to operate at present prices. It is believed that a temporary complete shutdown would improve the picture.

The railroad's net profit is appreciably below the 1932 level, which was extremely low. Much hope is placed in the working out of the Administration's railroad program.

Lawyers Predominate In the Legislature

Tallahassee, April 19.—While lawyers predominate as members of the 1933 legislature, it is interesting to note that other interests are well represented. A careful tabulation reveals that the combined membership of the House and Senate has 60 listed under the classification of lawyer. Ten are real estate men, four are physicians, 17 farmers, four naval store operators, six citrus growers, five bankers, three publishers, and one each of the following, railway conductor, dentist, hotel man, automobile dealer, school teacher, oil company agent, merchant, drug dealer, building contractor, salesman, engineer, insurance, loan, seed dealer, musician, manufacturer, plan, accountant, and dairyman.

Sixty-one members are native born Floridians. Twenty-five are natives of Georgia. Five were born in North Carolina, two in Virginia, four in South Carolina, two in Kentucky. The following states are represented: Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Scotland, and England.

The interest in lawyers was by Alexander and Wheeler, publishers of a Legislative Directory in Tallahassee, entitled "Who, Which and Why in the 1933 Legislative session."

State Two-Year Old Jersey Record Broken at Experiment Station

Gainesville, April 19.—Breaking the state record for a two-year-old Jersey, Florida's Fontaine Mare, owned by the Florida Experiment Station, has just completed a 305-day Register of Merit test in which she produced 412 1/2 pounds of butterfat. She brought two calves within the year.

This record breaking heifer is a daughter of the Experiment Station's senior herd bull, Fontaine's Westford Noble. She is a granddaughter of the bull Florida Mare, who has eight daughters in the Experiment Station herd with an average record of 8,171 pounds of milk and 411 pounds of fat.

The present state champion 4-year-old Jersey is also owned by the Florida Experiment Station. She is Westford Majesty's Heir, and made the record last fall.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
FOR APRIL 23, 1933
SUBJECT: Jesus Rebukes Self-seeking.
GOLDEN TEXT: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." Romans 13:10.

LESSON TEXT: Mark 9:33-43.
 Leaving the neighborhood of Mt. Hermon and Caesarea Philippi, our Lord and his disciples proceeded southward to take up their work again in Galilee; but they knew that every where their enemies were on the watch for them, not did they any more teach openly from village to village. Over and over the Saviour repeated his prophecies of his approaching arrest, crucifixion, and resurrection, for he wanted his disciples to be prepared for those great events; but they could not comprehend the significance of his words.

This lesson shows the importance of lowly service. It urges a simple life and humble co-operation with all who work for Christ.

Today's lesson comes from 9th chapter of Mark, and in the first verses Jesus took James and John and Simon and went upon a "high mountain apart by themselves; and was transfigured before them."

"High mountain" was probably Hermon, the summit of which is 9,000 feet high and is usually capped with snow. And Elijah appeared with him in the transfiguration. On other occasions Peter and James and John had been favored by us, and probably the other disciples had become jealous and the quarrel referred to in today's lesson occurred.

"And he came to Capernaum; and being in the house he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among yourselves by the way?" Jesus' supernatural knowledge showed him what they thought and said.

"But they held their peace; for by the way they had disputed among themselves, who should be the greatest." The disciples were ashamed to tell Jesus the cause of the controversy. They still thought Jesus would establish a temporal kingdom and would need a cabinet of several members to aid him in his government.

"Then Jesus sat down, and called the twelve, and saith unto them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all."

Usually the man who desires to be first is detected and given a last place in the work. Sometimes, however, a proud conceited person will prosper.

"And he took a child, and set him in the midst of them; and when he had taken him in his arms, he said unto them: 'Whoever shall receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me; and whoever shall receive me, receiveth me, but him that sent me.'"

Whoever does a kindly act in Christ's name to even a little child, will in some way receive a reward.

It appears that the disciples were anxious to change the subject of discussion. "And John answered him, saying, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us; wilt thou forbade him, because he followeth not us?"

It comes as a surprise to learn that a man who was not one of Christ's immediate disciples was actually casting out demons through the name of Jesus. Evidently John was surprised when he saw him; and out of a mistaken zeal for Christ, supposing that they thus were serving his cause and upholding his honor, the disciples forbade him.

"But Jesus said, Forbid him not; for there is no man which shall do a miracle in my name, that can lightly speak evil of me."

Different writers have said, Christ forbids any kind of tribute to himself, however crude and imperfect it may be. All reverent use of the name of Christ is to be encouraged, not rebuked.

True likeness to the Saviour would lead us to rejoice that the kingdom of Christ is advanced, whether by a Presbyterian, and Episcopalian, a Baptist, or a Methodist. This reply of Jesus, "Forbid him not," is a strong reproof to bigots who are ready to deny the Christian or Churchly name to those who are not of their set or organization. Christians should seek to get all men to ally themselves with Christ, as closely as may be, and in the best way possible, but in some way.

"For he that is not against us is on our part." In Matt. 12:30 Jesus says, "He that is not with me is against me."

It is explained by writers that when considered under the different conditions surrounding these two statements they are not contradictory nor inconsistent.

"For whosoever shall give a cup of water to drink in my name, because ye belong to Christ, verily I say unto you, he shall not lose his reward." Small things really make up our lives, and little acts. "For Christ" made up the lives of most Christians, and for them Christ will give a Christian reward.

But Jesus again refers to the little child and said, "And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea."

"And better to enter eternal life than to go to hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched."

Seaboard Offers Special Tours for The World's Fair

Through the facilities of American Express Travel Service, visitors going to a Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago by rail this summer can now select and engage their hotel rooms, reserve transportation between the station and hotel in Chicago, provide for their sightseeing, and purchase their admission tickets to the Exposition as easily as they buy their railroad tickets.

The Seaboard Air Line Railway offers this service through its connection with the American Express Travel Service, and information and aid available to persons contemplating visiting the Exposition at the local Seaboard ticket office.

Visitors availing themselves of these tours are assured before they leave home that they will find the hotel accommodations they choose ready and waiting for them when they arrive. And they know also exactly how much their accommodations will cost.

This tour service available at Seaboard ticket offices makes it possible for visitors to know in advance almost the exact cost of their trip to Chicago and return. The low railroad fare, taxicab fare from the station to hotel and return, cost of sightseeing tour of Chicago, and admission to the Exposition can be figured to the penny, leaving only meals and incidental expenses to be added.

Patrons of the railroad will have twenty-seven first-class hotels in Chicago from which to choose their accommodations, regardless of the length of their visit. The costs, including hotel room, transportation between station and hotel, sightseeing tour, and admission to the Exposition, are surprisingly low.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Weekly from Home Demonstration Specialists, Tallahassee.

FORMING EATING HABITS.

To prevent the formation of undesirable food habits there are certain rules to be kept in mind. As Dr. Joseph Brenneman states, the child that is properly handled should anticipate meals with pleasure and should be glad to eat properly.

Children should not be made to eat, except at a doctor's suggestion. Coaxing, anxiety, and discussion must never be indulged in. The child must not feel that his eating is an object of interest or a cause of unhappiness.

A wide range of foods which are as nearly natural as possible, for example, fruits instead of fancy desserts, will keep the child from developing cravings for highly-flavored or made dishes. Small helpings, attractively served, with no comment, should be the rule when new foods are served. A time when the child is thoroughly hungry should be selected, and something the child is sure to look forward to may appear later in the meal, but should not be held up as a reward.

A definite length of time may be allowed for the meal, the child excused at the end of that time, and the food, if not all eaten, removed with no comments.

Regular intervals between meals, with great care exercised to see that children do not get food in between, will help to keep the reaction toward eating a healthy, pleasurable one.

A carefully varied diet may have much to do with establishing good food habits. Overfeeding with fats, butter, rich milk or cream, or with white flour products or sugar, may interfere with good habits.

Arcadia Seeks

Weight Limit

For Heavy Trucks

Tallahassee, April 19.—Confronted with the serious problem of protecting her city streets against damage from heavy bus and truck traffic, the city of Arcadia has appealed to the Florida Railroad Commission for permission to limit the weight of motor traffic on city streets to not over 16,000 pounds. A hearing on the question will be held this week.

Every Florida city will be keenly interested in this question, for while commercialized motor traffic is regulated by state laws, the weight permitted is based on the ability of the highest type of state highway to stand such limit, and in most instances city streets are not constructed to sustain this weight. Consequently, our municipalities find themselves forced to spend money constantly repairing streets damaged in this manner.

It would be well, while the legislature is still in session, to determine definitely, just how far a municipality may go in the matter of regulating the weight of traffic on city streets.

The same problem was carried to the Supreme Court in Georgia recently and the opinion handed down was against the municipality. The court held that cities and towns had no right to regulate weight or tax motor vehicles for hire, this power being "reserved in the state."

Under the new proposal the limits will not be rectangular in shape but a great deal of grove property will be excluded. The power plant, the crute mills and the packing houses will remain in the city and the council members were of the opinion the proposed new limits will be the most satisfactory to all parties concerned although they admit everyone will not be pleased.

SEBRING BANK REOPENED UNDER A CONSERVATOR

First Man Named Under
New Law Assigned
To Sebring

The Highlands County Bank of Sebring re-opened Thursday morning under the direction of E. S. Martin of Palatka, who was appointed Conservator of the institution by Comptroller J. M. Lee Saturday last week. Martin holds the first appointment of the kind under the new law which was passed by the legislature recently.

The bank, which closed during the national moratorium, had been operating on a restricted basis since that time and until the time it was taken over by the state banking department, last Friday. The bank had deposits five percent of its deposits in cash and fifteen percent in scrip. New accounts were 100 percent liquid.

All funds deposited in the bank since March 4th are liquid. Mr. Martin advised The News yesterday afternoon. Deposits will be accepted from now on and are guaranteed by the state.

Martin has a two-fold task in administering the affairs of the bank, he is instructed to cooperate with the bank officials and depositors both in pursuing the course best for the interests of all.

No loans will be made by the conservator. Funds being deposited will be entirely liquid, being held in cash, U. S. bonds or in cash in the Federal Reserve Bank.

The new legislation under which Martin was appointed provides that the conservator, "whenever he shall deem necessary in order to protect the assets of any bank for the benefit of depositors and other creditors thereof, the conservator of the State of Florida may appoint a conservator for such bank or trust company and require of him such bond and security as the State Comptroller deems proper." Further, the law provides the conservator "shall be paid out of the assets of such bank and shall be a lien thereon which shall be prior to any other liens provided by this act or otherwise."

Section 5 of the law provides that, "Any reorganization of any bank or trust company shall be effective only after creditors, which claim shall include depositors representing 75 percent or more of the institution's indebtedness in aggregate amount, have agreed to such plan of reorganization and such plan shall be confirmed by a judge of a circuit within whose jurisdiction the bank or trust company is located."

The last paragraph of this law would make it mandatory for Circuit Judge W. J. Barker to place his approval upon any reorganization plan which might be approved by the depositors.

It is understood a reorganization plan will be worked out and offered in the near future.

Directors of the Florida Retail Jewelers association met here Friday of last week and arranged for the state convention to be held in Avon Park in June, the dates of which are being determined.

On the last evening of this convention there will be a box supper at Pine Crest Lakes, followed by a dance to which the public is invited. About 50 or 60 delegates are expected and among the entertainment features to be provided will probably be a golf tournament.

The petition was sent by Rev. O. Sewell, Palmer who received the following letter from Mr. Murphy: "I note yours of the 17th instant, together with a very encouraging petition. I will not have to make any extra effort to comply with each and every request in your letter. Of course, conditions may arise that some compromise may be the logical thing. Aside from that, my convictions are firm on the beer question. Very respectfully, H. C. Murphy."

APPOINTMENT OF TEACHERS WAITS

County Board Holds Action
Pending Action of the Legislature

Many of the appointments of Highlands county school teachers are being held up pending the action of the state legislature on the proposed school bill. It was stated by the county superintendent, J. M. Clinton, that the legislature will not act until the school bill is passed.

The administration sponsored school bill is at this time before the law making bodies and should it be adopted, will necessitate changes in courses of study, the omission of many so-called "frill" subjects and also changes in administrative matters. Appointments of some teachers in the county were made April 22nd, Col. Bailey stated. Since that time Governor Sholtz has requested all county school boards to withhold the naming of any and all teachers, janitors, or school bus drivers or contract for such services until the legislature has adjourned. The local county board, however, named the following before this request was received: Miss Mildred Myers, Mrs. C. H. Stephenson, Carolyn Parker, Nina McIntosh, Nina Lewis, Katherine Shadown, Professor Samuel Long.

The 1933 graduating class roll follows: Thelma Pauline Bell, Marjorie Adeline Corington, Jr., Lois LeRoy Delaney, Albert Joseph Ellis, Jr., Dorothy Mae Garrett, Ansell Harry Hancock, Vernon James Heim, Ethel Louise Hicks, Sherard Stone, William Nelson Phillip Lacey III, William Benton Lacey, Elton Perry, Vera Belle Platt, William H. Prescott, Carolyn Elizabeth Prescott, William H. Prescott, James Wesley Roberts, Alma Sapp, Grace Marguerite Schweigert, Mary Elizabeth Schweigert, Robert Nelson Smith, Robert W. Stewart, Mary E. Turner, J. D. Gwendolyn P. Weaver, Joel D. White.

By Bailey medals were awarded by J. S. Schweigert, member of the local school trustees. Miss Verma Hein received the girls' medal and William H. Prescott the boys' medal.

The Balfour medal was awarded to Miss Elizabeth Sherertz, the highest mark made by Shady W. Walker, Jr.

The American Legion School award medal went to Clifford Wyndham. The award is based on honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service. E. E. McIntosh made the presentation on behalf of Highlands post.

The American Legion Auxiliary medal was given to Evelyn Thomas, the award being made on the basis of courage, companionship, character, service and scholarship. Mrs. Charles Sherman made the presentation for the local Auxiliary.

Following the medal awards Col. Bailey took the opportunity of explaining the school situation and dominated the proposed Sholtz school administration bill, which would take the school affairs out of the hands of the local authorities and place it in the hands of "five men at Tallahassee." The Colonel said the proposed legislation called for too much centralization of power, and added that "centralization of power is the curse of the nation today." He came to the defense of the local home economics and the commercial department and said they could not be properly classified as "frills," and thought that if finances make it possible to continue these courses they should be kept in the local curriculum.

HOOD ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF KILLING GUNTER IN DECEMBER

GRADUATES OF AVON PARK HIGH GET DIPLOMAS

Class of 1933 Honored At Commencement Exercises
Tuesday Evening

The class of 1933 of Avon Park High, twenty-five of the city's finest young men and women, stepped up and received their diplomas Tuesday night, to mark the end of the twelve-year school grind. There were 13 girls and 12 boys in the graduating class, and each was greeted with a round of applause as he or she received the high school diploma from County Superintendent P. N. K. Bailey.

As the curtain went up, stirring music by the school band, under the leadership of Prof. P. J. Gustafson greeted the graduates and speakers grouped about the stage. The music outshone their usual efforts, seemingly in answer to critics of the school system, who have been charging the band as one of the "frills."

The exercises were opened by invocation by Rev. W. K. McClure, which was followed by the salutatory address by Miss Elizabeth Sherertz.

Dr. W. J. Layton, pastor of the Methodist church of Sebring, delivered the address, the evening to the graduates. He was introduced by T. V. Conway, chairman of the county school board.

Miss Grace Schweigert delivered the valedictory, following which Col. Bailey presented the graduates with their diplomas. R. T. Fairley, supervising principal, expressed appreciation to the patrons and the public for their co-operation making possible another successful school year.

The 1933 graduating class roll follows: Thelma Pauline Bell, Marjorie Adeline Corington, Jr., Lois LeRoy Delaney, Albert Joseph Ellis, Jr., Dorothy Mae Garrett, Ansell Harry Hancock, Vernon James Heim, Ethel Louise Hicks, Sherard Stone, William Nelson Phillip Lacey III, William Benton Lacey, Elton Perry, Vera Belle Platt, William H. Three - Day Trial Before Packed Court Room Ends Wednesday Night; Jury Out Nearly Four Hours.

R. L. "Bob" Hood was acquitted of the charge of murdering Charles Wesley "Gabe" Gunter on the night of December 27 last year near the Dilley clay pit at Avon Park. The jury returned its verdict at 9:15 Wednesday night, debarring the case from a 6:20 that afternoon. The verdict was in line with the consensus of opinion around the court house during the trial, although a narrow margin would not have been surprising. There were few in the court room when the verdict was returned as it was thought the jury would be out all night.

The trial started Monday morning which was consumed by the testimony of the jury. The first state witness took the stand at 9:15 Monday afternoon and from then on to 11 o'clock Wednesday morning there was a procession of witnesses to the stand. At that hour the attorneys started their addresses to the jury and kept it up until five o'clock in the afternoon when Judge W. J. Barker delivered his charge to the jury. There was a mass of conflicting testimony, especially for the state, and the majority introduced by States Attorney L. Grady Burton on the charge of the circumstantial variety. The only direct evidence was that of J. M. Hughes of Boise, Idaho, who claimed that Hood had confessed to the murder and had been in Florida and gave the details of the crime although not mentioning the victim's name.

In taking the stand in his own behalf Hood denied the alleged confession, stating he had refused to become associated with Hughes in the whole case. He said he had proposed such an alliance and said he told Hughes he had just got out of trouble in Florida and did not want to get mixed up with anything like that. Hood told a clear and straightforward story without any hesitancy and was not entangled when questioned by States Attorney Burton.

The first witness for the state was M. E. "Red" Hardin who lives near the scene of the crime. Hardin testified to hearing shots on the night of the murder and going with his father to investigate. He stated he heard five shots, first four and then one. On the tour of investigation they passed a car which he said was Hood's as he recognized it by the color and the sound of the exhaust and which car was traveling about 20 miles an hour.

On examination by the defense Hardin could not recollect the kind of car, nor could he remember the night or the time of the shooting, nor could he remember another car about the same time, a new Ford V8 with yellow wheels.

On examination by the defense Hardin could not recollect the kind of car, nor could he remember the night or the time of the shooting, nor could he remember another car about the same time, a new Ford V8 with yellow wheels.

The second witness was Dr. W. C. Touchton, who merely stated the condition of the body of Gunter when he examined it and the number of wounds and their location.

W. T. Hardin, father of the first witness, came next and confirmed to some extent the evidence of his son, but did not identify the car passed as that of Hood's. Red Hardin and also of meeting A. F. Heims and Tom Graham, grocers in Gainesville, while searching for the cause of the shots.

Larkus Hardin, brother of W. T. Hardin, told of hearing seven shots, four of them being fired from the door and hearing four cars in the vicinity, one of which was a big Ford.

It begins to look more and more as if we had a "Gabriel Over the White House."

Afraid we can't get rich on the economies that have been effected thus far in the legislative session. But we're still hoping.

Well, the Macon took the air for a few hours and got back to her moorings without being wrecked. All the same we reject in advance all invitations to joy-ride on the Macon, or any craft of her class.

The Florida peach has made its appearance on the market. Though not so strong on looks, in flavor and sweetness there are no better peaches in the world than those grown in Florida.

Senator Getzen knows what properly goes with beer. His amendment that pretzels be served free with the beverage,
though voted down by an unsympathetic Senate, stamps him as a gentleman with a knowledge of what's what.

Aimee doesn't seek the role of the forgotten woman. She's somewhere in the Sahara, but she sees to it that her pictures still get in the papers over here. She is America's most persistent advertiser—and has she made it pay?

It seems that there is too much "introduce" and not enough action up at Tallahassee. There are close to 1,000 bills before the Legislature, a few good, a few harmful, most of them not mattering much one way or another.

A canal has been built across the Florida peninsula—at least, such a canal has reached the blue-print stage. It would cut off 800 miles of distance between Louisiana and Texas ports and those of the Atlantic seaboard. But its material benefits to Florida are dubious, and there are some phases of the project that might entail positive disadvantage to this state.

One of the bills before the Legislature would require pedestrians to walk on the left side of the highway, providing a penalty for failure to do so. In the future
highway construction should include foot paths alongside the vehicle way. There are not many pedestrians left, but they should have some protection to keep that type of traveler from becoming extinct.

Revenues collected from the sale of beer
in this State will go to the general fund,
and from the general fund will come the revenues to operate the schools. In the general mixture of beer dollars, race track dollars, and pious dollars, let us hope that only the latter will find their way into school expense channels. Anyway, a fine moral point is thus settled, we hope to the satisfaction of all.

If the people of any county do not want beer sold in the limits of that county, they can vote it out. It is probable that in a number of counties there will be early hunting for a petition of the voters to call an election in accordance with this local option provision. It will be interesting to observe the results of these elections, in which the people will express themselves directly on the question with no other issues being involved.

Brisbane approves a constitutional amendment proposed in the Florida legislature which would exempt from taxation all homesteads up to $5,000 in value. Such a measure ought certainly to encourage home-owning and would bring many home-seekers to the State. And in passing, while we would not be an alarmist, we would advise anybody who ever expects to own a home to buy it now. The trend of things points to the probability that a year or so hence it will take twice as many dollars to purchase a home as it does today.

Practically all through the '90s this country fit, bled, and all but died, in a bitter controversy wherein the abandonment of the gold standard was the storm center.

COUNTER — ATTACK

Families were disrupted, business partnerships dissolved, friendships turned into enmities, the most picturesque epithets were banded, and vilification raged. Yet not an inch of progress was made in solving the problems involved. And the other morning, from a clear sky, came the simple announcement that the thing was done—the United States was off the gold standard. It is shocking to witness such decisive action without the usual plethora of long-drawn-out palaver—but the shock is refreshing.

We don't know much about these financial gymnastics that are taking place or being proposed. We doubt that as many people have intelligent comprehension of the vagaries of finance—the most mysterious thing humanity created—as have any knowledge of the Einstein theory — and there are said to be only about half a dozen of the latter in the world. Of course, we could get full information regarding the ins and outs of it all from the man down on the street corner, but we're afraid to ask him, because he'd probably wangle us out of a dime to "get a cuppa coffee." But we have faith in the leadership of the President, and we believe that faith is shared by the vast majority of the country's millions who are enthusiastically anxious to see him given a free hand. We are further heartened by the unqualified approval of his program by Senator Fletcher and so many others whose patriotism and ability are beyond question. Lastly, if J. Pierpont Morgan can accept the President's ideas on finance, we think most of us can safely fall
in line.

a darn sight more of 'em on the outside. Most of the talk you hear is as loose as a run-away horse.
They have a flock of attaches at the capitol they call verifiers, but you take one of these wild rumors to 'em and try to get the darn thing verified! I've just about come to the conclusion that no matter what you hear about anybody or anything up here it's a lie.

I've met most of the members of the House and Senate and if you ask me they're a pretty darn good bunch of fellows, a little above the average, as human beings go, I'd say. Considerin' all they have to go through, what they've got on their chests and what they're up against, it surprises me that they're as good natured and courteous as they are.

I believe the bulk of 'em are sincere and honest and came up here to do their best for the state and for the sections they represent. They went to work in earnest the first week and they're stickin' to it. No matter what they do, they will be wrong in somebody's opinion, but their judgment has been pretty good so far and they seem to be makin' a real effort.
They'll make some mistakes, they're bound to, but it won't help matters any to start razzin' 'em. Remember we've got some darn serious problems to iron out before this thing is over and the boys need your support and encouragement as much now as they did during the campaign.

Over in the Senate, President Futch seems to be gettin' along all right with his little school room. Of course some of these upper classmen are a trifle harder to handle, but they haven't thrown many spit-balls so far and it looks like they're just about ready to settle down to work in earnest. So don't expect too much of 'em and give 'em a break and I'm bettin' they'll come through with some legislation that will go a long way toward solving our problems.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE

H. F. Pullen, Publisher of The Prince Rupert (B.
C.) Daily News, says:
That Canada is the closest neighbor of the United States and the people of the two countries are so similar that it would be difficult for a visitor to either country to be sure on which side of the boundary he was if he were not told.

We are Canadians and the people of the United States call themselves Americans, but all come from the same original stock. In each country there is a predominance of people of British origin with British ideas and a British outlook. There is also a large admixture of other European peoples, all being gradually welded into a new nation, one to the south and the other to the north of an arbitrary dividing line.

The southern climate of the United States is more attractive to the ordinary visitor who wishes relaxation but the climate of Canada is the more bracing and tends to make a harder and more virile people.
Between the two peoples there is a tariff and immigration wall that separates them from each other except under the strictest supervision. However, they do pay brief visits across the line and this interchange of visits is on the increase.

Today leading citizens on either side of the line
are beginning to see the advantage of closer relations with their neighbors. Canada has a large market for many United States products and the United States could with advantage use Canadian paper, pulp, lumber and fish. We are developing business with countries thousands of miles away and neglecting to trade over the fence with our next door neighbors because they have refused to trade with us.

THE LOGICAL MOVE IS FOR STATESMEN

FROM CANADA AND UNITED STATES TO SIT AROUND A TABLE AND DISCUSS THESE MAT-TERS AS FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS AND MAKE PERMANENT ARRANGEMENTS FOR BUYING AND SELLING AND FOR COMING AND GOING BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE UN-FENCED LINE.

TAX-FREE HOMES.

Among the bills waiting for consideration at Tallahassee are the ones dealing with exemption of taxes for homeowners—home farms and town-plot homes on which the owners live at least nine months out of every year.

The measure would forbid the imposition of taxes
upon such homes up to a five thousand dollar valuation, thus removing the ever-present threat of seizure
for taxes, tax deed foreclosing, and their attendant horrors that have been so much a part of home-owning in Florida during the last seven years.

How much of a chance the bills have for favorable action, the Times does not know, but it would seem that unanimous approval will be given the measures
if they are provided with features that will prevent too much dishonesty.

And we are saying "too much dishonesty," intentionally. Any law of a tax-exemption kind will be abused. There will be people who will have their property undervalued for the sake of getting the exemption. There will be people who will contrive to have property listed as homeowners when it is occupied by tenants. There will be various ways of taking unfair advantage. But all of it, The Times believes, will be more than balanced by the good to be achieved.

The relief and the security it would provide for present owners of small homes would be immeasurably great. It would also give a greater stability to Florida's population. And it would act as the greatest attraction for the establishment of homes in this state that could be devised.

Thousands of families now living in rented homes in Florida would buy their own homes. Thousands would build on property now standing idle. Thousands of newcomers from other states would become owners of Florida homes, and contribute in a big way to the growth and prosperity of this state.

If the legislature will provide for revenue in lieu of the taxes now taken from the small home owner,
no other real estate is not saddled with the amount of the exemptions, the tax-free home for Florida
families can be given as the best gift in the power of the state to give.

Speedy action on the measure, too, would be a godsend.—Melbourne Times.

STATE SENATE ATTACHES.

Appointment of relatives to fill political offices may be going out of style but the Florida Senate is still behind the times. We do not know the relationship existing between a reading of the list of attaches employed by the Senate on its first day of the 1933 session shows the following:

T. G. Futch, Jr., is an assistant secretary, T. G.
Futch is a senator from Leesburg and president of the Senate.

Frank Caro is a page, Herbert P. Caro is a senator from the 2nd district.

Frances Gary is postmaster and messenger, W. T.
Gary is a senator from the 20th district.

William Murphy is assistant sergeant-at-arms, H.
G. Murphy is a senator from the 27th district.

P. R. Whitaker, Jr., is a page, P. R. Whitaker is a senator from the 34th district.

Josephine Getzen is journal secretary, Samuel W.
Getzen is a senator from the 38th district.

John Sharp Chowning is a page, W. C. Chowning is
a senator from the 28th district.

These names may be a coincidence but we have a hunch that most of them are wives, daughters, sisters or cousins of the senators named.—Delray Beach News.

EIGHT MONTHS SCHOOL FOR FLORIDA.

The State Parent-Teacher association, holding its annual congress at Hollywood, has endorsed the provision of sufficient state funds to guarantee eight months of public school throughout the 67 counties of Florida. The P. T. A. doesn't presume to tell the legislature just how the money is to be appropriated or from which funds it should be taken, but we doubt if they would endorse the reason to be found in beer and gambling for that purpose. The state should make it possible for every district in the 67
counties to have eight months of school next term
and the money should be taken from the general fund
of the state—and if it requires more than five million dollars to run them efficiently but economically, the amount above that figure should be provided in the same way. It's about time that Floridians quit getting excited over beer and give some sober thought to the educating of the children in the public schools.
—Winter Haven Citizen.

NOTHING IN COMMON

While every effort is being made to link the interest of the common carrier with the private operator of motor vehicles on public highways, the fact remains that the two interests always have been,
and always will be, in direct opposition.

Highways are public property, paid for by public funds, and used by 95 percent of the traffic for private convenience and pleasure. The other five percent of travel over state and county highways
may be classed as common carrier vehicles, operated for profit.

The heavier load a highway is called upon to sus-tain the more costly must be its construction. The taxpayer in providing roads built to maintain excessive weight—far beyond the normal need of 95
percent of the traffic they carry—is bearing an unjust burden that directly benefits the few who use these highways for private gain.
