

EXPOSITION AT ORLANDO SOON

Central Florida Event To Open With New Buildings On February 21

With a new building under construction to increase the facilities of the poultry department of the Central Florida Exposition, which opens in Orlando February 21st, and with the addition of dog and cat shows and increased interest in the various departments, it is expected that these divisions of the big fair will be among the most popular departments on the grounds.

For a number of years the poultry show, which is held under the auspices of the American Poultry Association, has been growing as Central Florida has made great strides toward taking its place in the sun as one of the greatest poultry producing sections of the country. The show management is this year vested in Vail G. Otte, who is chairman, and F. W. Otte of Peekskill, N. Y., who is superintendent. Steady growth has necessitated the erection of this additional building which will enable the birds to be displayed under most satisfactory conditions. Many prizes and awards of ribbons, in addition to the beautiful medals of bronze and gold from the American Poultry association, will be eagerly sought by the various exhibitors in a comprehensive and complete number of classifications. The display of rabbits and cavy are also under the direction of F. W. Otte and governed by the rules of the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association.

The fourth annual Dog Show, licensed by the American Kennel Club and conducted by the Orlando Kennel Club, will be one of the outstanding events ever to be held in the State of Florida. It is the first licensed show held in this section of the State and is attracting entries from a great distance.

For the first time a championship cat show will be conducted in connection with the Exposition by the Central Florida Cat Club. It will be held under the American Cat Association rules and offers more than 50 awards for the various classifications. Complete information regarding any of the events may be obtained by communicating with C. T. Hickford, manager of the Central Florida Exposition, whose offices are in the court house at Orlando.

SEEK TO CURTAIL CITRUS THEFTS

Will Push Prosecution In Order to Stop Thieving From Groves

Winter Haven, Feb. 1.—Prosecuting attorneys of nine of the larger citrus producing counties of Florida took steps at a meeting here Jan. 27 to put a stop to the stealing of citrus fruit, which is said to have reached wholesale proportions in some sections of the state. Details of the plans made by the attorneys were not made public but it was admitted that all prosecutions are to be vigorously pushed and supplementary legislative assistance sought at the coming session of the State Legislature. A temporary association was even set up so as to enable the attorneys from all citrus producing counties to co-ordinate their work in stamping out the thieving. The meeting of the attorneys was held at the invitation of the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House association, which for some time has been endeavoring to arrive at a more effective method of protecting Florida growers from the fruit thief. Invitations to attend the meeting were sent to prosecuting attorneys of a score of leading citrus-producing counties.

Spiessau L. Holland, counsel for the Clearing House and Senator from Polk County, presided at the meeting, opening the discussion among the attorneys present by outlining briefly some of the difficulties met in prosecution of fruit stealing cases.

While the meeting was largely in the nature of a round table discussion it was apparent that the attorneys had already given the subject much thought and are eager to put their campaign of prosecution into immediate action. Individual experiences in prosecutions were cited by each of the attorneys present at the meeting to bring out the difficulties appearing in connection with such cases, particularly with reference to the identification of fruit. In the discussion of prospective legislation intended to be of help in the prevention of fruit stealing, the attorneys were agreed that some form of track licensing probably would be necessary. In regard to this it was brought out that legislation which might prove to be a nuisance then and in the commercial handling of fruit should be avoided. Regulation of trucks moving fruit after dark, certification of all trucks, and speedy trials by courts who are appreciative of the growers' problems, were some of the points brought up in this discussion. All readily agreed to co-operate in the drafting of prospective legislation which would be of help in possibly both prosecution of offenses and the prevention of thefts.

The prosecuting attorneys attending the meeting were: John G. Leonard, Sanford, (Seminole county); Henry S. Baynard, St. Petersburg, (Pasco county); W. M. Kennedy, Tavares, (Lake county); J. D. Geiger, Dade City, (Pasco county); Morris M. Givens, Tampa, (Hillsborough county); T. A. McNicholas, Avon Park, (Highlands county); H. F. Mohr, Orlando, (Seminole county); E. M. Magaha, Ft. Myers, (Lee county); and Lawrence Rogers, Kissimmee, (Osceola county).

Dr. E. C. Austin, president; James C. Morton, vice-president; and A. M. Pratt, manager, of the Clearing House; and Messrs. W. L. Pedersen and Frank Burnett, Waverly; and J. G. Arbutnot, Lake Alfred, of the Committee of Fifty, also attended the meeting.

Negro Killed at Nocatee Log Camp Sunday Afternoon

Jerry Eleby, colored, was killed Sunday afternoon at the Nocatee log camp near Crewsville by Annie Johnson, also colored, who used a .22 calibre pistol in the shooting. Annie was lodged in the county jail by Sheriff Deple Schumacher on a murder charge following an inquest held by Coroner A. I. Young. At the preliminary hearing before Judge M. C. Whitehurst Tuesday, the defendant was bound over to the grand jury and in her defense stated she shot in self defense when Eleby attempted to assault her.

Besides the case members of the sheriff's office arrested George North on the Crewsville road and charged him with the possession of liquor when they said they found a gallon jug of shine in his car. North is out on bond. Will Ballard was arrested at the log camp and charged with the possession of liquor which he is said to have been selling to other negroes at the camp.

Men and Women Become Financially Independent Through Self Discipline

We cite an example of a man who is wealthy today because "he set aside a certain percentage of his income for living expenses and then lived within that amount." The balance of his income he invested, first by depositing regularly in a Savings Account—later transferring the aggregate thus saved into some good bonds or other securities. In this way his income automatically increased.

We suggest you try this plan. A good time to start is NOW.

Here and There

About Avon Park

By W. M. Heberington

USE REQUESTED

Disatisfied with their city council, and standing their rights as guaranteed under the city charter, over four hundred voters of Avon Park petitioned the city council for a recall election. That was over a year ago. Using the city's money to fight their personal political battles through the supreme court, and employing every technicality of the law, to evade complying with the law which they had sworn to uphold, the council has failed and disgraced and disgusted the voters to the point where they no longer care whether they have the election or not.

Having taken a prominent part in the recall fight, the Times owes this statement to the public:

We are through with the recall because we have come to the conclusion that it is not worth while. Life is too short; we have something else to think about; and we believe the people generally are thoroughly sickened with the mess, and would rather read about something more cheerful.

For several months the recall fight has had a rest. The Times has gradually said and done nothing of it editorially. Our people are busy trying to get the upper hand of the depression, and are so busy turning corners trying to find the right one that they have no taste for another political fight. Of course, a few people thrive on that sort of thing, and the more they fight, they are at liberty to go to it.

We have not changed our position, and we are not backing water. We believe we were right in our stand on the recall, and we have the satisfaction of having the courts approve it.

But what's the use. Less than a year remains of the term, anyway. Most of the recall petitioners have become reconciled to the situation. Even a toothache must stop aching sometime.

So let's have the election—because we must—and let's have it with as little hard feeling as possible, and if we do make a mistake again, let us have a chance to correct it in December.

UNCLE BOB'S LUCK

Speaking of hard luck—and who isn't these days—Uncle Bob Palmer has established some sort of a record lately that we would like to enter in a hard luck contest if there was such a thing. About three weeks ago, Uncle Bob went to sleep on the road and turned his truck over and scattered a load of furniture that cost him plenty to fix up, to say nothing of the truck and a hospital bill. The same week Sadler, who drives for him, broke an axle on his truck while on a trip to Georgia. About a week later Palmer's house burned while he was out of town. The next day he lost his knife, and two days later Walter Rutherford borrowed his Chevrolet touring car and got stuck in the sand and tore out an axle. But last Saturday night the worm turned. Uncle Bob's Jersey coat got out and walked the entire length of the railroad trestle on Lake Tulane without falling off and breaking her neck—which Bob considers a lucky break for him, and says if he doesn't get hit by lightning or have a tree fall on him he believes he will live to a comfortable old age.

DO I SPONGE OFF OF MY NEIGHBORS

(By A Legionnaire)

You are my neighbors. Do I eat Sunday dinner off of your table in order to save my own Sunday dinner for Monday? If I did I would be sponging off of you. If I spend my money in Jonsburg for clothes, food, etc., and account your money in trade in Avon Park then I am sponging off you just as much as if I ate your Sunday dinner. I saved my own. Therefore, if I live and prosper in Avon Park I must trade with my friends in order that I can hire labor to trade with me and my friends.

If you want to see your first money the best thing of life, trade with them and their employers. If you want to see your bank loan money to your friends, trade with them. If you want to see your bank in order that their deposits may be rolled and more money can be put into circulation. When you trade away from home, your friends never receive the benefit from circulation of those dollars.

Don't sponge off your neighbors.

ROEBLING GIVES AVON PARK NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Trucks To Be Equipped and Used for Woods Fires; To Erect Tower

Avon Park and community will have a new fire truck especially built for fighting woods fires, according to Dr. W. A. Davison who made this announcement at the Rotary luncheon Wednesday. The truck will be the gift of John A. Roebeling, who together with his late wife, Mrs. Margaret Shippen Roebeling, has donated much to develop and preserve Highlands Hammock for the county.

The news of the gift was conveyed to Dr. Davison by Alexander Blair who is Mr. Roebeling's personal representative in the county with headquarters at Lake Placid. Mr. Blair expressed Mr. Roebeling's appreciation for the co-operation shown in conservation work in which he takes an especial interest. The truck will be of the latest design for combating woods fires and will be similar to those already presented to the county by Lake Placid and Sebring. It will be stationed at the fire department here and under the supervision of Chief McCreary. The truck will be organized volunteer companies to fight woods fires when ever they occur and to prevent their spreading and becoming a menace and causing havoc as is now very often the case. Woods fires have proved costly to grove owners in many instances, and the new equipment will prove a boon to citrus growers.

As a further aid in the work a look-out tower will be erected here in the near future. The work on the tower will be started within a few days. The tower will be moved here from Kissimmee where an airplane is now used for location work and Mr. Roebeling is contributing towards the dismantling and re-erection of the tower. The state provides the man for look-out duty but a man with good eyesight and normal conditions is generally employed.

The state co-operates largely with the local fire department, and also provides tools and similar equipment that may be necessary. The truck is expected to arrive in the near future and the work on the tower will be started without delay although its exact location has not been decided on at present.

Highlands Wins Several Prizes at Tampa Fair

In competition with the finest which Florida produces from her varied types of soil, the products and displays of Highlands county were awarded one second place, three third places and a seventh at the South Florida Fair in Tampa this week-end.

Although this county had comparatively little in the way of finances, as compared with other counties, some of whom spent several thousand dollars in securing their exhibits, the combined efforts of the county agent, Leon Packard, and growers and shippers resulted in a beautiful display and as a result, the county was awarded nearly $400 in cash prizes.

The fine sub-tropical display of Highlands was awarded second place, the citrus display secured a third as did the floral exhibit and the sugar cane which originally was taken over for the purpose of decoration but to be of such good quality as to merit its use in a display, and as a result, topped third honors.

TRIPLE KILLING IN CATTLE WAR

Murdered From Ambush on Road Near Venus Last Week

Sheriff Wiggins of Glades county was apparently still without definite knowledge which would lead to the arrest of persons responsible for the deaths of three men on the Venus-Lakeport road Thursday of last week, at present time.

The victims of what is said to be another outbreak in a cattle war in that section were Marvin Morrow of Elba, Ala., a former employee of J. C. Westbrook at Sebring, and two men, Marvin Morrow, son of Mrs. and Mrs. J. J. Whidden of Venus; Donald Norton, Winter Haven, a brother of Milton Norton who lives near Lakeport; and the killing is known to have taken place somewhere between three and four o'clock on Thursday morning. The truck was stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Franklin at Venus on that day for dinner, leaving the house in Norton's Ford delivery truck about 2 o'clock accompanied by a dog.

The dog returned to the Franklin home apparently without incident, but the truck had evidently been "ambushed" at a small bridge about five miles from Lakeport. At the juncture of the bridge and the road, a bad bump and it was necessary for Norton to slow his truck down to a full stop at this point. Evidently the murderers were waiting on the bridge and in nearby palm-trees, for the men were slain without a chance to fight back, all of them being wounded at least four times and Norton having seven injuries, any one of which would have been fatal. The truck was punctured by innumerable bullet holes, a high powered rifle and a shotgun being used.

Bodies of Norton and Morrow were brought to the parlors of Stephenson and Blythe at Sebring late Friday night, Whidden's body being taken to Windsor. Late Monday Norton's body was taken to Bartow where internment took place. Morrow's body being taken to Alabama for burial.

Morrow and Norton were both well known here. Morrow is the brother of Mrs. H. E. Franklin, Venus school teacher. He had come down from Alabama only a few days before the tragedy, having secured a job on a dredge at Lakeport. He was in no way mixed up in the feud. Norton was the brother of Milton Norton who was shot in one of the first outbreaks of the feud several years ago in the same neighborhood. At that time Norton, who claimed to know his assassin, was traveling in a car when shot by a rifle. He crawled from the car and into a patch of near pine-trees, according to a statement, and watched his attacker set fire to the palm-trees in an effort to drive him out. By crawling through the trees, he escaped and walked and crawled more than five miles for aid. The alleged assassin was not convicted.

County Consolidation

Agitation has started in several sections of the state and more especially among the daily papers of the several cities looking towards the consolidation of a number of counties. It is claimed that such consolidation would eliminate a number of county offices with the accompanying officials thereby making a great saving to the taxpayers. On the other hand the statement has been made that the movement is being fostered by the larger and more populous counties for the express purpose of gaining control of the legislature in order to dictate the distribution of the gas tax and race track money. The present method was the cause of a bitter fight in the last session of the legislature and was finally won by and for the benefit of the "smaller" counties.

According to information received here this consolidation movement is being freely discussed in Tallahassee, and among other proposals a movement is being considered for the re-assembly of the five counties that formerly composed old DeSoto. These counties are Highlands, Hardee, Glades, Charlotte and DeSoto.

Informal inquiry among some of the leading men of this county brought out the fact that the proposition met with little favor as regards the doubtful benefits that might accrue. It was pointed out that from a financial standpoint Highlands county is one of the best in the state. There are no county bonds, coupons, or other obligations in default, the schools are running the full term and bills are being met promptly.

On the other hand the counties it is proposed to join with Highlands are in a much more unfavorable position financially. If the consolidation were effected, this county would be called upon to assume additional financial burdens, and would not benefit under the hammock association.

Then again the question has been asked, what would become of the court houses that would be closed. Hardee and Highlands counties both have modern buildings, and the one for this county has not been paid for as yet, although the bonds are being retired as fast as they become due. The disposition of these buildings would have to be settled on, then there would be the fight over the county seat that would be certain to cause a split among all of the large interests of the new county.

Highlands county at the present time is getting along nicely, thank you, and the consensus of opinion of the leading men of this county is that the proposed movement is that Highlands would have all to lose and nothing to gain through consolidation.

The skit, which is well known to Floridians as they broadcast frequently over the state station, WRUF, at Gainesville.

The entire evening program promises to be a real treat for the music lovers of Avon Park. This is the eighth year of its existence, and under the directorship of John W. Bruyn the club has given 100 concerts in many sections of the state as well as in Georgia and Alabama although they will be their first appearance on the Ridge.

COUNCIL ADOPTS RULING ON BONDS

Announce New Schedule for Acceptance of Bonds For Taxes

Adopting a resolution introduced by Councilman C. R. Head, Avon Park's city council on Tuesday night went on record as continuing to accept new bonds and coupons in payment of delinquent taxes and also to include sidewalk and street widening certificates with the bonds to be accepted. The acceptance of the bonds is conditional that taxes for 1932 and subsequent years be paid in full. The following schedule will be maintained:

Taxes for 1930 and prior years, 100 percent in hand.

Taxes for 1931, 40 percent in hand and 60 percent in cash.

Coupons will be accepted the same as bonds and the resolution was adopted with the expectation that these terms would materially increase tax collections and bring some cash into the city treasury. As first introduced the sidewalk and street widening certificates were not included and these were added later at the suggestion of City Attorney S. C. Pardee.

EXPECT RECALL ELECTION WILL COME UP SOON

Supreme Court Affirms Action of Judge Barker; Await Mandate

The long, drawn-out legal battle over the recall election came to an end Saturday when word was received from Tallahassee that the Supreme Court had affirmed the peremptory writ of Circuit Judge W. J. Barker ordering the Avon Park city council to hold a recall election for the election of five city councilmen.

The election affects the entire council composed of Ed Delaney, C. R. Head, who composed the minority bloc and the majority bloc of S. J. Pendleton, Irving H. Ford and J. L. Masters.

Official notification of the higher court's decision had not been received until Friday night, and consequently no action had been taken by the council. City Attorney S. C. Pardee, storm center in the legal fight, stated today that as soon as notice is received on the councilmen, they will convene and call the election to be held within fifteen days, as provided in the city charter. The clerk of the supreme court has 30 days, he said, in which to send the mandate to the circuit court, but as soon as it is received action will be taken.

Since word was received Saturday that there would be another election, numerous candidates have been proposed in street corner gossip. A dozen or more names have been prominently mentioned, but of all of those only one could be found that is an out and out candidate. That is S. J. Pendleton, who is presently serving on the council. Councilmen Masters and Ford have declined to commit themselves, but it is generally understood that they will also be candidates. A pretty clear indication that the trio would seek to hold their seats in the present body. City Attorney Pardee, who stated: "I believe our three men were elected by a majority of the people and are prominently mentioned in the city treasury. As far as I know they will all be candidates."

Councilman Head of the minority bloc stated that he would not be a candidate. Delaney said he had his mind made up, but would not make a statement at this time. Others whose names have been mentioned for the places denied that they would be candidates. Their statements appear in another column.

The suit was brought by former Sheriff Oscar Wolff when the councilmen failed to act on a petition for recall, signed by several hundred Avon Park residents. Under the charter of the city of Avon Park, a petition signed by 30 percent of the registered voters is brought before the council demanding a "new deal" the election must be called by council.

Charges flew back and forth on the part of both sides at the trial and the result was securing of names for the petition and later how others were influenced in withdrawing their names from the petition. According to testimony, jobs were lost and reference was made to everything from liquor to bribery to influence signers and withdrawers.

The petition for recall followed and immediately opponents of the writ began to busy themselves to influence withdrawals so that the writ would not have sufficient number of names to demand legal action from the county.

The suit to demand recall was filed three times before it finally stuck, twice being thrown out on technicalities.

Chief Justice Fred A. Davis, concurring in the unanimous decision of the court, gave this opinion:

"In so far as this case turns on disputed facts the court below found against plaintiff in error and I see no basis for reversing the finding on the facts. As to the law of the case, my view is that under the city charter, a recall properly signed before the city clerk at the city hall, when sufficient names have been affixed thereto, creates a binding obligation on the city council whose mandatory duty then is to accept its petitions after presentation to the council by the city clerk. The city clerk has the duty within fifteen days. Withdrawing of the names of signers can only be made before the city clerk while the petitions are still in his hands."

SIX DAY PICKING HOLIDAY BEGINS

Citrus Men Invoke Drastic Action In Effort To Stabilize Fruit Market

Winter Haven, Feb. 8.—(Special)—A six-day picking holiday ending Monday morning of next week is the answer Florida citrus marketing agencies have given to the question as to what could be done to remedy the demoralized condition of the citrus fruit market in the north. Decision to cease picking during the week was made at a meeting held here Monday of independent and co-operative shippers representing 96 percent of all the fruit in the state. The meeting had been called jointly by the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Association, the Florida Citrus Exchange, L. C. Edwards, of Tampa; and W. G. Roe, of Winter Haven.

Closely connected with the effort to build the market back to a profitable level was a very universal expression of condemnation of the railroads for their refusal to date to lower rates and thereby help to overcome to some degree the reduced buying power of the northern consumer of Florida citrus. This phase of the situation finally resulted in the drafting of a pointed request for an immediate reduction in freight rates of at least 33 percent.

This petition, signed by more than a hundred marketing agency representatives, was telegraphed to the carriers handling Florida citrus traffic through the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Inauguration of the picking holiday proved to be no simple accomplishment in that many of the agencies have contracted to fill orders for fruit and that demands are being made on some by growers who are determined to have their fruit picked and shipped. Further discussion of this difficulty developed a compromise to have a picking holiday was to be inaugurated without exception. Picking for trucks was included in the ban, but an exception was made that fruit might be picked during the picking holiday for cannery consumption and for export.

Home Pear Trees

Fine Monument To County Agent

Crestview, Feb. 8.—(Bearing pear trees on more than two-thirds of the farms of Oklawaha county stand as a monument to former County Agent R. J. Hart, who died near here recently at the age of 67.

Realizing the luck home-grown fruits in the county, in the winter of 1924-25 County Agent Hart started an intensive campaign to get pineapple pear trees on every farm. During that and the next winter planting season he supervised the co-operative purchase and setting of 3,800 pear trees. Though that was a large number of trees for home use to set on the 873 farms in the county, it has only served as a nucleus for home pear orchards.

Over 100 questionnaires were sent to farm families picked at random over the County, by J. Lee Smith, district extension agent. Forty-four returned these questionnaires, and 84 of them, or 77 percent, said that they had pear trees on the farm. Two of the farms grew pear community stand had 720 trees. The other 82 farmers reported an average of 17 trees to 530 in "Million Dollar" orchards.

The trees were seven years, which dates back to the beginning of Mr. Hart's campaign.

The trees reported yielded an average of 84 bushels per tree. Forty farm families, or 91 percent, cannot spare for home use later.

They carried an average of 60 bushels per family. Thirty-six of the farmers fed pears to livestock, principally hogs, and carried an average of 17 bushels per farm.

Production of yarn in Japan is increasing.

The attraction for Sunday and Monday, with Matinee Sunday at 2:30 in "Million Dollar" orchards, featuring Robt. Armstrong and Constance Cummings, while "A Farewell To Arms," with Gary Cooper and Helen Hayes, will include next week's film attractions. Delmar, the Hypnotist, who scored a sensation in this section recently, will return for a limited two-day engagement, Tuesday, Wednesday, February 21 and 22.

FLORIDA TO SHOW ITS BIRDS

More than 450 families of tropical and other birds found in Florida will constitute one of the features of Florida's exhibit at the Chicago world's fair, next summer. A small army of naturalists, under the direction of J. E. Wallace, superintendent of modeling and natural history of the Florida exhibit, is busy gathering and mounting specimens. The accompanying cut shows Mr. Wallace in a corner of his studio in the building occupied by the offices of the Florida Commission in DeLand. It is hoped to have at least two representatives of every type of bird found in the state.

PROLIFIC TYPE CORN BEST YIELD

Experiments Are Showing Superiority of Whately and Kilgore Types

Gainesville, Feb. 8.—Whately prolific and Kilgore prolific varieties of corn continue to yield about one-fourth more corn than the common one-eared Florida types in tests conducted by the Florida Experiment Station last week.

J. D. Warner, station agronomist, said in a recent radio address.

Some of the experiments were conducted at the main station here where some 60 varieties of corn have been tried during the last few years, and some of them were conducted in co-operation with farmers over the northern half of the state.

As to keeping qualities and weevil-resistance, the flinty single-eared varieties seemed to be superior, but since the weevil is easily furnished it is doubtful if this fitness is enough to offset the increased yields of the prolific varieties. Mr. Warner explained.

In the Florida, Florida has proven the best single-eared variety. The liquidator in the Florida Experiment Station, Dubose, Mizelle, and Florida Unit.

LET'S COOK IT IN A CASSEROLE!

One-Piece Meals Are Boon To Busy

Salute the casserole—a sturdy pot of many good things; survivor of a lady's time; and friend to the dish-washers of a nation! Its round contours have provided us with the "one-piece meal" boom to us to serve many things from one pot, inspired a kitchen way to declare that "casseroles are like the cake, because they fare right for the price of one."

Casserole cooking is really braising in a baking dish, a combination of roasting and stewing. The liquid used varies from a very little to enough to completely cover the materials. The more liquid used, the more "stew-like" the dish. Most casserole dishes are "scaloped" or cooked in white sauce. Usually the mixtures are topped with crumbs and so often combined with grated cheese that we have come to believe that "au gratin" (with crumbs) really means "with cheese."

The French, as usual, are responsible for casserole cooking, for they believe that the long slow cooking is conducive to flavor. This is true however only if the mixture is sufficiently moist. If it is too dry, the use of sufficient fat is present to keep the mixture from getting dry; pour liquid shortening over the ingredients if necessary.

How To Keep Contents From Sticking To Sides.

Casserole foods have the added advantage of being served right in the dish in which they were baked. This makes it even more important that the contents do not stick to the sides. To avoid sticking, make sure the baking dish is well oiled before putting in the ingredients.

Many casseroles dishes require a white sauce, you will want a recipe for one which gives a smooth product especially adapted to have in Central Florida tests, and Florida Flax has proven best in the southern part of the state.

The yellow corns have not yielded as well as the whites, however. Wilson Yellow Dent has proven the best yielder in the late maturing varieties and Early Yellow Dent and Lowman Dent have been the highest yielding early, yellow varieties.

The experiments indicate that at present corn prices commercial fertilizer on the average will not increase corn yield enough to pay for the added expense. Mr. Warner further doubted the advisability of spending much for winter cover crops unless more corn is needed for home use, but he felt that a summer legume, like Crotalaria, cowpeas, or velvet beans, would prove profitable for soil improvement and increased yields later.

At least 20 fruits can be grown satisfactorily in home orchards any of the Florida, says H. Harold Hume, of the Florida Experiment Station.

There are too many factors involved in connection with agriculture which are beyond the control of man—weather conditions, such as droughts, floods, frosts, insect pests, plant diseases, and the great difficulty of organizing agriculture.

It matters little to the farmer what may be the financial outlook and the existing economic conditions he must carry on. On the other hand, the industries are slightly affected by climatic conditions, and can close down in the hour of financial distress.

But after all, the farm and the open country offer a civilization that cannot be obtained elsewhere—an independent life, the opportunity to enjoy and investigate the laws of nature, the environment for the development of a strong and vigorous family. We must learn to live our lives without having spent some part of it in the country to be able to understand all the joys and pleasures that the world offers to mankind.

RURAL COMMON SENSE By Spuds Johnson

BETTER FARM LIVING SHOULD BE PRIMARY OBJECT OF FARMING

What is the end of it all in farming, or in any other line of work, anyway? Is it primarily to make money?

There is more to farming than making money by running a farm. The primary object of better farming and better marketing of farm products should be to make it possible for the farmer and his family to live better. Better living means more attractive farm homes, more conveniences in these homes, better schools, better churches, better roads, better communities, and many other things that help to make life in the open country more enjoyable.

Too much stress has been laid on the material side of farming and too little thought has been given to the fact that the basis of agriculture is the farm home. Too many economists have reached the conclusion that the only way to farm successfully is to place the farm on a factory basis, with quantity production as the goal. We can point to no pages in history where agriculture has been as profitable as the industry.

There are too many factors involved in connection with agriculture which are beyond the control of man—weather conditions, such as droughts, floods, frosts, insect pests, plant diseases, and the great difficulty of organizing agriculture.

It matters little to the farmer what may be the financial outlook and the existing economic conditions he must carry on. On the other hand, the industries are slightly affected by climatic conditions, and can close down in the hour of financial distress.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Weekly from Home Demonstration Specialists, Tallahassee

RECIPES FOR LIVER

Liver is a nutritious food and the cheaper kinds are very inexpensive. Especially is liver rich in minerals, proteins, and vitamins. Thus, nutrition specialists suggest it as one of the most valuable kinds of meats.

Broiled Liver.

To broil liver, cut it in slices 3/4 inch thick, and wipe them with a damp cloth. Place on a greased baking sheet or broiler rack and put under the flame of the broiling oven. Broil slowly for eight to 10 minutes, turning frequently. When the liver loses its red color it is done. Add salt, pepper, and melted butter, and serve at once.

Cook 1/2 cupful of rice until tender, letting it absorb the water in which it boiled. Sprinkle 1 pound of sliced liver with salt and flour, and fry in fat for three minutes. Remove the liver and grind or chop it very fine. Cook 1 cupful of celery, 1 small onion, and 1/2 cupful parsley, all chopped fine, in the liver fat, add a little flour and a cupful of milk and stir until the mixture is thickened. Mix all of the ingredients until thoroughly blended and bake for about 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Braised Liver.

Dip the slices of liver in flour, brown in fat, then cover with tomatoes that have been slightly thickened, season with onion, green pepper, and salt, and cook slowly, covered, for about 15 minutes.

Perhaps one good sign of the times is that Norman Thomas declares he is not at all pleased with the outlook.

It has been a great Fair over Tampa way, and Highlands county is proud of her part in it and the recognition her exhibit received.

If they just have to plow up their celery, they might at the same time run a furrow down the spinach and carrot rows, and it would be o. k. by us.

A Lake City man has already thrown his hat in the ring as an entrant in the gubernatorial contest of 1936. His hat probably will be out of style by then.

We have discovered some sincere advocates of a "road holiday"—those convicted at a State road prison camp who struck because, as they said, they were "tired of working on Florida roads."

It is a time when every possible leniency should be shown by those who hold obligations against others. The insurance companies are setting a fine example in this respect.

Firing that old Senate employee, because he put into print what even the Senate has said of some of its members, was beneath the dignity of that august body. Their action will not increase the respect of the people.

The R. F. C. poured money into a big bank at New Orleans and saved it from closing its doors. There should be some method—possibly through an organization similar to the R. F. C.—to save any bank, large or small, from closing as long as it is solvent.

The people want a road holiday, and yet a dispatch states that delegations from every county in the State were at Tallahassee a few days ago pleading that new roads be built. Everybody wants a road holiday on all roads except those in which they are specially interested.

The good old drummer will have to be revised. No more does "our Nell" have to be sacrificed to placate the holder of the mortgage on the old homestead. Instead, when the fellow that holds the mortgage is due to come around, there is a big party at the old homestead, and the fellows escort the mortgagee to the barn lot where he is playfully shown one or more nooses arranged for the benefit of himself and friends, if he has any. Thereupon he recognizes that the joke is upon him, and backs gracefully away, meantime apologizing for having loaned his money, and for his social error of expecting it back. And they all live happily ever after.

We have known many Congressmen, but never one who believed would be actually dishonest. As among any group of four or five hundred men, there may be an occasional member who might graft, or sell his vote or influence for a bribe. Such instances are exceptional, and Congressmen as a rule are men of high principle. There is much loose talk about our lawmakers, but when simmered down usually there is nothing to it—as witness the case of Sergeant-at-Arms Barry, who when "called" in his veiled statement that Congressmen are corrupt declares that he was merely trying to defend them from such accusations Congressmen sometimes seem stupid, perhaps, but on the whole they are fairly representative of the people who send them to Congress.

The world never needed straight thinking so much as at present. And there never was so little of it. People expect the government to support them, to sponsor all sorts of extravagances, and are outraged if taxes are levied for these purposes. They borrow money, or accept services, and because they have losses, they reason they are absolved from obligation to pay others. They live extravagantly, make errors in judgment, and when the consequences pinch they blame everything and everybody except themselves. There can be no normal business relationships without credit. There can be no permanent prosperity without confidence. And credit and confidence can be restored only through an attitude of economic independence upon the part of the individual, and a general practice of the homely virtues of industry, thrift and simple old-fashioned honesty. Old stuff, to be sure; but as fundamental as life itself.

If the leadership of W. J. Bryan were available today it is not at all beyond the probabilities that silver would "come into its own." We are reminded of a story they used to tell of a visit Bryan once made to an insane asylum. Strolling about the grounds he met an inmate of the institution who asked him as a newcomer, "Well, what are you crazy about?" Bryan, ever ready to make a speech regardless of the size or character of the audience, drew himself up and spoke impressively: "My friend, they call me crazy because I advocate the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without the aid or consent of any other nation on earth." The lunatic regarded him a moment, then said, "Hell, man, you don't belong here. You're not crazy—you're just a d—d fool!" But was he? We confess we do not know. We thought him wrong, albeit sincere—but there has been many a change of viewpoint in the years since he led the silverite forces.

The "lame duck" amendment recently ratified was to correct customs considered necessary when the Federal Constitution was adopted, but which had become outmoded because of changed conditions, particularly as regards more speedy transportation. A situation in our own State exists which is due to the same outmoded conditions. Because of transportation difficulties numerous small counties were created in order that, no matter where one lived, his county seat might be reasonably accessible. Today, due to the automobile and good roads, one may journey from any point within the boundary of his county to the county's capital city in an hour or two, when formerly a day might be required. Small counties are not needed now, and numerous consolidations resulting in fewer and larger counties, would make material economies possible and would entail no inconvenience. It would be the logical and sensible thing to make these consolidations in most cases—though there are exceptions such as in our own case of Highlands and neighboring counties. In these unusually strenuous times, Highlands finds itself in an almost isolated position, financially, the plain facts of the case being that in looking around us we find no county that we could tie to and better our condition. Such being the case, it behooves Highlands county taxpayers to oppose any movement that would merge this county with any of her neighbors. Fortunately, we are able to stand alone, and though it may be the selfish attitude to assume, we cannot support any movement that would rob us of the fruits of good management and level-headedness that has placed Highlands county in its enviable position.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON R. WAITE

E. G. Burkam, Publisher of The Dayton (Ohio) Journal and Herald, says:

"In times like these when we are all facing very grave difficulties, the spirit of tolerance, helpfulness and fellowship is more than ever the great keystone of moral stability."

"It is the time for a neighborly spirit and courage. To do anything in any way to injure business or hurt any individual who is struggling under adverse conditions is almost criminal and unthinkable. When men and women are doing the very best they can, no matter how grave their difficulties, they should and must be sustained in every possible way."

"If we adhere more than ever to sentiments both in business and in our personal relations, we add to the cohesion and achievement not only of our fellow men and women, but to our community. Times like these call for the finest co-operation and even cheerful temperament and all the human elements that make for real friendship. We must forget the shortcomings and weaknesses which are inherent in human nature and spread the spirit of confidence and faith in our country every hour of the day."

"If we put aside ill temper, selfishness and impatience and join with those that we may help, who in turn will naturally help us, we establish an atmosphere that will unquestionably be the foundation and cornerstone for an ultimate triumph over the economic condition that tests the manhood and courage of us all."

"If we keep these things in mind and keep our feet on the ground and preserve our mental balance and our outlook on life and have faith in our fellow men and faith in our country, WE SHALL TRIUMPH OVER ALL ADVERSITIES AND EMERGE AGAIN INTO THE BRILLIANT SUNLIGHT OF RE-ESTABLISHED PROSPERITY, HAPPINESS AND CONTENTMENT."

TAXPAYERS MET LAST MONDAY

Numerous Resolutions To Be Presented to Next Legislature

Several Highlands county citizens attended a county meeting of the State Taxpayers association held in Tampa Monday and Tuesday. They presented 16 resolutions of which 15 were adopted.

There was perfect harmony in the convention which adopted 32 resolutions all but one of which was adopted by a unanimous vote of 30 for and three against.

The resolutions which are to be presented to the state legislature for suggested legislation were as follows:

Real Estate Relief.
1. Realizing that real estate is the largest source of wealth and security in the state, and the destruction of its value by exorbitant taxation, or otherwise, not only destroys business and employment, but likewise destroys the source of revenue it produces, we not only vigorously oppose any and all measures which in anywise impair or increase ad valorem taxes in any unit of government, but we also earnestly recommend the reduction of the ad valorem taxes in the state, county and municipalities by measures which will accomplish this purpose.

Reduction of Expenses.
2. That all state, county, city and district taxes and assessments be collected by the county tax collector, with a proper distribution of expenses between the several taxing bodies.

3. That the Legislature provide means for the consolidation of cities and counties, and of contiguous counties, subject to the approval of the people affected thereby.

4. That wherever possible county offices and agencies be consolidated.

5. SUBJECT: Jesus Teaching by Parables.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples." John 15:8.

LESSON TEXT: Mark 4:1-10, 13-20.

PRACTICAL TRUTH: We should so prepare our hearts that they will be good soil for the gospel seed—the word of God.

A parable is a comparison. Jesus began his teaching sitting on the lake shore (Mt. 13:1), but took refuge in a boat as a great crowd bore down upon him. Jesus spoke a series of seven parables to the crowd that stood on the sloping beach facing him, on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, where the scribes and Pharisees were not so much at home nor so ready to interrupt him. Moreover, at this point, when his foes were pressing upon him sorely and planning to kill him, he changed to a great extent his mode of teaching, adopting the simple story, for our Lord did not interpret his stories openly to his audience, but only privately to the twelve (Mark 4:34). He calmly left his critics to put upon them any interpretation they pleased.

The first of this long series of parables is the one we study today, called (from Matt. 13:18) the parable of the sower, though it is really a parable of four kinds of ground. As it was the first of the parables, and as it perplexed his apostles, it was explained more fully than most of the other parables.

"And he began again to teach by the sea side; and there was gathered unto him a great multitude, so that he entered into a ship, and sat in the sea; and the whole multitude was by the sea on the land."

The land around the lake, the paths through the growing grain, growing thorns, ledges of rock and rich soil doubtless suggested themes for his parable.

"And he taught them many things by parables, and said, Harken; Behold, there went out a sower to sow; and as he sowed, some fell by the way side, and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up. And some fell on stony ground, and immediately it sprang up, because it had no depth on earth; but when the sun was up, it was scorched; and it withered away. And some fell among thorns, and the thorns came up and choked it, and it yielded no fruit. And others fell on good ground, and brought forth some thirty, and some sixty, and some an hundred."

In a parable some object of nature or some happening of human life is placed beside moral or religious truth in such way as to explain and illustrate it. "As he sowed," the sower would carry a quantity of grain in a sack, and he would walk slowly and grasp handfuls of the grain and cast it out in front of him, scattering the grain with great evenness over the ground.

The quotation from the lesson shows how the grain fell, and the nature of the four kinds of soil and the grain grew and yielded on each kind of soil.

Then Jesus said, "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear." It is said, "A teacher's chief work is to cause his pupils to think." This truth applies to Sunday School teachers and preachers, but they should be careful what seed they sow and what they give their hearers to think upon.

"And when he was alone, they * * * asked of him the parable."

"And he said unto them, Know ye not this parable? how then will ye know all parables? The sower soweth the word. And these by the wayside, when they have heard, Satan cometh immediately, and taketh away the word that was sown in their hearts. And these on stony ground receive it with gladness; and endure but for a time; afterward, when affliction or persecution ariseth for the word's sake, immediately they are offended. And these which are sown among thorns; And the cares of the world, and the lusts of other things entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful. And these are they which are sown on good ground; such as hear the word, and receive it, and bring forth fruit, some thirty-fold, and some sixty, and some an hundred."

A writer says that the truer name of this parable would be "The Parable of the Soils." The emphasis is not upon the sower nor the seed, but upon the kind of soils that receive the seed. Jesus bade them take heed how they heard the word. * * * received the seed sown. Do we prepare our minds to receive God's word?

Egg Contest Birds Should Be Hatched During Early Spring

Chipley, Feb. 8.—Pullets to be entered in egg-laying contests next fall should be hatched in late February or March if they are a heavy breed and in April if they are Leghorns, E. F. Stanton, supervisor of the Florida National Egg-Laying Contest, believes.

He has observed that pullets make the best showing when they begin the contest after they have laid a few eggs or are laying ready to lay. If they have laid a number of eggs, moving them to the contest will likely cause them to molt and be out of production several weeks. Do not go to the other extreme and hatch too late, he says.

Late-hatched pullets usually don't grow off as well, they are not as strong, and often wait until the first of the year before starting to lay.

In selecting breeders he advised the use of trapped and pedigreed stock if possible. Hens that lay small eggs should not be used. The male bird should have come from a hen with a good egg record, and he should have been tested to see what his daughters will produce. Above all, he stressed selecting the breeders for vigor and vitality. Highly bred birds must have plenty of strength to stand up under heavy laying if they are to make good records.

Seven of the 10 leading pens in the present contest are owned by Florida poultrymen, though they compete with leading pens of men from 13 other states. Thirty of the 52 pens in the contest are Florida owned.

NEW FORD TO BE DISPLAYED HERE

Larger and Roomier Models
Most Powerful Ford
Ever Built

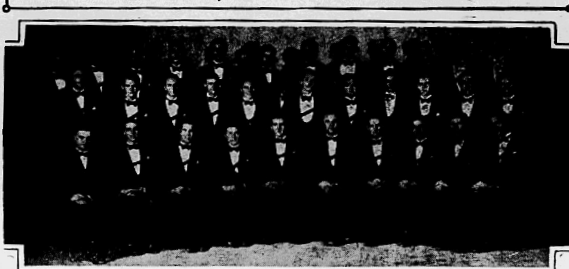

The first of the new Ford V-8 cylinder, 112-inch wheelbase motor cars will be displayed here tomorrow, Saturday, in the showroom of Park Motor Sales, Inc., Ford dealers, it was announced today. The showrooms will be opened at 8 a. m.

Because of the unusual public interest in the new Ford cars crowds are expected to attend. The showrooms have been decorated for the occasion. Attendants will be on hand to explain the many important features of the new cars.

The new V-8 is the largest and most powerful Ford ever built. It has new and distinctively modern lines, a most attractive front end, longer wheelbase, larger and roomier bodies, faster acceleration, increased power and speed and is exceptionally economical in operation. With its 75-horsepower, V-8 engine, the new Ford is capable of a sustained speed of 80 miles an hour.

The new all-steel bodies are materially wider, almost a foot longer and consequently much roomier. The attractive instrument panel is directly in front of the driver, with a large package compartment at the right side of the instrument board. Front seats in closed cars are fully adjustable. Interior fittings are luxurious. Options in upholstery and a wide choice of body colors are available.

The improved V-8 engine is fitted with all-aluminum cylinder heads, one of the most noteworthy forward steps in motor design in many years. Because aluminum dissipates heat more rapidly, the use of the aluminum cylinder heads permits higher compression pressure and results in increased speed, power and smoothness, faster acceleration and added fuel economy.

Smooth engine performance results also from the basic 8-cylinder design and the 3-point rubber mounting. Cylinder blocks are set at a 90-degree angle. The crankshaft is fully counterbalanced and the crank throws are at 90 degrees. Opposing pistons and connecting rods are even in weight. All of these features combine to place all moving parts in natural balance, resulting in exceptional smoothness of operation. The engine is fitted with down-draft carburetor, air-intake silencer and a diaphragm-type fuel pump.

The frame is cushioned by four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers which are both automatically and thermostatically adjusted for every variation in weather or road surface conditions. The shock absorber links are insulated in rubber. The rear fuel tank has a capacity of 14 gallons.

The transmission is of the synchronized type, with helical constant mesh gears, and functions unusually quietly both in second speed and during speed changing.

Serge Borowsky, Russian Baritone In Concert Here

What promises to be the musical event of the season will be the appearance in concert of Serge Borowsky, celebrated Russian baritone singer and the Avon Park Glee Club at Pine Crest Lakes club on the evening of Thursday, February 23, at 8:30 o'clock.

Subject for morning: "Christian." A Christian is one who is Christlike. Great prices have been paid that one might be a Christian. It cost God His Son, the most precious gift of Heaven. It cost Jesus Christ His life giving blood. It cost the Christian the forsaking of this world. The words and living a life of sacrifice unto the great God of Heaven.
Subject for evening: "Unity of God and Christ Jesus." In preparing the people for the Christ, John the Baptist taught that Christ was the giver of eternal life and one sent from God. The words that Jesus Christ did while he was clothed in human flesh proved that He was of God, the Father. His sojourn upon this earth was the fulfillment of many prophecies uttered by the prophets of old testament times. Truly He must have been the God sent one.
A warm welcome is extended to the public.
