Signs of approaching winter: Byrd going south.

Howdy, Russia! We'll recognize you. We aint proud!

The President still gives no indication of listening to the siren song of the inflationists.

Uncle Sam is distributing some 1,100 tons of pork to the needy of Florida. That's pretty direct relief for the man at the bottom of the heap.

Our observation suggests that because beer is now cheap and easily obtainable, young people no longer care a hoot about it. It is no longer "smart" to drink it.

An ape "as intelligent as many humans," is being reared as a human, but it is hampered by inability to say words." Give it a few assignments as an after-dinner speaker, and it will be impossible to stop the flow of words.

Pictures in the news of Mrs. Kelly, in prison for life in connection with a kidnaping episode, show her dreamily toying with the keys of a piano in the recreation room, "adjusting herself to the environment." If that is prison routine, lots of fine, honest women would like to change places with Kathryn.

The kidnaping industry is showing a decisive slump, due to the prompt and competent punishment that has been handed out to perpetrators of that racket of late. Similar treatment applied to all branches of criminal activity will produce similar gratifying results. Crime has flourished because justice has not only been blind, but lame, halt and timorous.

Milo Reno's leadership is of doubtful wisdom and questionable value in these times. When we have a government doing everything possible for the farmers, as for other classes—an administration making an honest and sincere effort to better the condition of every worker—it is neither wise nor patriotic to hamper such a program with strikes, threats of violence, and ill-considered propaganda. Every citizen should exercise patience and sanity and give the President's plans a fair chance. Certainly no better program for recovery has been offered.

Florida has a private who bids fair to become as famous as Private John Allen. He has the unique distinction of being the first private ever to be appointed on the staff of the Governor of Florida. The Governor has numerous Colonels, and with his usual anagosity decided they ought to have an army to command, so he created a private, conferring the honor upon Mr. Rowton, of Palatka. We consider one or two privates, at least, as quite important to any military organization, and feel sure that the status of the Governor's troops has been materially improved. Private Rowton, we salute you!

Editor Cleveland, of the Fort Meade Leader, has been regaling his readers with a series of articles telling of the sights he saw and the impressions he gathered during a recent visit to the Century of Progress Exposition. Seeing is believing, and he saw many things he did not think possible, including Sally Rand. (Naughty, naughty!) But after all, he is too old a bird to be caught with chaff, and when they showed him representations of the scientific ideas of the beginnings of man he balked, declaring that science could not convince him in a thousand years that "we sprang from a fish or a monkey." We ourselves are tempted to believe in the relationship of men to fish—else, how come so many suckers in the world? But Editor Cleveland's faith in the story of creation as told by the Holy Bible, he declares, is stronger than ever after this run-in with science. Any way, the editor's account of his impressions of the Exposition is quite interesting, and we are sure is appreciated by his readers who did not have the privilege of seeing the show.

It does not take a smart man to pick flaws in the President's plan for public betterment. But no man has yet come forward smart enough to present a better set of plans.

Tom Heflin is said to be considering entering the race for Congress, preparatory to regaining later his seat in the Senate. Mr. Heflin adorns his present obscurity so well that it would be a pity to take him out of it.

From investigations conducted by the Tampa Tribune it now appears that the reason pensions for the Civil War veterans constitute such a tax burden is that these old boys were as good at the game of love as that of war, and that late in life they annexed young wives who are carrying bravely on so far as touching the pen to the pension vouchers is concerned, though their husbands have pased away. That being the case, and the probabilities being that most of these good ladies will live to be a hundred, presumably there is nothing to be done about it.

County and municipal authorities in many places are anticipating a possible influx into the State this winter of tramps, vagrants or other derelicts, with plans to send all such to stockades or convict gangs. That may be the best solution of the problem possible under the circumstances, but a better plan would be to commit these people to conservation camps, where they could earn their subsistence for a time at useful labor. If Federal camps should have no further capacity, perhaps the State might establish some camps of similar character. Camps of some such nature we believe are being considered by the State welfare agencies. After all, a man is not ncessarily a criminal because he is down and out and on the road—though he can easily be made one, either by leaving him in that condition, or by herding him with convicts.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY
By RUSSELL KAY

Just about the time J. Hardin Peterson got up to address the newspaper folks gathered at Brooksville a nice little squall came up and the gentleman who introduced the speaker remarked that while it looked like there'd be some "wind" he hoped the crowd would give the Congressman their attention as the storm would probably blow over.

It was kind of a tough spot for Pete, but he made the most of it and with the exception of a gust or two no harm was done. I heard a good one on Pete. You know he's been doin' plenty of talkin' since he got back from Washington. One of the editors present told me that for several weeks he'd set up the line "J. Hardin Peterson will address the meeting." After the story appeared he'd dump the type, so lately he's been holdin' that line like a football player and he claims it has saved him a lot of time and money that he had been wastein' on needless composition.

Another "big" man who attended the Press Session was Park Trammell. They certainly do feed those boys well up in Washington, but I suppose it is proper for our political leaders to be "out in front."

Park shook hands with everybody includin' the women and children so I guess he's plannin' to run for office again. He talked to us durin' the banquet and told that old one about the pen bein' mightier than the sword. Most stories have one point to 'em but that one has two. He must read the florist ads for he certainly was "sayin' it with flowers."

Claude Pepper from Tallahassee followed him and that boy is some speaker. He can exhale language like nobody's business. He don't just talk, he elocutes.

The leadin' lady was Hortense Wells, National Democratic Committee woman for Florida, who attended the session as special representative of all Democratic newspapers.

While there was probably plenty of thinkin' goin' on, nothin' was said about the election that's comin' up by and by to decide who will go to Washington to represent Florida as Junior Senator.

When I asked Claude if he was gonna run, all he said was "Where's Elmer"? Elmer, you know, is the guy who always pays the check.

Brooksville folks did a good job of entertainin'. Sam Lovett who runs the noose-paper there and editor Russell who publishes a newspaper acted as circulation managers for the crowd and proved to be excellent hosts.

Red Egerton, who passes the plate for the Western Newspaper Union, broke up the meetin' when he told the story about the guy who wanted to get a loan from the RFC and import a bunch of monkeys to Florida. He said you could buy good strong healthy monkeys for 10 bucks each and train 'em to climb orange trees and pick fruit and it would cut harvestin' costs to a minimum. One old bird who was listenin' to the details of the plan kept mumbling, "It can't be done, it won't work."

"Why won't it work" the promoter asked? He claimed he knew where he could get the monkeys, had a man who guaranteed to train 'em to climb trees and pick the fruit, it would eliminate pickin' bags, ladders, and manual labor, and was altogether a swell idea.

Then the promoter became exasperated and demanded to know why it wouldn't work. "Well, I'll tell you," the old man replied, "You wouldn't more than get your monkeys over here and trained good before the damned yankees would come down and free 'em."

Random Jottings....

Undoubtedly the most important news of the week from both a national international viewpoint has been the exchange of notes between the U. S. A., and the U. S. S. R., looking towards a formal recognition of the latter country. We have certainly deprived ourselves of a large mart for trade for a great many years, and there has been an element in the situation at least mildly amusing, when we think of our own beginnings as a nation. Is seems that we have heard something about an American revolt from kingly domination. Just what we have expected to accomplish by non-recognition of the Soviet government has always been a question of interest, but also a question that had no answer.

Last week we jotted about the need for an active chamber of commerce, not knowing as we wrote that others had had much the same idea and were then proceeding to put the thought into action This is of the utmost importance to our little city. Any C. of C. should be non-political and non-partisan, and we have no reason to suppose that ours will depart from this basis.

If this body adopts a slogan and plan of action, it would seem that it should run somewhat along this line:

Capitalize Avon Park's Assets.

We can never expect to attract tourists who are looking for the kind of thing that Miami or Daytona Beach or St. Petersburg offers. Yet we need badly some kind of stable tourist trade. What have we to offer? Our incomparable climate.

Might it not be possible to make Avon Park a real health center? Suppose the chamber of commerce could induce some well known doctor to accept a proposition, which they would make sufficiently attractive, to open a sanatarium here. The climate is ideal for the cure of certain kinds of illness; the water supply is pure and plentiful; there is a serenity and calm among our many lakes. One can think of at least one adequate building that might be available, and could be made ideal by the rerouting of a small section of the state highway. At any rate, the proposition might be worth looking into. We make all such suggestions very humbly, but with a very keen interest in the growth and development of our home town.

We note in passing: (with regret) that the appearance of the town is not being improved by the widespread denuding of the silver oak trees at this time. It would certainly be better to use the relief squads in cleaning off the many over-grown vacant lots. Beauty could be another of our assets worth exploiting if a little more thought were given to the general impression we could thus make on the tourist.

That Ferd deAnguera and Bill Helm deserve much credit for the charming new home on Lake Lotela recently constructed. This is the kind of development that we must all strive for and recognize as of such permanent value to the growth of the city. Likewise the new house on Lake Verona shows faith in the future of this section that demands our admiration.

That some of us heard the hum of powerful motors the other night as the Graf Zeppelin passed many miles east of us on its journey to Chicago. Perhaps we were not the only ones who lay awake for sometime speculating on the not too distant future when we shall be hearing just such a roar with the regularity of the daily train whistles.

That the ladies of a certain church in town have announced a flower show as part of their program for the early part of next year. It is to be hoped that this will prove of some stimulation to the extension of interest in our gardens, and leads us to address:

An Open Letter to Anyone:

Avon Park needs an active Garden club. We know we can count on the invaluable help and advice of Mr. Donaldson. He is another of our best assets. Such a club ought not to be run merely as a department of some other club, but should be composed of men and women alike who know the joy of growing things. No town with a worthy Garden club has failed to show an almost instant appreciation of the value of such an effort. It is a movement the ideals of which have always proved catching.

Yours for beauty and uplift,
—R. J.

In Lighter Vein—

We found on inquiry that there is no truth in the rumor that Fred Smith has joined the police department and is operating as a one-man plain clothes division. That constant cruising in his car all over town the other afternoon, plus the worried, seeking look on his face was due to the fact that he was minding the new baby and could keep it quiet no other way.

EXCHANGE SEES BETTER MARKET

Better Control of Marketing Machinery Will Help Prices It Is Thought

Tampa, Oct. 25.— (Special) — Tendencies toward greater strength in the grapefruit market, shown when supplies are restricted in volume and confined to fruit of good quality, Florida Citrus Exchange officials interpret as affording justification for renewed vigor in the Silver Anniversary sales offensive of the organization. Steps were taken during the past week assuring aggressive effort over a wide field as the season advances.

Quotas calling for increased tonnage in the f. o. b. markets have been assigned to the field representatives, as a means of spreading distribution. Acceptances of the allotments have been given in fine spirit by most of the men, Sales Manager E. E. Patterson states. Almost without exception they believe their territories will have the better buying capacity assuring enlarged consumer demand, he said.

"Unregulated shipments in excessive quantities, of good, bad and indifferent fruit, if continued throughout the current season, can go far, of course, to defeat all endeavor for returns that will give growers a fair break," Mr. Patterson continued. "In view of the short crop, rushing off of the Florida output is so unwise it is inconceivable that too heavy movement will be much longer persisted in. Let the markets have a chance, and they will respond with higher prices."

Progress is reported by President John S. Taylor, in the negotiations of the Exchange with federal authorities looking to government purchases of grapefruit and oranges for unemployment relief. While so far limited to staple commodities, this buying later may be extended to include perishables, he believes. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace gave out a statement a few days ago, indicating that the administration may look with favor on use of fruits and vegetables for the purpose.

Consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables in the United States Army has been increased by a new ration, which provides for a wider range of those products, the Exchange has been advised. Recognition long has been given in the army to fresh fruits and vegetables as essential to the health and well-being of the troops, according to Quartermaster General J. L. DeWitt. They have been utilized in large quantities and will be even more liberally furnished under the new ration.

Navy ration law now in effect also includes a very generous allowance for fresh fruits, and records indicate that using activities are ordering them more and more freely, Paymaster General C. J. Peoples wrote. They are necessary to maintain health and provide a suitably variety in diet, in the opinion of navy authorities. Information as to the status of fresh fruits and vegetables in the army and navy was obtained by United States Senator Fletcher in co-operation with the endeavor of the Florida Citrus Exchange for more general inclusion of them in the dietary practice of government agencies. In prosecuting the effort, special attention will be given to federal hospitals, including the ones operated by the Veteran's Administration.

O. B. Geddins Arrested For Carrying Weapon; $1,000 Peace Bond Set

O. B. Geddins of Lake Placid is in the county jail on a peace warrant sworn out by O. W. Geddins, charging assault with a deadly weapon. The peace bond was set at $1,000 and the hearing will be held some time this week. The parties concerned are not related, it is said.

O. B. Geddins had just been released from the county jail under a $250 bond. He was arrested by Sheriff Doyle Schumacher and Deputy Sheriff Long on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. An automatic pistol was found in his possession at the time of his arrest it was stated at the sheriff's office.

It was stated at the court house that O. B. Geddins was connected with the strike of citrus workers at Lake Placid last week.

Heavy Penalty For Milk Law Violators

Unlicensed owners of cows who sell milk, even though they sell only half a pint a day, are subject to a fine of $500 or a year in jail or both, for failure to obtain a license, W. Henry Bryant, chief deputy collector for the milk control board, said last week.

Law Regulates Deliveries.

It is not only illegal for a dealer to sell milk without a license, but also illegal for a properly licensed dealer to deliver milk or chocolate milk to an unlicensed retailer, the chief deputy inspector pointed out, and for a licensed retailer to buy from an unlicensed dealer.

The state milk regulation lists the following persons and firms as subject to the law:

Milk dealers, who are persons who purchase or handle milk within the state, are subject to a license computed on a gallonage basis, the cost of which ranges from $3.50 to as high as $250. Milk solicitors, who are drivers of milk trucks or outside salesmen, $1 a year.

Owners of retail grocery stores, filling stations, hotels, boarding houses, drug stores, restaurants, and all mercantile establishments selling milk or chocolate milk; $1 a year.

It is the duty of every distributor or dealer to ascertain whether every store, hotel, cafe or merchant to whom he sells milk or chocolate milk has procured a license.

State To Discharge Hundred Patients at State Hospital

Tallahassee, Oct. 25.—(FNS)—The Board of Commissioners of State Institutions met with Governor Sholtz in emergency session to consider measures to relieve the congestion in the State Hospital at Chattahoochee.

Officials of the hospital were instructed to make up a list of senile patients, together with a list of relatives, who will be asked to take the patients out of the hospital. The governor told the Board of Commissioners that he believed about 100 patients could be discharged to relatives.

The over-crowded condition in the hospital recently caused executive orders to be issued that no more patients be accepted there until the number of present patients was decreased. Since that time, however, requests have been received from several counties for the transfer of insane persons from county jails to the state hospital.

Norton Smith Gives Statement Relative To Re-employment

Relative to the part that the Federal Re-employment service in the national recovery program, Norton Smith, county manager, had this to say this week:

While this service is open to any employer of labor who wishes to use it, its primary object is to allow the government to control the flow of those sums of money that are now being allotted for Federal aid projects, that it will reach the pockets of those who are without work.

The matter will be handled in the following manner:

The contractor of any Federal aid project will be referred to the re-employment office serving the territory in which the project is located and they in turn will make a requisition on the office manager for the number and kinds of laborers required.

In filling this requisition the manager will give preference first to ex-service men with dependents; second to residents of the county and third to residents of Florida.

Constant supervision will be made of the labor lists, pay rolls and of the men themselves to assure the observance of the government's rules as to wages, hours per week and other matters are observed.

NEWS AND VIEWS ON ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

Weekly Presentation of Happenings and Problems Affecting Prosperity

Industrial activity, in spite of the appearance of some downward tendencies, is continuing at a comparatively high rate. In August, production was more than 50 percent greater than in August, 1932. In July, production reached its peak, when it was equal to the 1923-25 average.

Price advances, which started with the first manifestations of recovery, continued through September. The cost of living has accordingly risen. An exception to the general trend is farm prices, which have declined. One of the best of recent signs is that the wide discrepancy between production and consumption, which confused the outlook a short time ago, is narrowing.

Latest information concerning basic industries shows:

Domestic Trade—Both wholesale and retail increased in August, in both volume and value. Department store sales were well above the August, 1932, level.

Employment—Though production declined somewhat in August as compared with July, payrolls and employment continued to improve—the advances being carried into September. It is estimated that 750,000 persons found work in August, and the September experience, when detailed, may be still more favorable.

Commodity Prices—The advance in prices, with the exception of retail, slackened in August and September. Retail prices rose eight percent between August 1 and September 1—the greatest monthly advance in a decade.

Credit—The most significant recent change in the credit situation is that open-market purchase of U. S. Government securities by the Federal Reserve has increased. Purchases rose to a weekly rate of $35,000,000, as compared with $10,000,000 previously. The Federal credit expansion drive, which includes liberating of assets in closed banks, is apt to work sudden and unexpected changes.

Securities—Market action has been confusing and unpredictable. Generally speaking, stock prices have fluctuated with exchange quotations on the dollar. Among bonds, high-grade domestic issues have stood up well, and issues of foreign gold standard countries have advanced.

Construction—Contracts jumped 28 percent in August, due principally to public works and utility undertakings. Building activity, however, is lower than it was last year or the year before.

Transportation—There was a contraseasonal decline of six percent in freight traffic in August, and the decline continued through September. However, comparison with the months preceding July, and with 1932, are still favorable.

Automobiles—Production schedules dropped in September, but less than was anticipated. The decline in retail sales has been less than seasonal trends would have indicated. Demand at end of September was holding up well. Tire output in August, while smallest in five months, was at the highest August level since 1929.

Chemicals—Activity has been affected by declining production in the major productive lines which constitute the market for chemicals. Demand was dull so far as paints and varnishes were concerned, with a seasonal increase in alcohol orders. Prices have been firm.

Farm—The August wheat movement, because of the short crop, was comparatively slight. The month's receipts were down 27 percent as compared with July, and wholesale wheat prices declined. Corn prospects were slightly better. Hog receipts were much higher than before, and sheep and lamb receipts likewise showed improvement. Butter receipts showed the usual seasonal decline.

Food—Production in the food processing industry declined eight percent in August, with allowance made for the customary seasonal change. However, activity was eight percent above a year ago, and employment and pay roll levels were encouraging.

Iron and Steel—Steel production declined during April, and a still sharper drop followed during first half of September. Orders have come in slowly. Unfilled orders of U. S. Steel at end of August were lowest since April.

Textiles—Though production has slackened, August production was the best for that month since 1929. The textile code has produced substantial gains in payrolls and employment.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. You get headaches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't keep on asking for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25¢ at drug stores.

FLA. ROADS AND FEDERAL AID ROADS

It Takes Time To Plan Roads and Longer To Build Them

By D. L. WHITEHURST.

Tallahassee, Oct. 25.—(Special)—In the equipment of the Florida State Road Department there is no magic wand.

There are, however, a few hundred sweat-stained picks and shovels, a score or two of snorty, low-bellied tractors, an array of transits and perhaps a brace or two of costly, high fangled scientific instruments which will tell just what is in the material that goes into the pavement.

Paved highways are simply not rolled out like so much roofing paper. It takes time, even under present conditions, when the State Department, under the personal direction of C. B. Treadway, is striving to step-up plans, so the unemployed heads of families can bring home the grits and bacon.

To those who have been complaining because the Road Department has not been able to put more than 1600 heads of families to work within the last 30 days on many projects in various sections of the state, it might be well to analyze the situation definitely.

In the first place, all roads coming under state maintenance and building must first be designated by the State Legislature—and the Legislators assemble only every two years under the Stoltz Administration. That eliminates, under present conditions, the possibility of the Department aiding petitioners for help on any road not so designated. Based on the Legislative assignments is the Road Department's annual budget, setting aside sums for each division, or more specifically, each project.

Before any road in Florida can be improved under the state and Federal road building system, it must first be on the Federal System. In other words, a road which may be a part of the State System, cannot be improved with Federal Aid unless it is an accepted part of the Federal System. An exception is made under the present emergency clause which allows for Federal Aid on secondary roads in the State System.

Assuming that the Department is anticipating improving a piece of highway designated by the State Legislature as being a part of the State System, the first step, of course, is making a survey. This shows the alignment profile of the ground. A drainage survey is made to show how many bridges or culverts are needed. Their capacities must be ascertained by the engineers assigned to the task.

All that takes time. As an illustration, records kept in the offices of the State Engineer show that under normal conditions this particular phase of the work requires a month or two, according to the length of the project. If the State Road Department wants the project to be under Federal Aid System, it must first advise the Senior Highway Engineer for the U. S. Bureau of Roads, stationed in Gainesville. He makes a route report consisting of a reconnaissance survey.

The State Road Department then submits to the Federal Engineer a project sketch map, showing the alignment of the road, together with all connecting roads. Along with this data is also submitted what is known to engineers as a project statement, which requests the project be given approval and a Federal project number.

The next move is up to the Federal Engineer. If he approves the project statement, the preliminary plans are furnished in pencil by the State Road Department. This is given the Federal Official for his information and to assist him if he wishes to make changes after completely reviewing the work. He then returns the data to the Tallahassee office of the State Road Department with any changes in plans he might deem necessary.

Working at top speed, such as is the present case under emergency clause, all of this work requires not less than another month.

It is at this stage of operation that the public gets its first insight that the Department has been doing something. If the project is approved, it is then prepared for advertising, but not until the Senior Federal Highway Engineer has been provided with four sets of corrected plans, along with six copies of a preliminary cost estimate and all special provisions to accompany the standard specifications. The Federal Highway Engineer then reviews the plans again and with his recommendations he sends the plans, specifications and estimates to the office of the District Engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Roads in Montgomery, Alabama. This official usually approves the project and with his recommendations it is sent to the main offices of the Bureau in Washington. The Washington office usually gives its approval. Authority is then given to advertise and begin the construction of the project. This authority is given the State Road Department by the District Engineer for the Federal Bureau.

The project is then ready to be submitted to bidders. The time that has elapsed since the project was first started is perhaps 10 weeks, or longer—all days filled with activity.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Weekly from Home Demonstration Specialists, Tallahassee

LITTLE HOUSEHOLD JOBS.

Drawers That Stick.

Now is the time to remedy the bureau drawer that sticks. If it is not quite dry when returned to its place, you will discover the spot that in damp weather is likely to swell and make trouble. Take a piece of common yellow soap, moisten it, and rub freely the parts which are too tight. Also soap under the part of the drawer where it slides. Or, apply a tallow candle. Or, rub the parts freely with bacon rind. The soap, however, is likely to effect the more permanent cure.

To Clean Mattresses.

Stains on mattresses may be removed by covering them with dry laundry starch and moistening this with enough soap or soap jelly (made by melting scraps of hard soap in about their own bulk of boiling water) to form a thin paste, which will dry on, but not soak through into the mattress. Let dry and brush off with a stiff whisk broom. Repeat if necessary. Afterwards sponge with ammonia and water.

Remove Wall Paper Stains.

To remove grease and oil stains from wall paper, fold a piece of blotting paper, and in the fold spread pipe clay or French chalk. Stitch or pin the edges together to keep the chalk from falling out. Lay this over the grease spot and apply a hot iron, taking care not to scorch the paper. Change the blotter paper occasionally, and, if necessary, repeat with a fresh iron.

Or, make a thick paste of powdered pipe clay or French chalk and apply it to the spot with a brush. Let it remain until dry. Then brush off and repeat if necessary.

Cotton Mill Pay Rolls Doubled Under Code

Washington, Oct. 25.—Declaring employment figures in the cotton textile industry are "back to pre-depression levels as a result of the NRA," and the weekly pay rolls of cotton mills 100 percent higher than on March 1, 1933, George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, in his annual report just published, said:

"The 40-hour week reduced the work week 25 percent. During the last week of August the number on pay rolls had increased 140,000 over last March. The average wage for seven groups in 1932 that earned more than the minimum wage now prescribed by the code was 34.9 cents an hour. In August 1933 the average for the same groups was 42.9 cents an hour. Furthermore, the August 1933 rate was about 40 percent in excess of the code minimum."

Nerves Do they torture you by day? Keep you awake at night?

What is it that keeps hospitals open and doctors busy? NERVES.

What is it that makes your face wrinkled and makes you feel old? NERVES

Nine times out of ten it's NERVES that make you restless, worried, haggard.

Nerves Do they make you Cranky, Blue--give you Nervous Indigestion, Nervous Headache?

When nerves are over-taxed, you worry over trifles, find it hard to concentrate, can't sit still. Nerve Strain brings on Headache.

Nervous people often suffer from Indigestion. There may be absolutely nothing wrong with the organs of digestion, but the Nerves are not on the job to make the organs do their work properly.

Nerves Do they interefere with your work; ruin your pleasure; drive away your friends?

You're cheating yourself and the man who pays you if you work when your NERVES are not normal.

You can't have a good time when you are nervous. You can't make or keep friends when you are keyed up and irritable. You may excuse yourself, but to others you are just a plain crank.

Sunday School Lesson

FOR OCTOBER 29, 1933.

SUBJECT: World's Temperance Sunday.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law." Romans 13: 10.

LESSON TEXT: Romans 13: 12-14; 7-9, 15-21.

TIME AND PLACE: The letter to the Romans was written from Corinth, about A. D. 58. The following is the whole of the printed lesson: Romans 13: 12-14. "The night is far spent, the day is at hand: Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light. Let us walk honestly, as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts thereof."

Romans 14: 7-9. "For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself. For whether we live, we live unto the Lord: and whether we die we die unto the Lord; whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lords. For to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living."

Romans 14: 15-21. "But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died. Let not then your good be evil spoken of: For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost. For he that in these things serveth Christ is acceptable to God, and approved of men. Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another. For meat destroy not the work of God. All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence. It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak"

Throughout Romans 14 there are references to who were conscientiously strict with regard to eating meat sacrificed to idols, and others who were more liberal. "One believeth that he may eat all things: Another, who is weak eateth herbs" (Verse 2). Just who these weak brethren were is a matter of dispute.

It was natural that the people who abstained from meat for conscientious reason: should feel that all the rest of the brethren should do likewise. It is a human and natural tendency for any one with conscientious scruples to critizice others if they do not see and act as he does. If it is a matter concerning which directions are plainly given in God's Word, then we have a right to expect that people who profess to follow Christ should conform to the standard of the Bible. However, in a multitude of cases people in specific situation act in accordance with their interpretation and application of principles set forth in the Bible, while other people in the same situations apply those principles differently. Such being the case, there should be charity for others. Paul cautioned the two classes of people at Rome against uncharitable judgement of each other.

The books and papers on Sunday School Lessons have devoted today's lesson to a study of temperance, covering mostly alcholic drinks and narcotics.

Without using quotation marks we use several leading statements: The present generation has been brought up with little knowledge of the saloon. In the world at large, the prevailing distress caused by national dissessions and financial troubles has forced the temperance cause into the background. There is every reason for reviving the reasons for prohibition and setting forth its enormous advantages and blessings.

"I can drink or let it alone" is the drunkard's boast; but drink will not let him alone. Alcohol is a habit-forming drug, as morphine is, or cocaine. Total abstinence is the only cure for the drink evil. "One man should not be forced to act according to another man's conscience, but everyone should be satisfied in his own mind, and be careful not to do what he thinks wrong." The main work of temperance advocates is to cultivate the tohscience. In the public schools, the Sunday schools, the church, and the home, temperance education should be pushed, so that the underlying reasons for total abstinence should be thoroughly understood; and prohibition laws will then stand fast, based on reason. Paul said, "It is good neither to eat flesh, not to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak."

"Hell Below" Is Thriller at Avon Sunday, Monday

The stirring picture and ofttimes breath-taking incidents of "Hell Below" revolve about a young naval lieutenant who in an effort to save his closest friend, almost brings about the death of an entire submarine crew when due to his flaunting of the commander's orders, the submarine is forced to the bottom of the sea with its engines disabled. He is dismissed from the navy. Meantime, he has won the love of his commander's daughter who is married to a hopelessly wounded aviator. After a series of compelling dramatic incidents, the young lieutenant is brought to the realization of what he owes to the husband of the girl he loves and makes an end to the futile romance by insulting the girl in a powerful scene in which he pretends to be drunk. Having nothing further to live for, in the end, he sacrifices his life in an heroic adventure in which he blows up a fort by ramming it with a submarine loaded with dynamite.

Audit Again Halted With Supercedeas from Supreme Court

With the granting Monday by the state supreme court of a writ of supercedas, the state audit of the books of the City of Avon Park was again halted. The case was taken to the higher court following the dissolving of the injunction by Judge W. J. Barker which restrained Comptroller J. M. Lee from proceeding with the audit. The hearing on the injunction, the petition for which was brought by J. B. Coen, was held at Wauchula on Wednesday last week and on Friday Judge Barker issued the order dissolving the temporary injunction.

Judge Barker said the matter was out of his hands entirely and Coen's attorney, Pat Whitaker of Tampa and S. C. Pardee, city attorney of Avon Park, took the case to the supreme court. The supercedas was issued conditional upon an immediate hearing of the case and the posting of a good and sufficient bond. The hearing was set for Monday, October 30 and bond was posted Tuesday.

Immediately following the dissolving of the injunction State Auditor C. A. Edwards was ordered to return to Avon Park and continue work on the books and he started work again Saturday morning. On Monday morning he was joined by N. C. Geise of the state auditor's office and they continued work until Tuesday noon when they were halted pending a hearing on the supercedas.

CREDIT BODY TO BE FORMED IN COUNTY

to be represented by satisfactory farmers' notes that may be discounted for the association by the Intermediate Credit Bank. The interest earned by the funds pledged as security goes to the local association to help pay its expense of opetration and is in addition to interest obtained from local loans.

Farmers may secure loans from the local association for the production and harvesting of crops, breeding, raising, and fattening of livestock or for the production of livestock and poultry products. Such loans will be made at a rate of interest not to exceed three percent above the discount rate of the Intermediate Credit Bank, which is now three and one-half percent per annum. Under present conditions the rate of interest to a farmer borrowing through a Production Credit association would be six and one-half percent.

A farmer must own a class B stock (may be deducted from proceeds of loan) valued at not less than five percent of the amount of his loan. Class B stock carries voting privileges for the election of officers and directors and shares equally with Class A stock in the distribution of dividends. No stock in the association carries double liability.

Loans will be secured ordinarily by a first mortgage lien on growing crops and other personal or real property; livestock loans by a first mortgage lien on the livestock and other suitable security. No loan may be obtained for a period of more than three years, but the majority of loans will be for periods of six to 12 months.

Canvassing Board Approve Results of Repeal Election

Tallahassee, Oct. 25.—(FNS)—The portion of Florida's electorate who exercised their privilege of voting in the repeal election held October 10, reveals a final tabulation of 94,247 for repeal and 24,439 against repeal of the eighteenth amendment, according to completed figures from Secretary of State Gray's office.

Each of the state's 67 counties reported a wet majority.

The State canvassing board met in Tallahassee this week to approve the results and declare them official.

A number of counties have filed their expense bills with Secretary Gray but many have not yet done so. More than 5,000 individuals, including clerks and inspectors, will have claims against the state for services rendered incident to the election.

Park and the city officials with reference to efforts to obtain a state audit of the books and records of the city, and the petition for such action filed before the Governor of Florida, news items have been published which tend to convey the impression that this group of citizens were charging the Hon. W. J. Barker, Judge of the Circuit Court, with improper conduct in the granting of a temporary injunction against said audit, and generally reflecting upon the said Judge and Court;

And whereas, a certain news item carried over the state did misquote the statement of T. A. McNicholas before Governor Sholtz in reference to Judge Barker's action, and did work a grave injustice against said Judge and said McNicholas;

And whereas, the citizens of Avon Park seeking the said audit have, since his residence here, entertained the highest respect and esteem for Judge Barker, both as man and judge, and did not intend in the least to cast any reflection upon him;

Therefore, be it resolved, that we do hereby express our regret for the unfortunate impression possibly created in the minds of others with reference to Judge Barker's action, and do disavow any intention whatsoever of in any manner reflecting upon Judge Beer or his official conduct;

And further, that we do publicly reaffirm our faith in his integrity, fairness and impartiality, and assure him that the unfortunate circumstances have but made stronger and enlarged the respect and esteem we hold for him.

That a copy of this resolution be sent Judge Barker and that same be given as much publicity as possible.

The foregoing resolution was offered by T. A. McNicholas and unanimously adopted.

BANKERS FAVOR BRANCH BANKS

Will Ask Legislature To Pass Laws Permitting Branches Under Restrictions

Orlando, Oct. 25.—(FNS)—The Florida Bankers Association meeting for their annual convention here adopted a resolution favoring branch banks in Florida under restricted conditions and called upon the state legislature to pass the necessary legislation to permit branch banking under the conditions that the parent bank have a paid-in capital of $500,000 with the approval of the comptroller. However, no branch may be established in a town where there already exists a commercial bank unless such parent bank shall buy or merge with the existing commercial bank of that town. The capital of the parent bank must be equal to the minimum that would be required were the parent bank and the branches separate banks.

Addresses on banking problems by leading figures included a talk by Haynes McFadden, of Georgia, who told of the establishment of an operating code in Georgia under the National Recovery Act. State Comptroller J. M. Lee urged that Florida bankers support the new banking act which goes into effect January 1, and which guarantees bank deposits subject to certain stipulations.

The code committee will meet in Jacksonville Friday of this week to prepare a code for the state, in conformity with the NRA.

St. Petersburg was selected for the 1934 convention city.

W. A. Redding of Jacksonville was elected president of the state body to succeed S. Dilworth Clarke of Monticello. Willard Hamilton of Orlando, was named vice president and W. O. Bonner, Jacksonville, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Trial Air Service From Tampa To Cuba Start Dec. 1

Tampa, Oct. 25.—(FNS)—Inauguration of a trial air service for passengers and express between Tampa and Havana, beginning December 1, has been announced by the Pan-American Airways system. The ultimate continuance of the service depends upon passenger and express traffic which develops.

A tri-weekly schedule will be in operation at the beginning of the service. The twin-motored Commodore flying boats, similar to those now in use on the West Indies—South American runs, will make the flights. The planes have accommodations for 22 passengers and express. The flight will be made from Tampa to Havana in less than four hours, planes leaving Tampa and returning the same day.

The city of Tampa will provide a compete operating base, including a ramp, floating pier, stores building and terminal station, which in addition to modern passenger facilities, will include offices for government authorities and air line administration personnel.

Dead Line for State and County Licenses Is November 10

Merchants and business men who have not as yet obtained their state and county licenses are reminded that November 10 is last day they can pay up without a 25 percent penalty. Tax Collector Ruth Bass Hylton has been in the city this week collecting licenses and issued the above warning to those who have not paid at this time.

Desirable Loans

The "Barnett" has ever been ready to lend money where the borrower's credit standing entitles him to the loan. Such a loan should be based on strictly commercial transactions and be self-liquidating in character.

Idle money either in the bank vault or on deposit with the Federal Reserve affords no sense of gratification to the Banker. Money is the Banker's stock in trade—naturally it behooves him to place it on loans as soon as possible but in doing this he must exercise the greatest caution if he is to retain the confidence placed in him by the Depositor.

NEW MILK PRICES
Effective Oct. 1, 1933

The Florida Milk Control Board has established the following scale of prices for milk and milk products in the northern half of Highlands County:

MILK
Per Quart 16c
Per Pint 9c
WHIPPING CREAM
Per Pint 45c
Per Half-Pint 25c
BUTTERMILK
Per Quart 10c

This slight increase in the price of milk is made necessary by rapidly advancing prices of feed and increased operating expenses.

The above schedule of prices governs everyone selling milk in this area. Any deviation from these prices is in violation of the Florida Milk Control law.
