Tax Collectors Are Slowly Taking Over Motor Tag Agencies

Tallahassee, Aug. 23.—(FNS)—Eight county tax collectors have already taken over the distribution of motor license tags and others are expected to assume the work soon, it was announced by George H. Wilder, acting State Motor Vehicle Commissioner.

Although the new law provides that tax collectors become tag distributors on January 1, 1934, in order to facilitate distribution and speed up the work Mr. Wilder plans to start distribution in December.

On all tags sold during the month of December tax collectors will be allowed to retain the present fee of 50 cents. After January 1, the fee will be 25 cents. Motorists will make application and receive their next year's tags from their county tax collectors.

RURAL COMMONSENSE

By Spuds Johnson

FALL GARDENS, STARTED SOON, SHOULD BE FOUND ON EVERY FLORIDA FARM

Fall gardens should be in evidence throughout the countryside this fall. And they should be started as early as is feasible and possible, so that they will supply fresh vegetables over a longer period of time. Gardens have been lifesavers recently, and no farm family should be without one this fall. The fall garden will supply vegetables to be used fresh, and the surplus can be canned for use in time of scarcity. The family will be assured of plenty to eat, and the cash output to obtain it will not be so great.

It is true that summer gardens do not and cannot carry a very wide variety of vegetables in Florida. Never-the-less, there have been numbers of gardens this summer which have had two or three or more different kinds of vegetables growing in them all the time, and nearly that many different kinds available for table use at all times. There are some crops which will grow and do well during the hot weather.

But the hottest weather will be over soon, and the fall garden should certainly be started as promptly as possible. There are a number of crops which can be planted in August, among them being lima beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, collards, cucumbers, endive, kale, lettuce, mustard, pepper, white potatoes, radishes, spinach, squash, tomatoes and turnips.

The garden should be well prepared and well fertilized before the crops are planted. Applications of stable manure or compost should be made to the garden plot to enrich the soil and add life to it. Commercial fertilizers should be applied in addition.

Control of insects and diseases will be more difficult with the fall garden than with the spring garden. These pests have had time to accumulate during the summer, and are quite apt to give trouble to the fall garden. However, they can be kept under control with a little spraying or dusting. Vigilance is necessary.

An early fall garden, a winter garden, and a spring garden should be the last in the way of gardening that will satisfy Florida farm families.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

THAT GIVE MEN WORK · · THAT GIVE YOU DRIVING SAFETY, CONVENIENCE COMFORT AND LOW DRIVING COST

The United States Government has sounded the call, by giving a direct grant to the States, of at least four hundred million dollars for highway improvement. This is part of a vast program of public works to spread national employment and to stimulate business.

This work will be done through your own State Highway Department. The Federal Government asks no return except that the money be expended wisely—that the improvements be permanent, substantially built and of a type that gives men work.

CONCRETE ROADS meet every specification. They are permanent. Maintenance cost is much less than that of any other type. They give you the greatest driving safety, convenience and comfort. They cost less to drive over—saving you gas, tires, repairs and depreciation. They will give work to men now on doles in your community. Money will flow across the counters of home stores.

Insist on CONCRETE for your roads—get the most and the best road for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

Remember the roads of 1910? Narrow strips of dirt—ankle-deep dust—quagmires of mud—The cost of moving goods was terrific!

The engineers have built, with cement, a network of CONCRETE highways throughout the nation, that is nearly one hundred thousand miles in length. Cement spanned great rivers and broad valleys with concrete. Cement made the modern motor vehicle practical; made motoring a part of our daily life.

HANSON CITES FACTS ABOUT THE SEMINOLES

That the history of the Seminole Indians in Florida reveals one long record of broken treaties, treachery and persecution on the part of the white man toward these primitive residents of the Peninsular state and that throughout all the Indian acted honorably, ever on the defense until goaded finally into desperation by the cupidity and cruelty of the paleface invaders of his territory, was shown by W. Stanley Hanson, white medicine man of the Seminoles, in an interesting talk at Fort Myers recently.

Contrary to general belief, the Florida Seminoles are not a tribe, but renegades or estrays from tribes in northern Florida and Georgia, such being the meaning of the word Seminole. Also not generally know is the fact that the Florida Seminoles are divided into two distinct groups, each speaking in a different language and though friendly, living in widely separated areas and having little in common with each other. Of these the so-called Cow Creeks or Muskokees live to the north and east of Lake Okeechobee and comprise about one-third of the Florida Seminoles. The larger group—the Miccosukees or so-called Big Cypress Indians—are scattered over a large area south and west of the lake and extending east into Dade county.

On July 10th, 1821, the territory of Florida was ceded by Spain to the United States, with the stipulation, accepted by our government, that the rights of the Seminoles to their lands be held inviolate and that the Indian population should be under the protection of the American government. Several years later a treaty was entered into between our government and the Seminoles at Camp Moultrie, several miles south of St. Augustine, in which the Indians agreed—for a consideration of $15,000 cash and $5,000 a year—to give up their old homes and move south of the Withlacoochee River. By the provisions of this treaty no white men were permitted to cross the line into Indian territory and any Indian found north of the line was to be flogged with 39 lashes.

The second treaty was at Payne's Landing. It provided that the Seminoles were to send a delegation to inspect lands in the west offered them by the government. If the report of this delegation proved favorable the Seminoles would agree to give up their Florida homes and move to the western country. Before returning from the western trip, American officers accompanying the Indian delegation prevailed upon them to sign a paper agreeing to the move, but when they returned to Florida the balance of the Seminoles repudiated the agreement as they had not been consulted in the matter.

The third and final treaty entered into between our government and the Seminoles is known as the Macomb Treaty of 1839. It designated an area in the southern end of the Florida peninsula as Indian land and agreed to protect them from white invasion. The territory is described as follows: From Charlotter Harbor up Pence Creek to Little Peace Creek, east and north to Kissimmee River to Lake Okeechobee, thence on a line straight south to Cape Sable.

All of these treaties were successively violated by the white man whose greed led to recurring invasions of the Indian lands, driving them therefrom, burning their homes and stealing their cattle and slaves until the red men were driven to a frenzy by reason of these outrages perpetrated on them, with little or no protection guaranteed them by the U. S. government. These continued violations of their treaty rights are what led to the outbreak known as the Seminole Indian War. Even during this war it is recorded that the homes and property of the few white men who had been kind to the Indians were not molested nor were their lives endangered at any time.

From time immemorial in all warfare between so-called civilized peoples the flag of truce has been respected and delegations from opposing armies have been free to meet under it, discuss their differences and return to their respective sides without restraint or molestation. The treachery displayed by the American army officer in repeated violation of a truce with the Seminole Indians constitutes one of the foulest blots on the history of this nation. That officer was General Jesup who three times under the flag of truce captured large numbers of Seminole Indians and deported them from their homes and relatives to land in the far west.

The first violation was at Ft. Augustine where Chief Osceola and 100 of his people were captured and imprisoned. The second violation was at Fort Mellon (Sanford) when Chief Mickenopah and 71 of his followers were captured. The third outrage occurred at Fort Jupiter where 678 were surrounded and taken prisoners.

The first Seminole War, which constituted the main engagement, lasted from 1835 to 1840 and cost the U. S. government upward of $40,000,000. In it some 20,026 volunteer troops were engaged of which Florida furnished 6,854 men. Up to 1844 some 4,500 Seminoles had been deported to the far west and 10 years later 2,500 more were deported. The last to go were Chief Billy Bowlegs and 163 others who left Fort Myers on the steamer, Gray Cloud May 4th, 1858, enroute to Indian territory, leaving but 54 Seminoles behind them, unconquered, of whom the Florida Seminoles of today are descendants. There are approximately 600 of them and Mr. Hanson has an accurate census of the inhabitants of every camp.

Contrary to general belief, the Florida Seminoles have no chief, nor have they had one since Billy Bowlegs was deported some 75 years ago. This is for the reason that they think it unwise to delegate supreme power to any one person. They are governed instead by a council of medicine men, similar to a board of directors of a corporation. Their great annual festival is the green corn dance, held during "the little moon" in June. This festival is a combination of religious ceremonies, court sessions for trial of offenders against the tribal laws, marriage rites, christenings and divorce hearings, concluding with games and feasting.

The Seminoles are a religious people, believing in a supreme being, and their traditions of creation, the fall of man, the flood, etc., are somewhat similar to the Christian iden. They are firm believers in fairies, or the "little people," as they call them, and their fables and fairy stories have a strong resemblance to those of white folks.

Seminoles do not lie or steal. They have no jails or poorhouses. All of their people are cared for and none are allowed to suffer for the necessaries of life as long as their neighbors have anything to share with them. They live chiefly by hunting and trapping. Their one besetting sin is their addiction to strong drink which the white man brought them, but there is a heavy penalty prescribed by the federal government for selling or furnishing intoxicating liquor to the Indians, so that the traffic has been pretty well broken up.

Attention was called to the inconvenient location of the Seminole Indian agency in Florida near Dania on the East Coast, many miles remote from the camps of most of the Seminole Indians. Medical and dental attention and hospitalization have been refused these Indians, and even requisitions for clothing and supplies, unless they make the long trip over to Dania, and this many of them will not do, preferring to come to Fort Myers which is far more convenient. Within a period of almost three years, Mr. Hanson stated nearly 800 Indians had been to Fort Myers and camped in his back yard. Personally, he considered Collier county the logical location for Seminole Indian headquarters.

Above all is needed some organization for the benefit of the Seminole Indians, to study their needs, plan for their betterment and bring some pressure to bear to the end that aid be furnished them sufficiently to provide land, livestock, equipment and industrial education sufficiently to place them on their feet as self supporting and self respecting citizens, together with a guarantee against further encroachments of the white man upon their domain. In this connection was mentioned the Seminole Indian Association incorporated, in 1913 as a non-profit organization, but which later lapsed into inactivity. Mr. Hanson stated that plans are now under way for reorganization of the association and some influential people are manifesting much interest in it as a means for promoting the welfare of this primitive and interesting people.—Estero Eagle.

An inquirer wants to know what's a nuisance tax? Answer: Any tax.

We don't know any groups in the country who are better off than the boys in the conservation camps.

—o—

We have been hoping—so far without results—that the government will pay newspaper men to leave every third column blank.

—o—

It is orange blossom time in Chicago. Those Florida citrus trees at the Exposition are performing to the great glory of the State.

—o—

Drunkenness seems to be increasingly on the wane. Maybe by the time prohibition is repealed temperance will be with us. And that will be a wonderfully better thing.

—o—

Fortunately the country has a President who fully realizes that inflation is dynamite, and who is not likely to be rushed into other than the most conservative handling of that sometimes useful but always dangerous element.

—o—

The purposes of the NRA cannot be served through greed or selfishness. Those who seize upon any of its provisions as an excuse for raising prices unduly, or for seeking excessive wages, haven't sensed the idea, or caught the vision of cooperation.

—o—

A prospective bride and groom announce that as a starter to wedded happiness they have adopted an NRA code—NRA in this instance meaning "No Runnin' Around." The general observance of that code would almost paralyze the divorce courts.

—o—

But perhaps Governor Sholtz and President Cespedes, when photographed in dark woolen suits, intended to impress sweltering Northerners with the idea that it is quite cold down this way at this time of year and that Florida and Cuba are ideal summer resorts.

—o—

A Washington dispatch gives the startling information that Administrator Johnson's secretary "makes gallant efforts to keep out of range of the cameras." Poor thing, she is very unsuccessful. The only lady who ever beat Miss Robinson's record in getting into the newspaper pictures is Aimee Semple McPherson. At that, it is o. k. by us.

Just think what fun we inlanders will have watching the big ships passing through these various canals across the peninsula! Aside from this scenic treat, however, we still can't see just what great advantage will come to Florida in providing a water way across the state from the Gulf to the Atlantic. Through traffic from Louisiana, Texas and other Gulf States—perhaps from some Mexican or Central American ports—to the markets of the East, might be benefited, but we fail to see where that will help Florida greatly. But go ahead, boys, and build all the canals you have money to pay for; only we do not think the people of Florida should become financially involved in such a project.

The granting of the first loan to a Floridian by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation occurred in Jacksonville a few days ago, and the Times-Union of that city thought the incident of sufficient importance to print a picture of the scene and principals of the transaction. The provision of this agency for enabling home owners to hold on to their property and pay off the mortgage over a fifteen year period, seems to us one of the finest pieces of legislation that ever has been enacted. It will be an exceptional case in the future where a home will have to be surrendered because of inability to pay the mortgage; and whatever tends to stabilize home ownership is a benefit to society and an encouragement to good citizenship.

SCHOOL DAYS

IN PIONEER DAYS THE ROAD TO SCHOOL WAS LONG AND HAZARDOUS.

NOW THE ROAD IS SHORT AND SOMETIMES MORE HAZARDOUS

One reason there is a "wet press"—if there is such a thing—is that no prohibition speaker can utter a dozen sentences without referring slightingly—often viciously—to newspapers as a whole as the "wet, subsidized press." That attitude can very effectively align against any cause the active opposition of those who might otherwise be neutral or even friendly.

—o—

Acts of mob vengeance in reprisal for alleged misdeeds of the Machada administration were barbarous and atrocious, and, indeed, seem almost unbelievable. Still, we have known in this country—even in this State—acts equally horrifying, though perhaps on a smaller scale, and committed with far less provocation. With the best of us the veneer of civilization quickly disappears under the urge of primitive passions.

Jacksonville wins the unenviable distinction as the city leading the nation in the number of murders per capita for 1932. But the rate is unduly high all over the country, and no section or community has much right to point with scornful finger at any other. There are 51 murders in this country to where there is one in England; and in other lands upon whose people we look down from the heights of our self-complacency, the score is equally heavy against us. It will continue thus until the the courts of this land function in such manner as to command respect for the law, obedience to the law; until the cavils and quibbles of court procedure cease to encourage crime by almost insuring that the criminal go unwhipt of justice. We could well take a leaf from the methods of handling crime in other nations, where the invocation of technicalities and the "law's delays" are not permitted in so many instances to make a farce of criminal prosecutions.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY
By RUSSELL KAY

You know our "Uncle Sam" always was such a husky, hardy old chap that the idea of his ever gettin' sick was beyond our comprehension. It seemed that the older he got, the stronger he was. He could lick his weight in wild cats. He was a tough hombre but a square shooter and a keen business man. He had more dough, more brains, and more pep than any other guy in the world.

And healthy! Say he was born with an iron constitution. Nothin' could happen to him. He was a self-made man. He built up his fortune by the sweat of his brow. He swung a mean axe in his early day and hardened his muscles in forest and mine. He worked and studied, lived within his income, minded his own business and gained the respect and goodwill of everyone.

Then he shed his overalls, fixed up a swell suite of offices, went in for night clubs and whoopee, and spent most of his time hangin' over the ticker tape. He got soft and flabby, began to spend more than he made. The hang-overs got more frequent. His circulation went bad on him.

Then Uncle Sam went to bed with a terrible headache and an acute pain in his side. Dr. Hoover was tendin' him at the time and insisted on feedin' the old man soothin' syrup and opiates. Dr. Al Smith examined him and insisted that an operation was needed to remove his 18th amendment, but Dr. Hoover wouldn't listen to that.

Well the old man kept gettin' worse instead of better. The pain in his side was terrible. All the time it was takin' more and more dough to look after him. Some members of his family got right down to rock bottom, puttin' out for him.

Finally it got to where his folks were genuinely worried. Somethin' had to be done and done at once. Dr. Hoover was still applyin' the salve and soothin' syrup.

Then they called in Dr. Roosevelt and told him they didn't care what he did but for the love of Mike to do somethin'. So Roosevelt pulled off his coat, rolled up his sleeves and went to it.

The old man was in a coma, but the Dr. snapped him out of it with a jolt and began slammin' him on the back until he started coughin' up gold. Then he handed him a large bottle of "confidence" and told him to take it.

Weak and wobbly, with his nerves all shot, Uncle Sam sits up, rubs his eyes and says "Wait a minute Doc, not so rough." But Roosevelt wasn't takin' any back talk from his patient. He wrote out a prescription or two and sent 'em over to the Congress drug store.

"Listen, he says, you've been babied long enough. You're gonna get up out of that bed and start eatin' again. Then you must go back to work, but I don't want you to over-do it. Thirty-five or 40 hours a week will do for a start, with plain wholesome food and plenty of it."

Just about that time the boy arrived from the drug store with a big bottle of NRA. Uncle Sam sniffed at it and shuddered. "Aw doc, he whines, I can't take that." "But you're gonna take it and like it." Roosevelt comes right back at him, and he tells Johnson the head nurse to start pourin' it into him.

Well he's still got a fever and he's all broken out with "Blue Eagles" but he's eatin' better than he was and the old headache is gradually workin' off and it looks like he was really gonna get well. He's been doin' a little more work each day too and that's helpin' him get his strength back. When he gets a little stronger they'll operate and remove that 18th amendment and with that out of the way the old Constitution will pull him through.

But with the fever and "code" in his head we'll have to be cautious and not over do it or he might develop pneumonia and have a serious relapse. NRA is a great tonic but we'll have to mix a little common sense with each dose.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma

Henry T. Ewald, President of Campbell-Ewald Company, Advertising Counsel for General Motors and other large corporations, says:

"There is plenty of latent purchasing power in this country, once we get it rolling—and that is one thing that the administration at Washington is accomplishing even beyond expectation.

"President Roosevelt and his aggressive reconstruction policies have definitely removed the shackles of fear that have held us helpless during the past few years. Confidence is coming back. We are looking into the future with renewed faith. The National Industrial Recovery Act is stimulating employment. People who have been idle for months are getting back on the payrolls.

"Commodity prices are advancing so that industry and commerce may make a profit on what is produced and sold. This in turn makes possible an increase in wages and salaries.

"And as these evidences of returning prosperity materialize, fear for the future is eliminated. Money that has been hoarded for months and years comes back into circulation—and as inevitably as day follows night, good times return.

"Above all other people in the world, we Americans have come to appreciate, and to demand, as our normal heritage the comforts and conveniences of life. The restrictions of the last few years have irked us beyond reason. We are accustomed to make money—and to spend it. We like to spend, and just now with the piled up needs of three lean years confronting us, we are going to spend.

"Industry is already feeling the influence of returning ability to buy. Increased merchandising and advertising plans are being developed and put into operation. Sales organizations are increasing their activities. Newspapers and other publications are feeling the effect of increased advertising lineage. The ball is rolling. And, before we know it, the depression and all its distress will be merely one of those things we like to talk about when we are in a reminiscent mood."

J. W. Hanson, Editor of The New Smyrna (Fla.) Daily News, says:

"The trouble with the spasmodic advertiser is that he believes that it reaches farther than it actually does. He often has the notion that three or four good ads a year are going to stamp upon the mind of every buyer the fact that he has goods of good quality and at right prices in a way that that impression will never wear off.

"But human minds are not that way; they are easy to divert from one thing to another by an honest and attractive appeal through the medium of newspaper advertising, unless the impression has been made over a period of many years.

"Advertising affects the mind of a buyer in much the same manner as a stream of water on a rock. If the rock had the sense to know, it would realize it the first itme a drop of water fell upon it, but it takes millions of years to wear an impression in the rock that will last.

"SPASMODIC ADVERTISING ONLY MOISTENS THE MIND; CONSTANT ADVERTISING FROM DAY TO DAY AND FROM YEAR TO YEAR WEARS AN IMPRESSION THAT LIVES AS LONG AS THE IMPRESSION IN THE ROCK."

State Press Comment

NOTHING "VOLUNTARY" ABOUT IT.

The National Recovery Act, it is well to remember, is not a "volunteer" proposition. It is true that many thousands of the country's business concerns and industrial organizations have hurried in their "volunteer" agreements to give a hundred percent co-operation to the provisions of the act. It is true, too, that thousands of individuals have "volunteered" for the recovery campaign with no thought of what would happen to them if they didn't. But the Act has teeth!

When a business concern must either conform to the rules of the National Recovery Act or face boycott and, in consequence, complete destruction of his business, his "volunteering" is of a sort that may not be much different from compulsory submission to a draft. Whatever his personal views on the subject, the man who wishes to stay in business must recognize his employment plans, his working hours, the wages he pays, and obtain an N.R.A. emblem to protect him from a boycott.

The Recovery Act provides for a $500 fine and six months imprisonment which may be applied to a merchant, or other business or trade, advertising the N.R.A. insignia when he has not complied, and does not intend to comply, with the President's agreement. Hence after the merchant has "volunteered" as a worker in the National Recovery army, he must watch his step and not violate any of the requirements of the agreements he has signed.

It is a great experiment. Men of broad vision, men who have studied the nation's problem, men who love their country and want to hasten the return of national prosperity—those men tell us that this N. R. A. movement is to work near-miracles in the hastening of prosperity's coming. An American citizen of the right sort today, throws all his strength and enthusiasm into the ranks of the N.R.A. and—hopes for the best—Melbourne Times.

WILL MEET OPPOSITION.

The Roosevelt plans for a national attack upon the forces of depression will meet some opposition. The public may expect that. At the present time there is little admitted hostility. The enemies of the plan praise the President's purpose, admit the necessity for something new, and then proceed to pick out here and there what they say are impossible features of the "new deal."

The general public may expect, sooner or later, to see a large number of the wealthy industrialists and big-shot financiers slyly doing what they can to prevent the successful working out of the industrial program. The reason for the opposition may be partly sincere, but at the bottom it comes from the conviction that if it succeeds the days of extra good pickings are going.

Here's an example. The Federal Railroad Coordinator, Joseph B. Eastman, recently told the big executives of railroads that if they expected federal aid their huge salaries would have to be trimmed. One railroad needing assistance was paying its head man considerably more than a hundred thousand dollars a year—and he was failing to make his enterprise pay enough to meet its interest charges!

The railroad executives are no worse than the average run of humanity. The public, or at least a good part of it, hasn't forgotten that when the government took over the railroads during the war that it didn't receive quite all the co-operation that it should have, because these "big dogs" in the transportation business didn't care about government operation, with very little regulation, and less protection of the public's rights, would restore the old days of pillage and profits.

The industrialists and financiers were scared pretty badly during February and March. They are still unable to say how the country's affairs can be put in proper shape any better than by the Roosevelt program. They have no other plan to suggest. But, just watch and wait; when things get a little better, then these boys will be ready to take charge again, and will want to run their little industries just like they did—and bring about another depression and collapse about ten years later.

The average public citizen can't do better than to subscribe wholeheartedly to the Roosevelt program. It has the interest of the entire nation at heart. Mistakes may be made here and there; injustices may even take place once in a while; but, support the program as a whole. These little errors and miscalculations can all be ironed out and adjusted in the course of time.—Quincy Times.

Mrs. Dora Davis Pays Official Visit

Mrs. Dora Davis of Palatka, state president of the Rebekahs paid her official visit to Eleanor Seaverns Rebekah lodge No. 65 Monday, at which time a school of instruction was conducted by Mrs. Davis.

Members of the local lodge had made elaborate preparations for Mrs. Davis' visit, the hall being decorated in her official color, orchid. To achieve this color motif, quantities of wisteria were entwined with ferns about the pillars in the club room, and bouquets of the same flower were arranged about the rooms. Officers of the local lodge were dressed in white with capes and caps in the chosen color.

The school of instruction opened at 10 a. m. with adjournment at noon for the serving of a delicious lunch in the club rooms in the Brickell building. After another session in the afternoon the members again adjourned for a recess during which time dinner was served by members of the Eleanor Seaverns lodge.

The regular meeting was conducted in the evening, Miss Francis Brown presenting the honor guest, Mrs. Davis, with a handsome pine needle tray, accompanied by a huge arm boquet of roses. Miss Brown was dressed in a dainty old fashioned costume, and entertained the guests with several solo dances.

There were about 75 guests in attendance during the day, representatives from Wauchula, Fort Meade, Winter Haven, and Lake Wales being present.

Tree Planting Season Defined

The forest tree planting season in Florida promises to be a busy one according to Forest Ranger D. J. Weddell, in charge of the State nursery at Raiford. Many orders for trees have already been filled and all sorts of inquiries are being received.

The planting season for forest tree seedlings, such as, slash and longleaf pines, is from December 15 to February 15, although favorable weather may extend the period to the first of March.

According to Ranger Weddell, there may be brief intervals during the planting season when planting should not be done. When a seedling is removed from the nursery bed to be transplanted growth is temporarily interrupted. If the ground is frozen when the seedling is planted, growth is [illegible] to landowners desiring trees for reforestation purposes at $1.00 per thousand.

The public is invited to visit the nursery at any time. Inquiries regarding seedlings should be addressed to the Florida Forest Service, Tallahassee, or to D. J. Weddell, forest ranger, Raiford.

Sunday School Lesson

FOR AUGUST 27, 1933.

SUBJECT: Saul — Israel's first king.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice."—1 Samuel 15:22.

LESSON TEXT: 1 Samuel 15:13-26.

TIME OF LESSON: About 1030 B. C.

In last Sunday's lesson Samuel said to Israel, I have made a king over you. In 1 Samuel 7, verse 15 we read, "And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life." In chapter 8, verses 1, 3, 4 and 5, this is recorded. "And it came to pass when Samuel was old that he made his sons Judges over Israel—Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah, and said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations." Samuel was displeased and prayed unto the Lord. "And the Lord said unto Samuel, hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for they have not rejected thee, but they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them."

Then Samuel said to the people, "This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons and appoint them for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots—to ear his ground, and to reap his harvests, and to make his instruments of war, and his chariots. And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers. And he will take your fields, and your vinyards, and your olive yards—and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth—and give to his officers, and to his servants. And he will take your men servants, and your maid servants, and goodliest young men—and put them to his work. He will take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in that day because of your king—and the Lord will not hear you—and they said, Nay; but we will have a king over us."

Saul, the son of Kish, was sent by his father, with a servant, to find some of his lost property. After much travel and search they came to a city where Samuel lived and as they went they found young maidens going out to draw water and said unto them, Is the Seer here? And they answered them, He is [illegible] up for about this time ye shall find him."

Saul and the servant found Samuel to whom the Lord had revealed that Saul was to be anointed and made king. Samuel entertained Saul that night and the next morning quietly anointed him to be king.

Then Samuel called the people together at Mizpah, a high hill about five miles north of Jerusalem, called "The watch tower," for the purpose of selecting a king by lot, and it fell upon Saul, the son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin. And Saul was declared king.

At first he was not acknowledged to be king by all the people, but after he had gained several battles for the Israelites they assembled at Gilgal and confirmed Saul as king of all Israel. When Saul had been king about 25 years the Lord sent him to destroy the Amalekites who had long persecuted the Israelites, saying to Saul, "Go now and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling ox, and sheep, camel and ass."

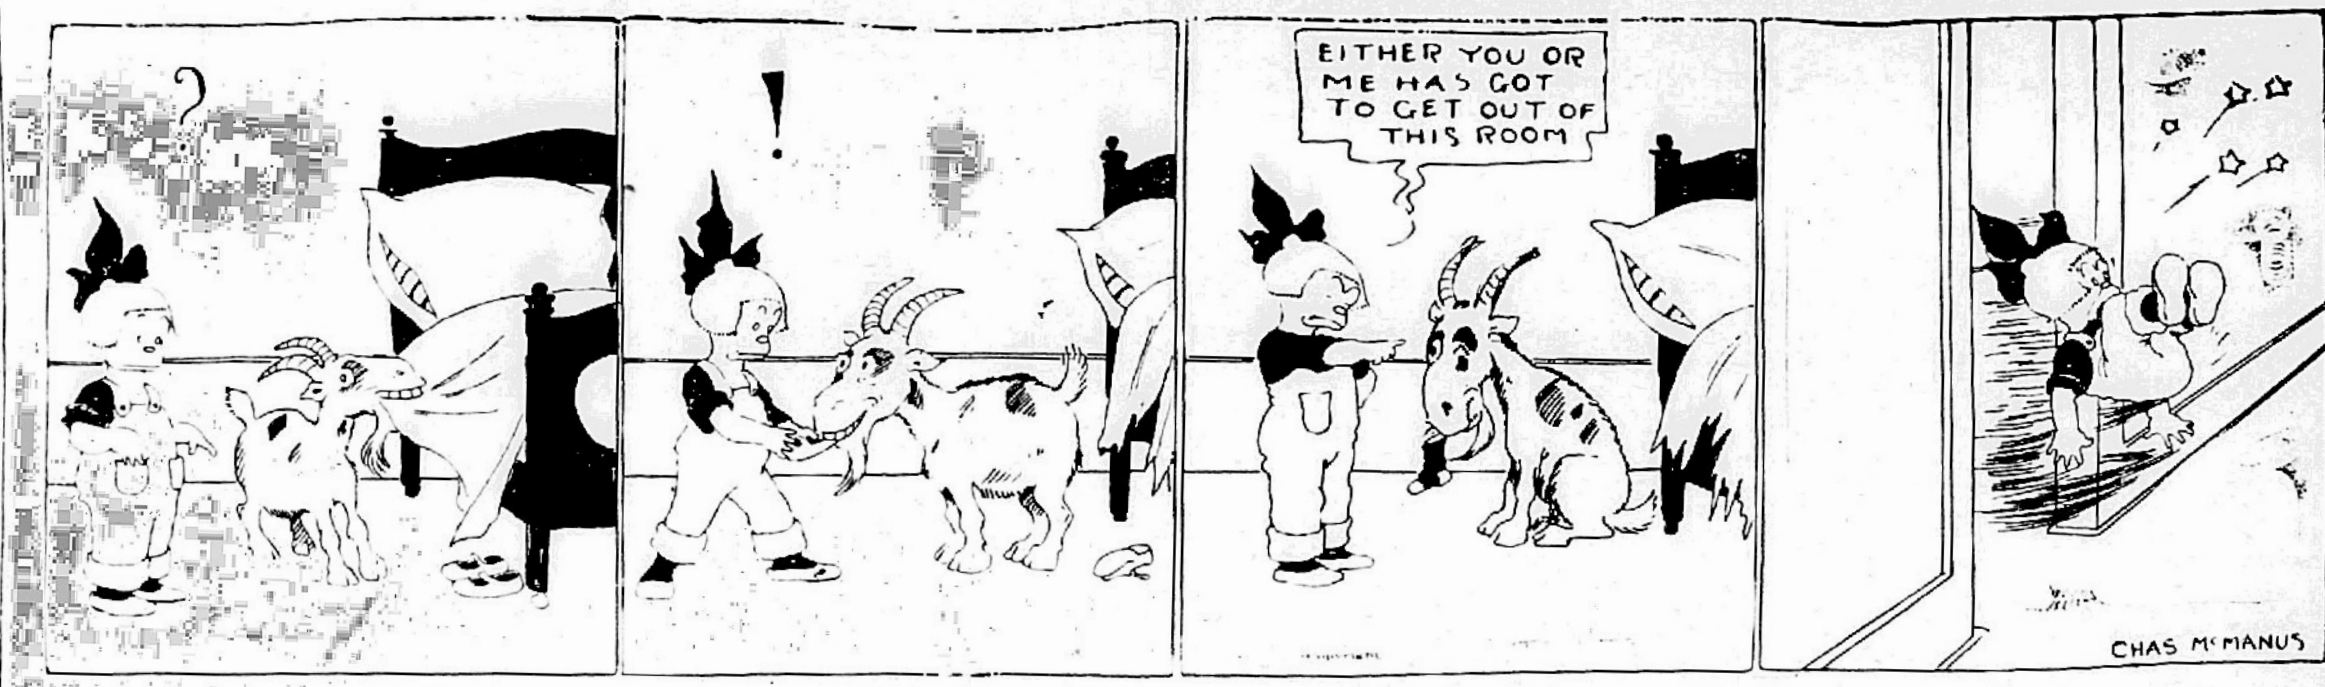

Saul gathered an army of 240,000 and (1 Sam. 15:7) "Smote the Amalekites from Havilah—and he took Agag the king—alive and utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword." And they "spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the Oxen—fatlings, and the lambs."

In verse 15 the Lord said, "It repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king: for he is turned back from following me." Samuel met Saul at Gilgal and said, "The Lord anointed thee king over Israel and the Lord sent thee on a journey—wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord—and Saul said unto Samuel—I have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites. But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things that should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God in Gilgal. And Samuel said, hath the Lord as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of lambs.—Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king. And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: because I heard the people, and obeyed their voices. I pray thee, pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the Lord. And Samuel said unto Saul I will not return with thee: for thou hast rejected the word of the Lord."

U. S. TO BUY 4 MILLION PIGS

Emergency Plan To Save Hog Growers To Be Handled By County Agents

Gainesville, Aug. 23.—The nation's hog industry has been brought under the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and close to two billion pounds of potential pork will be taken off the market in the next few months, according to a wire received at the Agricultural Extension Service here.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced the plan Friday afternoon and promised immediate operation. He said the plan was designed to meet an immediate emergency and should not be confused with a permanent program. It is aimed not simply to raise hog prices, but to prevent them from going still lower under stressed conditions.

The plan includes premium buying by the government of spring pigs under 100 pounds at regular market at the following prices: Pigs weighing from 25 to 30 pounds will bring $9.50 per hundred pounds, and for each five pounds jump in weight they will bring 25 cents per hundred pounds less, down to the minimum of $6 per hundred pounds for pigs weighing from 95 to 100 pounds. The plan also includes premium buying of piggy sows at the daily market price for packer sows plus $4 per head without dockage, such sows subject to inspection, and they must be ready to farrow in three weeks and weigh a minimum of 275 pounds.

The plan is expected to involve four million pigs and about one million sows. Packers will handle the hogs at cost. Some of the best pork will be processed and sold to federal relief agencies at cost, and the rest will be tanked, therefore not competing on the market. A processing tax on all hogs will be levied to meet the costs of the plan.

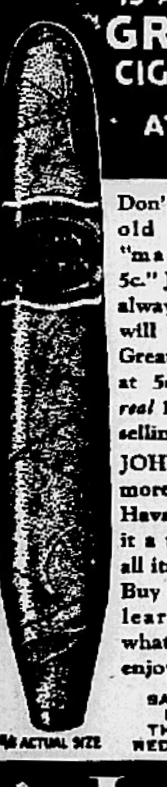

Secretary Wallace urged that there was no need to rush hogs to market immediately because prices will not lower during the entire buying period which he said will begin very shortly and last until about the first of October.

Plans for handling the plan in Florida through the county agents are being worked out and will be announced in the near future, A. P. Spencer, county agent leader, said.

Illegal To Reprint Government Checks

Gainesville, Aug. 23.—Checks paid to farmers by the government for reducing acreage are not to be duplicated in the public press, according to a wire received here from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The Treasury Department learned that some sections were considering such use in publicity campaigns, and quickly informed the authorities that any reproduction of such checks would be contrary to the law and would lead to serious embarrassment.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

Profits! Industry has been going along for three and one-half years practically without them. This month there has been a turn. Companies which have been running constantly in the red are furnishing a market for black ink. Investors who have become used to going without dividends are looking forward to the reappearance of quarterly or semi-annual checks.

Here is how improved business is reflected in the baalnce sheets of some specific large companies:

Chrysler Corporation — In the June quarter, net equaled $1.80 a share, totaling $2,310,000. This is within 23 percent of the company's record, achieved in the booming third quarter of 1928.

U. S. Steel—Twelve months ago it reported an operating loss of more than $3,000,000. In the last three months it had a profit of $4,880,000.

General Motors — Last year it had second-quarter profits of 7c a share; this year it reported a net of 90c per share.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol—Profits in first half of 1932 came to $32,000; same period in 1933, $229,000.

All businesses haven't had an equally happy quarter or half-year. But the general trend of profits is definitely upward. Most important of all is sharp improvement in the earnings of small businesses whose fortunes don't constitute headline news. They represent the bulk of American capital investment, and their position is a great deal more solid than it was even a month or two ago.

There is a black spot in the industrial outlook — retail trade, which is still in an extremely depressed state. Best fact of all is that the upturn has been in progress for four months without a setback. The most stable barometers —car loadings, electric power, steel output — indicate continued improvement. During June there was an 18 percent increase in manhours worked in manufacturing plants, as compared with May. Wage totals showed a 10 percent jump, while cost of living went up less than one percent. So far, purchasing power is advancing much more rapidly than prices. Welfare agencies in most cities report that requests for relief are well below former levels. A remarkable feature of recovery is that improvement has been largely apparent in heavy industries. According to the Federal Reserve Board, this is the first time that a pick-up has not been almost wholly confined to industries producing nondurable goods.

The Administration has one major worry now—the poor results of the farm bill. The mortgage situation is more tense than it was, and it is apparent that present legislation is either misdirected or inadequate. All observers forecast that the act will be given a thorough overhauling when Congress meets again.

A few months ago the most talked-about subject of them all was inflation. Then it practically dropped out of the day's news. The President had been given the powers he wanted, and nothing drastic happened. It looked as if they wouldn't be used after all.

Now inflation is preparing to take its place in the headlines again. The Administration's desire for a "managed dollar" has not been abated; it was simply shelved for a time while other and more pressing matters were being handled. A managed dollar is one which, in terms of buying power, does not deviate in value; it will buy as many eggs, automobiles, suits of clothes and what-not one year as the next. Our present kind of dollar is constantly deviating. Where its buying power, on the basis of a fixed normal, was 60 or 70 cents at the height of the boom, it rose to $1.50 at the low in commodity prices we reached last summer and fall.

The President has two courses open in inflating the currency. Most obvious course is to lower the gold content of each dollar. Then by varying it from time to time, the dollar will theoretically possess a constant value, and will be immune to important variations. Another course is to order the Federal Reserve to buy large blocks of government securities in the open market, thus expanding the Federal credit. This would not create a stable dollar; it would, however, be tremendously helpful in providing a market for new Treasury securities.

Opponents of inflation say that the managed dollar is a golden dream which is impossible of realization, and point to the disastrous effects of extreme inflation in Germany and elsewhere. Administration spokesmen say that miscarriage of a plan doesn't necessarily mean the plan is wrong. The public, confused by technicalities, is simply in a waiting mood.

Man's Farthest Up and Down on Record

Whitefly Abundant On Citrus; Checked By Friendly Fungi

Gainesville, Aug. 24.—Whiteflies on citrus are getting unusually abundant in many sections and are causing the trees to turn black with sooty mold. Growers whose trees are thus infested should lose no time in applying Red Aschersonia, the friendly fungus which has proven so effective in reducing whitefly injury, says Dr. E. W. Berger, entomologist with the State Plant Board here.

August and early September are still good times for applying this fungus. The Plant Board still has some nice cultures available for distribution. They can be had for the cost of production, which is one dollar per culture. A culture consists of the amount of fungus that can be grown in a wide-mouth pint bottle and is sufficient for treating an acre of whitefly infested trees.

Dr. Berger reports that owners of some of the largest citrus plantings in the state regularly obtain and apply this fungus.

Everybody seems to notice spots on a vest except the man who's wearing the vest.

Four Fine Film Features Booked For New Circle

Manager Charlie Morrison of the New Circle, "Sebring's Friendly Theatre" in anouncing his bookings for the next 10 days, is happy over the fact that, as he nears his second anniversary in the theatre business in this section, he is still able to present worth-while attractions to his patrons. Take, for instance, his program for the next period of dating: "Moonlight and Pretzels," said to be one of the best musicals yet made, holds forth as the current attraction through Saturday, with matinee on that day, at 3:30. Although the cast is not so very well known, each member is a stage, radio or screen personality of note and all do splendid work in one of the season's finest bits of entertainment.

Sunday and Monday, with matinee Sunday at 3:30, Fay Wray and Gene Raymond will be seen in "Ann Carver's Profession," a sweet, appealing and dramatic picture sure to please the most fastidious of film fans. Bebe Daniels, with Sidney Blackmer and Randolph Scott, will be featured Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Cocktail Hour," reviews of which state that it is one of the best comedy-dramas of the high-class, sophisticated type. It is well worth seeing.

Charlie's second anniversary attraction scheduled for the last of next week, will be featured by the showing of "Whoopee," starring Eddie Cantor. This film, though a re-issue, has broken house records all over the country and is, without a doubt, the best thing Cantor ever made. It has everything that a $6.00 Broadway musical show has and more and despite the fact that it costs Morrison plenty in the way of film rental, will undoubtedly prove a great attraction and will help him celebrate his anniversary not by making, but by playing, "Whoopee." Splendid short subjects will be shown on each program.

Nationwide Checkup To Start August 28

Washington, Aug. 23.—To ascertion accurately the status of the Blue Eagle, famed insignia of the National Recovery Administration, in every community in the country, local committees of voluntary workers will begin a canvass on Monday, August 28. Men and women in thousands of towns and cities were drafted by General Johnson, and for the past few weeks they have been quietly perfecting local organizations to secure the hearty and prompt co-operation of consumers and employers alike to lift buying power through reemployment. All employers of every grade and size will be urged by their customers and neighbors to aid in restoring normal business and living conditions by complying immediately with the President's emergency reemployment program and flying the emblem which is a safeguard against the coming of a fourth successive harrowing winter of discontent and misery.

C. F. Horner, in charge of organization, said: "To local committees has been checked up squarely the responsibility of securing 100 percent compliance in each community. Every day until the drive starts should see intense activity in giving information concerning the purposes to be accomplished. Local committees should be enlisting their workers to be thoroughly prepared. They will not fail to induce every consumer as well as employer to sign up and provide themselves with the insignia. Members in charge of speakers' bureaus should provide able men and women to address all special and scheduled meetings." Washington headquarters is extremely anxious to hear without delay from committees which have not responded definitely to appeals for prompt action.

Government May Buy Forest Lands In State of Florida

Tallahassee, Aug. 23.—(INS)— William ... representative of Florida's Agricultural and Industrial Relief Board returned from the national capitol this week to make his report to the governor and Board of State Institutions.

Florida, in the opinion of Mr. Wilson, stands an excellent chance of securing several additional civilian conservation camps and indications are that the personnel of camps already established in the state will be increased possibly 100 percent.

Wilson stated that President Roosevelt has authorized the purchase of $20,000,000 worth of additional Federal Forest lands in the southeast and two Florida tracts are being considered.

Only Small Area Burned of Lands That Are Protected

Of the 1,146,985 acres of Florida's private forest land now being protected from uncontrolled fires, only 3.6 percent was burned during the twelve months prior to July 1, report the Florida Forest Service officials.
