FINAL MEETING OF P. T. A. FOR YEAR TUESDAY

Excellent Exhibit By Members of Home Economic Class Was Enjoyed

An exhibit and display of the work done by the home economic department of the high school featured the last meeting of the Avon Park P. T. A. held Tuesday afternoon. The exhibit was divided in two parts, the first was staged in the auditorium where dresses were modeled and the second in the home economic rooms where handiwork was on display.

Following the exhibit in the auditorium the regular business meeting was held. The annual reports were given showing the excellent work done by the children's committee with Mrs. E. P. Loomis in charge. A very fine financial report was rendered and the financial chairman, Mrs. C. E. Lanier, gave a special vote of thanks. The association also expressed their appreciation of the different civic organizations who have so generously helped in the child welfare work.

Officers for the new year were inducted into office, Mrs. W. C. Touchette being elected president. The installation. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Fred Patterson; vice president, Mrs. E. G. Todd; secretary, Mrs. Earl Hart; historian, Mrs. S. J. Pendleton.

In the exhibit held in the auditorium, each girl modeled the dress she had made in class. Miss Barbara Betts introduced each girl and gave the total cost of her dress. The dresses ranging from $1.00 to $5.00 and were very attractive and inexpensive.

Miss Rhoda Thomas made a short talk and presented the awards on the stage to the winners of the dress making, cake baking, and dress making contests. The winners were: Faye Gordon, first; Dorothy McNicholas, second; Susan Lovett, third. The judges were: Mrs. C. P. Thayer, Mrs. C. D. Nolan and Miss Charlie Crabtree.

The cake ribbons were given to: Alice Hardin, first; Carolyn Booth, second and Margaret Loomis. A gold letter honor award which is given to the girl who is outstanding in her work, her attitude, her behavior at all times at home and in public places and lives the life of a model home economics girl, was awarded to Susan Lovett, niece of Mrs. Jack Witt.

A tea was held later. The young ladies assisting Miss Thomas were lovely in their dresses and pretty costumes. They had made the highest averages for the year and were: Misses Carmen Booth, Doreen Booth, Evelyn Martin, Jane Hart, Irene Dyer, Dorothy Hughes, Merle Graham, Barbara Betts, Frances Cloud, Susan Lovett and Faye Gordon. The honor girl, Miss Susan Lovett, wore a long red and white organdy dress with a corsage of red carnations and received with Miss Thomas.

In the two home economics rooms were on display dresses made by the girls, undergarments, luncheon sets of dyed socks, pillows, flower arrangements, a correctly set table, beautiful silverware, with detection soap wrappers, contest posters depicting home life, leisure time, correct colors, table service and the children's charter were the display.

In the food laboratory were the cakes the girls made for the contest. The home project records were on display in this room. These projects were recently judged by the state supervisor, Miss Friesen, as the best in the state and the girls in the high schools in the state next year for observation in the home economics departments. An interesting poster in this room showed a grocery order menu for a family of five for $7.00 a week.

Punch and cakes which were made and decorated by the girls were served at the end of the hall which was decorated with fern and flowers. Miss Millie Pearson and Miss Eleanor Bryant also assisted at the tea.

The rooms winning the regular monthly prizes which are awarded to the rooms in which the largest percentage of parents present at the meeting were Miss Adams' section of the third grade in the primary department and the ninth grade in the high school.

CAMPAIGN STARTED AGAINST SCREW WORM

Bob Twitty Appointed Supervisor of Educational Campaign Here

R. B. Twitty has been appointed supervisor of the Federal educational program on control of the screw worm fly in Highlands and Glades counties which is part of a state-wide program inaugurated by the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine.

Mr. Twitty will divide his time between the two counties and he will be available every Saturday at the court house in Sebring to put out supplies and information on combating the pest.

Eight district and 35 county or locally supervisors, employed by the bureau to control the program in Florida, attended a school of instruction at the Florida College of Agriculture from May 30 through June 1 before they began their activities in their respective sections.

The agents will hold meetings and demonstrations on control and treatment of the screw worm. The bureau will furnish pine tar oil and benzol to livestock men who need these materials.

Applications for assistance in fighting the screw worm fly must be made to the State Screw Worm Control Committee, as the bureau considers the agencies the best to handle on all applications. The committee, organized several weeks ago to enable Florida to apply for a portion of a $400,000 Congressional appropriation to fight the pest in several Southern states, is composed of Dr. Wilton Newell, director of the Florida Experiment Station, chairman; Dr. J. V. Knapp, state veterinarian, Tallahassee; Nathan Mayo, state agricultural commissioner, Tallahassee; and J. M. Mayo, president of the Florida Cattlemen's Association, Davenport; A. F. Weaver, vice president of the association, Gainesville; and W. L. Koon, chairman of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, Punta Gorda.

Each application should contain estimates of the number of all types of livestock, extent of infestation, and an explanation of the manner in which the county will co-operate financially and in other ways. Applications must be made by county commissioners or their representatives.

The bureau will not pay transportation for benzol and pine tar from principal shipping points in the state or from central points in the counties. It will furnish hand trucks and material for construction of chutes and treating pens.

Materials for treating infested livestock will be shipped to central points in co-operating counties in 15-gallon drums, thence to be distributed to farmers needing them. Farmers must furnish their own containers.

W. G. Bruce is director of the program in Florida and his headquarters are at Gainesville.

Oddfellows Elected Officers Last Week

On Thursday last week Avon Park Oddfellows elected J. M. Young to the office of Noble Grand, H. S. Spurlock, Vice Grand and Alton Elder, Secretary. They will fill the offices for the next year. The installation ceremony is expected to take place the first meeting in July.

FIRST MEETING TAX ADJUSTMENT BOARD

Nearly $8,000 In Taxes Will Be Collected By Adjustments

As a result of the law passed by the legislature creating a tax adjustment board approximately $7,687 will be collected on delinquent and current taxes in Highlands county within the next few days on 52 pieces of property passed on by the board at their first meeting Wednesday of this week.

The board consists of the board of county commissioners with A. F. Spooner as chairman, and Assessors Cyril Bullock and Clerk of Court W. Z. Carson acting in an advisory capacity to the board. Mr. Carson also acts as clerk. A short session was held Tuesday afternoon following a meeting of the board of county commissioners, and the policies to be followed were discussed at length, citizens and taxpayers present joining in the discussion.

The argument was advanced that making a reduction in taxes would be putting a premium on delinquency. It was admitted that this is true, but one member of the board pointed out that less the delinquent property was put back on the rolls the property owner who is in the habit of paying his taxes would be paying a higher rate of tax next year and due to other laws that have been passed by the legislature there would be little chance of collecting any more of the current taxes and no delinquent taxes would be paid unless some inducement was given.

One citizen present pointed out that in the past the owners of large acreage had been able to compound taxes, but now enough was involved to justify them in going to Tallahassee to present their claim, but this is the first time in 15 years that such a thing has been given the same opportunity.

The board first considered making the same reduction on all property but finally decided that the amount of each case should be considered separately with the result that the first application which was made by C. W. Nollman for the city of Sebring asking a reduction on the taxes on the municipal airport was settled on the basis of 10 percent.

Although the settlement or partial settlement of the school finance problem was perhaps the major issue before the board, a number of other vital issues were tackled, some successfully and others without a satisfactory solution.

Taxpayers had hoped that the legislature would abolish the six mill state ad valorem property tax, but the repeal of the 1929 tax foreclosure law and other tax practices has blocked in the way of the repeal and because the future of the chain-store tax bill is uncertain.

Automobile license tags remain a problem. The governor's request for a reduction to a five and ten cent schedule. Here again the demand of the schools for more money was a factor.

The applications for adjustment, made in writing and blank forms which may be obtained at the various tax adjustment agencies in Sebring and from the clerk of the board.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF LEGISLATURE SLIGHT

Many Bills Killed: School Situation Still Unknown
Quantity

By HOWARD W. HARTLEY,
(P. S. S. Staff Correspondent)

Tallahassee, June 6. — (FNS) — The 1935 session of the Florida legislature closed with a record of mingled accomplishment and muffed opportunities but marked in its dying hours by the winning of a partial victory by the state's public schools in a struggle for an annual appropriation of $10,500,000, a budget based on an 8000 teacher unit for a minimum eight months term.

Under the terms of a parity settlement of the general school appropriation bill, sums up to $2,500,000 will be paid to the schools from the state treasury if the chain-store tax bill is held invalid in what appears to be a certain contest before the courts.

The schools also will receive from the state for the fiscal year approximately $5,000,000. So the parity clause guarantees a minimum school budget of $7,500,000, or exactly $2,000 per pupil. The schools received last year. Furthermore, if the chain-store tax bill is knocked out and the schools fall back on the 10 percent reduction, they will be the first time in Florida's history that education is financed from the state's general revenue.

Although the settlement or partial settlement of the school finance problem was perhaps the major issue before the legislature, a number of other vital issues were tackled, some successfully and others without a satisfactory solution.

Taxpayers had hoped that the legislature would abolish the six mill state ad valorem property tax, but the repeal of the 1929 tax foreclosure law and other tax practices has blocked in the way of the repeal and because the future of the chain-store tax bill is uncertain.

The applications for adjustment, made in writing and blank forms which may be obtained at the various tax adjustment agencies in Sebring and from the clerk of the board.

SURVEYOR REPORTS ON STOKPOGA ROAD

County Will Attempt To Get Federal Funds For Road

Highlands county commissioner at their meeting Tuesday held G. A. Harper, Avon Park engineer, explain the preliminary survey work and the proposed road around the south end of Lake Istokpoga. Harper submitted maps he had prepared and after some discussion the board decided to obtain rights of way from the property owners affected before proceeding with the road.

When the necessary rights of way are obtained the proposal will be developed and prepared for submission to federal authorities to get it approved as a FWA project if possible.

County Agent Louis Altemeyer reported the screw worm is getting bad in Highlands county and especially in the Gravelly and Istokpoga areas. He said that few cattle die from the pest, most of them survive. He also reported that the Department of Public Health as federal supervisor for the screw worm eradication work in Highlands and Oklawaha counties.

In this connection the commissioners authorized the payment of freight on three, 55-gallon drums of benzol for this county and which the federal government is donating to fight the screw worm. H. E. Keller, FERA administrator, asked the board to pay for gasoline and oil to transport 50 CCC enrollees from this county to the concentration camp, either at the Federal Farm School, or ever place was ordered. He said he hoped to get the use of school buses and the board O. K'd the payment of $25.00 for fuel.

The board received nine applications for the position of water on the county committee when working them on the roads. They recommended the appointment of John Bosman, Sebring, night school teacher, and set the salary at $65.00 per month.

The board also passed a resolution to the Department of Public Health, Finance, Commerce and the drainage district for the purpose of obtaining the present indebtedness and completing the drainage work. The resolution was passed at the suggestion of Dr. E. E. Kelly.

The commissioners were served with papers on a mandamus suit brought against the state auditor, H. E. Kelly, by the Highlands county.

The report of auditor J. D. Shilton in submitting his finding to the Finance Committee on the beginning of the audit period a total of $41,554. Receipts during the period were $21,112.96, making a total of $20,441.04 which was properly accounted for. Disbursements during the period were $22,869.30, leaving a balance on hand at the close of the audit period of $2,427.72.

Both from the standpoint of voluntary donations and candidate qualification fees, Duval led all other counties with a total toward the committee of $15,450. Leon was second with $12,070.86 with other counties trailing.

Disbursements, the bulk of which were made in connection with the 1932 campaign, totaling $22,869.30, covered salaries of office force for campaign headquarters, postage and printing, travelling expense and routine expense.

Here Is Another Good Fish Story

Last Saturday morning, R. S. Funderburk, Guy Smith, Miss Alma Harrell and other members of the Sebring and Avon Tote faculty were swimming at Highlands Lake. They noticed a fish out from shore which seemed to be a large bass. They decided to investigate and found a long fishing pole with line attached and he cast out over the lake.

It was found in the water. It was then found a 13 lb bass was reeling, deavoring to swallow a 12 inch one but couldn't quite manage the job. He was finally guided up in the fry-pot and made a tasty meal.

Baucum Badly Cut Sunday Afternoon; Boyd Pleads Guilty

Emory Baucum was badly cut about the arms and back early Sunday afternoon when attacked on his back porch by Perry Boyd. Mrs. Sam Wingard is also said to have been hit by Boyd with a knife on Baucum. The alleged assault would only to a charge of assault with intent to commit murder when brought before Judge of the Peace W. H. McCarly Tuesday morning and was bound over to the circuit court under a $7,000 bond. Company W. A. Roberts made the arrest.

Boyd is said to have acted after Baucum while the latter was playing on his back porch and after Boyd had annoyed him at the Baucum's wife. After attacking Baucum, Boyd is said to have left the scene which should not be neglected and shot into the crowd which had collected. Constable Roberts said that when he arrested Boyd, he was loaded with leaded shot gun and shot into the crowd which had collected.

Baucum was taken to the office of Dr. L. W. Chandler for treatment and it required about 30 minutes to remove the three wounds in his back and the one in his arm.

STATE DEMOCRATIC PARTY IN GOOD SHAPE

Audit Shows Executive Committee Has Cash In Treasury

Tallahassee, June 6. — (FNS) — The first official audit of the financial records and accounts of the State Democratic Executive Committee, ever made for the information of the public was released today by Chairman J. B. Hodges.

The audit which covers a period from July 31, 1932 to January 31, 1935 inclusive, discloses that the financial affairs of the committee have been handled in a business like manner with all money accounted for to the penny and shows the State Democratic Executive Committee in a sound financial condition with a cash balance on hand and no outstanding indebtedness.

The audit was made in compliance with a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Committee held July 21, 1934.

The State Democratic Executive Committee has no fixed or regular income or source of revenue. Cash receipts consist of voluntary donations and fees paid by candidates qualifying for party offices in the Democratic primaries. It is an out of fund raised from time to time.

Neither the Chairman, J. B. Hodges or Secretary, Treasurer L. B. Collins receive any salaries. The major part of the expenses incurred by the committee is in connection with and during campaigns for election of national and state officials.

The report of auditor J. D. Shilton in submitting his finding to the Finance Committee on the beginning of the audit period a total of $41,554. Receipts during the period were $21,112.96, making a total of $20,441.04 which was properly accounted for. Disbursements during the period were $22,869.30, leaving a balance on hand at the close of the audit period of $2,427.72.

COMMERCE BODY MAPS PROGRAM FOR NEW SEASON

Entertainment of Tourists Will Be Featured; Clubs To Help

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday, June 4th, a program of activities was decided upon for the coming season, designed to attract tourists and to help the Winter Visitor trade. It was felt by the committee that herein is an important office of community in which should not be neglected and that the City of Avon Park is so located and equipped as to exploit this trade to a degree not enjoyed by many of the Florida cities which are at the present time receiving far more advantages in this direction than we are.

The committee has endeavored throughout the program, to utilize to the fullest degree, the local resources which we have and the success or failure will rest with the citizens of Avon Park whether or not they will cooperate to put it into effect.

The program is as follows: Beginning about September 1st, a tourist registration shall begin with the cooperation of the hotels, restaurants and other tourist agencies. This registration shall be as complete as possible and shall be designed to disclose as much information as possible of value in providing accommodations, entertainment and facilities for the winter guests.

By registration, the local Churches, lodges, American Legion Rotary Club and other clubs shall be requested to provide information from their own membership who will call upon visitors interested in their particular activity and to provide such hospitality as the organization may be able to provide. These committees can become a very important factor in making Florida a more hospitable place in the means of creating a winter resident out of a casual tourist.

The Chamber of Commerce, through its committee, is to be appointed, but conduct a survey of existing hunting conditions, and to eliminate the further building and maintenance of this attraction. It has proposed and partly carried out a plan to provide a number of traps, which in its discretion will serve to entertain the winter guests.

It is also proposed to provide information as to fishing and hunting, register and obtain guides, promote fishing and hunting parties, and to provide for the rental of boats, tackle and bait and in general see to it that the guest interested in sport has the facilities for enjoying Florida's resources.

It shall make arrangements for golf, tennis, swimming and boating privileges on the different courses in the vicinity, repair and maintain existing courts, arrange for exhibition matches and tournaments in golf, basket ball, volleyball etc. to the extent of funds available for this purpose.

It shall also provide the same facilities for shuffleboard, roque, pool, etc., and request and other guests of this nature together with as much for juvenile recreation as its funds permit.

This program will be carried out by the Chamber as the various recreational activities, together with the tourist and road information, points of interest in the vicinity, etc. This service may be perhaps amplified by weekly bulletins mailed to the visitors.

This program has been designed to operate with a minimum expenditure of funds and with the intention to entertain the winter guests in a manner that will prolong his stay in Avon Park, and return home in the Spring as an Avon Park Booster. A satisfied guest is the best advertisement which our city can possibly obtain, and it is through him that others may be induced to visit us in the future.

The election for school trustees has come and gone and congratulations are in order. We feel sure that Earl Hartt, Raleigh Lawhon and Will Bennett will give the schools the best they have and the fact that Mr. Hartt and Mr. Lawhon were returned for another term with excellent majorities shows that the taxpayers have faith in their ability. State Press Comment

STATISTICS TELL THE TRUTH

Proponents of the Public Utility Act of 1935 which proposes to eliminate practically all gas and electric holding companies of the country by 1940, have two arguments. First, they hold that paying consumers more in return for better service and better operating utilities, disassociated from any parent company, can adequately serve the country's needs. Second, they charge that "write-ups" by the holding companies they have expelled or operating companies have inflated the consumer's power bill to outrageous limits.

Both of these claims are graphically answered in a series of charts issued by the Electric Bond and Share Company, a representative large holding company, with subsidiaries in many states. In 1934, as compared with 1933, the company's properties in Tennessee showed a net decline of 4 per cent in operating revenue. Those in Arizona declined 6.2 per cent, and similar declines, ranging from .02 to 6.4 per cent occurred in Texas, Louisiana, Minnesota, Montana and Utah.

It is obvious that, had the Bond and Share Company's properties been entirely located in these areas owners of the concern's securities would have suffered severely. More important still, the operating utilities involved, being independent, on the one hand, would have found it difficult to obtain needed funds -- and some of them might have been forced to retrench, at the expense of service.

But the Bond and Share Company also held interests in properties in Alabama, the Carolinas, Kansas, Nebraska and other states, where net increases were registered. As a result, all of its companies averaged a gain of .08 per cent for 1934 over 1933. Thus, geographical diversification protected the interest of investors and consumers alike, in that money lost by one operating concern was made up by another within the same system.

The statement of the Bond and Share Company in the matter of "write-ups" is especially impressive. These "write-ups" are usually made when a holding company assumes control of an operating company, improves its facilities, perhaps extends its operations, and otherwise makes it more valuable than before. When that is done, the holding company advances the value of the operating company.

It is claimed that this advance in value has led to the creation of false rate bases and so have increased the cost of power to the consumer. Here are the actual facts concerning Electric Bond and Share subsidiaries:

In every case, the rate of the operating utility, following the write-ups, have showed steady decreases. This can be attributed to but one thing -- the increases in operating efficiency made possible by holding company management.

The advocates of the Public Utility Act of 1935 claim and make many charges, charges and claims that are alike thoroughly and unconditionally disproved by cold, truthful statistics.

IS THE CONSTITUTION SINKING?

Congress no longer is especially interested in the Constitution and the public at large shows little interest in its future, said Representative James M. Beck in a recent address before the New York City Bar Association. He predicted that whether or not the Constitution will survive the assaults of central and Federal power, during the current depression, may well be decided in this generation.

"The great reality," Mr. Beck declared, "is that we are today a totalitarian socialist State and differ in degree, although not in kind, from governments of Germany and Italy. It is true that on rare occasions, the Supreme Court has reminded the Congress and the American people that the law is in violation of the Constitution, but such occasional decisions are merely the bubbles that rise to the surface of the waves. The fact is that our Constitutional form of government is as the Titanic was when it was struck by the iceberg -- it is sinking."

Our Constitution has suffered a like wound, but it would still be kept afloat if the captain and the crew, by which I mean the American people, were willing to defend their Constitution at all hazards and to make any sacrifice necessary for that purpose. Of that disposition, I can see no evidence."

The original objectives visualized by the framers of the Constitution, Mr. Beck declared, have been lost to sight, mainly because of the growing encroachment of Federal agencies -- legislative, judicial and executive -- upon State and individual freedom.

"Whether the comparison be just or unjust, he added, comparing industrial conditions here with regimentation in Russia, Italy and Germany, the result of the NRA which regulates the factory, and the AAA, which regulates the farm, is potential economic slavery. It destroys not merely the right of the States to their own property, but the powers but the basic freedom of the individual to engage in lawful occupation."

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

By R. M. HOFER

While driving east of San Diego recently, I overhauled and passed what seemed to be an old-time prospector in a small wagon drawn by two burros.

I stopped just ahead to buy some grape juice from a farm lady at her roadside stand.

I was ready to leave when the "prospector" drew up and stopped. On closer observation, he looked more like a dime novel hero or bad man, with all the traditional trappings, including a 45-caliber revolver hanging with the approved sag on his left hip.

This style of dress has not been the fashion for either "cowboys" or "prospectors" in the West for many years, so I concluded he was advertising a "patented" business.

"Imagine my surprise when he said to the lady, 'I'm a Federal man, a Federal prospector. I want to buy a jar of honey.' She handed it to him and said, 'Twenty-five cents, please, and one cent state sales tax.'"

"Oh, no," said he, "I don't pay that tax. I'm a Federal man, I'm tax-exempt." With that, he swaggered out, leaving the hard-working rancher's wife to pay the penny tax.

This was such a glaring case of the use of official power and privilege to escape the obligations of citizenship that I was astounded. If this patsy servant's salary -- which is paid in part by the taxes of the hard-working woman to whom he refused to pay the penny tax -- is exempt from taxes, it is bad enough; if he uses his official position to bluff his dinner off the King, he is a much worse man. In these days of exorbitant taxation, it is unjust, unfair and inhuman that any government official be granted any exemption from taxation not granted to a private citizen who pays the wages or salary of the official.

Special privileges for officialism, at public expense, must be curbed or the common citizen will become nothing but a slave to dig up money for the tax-exempt bureaucrats.

The King As A Husband

In his recent address to Parliament, King George referred to Queen Mary not as "The Queen," but as "my dear wife." It has been blessed, he said, "these five and twenty years by having my dear wife beside me."

King George is not alone the dutiful husband but the thoughtful one. At the recent Air Force dinner the King he was served with some fine strawberries from South Africa. Calling the head waiter, he asked if he might have another order to take home to the Queen. "She enjoys these special treats," he said in explanation.

Such little human traits have deepened strength in the bond which the royal pair have on the affections of the people. — Boston Post.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By RUSSELL KAY

Well, now that the legislature has "come" and "gone," maybe we ought to settle down and see what we can do about makin' it livin' -- but the chances are we won't.

Just about the time we get ready to forget about politics and see if we can make a sale or two, along comes a flock of sound-wagons and stump speakers to inform us that we don't need to think we can pick up the important and go on where we left off, because the important thing is to elect a President, a Governor and a whole slew of minor officials who get to be decided and with the limited time between now and next summer we've got to give the matter all of our time and attention.

And so the great political Merry-Go-Round is revving and running over. We spend half our time trying to decide who to vote for and the other half worrying about what they'll do after they're elected.

But it begins to look like the coming race for Governor is going to attract darn near as many candidates as there are voters. As near as I can figure out just about everybody in the House and Senate are scheduled to make the race; all cabinet officers are slated by the experts who dope out such things; at least two dozen PROMINENT citizens have been named.

I understand that nine of these candidates are all going to be elected by the American Legion, seventeen others are walkin' around with all the Baptists' votes in their pockets. On the other hand one bird tells me that his candidate has the Knights of Columbus behind him, and another says that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America is backing him.

Of course all the candidates are smeared from head to foot with Union Labels. They got 'em in their trousers and on their handbills.

While the legislature was in session, several fellows who weren't handicapped by being a member of the legislature tried to make a name for themselves by makin' around from high school to high school, makin' commencement speeches, or happenin' in at civic club luncheons and sayin' a few words.

There really ought to be a law to prevent these birds from fugatin' their way. They ought to be made to wait until they get the gun and all start at the same time.

Of course none of 'em said anything about being gubernatorial candidates, -- that wouldn't be exactly ethical right at this time. But nevertheless they are stagin' their race in the middle of the month so they won't be hard to find in case they get the call.

Some of 'em are goin' to run on THEIR record, while one or two others hope to win out by runnin' on the other fellow's. It looks to me like it would be the most promin' campaign in years and it's becomin' a question of which guy can out-promise his opponent.

But if you ask me, I think us poor sufferin' taxpayers and sovereign citizens ought to have a few months' vacation. If we could just have some kind of a closed season on politics it would be a wonderful thing. No wonder half the country is starvin' for death when instead of being 'permitted to pay some attention to our own business we are called upon to spend half our time trampin' around askin' folks to work and vote for so and so and then after we elect 'em and get that agony over with, bein' called on to help the State in their own country. Some of our Representatives or somebody else about this or that, peddlin' petitions of support or protest and endin' somebody's cousin Ezra for Postmaster.

New York, June 5, (Special) —

Over the signature of John H. Finley, Miss Martha Berry, William Allen White, and Robert E. Speer, announcement was made today of the formation of a national committee to sponsor a nationwide commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the first printed English Bible.

Dr. Finley, speaking for the Committee, stated, "On October 4, 1535 the first printed English Bible, a translation by Miles Coverdale, was issued from the press. During the four centuries since that time it has not only surpassed in circulation any other book in the world, but has profoundly influenced the lives of peoples and the ideals of governments."

"Regional, state, city, and church committees throughout the country will be selected at once under the direction of the National Committee to carry out the commemorative program. Additional information and material will be released by the committee as plans are developed and as the sub-committees are organized."

The personnel of the National Committee is as follows: James Rowland Angell, president of Yale University; Martha Berry, founder of the Berry Schools; Mrs. Calvin Coolidge; John H. Finley of the New York Times; Madame de la Moite; Frederick M. Huter, chancellor of the University of Denver; Helen Keller; Howard A. Kelly, M. D., of Rochester, Minnesota; Robert A. June 15 Named Better Housing Day

Washington May 29—With definite arrangements already made in 29 States for the purpose of making homes projects as a part of the observance of National Better Housing Day, June 15, scores of additional projects in other localities are being reported daily to the Federal Housing Administration. It is hoped that on June 15, approximately 2,000 new dwellings will be started.

National Better Housing Day has for its purpose the forcing of public attention on home building and home ownership.

Construction of these homes will get under way simultaneously and, when completed, they will be open for public inspection for a stipulated period. A great majority will be eligible for financing under terms of the mutual mortgage insurance plan established under the authority of the National Housing Act.

Local better housing committees are sponsoring the movement in various localities in co-operation with banks, lumber companies, building material dealers, newspapers, radio stations, industrial plants, and other groups. Ceremonies in many localities elaborate programs are being planned with the help of the better housing committees which are in operation in over 7,400 communities.

While the model homes started on June 15 are being inspected, the homes eventually will be sold. They will be practical and livable and of the high type of construction as to both materials and workmanship, required by the regulations governing the mutual mortgage insurance plan. No money will be advanced for model home construction by the Federal Housing Administration.

Egyptians' Homes The Greek historian, Diodorus Siculus, says that the Egyptians looked after their houses as mere places of residence in the city, for their tombs as their permanent homes.

Mrs. Coen's Pupils In Excellent Recital At High School

With the setting of a beautifully decorated stage, pretty dresses and a program arranged with perfect harmony and rendered without confusion, Mrs. J. B. Coen, Jr., presented fourteen of her girl pupils in recital at the high school auditorium Thursday night that was one of the pleasantest events of the season.

The outstanding feature noticeable in each of the performance was the precision with which the compositions were given. To this was added a tonal quality, even in the youngest of the players, that made listening a pleasure. The advanced pupils showed a fine ability to interpret their selections, the cultivation of which makes Mrs. Coen's reputation as a teacher especially notable. Her pupils in a recital, at the high school, were able to understand and to grasp the spirit as well as to master the technique of each composition they study.

Three certificates were awarded before the close of the program. The recipients being Tommy Lou Greene, Betty Touchton and Virginia Baldwin. A fourth is being held for Miss Mildred Wray upon her return from Washington, D. C.

A beautiful bouquet of roses was presented to Mrs. Coen, and after the recital congratulations were poured upon her and her charming pupils for the achievement of this truly artistic endeavor. The community is fortunate in having the Avon Park branch of The Sherwood School of Music of Chicago.

NEWS and VIEWS ON ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

For all that is written and said to the contrary, business today is as much—and perhaps more—afraid of inflation than it was two years ago when the roads of currency manipulation filled the financial sky. One indication of business' attitude is the fact that the Administration has been willing to late wage attempted to assure industrialists that inflation is not anticipated, that a sound currency will be maintained.

Secretary Morgenthau's recent speech was designed to quell internal fears as to the stability of the dollar, and to point out that the Treasury was ready willing to co-operate with other nations in achieving monetary stabilization. That represents a rather decisive change from the Administration's past stand—it will be remembered that the President "wrecked" the World Economic Conference by flatly refusing to consider stabilization.

Second event was the President's own speech before Congress in vetoing the bonus—this represented the first time that a Chief Executive has appeared before the legislative branch to explain a veto, ask that it be upheld. The President's vetoed much larger issues than the bonus in his talk—which was extremely well received, was praised by conservative newspapers which dislike most of his speeches—and pledged the Administration to oppose the promiscuous issuing of greenbacks. Keynote of all he said was monetary stability.

Even so, business is not convinced, and a good many level-headed observers can still see the ominous spectre of inflation on the horizon. Main reason is the so-called "Omnibus Banking Bill," which has passed the House, is now pending in the Senate.

Proponents and opponents of the bill agree on one thing: If it passes, the banking set-up of the nation will be almost entirely revolutionized. At the present time the power to control the flow of the country's credit and currency rests largely in the hands of the governors and directors of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks. The bill provides that this power shall be taken from these banks and given to a Federal Reserve Board whose members shall be appointed by the President. The issue, then, in the words of News-Week is this: "Should power over the controlling mechanism be placed with a Federal Reserve Board subject to political domination? Or should this power go to an independent committee—Supreme Court of Banking?"

That issue is arousing one of the bitterest verbal battles of years among experts. Administration men, such as Federal Reserve Governor Eccles, who favored the bill, feel that the political domination phase of the matter is less important than it seems, that the creation of a Federal Reserve Board is highly desirable. Opponents of the bill agree with Winchester Aldrich, head of Chase National Bank, largest commercial institution in the country, who recently said: "This is not liberalizing the Federal Reserve. It is making it into an instrument of despotic authority."

Now for the inflation possibility. According to Mr. Aldrich, it grants the power to the proposed Federal Reserve Board to alter the Federal Reserve System—an indefinite power of the kind of government securities; to fix rates of discount and interest charged by the Reserve Banks; to lower the standards fixed in law describing the quality of "paper" the Reserve Banks may issue or accept as collateral; to dilute currency; to give the banks to engage in any open-market security operations it deems advisable. Under the last provision the Board could force the banks to purchase government obligations in unlimited amounts directly from the Treasury.

It is obvious then that passage of the act would give an Administration-controlled Board unequalled powers to force credit expansion—which is nothing more or less than inflation. Under the terms of the act, the Treasury could sell new securities to the banks whenever it became pressed for funds, whether or not income tax was in the state of the currency justified their being purchased. Old-time bankers and financial commentators literally shudder when they think of the possibilities inherent in that.

It is difficult to forecast whether or not the act will pass with the features conservatives think are objectionable still in it. It seems certain, however, that the bill will be modified to some degree in the Senate, due principally to Senator Glass, who is a hard-money man from "way back, hates and fears any and all kinds of inflation, distrusts Mr. Eccles' economic view. Last year, his presidential housing construction totaled $108,000,000. This year it is expected to reach $250,000,000.

Forty per cent of the "housing market" is in 5 states—New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and California, and more than 75 per cent of prospective business is in one-third of the states. FHA estimates that a backed-up need may consist for 1,000,000 new homes.

Wallace Berry At His Greatest

Wallace Berry as the gruff, soft-hearted "non-com" of Uncle Sam's flying forces in "West Point of the Air," brings to the screen of the Avon Theatre on Sunday and Monday the same brand of thrills that shattered the box-office records throughout the country in "Hell Divers."

This thriller of the skies was made to order for Berry, giving him one of the best and most lovable roles he has ever portrayed. Not only is the picture packed with thrills, but it boasts one of the most delightful romances on record as well as one of the most touching father-and-son dramas the screen has ever seen.

Such scenes as 100 daring flyers leaping from planes in parachutes, simultaneously Berry changing from one plane to another to save his son from certain crash, hundreds of planes in unique formations and other such thrills among the clouds have had all who have seen the picture sitting on the edge of their seats.

Riding the Picture
Coming as it does at the time Berry is riding his highest wave of popularity following his phenomenal success of "Viva Villa," "West Point of the Air" bids fair to outdistance of all other Berry specials in public favor.

The supporting cast, too, wins its share of praise. Maureen O'Sullivan fresh from a distinct personal triumph in "David Copperfield," again gives a sterling performance as the heroine, the edge of stardom. Robert Young, after a year of exceptionally successful attractions, tops all his previous performances in the romantic lead opposite the charming Irish actress.

James Gleason, as the hard-boiled pal of Berry, gives the kind of performance that first made him a star of the New York stage in "Is Zat So?" Lewis Stone, Ronald Russell, Russell Hardie, Henry Wadsworth, Robert Taylor, Robert Livingston, Frank Conroy and others in the supporting cast are equally effective in their respective roles.

Rogers of Lakeland as his assistant.

J. H. C. Petteway of Lakeland will also serve as circuit judge with Judge Barker, giving this circuit two judges.

Seven Smart Shades

Ninety day divorces were legalized by another bill many think is a major accomplishment. The same bill had been voted down at the past two sessions. This time, however, it got through and Florida's recent cities may benefit therefrom.

The liquor industry, revived by the repeal of prohibition, will be governed by rigid state control under a bill that was the result of a compromise between warring factions. All vestige of state dispensary was dropped and local self-government was preserved by an amendment that retains to counties the right of final determination of license revocations.

Bill mortality was a little higher than previous sessions, and this probably was a good thing. Broadly speaking, the legislature was no more and no better than the others. Taxes remain unchanged insofar as property is concerned. But merchants will confront higher occupational licenses coupled with a gross receipts levy that was incorporated in the so-called chalmers bill.

Grand Master Kuch and Grand Secretary Frank Grant were present and following the conferring of degrees the St. Cloud Rebekahs served a very excellent supper.

Both state officials spoke and the grand master mentioned the fact there were a large number present from a distance and especially cited the Avon Park delegation.

Heading the list of accomplishments are a series of bills for the rehabilitation of Florida's $50,000,000 citrus industry. These measures were prepared by leaders of the industry and skillfully maneuvered through the legislature by an alert and aggressive group of senators and representatives.

The major bill in the list creates a state citrus council, composed of representatives of growers and shippers to determine Florida was given a new Congressional district by another major bill passed by both houses after considerable opposition had been interposed in an effort to retain boundaries of the present second district. The new district bisects the state at its center and Orlando is its hub.

Reduction in the number of judicial circuits, involving the dropping of circuit judges and state attorneys, was another accomplishment that was achieved in the face of great difficulties. The fact that any sort of reorganizing measure passed was something of a miracle since such a large percentage of the legislators are attorneys.

Scope of the honestest exemption amendment was broadened under the terms of enacted bills. Just what an effect of these measures will be on the winding of valorem tax collections is hard to determine.

Defeat of the general sales tax was another accomplishment brought about more by the pressure of public opinion than the inclinations of many legislators. The sales tax appeared a certainty from the beginning of the session right down to nearly the last day. But the voice of the people echoed in the corridors and senators and representatives, fearing support of the sales tax was equivalent to political suicide, defeated the bill that would have imposed a three percent levy for schools and county and municipal purposes.

The fact that any sort of reorganizing measure passed was something of a miracle since such a large percentage of the legislators are attorneys.

Scope of the honestest exemption amendment was broadened under the terms of enacted bills. Just what an effect of these measures will be on the winding of valorem tax collections is hard to determine.

Defeat of the general sales tax was another accomplishment brought about more by the pressure of public opinion than the inclinations of many legislators. The sales tax appeared a certainty from the beginning of the session right down to nearly the last day. But the voice of the people echoed in the corridors and senators and representatives, fearing support of the sales tax was equivalent to political suicide, defeated the bill that would have imposed a three percent levy for schools and county and municipal purposes.

Accomplishments of Legislature Slight

Heading the list of accomplishments are a series of bills for the rehabilitation of Florida's $50,000,000 citrus industry. These measures were prepared by leaders of the industry and skillfully maneuvered through the legislature by an alert and aggressive group of senators and representatives.

The major bill in the list creates a state citrus council, composed of representatives of growers and shippers to determine Florida was given a new Congressional district by another major bill passed by both houses after considerable opposition had been interposed in an effort to retain boundaries of the present second district. The new district bisects the state at its center and Orlando is its hub.

Reduction in the number of judicial circuits, involving the dropping of circuit judges and state attorneys, was another accomplishment that was achieved in the face of great difficulties. The fact that any sort of reorganizing measure passed was something of a miracle since such a large percentage of the legislators are attorneys.

Scope of the honestest exemption amendment was broadened under the terms of enacted bills. Just what an effect of these measures will be on the winding of valorem tax collections is hard to determine.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same protection that race drivers demand

KELLY PETILLO ON MAY 30, WON the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the track record and driving the entire distance at a rate of 106.24 miles per hour.

This record is an outstanding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track, without tire trouble of any kind, demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AS JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY demonstrated the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23 1/2 hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires and give you the Safety and Blowout Protection that race drivers demand.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions

1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"

3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

ANSWER No. 1—Leading university tests show Firestone High Speed Tires stop your car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires.

ANSWER No. 2—Unequaled performance records for sixteen consecutive years prove that Gum-Dipping gives you the greatest blowout protection ever known.

ANSWER No. 3—Thousands of car owners report unequalled mileage records—evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

Volume—Direct Purchasing—Straight Line Manufacturing and Efficient and Economical System of Distributing to our 500 Stores and to 30,000 Dealers, enables Firestone to give you greater values at lowest prices
