COUNCIL SEEKS TO EXCLUDE SLOT MACHINES HERE

Will Donate to County Nurse
And Airport Truck
Repairing

Slot machines, sometimes known as "one armed bandits" will be kept out of Avon Park if the city council can find a way to do so legally. That was the expression of opinion of council members at the meeting Tuesday evening and the question was turned over to City Attorney S. C. Pardee for an opinion.

After considerable argument the council agreed for the city to contribute $2.00 per week for six months towards paying the mileage covered by the county nurse who is paid by the WPA. Miss Mercer, the nurse, was present and made the request.

Holland Stebbins, county WPA director, asked for funds to repair and grease the truck being used at the airport. This request also was for considerable discussion and $25.00 was finally approved.

Council agreed to Engineer G. A. Harper to work up the project for South Highlands Avenue and for mixed in place asphalt to be used. This project has been approved for city to be used but so many objections have been raised that council agreed to the change. If the project goes through under the new basis Harper will be paid $500 but if it does not go through he will receive nothing, according to the agreement.

Council agreed to sell J. L. Wells the vacant lots on North Forrest Avenue in the rear of the theatre. It is understood that Mr. Wells will improve the lots and use them for storing and displaying used cars.

Florida Responds To Rogers National Memorial Fund Plea

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 18.—Gratifying response from every part of Florida has been the result of a Will Rogers National Memorial, said Frank B. Shuts, of Miami, state chairman, in a message to county chairman today.

Civic Clubs, theatres, banks, women's clubs and newspapers have combined to give members of the former cowboy humorist their opportunity of contribute anything up to a dollar toward a permanent memorial to the state chairman. The campaign ends Thanksgiving. In many of the counties, women's clubs have set up tables in the lobbies of theatres, banks and clubs for receiving contributions during this week and the next.

First reports indicated $275 contributed in Dade county, $50 in Marion county, $27 in Fort Pierce. Chairman Shuts today advised Captain Eddie Rickbacher, director of the Will Rogers Memorial Commission, that Florida may produce as much as $4,000. He has set a limit of $1 for each contribution.

BIG GROWER GROUPS ENDORSE AGREEMENTS

Federal Marketing Agreements Favored By Two Grower Organizations

Orlando, Nov. 20.—(FNS)—Full endorsement of a federal marketing agreement for the citrus industry was given by the board of directors of Florida Citrus Growers in session here, and Lawrence Gentile, general manager of the growers organization was authorized to sign any federal pact which he approves in behalf of the cooperative.

This action by Tree-Gold's directors comes simultaneously with the unanimous endorsement of a federal marketing agreement by the board of directors of the Florida Citrus Exchange, Inc. which places the two leading citrus producers squarely on record for an agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture.

Tree-Gold's board of directors called for an agreement at the earliest possible moment to insure growers' benefits returns for their fruit this season.

The Florida Citrus Exchange directors pointed out that Florida growers stand to lose out on valuable federal financial provisions outlined in the new AAA amendments, unless an agreement is secured.

It was stated that section 32 of the amendments to the AAA regulating exports of agricultural products, gives Florida growers a chance to secure valuable amounts of federal cash to carry on and build up their export trade in citrus fruit, but that it will be necessary for the industry to come under the provisions of this act and press its case. It will be necessary for the industry to sign up for a marketing agreement, so that the United States Department of Agriculture will have a regularly constituted body under contract with itself, with which it may deal directly, it was indicated.

Growers were urged not to neglect this opportunity to secure federal financing and aid, no time in bringing about a federal marketing pact for their own protection. Tree-Gold directors pointed out that even with the new provisions of citrus fruit in Florida, unregulated marketing can bring about frequent market glut with resulting ruinously low prices. If movement to market is regulated carefully, however, there is no more fruit than will be needed to supply a marketing agreement with the United States Secretary of Agriculture, the cooperative's directors stated.

COUNTY BOARD PASS ROAD RESOLUTION

Attempt To Get Action On Istokpoga Road Near Lake Placid

Highlands county commissioners at their meeting Tuesday, passed the following resolution regarding the road round the south end of Lake Istokpoga and asking that it be given liberal consideration as soon as possible. This action was taken at the request of Ivey Fitch, A. M. McAuley and other Lake Placid citizens.

Whereas: There has been no project in operation for some months in Lake Placid for the benefit of relief labor and

Whereas: The project embracing the road from Lake Placid around the South side of Lake Istokpoga intersecting State Road No. 59 at Plains would open up territory of untold agricultural value and

Whereas: The initiation of this project would be of great benefit, not only to the project county, but to this entire section of the State, being of great economic value in its permanent development and

Whereas: Farmers who have expended large sums of money in preparing land for cultivation, are greatly handicapped in getting their produce to market, therefore,

Be It Resolved: That we, the Board of County Commissioners, endorse this, as one of the most important projects in this section of the State and urge its liberal consideration at the earliest possible time.

The board also allowed $3.00 per week for six months towards the mileage expense of the county nurse who is paid out of county funds. They further agreed to purchase the canning equipment from the old EPA administration and which has been used at the several canning centers in the county. It was understood the county has two years in which to pay for the equipment.

NEW MOVE STARTED AGAINST 2-JOB MEN

Gainesville Attorney Starts
New Suit To Stop Legislators' Pay

Gainesville, Nov. 21.—(FNS)—Joe C. Jenkins, attorney of this city, representing M. A. Collins, Jacksonville, has instituted a new move in an effort to stop the pay of 21 members of the legislature now employed in the executive department, in the hearing of bill for officers; secondly, that injunction is not the proper remedy.

Jenkins argued the case on its merits. Robert J. Pious, assistant attorney general, in opposition to the move for injunction, ignored the merits of the case in his arguments before the court.

Mr. Pious argued first: that if the constitution is being violated, it is the duty of the attorney general's office to institute the proper remedy to require general, in opposition to the move for injunction, ignored the merits of the case in his arguments before the court.

Jenkins in a letter to the attorney general requests permission to amend his bill for injunction in his name.

In his letter, Jenkins said: "I agree with Mr. Pious that quo warranto is a remedy but insist that injunction is the proper and preferable remedy to avoid the delay and expense of filing cases against 21 members of the legislature scattered all over Florida." Jenkins also mailed the attorney general a new bill for injunction making the 21 members of the legislature parties thereto in the event such action is preferable to the attorney general.

In closing his letter, Jenkins stated: "Knowing the intense interest of thousands of taxpayers in the proposed decision on the merits, I feel confident that you will consent to bringing these actions in your name, thereby rendering the client a taxpayer, and your client, the taxpayers of Florida, every assistance possible to end once and for all this inequitable and unconstitutional control of the legislative department through appointment of legislators to jobs in the executive branch of government."

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR COMPTROLLER

Lake County Man Definitely
In Race Against Col.
J. M. Lee

Tavares, Nov. 20.—Muri E. Pace, tax assessor Lake county, prominent in the community for some time as a probable candidate for State Comptroller, made the statement here today that he would formally announce his candidacy for the office within the next few weeks.

Mr. Pace has served as tax assessor of Lake county since 1929 and immediately after taking office installed a system of assessments and records generally recognized as a model. This was done and continuing in operation without the aid of any special funds in recognition of his ability, he was twice elected president of the Tax Assessor's Association of Florida.

He was for six years chairman of the Tavares School Board. In his statement to the press here today, Mr. Pace said: "After a careful survey of the sentiment in the State, I believe that the people will demand an efficient administration of the duties of State Comptroller by one having a first hand, sympathetic understanding of the rights of the public and the troubles of the taxpayers, a disinterested attitude on the part of that office will no longer be tolerated."

"The laws of our State certainly require the executive and legislative branches of the State to take into consideration the interests of Florida's citizens, but the present attitude of the State Comptroller's office apparently have failed to recognize that duty."

"The Banking Department should not be satisfied for the purpose of obtaining information for information detrimental to the depositors and debtors of our banks. If I am elected Comptroller, and if any assets of closed banks are remaining, depositors will be consulted and taken into the confidence of the Department to the end that additional funds of theirs will not have to be spent by them to protect their interests."

"I expect to announce my candidacy early after January 1st." Mr. Pace is married and has five children. He is a member of the Baptist Church, Past Lieutenant Governor of Kiwanis, a Mason, Past Patron of the Eastern Star, an Elk, Knights of Pythias, Woodman of the World, Modern Woodmen and Royal Neighbors.

POLITICS AWAKE HERE AFTER TWO YEARS SLUMBER

Six Candidates File For Council and Two
For Mayor

Avon Park's city politics awoke from a long slumber this week as candidates filed for the city election to be held on Tuesday, December 3. Six candidates filed for councilman. They are: F. S. Jordan, Fred Smith, W. T. Hall, J. J. Pendleton, R. F. Sappington and A. McKee Elwell. The first four are members of the council at present and are seeking re-election. The other two are new comers in the political arena.

Two candidates filed for the office of mayor. The present incumbent, M. E. Corning has his hand in the ring and W. C. Beckett also filed his announcement with the city clerk.

All the candidates are well known in Avon Park and have numerous friends. Rumor has it that others may file before the dead line at noon Saturday, November 22, but there have been many rumors the past week that have proved groundless. Others have believed rumors that they do not intend to wage an active campaign. Factional differences of previous years have been buried deep and candidates are running on their own merits and those seeking re-election on their past record in office.

It is not expected there will be any political battle, most of the candidates indicating they do not intend to wage an active campaign. Factional differences of previous years have been buried deep and candidates are running on their own merits and those seeking re-election on their past record in office.

New Citrus Body Making Progress Thru Citrus Belt

WINTER HAVEN, Nov. 21.—(Special)—A united Florida to save the citrus industry and build its fortunes anew was advocated by J. R. Yearwood, general manager of the Florida Produce and Growers exchange, of this city, in addresses delivered at various points on the Sebring and Frostproof. Yearwood spoke to good-sized audiences of growers, laborers and friends of the citrus industry at both places and announced that additional meetings would be held this week. The first was held on Wednesday evening, Nov. 20, at 7:30 in Lake Wales, the second this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Lemon Fair grounds and the third this evening at 7:30 in Sebring.

Yearwood said that definite plans for the rebuilding of the citrus industry along the lines that would promote the local sale of ripe ripened citrus fruit, the organization slogan so that the present chaotic conditions might be eliminated. He pleaded for fewer laws governing all state activities and the enforcement of those retained, and declared that if all Floridians worked together they might run their own schools, adjust their taxes and get new capital into the state and promote its prosperity. He hit at the 18 different citrus selling organizations, 315 shipping organizations and 3000 different brands as a menace to the industry's future and demanded standardization of sales, shipping, growing and marketing. Other speakers were L. T. McLaughlin and D. L. Strine of this city, the former leading the new organization, WPA, and the latter speaking on the by-products possibilities for citrus.

Yearwood has announced signing a contract with the Tampa Union Terminal to pack its citrus fruit this season and they will also produce for the organization. The N. H. Vissering plant at Lake Wales was added to the string of houses with which Yearwood has contracts to pack and ship fruit for his group. This makes a total of 10 houses signed to date. J. W. The Day Before Thanksgiving

New England Thanksgiving Busy Time

THANKSGIVING day! How these words spelled days and days of work and worry for the colonial housewife! A festive holiday it was called by proclamation, observes a writer in the Boston Herald, but actually it represented a day which demanded more preparation than most any other in the year. Our old New England traditions required it—the Puritans did, so must we—was the common understanding of the day.

In days of yore grandmother would start her Thanksgiving preparation weeks in advance. The plot must be made. Of course she wouldn't serve mince pies that hadn't "ripened." They were made in quantity and put down cellar where they frequently froze to a solidly overcome only by a hot oven just before the feast.

In passing it might be well to remind you of the custom in one New England family to have three pieces of pie for breakfast on Thanksgiving morn. Mince, apple and squash were the three dictated by tradition.

Well in advance of the traditional day one would see grandmother take down the seasonal used but a few times a year, the crackers would be ground up and gradually the stuffing for the turkey was prepared—this also went down cellar to ripen. We wouldn't forget the plum pudding which was made well in advance and hung in a bag up in the attic suspended from a nail so interested mice could not approach. Then came the day before Thanksgiving. Sons were drafted to collect and crack the butternuts, walnuts, beechnuts, etc. (and more than one finger was smothered in the process). Daughters were sent to peel squash, turkeys, carrots, potatoes, sweet and white, and of course the proverbial tear-producing onions.

The turkey must be procured, killed, plucked, singed and hung up for a day before it was brought to the kitchen. Grandmother must make her famous nut bread for William ("he does like it so when he comes home"). "Sadie, you make the fudge—Alice, you make the molasses candy—Son, you make—" and so it goes. Everyone hustles, all wanting the same dish, the same stove cover, the milk's spoon, etc.

"Johnnie, Oh, Johnnie! Go down to the village and get me some more crackers—Glory me! I've run out of seasoning"—and the errands start.

These were typical New England days of preparation for the Thanksgiving feast, all of which must be executed in addition to the regular chores of making butter for market twice a week, churning the cottage cheese, collecting the eggs, etc. etc.

Then came the day—the house must be spic and span. Dozens of pictures must be dusted, the parlor must be opened up, wood brought in for the extra stove, chestnuts gathered to put on the fireplace

PLYMOUTH ROCK

BECAUSE the proprietor of a home for tourists solicited patronage on historic old Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts, he was brought before the town council of Plymouth within whose border the old rock lies. The ruling of the council was that the old rock does not belong to the town or to any private individual but to the entire country, all Americans having the same rights of ownership in this shrine.

hearth—and on went the great process of preparation. The folks came, bags and knapsacks, the new baby was chucked under the chin and an immediate retreat to the kitchen by the feminine members took place. By one-third or two the feast took place—and then the dishes. Slacks upon stacks of dishes, pots and pans (usually the turkey pan went under the sink for securing the following day).

Games, gossip, etc., occupied a brief period until time for supper, when again the kitchen staff avenged into action and made turkey sandwiches, poured the cider and cut up the pies.

As the lights were blown out it was usual to hear the womenfolk say, "Didn't we have a good time, but isn't Thanksgiving a tiresome day!"

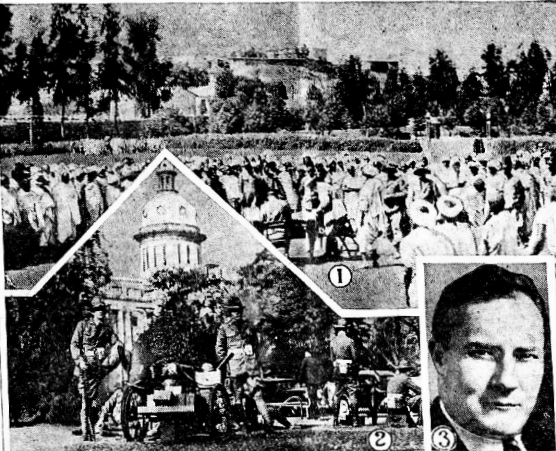

This was the Thanksgiving of yore contrasted to the modern Thanksgiving of a restful morning, a motor ride through the country or a ride "in town," a sumptuous dinner prepared by chefs who have vied with grandmother and her recipes until even she is forced to admit that she has been surpassed—a delightful matinee at the theater and an evening in the game cellar at home. What a contrast—and what a pity that grandmothers of old couldn't be here now to reap the benefits of the advance of New England family traditions!

Omens for Luck Are Still Guide

Superstition Rules Many Activities, Especially in England.

Old superstitions remain and new ones are added. When winners in the Irish Sweep were asked to say to what they attribute their good luck, a heavy percentage replied that they had a "lucky number" to thank. (The number 13 was considered both lucky and unlucky.) Others attributed their good fortune to spiders, "money spiders" particularly, and one individual believed he won because he had carried a piece of coal about with him since the dawn of 1923. One gave the credit to a fall of oak leaves upon him, and another wrote: "Last year was the first time that swallows built on my property, and my wife said immediately, 'Oh, don't disturb them, swallows bring good luck.'"

In England superstition is not confined to the countryside; it is to be found even in the center of business London. No member of the Rothschild family, for instance, will shake hands with a customer in his own bank or place of business. The Rothschilds consider it unlucky to do so.

Again, London's Irish home has eight of its pillars ornamented and one is white. The idea, derived from the ancient Greeks, is that God cannot achieve perfection and that man therefore could not attempt it.

Practically every member of the London Stock exchange carries a mascot, the equivalent favored is a crooked coin, a slipper for choice. But for the crooked coin to bring luck it must have been given to you. You must not have received it in change.

For the last 70 years, a well-known diamond merchant asserts, the fortune of his firm has been influenced by a large and beautiful sapphire. This merchant is K. D. Parikh of Antwerp and Bombay, and the sapphire, which came from the Kutch mine, was bought by his grand father 40 years ago.

The gem is named "Shanti," which means "Luck Bringer." It is kept in a special safe, on New Year's day. Once it was sold and immediately misfortune befell the firm. It was bought back, and all went well.

"Shanti," which originally cost $10,000, has gained so much in a reputation that $50,000 was offered for it but being refused. The offer was rejected.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Sugar Causes Brilliant Leaf Colors of Autumn

It's not an early frost, as commonly supposed, that produces the most colorful autumn leaves, says the United States Forest Service. It's a late frost—and the sugar in the leaf—that gives us the brilliant colors. Just the right combination of temperature and moisture is needed. The best colors come when the thermometer doesn't quite reach the freezing point for several weeks during the latter part of September and through October.

Siliciculturists explain that it is the leaves' last day of cell-formation at the base of the leaf, which ultimately becomes the leaf and when it drops off, forms a scar. If frost doesn't arrive too soon, this layer forms early and quickly. It holds more sugar in the leaf and the sweet sap causes the brilliant reds and oranges and yellows that delight the eye. This is not only true of the gorgeous sugar maples in the north, but of most of the colorful hardwood trees—the oaks, elms, birches, other maples, sweet gum, black gum, hickory, dogwood, and many others. When frost comes too early the leaves lose and lose their sugar before they have time to take on high color.

Conestoga Wagon Drivers

First to Keep to Right

Why do American drivers keep to the right instead of to the left as in England and some Continental countries? In the new Columbia Encyclopedia drivers of the famous Conestoga wagons are credited with originating the custom because they rode the left wheel horse. The wagons, often called "ships of inland commerce," carried freight over the Allegheny mountains before the railroads were built in 1850.

The Conestoga wagon originated in Pennsylvania before the Revolution, according to the encyclopedia. It was pulled by a six-horse team and was capable of carrying a five-ton load. The bottom of the wagon was curved, rising at both ends so that in going up and down hills the goods would shift less easily and the end gate be subject to less strain. The private scheme was a modification of the Conestoga wagon.

IT WORKED FOR ME

Women should take only liquid laxatives

NO ONE people could feel fine, be fit and regular, if they would only follow the rule of doctors and hospitals in relieving constipation. Never take any laxative that is harsh in action. Or one, the dose of which can't be exactly measured. Doctors know the danger if this rule is followed. They use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Believe the doctors' secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why it should be a liquid like Syrup Pepsin.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes biliousness due to constipation, your money back.

Wedding Held at Lake Byrd Lodge.

Miss Elvina Nicholas and Haskell Brock, both of West Palm Beach, were married at an impressive ceremony Sunday at 12:00 o'clock at Lake Byrd Lodge, the Rev. Loya Frink officiating.

The fireplace in the spacious lobby of the lodge was banked with fern and yellow wild flowers forming a background for a beautifully decorated arch under which the young couple stood during the ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Calliope, who rendered, "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Promise Me."

The bride was given in marriage by her father, A. H. Nicholas. Mrs. Martelle Wilson served as matron-of-honor and Miss Anne McEl Abidin, maid-of-honor. Mr. C. H. Walker served Mr. Brock as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Brock left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding trip and will reside, on their return at West Palm Beach. The relatives of the couple attending the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Garden Club Held Meeting Friday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Garden Club was held at the apartment of Mrs. Paul Rumpus last Friday, the 15th, Mrs. M. E. Covington, the chairman, presiding.

Roll call was answered by giving personal experiences in growing or propagating flowers. Some very amusing facts were related.

The Woman's Club for a long time has planned to plant an evergreen tree for the community Christmas tree. The Garden Club has taken this over. Reports of the committee appointed to inquire about varieties and prices were given.

The nursery men advise a smaller tree as best to plant and survive not to be affected by a transplanting. It was decided to order a 6 foot tree.

A committee was appointed to select the most suitable location available for this tree, preferably a location where community services may be held in the future when the tree grows large enough to be lighted as the towns Christmas tree.

A Flower Show in the spring was discussed, but no definite action taken.

At the December meeting each member is requested to bring a wreath or other Christmas decoration for the shrubs and those who otherwise might not have Christmas brightened in their home.

Trees have been the subject of club programs this fall. It was announced that this year 222 million trees have been planted in national parks, the work of the CCC. For today's program, Mrs. W. A. Davidson had prepared a very interesting paper on "Oaks of Florida." With 250 species in the Northern Hemisphere, Florida has 28.

This excellent paper we hope will be published.

By request, Mrs. Davidson also read "Trees Indoors and Out," an article by Alice Booth, in Good Housekeeping.

"Carnival of Trees in Pennsylvania," was also read. This brought out that the only other places where autumn can compare with Pennsylvania in brilliant coloring, are in the Swiss Alps and the forests along the Rhine and Danube.

Mrs. A. E. Reinhardt and Mrs. Katherine Dickinson were received as new members.

As no member present had a birthday in November, the monthly bouquet, furnished by Mrs. Gilmour, was given to Mrs. Rumpus, who had drawn lots with Mrs. Yalson last month and lost. The bouquet proved to be a basket of fruit decorated with flowers.

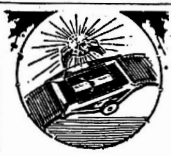

The hostess served a delicious punch.

The place of next meeting was not announced.—Contributed.

Mr. - Mrs. Thayer Hosts Sunday Eve.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Thayer, a jolly little bridge shower for the members of the Avon Park Club was held last Sunday evening for an "Acquaintance Meeting." Each year the matter of state club is discussed as the northern visitors return for their winter sojourn in Avon Park. So at this time, all members who could be reached on short notice, accepted the invitation. The evening was spent in renewing or making new acquaintances between these native Ohioans and many interesting and even quite hilarious anecdotes and experiences were related. The enthusiasm continued to grow throughout the evening and it was suggested that an Ohio Club be organized and arrangements be made for regular "get-together" meetings. To this end a committee composed of Mr. Costello, Mr. Patterson, Messieurs Starnett and Klump, was appointed to meet with her at the Poinsettia Hotel Monday Nov. 25th at 3 p.m. for a social afternoon.

All Ohioans, whether they are residents of Avon Park or visitors, will be welcomed to unite with this jolly group.

It is regretted that a complete list of those present is unavailable at this time. Among those who attended the meeting were Mrs. Lulu Bass of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Costello of Cleveland, Mr. George L. Frank of Cleveland, Mrs. Lena Blumstein of Cleveland, Mrs. Katherine Dickinson of Dayton, Miss Amy Starnett of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Patton of Findlay, Mr. and Mrs. C. Starnett of Columbus, Mr. M. Mohr of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kempton of Toledo, Mrs. James W. Wadland of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. SYNOPSIS

Perilla Fairfax and Corey Malden are to be married the next day at Love Terrace, Long Beach. The guests are Tony Gaskell, his wife, a Pasadena lawyer, Hilda Sheldon, a maid of honor, and Pete Wilson and Mrs. Talbot. Friends of the Fairfaxs, Perilla's brother, Arthur, Corey, whose home is in Richmond, is very wealthy. He is thirty-eight, and Perilla twenty-four, but it is a true love match. Everybody is busy, talking in the preparations, including Jane Latimer, Mrs. Lovell, pretty and efficient social secretary.

"Now, my dear lady, this is nerves, and nothing but. Have another cocktail."

"No, thank you, but you may see, Tony, whether you think me silly or not, I want you to speak to Corey about this, before they start. Tonight, I hope, I'll be better than to wait till tomorrow."

"Why, of course I will. What shall I say?"

"I don't care how you word it. Just make it clear that I am afraid for my girl, if he goes so fast. And tell him, won't you, that you, too, feel he is both foolish and unkind to his bride-to-be to endanger her safety as he so often does."

"I do think so, Mrs. Lovell, and I will tell him and ask him just what you suggest. If he is offended, it will be with me, not with you."

"Oh, thank you, Tony. You've lifted a weight from my heart. Of course, I have spoken to him about this, lots of times, but just the trouble. A thing you have on like that loses all power of persuasion; the same subject brought up by another has far more force."

"Yes, but you know old Corey is going to see through us. I'll bet he'll say at once that you put me up to saying it."

"All right, if he does. Tell him I did, and tell him that you want to add your persuasion to mine."

"And I do. I quite agree that he has no right to jeopardize his wife's life, whatever he may do with his own. A married man has responsibilities that a single man need never think about."

"Very well, Oh, here's another thing. Tony. I've had to put you and Corey in the same room. You see, we didn't expect Pete and Hilda to stay the night. We thought they wouldn't come until tomorrow morning. So we've been obliged to double up. I've given you and Corey Malden's room. You won't mind, will you?"

"Not a bit. Seems a pity to turn Malky out, though."

"No, indeed, he's more than willing. Don't you envy Corey?"

"Well, I just do. Every man at the wedding will envy him, married or not! Now, Mrs. Lovell, is there anything else I can do for you? Anything about the ceremony? You know that's what I'm here for."

"You know more about your duties as best man than I do. Don't let Corey drop the ring, and all that. Now, go over there, and see how they're getting on. And send Miss Latimer to me, please."

"There's a peach! Who is she? I'm mad about her."

"She's a perfect darling. Don't ever take her away from me."

Tony smiled at her, and crossed the room to where Jane Latimer was gaily chatting the bridegroom. "Mrs. Lovell wants you, Miss Latimer," Gaskell said. "Come back when you can, won't you?"

"Yes, indeed," and Jane ran away. "I don't know how I'll get along without Jane," said Perilla; "I think I'll have to have her get back. May I, Corey, if I can get her from mother?"

"You may have anything or anybody in the world that I can get for you."

For dinner now, and we'll have the rehearsal this evening."

So they all went to their various rooms. Malden, however, did not appear until Gaskell was ready to go downstairs.

"Go along," Corey said. "I was delayed talking to Mr. Lovell about some affairs. You go on, and if I'm late they'll excuse me."

"Right!" And Gaskell hurried down the stairs.

After dinner Perilla declared the rehearsal should take place at once. "Is everybody here that belongs in the procession?" asked Malcolm.

"All right, sir. Help yourself. I want you to have one, Corey."

He handed one to Malden, and passed him a glass of water.

"Mr. Lovell recognized the label, 'Oh, I know those people, doctor and chemist both. Whatever they put out is all right. Give me one for Corey, and I'll give you one for me.'"

"Take the bottle, sir. I can easily get the prescription filled again."

He took a small white tablet from the bottle and swallowed it.

"Give me one, will you?" said Mr. Lovell. "Just what I want."

"All right, sir. Help yourself. I want you to have one, Corey."

"And no visiting in rooms or whispered good nights in the hall," said the priest. "Now, you and I will look after a few little matters, and then bed for us, too."

CHAPTER II

MALCOLM and Bob came home soon. "I feel like the dickens," Malcolm said. "I'd no idea getting married meant such a lot of fuss. Got any aspirin, Dad? I feel a nervous headache coming on, and I want to be right for tomorrow."

"There's some upstairs, son; I'll give it to you when we go up, and I think we'll go now."

"Don't take aspirin, you old back number," advised Gaskell. "I've a much better dose. Made up for me by an A-I doctor, who knows his business."

"Sure it's all right?" asked Malcolm.

"Quite sure! Famous doctor's prescription and well-known chemist's make-up." Tony took a small pill from his pocket. "I always have them handy. Sublimely nerveless and selfless myself. I'll take mine now."

He took a small white tablet from the bottle and swallowed it.

"Give me one, will you?" said Mr. Lovell. "Just what I want."

or then Perilla, to be sure, but in looks and behavior often younger than his years. And as for the first families of Richmond, how could he be otherwise? Thus ran Ellen Lovell's thoughts when Tony came and sat beside her.

"It's about time to bid your baby good-by," he said, gently. "Do you want to take her into some other room?"

Almost at the same moment Bob Cole appeared.

"Mrs. Lovell," he said, "Perilla wants to see you alone, before she goes, and the time is flying."

"There's some upstairs, son; I'll give it to you when we go up, and I think we'll go now."

CHILDREN'S FEAR

Sometimes a child will develop a phobia or fear indirectly. A case in point was that of a child who feared rabbits, with which it had played for years. The child's mother, who was very young, had been frightened by a dog in a narrow passage. Collier's Weekly.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal cleansers, thus cleaning the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Blue Goose Head Approves New Trade Pact With Canada

ORLANDO, Nov. 21.—Farming the new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada "one of the most important developments from the standpoint of Florida's growers in a long time," R. B. Woolfolk, vice president of American Fruit Growers, today predicted a big increase in the business in fruits and vegetables between Florida and Canada this season.

The new treaty puts oranges on the "free" list during January, February, March and April, while reducing the duty on grapefruit by one-half. Previously, it has been costing nearly $1 a box in duty to ship Florida citrus fruit into Canada. Tariffs on fresh vegetables from Florida are reduced mostly one-half under the new pact.

"This is a great thing for Florida growers of both fruits and vegetables. With proper handling of the Canadian situation we can now increase our fruit-vegetable business there tremendously. Florida shippers have for a long time sought to regain the Canadian markets through the reduction, or elimination, of duties on fruits and vegetables. The duty of nearly $1 per box on citrus fruit was a great handicap," Mr. Woolfolk commented. He said he would like to see grapefruit on the "free" list with oranges, "though the reduced duty on grapefruit will help."

He quoted figures to show that Florida has been sending less and less citrus to Canada in recent years. Since 1930-31 shipments have been less than formerly. Shipments to the United States (all citrus) to Canada from Florida were:

1928-29	567 cars
1929-30	472 cars
1930-31	702 cars
1931-32	413 cars
1932-33	334 cars
1933-34	261 cars
1934-35	314 cars

While California has enjoyed most of the Canadian orange business, Mr. Woolfolk thinks that now, with proper advertising, Florida can sell many more oranges in the Dominion. Consumption of all citrus can be increased there, too, he thinks, for "Canadians need citrus fruits very badly for health reasons." He said that in the 1929-30 season, for instance, the Dominion imported oranges from the U. S. (mostly from California) valued at $8,654,000 according to figures compiled in Canada. "Florida not only can secure a greater portion of the present business, but citrus generally can be greatly increased in Canada," he declared. Proper advertising will help a lot, he thinks.

"Living in the cold climate, Canadians must have our fruit to keep healthy. Now that the duty of nearly $1 per box on oranges is abolished during four months—and the duty on grapefruit is cut in two—and vegetables take a considerably lower tariff, Florida growers can feel elated. Important new markets are opened up to them—markets that can be developed far beyond the present level, or volume, of business transacted," Mr. Woolfolk commented.

He said he "could see no reason why Florida should not ship at least 500,000 boxes of citrus fruits each season to Canada." Figures show that in other seasons the movement has been below 100,000 boxes, from Florida, through California shipments have run very much higher.

Secretary Appointed For Young Democrats

Tallahassee, Nov. 21.—(FNS)—B. F. Mizzell, state motor vehicle commissioner and president of the Young Democratic Clubs of Florida, announced this week the appointment of Hyman B. Sobel, Gainesville executive secretary of the organization to succeed Avey Carraway, Orlando, who recently was appointed secretary of the Young Democratic Clubs of America with headquarters in Washington.

Methodist Church News And Notes

Rev. Reid, the pastor, is out of town for several days. In his absence Dr. Taylor of Sebring will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday. All members of the church are urged to attend the Union Thanksgiving Services at the Congregational Church Sunday night.

Rally Day was observed in the church and Sunday school last Sunday, a very interesting program was given and a very good attendance reported.

A new Sunday school class was organized last Sunday for the young people with Mrs. S. E. Roberts teacher. The following officers were elected: George Hayes chairman; Evelyn Holland, secretary and treasurer; Hester Childers, chairman of social committee.

A social invitation is extended all young people of the city who do not go to Sunday school elsewhere. This class meets in the Parsonage at 9:45.

League Union was held in Lake Placid Methodist Church last Thursday, November 14. This was the organizing of a new union of Leagues from Sebring, De Soto City, Lake Placid and Avon Park and probably Moore Haven, Brighton and Okechobee.

A very interesting talk on how to grow was given by Mrs. Henry Barnett. Miss Euliole Ginn was in charge of the business session. The officers will be elected at the next Union meeting to be held in Avon Park, December 12. After the business session was over they adjourned to the annex where contests and games and later refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and hot chocolate were enjoyed. About 15 from Avon Park were present.

Avon Theatre Has Star Attractions

An exceptional fine week of film attractions are booked for showings at the Avon Theatre during the coming week. Manager M. Johnson, who is in charge of the theatre here, is exceptionally proud of the attractions booked for the week.

Beginning Saturday of this week, the feature attraction will be "The Fighting Shadow" starring that popular western star, Tim McCoy.

Sunday brings to the screen of the Avon Theatre, those two favorites, Wallace Beery and Jackie Cooper in their latest success picture, "O' Shaughnessy's Boy." The picture has a circus background and like "The Champ" and "Treasure Island," these two are bosom pals. Little Spanky MacFarland is also starred. The picture plays Sunday and Monday with a matinee at 3:15 P. M. Sunday afternoon.

The attraction for "Legion Night," (Tuesday) is "The Mysterious Mr. Wong" starring Bela Lugosi. The picture is replete with thrills that should satisfy the most hard-nerved patron.

None other than our old favorite Dick Powell, is back again on Wednesday and Thursday in "Broadway Gondolier." It is a Warner Brothers Musical show with all the trimmings. Joan Blondell is the girl-friend in the case and the comedy is furnished by Frank McHugh, Adolphe Menjou and Louise Fazenda. It's a great story of radio land.

Low Ayres, Pat Patterson and Reginald Denny are featured in the attraction for next Friday, "Lottery Lover."

"The best in film entertainment is being arranged for by the management of the Avon Theatre. For over two years we have been giving the people of this community the best pictures available at popular prices," says Manager Johnson. "We are proud of the friendships we have made," he adds.

Forecast Big Track Season This Year

Miami, Nov. 20.—(FNS)—Walter H. Dunbar, secretary of the Florida State Racing Commission, forecasts the greatest season for dog and horse tracks ever recorded. All indications point to another record-breaking season, he said, even better than last year when 2,000,000 persons bet $26,000,000.

In addition to last year's popular sport and great tourist attraction, racing contributes in a practical way to the state's revenues. Last season Florida realized $14,000,000.81 with net proceeds of $19,702 to each of the 67 counties.

The more quietly and peaceably we all get on, the better—the better for ourselves—the better for our neighbors. In nine cases out of ten the wisest policy is, if a man cheats you, quit dealing with him; if he is abusive, quit his company; if he slanders you, take care to live that nobody will believe him; no matter who he is, how he misuses you, the wisest way is generally to let him alone; for there is nothing better than this cool, calm, quiet way of dealing with the wrongs we meet with.—Ep. Patrick.

Hatters Look For Football Victory At Homecoming

DeLand, Nov. 19.—With four victories out of six games this season, the Stetson University football team looked hopefully to possible success in the Homecoming match against Murray State Teachers College of Kentucky next Saturday afternoon.

Last weekend the Hatters, under the instruction of Coaches Brady Cowell and Chester Freeman, trimmed the University of Tampa Spartans 9-7 and put themselves in good position to gain the title among the "Little Four" of Florida colleges.

The invading Kentuckians have a good record this season. They defeated Stetson last year by a substantial score, and in 1933 were champions of the S.I.A.A. A hard fought battle therefore, with plenty of thrills for spectators, is looked for Saturday. The game begins at 2:30 o'clock.

Aubrey Smith, 150-pound speedster, was again the star in last Friday's game at Tampa, dashing 37 yards through the entire Spartan team for Stetson's touchdown. Tom Gannarelli at fullback and Herb Wotring, half, made big contributions to the Hatter victory.

The Stetson Homecoming celebration will begin Friday at 4:30 with the dedication of the addition to Chaudoin Hall, new $50,000 dormitory now housing 80 young women students in modern quarters. The play, "Your Uncle Dudley," will be given in the Little Theatre by the Stetson Players Friday evening, Prof. Irving C. Stover, directing.

Saturday morning's features include a parade, the business meeting of the Alumni Association, and a chapel exercise in charge of the Reverend W. S. Allen, to which all former students and friends are invited. In the evening after the football game, the alumni banquet will be held at 6:15 o'clock (informal), and at 8:30 a concert will be given in Elizabeth Hall by the famous Symphony Band of Bohemian Kryn.

V-8 LEADERSHIP.

On October 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly two months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out in the United States alone $140,110,326.00 in wages and $233,111,240.00 for materials.
