No Core, No War
Sloan Sees Light
The Holy City Falls
G. B. Shaw Writes

A small boy, asked for the core of his apple, said: "There ain't going to be no core."
Laval, French premier, tired of dangerous politics on the Mediterranean, important back door of France, announced bluntly: "There ain't going to be no war," requesting England to remove her battle ships from the Mediterranean.
The wise Brits have known all along that there was to be no war, but thought it well to indulge in virtuous demonstrations.
Britons rarely make diplomatic mistakes; diplomats in the other countries are children to them, although France is an exception to that rule.
Washington believes the war will end in 60 days, and has probably been told so by somebody in Europe.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, announces "all signals set for increased automobile sales next year," and no doubt about it.
He approves an automobile show in November, instead of January, as giving the people more time to realize that the important car is the winter car, when the automobile "wears the rubbers" for the whole family.

Capturing Aksum will impress Ethiopians. The holy city, surrendered by the Ethiopians without a shot, contains the tomb of all Ethiopian rulers, and the city of Sheba. The Coptic Christian bishop of Aksum voluntarily gave the keys of the city to the Italian Gen. Emilio de Bono, at Addis. He accepted the keys, proclaimed Italy's annexation of Aksum, sent a force to surround the city and prevent looting the monasteries and the ancient cathedral of St. Mary Zion.

In that cathedral the original Ark of the Covenant is believed to be preserved. Ethiopian history relates that when Solomon sent the sons of his high priest, with other sons of great dignitaries, to accompany Sheba's son after his visit to his father, the son of the high priest took the original Ark of the Covenant with him, substituting an imitation ark, much to the indignation of Solomon and that high priest. In justice to the high priest's son, it must be stated that he did not appear and gave him instructions about stealing the ark.

George Bernard Shaw discovers that Ethiopia, so-called, is an aggregation of tribes, one ruled fairly well by Haile Selassie, who is called "Emperor," the others doing about as they please.

In some of these tribes, what pleases the ruler would seem strange to us. For instance, among the Danakils a lady will not marry a gentleman until he proves that he has killed at least four men. She must prove it by bringing back the easily identified fragments of four mutilated bodies. Married life with such a lady should never be dull.

Wars come, wars go, standing off goes on forever, working off.

Walter Tingle, head of Standard Oil of New Jersey, with all wells scattered over the world, offers to pay every barrel of oil he exports, many millions have been paid. To avoid ill feeling, Mr. Tingle would like British Royal Dutch-Shell and American Standard of Russia's surplus.

Your Uncle Sam is very rich, he never had so much gold in his life. The total pile, "an all time high," amounts to more than fifteen billions of dollars.

It wouldn't be such a big pile of gold if the government had not ingeniously raised the price of the gold ounce.

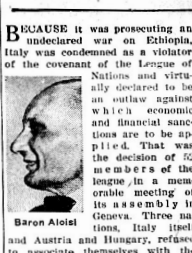

Gold has been coming rapidly from Europe lately, including gold that frightened Americans sent abroad for its health.

The United States is becoming more and more a gambling nation, and, in consequence, less and less a thinking, working nation. Gambling makes real work seem not worth while. Why work if you can play the horses? Can you imagine Washington, Lincoln or Edison studying "paw performance"?

Mr. Danon Bunyon writes: "A few years ago the Broadway cutting men would have sneered at the idea of wagging on college football games. Now it is the big best betting medium of any sport with betting brokers issuing regular printed quotations on the various games every week."

New Jersey justice decides that Hauptmann, convicted of murdering the Lindbergh child, may live a little longer to take an appeal to the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme court will, in its discretion, decline to investigate Hauptmann's conviction. In that case the courts fall.

Baron Aloisi

BECAUSE it was prosecuting an undeclared war on Ethiopia, Italy was condemned as a violator of the covenant of the League of Nations and virtually declared to be an outlaw against which economic and financial sanctions are to be applied. That was the decision of 52 members of the league's assembly in a session which opened in Geneva on Oct. 20. The assembly, which was composed of representatives of 52 nations, including Austria and Hungary, refused to associate themselves with the assembly's decision. The Austrian and Hungarian representatives already had announced that they would not participate in any sanctions against Italy because of their political and economic relations with the Fascist government.

If any of the nations concurring in the league's decision wishes to declare war on Italy, it now has the legal right to do so. The nature of the penalties to be imposed and the manner of procedure to be determined by a committee including the members of the league council, except Italy and the nations which have been in control since 1930. The next premier will be Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberals who won 135 out of 245 seats in the house of commons. The new deal policies of the Bennett government were repudiated by the electors.

In the program outlined by King, in case he won, the great emphasis was laid on relieving unemployment and lowering tariffs back to 1930 levels. A reciprocal trade agreement with the United States was one of the strong suggestions. Nationalization of the bank of Canada, to control credit inflation and deflation was another plank.

Appeals Court Upholds Sentence of Hauptmann
UNANIMOUS decision of the New Jersey court of errors and appeals has upheld a fair trial in the charge of murdering "Col. Charles" Hauptmann's baby son; that his conviction was in accordance with the law and that his death sentence was legal. Every contention raised in his defense was overruled. In the opinion of the court said:

"The verdict is not only contrary to the weight of the evidence, but one to which the evidence is overwhelmingly opposed. From three different and, in the main, unrelated sources the proofs point unmistakably to guilt."

"(a) Possession and use of the ransom money.

"(b) The handwriting of the ransom note.

"(c) The word used in the construction of the ladder."

Hauptmann's attorneys immediately began preparations for an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Their only way is to ask that tribunal for a review of the New Jersey court's action.

To prevent the death sentence being carried out while such a petition was pending in the Supreme Court, it would be necessary to have a "stay of execution" issued by the New Jersey courts or by a justice of the United States Supreme Court.

A review of the case was held and closed and Hauptmann probably will die in the electric chair late in November or early in December.

Col. Roosevelt's Ideas on Campaign Issues
IN SOME quarters Col. Theodore Roosevelt is credited with considerable influence in the campaign of the members of the cabinet.

"No other delegation has asked to speak," said President Bessie. "I interpret the silence of all in indicating the preference of their government with the election of the members of the cabinet. The assembly will place this on record."

Austria and Hungary have themselves supply Mussolini with much in the way of raw material for war; but there is the chance that he may receive, through other countries, materials from Germany if the neutrality proclaimed by Hitler does not prevent.

Recent reports from Addis Ababa said the Italian minister, whose departure has been requested by the emperor, announced that the Italian forces in the north sector had reoccupied the holy city of Aksum, the ancient capital of the queen of Sheba. There was no resistance, and the Ethiopians saved their sacred relics.

Mussolini Now Ready to Talk Peace
LITHUANIAN representatives in Geneva were told by delegates of several nations that Mussolini was ready to end the warfare if he were given control of the Baltic territory and certain large economic advantages. This tentative offer was transmitted to Addis Ababa, and the reply of Emperor Haile Selassie was a determined "No." The Italian war virtual control over the entire country, and the emperor is not willing to give up a yard of territory.

The Italians in northern Ethiopia were jubilant over the description of Desalegn Hailu, king and several thousand warriors. This Ogusa is not related to the king but is a descendant of King John who reigned in the 13th century. There was a report that Mussolini planned to create a puppet empire from the occupied territory.

with Guggen on the throne—after the Japanese fashion in Manchuria.

Troop movements indicated the next serious fighting would be in the southern sector, where the emperor's son-in-law, Ras Dosta Dint, was leading an army of 100,000 by forced marches to attack the Italians in the flank. The latter, under Gen. Ruffalo Grazi, were moving toward Harrar from the Semalari frontier.

Liberals Are Winners in Canada Elections
PARLIAMENTARY elections in Canada resulted in the defeat of Premier Richard B. Bennett and the Conservatives who have been in control since 1930. The next premier will be Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberals who won 135 out of 245 seats in the house of commons.

Supreme Court to Decide Two Vital Cases

CONSTITUTIONALITY of two New Deal projects—the AAA processing taxes and the TVA operations in general and selling power in competition with private power companies—is to be determined by the Supreme court of the United States, and an early ruling on both is expected.

Among the court's negative rulings was a refusal to consider the latest habeas corpus proceedings brought in behalf of Thomas Mooney, California's most famous prisoner. The court also refused to hear an attack on a law which strengthened the political machine of the Senate Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana.

Hamilton Fish Is Out for G. O. P. Nomination
HAMILTON FISH, Jr., congressman from New York, is going to be a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination and will throw his hat into the ring about the middle of December.

He will enter the race for the nomination in the western and southern states.

Mr. Fish has not yet formally announced this intention, but he has told an interviewer the other day that if he were elected he would have a non-partisan cabinet and that he would be the best brains in the country regardless of political affiliations.

He even went so far as to give out a long list of the men and women from which he would choose his cabinet members. For instance, his secretary of state would be either Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, Bainbridge Colby, John W. Davis or Newton D. Baker. For secretary of commerce he would have either Herbert Hoover or Philip Phillips of Oklahoma. Senator Carter Glass heads the list for Secretary of the Interior; Edward D. Hayes for secretary of war; R. C. Ogden of Texas for postmaster general; Judge Charles Lockwood for attorney general; A. Smith for secretary of labor; Frank O. Lowden for secretary of agriculture; Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. for secretary of the navy and former Vice President Charles Curtis for secretary of the interior.

Carter Glass Won't Help Split His Party
SENATOR CARTER GLASS of Virginia has had his differences with the Roosevelt administration and is likely to have one of the most difficult jobs in the Democratic party.

"I would not support any movement to split the party. I refused to join the Roosevelt administration and I refuse to join any organization which aims run counter to the party."

Mr. Glass is certain that President Roosevelt will be re-nominated without serious opposition. "There is no organized opposition to his nomination in the Democratic party," Glass says. "If he lives, he will be re-nominated by the Democratic party. Not to do so would be a concession of failure."

Big Lawyers to Defend Potato Act Violators
SECRETARY WALLACE should anticipate the 58 members of the American Liberty League that its committee of 58 noted lawyers has volunteered to defend small potato growers against the potato control law. Not that Mr. Wallace intends to violate the act by growing unlicensed spuds, but he has declared he is so opposed to the law that he will try in every way to avoid enforcing it.

Old Lee Hovey Becomes National Shrine
STRATFORD HALL, the fine old colonial house in Westmoreland county, Virginia, which has been the home of the Lees for 300 years, was dedicated as a national shrine, its 1,100-acre estate being included in the gift to the public. The place was bought and restored by the Robert R. Lee Memorial foundation. Roosevelt sent a message to be read at the dedication exercises, and many high officials were present.

Greek Republic Upped by Royalist Coup
CHRISSIS changed back from a republic to a monarchy overnight in a bloodless coup d'etat organized by the royalists in the armed forces. Led by Gen. Georgios Kondylis, the officers overthrew the republic and immediately proclaimed restoration of the monarchy. He refused to resign, and gave government with Kondylis as premier took hold. This former minister of war then forced President Zaimis, established the republic constitution, secured restoration, and was named premier by the national assembly pending the return of King George II, who was called back from exile.

The change of form of government thus seemed completed, the assembly by direct vote in the monarchy over a plebiscite. It is stated in the "Forerunner" Ecclesiastical History, published in Toledo, Spain, in 1933, that the first book printed

FLOYD GIBBONS Adventurers' Club Hello, Everybody

"Ironing Day Blues"
By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

SHAKE hands, fellow adventurers, with a new member—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Meyer, who, like a good many other adventurers, doesn't believe it is necessary to travel great distances and penetrate vast wildernesses to find excitement.

As a matter of fact, all Mary has to do when she is in the mood for a little excitement is to walk upstairs and take a look at that closet door—the one that let her in for a lot of grief one Tuesday morning not so many years ago. One sign at that door and memory brings back to Mary all the excitement her system happens to crave at the moment. There's a story back of that, lady and ladies—a story I know you'll all want to hear. And here is Mary herself to tell it to you.

Tuesday, all over the country, the ironing day, that, among other things, is what Mary was doing when old man Adventure caught up with her. She had piled up a good-sized stack of neatly ironed linen by lunch time, and then stopped to put a few things on the stove for the mid-day meal. While lunch was cooking, she had a minute or two to spare, and picked up the stack of already ironed linen, to carry it upstairs to the linen closet.

The load was a heavy one and Mary was tired. Her feet dragged as she climbed the stairs to the second floor landing, and she had trouble getting the bundle up to the shelf. As she raised it over her head, she lost her balance. Her hand, reaching out to steady herself, hit the closet door and slammed it shut.

Mary Finds Herself Locked In.
Mary finished placing the bundle on the shelf and turned to go. She reached for the door-knob—and her hand slid along a smooth surface. Fussy about things that way, she tried to pull the door open, but it was as though she were pushing against a wall. She had not noticed before. In all the time Mary had been in that house, she had never discovered that there was no door between the door and the floor. If she had something solid to sit into that crack, she might be able to jimmy the lock.

Her heart pounding, and her hands cold as ice, she began searching the closet for some hard object that might be pressed into service as an emergency jimmy. It was pitch dark in the closet, and although she was pretty certain that there was nothing but linen and bedding on the shelves, she examined every inch of them with her groping fingers. She was about to give up when she thought of the floor, and, getting down on her knees again, she began feeling about.

Suddenly her roving hand came in contact with something hard and cold. It was an old-fashioned bathtub seat—just the thing that had been fitted over the rim of the tub. Mary fished it out, worked one end into the crack under the door, and gave a heave at the other end.

Quick Thinking Saves Mary From Cremation.
The bathtub seat held—but so did the door. Mary threw all her strength into it and gave another heave. The door was rattled, but it was a cracking sound, as the wood split under the lock. In another second she had the upper floor open again.

BUSINESS INCREASES GROWS

There has been a steady increase in sales of the form of life insurance known as "business insurance."

This insurance is designed to replace the economic loss of valuable life to a business; to provide money with which a surviving partner can purchase the deceased's interest; to provide a readily available emergency fund; to stabilize credit standing; to retire individuals in their old age, and to retire outstanding indebtedness.

It is an interesting fact that many relatively small concerns are now obtaining business insurance, where, in the past, it was utilized almost entirely by the large industries. Thousands of storekeepers, jobbers and merchants have discovered that the protection business insurance offers is invaluable to the commercial undertakings.—Industrial News Review.

IN DISPUTE

Official reports show an upturn in business. Most of the big industries are making similar reports. So that on the surface things are getting better and better every day, in every way, as optimists would say. But the big political parties are gradually coming to grips. . . . The Democrats to show that it is lovely and the Republicans with their claims that fundamentally the Nation is worse off that it was when they were turned out by the voters of the country. It is a dispute that is ripening into a real row; and before this time next year it is likely to be a mud-spilling and mud-slinging contest.—U. S. Press Association.

Better Prices Are Expected For Florida Tangerines Now

ORLANDO, Oct. 24.—Florida's tangerine growers are in a most favorable position this fall to realize somewhat better returns for tangerines than in several seasons. R. A. Fender, sales manager for American Fruit Growers, Inc., declared here this week after returning from a crop inspection tour. He said tangerines are growing to large sizes; that quality is bound to be better than last year and asserted that in view of the short crop and the nation-wide citrus advertising campaign the situation looks mighty encouraging for producers.

Many leading growers in tangerine sections, he said, are now more optimistic over tangerine prospects than in long time. It is generally felt that the new maturity law which increased the ratio of solids to acids (on tangerines) from 7 to 1 to 7½ to 1 will prevent the movement of sour fruit early in the season. Mr. Fender believes the new test means that tangerines must be of better eating quality than formerly before shipment is allowed.

It is pointed out that tangerines which barely test 7 to 1 would increase considerably in size if left on the trees. Considering that such "seven to one" cannot be shipped this year, growers are of the opinion that quantities of early fruit will be allowed to ripen up and size well before being cut and shipped. Tangerines should be sweet and juicy to meet with favor.

Best estimates on the new tangerine crop indicate about as many on trees at the present time as were actually shipped last year. Consequently, actual inter-state movement of tangerines will be less this year. With fruit way ahead of last year in quality, sweeter, better appearing and well advertised, Mr. Fender sees profits ahead for growers in Florida.

Evidently there are now about one-third fewer tangerines on the tree than were on the tree at this time a year ago, he estimates.

"Florida tangerines, when ripe, are really a kind of 'king of fruits', but when sour are a mighty poor proposition from any standpoint. In other seasons many sour tangerines have gone north early, . . . then buyers have tasted a few and thrown away all except the first bite! Intelligent fruitmen are hoping to see greater quantities of nice, ripe tangerines moving early this year, with the unripe fruit remaining on the trees until sized, matured and color by the snappy autumn weather. Tangerines will begin to bring higher average prices in the north as soon as consumers discover they can buy sweet delicious fruit," Mr. Fender said in summing up the tangerine situation.

Ants Are Pests In Tropics

In tropical countries where red ants are often so numerous as to be exceedingly troublesome, the household frequently finds it necessary to set each leg of the dining room and kitchen tables in a cup or small pan of water to protect the food from becoming covered with the pests.

Garden Club Met Friday.

With cooler weather, the Garden Club has returned to its regular afternoon meetings.

Last Friday, the October meeting was held at the attractive home of Mrs. George Scott McKnight, and a very enjoyable event it proved to be.

The chairman, Mrs. M. E. Covington, presided, Mrs. W. A. Davidson substituting as secretary for Mrs. A. Gilmore who was unavoidably absent.

The Civic Committee reported that Mr. Currie has the railroad section prepared for planting. Since the club has the new club house grounds to landscape, it will undertake nothing further on special town projects at present.

The subject of local postcards was discussed. Strangers like to remember friends by sending cards of places they visit or pass through, and citizens enjoy sending attractive pictures of beautiful or important buildings of their home town to friends and relatives.

There is not an easier or less expensive way to advertise a town or building than having plenty of postcards available. Most hotels recognize the value of this by supplying their guests with postcards of their building, grounds and interior views.

Some tourists make a point of writing cards to friends from every place they visit, and it is a pleasant surprise to find friends posted as to their travels and location, and they want the prettiest views they can get.

A committee was appointed to investigate the possibility of supplying this demand here where we have so many beauty spots of which we are justly proud.

The Flower Show for this winter was also discussed.

Mrs. C. S. Donaldson, by request, read an article on wild flowers from the "Clubwoman."

Clipping from a "Pile" of April 23rd, 1925, telling of the "Plant Exchange" sponsored by the Woman's Club during National Garden Week, April 26—May 3, proved interesting.

This was held April 29, on the present site of Dr. Touchton's office, at that time occupied by the checker board game and tables, and their hatched roof. Plants, cuttings, bulbs and trees were contributed in quantity, and a people exchanged, or secured without exchange, many beautiful additions to their home grounds and gardens.

Members of the Woman's Club were all attendees all day. The exchange proved a great success and promoted interest in planting and beautifying home grounds, in many cases when no efforts in that direction had ever been made before.

A communication from Gainesville urging people to plant figs for their own consumption, was a read. The Celeste fig was mentioned as best suited to Florida soils and climate, the White Adriatic and Brown Turkey as second and third choice.

Mrs. G. P. Thayer, the speaker for the afternoon, then gave her paper on "Tree Construction and Leaves."

This exhaustive and educational paper, with many aides, carried its listeners back to school botany days, proving most interesting and instructive, illustrated as it was with mounted leaves and drawings of leaves of the many varieties. Mother Nature supplies us.

The roll call, answered with mounted leaves, came after the paper, giving an opportunity to have the leaves classified.

Quotation for the day: "I think that I shall never see a poem as lovely as a tree," Joyce Kilmer.

The birthday bouquet, an unusually beautiful one of wild flowers furnished by Mrs. C. S. Donaldson was presented to Mrs. W. H. Yates whose birthday was the 16th.

The hostess served delicious marshmallow chocolate and wafers.

The November meeting will be at Mrs. Paul Rump's.

Mrs. Perry Is Birthday Honoree.

A few friends of Mrs. D. G. Perry helped to celebrate her birthday Monday evening when they got together on Lake Angelo for a picnic.

Several hours were spent in conversation after which a delicious supper was enjoyed.

Mrs. Perry was presented with a beautiful birthday cake which was lighted with candles.

Enjoying this evening were: Mrs. and Mr. C. E. Lanier, Mrs. and Mr. E. E. Booth, and Mrs. and Mr. W. Hartt and Mrs. and Mr. D. G. Perry.

NECKTIE SPEAKS UP

William M. Franzia, Chicago necktie manufacturer, stopped and bought a paper from John Slenkiewicz, and read the newsboy's vivid tie. "A funny number, isn't it?" said John. "I was gonna get a red one." Franzia called a policeman and said, "That tie is one of my sweetest numbers but it doesn't come out until next month. My office was robbed of $500 in ties a few weeks ago and that's one of them. Hauled off to jail, Slenkiewicz explained, that he bought Franzia's creation from a peddler for 15 cents. He was released.

JUST AS GOOD

The lady customer entered the store and headed straight for the proprietor.

"You sold me some rotten apples yesterday," she said, "and I'm bringing them back to you."

"That's all right, lady," hastily apologized the merchant. "You needn't have taken the trouble to bring them back. Your word's just as good as the apples."

Is It Valuable?

A new idea of training has recently swept over our school. We have long had the training, but we have not had the right idea. We failed to take advantage of our opportunities. After much discussion we have come to the conclusion that our spare time can be spent not in idle hours, but in informing the public, along with our school, the many interesting things which take place within this organization.

News writing helps the students in all forms of studies. In English the ability to construct, punctuate, and spell are all essential. These are the fundamental principals of all our news stories.

Inexperience? Yes, but who knows what may be brought from the number of boys and girls in our school. Some may reach the goal which Brisbane or our own Mr. Hetherington have reached in the newspaper world.

The only accurate information which can be found about all the departments of the school is in the true facts which are brought directly from these departments. Each class copy is checked by a teacher for falsity in information.

Another thing which proves our paper to be of great importance lies in the fact that all our school activities, athletic, musical, and musical all brought out in individual accounts. These, along with the many other interesting facts, help to show that school is a place of action and interest as well as a place of study and learning.

Only through the splendid cooperation of our local papers, and the faculty of our school, has this wonderful experience come to us.

'The Upperclassmen'

What! You seniors haven't bought your tickets for the first five games yet? I say if you expect to get that theatre party, you had better hurry.

The seniors are trying to select a play. As we only have four boys and five girls, we have quite a job doing this. We have a small class, but we will try our best to give you a good play.

SOPHOMORES

Last Thursday afternoon Barbara Betts, the sophomore president, called a meeting of all sophomores. Evelyn Martin resigned as Class Reporter and Fay Gordon was elected to fill the place.

FRESHMEN

We have another boy in our class now, Delvin Jones, who started to school Monday morning.

There was a meeting of the newspaper staff Thursday afternoon after school. Miss Hicks told us a few things about writing a newspaper column.

The girls are practicing volleyball and newcomb every afternoon.

GIRLS 8th GRADE

Our program last Thursday consisted of:

Bible Reading—Louise Rogers.
Song—"Children of Florida" by Clara.

There are a few things to think about.

In the property south of the Jacksonville Hotel beautified? What flowers are now blooming in the mall? After studying nature in literature class, Miss Thomas urges us to always look around and be a close observer. She says there is beauty everywhere. Do you look in a mud puddle and see only mud? After being advised we should observe our community closely. We won't know until Monday how close the class can really observe the beauty of our own community. How many of us know how our school looks inside and out? Class mates and fellow citizens, let's look around.

Home Economics

We have almost finished decorating our model house. We have the plans drawn up and finished. We expect to find just exactly how much the home we want is furnished. We are going to Mr. Badcock's Furniture Store and select our furniture and find out the cost of each article.

We expect our house to be a model home for Avon Park.

Boys 8th Grade

We had our weekly class program Thursday morning, Oct. 17, during class period. Murry Williams read the Bible. H. A. Maddox read some interesting jokes. As the result of Jimmy Hens's refusing to take part in the home program, the class voted to punish those who did not take part by having the boy roll a pen ball up the aisle by his nose. Those on the program yesterday were: Henry Ellwell, Clyde Garrett and Calvin Bryant.

Henry Will, who is on the first football team has been changed from guard to end.

7-A NEWS

In our room we have two boys in the band, Harry Ellwell and Malcolm Crews.

We have decided to have a program in our room every Wednesday. Cecil Shaw, Harry Ellwell and Robert Loomis form the committee to get up a program for next Wednesday. We are looking forward to an interesting program. We enjoyed our day off from school Friday. The teachers went to a teachers' meeting in Sebring. Wouldn't it be terrible to have school last only a few months? We like vacations but we want at least nine months.

Almost all of the girls in our room are going out for Newcomb. We enjoy playing it every Tuesday and Thursday after school. We like to dance and hope soon to be champions.

Cheer Leaders Are Rousing School Spirit

The cheer leaders of Avon Park High School are doing a fine job of rousing school spirit which in the past few years has been lacking. In order to build up a fine school must have the cooperation of each and every student. H. L. Bishop is the chief, and the cheer leaders are his assistants, and the others are Marvin Reddick and Elmerio Sadler. The cheer leaders are being chosen by the school and are being coached by Mr. Bishop and Miss Hicks. We are learning new song yell, and routines, and are teaching them to the squad. We have routines to perform in leading yells and songs. If the cheering squad will follow the leaders and work with them, Avon Park High School will have the finest cheering squad that has ever been in this school.

The home games will be worth your while to attend, not only to see the games which we are sure you will never regret spending money to see, but also to hear the cheering squad and see the fine exhibition of their skill during the half. We hope to see the largest crowd at our first football game, but we have been at a game in Avon Park. Not only to the first game do we wish to see a large crowd, but to all the games during the season of football or basketball and any athletic sports that may be put on by the Avon Park High School.

Eleventh and Twelfth grade girls: Bessie Garrett, Josephine Langford, Hazel Reddick, Johnny Saggus, Loolu Holton, and Mabel Cole. Ruth Edwards, Betty Brooks and Helen Tuten.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts.

...the question is, does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobacco.

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobacco to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobacco.

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

Plans Being Made For Cheering Squad

Plans for a pep squad and cheering section for the first home game are being made by the cheerleaders, according to H. L. Bishop, head cheer-leader.

Wednesday morning all of the students who wished to participate in the demonstration, which is to be held between halves of the game, met for a practice session under the direction of the cheerleaders. The cheerleaders in turn are working with the entire student body in order that each student will know the yells and songs that will be used at the various games.

Through the efforts of Coach Bishop, students tickets have been placed on sale until the end of this week, with a theatre party for a prize for the home room selling the most tickets. This sale of tickets has been promoted through the cheerleaders who are interested in having as many students present at all home games as possible, and to the members of the leading squad.

My Dear, I Cadda Dick.
Dick: I was so embarrassed! Honestly, I'm blushing yet. You see, I had been in New York a few weeks before I discovered what it was so dark and gloomy all the time. I suddenly discovered I was in the 7th avenue subway all the while. It seemed I was continually crossing and recrossing Exit street and taking another train. Finally I said to a man sitting by me: "Well, I've ridden around New York for six or seven days and I haven't seen a thing of the tall building, or the Statue of Liberty, or Jimmy Walker, or Broadway, or anything." "No, and you won't, 'sense," until you get out of the subway and up on top of the ground." And then I saw it all. Everybody in the train just roared and said, "It's from Chicago. They never heard of subways out there!" "Was I mortified, well, 'justeamegen."

"Where is the other side of the street?"
Why, over there."

"Where was Solomon's temple?"
"On the side of his head, silly."

"What makes you so crazy?"
"I used to sleep under a crazy quilt."

"So long Mary, you shall never see my face again, I'm going to raise whiskers."

Mother—What's the matter do Jan Gallion—Billy and I have parted forever.
Mother—Well, in that case, I guess he won't be around for a few days.

Jane Clements—Why, what I know about driving would fill a book.
Mother—Well, in that case, I guess he won't be around for a few days.

Listen—

Who ran their car in Lake Letta Creek last Sunday?

Who carried a date to Lake Boyd Lodge last Friday night?

What did Stebbins and Reddick do to another boy Sunday night?

Why does a certain girl, that lives nearly out to Highland Lakes give pictures if she wants them back the next week?

By the way! I hear that one of the Tuten's has a "New Crush."

What If—

L. C. was Lincoln instead of a Davis?

Bill was a Saturday Evening Post editor of a Collier?

Henry were civilized instead of Wild?

Guess Who?

Regardless, heedless of how far from me away you, dearest are. My love for you can never cease. Nor can another occupy thy place.

New Dodge Cars Have New Beauty And Improvements

In the new models presented by the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation, the company's designers, engineers and body stylists have quite evidently outdone all previous efforts in the creation of a new series of cars emphasizing the qualities of outward charm and inherent value.

Viewing the 1936 Dodge from the front, one becomes impressed by the gracefully tapering lines of the radiator grille to which a raised center section gives a Gothic effect of classic beauty.

Hood lines, fender contours, "cavaliers" which bridge the fenders and hood and carry the horn grilles in which the radiator pattern is repeated in miniature, air-lined windshields the lower corners of which are made to follow the cowl lines, refined body sides, rear quarters and roofs... present an ensemble of a sleek slenderness indicating elegance, power and speed.

Many Mechanical Features Beneath the distinctive trim of the new Dodge bodies, the motor bent on mechanical research finds much to interest him: an improved spring suspension that contributes new elements to the Dodge air-slide ride; a new steering geometry that relieves the steering mechanism from road and wheel disturbances; an improved "ride levulator" which synchronizes the action of the springs; a further strengthened bridge-type X-frame; a steel construction which makes Dodge Safety Steel bodies structures of even greater rigidity and safety; automatic control features that exempt the driver from many manual operations; a finger-tip speed-changing mechanism; genuine, self-equalizing hydraulic brakes... and many other details through which driving and riding ease, safety and economy are promoted to further heights.
