Hello Everybody!

"Door of Death"
By FLOYD GIBBONS

TIME and again I've told you boys and girls yarns that—well—sort of proved that adventures happen to you most often, not when you go to some special place or on some special sort of trip, but in familiar, workaday places that you're accustomed to visit every day of your lives.

It's a tale of subway adventure that we're going to hear today—a story told to me by Matthew Creagan of Jamaica, N. Y. Matt left his home and went down to the Lexington avenue subway one day in 1921—Tuesday, November 13, to be exact about it—and before he got out of it, he had the most hair-raising experience his life has had to offer, either before or since.

Matt started out to pay a visit to some friends of his who lived on Staten Island. He went down to the subway platform, and, when the right train came along, he got in the first car. He stayed on the train until it reached South Ferry, and then he started to get off.

His Foot Was Caught in the Door.

Matt was the last passenger to get off that car. The door was closing as he went through it. As he stepped onto the platform with his right foot, the door closed on his left foot and held it tight.

It was the sort of accident that happens once in a million years. You know how those subway doors are built and how they operate. The train can't start until every door is fully closed and automatically locked in place. But in order to save people from being hurt by the doors as they slide shut, they've put a big soft cushion covered by a rubber flap on the side of each one. That cushion has three or four inches of play in it. That three or four inches was just enough to catch a firm hold on Matt's foot, and that and lock at the same time.

Matt twisted around and tried to pull his foot loose, but it wouldn't come out. Then, suddenly, Matt's heart froze as a jar shook the whole train. IT WAS STARTING! The closed locked doors had been the motorist's signal to get ahead.

Matt let out a yell. There was a guard standing between two cars just twenty or thirty feet away, but he didn't hear. The train began to pull out of the station. Matt looked around frantically for something to grab hold of. If he could get a good grip on a post or a handle of some sort, he might wrench his foot loose. He might hurt that foot pretty badly, it's true. But even breaking it clean off would be better than being dragged and taking a chance under the wheels of the car.

Dragged Along, Head Downward.

But there was nothing to catch hold of. Matt fell to the platform and was dragged along. The train moved on, picking up speed as it went. Matt let out one last yell as the end of the platform came moving up to meet him, but no one heard that yell, either. And then his body was falling—over the platform's edge—down, toward the tracks. In a split second he was HANGING HEAD DOWNWARD from that subway door, while the train bowed along toward the next station.

Matt is short of stature, and for the first time in his life he was glad of it. For his head did not quite reach the tracks. Had he been just a few inches taller, the top of his cranium, dragged over that concrete floor studded with hard wooden railroad ties, would have been battered to a pulp before the train had gone back a block. As it was, that head of Matt's was in danger, from the various obstacles and projections that lined the side of the track.

Matt remembers trying to hold himself tight up against the side of the train to avoid those projections, as well as the pillars that went flashing by. The train was going full speed now. It was an express train, and Matt also remembers being glad the accident had happened to him downtown, where the express trains stopped at every station.

The next station was Bowling Green, for the train had swung around the loop at South Ferry, and now was on its uptown trip. Would he still be alive when he got there? Matt wondered about that.

Unconscious, But Saved.

Something caught Matt's coat—ripped it from his back. A few yards farther on, his vest went the same way. His shirt was being torn to ribbons. The roar of the wheels—terribly close to his head—filled his heart with horror. That upside-down position was causing the blood to rush to his head. He felt weak from the shock of it all. Suddenly, HIS HEAD HIT SOMETHING. A great light flashed before Matt's eyes—and then he was unconscious.

One train was slowing down now—though Matt didn't know it. It was rolling on into the Bowling Green station. If the guard opened the door of the car, Matt's foot would be released and he would fall to the track. But the guard didn't open the door. There were no passengers waiting to get on up at that far end of the platform. Doors of other cars opened and slid shut again. But the one that imprisoned Matt's foot remained closed.

The train was ready to roll on to the next station—and there's no telling what would have happened to Matt then—when a watchman, standing on the platform, saw the foot thrust through the door. He took a flashlight from his pocket and looked down into the crack between the train and the platform. There was Matt—DANGLING—SENSELESS.

The watchman notified the guard. The guard opened the door, and Matt's foot fell to the track. The motorman blew the emergency whistle, and some men working near the station came and dragged Matt out. He woke up in the Broad Street hospital.

Matt pulled out of it all right—and if there's one thing he's thankful for it's that he's a small enough man to fit in the space between a subway door and the ground without dragging. The big guys can have their six feet if they want it. "The bigger you are," says Matt, "the more things you knock your head against."

The Man's Home Rule

The Isle of Man has its own unique form of home rule. It is out of the British Parliament applies to the island unless expressly so stated in the law. The Court of the Isle of Man, one of the oldest legislative assemblies in the world, consists of a lieutenant-governor appointed by the crown, and two chambers, the council and the house of keys. The twenty-four members of the latter are elected by popular vote, in which women share equal rights with men. All measures must pass both council and keys, and receive approval from the sovereign.

Home Transferred to India

The line is indigenous to India and was probably introduced into the Western Hemisphere by Columbus on his second voyage. Some time later they were found growing wild in the Florida keys. In "The King of the Mayflower," and other stories that they were brought to Plymouth by the Pilgrims. Another source states that George Washington collected a seedling and sent it to him of the West Indies in 1776 to bring back a barrel of them. "If you had these good seedlings,"

The Roman Empire

The Roman Empire at its greatest territorial extent from A. D. 96 to 117 covered the territory now included in the following countries: England, Netherlands, Belgium, France, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Italy, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Lachin, Austria, Hungary, Albania, Greece, Turkey, Syria, Iraq, Palestine, Egypt, Italian Libya, Tunisia, the hinterlands of Algeria and Morocco, Spain, Portugal, and all the islands dotting the Mediterranean sea, the Adriatic, the Aegean, the Indian and the Black seas.

General Grant's Dress

General Grant went in citizen's clothes to the Capitol when he was sworn in as President. He was of a practical mind in his dress, except that he often appeared in public driving his own team, when he might have been mistaken for an ordinary horse jockey. There was that in his demureness peculiar to the greatness of the man—dignified simplicity—a dress well suited to him a thing to be admired. Grant was a bit at the table with his wife and children.

Ohio and Mississippi Valleys Devastated by Flood

1—Flood refugees load their possessions aboard a truck prior to fleeing to higher ground. 2—Cat is marooned on a second story window ledge as Ohio river flood waters rise. 3—Flood sufferers at Portsmouth, Ohio, are fed by boatmen who row about streets, handing bread to refugees above the water line.

Tank Cars of Drinking Water for Flood Sufferers

Tank cars, normally milk cars, are shown being loaded with water in Chicago and started southward to the flood-scoured sufferers in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys where water was so contaminated that it was unsafe for human consumption.

Coast Guard Rescues Flood Victims

Flood victims in coast guard boats shown arriving at Jeffersonville, Ind., across the river from Louisville, Ky., where they were placed on refugee trains and taken to safety further north. Floods on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers were the worst in the history of the country. More than 1,000,000 people were made homeless by the treacherous waters that rose over retaining walls, inundated cities and towns and covered rich farm areas. Damage of property exceeded half a billion dollars.

Orphans of the Flood Find Refuge

Refugee children from the flooded districts of northern and western Arkansas are shown asleep on the floor of a railroad station following their rescue. With millions of acres of farm land under water and countless cities inundated, the Ohio and Mississippi valleys appeared the most devastating flood in history.

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

Father of the County Fair

IF YOU remember pleasantly that high spot in the days of your youth—"going to the county fair"—you should remember gratefully the name of Elkanah Watson. For he was the "father" of this typically-American institution and he is all the more worthy of honor because he labored in the face of difficulty and prejudice to bring it into being.

Watson was born in Massachusetts in 1756 and his natural Yankee shrewdness was enlivened by travel and adventure. Finally he settled down on a farm near Pittsfield, Mass. But he could not be content there and, as he said, "To fill up the void in an active mind led me first to conceive the idea of an agricultural society on a plan different from all others."

So in 1807 he secured the first pair of Merino sheep ever brought to his state and exhibited them under a great elm in the public square in Pittsfield. They attracted so much attention that he decided it would be a good thing to have other owners to show their livestock. But he soon discovered that this wasn't so easy for the farmers were afraid to take part in such an exhibition lest they be laughed at.

However, after three years he got 26 of them to sign an "appeal" for a cattle show and this was such a success that an agricultural society was formed with Watson as president. The next year he began the fair with a parade and closed it with a grand ball. Also prizes to the amount of $70 were offered. By the next year the premiums had risen to $200 and the fair was so popular with the men that he decided the next thing to do was to make it "respectable" by getting the indorsement of the clergy and the women.

But that was more difficult for the clergy regarded such things as "irreligious" and women's place was still very much in the home—not in the public eye. But with the aid of his wife he finally prevailed upon them to exhibit their weaving and sewing and be present when the awards were made. When they did so, the legislature of New York was caused and for the next 13 years Watson labored to extend the idea into other states. By 1819 he had induced the legislature of New York to pass an annual appropriation of $10,000 to aid societies in staging fairs and from that time on the county fair became an established American institution.

"The Spirit of '76"

IT STARTED out as a humorous sketch and it ended up as one of the most famous of all American paintings. It is the story of the patriotic picture, "The Spirit of '76." The story of the painter is equally interesting. Archibald Willard, while serving as a soldier in the Union army, often amused himself by making sketches of army life to send back home. After the war he painted a huge panorama of war scenes which he began exhibiting. But people wanted to forget about the war and his venture was a failure. So he went back to his home in Washington, Ohio, and got a job with a wagonmaker, painting decorations on the wagons and occasionally doing the same work on the gaudy circus chariots of that period.

Willard also continued making sketches and one came to the attention of James F. Ryder, a Cleveland photographer and art dealer. He encouraged Willard, made sketches from several of his pictures and from their sale Willard was able to study art in New York.

In 1876, the year of the Philadelphia Centennial, Ryder suggested that Willard draw a picture appropriate to the celebration. So he decided not to work on a humorous picture showing three rural musicians at a Fourth of July celebration and depicting the two drummers as having imbibed too freely in honor of the occasion.

Then his father, who was the original of the middle figure, the tall drummer, fell ill and it was apparent that he would not live long. Willard reproached himself for having his father a figure in a comic picture of that character and the idea of "The Spirit of '76" was born in his mind. He worked furiously in the daytime to complete the picture and at night sat by the side of his father. But the older Willard did not live to see the finished product nor to learn how he was to be immortalized as the white-haired patriot in his son's great picture.

Ryder made reproductions which were sold at the centennial in Philadelphia and they were so successful that they made it possible for the artist to complete the picture. During the time it was on exhibition some very clever crooks had crept in front of it. These three men reproduced it of their own accord by the hundreds of thousands. Willard died in 1918, many years before his death in 1918 but some of them were known as "The Spirit of '76" men.

Golden Gate Salad.
½ pound of fresh marshmallows cut in halves.
2 nice oranges, carefully peeled and cut in small pieces.
2 bananas, cut in delicate pieces.
2 thick slices of fresh pineapple cut in the same way.
1 large tart apple, cut fine.
½ pint bottle of red marshmallow cherries, cut in half, with juice.
½ pint jar of french maroons, broken up, with sirup.
The delicate inner stalks of one head of celery, cut in small pieces.
½ pound of fresh pecans or English walnuts.
Mix nuts, fruit, celery together in dish and put in icebox.

Dressing.

½ pint of thick cream.
Whip cream and mix with mayonnaise and juice of half a lemon. An hour before serving mix dressing lightly with salad and sprinkle with plenty of paprika. Serve very cold on crisp lettuce leaves.
I like this salad very much. I ate it first in California, so I call it Golden Gate salad. It is best made of fresh fruits, but it can be made of canned fruits. At home we often serve it instead of dessert, with a little more whipped cream.

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN

Social Security Act Not For Aged Alone, Says Welfare Commissioner

Jacksonville, Feb. 10.—(Special)—Popular demand for old age pensions has overshadowed the needs of another large group—dependent children—who can receive assistance through grants of federal funds under provisions of the National Social Security Act, according to Conrad Van Hyning, State Welfare Commissioner.

In an article in the forthcoming Social Welfare Review, Van Hyning points to the needs of 25,000 dependent children in Florida. "Popular sentiment in the State is supporting an appropriation for old age assistance at the next session of the legislature. The people who recognize the need for security for the aged, if fully informed as to the importance of a Mother's Aid program, will support an appropriation for this purpose with equal seriousness," he says.

"The State Board of Social Welfare has conducted a study during the past year to determine the number of children who are motherless or fatherless, and who are in need of help from the State and National governments. The study shows that there are between 20,000 and 25,000 such children living in 8,000 to 10,000 homes. All of these children are in serious need."

One of the public assistance provisions of the security act enables the states to receive one-third of the total cost of granting aid to needy children from federal funds earmarked for this purpose. This is similar to the provision which enables the states to receive federal funds amounting to half the total cost for aid to the needy aged. Mr. Van Hyning points out that aid to dependent children, known popularly as Mother's Aid, or Widows' Pensions, is not a new type of assistance. "In fact," he says, "it is the oldest of the categorical relief forms and has been operating in a number of states for many years. It gained its popularity long before the movement for old age pensions gathered any momentum."

"Pointing to the laws in Florida, he continued, 'Eighteen years ago the Florida legislature passed a law permitting counties to give Mother's Aid, and provided for special taxes to raise the necessary funds. In the last few years the number of counties in Florida which have made payments to mothers for the care of dependent children has dropped from 44 in 1929 to 32 in 1935.' The present program in Florida, Van Hyning sees as wholly inadequate. At present the program is carried on in the counties, and reaches about one-third of the children who need assistance. The average payment is about $2.50 per child per month. This amount is obviously insufficient."

EDITORIAL

OUR POLICY

To present school news in a fair and impartial way.
To uphold Avon Park high school's traditions.
To promote better school spirit and student cooperation.
To aid student government.
To support the safety patrol.
To aid in school beautification.
To help establish an activity point system.
To create higher ideals of sportsmanship.
To promote higher scholarship.

UNIFORMS DISTINGUISH

Uniforms for the school traffic regulators have been approved by the student council.

These uniforms should greatly increase the effectiveness of the traffic regulators.

These patrolmen might blow their horns out at some stubborn motorist, who is breaking traffic regulations, and not get any results because of the fact that he drives through him to be just another boy blowing a whistle to effect his feeling the boys should have uniforms by which their authority might be recognized. This is one of the reasons why the idea of traffic uniforms is so desirable to us.

Having a system of traffic regulations is in every way beneficial to the school as well as to the motorist. Unless there is a system of traffic regulations, there might be an accident which might injure some of the students.

Almost every school of good standing has a system of traffic regulation by the students and it has been found to be very effective. We see by this, that it is not merely another experiment, but is helpful to the school in which it is practiced.

SCOUTS HONOR FOUNDER

"I pledge to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." This oath takes special attention this week all over the United States.

In honor of the founder of the boy scouts organization, this week has been set aside as one which holds the highest ideals of the Boy Scouts of America.

This week marks the twenty-seventh anniversary of this widely known group of young men. When Daniel Beard first organized a group of boys under the name of "scouts" he foresaw an organization of boys standing for higher ideals and a better understanding of the laws of nature. At the beginning there were only a few members of this group but today there are a million boys who attend the weekly meetings.

Learning the scout laws and morals these boys go on in life better men with a distinct idea of right and wrong.

Nearly every community in the United States has some patrol of scouts grouped together under some troop and standing for the betterment of the town in which they live. The good that these boys do in carrying out their daily deeds has helped many people to see the right side of life and to carry on.

The boy scout organization is held high in the eyes of the most important men in our country and they are willing to help these boys in any way possible to become the men whom important men emerge from this group.

In honor of all the scouts and their first leader, we hold this week as one of good deeds and good fellowship.

Devils don't misers to-night. Let's hope they don't meet the devils.

Problems Before Congress Is Essay By Dorothy Hughes

Material Is Part of Listing Of Grade In American History Class

The following is an essay written for American history class by Dorothy Hughes as a part of her six weeks history contract.

All history students are required to write an essay each report period to obtain an "A." Mr. R. S. Funderburk, instructor, said that he considers this one of the best written essays for this six weeks period.

MAJOR PROBLEMS BEFORE THE 75TH CONGRESS

By Dorothy Hughes

Congress came back to life on Tuesday, January 5, and headed in to one of the hardest year's work it has ever faced.

The 53rd congress will be confronted with approximately 18,000 bills if all that are brought are presented. In many cases, they will only extend, or amend slightly, the present laws.

In his annual message to Congress, President Roosevelt said that the following problems must be tackled:

1. The danger of future depression must be prevented.

2. America must be properly housed so that the health of future generations will not be endangered.

3. Something must be done to help the farmers who are tenants rather than landowners.

4. An amendment to the Social Security Act, which was not before adequately provided for, must be passed.

5. Unemployment must be taken care of.

6. Wages are too low and unfair trade practices exist. President Roosevelt wants government regulation of industry.

7. A new neutrality law must be passed to take the place of the present law which expires May 1.

Drive on Munitions

After it convened, Congress promptly opened a drive on munitions legislation which would ban shipments of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to strife-torn Spain.

Spain, the new war, Congress passed a law forbidding war trade with Spain, but this happened too late to catch the first shipment of arms and supplies to the loyalists.

Less than an hour before the House was able to decide whether shipments to Spain were unlawful, the Spanish freighter, Mar Cantabrico, left New York harbor with a cargo of eight American airplanes and more than $2,000,000 worth of munitions, food, clothing, and other supplies.

The coast guard patrol boat, Icarus, stopped the Mar Cantabrico off Sandy Hook on a writ of attachment but the writ was not sufficient authority to stop the Spanish freighter. Although this shipment shipped through, the bill stopped $4,500,000 shipment of munitions from San Francisco.

The following features of a proposed neutrality bill are now being considered by congressmen:

1. The new neutrality law should forbid the sale of arms and munitions to warring nations just as the law forbids the sale of arms to belligerents.

2. Some congressmen want the war materials to include a forbidden list of materials such as oil, copper, scrap iron, steel, fuel, and other supplies.

Relief Problems

President Roosevelt on January 11 asked Congress for $700,000,000 to finance relief during the next five months. He asked a maximum of $1,853,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1938 to care for the nation's destitute and idle.

Statistics showed that relief rolls were being reduced steadily until drought hit the middle west. Then many families were placed on relief and from the work projects, were transferred to the resettlement administration.

In addressing his second week's work, Congress faced with the problems concerning regulation of hours and wages, and licensing in business.

One of the 50-hour work limit that shorter working hours, instead of raising the standards of living as many think it will, would often cause a loss in wages or half business activity with a consequent increase in unemployment.

R. F. C. Johnson and a long line of bills to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The Senate extended its hearing process until June 30, 1937.

In approving this extension, Joseph R. Johnson, chairman of the R. F. C. said, "We propose to make the R. F. C. a steady agency in the future."

Senior Play Cast To Begin Practice During Next Week

Try-outs for parts in the senior class play were held Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon. Those best suited for the part will be selected by the sponsor to be in the cast of the play.

Since the seniors have so many conflicts, this class can not start regular night practice until February 22. A few afternoon practices will be held next week.

The sponsors are having a hard time trying to select the leading man, because they say that they can not find a "Girl-Shy" boy in the senior class. Announcement of the cast will be made in next week's paper.

Avon Park's Teams Will Play 8 Games To Complete Season

Avon Park's teams will play eight more conference games this season although the boys will play one or more games in the tournament which will be held in the Armory February 25 and 26.

The girls have lost two conference games while the boys have a perfect record in their league. Only three games are scheduled this season for the local floor of which there will be one played between the Haines City Hornets and the Red Devil boys' teams on March 2 and a game with the Sebring Maroons on Wednesday next week.

The girls who received new uniforms last week will play three teams that they have conquered on the local court. Fort Meade, Brewster and Sebring will be seeking the girls for the defeat, handed them by the red and white teams. These games will be played away from home.

One week from tonight the girls will battle the last time this year when they clash with Brewster in the first game of a double header.

The Brewster boys gave the Avon Park outfit a battle and offered a strong opposition as the Devil's worked hard to keep on the long end of the score and finally won 26 to 23.

The high light of the season will be seen February 25 and 26 when all teams in the conference come together and play a series of elimination games which will decide the winner of the conference championship.

Since the new season has begun, the Avon Park team has played all of their Ridge foes on the local floor, the two best teams might not have been seen by many of the local fans who will be able to witness the "game of champions" on the local floor.

Drawings have not been made yet for the tournament but each coach will bring his boys up to take home the championship.

Large Scores Make Frostproof Defeat History of Season

Avon Park's basketball teams trounced the Frostproof Bullpups by scores of 10-1 for the girls and 52-17 for the boys.

The Red Devil girls began a victorious attack in the second quarter and had a score of 6-0 by the end of the first half.

The Frostproof girls tightened up after the second quarter and it was not so easy for the girls to keep up the pace they had begun, but the Devils emerged with the final score of 10-1 in their favor.

"The Devils" outplayed the "Bullpups" in every minute of the game. Ed Touchton made the first goal and was the star of the game by being high point man with a total of 25 points during the game.

Touchton was followed by Mar-well who made 15 points.

The lineup for Avon Park girls was: F.—Wever (4), Betts (4), Sundstrom, Reddick, Sadler, Elden, Felt, G.—Correll, Delaney, Eugene, Hauldred, Stobbs, Mathis and Townsend.

The lineup for the Frostproof girls included: F.—Bend (1), Lamb, Hauldred, Stobbs, Mathis, G.—Manley, Payne, Payne, Uppel and Mann.

The lineup for Avon Park boys was composed of: F.—Gribble (10), G.—Winham (6), G.—Gribble, Martin (1), G. Wild (1), Bailey (1), Chommes, Shortie, first center, E. Wild and McWhorter (15).

The boys from Frostproof included: F.—M. Edwards (1), Fugh, Edwards, G.—Shullman, G.—Thompson (3), Smith (3), and Dunson (3).

ATTENTION, PLEASE!

Redland Team Beats Avon Park 32-22 Here Friday Night

The Redland high school team defeated the Avon Park high school team with a score 32-22 by breaking in the game played Friday night in the Armory.

The game opened with Redland's team breaking fast under the basket for the first three goals before Avon Park scored. Fans saw the fastest play of basketball ever seen on the local floor from the starting.

At the half the score was 14 for Redland and 8 for Avon Park.

This was only the second time that Avon Park has been defeated this season. The Redland boys played a different type of basketball which was faster and more spectacular than the Devil's game.

The lineup for Avon Park: F.—Touchton (9); Lynn (2); G.—Winham; G.—Meriwether (9); Gribble (2); Cooley; Martin.

The lineup for Redland: F.—Campbell (15); Graham (2); G.—Edwards (6); G.—Chambers (2); G.—Conner (2); Vilms (2); Vrana; Gwelfin.

Raze Old Bleachers After Eleven Years Of Faithful Service

The old bleachers around the basketball court have finally been torn down. They have held many crowds of eager spectators. They have seen Avon High defeated, and they have seen her victorious. After eleven years of service the old bleachers are being discarded for the new armory.

The seats were torn down under the supervision of Mr. C. D. Nolan, janitor, and the work was done by the seventh and eighth grade boys at the instigation of the student council. Mr. Nolan plans to make benches out of the best boards, and to use the rest for fire wood.

School Band Plays At St. Anne's Shrine

"The Avon Park high school band has been asked to give an hour concert at St. Anne's Shrine, 2nd afternoon at St. Anne's Shrine, near Lake Wales," says Mr. E. L. Roberts, music instructor.

If transportation can be arranged, the band will go. Several selections from the band library will be played.

8 More Students From Fifth Grade Make Honor Roll

Eight fifth grade students were on the honor roll last month, but their names failed to appear in last week's paper because of an error of one of the teachers.

The students who were omitted were: F.—M. Edwards (1), Fugh, Edwards, G.—Shullman, G.—Thompson (3), Smith (3), and Dunson (3).

Tenth Grade Gives One Act Playlet

The character parts were: Harry Thompson, John Edwin White, Ed Harman, M. W. Mary Louie, Harry Peter Brand, Mary Louie, Harold O'Brien, Emma Brand, M. W. Mary Louie.

Good Betty took the title and made the announcement.

Parents and Guardians Invite To See Schools' Exhibits Early In Spring

"Open House" will be observed for all parents and guardians the second Thursday in May in the Avon Park schools.

Each teacher will have the finest school work on exhibit on this day to show the parents what the students have done throughout the school year in actual classroom work.

Way will not interfere in any way with the regular class schedule, as classes will go on as usual.

Parents and guardians are expected to make an "all around trip" and visit all rooms.

"I am informing you now that you may prepare your best lessons and exhibit your best work at that time," said Dr. Stanley N. Reeves, principal, to the teachers early this week.

Scientists Inspect Telephone Office and Western Union

The eighth grade science classes supervised by Miss Dorothy Hicks, visited the Western Union and Inter-County Telephone Co. offices Tuesday to study the mechanism of the telephone and the telegraph.

Mr. V. H. Surrency, manager of the Western Union office, showed them the transmitting and receiving machine. He explained to them the technique of receiving and sending messages at the same time. The manager then discussed the emergency set up, which is to be used in case something happens to the other machines. Mr. Surrency demonstrated how the frequency in timing the machine could be raised or lowered. The classes were shown how the sending set resembles a typewriter. Several messages were received and sent while the students were there and the classes had a practical illustration in this type of work.

They were then escorted around to the telephone exchange where Mr. J. L. Delong is the manager, but the classes were shown through the plant by Mr. G. F. McAllister, who is company equipment supervisor over 14 exchanges.

Mr. McAllister first showed the class how different frequencies caused different bells to ring on the same party line. Then, he pointed out the trunk lines and how the wires from each individual telephone were brought into the exchange. He showed how connections were made and how the time clock works on toll calls.

"We do wish that these two companies could know how much this field trip helped us to understand this phase of our science," expresses the students on their return, "and we do thank them for their interest."

Girls Handed New Uniforms at Game

Eighteen Avon Park girls were each handed a brand new red and white uniform in display in the Avon Park-Frostproof game last before the change.

For the benefit of persons who haven't seen them as yet: they are a light red-white combination with white during which which makes the red black letters and numbers upon them stand out clearly to the spectators. The pattern was made to fit with no mistakes.

There is a label on the inside of the collar and the sleeves which reads: "Avon Park High School, 1937."

The girls have been handicapped by not having proper uniforms. They were wanted in Avon Park game last week.

Michigan Troops Called to Check Strike Riots

GENERAL MORTON and city police in Flint, Mich., came into violent conflict with strikers there and the sheriff declared he couldn't handle the situation, so he called on the governor for troops. The National Guard of the state was mobilized and the units already in Flint moved into the strike zone and formed a military blockade. They were ordered to clear the area around the plants but not to enter the buildings unless there was renewed violence.

This outbreak came while Judge Paul Godola was hearing arguments for and against an injunction to eject the sit-down strikers from the Fisher Body plants.

The violence resulted in a new sit-down strike in a Chevrolet plant and the announcement by the union leaders that they would close every General Motors plant in the country.

Secretary of Labor Perkins and Gov. Frank Murphy had been unsuccessful in all efforts to bring R. M. C. chiefs and John L. Lewis together for peace conference, because President Sloan of the corporation insisted that the plants must be evacuated by the strikers. Miss Perkins thereupon asked congress for legislation empowering her department to subpoena persons and papers in connection with strike investigations.

Forty thousand employees of the corporation had been called back to plants in Michigan and Indiana and on part time work, and they and other non-union workers were assured again by Sloan that their rights would be protected.

Sloan contends that more than 100,000 G. M. employees have expressed a desire to return to work. Lewis scoffs at this claim but will not countenance the holding of an election to determine whether the unions command the majority necessary to constitute them the sole collective bargaining agency. The federal labor relations board could order such an election but it has not intervened, and probably will not.

Richberg Is Drafting New Labor Bill

LEGISLATIONS were held by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee on Feb. 10, when the bill was designed to give the government control over business; but it is probable this will be less radical than the bill drafted by Sen. Richberg, former head of the NRA. The Richberg bill will be less radical than O'Mahoney's and presumably will be introduced as an administration measure.

So far little is known of it except that it will cover labor relations, minimum and maximum hours and outlaw child labor. Probably it will also include the licensing features considerably modified.

Some officials in Washington regard the O'Mahoney bill as a "feeler." It would require corporations doing business in interstate commerce to obtain federal licenses which would include stipulations on wages and hours of employees and prohibit the use of child labor.

But actually the bill would go much farther, including almost every reform in labor relations, trade practices, and corporation structure and financing that has ever been proposed during the past 25 years. A more sweeping draft, and all-inclusive proposal could hardly be drafted. It was warmly endorsed by the American Federation of Labor.

The O'Mahoney bill would vest the licensing power in the federal trade commission, enlarging the present board five members to nine. It was thought likely that the Richberg draft would eliminate the commission and vest the licensing power in a new board or commission created to administer the proposed law.

Quitter Denies "War Oil"

CHANCELLOR HILLER, as was expected, stirred up a lot of doubt by his speech on the fourth anniversary of the German invasion of Poland. With dramatic emphasis he demanded two as a reciprocal for the "Venus" treaty, those dealing with war guilt, the Reichstag and the railroad.

Of the former he said: "Germany signed from that declaration of war upon a weak government... the declaration to the effect that Germany was guilty of starting the 'war'."

He then declared that the Reichstag and the railroad were the only two things that Germany had left. He then declared that the Reichstag and the railroad were the only two things that Germany had left.

INFLUENCED to a great extent by thousands of letters from fans, Norma Shearer has definitely decided to make more pictures. From New York, where she went to visit Helen Hayes, she telephoned the studio that she would come back soon ready to begin preparatory work on "Marie Antoinette." She chose this story in preference to any other because she had discussed every detail of its production with her husband before his death. Actual date of production depends on Charles Laughton, because she is determined to have him in the cast and he is under contract to make several pictures in England. It is good to know that we will be seeing Norma on the screen again.

Crest of the Flood Moves

Down the Mississippi

GRADUALLY the terrible flood in the Ohio valley subsided, but the yellow torrents were pouring down the lower Mississippi and the nation was mobilized to save the people there. By direction of the President and Gen. MacArthur, headquarters in Craig, chief of staff, the army made preparations for the evacuation of the millions of inhabitants along the river. The evacuation of the millions of inhabitants along the river. The evacuation of the millions of inhabitants along the river.

General MacArthur

Headquarters for this mass movement were worked out to the last point by commanding officers in the region and thousands of motor trucks and railroad flat cars were collected. Headquarters for the evacuation were set up at Jackson, Miss.

The secretary of war authorized the use of not only regular army troops but also members of the Civilian Conservation Corps, the National Guard, and the Red Cross. General Craig said that if the billion dollar levee system, erected after the great 1827 flood, failed to hold, about the same area affected then would be lost. Thousands of people already had been removed from homes along the Mississippi, but cities like Memphis and Vicksburg, being on high ground, were believed to be safe.

At this writing the effects of the flood may be thus summarized: Homes, nearly a million. Dead, probably more than 500, including 300 in Louisville. Damage, conservatively estimated at more than $200,000,000.

Congress hurried through a deficiency appropriation of $5,000,000 which the President promised would be made available in the flood relief, and the American Red Cross, working at high speed, was raising a fund of $100,000 to which the people of the entire country were liberally contributing. Supplies of food, clothing, and medicine were being sent to the flood-stricken areas. Paducah was completely evacuated, and most of the inhabitants of Cairo were removed. The flood water at the latter city was feared to close to the top of the reinforced levees and it was feared the protections would not be sufficient.

Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, and other members of the special flood relief committee named by President Roosevelt, went to the flood areas with the expressed intention of seeing that the job of caring for the refugees was well done. Mr. Hopkins indicated he was prepared to refund $750,000,000—the entire deficiency work relief budget—for flood relief if necessary.

Accompanying Mr. Hopkins were Maj. Edward T. Markham, chief of army engineers; Surgeon General Thomas Parrish, Jr.; James F. Foley, vice chairman of the Red Cross, and Colonel F. C. Harrington, Jr., WPA engineer.

England Would Check Our Neutrality Legislation

A WALTER RUNCIMAN, president of the British board of trade, ended his visit at the White House, which President Roosevelt had said was to be merely social, he told the press that he and the President had agreed in principle on a reciprocal tariff treaty. Later it was revealed that his main purpose in coming to the United States was to sound off, if possible, the proposed neutrality measure which Great Britain, if involved in war, would be unable to purchase from the United States.

It was reported that he told Mr. Roosevelt that if such legislation were passed England would not enter into a reciprocal tariff treaty, but he also said that he had supplies, in peace time as well as in war time, of the complete sovereignty of the German government.

The Fuehrer reiterated Germany's demand for eventual return of her colonies, and offered co-operation with other nations for peace and economic development. But he repeated his determination not to deal with Czechoslovakia and Lithuania out of the list of nations with which he was willing to make agreements. He promised Belgium and Holland their territory would not be violated, and said there was "no humanly conceivable point of dispute between France and Germany."

Foreign Minister Delbos of France, commenting on the speech, was not hopeful that Hitler's attitude would make European disarmament an easy task. He said, too, that Soviet Russia might be excluded from the "international community."

A most original and welcome gift is something that you make yourself, giving that personal touch that means so much. A charming suggestion is a nightgown "bib" made of dainty lace. It is so easy to slip on for breakfasting or reading in bed, and is that becoming you will be wanting to make another one. Do not be too busy to keep for your own.

One who has been made in insertion lace gathered and joined row-and-row to form a circle measuring not less than twelve inches across. Satin ribbons were attached at the top and tied around the neck. There is great opportunity for originality in making these "bibs" for you can vary their shape, having them round, square, in triangle form or whatever strikes your fancy. You can use lace edgings, or insertions or all-over lace and decorate with the widest band of lace. You can express yourself to your friends and know that you are selecting a gift that is sure to delight any feminine heart.

LESSON FOR FEBRUARY 14

JESUS THE GOOD SHEPHERD

LESSON TEXT—John 10:1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd gives his life for the sheep. John 10:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Good Shepherd. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Good Shepherd. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Is Like a Shepherd. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Our Good Shepherd.

The blind man who had been healed had been cast out of the synagogue because he had given glory to his healing to Jesus Christ (see ch. 9). The door to that which stood for all that was sacred to him had been closed. Whether should he turn? Look! Here comes someone seeking him. It is Jesus, who now declares that the door which men have closed was not true door at all for he says, "I am the door of the sheep." Those who professed to be shepherding the flock and who had cast this poor man out were but hirelings. Now he speaks to the One who says, "I am the good Shepherd."

Someone has suggested that the parable of the good shepherd presents the whole day in the life of the shepherd and his flock, morning, noon, and night, and typifies the ministry of Christ on our behalf in the varying circumstances of life.

I. In the Morning (John 10:1-6).

Flocks were sometimes kept in the field at night, as was the case on the night when Jesus was born in Bethlehem. But ordinarily they were brought into a sheepfold where they gathered for protection. Thieves would climb the wall to steal sheep, but the shepherd, when he came in the morning to lead his flock, entered in by the door. He called out his flock by name and they knew his voice. It is not only a sick sheep that will follow a stranger, which may explain why so many false claims of our day appeal to the sick and lead them away from the Good Shepherd.

Do you know his voice? Have you responded to his call? Will you follow him? Decide now.

II. In the Heat of the Day (vv. 7-10).

Perhaps the sheep need to enter the fold to rest, if so he is the door. But they may wish to go out to the pasture again. He is the door to the pasture. He is the door to the pasture. He is the door to the pasture.

III. When Night Comes (vv. 11-16).

The wolves come out as the shadows gather. They come to kill and to scatter. Where is the shepherd? If he is only a hireling, he will flee. How perfectly this picture religious leaders who, in spite of their preaching words and ingratitude, desert the flock in the hour of adversity. Fair weather friends are they, who disappear when danger and danger appear.

In the darkest hour Jesus is nearest at hand. He never fails. He has no fear, for he has the taste of Calvary's tree for you and for me? He is the good shepherd. He gives his life for the sheep. Those who have put their trust in him shall never be put to shame.

Because he has given his life for the sheep we must not forget nor neglect the truth found in verse 18. There are "other shepherds" that have not yet been brought into the fold. They must be brought in, and we, on his behalf, must bring them, that there may "be one fold and one shepherd."

Two Voices

Do not be the voices of hope and cheer rising on every side and answering from land to land, proclaiming the promise of a better day in the future than any that have dawned in the past, prophesying through all discouragements and regrets that the course of mankind is not downward but upward, acknowledging that when all men are like Christ earth will be like Heaven? It is the divinity of King Jesus, manifested in human flesh, real, living, and eternal, the hope, the joy, the glory of mankind.—Van Dyke.

Should the President's bill pass, it is hardly surprising that he would name six justices who probably could share the views of New Deal legislation. He and his administration hold, but it has been the case in the past that once men enter upon the bench, the Court their views do not always remain the same. There is something about the atmosphere of that tribunal, aloof and sequestered, independent and impartial, as it is, which steadies the mind and purges away the passion of politics. Liberalism and conservatism develop into conservatives and conservatives become liberals. The high ideals and the high standards of the office are put on with their robes.

"ROBINSON CRUSOE"

Woman's Club Held First Meeting In New Club Rooms Last Friday Afternoon.

The Avon Park Woman's Club held its first meeting in the new club house on Friday afternoon, February 6. A fine turnout of club members and a number of visitors enjoyed this notable occasion.

The club house is very attractive from its three charming sets of double doors in front, on through to the very complete kitchen. The appointments, while not elaborate, are all in exceedingly good taste and the effect is home-like and dignified. Beautiful floral decorations of cacti and hellebores added to the beauty of the setting.

A great deal of credit is due to Mrs. M. E. Covington, chairman of the building committee, and to Mrs. S. Y. Hart, club house custodian, who, with their respective committees have worked faithfully to bring the club house to its present state of completion.

A beautiful electric range, which was presented to the club by the Florida Public Service Co., is a splendid addition to the kitchen.

Various other articles, both large and small, have been donated by club members and are being put to good use.

At the business session a committee was named to draw up resolutions thanking those who contributed to the club house fund.

Plans were discussed for a public house warming to be held at the club house Monday evening, February 15th at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy the club house.

The program for the afternoon was opened by the usual singing of "America the Beautiful," followed by the invocation by Rev. Lora Frink.

The speaker for the afternoon was E. P. Redfield of New York who is a guest at Gray Top Inn in Sebring. Mr. Redfield gave a very interesting travelogue describing a journey to South Africa by way of South America. He described a number of the South American cities, telling particularly of a Grand Carnival night spent in

Members and guests of the Social Club enjoyed a dance Friday evening at the Avon. Music was furnished by Cleve Smith. Chaperones for the evening were Mrs. M. E. C. McFerrin and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reeves.

Among those enjoying the evening were: Miss Gladys Helms, Martha Weaver, Evelyn Martin, Hilda Reddick, Margaret Loomis, Sylvia Ritchie, Jane Hart, Elizabeth Hetherington, Mary McCarthy, Jane Clements, Johnnie Sage, Helen Beckett, Mary Lydia, Helen Weaver, Barbara Kemp, Blanche McDuff, Dorothy Hume, Dorothy McNicholas, Francis Cloud, Barbara Betts and Mary Jane Sundstrom.

Veron Lanier, Cecil Cramley, Johnnie Wilkes, Edgar Bradbury, Junior Tuten, Harry Trueheart, Earle Lynn, Bill Klump, Johnnie Koppers and Morris McDuff.

Mrs. Gilmore Bridge Club Hostess.

Mrs. Alexander Gilmore was a charming hostess Tuesday afternoon when she entertained the members of her club and several guests at the Jacaranda Hotel.

The party room was beautifully decorated with vases and baskets of madonna lilies, calla lilies and gladioli.

Following several interesting progressions of contract, Mrs. S. C. Farver, hostess, awarded high prizes for the club and Mrs. C. E. Crabtree was presented high prize for the guests. Mrs. Lewis was winner of the scenic prize.

The Valentine motif was carried out in the delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake. Dainty Valentine corsages were presented to the tea guests.

Baptist W. M. S. With Mrs. Stuckey.

Circle No. 2 of the Baptist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Stuckey. The scripture was read by Mrs. J. D. Sherman and Mrs. Lora Frink taught the lesson for the afternoon.

A social hour followed at which delicious refreshments of cake and cups were served by the hostess to the following: Mrs. Lora Frink, Mrs. Louis Seibert, Mrs. W. P. Myers, Mrs. Charles Sherman, Mrs. Jim Feltz, Mrs. D. Sherman and Mrs. Frank Collins.

Buenos Aires. They being the only American group present and he the only man in the group, he was mistaken for President Roosevelt.

A visit to the Isle of Trinidad is next described briefly. Mr. Redfield then told in detail about the inhabitants of the island of Tristan de Cunha which is situated near the island of St. Helena. Many years ago a party of people was shipwrecked on this island.

When he arrived Captain Glass and his wife, together with two other couples, elected to remain and make their home on the island. Later they were joined by a group of shipwrecked sailors and still later by a group of mutinous sailors who were put ashore there.

These latter men requested the captain of a supply vessel to bring them wives so that they might establish homes. The vessel returned the captain had brought a number of full blooded negro women. These the mutineers promptly married. The island is a British possession and the government has often urged them to renounce their feuds.

Only two men have ever taken advantage of this offer and one of them returned to the island.

After this very interesting talk, Mr. Redfield answered a number of questions about these strange people. He was given a ringing vote of thanks.

Delicious light refreshments were served by Madam Covington, Todd, Gilmore and Hart.

The club is very happy to be in its new home and expects to be able to do many things for the community which were impossible without a club house.

Honey is not a complete food but it contains vitamins and small portions of practically every element found by the human body. As far as food value is concerned, it supplies almost 100 calories to the pound — thus ranking very high in the list of foods.

Europe uses this food extensively in cooking and in honeywine (Mead). We use it largely as a tasty spread or as a flavoring for frostings.

The attractive glass jars in which honey is marketed make it possible for the housewife to see exactly what she is buying. Often the modern producer puts the comb in the strained honey, plainly visible through the glass walls of the jar. Others have made their bottles in the shape of a hive, and troubadours — are now designed to be presentable and "socially acceptable."

These jars have a new twist: open one of these glass jars, do not use the contents merely as a "spread" but try one of these honey recipes and you will be delighted with your discovery.

Honey Date Strips

3 eggs, well beaten
1 cup honey
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup chopped nuts
1 pound chopped dates

Mix the honey and well beaten eggs, add baking powder and flour, sifted together, then chopped dates and nuts. Bake in long flat tin; mixture should not be more than 1/2 inch high. When baked, will be about 1 1/2 inch high. Cut in strips 1/2 inch wide and 2 inches long. Roll away in a crock; roll in powdered sugar before serving.

Honey, Apple, Cheese and Nut Salad

4 cups of apples, diced
2 cups cottage cheese
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup mayonnaise

Mix apples and cheese together. Add walnuts, honey and mayonnaise. Heap on beds of lettuce and two tablespoons of a dressing. Top with nut crumb.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay
Heating Expert

AVOID UNHEALTHY DRY AIR—Keep Radiator Humidifier Pans Filled With Water.

MANY winter colds are caused by hot, dry air in the home while the season for burning the furnace is on. Heat, of course, absorbs the moisture in the air. This hot air also dries out and damages furniture.

You can easily and inexpensively provide for air-moisture by keeping a "pan humidifier," or hot water pan, filled with water in each room of your home. Designed to hang out of sight on the back of radiators, these pans furnish water that can be evaporated by the radiator heat and provide moisture for the air in the rooms. This prevents the air from becoming too dry and lessens the chance of catching or spreading colds.

Warm air heating plants are equipped with humidifier pans. All you have to do is keep them filled with fresh water.

Life's Harmony

Life's harmony must have its discords, but as in music, pathos is tempered into pleasure by the pervading spirit of beauty, so are all life's sounds tempered by love.—George Henry Lewes.

Quick Relief with 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Repeat, if necessary, in two hours. If you also have a sore throat due to the cold, dissolve 3 Bayer tablets in 1/2 glass of water and gargle with this twice. The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever, aches, pains which usually accompany a cold. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from soreness and rawness of your throat. Your doctor, we feel sure, will approve this modern way. Ask your druggist for genuine Bayer Aspirin by its full name—not by the name "aspirin" alone.

The need of getting merchants and other business men to fraternize with them was pointed out and it was suggested by Francis Shockey that boats might be provided on Lake Verona at little expense. Advertising Avon Park is a waste of money unless preparations are made to entertain the visitors, W. M. Reek said.

J. M. McCord told of what had been done in other places to entertain visitors through wholehearted cooperation. He also mentioned plans for increasing the citrus business here and urged more get-together spirit in order to maintain a payroll. All must work together, he said.

Rotary Heard Splendid Talk On Lincoln Wed.

Of straight thinking he said Lincoln took long-range view of things and thought through to an objective. He exercised his sympathy without prejudice or malice and discrimination between principle and policy and insisted that programs must conform to principles.

In religion Lincoln was reverent, humble and obedient to God, knew the Bible intimately but never joined a church. His reason for this he explained once in writing as follows: "I do not see that I am more astray — though perhaps in a different direction — than many others whose points of view differ widely from each other in the sectarian denominations. They all claim to be Christians and interpret their several creeds as infallible ones. I doubt the possibility, or propriety, of settling the religion of Jesus Christ in the models of man-made creeds and dogmas. I have seen the possibility that he laid stress on and taught, if I read aright. I know I see it to be so with me. I have concluded to do this. I doubt the possibility of the detestable wrangles that once perplexed me with distractions that stirred up, but never absolutely settled anything. I have turned them aside with the doubtful differences that divide denominations. I have ceased to follow such discussions or be interested in them. I cannot without mental reservations assent to long and complicated creeds and catechisms. If the church would ask simply for assent to the Savior's statement of law 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind and with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and thy neighbor as thyself,' that church would I gladly unite with."

Dr. Allen closed his talk with a poem on Lincoln written by Thomas as Curtis Clark.

At this meeting Frank Costin was introduced and welcomed as a new member. Besides the speaker other visitors were: F. E. Murray and A. B. Cannon of Frostproof, Ralph B. Lyons and L. A. Fawcett of Lorain, O., Art Headaphol of Lima, O., R. R. Brown of Avon Park, V. L. Pearson of Southland, Ky., and Col. F. N. K. Bailey of Sebring.

Boy Scout Court of Honor Monday Eve. Had Very Busy Time

The Boy Scout court of honor held Monday evening had a very busy time with 14 new members and 14 new boys being admitted to the troop. W. T. Coates was chairman of the court.

The boys who have increased the troop enrollment are: Sanford Hartt, Fred Patterson, and William Heim, latter a brother of Jim Heim. Fred Kipp and R. H. Tull have transferred into Troop 57, Tull coming from Texaco. He is a star scout and it is hoped they will remain.

Walter Mandis and Harry Elliott are now fully pledged second class scouts and it is expected they will advance further.

The famous Hook Brothers, Bill and Randolph, were up before the court again for first class badges. These boys do not intend to let one get ahead of the other and apparently feel that if they keep appearing before the Court of Honor the committee will learn to call them by their first names.

The Todd boy has come to live again also and this time for five merit badges, making him eligible for the star scout. He will be placed on probation before given the award.

First aid was the most important badge for the night. Those who took this examination were: Herbert Todd, James Heim, Joe May, R. H. Tull, Randolph and Bill Hook. The swimming test was taken by the Hook Brothers, Todd and Heim taking the test. The music, handicraft and woodcarving tests all belonged to Todd. It is planned to hold another court of honor in the near future.

Cone Standing Pat On Budget

Demanding State Spending Be Reduced To 1934 Level

Jacksonville, Feb. 11.—(Special) —According to press releases from meetings of the State Budget Commission Governor Cone is standing "pat" on his previous proposals that state spending be reduced to the 1934 level of $35,000,000; and that the extravagant and uncontrolled practice of operating various state departments from continuing appropriations be abolished, on which he should have the active support of the people, says a statement released from the Tax Revision League headquarters here today.

The League's spokesman said, "In our opinion the governor's proposals are so soundly based on definite evidence that he intends to live up to his campaign promise of continuing appropriations be discontinued he is following the mandate of the State Constitution, as clearly expressed in Article 9, section 20, and Article 9, section 4."

The League said further, "We have studied the operating statements of the state very carefully and believe that Governor Cone's demand that expenses be reduced to the 1934 level is well taken. It is not reasonable to assume that total revenue receipts, from present revenue sources, for the next two years will be well above the amounts collected in 1934, due to the inequitable economic conditions. In addition to this, 1934 receipts of $35,000,000 included $5,473,000 Federal Aid Road Funds, whereas, 1935 receipts of $44,000,000 included only $2,150,000 Federal Aid Road Funds."

"Any one who will carefully analyze all the figures must admit that the governor has plenty of facts to support his statement that the state can pay $35,000,000 a year for the next two years and carry on the State Government efficiently without new taxes."

"It is of course understood that state departments and branches of government are justified in requesting an increase in their appropriations but many other appropriations should be drastically reduced and some completely abolished."

"While Governor Cone has the solid support of the taxpayers in his continued demand for economy, silent support may not be sufficient. Those who have been profiting handsomely as result of extravagant spending by the state are going to exert every possible effort to prevent retrenchments. To offset this pressure, the Governor is entitled to and should receive the active support of the people in his very commendable effort to reduce state spending."

Special Michigan Representatives Touring Florida

Jacksonville, Feb. 11.—(Special) —Four Michigan representatives will make an 18-day tour of Florida during late February and early March giving illustrated lectures on Michigan's summer resort attractions before groups of Florida's winter visitors, Harold Coles, president of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, said today.

This is the first in a series of reciprocal courtesies between Florida and other resort states, whose seasons do not conflict with Florida's and will result in much good will for the Sunshine State and a chance for Florida representatives to tour these other states during their boom periods and publicize Florida's winter attractions, he declared.

A tentative itinerary has been arranged by the State Chamber for the tour and takes the group into every section of the State. Meetings will be arranged by local Chambers of Commerce in 21 Florida resort centers.

The tour is being sponsored by four Michigan tourist associations; who are sharing the expense. The party will include George E. Bishop, secretary-treasurer of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at Marquette, and Mrs. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Blay. Mr. Bishop is representing the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association of Grand Rapids.

They will show colored motion pictures of Michigan's summer attractions and distribute Michigan promotional literature and high-way maps before gatherings of Florida winter visitors.

These illustrated lectures will be shown at the Jacaranda Hotel here on March 6 at 8:30 p. m. and this will be the only town on the ride where they will be shown. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend.

Car Stolen Saturday Recovered Sunday

The 1935 Dodge sedan belonging to T. J. Ward, manager of Tabb's, which was stolen from in front of the Congregational church Saturday night was found on a sand road on the outskirts of Frostproof on Sunday by the chief of police of that town. The front fender of the car was slightly damaged and the car was returned here by Police Chief J. J. Still.

Mrs. Ward was attending choir practice when the car was stolen and two other cars parked nearby which had the keys left in them were not molested. The keys of the Ward car had been hidden in the car. It is thought the thief was trying to drive around Frostproof and in making a corner at high speed got stuck in the sand.

Mr. Ward said he complimented the cooperative activities of the police of nearby towns which aided in the recovery of the car and is especially appreciative of the tireless efforts of Chief Still.

The moral and spiritual facts of health, whispered and thought, produce very direct and marked effects on the body.
