

AN EASTER MESSAGE

It is significant how the spirit of man has, through all the ages, clung to the thought of life after death. No matter what the experience through which man has been called to pass, the belief in immortality has always held a sure place in their thought, and a countless generations have passed into the final shadows believing with Tenyson:

"Thou wilt not leave us in the dust;
Thou mad'st man, he knows not why;
He thinks he was not made to die,
And thou hast made him, thou art just."

It is, indeed, a great comfort to Christian hearts to know that Christ has told us something of that other life, and has even the assurance, "Because I live, ye shall live also."

The fact of Christ's triumph over death is the event which we celebrate at Easter. It is not without significance that this great Christian festival came at a time when the vital forces of Nature are stirring, and the cold, cheerless winter which has held sway in many parts of this land, is giving place to the beauty and gladness of the vernal season. Nature always preaches resurrection and renewal. "Yes, life, new life, is ever the surety that nature shows; and to this one law forever the infinite system bows and bows triumphant life, the message of Easter! With that thought in our minds, let us as citizens of this great republic, enter the House of God on Easter Day. So shall our burning hearts tell us beyond all doubt that 'He is Risen.' We shall hear the words, 'All Hail!' And as we think of the many dear friends who have left us, we shall say, 'They do not lose their mortal sympathy, nor change to us, although they are dead.' There is no death."

New Law Firm Is Formed In Sebring

Announcement of a new law firm at the county seat was announced this week to be known as Ives and Kinney. Ives is County Judge Selwyn Ives and was formerly connected with the law office of F. T. Haskins before being elected to the judgeship at the last election. He came to Sebring several years ago from Lake City and besides being county judge is also city attorney of Sebring.

Kinney is Joe D. Kinney and for the past three years he has been employed as an attorney by the Federal Land Bank of Columbia, S. C. and was head of the Florida section of the legal department at the time of his resignation in order that he might resume the general practice of law in his native state.

He was admitted to the Florida bar in 1927 and is past vice-president of the Florida State Bar Association for the 19th judicial circuit. He has also served as an attorney for Arcadia and as trustee for the Arcadia schools. He is also past president of the DeSoto County Chamber of Commerce.

Kinney has also held the position of Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias and other civic posts and served as State Democratic Committeeman for DeSoto County.

Mrs. Kinney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Treadwell of Arcadia and they have two children, a nine-year-old son and a daughter, seven years of age.

Florida Tangerines Bringing High Price

New York, March 25.—With sales at an average of $2.15 per four-fourth bushel box, the season's high price for Florida tangerines on northern markets is believed to have been set by a part car sold last Friday (March 19) on the auction market of the New York Fruit Auction Corporation.

The car packed under the "St. Helena" brand was shipped by the Pelt Packing Association, of Winter Haven, and marketed by the Florida Citrus Exchange. Prices on the market were ranging to as high as $2.45 to $2.50 per box.

Market men in New York believe that the Florida tangerine is winning favor as a winter fruit inasmuch as the demand for tangerines has held up well in a season marked by unusual length, reasonably good prices, and a large increase in volume of shipment.

Will Visit Corvallis. Mr. and Mrs. James Allison are leaving Sebring for their home at Grimsby, Ontario, Canada after spending the winter here. They plan to sail early in April for Montreal and Quebec, where they will spend the summer at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Corvallis, and visit relatives and friends, many of whom they have not seen for

SPIRITUALIST DEMONSTRATES TO ROTARIANS

Ohio Visitor Is Very Interesting; Paul Garber's Birthday Is Celebrated

Avon Park Rotarians were treated to spiritualistic readings by Mrs. Jamieson of Findley, O., at their luncheon Wednesday noon at the Jacaranda Hotel. Stuart Tanager was in charge of the program and Mrs. Fannie Spink introduced Mrs. Jamieson, who is very guest this week during the chamber of commerce carnival.

The birthday of J. Paul Garber was noted and he was the recipient of a rose bud. He was also presented with a box of cigars at a token of esteem for his work as a member of the Rotary News Flash. This presentation was made in a humorous manner, a large number of boxes, each smaller than the last, he finally found the box of cigars which he passed around among those present.

President McKee Ellwell also read a short history of Mr. Garber's life and achievements, interspersed with humorous remarks.

Mrs. Jamieson is an ordained minister of the Spiritual Association of America and she demonstrated her powers of thought, using club members for her subjects. She was very interesting and her demonstrations gave much food for thought. She told many of the present facts about the past life and gave them advice on their future actions.

Avon Park Visitor Composes New Song

Frank Bradley, pianist composer of many standard song ballads, has just completed his new number, entitled "Down the Lane of Memories." He has also arranged the number for instrument and the local boys band under the administration of E. L. Roberts is very well pleased with its swinging rhythm.

The lyrics represent a collegiate theme which will inspire the fans in the future. Mr. Bradley intends to promote the number in the near future.

Some of his song publications, published under the name of Mr. Bradley, are "Down the Lane of Memories," "I'll Dream of You Sweetheart," "I'm Lonesome for my Old Home Town Again" and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley have a winter home here and have wintered here for the past twelve seasons.

Persian Speaker At Baptist Church

The pulpit committee wishes to announce that the Rev. Youip Benaymin, a native of Persia, will be the speaker at the First Baptist church Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. Benaymin is a world traveler, an international orator and a Christian here with a thrilling message.

During 1935 he spoke in 45 Baptist churches, 41 Methodist, 40 Presbyterian and 17 Christian and other churches.

The public is cordially invited to hear him.

Still Catching The Big Ones

Chalk up some more big catches by Hope Elder, the fishing guide. On Tuesday of last week he landed five blue ones, one caught with live bait. Two of these beauties weighed seven pounds each and three of them weighed in five and six pounds apiece.

Then again on Monday Grady Fowler tried his luck and brought back three nice ones, each of which weighed seven pounds.

Car Wreck Monday; Arrest Negro Driver; Two Chickens Drown

A Chevrolet sedan containing six negroes, three men and three women, was wrecked early Monday morning at the west end of the Mall when the driver failed to make a turn from state road eight. None of the occupants of the car were badly hurt, all escaping with slight scratches.

The driver, Charlie Jimerson, was arrested on a reckless driving charge when he admitted being asleep. Police Chief Still said he was later released under a $10.00 bond. The other two men in the car gave their names as Will Johnson and William Sims. All six left town later in the day for West Palm Beach, their destination, but their car remained here.

Chief Still said there were some chickens in the car and two were drowned in the gasoline which escaped from the tank when the car turned over. Others of the feathered tribe were rather groggy from the gasoline but were expected to recover.

PEPPER IS IN STEP IN NATION'S CAPITOL

Florida Senator Is Proving To Be a Power In Washington

Washington, March 24.—(FNS)—That Floridians made no mistake in selecting Claude Pepper to represent them in the United States senate is evidenced by the remarkable record this young man has made in the brief time he has occupied his seat in that body.

Young, inexperienced, quiet, unassuming, Pepper (D) Florida might well have remained "just another senator" to be heard from at roll-call in the routine manner. His constituents and colleagues expected little more. It is seldom indeed that "rookies" are taken seriously by either the public or their fellow members.

Pepper, however, proved the exception to the rule. Suddenly and without warning this quiet young man became a power in the senate. He has been virtually dumped the steamroller in the ditch, doing such a good job of it that it took all the strength of the big shots could muster to keep it from staying there.

Considering the reciprocal tariff measure and everything that was going along smoothly, Pepper had consistently voted in favor of the measure. At various points came up, but he had the interest and welfare of Florida at heart and quietly awaited an opportunity to present his bill.

Before going to Washington, in a sincere effort to inform himself fully on the reciprocal tariff question, Pepper had made a tour of the state, visiting growers and growers of Florida, Pepper journeyed throughout the state, held conferences with growers and visitors from all over the state. Here was a case where he knew his ground. Here was his first opportunity to strike in defense of the state's interests.

Securing the floor, Pepper offered an amendment that would prevent the establishing of a tariff on vegetables which would permit the farmer to market his produce at prices below American cost of production. He stated that Senator Andrews and two senators from Louisiana joined him in it. Briefly explaining its purpose and earnestly pointing out the situation as it affected American growers, he urged that the amendment be favorably considered. Senator Harrison, the veteran leader in charge of the bill for the administration, mildly objected and promptly a vote was called. Pepper's amendment was defeated, so eloquently had he pleaded the cause of his constituents, the amendment carried 48 to 40.

As the roll-call proceeded and dependable democrats one after another lined up with Pepper, Senator Harrison, manager of his own campaign, seemed that this Florida freshman had accomplished the impossible. Contemplation reigned in the senate as the roll-call proceeded. Quickly changing his vote to the winning side, so that he could move for reconsideration, Harrison rushed for the clock room to pick up his cohorts by telling them that the Pepper amendment would "kill the whole program" and that he would consider it to withdraw the bill if the provision were not eliminated.

Egypt Temple Will Present Easter Sunrise Service

Tampa, March 24.—(FNS)—A program of noted sacred music and tableaux is announced for this year's observance of Easter, to be conducted by Egypt Temple Shrine in Plant Park's setting of tropical beauty each Easter morning at sunrise.

Chinese through the Easter dawn will be followed at sunrise by three trumpet calls, announcing the call to worship for thousands who gather in the park annually in commemoration of the resurrection. And as in past years, the tableaux will be followed by a number of local vocal artists.

Singing on the program with Tampa's leading musicians, 7-year-old Julie Bailey, hailed locally as a "phenomenal child soprano," will sing "Jesus Lives." Numbers by the Egypt Temple chatters and the Tampa symphony orchestra will also be heard on the program.

RECOMMEND THE PRESENT CITRUS LAWS CONTINUE

Committee Approves Commission and Tax For Advertising Citrus Fruits

Lakeland, March 25.—Recommendations that the legislature continue present state laws creating the Florida Citrus Commission and levying excise taxes for advertising fruit were approved here today by an industry legislative committee.

The committee, representing the Florida Citrus Exchange, Associated Citrus Growers and Shippers, and many growers and shippers not affiliated with these groups, also recommended that higher maturity standards be established for grapefruit and oranges, and the minimum state bond for shippers and carriers increased from $100 to $2,000.

The great majority of the growers and shippers recognize the value of the work which has been done by the Commission in advertising Florida fruit and establishing maturity standards, and we believe that the state laws providing for these activities should be made permanent," said H. E. Cornell, Winter Haven, chairman of the industry committee.

Present state laws creating the Commission and providing funds for advertising fruit were enacted two years ago as emergency measures and expire in June. Few minor changes were recommended by the committee in these laws, and no changes were proposed in the present method of having the 11 members of the Commission appointed by the Governor for alternating two-year terms, seven from districts and four from the state-at-large.

The committee recommended that excise taxes for advertising be continued at the present rate of 1 cent a box on oranges, 3 cents on grapefruit and 5 cents on tangerines, but that fruit for charitable purposes be exempted. It approved an amendment to the grapefruit advertising act that the Commission shall "advise and consult with an advisory committee of five citizens, appointed by the Governor, in the advertising of canned citrus products."

In voting for an increase of $100 to $2,000 in the minimum bond required of shippers and carriers, committee members said they did not believe that the present bond gave growers adequate protection.

Following an overnight session, the committee also favored raising the maximum bond from $5,000 to $10,000, and giving the Commissioner of Agriculture the right to obtain court injunctions to enjoin shippers and carriers from operating when their licenses have been revoked.

The new grapefruit maturity standards recommended by the committee would increase the juice content of the present law, and in addition establish a solid acid test higher than that required under the 1931 law, which was observed this season at the request of federal authorities. The juice requirements would be increased 20 percent, but the Commission would also be given the power, upon vote of nine members after public hearing, to increase or lower the new figures 10 percent each season, depending on weather and soil conditions.

The solid-acid test would be on a solid acid basis starting with a 7-to-1 ratio of total soluble solids to anhydrous solids, when total soluble solids of juice test not less than 7 percent.

The committee recommended that the present 8-to-1 solid-acid test for oranges be changed to include a test for total soluble solids of juice, and provided a minimum of 7 1/2 percent of total soluble solids when the ratio is 10-to-1. Oranges having a 10-to-1 would have to have total soluble solids of 9 1/2 percent. Even oranges of 8-to-1 would be required for "color added" oranges, the committee recommending an increase of from 8-to-1 solid-acid to 9 percent soluble solids, required under the present law, 8-to-1 when the soluble solids of juice total 10 percent.

No changes were recommended in the state's present maturity standards for tangerines.

Among those attending the meetings was Earl W. Hart, well known Avon Park grower and member of the citrus commission.

Two Are Fined $170 In City Police Court

Rufus Rhymes was fined a total of $155 and James M. J. Pendleton by Acting Mayor S. J. Pendleton in police court Wednesday morning. Rhymes was arrested about 6 p. m. Saturday morning by Officer James Cravey and charged with being drunk and disorderly, resisting arrest and using profane and indecent language. The trial was first set for Saturday afternoon, postponed until Monday and finally until Wednesday.

He was found guilty on all three charges and fined $5.00 on the first count, $50.00 on 30 days on the second, and $100.00 on 60 days on the third. He was remanded to jail pending payment of the fines. Attorney S. Don Williams of Wauchoula defended and 10 days were allowed for the filing of motion for a new trial.

Ralph Williams, also arrested by Officer Cravey, was charged with injuring and defacing city property, the specific charge being that he drove an automobile on the rim of one wheel.

He was found guilty on all three charges and fined $10.00 on the first count, $50.00 on 30 days on the second, and $100.00 on 60 days on the third. He was remanded to jail pending payment of the fines. Attorney S. Don Williams of Wauchoula defended and 10 days were allowed for the filing of motion for a new trial.

CROSS STATE CANAL REGETTA TO F. MYERS

Prominent Federal and State Officials Make Trip Through Canal

Pt. Myers, March 25.—(FNS)—Two-day celebration attending the opening of Florida's new tropical waterway, making completion of an $18,000,000 Lake Okechobee flood control project was climaxed here Tuesday with arrival of some 200 yachts carrying prominent federal, state, civic and engineering officials on the first cross-state watercade utilizing a canal system Florida Everglades.

As fleet after boat lined up through the week-end at the mouth of the St. Lucie River to attend ceremonies in Stuart prior to beginning the 150-mile trip, the celebration in celebratory plans was announced in a telegram from Congressman J. Hardin Peterson in Winter Haven, Fla. Everyone is urged to cooperate to the fullest and help put the carnival over in the biggest possible way.

The Florida congressmen, Senator Claude Pepper and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, as President Roosevelt's personal representative, were present here to launch the work of more than seven years which for all time changes destructive flood waters of the southern region and provides a safe, beautiful water passage from Atlantic to gulf for small boats and large traffic.

Following an overnight session, the committee also favored raising the maximum bond from $5,000 to $10,000, and giving the Commissioner of Agriculture the right to obtain court injunctions to enjoin shippers and carriers from operating when their licenses have been revoked.

The new grapefruit maturity standards recommended by the committee would increase the juice content of the present law, and in addition establish a solid acid test higher than that required under the 1931 law, which was observed this season at the request of federal authorities. Boys' Choir To Sing Easter Songs Sunday At Ravine Gardens

Palatka, March 25.—A program of appropriate Easter songs, rendered by the Boy's Choir from Penney Farms, will climax the 1937 season at the Ravine Gardens here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The gardens will close for the current season at sundown, March 28.

The choir from Penney Farms is composed of youths between the ages of eight and sixteen years and is considered one of the finest organizations of its type in the south.

The two dozen lads who make up the group have been directed by Rev. George D. Rogers, a retired minister, for the past two years and have made remarkable progress in that short time.

Miss Martha Rogers, daughter of the conductor, will assist on the piano at the Sunday concert. The choir will sing "The Easter Story" by Carl Rosenbush, Green Cove Springs, playing violin and cello. Stephens, Palatka, the cornet.

A large crowd is expected here for the musical treat.

FUN CARNIVAL IN FULL SWING FOR THREE DAYS

Opened Thursday With Parade; Sponsored By C. of C.

With four planes circling and stunting overhead, the chamber of commerce three day carnival got under way Thursday afternoon with a street parade. Headed by the high school band, a long line of automobiles paraded the town advertising the event, the first home talent affair in the history of Avon Park. Pioneering planes were J. L. Wells, D. G. Perry, Roy Marr and Wayne Maynard.

A good sized crowd attended the attractions Thursday night, patronizing the games, rides, side-shows and other forms of amusement. N. Verona avenue and Donaldson Park were a blaze of white and colored lights and the band and calliope dispensed music to attract the crowds.

There is something for everyone, even the kiddies have not been forgotten, there being rides for them and then there are the thrilling airplane rides for those who enjoy such amusements.

Everyday except the rides are in charge of local folks. All the games and side-shows have home folks for barkers and in charge of the rides they know their stuff and act like old timers. The truck and the all Avon Park products as are the minstrels.

All the proceeds are for the benefit of the chamber of commerce activities and large crowds are expected to be on hand each night. On Saturday night an extra added attraction is the Uncle Sam Show. Everyone is urged to cooperate to the fullest and help put the carnival over in the biggest possible way.

If the weather man is in a good humor, Mr. J. P. Myers stays home, the chamber of commerce hopes to be able to bank a substantial sum for their efforts for the year. Everyone is urged to cooperate to the fullest and help put the carnival over in the biggest possible way.

Seaboard Pushes Florida Publicity For April Travel

Realizing the value of giving an opportunity to Northern travelers whose vacation periods must come in the spring, the Seaboard Airline has been carrying on an intensive campaign through the leading Northern dailies to urge vacationists to see Florida in March and April. Everyone is urged to cooperate to the fullest and help put the carnival over in the biggest possible way.

So little has been generally known throughout the North of the beauty of the flowering shrubs and trees which reach their prime in these months, that this enterprising brass ship's wheel, bearing a picture of a palm-lined Port Myers station as a souvenir of the event, has been distributed to the press. Receptions and a cabaret dance and show completed Tuesday's entertainment.

Wednesday a scenic tour of Ft. Myers tropical gardens, the annual Gopher derby with 200 Florida "dirt demons" and a fish fry with more than 500 pounds of seafood, are featured for guests of the inland cruise.

Extensive advertising and paid feature stories have been carried consistently in the newspapers in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, Buffalo, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Chicago, acquainting the readers of the charm of a Florida Spring. To insure the greatest comfort to travelers, the system is keeping the "Orange Blossom Special" on through April 24, in addition to its regular air-conditioned trains.

R. E. Blumenthal, traveling passenger agent of the Seaboard, with his family, spent yesterday in this city, arranging special tours for returning winter residents, and using his influence to persuade tourists to remain through April.

Former Visitor Died In Cleveland Sunday

Friends of Mrs. George L. Frank will regret to learn that she passed away at Cleveland, O., last Sunday morning after a short illness. She was the daughter of Mrs. Lena Blumenthal, winter resident here, and visited here for the past 12 years. Besides her mother, she is survived by her husband, George L. Frank, and a brother, Sidney J. Blumenthal.

Mrs. Percy Loomis and Mrs. Harold Fossom spent Wednesday in DeLand. They were accompanied by the former's daughter, Miss Patsy Loomis, a student at Stetson University there, who will spend the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Loomis.

Giants Worry Less Over Flag Rivals Than Own Future

After long hours of watching practice and conversing with the Giants, I am forced to report that even though the Southern heat has taken the athletes away from the winter-sported muscles, the athletes are far from happy. Definitely, they are dreading much of their time to carrying about what is going to happen to them this season.

The national league champions—the Yankees, Mellons and Chionozas who recently have come into our midst, as well as the old reliable pennant-winning Otis, Hubbells and Moore—know they have a pretty fair ball club. Many of them feel that Pittsburgh probably is the best club in the league, but they are not unduly perturbed by thoughts of the Pirates. Accidents and a long-continued inability to maintain a championship pace again will eliminate Pie Traynor's hopes, they believe.

Similarly, the Cards are not such bogymen as newspaper reports would have you understand. Any giant will admit that Dizzy Dean is one of the greatest pitchers of all time; that Durocher is a superb shortstop, and that Medwick is tops among outfielders. But—just as they feel that the Cubs have not strengthened sufficiently and that the Reds will have a nuisance rather than a pennant-winning value—the Giants are not fretting about their St. Louis brethren.

What really concerns them is their own estate. Given breaks such as they received in 1936, Bill Terry and the boys are sure they can triumph again. Their worry is that such breaks may not be repeated. While worrying, they might wonder if a little added strength here and there might not ease them of their burdens. Let us consider.

Three of the five catchers warrant little immediate consideration. Jim Sheehan, who gives promise of real hitting prowess some day, is far too inexperienced even for third string duty now. Madjeski and Spencer are merely third-stringers. That leaves Mancuso and Danning.

Probably—although Mancuso never was fast and his thirty-one years have not improved his ailing legs—that is enough. Danning, a shrewd young man who can hit, has been with the Giants most of the time since 1931. This is his make-or-break season.

Johnny McCarthy, tossed around for several seasons by the Dodgers and Yankees, has had most of the first base call. It is unlikely that he will continue there. Leslie does not field like a Terry or even a McCarthy. But Dan is a steady workman, and an abdominal operation has restored his health. He can hit, and the Giants need power too much to pass him by. That means first base will be conducted in good, reliable fashion.

So also will be second base and shortstop. Whitehead is a very good fielder and team player. Probably he is not quite as good a hitter as his .278 average last year indicates. But, placed properly in the batting order, he will not weaken the attack. Barlett—even though occasionally given to making plays the hard way—is a good shortstop.

Third base is a problem. Lou Chionozas, Mickey Harkin and Tommy Thorenau have been working out there, but it is unlikely that Mickey and Tommy are being considered for anything save utility roles. That means Chionozas, placed in Joe Moore's old leadoff spot in the first game lineup, is considered the regular at the moment.

Possibly Lou—a fair fielder and hitter with the Phillies—will continue there. A slender, alert, prematurely gray, twenty-six-year-old man who lives in Terry's own Memphis, he is in somewhat of a spot now, though. As in all the years of Terry's management, the Giants must depend this season on superb pitching, a tight defense and the best possible use of their hitters.

How do you get a leadoff man as there is in baseball. He is on base frequently. Possibly his sharp hit will do the Giants as much good as he has in the fourth or fifth position. Possibly—because this season they will be in last place—the Giants will be in a hurry to develop a new leadoff man. There remain the question whether there must be anything better when he comes to bat along with Otis, Lather and Lantz, the only power boys.

GABBING WITH JIM BRADDOCK:

The big man in the brown coat, red sport shirt and striped flannel trousers was on his way to get a much needed shave, but, as greasier fellows have found out to their own scurry advantage, he is one of the world's most kindly critics. While the Florida sun beat down he stood and talked.

There were questions, naive and wondrous, as to why a supposedly vacationing reporter should fly over from Havana just for the day. There were other questions, reflecting all the zeal of a grown up who had not forgotten New Jersey sandlot days. They concerned the Giants' pitching problems and what Travis Jackson might do with the new farm across the river this season.

Then there were answers. "Yeah, Mac was along. She liked this place pretty much and she deserved a vacation. No, the kids hadn't come. One of them was in school and there wasn't much sense in breaking up the routine of the others just for a couple of weeks down here. He'd bring them back some swell presents though and he'd bet they liked that." Would, asked the reporter, any of them be as swell as the "turtle" he brought home two Junes ago?

Jim Braddock grinned. When he was preparing to fight Max Baer for that mysterious thing called the heavyweight title, the three little Brads could not quite understand all those big new words.

When he finally arrived home with the title they were disappointed, perhaps foreseeing far better than others how empty a thing a championship is unless properly administered. So, being a wise and fond father, he had to go out and buy them a real live turtle as actual, visual evidence of good faith. The turtle is going well.

The title—Jim Braddock's grin slowly faded when the reporter mentioned it. He was not exactly embarrassed. The champion is too honest and well meaning to be swayed from his pulse of simple dignity when alone. But new years make new friends and divide the best of loyalties. Perhaps while he answered Jim was thinking of those two Junes ago when only one New York reporter had faith enough to remain in his camp about his praises and bet on him while later were yelling about 1,000 to 1 shots.

Yeah, he felt swell. Later he would go up in the Wisconsin woods and rough it for a few weeks. Then he'd be ready. What? Sure, he'd had trouble with his hand last year. Arthritis, right here. Look.

Super Fighter of 1936 Looks Like Sucker Now

There was no comment while the reporter mentioned law suits, broken contracts, the chances of the public paying any kind of dough for two draw heavyweight championship affairs in one season and such things. Then another question brought a grin and an amiable response. "Yeah, the super-fighter of last year did look like the sucker fighter now. Yeah, that Schmeling would be a harder guy to lick. He didn't lead to you and he was cute. Hard to hit and hit pretty hard. Had the old experience that was what it was."

"Yeah, Louis was a counter fighter, too. But you could kid him into making leads and going haywire. Look at him against Schmeling and Pastrer, strictly a one-track guy that Louis. When you get him off the track, well he's—Baaaaa! Let him have all he wanted. It was the tape that really counted. Besides a guy with big hands really needed more handgrips than—"

There was a polite pause while the reporter mentioned that Louis' hands were woefully small and soft for a heavyweight, scarcely two-thirds as large as those of Brad. This was a point that the champion evidently never had previously considered.

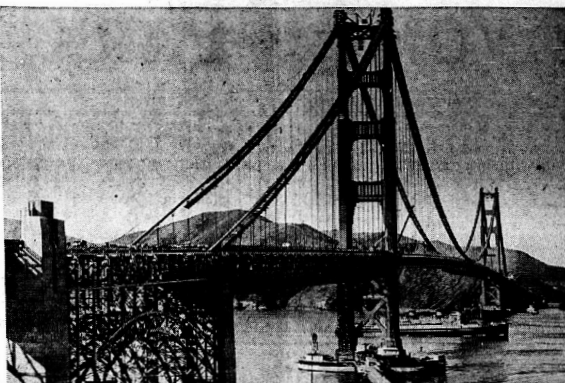

Just as evidently, though, it was a point that did not interest him. That could mean he really does not expect to fight the much feared "Brown Bomber" or does not expect to get him if he does. Perhaps he is right about the not getting him part. When he said it just after the Louis-Carnera spectacle I believed him, wrote it and got a few thousand readers' letters in return.

Now—and well, this correspondent still thinks Louis is the most over-rated fighter of the era. He also hates to spoil the memory of a pleasant sunny morning's conversation with one of the world's most genuine guys.

But—no matter what has happened mentally, the Braddock who fights this summer will not be physically the same Braddock who wrestled that "turtle" from Baer.

Five Generations of Family Meet

what Irvin Cobb thinks about:

Windsor's Finances.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—By latest reports, the duke of Windsor must start life as a married man reduced to a personal estate of only about $600,000, plus guaranteed annual remittances amounting to but a beggarly $100,000 more.

To be sure, as the old saying is, two can live as cheaply as one—if they are a gold fish or even a canary—but otherwise the notion hasn't worked out under modern conditions, does it? These days being what wives are these days.

Still, they do say Mrs. Simpson is pretty handy with a skillet, which, on Irvin S. Cobb's days off, ought to save getting in extra kitchen help; and what with their no crown jewels to keep polished and installment houses just crying to help all young housewifery cut out, you furnish the bird, we furnish the nest—Well, by scripping, the couple should get by, don't you think?

Washington Rumors.

HOW rumors do float about—especially in the neighborhood of Washington. Well, Washington affairs have been kind of a windy place.

First we hear a boom is to be started for Mrs. Roosevelt to succeed the President at the conclusion of his term. This is promptly denied and the question arises—how is that loyal son, Uncle Jim Farley, going to stand the strain of waiting until Sister Dahl gets old enough to run?

Uncontested as yet is the other report that the White House craves to revive the NRA, under another set of initials and—let us hope—with a better-looking Big Eagle.

That first one was.

"Sweeping" Inquiries.

AFTER every major disaster which conceivably was preventable, we have a "sweeping inquiry" or a "searching probe"—it depends on which phrase the reporters like best—to fix the blame. Rarely does anything come of this, but it must indeed be a great consolation to the widows and the orphans of the victims.

Seemingly, it never occurs to anyone to make the said investigation into the tragedy occurs, with a view of searching out defective mechanism or imperfect construction then.

Defying a Glacier.

IN ALASKA, the Revel family are a defying Black Rapids glacier which, without seeming provocation, and after remaining perfectly calm for several million years, suddenly started coming down upon them, rumbling and roaring and acting up generally as it advances. Its icy snout is only about a mile away from their roadhouse now, but they're still serving ice of old blue plate special—choice of jello or stewed prunes—as usual.

The Revels couldn't be New York people. In New York, everybody strives to move at least once every two years, whether there's reason for it or not. A lady flat dweller there likes the scriptural promise of a house of many mansions because it gives her such a warm glow to think of spending eternity shifting from one mansion to another, re-decorating as she goes.

Crimes and Punishment.

AT A recent trial in New York for a hideous murder, the lawyer for the killer—well, incidentally, has confessed—wound up his plea with this old and reliable and beautifully logical standby:

"Putting this man in the electric chair will never bring back the woman he slew—remember that, Gentlemen of the jury."

But put your foot in the electric chair will never bring him back either, which, after all, is the main idea, isn't it, Gentlemen of any rational jury?

Position in Sleeping.

Some psychologists attribute special significance to the position one takes in sleeping. Lying on the back with legs straight out, arms and feet uncurled, is interpreted as a disposition to face life uncompromisingly, notes a writer in Literary Digest. Sleeping with the arm partly around a pillow indicates a subconscious need for affection. The sleeper who rolls up like a kitten, huddles drawn toward his side, is accused to be unconsciously feeling the realities of life. It remains unexplained whether the position changes each time the sleeper shifts position; as he does this at least once on his way to sleep. The conclusion is that the sleeper is unconsciously being a co-sleeping personality.

The Choicest Man

If you would choose the choicest book, select the one that is soiled and worn; and as you finger through its leaves you'll note how they are curled and torn. The book, by use, acquired these marks, which show on every leaf and page, as eager eyes have scanned the text to garner wisdom for the age.

Then, if you'd choose the choicest man, select not one who's prude and prim, but pick the man who shows some wear, and has the marks of use on him.—William A. Gearhart.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT DENOUNCED

New York Jurist Scores The Proposal; Says Backed By Communists

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Jacksonville "Florida Times Union" relative to the proposed Child Labor Amendment which will come up for consideration in the forthcoming session of the Florida legislature:

Bradenton, March 12.—Justice Herbert A. O'Brien, judge of the Domestic Relations Court of the City of New York, which also includes the Children's Court, and now sojourning in Bradenton, denounced the Child Labor Amendment as a "deadly menace" in a statement made public today.

Judge O'Brien declared that the recent union of Baptists, Methodists and Catholics, which brought about the defeat of the Child Labor Amendment in New York State, came through a common recognition of a deadly peril to the Christian religion.

"The appearance before the Assembly Committee at the New York State Capital of 500 communists headed by Isadore Begun, chairman of the Communist Party," said Judge O'Brien, "gave a sinister touch to the scene."

Says Reds For Measure.

"This was further emphasized when the communist chairman declared that the Communist Party was uniting in favor of the Child Labor Amendment. The further statement of Chairman Begun that he hoped to see all the children of the Nation placed under the control of Congress and later on placed under the control of the Labor Union indicated the dangerous aim of those favoring the bill."

Judge O'Brien stated that in the allying but mislabeled bill of contended two distinct plans. One was aimed to strip the legislature of the power of the Nation placed under the control of Congress and later on placed under the control of the Labor Union indicated the dangerous aim of those favoring the bill."

"There is no child labor in New York State," said Judge O'Brien, "and I doubt very much if there is any child labor in Florida."

"But a very serious result is that the amendment will take from the legislature of each State, the vast powers which concern both children and parents such as control over all philanthropic and charitable State enterprises, etc."

"The amendment will take the control out of the hands of each legislature of all of these functions which each State now controls entirely and place such control in Congress, of which each State has only a part say."

Views Consequences.

"So that a senator from California would tell the people of Florida, or the mothers of New York, what was to be done with their children. Imagine a citizen of Florida taking the control of his child out of the hands of her own duly elected assemblymen and senators in Tallahassee and putting that control hundreds and in some cases thousands of miles away in the hands of strangers from other States or combinations of States whose senators and congressmen he does not elect and who are not responsible to him."

"We are told why we trust our children to Congress. But the answer is why not trust our own legislators. We are told not to turn our children over to the mill owners; the answer is why turn them over to anyone but ourselves. We are told that thousands of children are being exploited, but not a single place, factory, mill or location is given."

"The framers of the Constitution very wisely left the control of the children to their parents and deprived the Federal Government of any control over them."

Defeated in New York.
"The vicious and dangerous character of that kind of legislation alarmed the great Protestant group of farmers of New York State. They called for help from other Christian bodies, including the Catholics, as a result of which the bill was overwhelmingly defeated."

"I hope no Florida parent, whether he be a city resident or engaged in farming, will ever consent to a permit the passage of such a dangerous interference with the rights of parents."

"A good compulsory education and labor law in each State is an adequate safeguard for each child without letting the control pass out of the hands of the citizens of Florida."

"That is why New York State assembly, by an overwhelming vote of 104 to 42, defeated the mislabeled Child Labor Amendment intended to enslave the youth of America, and did so in spite of the governor of the State."

"Judge O'Brien was selected as the speaker of the combined religious groups of New York State and appeared and debated the entire matter before the Assembly Judiciary Committee of the New York Legislature at its special hearing—Jacksonville Times Union.

FLORIDA WATERWAY MEET IN LAKE LAND

Those Interested In Development of State Waterways To Meet Monday

Lakeland, March 24.—(FNS)—With General Markham, Chief of United States Engineers as principal speaker, the annual meeting of the Florida Waterway Congress will be held here Monday, March 29.

Statewide in its directorate and membership, the purpose of the organization is to connect our waterways so that Florida may have the finest waterways system in the world, which when completed will extend more than 2,000 miles within the state.

Stressing the importance of the coming meeting, general chairman W. F. Coachman, Jr., said: "With the East Coast Canal and Okechobee Canal completed, connecting waterway valleys in the southern part of the state and with the Florida Ship Canal commenced in northern and central Florida to connect all waterway valleys in that area, this is an opportune time for friends of waterways to meet."

Pointing out the existence of over 320,000 small pleasure craft in the eastern half of the United States with the number steadily increasing, Mr. Coachman contends that the development of a real statewide waterway system we could induce a large percentage of those pleasure craft to winter in Florida. "If we could only get 10 percent of these," he points out, "and each remained 90 days spending $10 a day, it would mean new revenue of $9,000,000 to the state and as the years go on it could be many times this amount."

Speakers scheduled to appear on the morning session program include Lt. Col. Earl North, U. S. A. district engineer, Lake Wales; Hugh L. Lakeland, president Lakeland Gulf Canal Company, A. H. Brown, associate engineer, Jacksonville district, E. F. de Busk, circuit rider, Cooperative Extension Division, Hon. R. A. Green, Florida's member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress, W. J. Cooney, Jr., St. Augustine, R. S. Bee, City Engineer, New Smyrna and W. F. Coachman, Jr., Jacksonville, chairman of the Congress.

During the afternoon session an "Open Forum" will be conducted for communities to present waterway projects of particular interest to them, and invite general discussion. Much good for Florida is expected to come of the meeting and everyone interested in waterway development is urged to attend.

Citrus Demand Is Stronger During Past Few Weeks

By Florida News Service.

With Florida citrus finding wider markets in the west each week, f. o. b. demand for both oranges and grapefruit grew stronger during the past week, Lawrence Gentile, general manager of Tree-Gold Cooperative Growers, Orlando, told members in his weekly report to growers.

In only three auction markets were the averages off: St. Louis, down 14 cents at $2.35 on oranges, Baltimore, off 8 cents on grapefruit at $2.25 and Chicago, off 8 cents on grapefruit at $2.15.

The St. Louis market is one of Texas' shipping points, getting fruit from the Lone Star state by rail and truck.

Western markets will be receptive to greater quantities of Florida citrus each week for the remainder of the season and total Florida shipments are expected to be far better distributed with consequent steady prices when the load of fruit is taken away from the eastern markets.

Auction averages on oranges in New York were up 13 cents at $2.87; in Boston, up 47 cents at $4.17; in Philadelphia, up 11 cents at $2.70; in Pittsburgh, up 17 cents at $2.57; in Cleveland, up 13 cents at $2.97; in Cincinnati, up 21 cents at $2.50; in Detroit up 8 cents at $2.51.

CREATES PRACTICE ROOM

Instead of practicing in the high school auditorium, the band now does its practicing in the old B & B building on Forest Avenue.

The band can now make a terrific racket without disturbing the thoughts of the pupils who are kept in to study after three o'clock. Also, the students are not disturbed by the confusion which is created when all of the band members are hunting up their instruments and music.

When the band members went down into the auditorium, they naturally had to run over a few notes on their instruments, just to get the feel of the thing, so to speak.

The band members now will be free from persons interrupting their practice.

As soon as places are built for it to be kept, the music will be moved. This is of advantage to the band members who will now have a private place to keep their music.

We believe that this moving of the band is beneficial to the students body and to the student body.

WE NEED A TROPHY CASE

A rising school spirit has emphasized the need for a trophy case. Since our school spirit has increased we take a greater interest in the activities of the school.

After the success our school has encountered in its co-curricular activities, we realize that we need a larger trophy case to hold these won by the athletic and music departments.

We are proud of our school and all it stands for; and we should be prouder if when visitors come, we could display our trophies lined in neat rows in a trophy case.

Since the addition of several trophies awarded during football season and those given to the band for their work in the contest, several of our trophies have had to be placed on top of our case, for the case is entirely too small.

Interest in the activities for which we get trophies is properly shown if we take care of our prizes. When the awards are stacked around and placed in most any place, it is apt to give the wrong impression.

With music contests nearing and a diamondball season almost here, we hope to add as many more trophies as possible.

So here's our vote for a bigger and better trophy case which we can point with pride at the trophies and say that here is the result of much work well done.

TO EDIT HUMOR SHEET

The Journalism class is going to publish an April Fool edition of "The Red and White."

Although some of these stories may seem personal they should not be taken too hard, because it is only meant for fun and frolic.

We do not wish to be mischievous or hurt any person's feelings, but we think that the readers of our paper need a day of humor and fun.

The Devil play will be tonight.

In each room there is a sign saying "Watch for turning over."

Are you planning to join the band next year?

We hear that when they practice in the new band room the place is played nine times.

Don't miss the April Fool edition. It is a "hoax."

Glee Clubs To Go To Tampa And Rollins For Contests

Dates For Voice Competition
Are April 3 and 22-24
In Music Groups

On April 3 the glee clubs will journey to Rollins College, and on April 22-24 they will compete in the state contest in Tampa.

Consisting of a mixed glee club and a girls' glee club, the group will sing "Legends" and the mixed group will sing "Night Shadows Falling."

These two selections were chosen by Mr. E. L. Roberts, director, and on April 22-24 they will compete in the state contest in Tampa.

Charles Sherman will have a special audition when Avon Park goes to Rollins, and he has a chance to receive a $500 scholarship.

Others competing in these contests and winning will also be given this valuable $500 scholarship.

On April 22-24 the glee clubs will go to Rollins College, and on State Musical Festival and compete in state wide competition.

Last year the glee club received honorable mention, and since they were larger and much improved group this year they will prove to be top competitors for some of the top honors.

Students who will make this trip include: (Soprano) Frances Brown, Nancy Betts, Frances Cloud, Gail Coen, Faye Gordon, Merle Graham, Tommy Lou Greene, Jane Hartz, Elizabeth Hetherington, Martin, Dorothy McVickins, Hazel Reddick, Johnnie Saggus, Mary Jane Sundstrom, Harriet Sherrett, and Maclie Reid.

Frosh Broadcast

Etiquette Program

In Today's Chapel

Station A. P. H. S. broadcast the "Etiquette Hour" in chapel this morning. The program was given by the section of the ninth grade.

Presented by Miss Rhoda K. Thomas with Lewis Willis as chief announcer.

Elsie Post (Agnes Young), authority on all etiquette problems, was introduced to the program to help solve various problems for the students.

Miss Post replied to letters written to her by showing by television the correct and incorrect answers to the problems in etiquette.

Miss Post had demonstrated correct breaking at a dance, introductions, and the correct way for a boy and girl to walk on the street.

One boy wanted to know how he could polish his manners for the junior-senior banquet. Miss Post obligingly gave him a few instructions. To demonstrate correct breaking at a dance, the assistance of some of the older students was employed. The following is a list of those students: Evelyn Martin, Hilda Reddick, Elizabeth Hetherington, Marguerite Loomis, J. W. Tuten, Jr., Early Lynn, Cecil Gribble, Ed Trenchard, Edgar Bradbury, and Marion Foster.

The freshmen who participated in the program were:

Mary Farlow, Marion Weyer, Nell Reddick, Arilla Prescott, Elsie Williams, Leland Elder, A. M. Madson, Rita McKee, Elsie Viola, Doris Reddick, Gladys O'Hara, Verlie Stewart, Ralph Rogers, A. Wade Young, and Lewis Willis.

Mr. Kenneth Leurs

Speaks to Students

Mr. Kenneth Leurs, a naturalist from Bear Mountain State Park and Trailside Natural Museum of New York state, held the attention of the pupils of the avon school by telling the story of "Moose Hunt" and his bobble, "Beebe" and "Honeydew" during last week.

Journalism Class Learning Newspaper Trade Thoroughly

The Journalism class is learning its trade from one end to the other. From being in to the reporter, editor, or publisher, they are learning to do it all in three positions.

The students have turned editor, reporter, and publisher. They are making their own paper make up, writing their own stories and headlines, getting their own advertisements, and publishing the paper themselves.

Miss Dorothy Hicks, instructor, has informed the class that they must have an original four page paper, either typewritten or hand printed, by May 7.

The front page must be all news without any advertisements on it. The second page must be entirely editorials, and the third and fourth pages must be news and advertisements.

Rules of Etiquette

Given By Home Ec.

The following are rules of etiquette for the street and theatre, supplied by the girls of the home economics class.

Street

Never appear conspicuous on the street.

The boy always walks next to the curb regardless of the number of girls present.

Never affectation demonstration on the street.

Never eat candy or chew gum on the street.

Watch where you are walking.

When stopping to speak to someone step aside or better turn and walk with the person.

Girls always speak first.

A boy assists, a girl with her packages.

A boy does not take hold of a girl's arm unless she needs assistance.

Never spit on the street.

Never throw papers on the street.

Do not apply make-up on the street.

Avoid walking three or four abreast. If you accidentally brush against someone, say, "Pardon me."

Never read books, magazines or mail on the street.

Movies or Theater

Always be late. Say, "I am sorry," or "I beg your pardon," as you face the stage and pass those already seated. Be careful not to brush the people in front of you.

Rise in one's seat to let those entering pass. It is almost a necessity.

In a theatre with an usher the girl proceeds the boy down the aisle.

Always be on time to the park the boy should go on first.

Reeves and Roberts

Begin to Build Band

For Next Semester

After accomplishing four of his proposed objectives for the year 1936, Dr. Stanley N. Reeves, principal, now tackles one of his first aims for 1937.

A larger and better band is what Dr. Reeves is now aiming towards. Already he has given orders that new members be added to the roster now composing the band.

"New uniforms will be bought and the band will be taught to march before the musical contest is held next year," says Dr. Reeves.

According to Dr. Reeves the band director must have at least 60 members taking private lessons several times a week.

Therefore, Mr. E. L. Roberts has offered his services now and during the summer months for $2.50 per month. Not only will this help individual band members, but it will also help the band as a whole.

A drum-major will be selected from the band members, to add to the attractiveness of the group.

According to Dr. Reeves the uniforms will be composed of white pants with the customary red stripe down the side, a red coat with the band emblem and other decorations on both a white cap, and a white shirt with a black tie and shoes to match.

To accomplish these objectives Dr. Reeves must have the cooperation of all students.

Avon Park Meets Lake Wales There At 7:30 Tonight

The Avon Park high school boys' basketball team will play the first game with Lake Wales tonight at 7:30 on the Lake Wales field.

This is the first diamond ball team in the school's history but this game according to Coach Herbert L. Bissett will be a good one, because the boys have had a hard week of grueling practice in hitting, fielding and catching.

Boys who will make the squad are: George Tilla, Cecil Clements, Frank Camley, Lloyd Gribble, Jimmie Heim, Early Lynn, C. W. Moriwether, Harold McClelland, Murrell Prescott, Charles Sherman, Edward Touchton, Clifford Windham, Henry Wild, Clarence Wild, James Ward, James Radford, Walter Sherris, Ray Mathis, Ray Garrett, Ralph Garrett, J. C. Still, Leland Elder, Odell Skipper, Frances Skipper, Woodrow Lovell, James Jordan, George Moon.

Bill Klump Writes

Poems for English

About Youth-Earth

Bill Klump, junior, of the English department has written two poems following the study of poems in Miss Millie Pearson's class.

WORDS TO A YOUTH
Life is life, and death is death,
And who can tell what is to be?
Your future's sure, yet you know not;
Know not your destiny.

Sing my song, and laugh away,
The present while you can.
Live, and love, and make the best,
Of pleasant things, for death comes soon, as any man.

No one knows, but some may care,
Be death a hell, or peace sublime.
You can hasten not, nor hinder this,
Senseless omnipresent thing that,
Comes to all with time.

All may end, this very night,
But I care not, nor terrified am I.
Death comes, soon, but sing, my song,
Your hours lessen, one by one, so, as you sing, prepare yourself to die.

THE EARTH

The Boogyanville blooming,
Creeping over wall and trellis;
Hollow, hushen beauty, growing,
From the earth.

The wheat as slowly awaying,
Stretching far on every side,
All this mighty crop of gold, sprang
From the earth.

The ancient mountains towering,
Grim, in their majesty,
That man and beast may wonder, there came,
From the earth.

Good Manners Club

Meets Last Friday

Miss Helen Pittman's fifth grade's "Good Manners Club" met last Friday morning.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Wayne Cook. Gene Clark, secretary, read the report of the last meeting.

The following program was presented with Elsie Pierce acting as program chairman:

"The Book," poem, Ralph Lee; "Spring," poem, Christine Peters; "The Fireman," poem, Earle Varnes; "Varnes Without Senses," poem, Baron Collier; "Hiddle," poem, Gene Clark.

Bookkeeping Class

To Use Unit Plan

This Report Period

The bookkeeping class goes for the unit assignment plan in a big way. This was introduced at the beginning of this six week period.

Work has been begun for the bookkeeping class on the basis of E. W. Good, the proprietor of the wholesale grocery company. This makes the students feel that they are doing the real work expected of a bookkeeper.

The typing students are working much harder this period because they are being rated by a more difficult class. More effort is required on the part of the students to obtain better job ratings than during the preceding six week period.

The class manager on the basketball team has been elected. The class manager is: Earl Satter, Margaret Satter, Helen Dickinson, Lila Martin, Charles Sherman, Faye Gordon, and Miss Hicks.

MISS PITTMAN'S CLASSES STUDY TWO NEW UNITS

5th and 6th Grades Study
United States, Japan
and China for Projects

Miss Louise Pittman's fifth and sixth grade sections have been studying one unit on different states and another on Japan and China.

Each member of the fifth grade was assigned a state or national park west of the Mississippi river to study and report to the class. Miss Pittman gave them several addresses and material was sent which the pupils made into booklets. As a pupil finishes his work, he takes his state to the other members of the class and shows his booklet and pictures.

This week Walter Martin's booklet on Texas was used in the history class with the study of the annexation of Texas. The booklets will be on display at the class exhibit in May.

The following children have made booklets on these assignments:

Oregon—Dorothy Lawhon.
New Mexico—Ruth Predston.
California—Winifred Demorest.
Arizona—Elinor Robinson.
Nebraska and Missouri—Marlyn Halling.

Texas—Walter Martin.
Wyoming—Bobby Keller.
Montana—Jimmy Hetherington.
Colorado—Madge Plicher.
Washington—Ruby Pate.
Yellowstone National Park—James Anderson.

Oklahoma—Charles Chandler.
Nevada—Burl Monk.
Minnesota—Gertie Turnbull.
For several weeks the pupils in the sixth grade have been making a thorough study of Japan and China. Chalk drawings and posters have been made to illustrate these countries. Illustrated material on China and Japan and interesting facts about these countries have been combined in booklets.

Several pupils have planned Chinese and Japanese projects to be used for the class exhibit in May. Martha McCord, Miss McWhorter are planning a Japanese garden.

This class studied the life of Washington Irving and made books on "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Each child read the story and made drawings of the interior and exterior of Ichabod Crane's school house. Through the courtesy of the chamber of commerce, Tarrytown, N. Y., one of the members of this class was sent a pamphlet showing scenes in Washington Irving Country." The booklets and posters made by the members of this class will be shown at class exhibit in May.

Tenth Grade Wins

Ball Championship

With Score of 2-1

The tenth grade diamondball team won the championship in the intramural high school boys' diamondball games.

In the first game, the tenth scored 14 to 0. The fourth game was the tenth against the eleventh with a score of 5 to 1. Sherman knocked a home run into right field and he was the only run for the eleventh graders.

The twelfth was from the ninth and was decided by a walk-off home run in the last inning. The final score was 12 to 12.

The players for the teams were: Tenth—Foster, W. H. Martin, Ward, H. H. Hall, Grady Pate and Eugene Field.

Elementary Group Forms Boys' Choir As First In State

Coming as a new addition to this school's activities, in the boys' choir now being organized by Mr. E. L. Roberts, which will help to make this school have one of the best organized music departments in the state.

A group of approximately 50 elementary school boys will be taught familiar songs for the rest of the school term. This group was selected from a group of 120 as those having the best voices.

Next year new music will be taught and these same boys will be taught to read music, and thereby, they will be able to sing two voice parts.

During the next school term these boys will frequently give programs in Avon Park. This choir will be the only one of its kind in Florida.

Those boys chosen as the 50 to represent the school in this choir are: John Franklin Clark, Warren Fields, George Gribble, Dayman Sadler, Jimmie Hetherington, Jack Head, Charles Lawhon, Earnest Bryant, John Ewell, Bobby Keller, James Anderson, Harold Dunn, Howard Todd, David Lanier, Charles Bennett, Charles Smith, H. PUPILS ELECT M. L. STEBBINS VICE-PRESIDENT

Wednesday Chapel Period Is
Day of Unanimous Choice
By Petitioners

Mary Lydia Stebbins, junior, will be vice-president of Avon Park high school as a result of a unanimous election Wednesday morning in chapel. She will fill the vacancy in the student council caused by the resignation of Clifford Windham, senior.

John Villalita, president of the student council, called for a motion to unanimously elect Mary Lydia Stebbins as a result of a unanimous election Wednesday morning in chapel. She will fill the vacancy in the student council caused by the resignation of Clifford Windham, senior.

Persons in school wishing to run a person for vice president were required to present an endorsement to the council on which there had to be at least 35 names of persons for that candidate. Mary Lydia was the sole candidate that had her name turned in to the school with an endorsement of the required number of names. This explains why she was able to be chosen unanimously by the students.

Mary Lydia is a member of the glee club, girls' chorus, pep squad, and girls' basketball team.

Instructors Attend

Meeting in Orlando,

Hear Colin English

Teachers from the Avon Park schools attended the fifty-fifth annual convention in Orlando March 18, 19 and 20 for the Florida Education association.

Every phase of school work that was covered in the convention was discussed by the members of the convention and they were addressed by State Superintendent Colin English.

Only delegates from schools are allowed to vote on the important matters and in the election of officers. The five delegates from this school were: Dr. Stanley N. Reeves, principal; Mr. R. S. Funderburk, assistant principal; Mr. Chester Varnes, speech instructor; Mrs. Charles Sherman, fifth grade instructor; and Mrs. Virginia Cloud, elementary school principal.

CHIEF JUSTICE DEMOLISHES COURT CONGESTION ARGUMENTS.

Chief Justice Hughes said pretty much what an experienced jurist of his character and record could be expected to say concerning membership of the Supreme Court in order to relieve the judges of a supposedly too heavy burden of labor.

First of all he demonstrates conclusively by hard facts and cold figures that there is no judicial lag due to congestion of litigation in that tribunal; that the Court is well abreast of its work and that an increase in the number of judges would merely impair its efficiency instead of increasing it.

Secondly, he demolishes the argument that the Court is in the habit of occupying additional labors by arbitrarily refusing to accept appeals which critics have attempted to picture in the light of a denial of justice. Petitions which are thus turned down he shows are from litigants who have no proper cause for appeal to the Court and whose cases are frivolous and without merit under the acts of Congress and the rules of law defining such rights. Defending the propriety of this procedure, Chief Justice neatly turns the argument back on those who allege that failure to hear every would-be appellant plays into the hands of the rich litigant.

"No single court of last resort, whatever the number of judges, could dispose of all the cases which arise... If the right of appeal were unrestricted," he says, "Hosts of litigants will take appeals so long as there is a tribunal accessible. In protracted litigation, the advantage is with those who command a long purse. Unmeritorious appeals cause intolerable delays. Such appeals clog the calendar and get in the way of those that have merit."

One of the most interesting points in this connection is his explanation that such denials are made, not by any one or two judges, but only after all have examined into the merits of the petitions and they are invariably granted if as many as four judges are favorable, one less than a majority.

Even though his letter to Senator Wheeler does not discuss the question of increasing the number of judges from the viewpoint of affecting the decisions of the Court, the Chief Justice has made an interesting and practical contribution to the controversy.

But, after all, the proposals of the Court increase have long since advanced beyond the matter of relieving the burdens of the judges and no longer rely upon such arguments. The "new blood" theory is the openly avowed reason for demanding the change now. It is a pity that self-imposed limitations of propriety have prevented the Chief Justice from dealing with this point which is at the core of the constitutional problems precipitated by President Roosevelt's proposals.—Times.

Miss Narcissus Leaphart Became Bride of Charles S. Pardee Wednesday Morning.

Miss Narcissus Leaphart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Leaphart of DeSoto City, and Charles S. (Buck) Pardee, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pardee of Avon Park, were married Wednesday morning at the home of the bride.

The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Leaphart, entered upon the arms of her groom, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom, attended by his best man, Colquhoun Pardee, Jr., of this city. The bride was charmingly attired in a traveling suit of tan with which she wore blue accessories. Her corsage was of roses. Miss Margaret Leaphart, maid of honor and sister of the bride, was attired in a pink crepe suit with white accessories.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the bride's parents, following which the young couple left for Tampa from where they sailed on the S. Cuba from Port Tampa for Key West for a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Pardee is a graduate of the Sebring high school. Mr. Pardee is a graduate of Charlotte Hall Military Academy of Maryland and he farthered his education at Stetson. He is principal of the DeSoto City school where the couple will make their home.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Pardee will be at home to their many friends at the Lee Etheridge home in DeSoto City.

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

She Modeled Lincoln

IN THE rounds of the United States Capitol at Washington stands a statue of Abraham Lincoln. Among all the sculptured likenesses of the Great Emancipator this one is unique. It is the only one which was modeled from life and it is the work of a young girl, Vinnie Ream was her name and she was born in Wisconsin in 1847.

As a girl she amused herself by sketching the Indians whom she saw when her father, a surveyor, took her with him on his trips in the West. They were crude sketches but an old Italian who saw them recognized her latent talent and encouraged her.

When she was fourteen her father secured a position for her as a copyist in the post office department at $50 a month. She became acquainted with Clark Mills, the famous sculptor, and while watching him at work, exclaimed, "Oh, I could do that if I had some clay!" Mills told her to help herself and he was delighted with the progress which she made.

Then Vinnie Ream conceived the idea of modeling President Lincoln from life. When this was first suggested to him he refused, but after talking to the girl and becoming impressed with her earnestness, he gave his consent with the understanding that she was to come to the White House every afternoon during his rest period. She was not to talk and he was to sit, walk, or lie down to take a nap, as his mood dictated.

So for five months she spent part of every afternoon in his study. As he lay on the couch she took life masks of his face and hands. As he walked about or sat at his desk, she sketched his figure again and again.

After Lincoln's assassination congress decided to erect a statue in his memory and asked sculptors to submit sketches. Many famous artists responded but the work of this sixteen-year-old girl was the one selected. In 1899 congress advanced her $5,000 and she went abroad to study and complete the statue. After nearly two years of steady work she finished it and it was unveiled in 1911. When the statue was placed in the rotunda of the Capitol an old servant who had lived in the White House exclaimed "the real Lincoln has returned to us."

Vinnie Ream later married Lieut. Richard L. Hoxie but continued her work as a sculptor until her death in 1914. She made many other statues and modeled medallions and busts of many notables, both here and abroad. But she is best remembered as the only sculptor who ever modeled Lincoln from life and the pioneer woman sculptor of America.

Soldier-Painter
IF YOU think of a painter as an impractical idealist, revise that view before applying it to Charles Willson Peale. Born in Maryland in 1741 he was apprenticed to a saddler at the age of thirteen and was such a good workman that he won his freedom by the time he was twenty. Then he went into business for himself and later formed a partnership with a chaise-maker who promptly absconded with all of the firm's money. To get out of debt Peale next tried clock and watch making and set himself up as a silversmith.

Becoming interested in painting, Peale took lessons from a Swedish-American artist and paid for them with a saddle which he had made. Next he spent two years studying under Copley in Boston and then went to England to learn more from the famous Benjamin West. Returning to this country a few years before the Revolution, he began painting portraits of Colonial celebrities, one of which was destined to make him famous. It was the picture of a young colonel in the Virginia militia named George Washington.

At the outbreak of the Revolution Peale, who was an ardent patriot organized a company of militia and became a captain. For the next three years he mixed painting and soldiering winning distinction in both. Next he went into politics and in 1779 and 1780 served as a member of the Pennsylvania assembly.

After the war, Peale gathered together all of the portraits of Revolutionary leaders he had painted—including several of Washington—and started a picture gallery in his home, which was so popular that he had to seek larger quarters. In 1826 he opened the famous Peale museum on the second floor of independence hall. There he exhibited not only his paintings but also a remarkable collection of natural history specimens he had collected.

At the age of eighty-one Peale turned from portraiture to paint religious pictures. When he died in 1827 he left behind him a collection of 250 portraits and historical scenes as a memorial to one of America's greatest painters and also one of her most versatile geniuses.

Plain Cake.

1 cupful brown sugar
3 teaspoonfuls of boiling water
4 eggs
1 cupful of flour
1/2 teaspoonful of cinnamon
Pinch of cloves
Dash of allspice
1/2 teaspoonful of baking powder

Beat the yolks of the eggs and sugar well. Add spices, mixing well. Add boiling water. Sift flour several times, adding the baking powder. Then add the flour and baking powder to the mixture and bake in layer tins ten minutes in a hot oven. This cake is very delicious if made with a date filling between the layers.

Pepper Is In Step
In Nation's Capitol

ment to aid the sugar industry, but reciprocal forces had rallied and the sugar amendment failed to make the grade. Then Harrison called for reconsideration of the Pepper amendment. His eloquent work had been effective; the amendment was voted down 42 to 39. It was a mighty close call and served to make the old timers realize that the Gentlemen from Florida was a force to be reckoned with.

While his effort did not succeed, it was nevertheless a personal triumph for Pepper in view of the fact that previously a similar amendment by Vanderberg was defeated 47 to 29 and several other amendments by elder statesmen of both parties were rejected just as emphatically. It further served to elevate Florida's junior senator in the eyes of his colleagues and command their respect for his leadership.

With but two months of senatorial activity to his credit, Senator Pepper's record as shown by the following resume is both interesting and impressive:

Senate Bill 5—(known as the Copeland Food Drug Bill)—Senator Pepper as a member of the Commerce Committee was very active in getting that part of the bill affecting the citrus industry amended so as to meet with their approval.

Senate Bill 842—(Med Fly Investigation Bill)—We have a favorable report on this from the Department of Agriculture and the Senator hopes, in cooperation with Senator Andrews, to get this bill in line for passage.

Senate Bill 875—(with Andrews) Post St. Joe Harbor Bill—passed Senate.

Senate Bill 1125—(Anastasia Lighthouse Reservation)—passed the Senate.

Senate Bill 1126—providing two terms of Federal Court at Tallahassee—pending.

Senate Bill 1126—Federal Mortgage Bank Bill introduced jointly with Senator Wagner—pending.

Senate Bill 1128—providing for loans by RFC to port districts handling agricultural products primarily—pending.

Senate Bill 1153—introduced jointly with Senator Robinson to aid school districts—pending.

Senate Bill 1154—providing for Federal aid to unprivileged children. Senator has received the commendation of many organizations throughout the country for the introduction of this bill—pending.

Senate Bill 1179—providing for engineering experiment stations at and grant colleges. Favorable comment from both Department of Agriculture and Commerce early passage expected.

House Joint resolution 96—to extend reciprocal trade agreements—two amendments introduced, one for South Florida vegetable growers and one for sugar industry. Both defeated.

Senate Bill 1757—Amendments introduced to amend the sugar bill—now pending.

Resolution providing for the presentation to the University of Florida, Alumni Association of desk and chair used by Senator Fletcher.

PERSONALS

J. L. Green, who is a student at Bolles Military Academy, Jacksonville, will arrive Thursday to spend the Easter holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Pendleton.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Franklin, who have been spending the past several weeks in Avon Park, make their home at the Mid-State Hotel, expect to return to their home in Adairville, Ga. the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Ella Hargrave, Mrs. J. L. Deleag, Mrs. Roy Felkner and Ben McCall motored to Lakeland Saturday evening where they met Miss Audrey Culbreath, who was to be the house guest of Mrs. Roy Felkner for a few days.

Mrs. William S. Fox of Baltimore, who has been the house guest of Mrs. C. H. Pardee and Mrs. S. C. Pardee for some time, left Wednesday for Jacksonville where she will spend several days before returning to her home.

Mrs. Howard Maddox and sons, H. A. and Roy, spent Sunday in St. Petersburg, where they visited Mr. Maddox at the Bay Pine Hotel there. The many friends of Mr. Maddox will be glad to learn that he is getting along very nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Madiera, who have spent the past several winters in Avon Park, expect to leave next week for their home in Stony Creek, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Madiera are owners and managers of Indian Point House there.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving C. Smith plan to leave Monday for their home at Ashland, Wis., where Mr. Smith engages in landscape work for Northland College. They will go by the way of New York and visit their son, Alden W. Smith, who is a high school teacher at Cos Cob, Conn. They expect to arrive home the latter part of April.

S. A. L. Passenger
Traffic Increased
Thirty Per Cent

Norfolk, Va., March 25.—Due to the fact that the Seaboard Air Line passenger traffic has shown a 30% increase up to March 24 over last year, the Twin Orange Blossom Specials will be run until the 22nd of April for southbound travel from New York and to the 22nd of April for the northbound trip. C. E. Bell, Passenger Traffic Manager of the Seaboard, said today. This is the first time in many years that these two crack Seaboard trains have been run so late in the season.

The indication of a lengthening season is shown by the heavy hotel reservations for April and May, which are surpassing the record of last year made prominent by the tourist call from many states, to further with the substantial rail patronage being accorded transportation lines.

Events are to top events in Miami's social and sport calendars chalked with many international attractions. Racing fans have shifted their attention from Hialeah Park to Tropical Park for the opening of the Spring meets. Unique in the month's offering will be the $7,500 prize Miami Deep Fishing Tournament, the opening of the amphitheatre for open air opera, and the Miami Beach Birthday holiday set for March 26th.

Calendars at Pinehurst, Camdenton, Southern Pines and Sea Island also show many important events. Among the drawing cards will be the 20th Annual Horse Show scheduled for March 30th and 31st.

Winter Visitor
Died Here Sunday

James H. Robinson, a retired railroad agent, who has been spending the winter here on the Sebring road, passed away Sunday morning following an illness of lobar pneumonia. Accompanied by the widow, who is the only survivor, the body was shipped Monday noon to Port Jefferson, Long Island, N. Y. for interment. Mr. Robinson was born in Richmond, N. Y. and was 69 years of age at the time of his death.

Increased Activity
In Used Car Sales

Greatly increased sales activity in the used car market was predicted today for 1937 by C. E. Lanier, manager of the Ford Motor Company, Avon Park.

A substantial increase in the number of prospects able to afford the purchase of an inexpensive car, due to improved economic conditions, is the primary factor in the expansion of the used car market now in progress, Mr. Lanier said.

"A contributing factor is the large number of owners, who have driven cars which are not in condition for economical operation. Owners have realized that it would be better to trade-in their present car for a better used car, which can be operated economically and is in proper condition for mid-winter driving. As more and more owners discover that their present cars are costing them too much to drive, or are operating inefficiently under present weather conditions, the used car sales volume will continue to expand.

"Fortunately automobile dealers are well stocked with a wide variety of worthwhile used cars and are able to meet the rapidly growing demand," he explained. "So far as Ford dealers are concerned, the enthusiastic acceptance accorded the 1937 Ford V-8 has brought to the Ford dealer most every make of late model cars which are in excellent condition.

The Ford "R & G" procedure of used car selling has resulted in a marked increase in Ford dealer used car volume, Mr. Lanier declared.

"Each used car offered for sale by a Ford dealer under this procedure is newsmen and guaranteed in accordance with fixed standards laid down by the Ford Motor Company. Such cars, when sold, are backed up by a mechanical and a written money-back guarantee.

"Used cars sold under this procedure are conditioned for the unusual weather encountered in winter driving and in most cases operate more economically than the average used car in owners' hands at present."

Pontiac Broadcast
Pleasing Women

A recent test of interest of listeners to Kathryn Craven's tri-weekly news commentary broadcast, "News Through A Woman's Eyes," sponsored by Pontiac Motors over Columbia Broadcasting System, brought over 225,000 requests to the sponsor for a polishing cloth which was used for the test.

The offer which was made on the three programs (Mon., Wed. and Fri.) during the week of February 21 only, had no strings attached to it. Nothing to fill out. No essays to write. No testimonials or demonstrations in a Pontiac car. Simply a post card or letter asking for the polishing cloth, postmarked during that week.

Radio experts consider the reply a remarkable test of the interest of women in this program. The series has been on the air less than six months. It is the first news commentary program on a national network directed to women exclusively and the first radio program of any kind under the sponsorship of a motor car manufacturer prepared entirely for women. And furthermore, six months ago Miss Craven was virtually unknown to a radio network audience, her previous broadcasting having been entirely from the local station KMOX of St. Louis, Mo.

Now per fan mail comes from the four corners of the country, with hundreds of letters each week.

Except for the two weeks' period when she broadcast from her bedroom in a New York hotel while she was fighting an attack of the flu, Miss Craven's program are all based upon current personal interviews with the great and the near-great in many walks of life in any
