

Round About Avon Park

by W. C. Beckett

The correspondence of Mayor M. E. Covington and others published last week regarding a local WPA project has elicited much comment, together with more letters, a poem and a laugh just how ever it might strike you.

HIGHLANDS COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

April 19, 1938
Mr. Bill Beckett
Editor
Avon Park Times
Avon Park, Florida.

Dear Mr. Beckett:
Enclosed you will please find a copy of a letter written to Mayor M. E. Covington of your city.

Will you please give this letter space in your column, under Vol. popul.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.
Yours very truly,
G. T. HARPER, Sanitarian

April 19, 1938
Mr. M. E. Covington,
Mayor
Avon Park, Florida.
Dear Mr. Covington:

Allow me to congratulate you on your splendid interest in the Sanitary Pit Fly Project, as issued in the Avon Park Times of April 15. It was, indeed, a masterpiece.

If we only had more city officials in the state of Florida as interested in the health of its inhabitants as you have shown all the time, it would be much easier to reduce disease and sickness arising from this source.

Please do not be misled by some well intended people, as the type sanitary pit fly being installed in your city conforms to the requirements of the United States Public Health Service and the Florida State Board of Health. In fact, Mr. Mayor, this is the same type of pit fly being installed in the entire state.

These units were designed with two thoughts uppermost: (1) Sanitation—These units are absolutely fly proof and are so constructed as to prevent the fly from feeding on the fecal matter within the pits. This, as you well know, is the essential part of sanitation and it is possible to eliminate completely this source of intestinal diseases, simply by installing these units.

(2) The construction of these units, at the low price of $16.00, is only possible by having simple, straight lines in the design.

The health department is interested as the city is, namely, the elimination of these unsightly open-back privies and the promotion of sanitation and health in your community and not to much with architectural beauty.

Sincerely yours,
G. T. HARPER, Sanitarian,
Highlands County Health Department.

Tallahassee, Fla. Apr. 20, 1938.
W. C. Beckett,
Avon Park Times.

Please advise recent issue your paper on City Sales if government has infringed on private rights. Are the duplex four bolters or eight bolters. Advise total appropriation for your city. Confer with mayor as all of West Florida is sympathetic with your troubles including the flies and bees.

A. B. McCREARY, M. D.
Director of County Health, Health
Florida State Board of Health.

With apologies to Riley, Flannigan or any other poet, I am writing to which apologies may be due.

A bard has written with fearful eye
And many a sad and doleful sigh
Of memories pictures clear and keen
In recalled visions he hath seen
A structure of simple classic art
In which life's tragedy had played a part
In fact, it was the tragedy, forsooth,
This nasty stinking little booth

With open back and four high moulds
And tons of typhoid in its bounds
There on it would dream and think and sit
With fanny thrust in the oval slit.

To everyone who felt the urge,

FINE LOCATIONS IN COUNTY FOR TROPICAL FRUIT

Large Attendance and Much Enthusiasm At Meeting
Here Last Friday

That there are many fine locations in Highlands County for the production of tropical fruit was brought out several times at the Tropical Fruit Seminar at the Avon Park Community Center last Friday afternoon and evening. The interest and enthusiasm shown by the growers and the speakers was very fine and the attendance was greater than expected. County Agent Louis H. Almeyer who arranged this meeting said that the response had been so great that arrangements would be made to have a similar meeting late this fall.

In discussing the best varieties of avocados for the Ridge, W. F. Ward stated that the best varieties for growing and marketing were the Lulu, Taylor, Nabel, Booth 7 and Booth 8, and the Collins were the best. He recommended these varieties for commercial plantings. The figures which he quoted for prices for a grove was well received. The avocados in a tract so that cross-pollination would be easily achieved. His comment that there was considerable room for expansion of this industry on the Ridge by those who would really care for a grove was well received. Caution was given that it cost more to bring an avocado grove into production than it does a citrus grove.

Dr. H. S. Wolfe, superintendent of the Sub-Tropical Experiment Station at Homestead advised growers to give their avocado trees sufficient care and fertilizer. He stated that their survey of the industry had shown that the groves which were making the most money were those of which the grower took the most care. A careful study of the grove and its soil as well as the fruit produced is needed.

Dr. G. D. Ruehle also of the experiment station in discussing the diseases of limes stated that growers would find it advisable to handle their groves so that the trees made a slow consistent growth during the year. Dr. Ruehle recommended that growers reduce spraying and recommended five Bordeaux mixtures spraying for Lulu and Taylor avocados and less for some of the other varieties. Where five proper applications of the Bordeaux mixture are made to these varieties during the spring and early summer the quality and marketability is greatly increased.

R. A. Carlton, Agricultural Agent for the S. A. L. Ry. gave an excellent talk on the growing of guavas and advised that guavas should be grown in this county. He recommended the Avon Park variety for certain soil types and the Red Spanish for others. He cautioned that while soil plants are regarded as air plants that they appreciate a proper supply of moisture. He recommended a fertilizer composed of tobacco stems, cotton seed meal, poultry manure, bone meal, and sulphate of potash. He suggested that the poultry manure was used as a special application.

Papaya varieties, according to county agent Almeyer, cross very readily and many think they are new Jersey. He said that they are generally supplied. He recommended that in fertilizing these that the material be broadcasted around the trees and not put in the soil. An abundant supply of moisture and organic fertilizer produced the best results. He recommended the trial of the Baguette type mangoes and suggested that these should be grown under the climatic conditions prevalent on the Ridge.

Court Clerks Elect Officers

Hollywood Beach, April 21 — (FNS)—The Florida Circuit Court Association, meeting at the Hollywood Beach Hotel last week, elected Clarence M. Day of Orlando as president; E. R. Bennett, Pt. Lauderdale vice president; Frank Meeks, Bronson, secretary and W. A. Williams of Palatka, treasurer.

Identical Twins

Adams, N. Y., April 16—Margaret and Margery Wallace, left to right or vice versa, identical twin nurses at the Good Samaritan Hospital at Watertown, N. Y., holding another pair of twins. The twins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor of this village, are considering naming the new arrivals after the two main islands of the Thousand Islands group which is now being spanned by the nearly completed Thousand Islands International Bridge.

THREE SPEAKERS AT ROTARY MEET ON WEDNESDAY

Fr. Brown, S. C. Pardes, Jr. and Stanley Reeves Outline Conference Talks

Fr. R. L. Brown, S. C. Pardes, Jr. and Stanley Reeves were the speakers at the Avon Park Rotary Club luncheon Wednesday noon at the Jaramana Hotel. They will represent Avon Park and speak at the district conference at Ocala next Monday and they gave outlines of the talks they will make there and asked for criticisms. The Avon Park club has charge of the Community Service luncheon at the conference.

Brown's subject was "What does community service do for the Rotarian?" The subject for Pardes was "How shall a Rotary Club determine its most effective service to its community?" Reeves spoke on "How can a Rotary Club best serve the youth of the community?"

Brown said a Rotarian is helpful both directly and indirectly to the community as a citizen by what the club does for the community and also by the community and also by the club. He said that the club does for the community and also by the community and also by the club. He said that the club does for the community and also by the community and also by the club.

Reeves said the Avon Park club is outstanding in the district for community service, being particularly interested in youth work. Junior Rotary Clubs have been organized in Oklahoma and New Jersey. He said that they have been frowned on by the International organization which ruled that neither the name nor the emblem could be used. He said the school luncheon club here is not a Junior Rotary club but a school luncheon club and he plans to tell the conference what is being accomplished.

Visitors were Maj. Ed Keenan of Fort Snelling, Minn., Capt. Barlow and F. T. Haskins of Sebring. The birthday of R. R. Brown was acknowledged in the usual way.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The meeting of the women's club will be held at the club house May 6th. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. Tickets 50 cents. Officers for the coming year will be installed by Mrs. Hagen of Lakeland.

TIMES INVITES LOCAL WOMEN TO COOKING SCHOOL

New Motion Picture School
Will Provide Instruction
And Entertainment

The Avon Park Times has scored again! This newspaper has just been successful in securing the new Motion Picture Cooking School, "Star in My Kitchen," which will be presented at the Park Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, May 16, 17, 18.

Mark the days on your calendar because every woman and man of the community is hereby extended a cordial invitation to see, absolutely free, this fascinating picture which weaves helpful, intelligent lessons on cooking and home-making into a humorous and romantic plot.

The Motion Picture Cooking School is a brand new idea. First conceived last year, it has now taken from women throughout the country, who like the happy combination of motion pictures, entertainment and close-up cooking instruction. Seats in the back row as good as those in the front row—the motion picture permits everyone to hear and see every trick in frosting a cake, making a pie, or preparing a roast.

"Star in My Kitchen" was produced in Hollywood, and the audience will recognize many of the acting young stars. The picture which takes part in it. Women young and old will appreciate the humaneness of the new motion picture, for home problems are approached from an entirely new angle.

The Motion Picture Cooking School has graduated beyond the demonstration course in the wide variety of household equipment available in clear view of the audience. All of the practical equipment is seen in active use, and because "seeing is believing," the audience will soon learn to fix and make cakes and salads can make them "stars in their kitchens."

Experienced housekeepers will thrill to the adventures of the young Dedeo Abbot, who suddenly finds herself with a large home to manage and several months to find—as well as a handsome young movie star to impress.

What happens when she tries to make a fluffy lemon meringue pie or a marshmallow chocolate cake? What happens when the man of the house drops in for dinner? To unravel the mystery in advance would be to rob this clever picture of its interest. For once, however, the audience is due to share in a rollicking good story and to learn much about home-making at the same time.

Every listener will find a harvest of practical ideas among the "how-to" hints of the picture. They are lost gone hints at sight and disturbing the flow of others. Miss Mary T. McPherson, it is said, is the states attorney, Grady Barton, and recommended the complaints be placed before him.

Court issued an official invitation from the city for the Department, I.O.O.F. to hold their annual convention in Avon Park next year. This was conveyed to the convention in Orlando Tuesday by the mayor and the city attorney.

County Candidates Addressing Voters; Speaking Schedule

Under the auspices of Highlands County Democratic Committee the qualified candidates are speaking throughout the county this week, following the primary elections. Starting Tuesday night at the Sunland school house the tour will end Saturday on the Sebring Circuit, following an all day barbecue and basket dinner at Venus.

At a meeting held Thursday morning in which the Avon Park candidates participated, the speaking here has been set for Saturday evening, April 30 at 8 o'clock at the Sunland school house. This is a change from Friday night, April 22, as originally planned.

The following is the complete schedule as announced by the county committee: Sunland school house, Tuesday night; DeSoto City school house, Wednesday night; Lake Placid school house, Thursday night; Sebring, the Circle, Saturday night; Venus, Saturday morning and afternoon; barbecue and basket dinner.

A chorus of 200 trained voices augmenting the original Stanton Oratorio society, of the little town of Stanton in southwest Iowa, sang Handel's famous musical, "The Messiah," as an Easter feature. This chorus under direction of Vance Leininger, young director who teaches music in the Stanton school, was heard by a crowd of nearly 1,000 in the Mamelund Lutheran church, one of the largest rural town churches in the Midwest. Soloists were selected from Iowa, Nebraska, and Illinois.

AVON PARK MAY TAKE WILCOX BANKRUPT ACT

Council Resolution Officially
Notifies Bondholders
Of Refunding Plan

Meeting twice this week, in regular session Monday night and special session Tuesday night, the city council passed a resolution authorizing the bond refunding plan to be submitted in prospective form by the R. E. Crumner Co. to the bondholders for their final approval. This action will be the city's official notification to the bondholders of the refunding plan.

Following the plan's acceptance by the majority of the bondholders, proceedings will be taken, if found necessary, to bring the city under the provisions of the Wilcox Municipal Bankruptcy Act in order to force the minority bondholders into the agreement. Indications that this may be necessary were made by the Crumner Co. representatives.

The Avon Park real estate board issued a statement regarding the disposition of real estate owned by the city. They deplored such property being sold at low prices as tending to depress the market.

Mayor M. E. Covington reported he had received complaints regarding "hook" organs in the negro quarters. They are kept going late at night and disturbing the flow of others. City Attorney T. A. McPherson, it is said, is the states attorney, Grady Barton, and recommended the complaints be placed before him.

Court issued an official invitation from the city for the Department, I.O.O.F. to hold their annual convention in Avon Park next year. This was conveyed to the convention in Orlando Tuesday by the mayor and the city attorney.

County Candidates Died Here Monday; Buried in Wauchula

S. Don Williams, formerly of Wauchula, died Monday afternoon at his residence at Avon Park after a short illness.

He was a native of Jefferson City, Tenn., and was a resident of Wauchula for 25 years.

He was at one time mayor of Wauchula and served on the city council. He was first representative of Hardee county following the county division in 1922 and was later county attorney. He has resided in Avon Park for the past year.

A DEVIL OF A SCARE

Okay, F. D. R., would take your word for it. We seem to remember that during the presidential campaign of 1936 Mr. Roosevelt showed a lot of anxiety. "We are on the very back fence," he gloomed at that time and don't let anyone tell you differently."

We agree with Mr. Roosevelt. After making a start forward in 1933, we admit that we are not definitely on our way back. Anyone can tell us differently if they want to but we won't believe it, just how much farther back we can continue to go, burdened with a $10,000,000,000 public debt, is something no one can tell. Here we might quote from one of London's campaign speeches. "No one can be sure."

Of course, if pump-priming becomes rampant again as is now indicated, the New Deal is the pied piper and with its following will doubtless make most of the opportunity to sing its old battle hymn, "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Some listeners, however, are going to detect a discordant note—a $2,750,000,000 note. That means the taxpayer will have to readjust his pack, taking on a few more pounds of debt weight.

Judicious use of the big relief fund now requested may reclaim a few Congressmen next fall that had previously been considered lost to the New Deal cause, but it seems extremely doubtful if anything can be done at this time to carry the New Dealers through in power past 1940. There is no danger of the Democratic party being destroyed. We are finding out every day that it is made up of a pretty good solid lot of Democrats who have never entertained any ideas of Socialism, Fascism or Communism and who are sound and conservative when it comes to spending the people's money. But boy, when 1940 is past the Democratic party can truthfully admit that it has had a "devil of a scare"—Winter Park Herald.

The flies buzzed out a funeral dirge.

And yet none seemed to care nor realize.

Just what was meant by mounds and files.

Nor drenching rains and the heavy dump.

Which trickled down to the nearby pump.

Winter, Summer, Forget the thermostat?

This old hell was deadlier than a rat.

'Twas early June when the first took sight.

Marked the start of the epidemic.

The first to fall was Sister Nelly, Headache, high fever and rose spot belly.

We buried her on the twentieth day.

And it wasn't long 'til Gran'pop passed away.

Our backyard executioner; the slow

Was our budding debutante, lovely Sister Sue.

She lingered long and fit a fight she

She struggled and strove with all her might;

But the hemorrhages drowned out the light.

So for Sister Sue, it was "Good Night."

What of Annie? She didn't live here any more.

She died of typhoid twenty years ago.

How harmless were the borers and the misplaced sting.

That terrified my Aunt, these insects on the wing.

The flaming pop—to disposes, 'Twas a hollow victory o'er a horrid net.

Would that it might have been a fiery cross

Young Musicians To Gather Soon At West Palm Beach

West Palm Beach, April 21—(PNS)—More than 2,000 youthful musicians from the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Maryland, Georgia and Florida, comprising the eighth region, will gather here on May 12, 13 and 14 for the National School Band and Orchestra contest.

The contest, sponsored by the National School Band and Orchestra Association, will be under the direct personal supervision of Major Ed Chenette of Tampa. Judges will include Frank Simon of Cincinnati, president of the American Bandmasters' Association; Peter Buzs of Hagerstown, Md., vice president of the association; Cate W. Chenette of Ames, Ia., president of the Iowa State Bandmasters' Association and A. R. McAllister of Joliet, Ill., president of the National School Band and Orchestra Ass'n.

One of the features of the musical festival will be the parade of all bands which is expected to be one of the longest and most colorful in the history of the state.

Townsend Clubs Endorse Pepper

St. Petersburg, April 21 (PNS)—The National Organization of Townsend Clubs will throw their united support to United States Senator Claude Pepper in his campaign for re-election in Florida, according to a statement made here last week by William Moorfield, chairman of the county board.

F. Manley Gledhill, national Townsend representative for Florida, sent telegrams last week to all county chairmen, that Senator Pepper had been endorsed by Dr. Francis E. Townsend at the recommendation of several Florida clubs.

April checks for Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind will total $443,229, Coddington said. Of this sum, $428,572 will go to 28,337 persons receiving Old Age Assistance and $14,657 to 905 recipients of Aid to the Blind.

The average grant for Old Age Assistance is $15.12 and for Aid to the Blind $15.29.

Residents of Highlands County will receive $2,011 from Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind. 17 persons will receive $1,058 as Old Age Assistance and 4 persons will receive $53 as Aid to the Blind.

According to estimates furnished the State Welfare Board, some 33,000 persons will be granted Old Age Assistance before the list of eligible applicants will be exhausted, while approximately 1,500 will be granted Aid to the Blind. Logislative appropriations were based on a social security survey made by the former State Board of Social Welfare which forecast a case load of 27,304 in the Old Age Assistance category and 1,280 in the Aid to the Blind category.

"For I mean not that other men be eased, and ye burdened: But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also be a supply for your want: that there may be equality." —II Cor. 8:13, 14.

Rev. and Mrs. Eckel Leave For Orient On Anniversary Trip

Rev. Howard Eckel, pastor of the Nazarene Church, and Mrs. Eckel will leave Monday on a six months trip to the Orient. The trip will be in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary and is being given them by their sons and families.

They will sail from Los Angeles on May 16 on the S. S. Tolo Maru and they plan to visit Japan, China, Korea, Manchuria and the Philippine Islands.

Rev. and Mrs. Eckel have two grandsons in Tokyo, Japan, one an editor and the other a missionary. While in Japan Rev. Eckel is hoping to hold several meetings as numbers of the Japanese are very receptive to the Christian religion, he says.

Undeveloped Market For Florida Oranges

Jacksonville, April 21.—Strange as it may seem, there is a definite, undeveloped market right here in Florida for Florida oranges, officials of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce declared today when inaugurating an intensive campaign to aid Florida growers to dispose of a record-breaking orange crop.

Sending letters to hundreds of Floridians, the State Chamber said in part:

"Florida growers this year are faced with a record orange crop. Unless moved swiftly, much of that record crop will rot in the groves and our growers will suffer tremendous losses.

"Thousands of chain and independent stores in all parts of the United States have in the past, and in the future, gigantic campaigns to move this record orange crop to market. Their next intensive effort is slated for April 21-27.

"However, 'The Lord helps them that help themselves,' and we Floridians must do our share right now and during and after this orange campaign.

"Therefore, we urge you to put your every effort behind Florida oranges, please bulletin all your members to use Florida oranges, spread the good word among all your friends and acquaintances, large hotels and restaurants to feature Florida oranges in appetizers and salads, order them at your civic luncheons and banquet sessions, and in every way possible sell Floridians on the idea of buying and eating more Florida oranges."

Vessels new using the inland route must go out into the Gulf between Sarasota and Boca Grande, a stretch that is dangerous to most craft during unfavorable weather.

Sponsors of the new proposed route claim that its completion would stimulate vessel traffic from the east coast, which would probably double the present traffic within a short time.

INTERVIEW

During 20 minutes they listened spellbound while the talker, At first Margarita Fonseca seemed a volcano on the verge of eruption; but occasionally she protested with a snort of startling volume, to no statement did she deign to voice actual denial. But gradually—very gradually—the scowl began to clear from her brow, her clenched fists relaxed, a gleam of admiration dawned in her eyes and at last the smile Joyce had seen only once before transpired her expression.

"Ah!" cried the ex-minister of war, and it sounded like a groan of understanding mixed with rage. "It is clear what happened—too clear! Licenciada Fonseca baited the hook, Onella gladly swallowed it. By abandoning you to your fate, La Barranca wanted killing Dorado created an unparalleled international situation which made me better. One more push and she would have been a martyr."

"No more than I'd give to have you for a friend," said Joyce from her heart. "Oh, Margarita, please be my friend."

"No," said Margarita, tossing her iron-gray mane of hair. "Impossible. I detest you. You are all of you and all you stand for. Your insufferable pride in dynamics as the true and only good. Your price labels on everything pertaining to the soul. You leer at our thieves' market, what about the furies, weighing gold against bushels of injured flesh? I could go on for an hour, but I have to arrive at the end of my tale. I love you, my little one, and I've always wished I might have a tiger for my pet. You're adorable."

Dirk's telephoning from the embassy now bore fruit. Pablo answered and whispered to him, withdrew and a minute later came back accompanied by a respectable crowd of bare individuals. The newcomer seemed nervous, at odds with his surroundings and completely at odds with the man who had found him. He had the look of a man whose world has been yanked from under him, leaving him floating in air out of reach of help from heaven or hell. He regarded the ambassador, Joyce and even Margarita Fonseca, as resting peace with lackluster eyes, then turned to Dirk.

"I'm the Reverend Ellerton Jones," he announced in the tone of a voice. "I understand you sent for me, Mr. Van Suttart, but I'm not at all sure—"

"Sit down, sir," said Dirk, "and let's talk the thing over. This is more or less a family gathering. The ambassador isn't an ambassador this afternoon; he's acting as my father. As for Licenciada Fonseca, she's a married woman, and the high lights of the Mexican bar, she's a very dear friend of the girl whom I wish to marry. Miss Dorado. Surely you'll help us out."

"That's the trouble," said the lost and doubtful man. "I don't have to tell you, do I? My charge is gone. I have no rights, civil or otherwise—acutely the right to live. I'm here on sufferance. That's what I mean. I'm not at all sure—"

"Are you in good standing with your church at home?" broke in the ambassador.

"Yes, oh, yes. I'm awaiting my recall, but that's not quite true, I await my means with which to return."

"As long as you're a regularly ordained minister," said the ambassador, "that's all that the home states of these two young people require."

"Please, sir," said Dirk earnestly. "Please, Mr. Jones, do let's be cheerful on this latest of all afternoons. You can make me and myself very happy in about five minutes, if you will, and we'll try to do the same by you. Say I send you each home in style—drawing room, airplane, or if you like to drive I'll give you a car. What about it, sir? I don't want to rush you, but there are two more clergymen waiting on your decision out in the patio."

Altruistic the lackluster eyes came alive; never dreaming how readily some man can be Mr. Jones, he took a small worn book from his hip pocket and murmured, "Let us proceed with the ceremony."

"The strange wedding if there ever was one, it started on a note of haste and levity, but so moving and so beautiful was the ceremony, and so much was used to Anglo-Saxon ears that a spirit of reverence swept into the room on wings unguessed by felt. What though the voice of the preacher was the voice of habit, precise in intonation, humdrum in intent; it could not lessen the surge of emotion which took possession of the hearts of his hearers, choked their throats and turned dry eyes luminous. To the sight of the men and the woman present and in the sight of God no longer were Joyce and Dirk arrayed in whipcord and saddle-stained mokinik, nor yet in silk or broadcloth. They were clothed in light, their faces bathed in a glory from within which presaged devotion beyond any that lips alone can pledge.

The ambassador put his arm around Joyce, kissed her and stood looking down into her eyes. "My dear, I've never given away a sweeter bride to a more lovable groom. He turned his head to look at Dirk. "What now?" he asked. "When do you intend to return to your job?"

"That's up to Joyce, sir," said Dirk. "I've married her. I mean the whole of me has married her."

"Through his own fault," asserted General Sebastian, sorrowfully, "and only in the last half-hour." Then he added in explanation, "our regrettable mistake was to let the fugitive—shot while attempting to escape from his guards."

Margarita advanced with hand extended. "Mr. Minister," she smiled, "let me be the first to congratulate you on the assumption of your new position. You will know how to administer to your own honor and the honor of your country."

"The marriage ceremony," said the ambassador, "will be a good lawyer though an honest woman."

Historians Given Unpublished Letters
Written by Explorer Meriwether Lewis

Hisbert, unknown or unrecognized—highlight on the life of Meriwether Lewis, co-explorer with William Clark of the Northwest, died July 18, 1805, less than a year before he departed on the expedition which was to make his name prominent in the history of American exploration.

Regarding his prospects with optimism, he wrote:

"The nature of this expedition is by no means dangerous."

He assured that the route was to be "altogether through tribes of Indians who are perfectly friendly to the United States. For its failure I feel myself perfectly prepared, nor do I doubt my health and strength of constitution to bear it. I go with the utmost conviction in my mind of returning safe."

His preconviction proved reliable, but he and his small band of companions did not make the journey without hardship. The expedition did not turn out to be "by no means dangerous," nor were the Indians "perfectly friendly."

Lewis and Clark started from a point near St. Louis early in 1804. They were gone nearly two and one-half years. With the object of learning something of the possibilities of the half-known Louisiana Purchase which Thomas Jefferson had acquired from France, they traveled up the Missouri river to its sources and beyond, up to the Pacific ocean. They returned to St. Louis in the early autumn of 1805.

Britain's Great Seal Counts Many Years of Most Interesting History

In the reading room of the New York Bar association at 42 West Forty-fourth street, is a heavily encrusted tablet inscribed with the Lion and Unicorn and Queen Victoria's monogram, "V. R." with the date 1807, the year of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee. The tablet is used to be carried the Great Seal of England, states a writer in the New York Times.

The Keeper of the Great Seal is the Lord High Chancellor. On all ceremonial occasions he is accompanied by the Great Seal, which is a symbol of sovereignty must accompany the Lord Chancellor, and he is the Earl of Halsbury, being this office, that the seal of New York was made. It was purchased from the second Earl by a New York attorney, Barnard L. Chandler, whose practice is in London.

The Great Seal itself, once London, is a shield-shaped emblem, a thousand years of history. It consists of two metal soap-plates set with the royal coat of arms. The plates are made of gold, and when wax is poured between them the result is a seal embossed with the royal coat of arms. Each of the plates has its own seal—so did the Parliament of the Puritans after the execution of King Charles I. Oliver Cromwell as Lord Protector. The earliest of the Great Seal was made for Edward the Confessor, who reigned from 1042 to 1066—the year of the Battle of Hastings. The seal of King John, who reigned the majority of the recent King Edward VIII.

"I don't follow you," said the ambassador testily. "Send a battalion to keep her in." continued the general with slow emphasis. "In short, the president suggests that the government support the Mexican-born senator, Joyce Sewell in the lawful possession of her property, subject only to such restrictions as the national law provides, by every means in the power of the republic. As a first step he has directed me to dispatch at once a sufficient force for the capture of General Dorado—bandit, bootlegger of illicit gold and purveyor of a battery of howitzers."

"Directed you?" asked the ambassador with emphasis on the pronoun. "Why not General Onella?"

"Ah, Onella. The president ordered his instant arrest, simultaneously with my resignation as minister of war. Incidentally, the traitor is no more."

"You mean Onella's dead?" cried the ambassador.

"Through his own fault," asserted General Sebastian, sorrowfully, "and only in the last half-hour." Then he added in explanation, "our regrettable mistake was to let the fugitive—shot while attempting to escape from his guards."

Margarita advanced with hand extended. "Mr. Minister," she smiled, "let me be the first to congratulate you on the assumption of your new position. You will know how to administer to your own honor and the honor of your country."

"The marriage ceremony," said the ambassador, "will be a good lawyer though an honest woman."

Hisbert, unknown or unrecognized—highlight on the life of Meriwether Lewis, co-explorer with William Clark of the Northwest, died July 18, 1805, less than a year before he departed on the expedition which was to make his name prominent in the history of American exploration.

Regarding his prospects with optimism, he wrote:

"The nature of this expedition is by no means dangerous."

He assured that the route was to be "altogether through tribes of Indians who are perfectly friendly to the United States. For its failure I feel myself perfectly prepared, nor do I doubt my health and strength of constitution to bear it. I go with the utmost conviction in my mind of returning safe."

His preconviction proved reliable, but he and his small band of companions did not make the journey without hardship. The expedition did not turn out to be "by no means dangerous," nor were the Indians "perfectly friendly."

Lewis and Clark started from a point near St. Louis early in 1804. They were gone nearly two and one-half years. With the object of learning something of the possibilities of the half-known Louisiana Purchase which Thomas Jefferson had acquired from France, they traveled up the Missouri river to its sources and beyond, up to the Pacific ocean. They returned to St. Louis in the early autumn of 1805.

Dirk went out with the clergymen; the ambassador withdrew, arm in arm with the minister of war, each with plans for a rapprochement that would bring glory to both. Joyce, the small cause of weighty matters, was left alone. Standing at a high window she watched their extenuated departure but turned away at the sight of their feet. She and Dirk huddled for a breathless moment with the room between them. Slowly they moved forward. The days they had spent together seemed to lengthen into years, reaching back into a common childhood and knitting the innumerable fibers of their being. Their hands touched, clung, and as they looked deep in each other's eyes the same fear was born in them, the same silent cry. "This is it. If I lose you I'm lost, torn, maimed." Then his arms opened and she dashed herself against him.

"Oh, Dirk! Darling! Dirk!"

"Don't worry," he whispered. "I feel that I lost you. We won't lose each other, we can't. I love you—all of me loves all of you. I love you as much as I can. I love you as much as I can. I love you as much as I can."

She raised her face, blinding with its radiance. "I feel that I lost you. We won't lose each other, we can't. I love you—all of me loves all of you. I love you as much as I can. I love you as much as I can. I love you as much as I can."

WHAT to EAT and WHY

E. Houston Goudiss Discusses

TEETH--Your Passport to

Good Health--and Tells

How You Can Avoid the

Tragedy of Dental Decay

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 29th Street, New York

A SCIENTIST, who was also a wit, once remarked that you must be true to your teeth or they will be false to you. That most people do not heed this advice is evidenced by the fact that almost 100 per cent of the adult population is affected by some form of oral disease, and from 90 to 97 per cent of all school children have decayed teeth.

As there is a close relationship between healthy teeth and healthy bodies, and conversely, between decayed teeth and sickly bodies, it is easy to understand why science views this appalling situation with the greatest alarm—and why such an eminent authority as Professor Ernest A. Hooton of Harvard University warns that "unless steps are taken to discover preventives of tooth infection, and correctives of dental deformation, the course of human evolution will lead downward to extinction."

Health and Happiness Depend on Sound Teeth

That is a strong statement, but it is not an exaggeration, for it is the influence of the teeth upon human health and happiness.

Do you wonder how teeth can affect happiness? Consider, then, that a pretty face depends, first upon the position of the mouth when the lips are parted. You cannot have a lovely mouth if the lips close over crooked front teeth; you cannot have an attractive smile if the teeth are dull.

And when gums recede, and loosened teeth are forced out of the face is disfigured. Second, when the lips close over crooked teeth, the appearance of the face is marred. You cannot have a lovely mouth if the lips close over crooked front teeth; you cannot have an attractive smile if the teeth are dull.

Extensive Damage

A decayed tooth is a poison factory, distributing its noxious product to every part of the body. In the body, that poison attacks and centers in the weakest spot.

It may lead to neuritis, rheumatic ailments, dyspepsia, or even duodenal ulcers. It may be a contributing cause of heart disease.

In view of such extensive damage, it is easy to understand why prominent medical authorities have declared that if the teeth were given proper care, so that dental decay became rare, instead of daily.

READERS of this newspaper are invited to write to C. Houston Goudiss, at 6 East 29th Street, New York City, his scientific Reducing Bulletin, which shows how to reduce by the safe and sure method of counting calories. The bulletin is complete with a chart showing the calorie value of all the commonest food and contains many more facts than you can use in a guide to comfort.

Four Important Rules For Dental Health

The prevention of dental decay and the preservation of sound teeth and healthy gums is founded on a four-point program:

First, a well-balanced diet containing an abundance of calcium, phosphorus and vitamins A, C and D.

Second, frequent and thorough brushing of the teeth, to remove all food particles. The use of an efficient dentifrice encourages efficient brushing and helps to keep the teeth looking attractive.

Third, the inclusion in the diet of foods that require the chewing, tearing, gnawing and biting for which our teeth were designed, such as raw cabbage, celery, apples and other fibrous foods.

Fourth, a visit to the dentist at least twice a year, so that he can check the condition of the teeth. If every mother will follow this program, and train her children to follow it, the result will be a vast decrease in dental decay, and a forward step in human progress.

Questions Answered

Mrs. J. B. McK.—It is incorrect to say that the bread is more, or less, fattening than white bread. A slice of dry bread supplies the same number of calories as a slice of white bread.

Mrs. E. T. D.—Answering your question as to the effect of cooking on vitamin D, this is no problem in the kitchen. Natural vitamin D is virtually absent from most foods, and in irradiated foods, or those to which vitamin D concentrate has been added, the vitamin is stable and does not "cook" having little destructive effect on it.

Terence Shea Tells of His Bulging Barrels

A social worker with more enthusiasm than tact went to call upon Terence Shea, night watchman, at his home in the Bronx. "I hope, Mr. Shea," she said, "that you do not squander your money in riotous living. May I ask what you wish your wages for?"

"I'd just as soon tell you as not," replied Mr. Shea. "I'm $15 a week. When I've paid the rent, the provisions, and the milkman, and bought what's needed for my family, I'm left with five cents. I deposit the rest of my money in barrels. Mostly, man, sugar, rice, and flour. I've bought hold more. But when I can't get them I use plain flour barrels."

Hook an Old Fashioned Rag Rug

OF ALL rag rugs the hooked type is the most fascinating and economical. A rag rug, such as may be purchased in notion and fancywork departments, and burlap a little larger than your finished rug are the essentials. Most rag hookers also use a frame of slate bolted together at the corners. They stretch the burlap over the frame and tack it. Some like a rather large stationary frame. Others use a small one and many hooked rugs are made without any frame at all.

Here is a quaint old rag pattern that you may mark off on your burlap with a yardstick and pencil. The numbers indicate the colors used for the original rug—now more than a hundred years old. The finished rug measures 26 by 34 inches. Allow two inches at all edges for hems. Overcast the edges, then mark the solid one-inch border just inside the hem allowance; then the large eight-inch squares; then the small two-inch squares; then draw the diagonal lines across the large squares as shown. Use wool rags if possible and cut the strips not wider than one-half inch. Hold the strip against the wrong side of the burlap and pull loops of it through to the right side with the hook as shown. Short strips are as useful as long. Just pull the ends through and clip them.

Round About Avon Park

by W. C. Beckett

The fame of Avon Park and Mayor Covington's interest in a local WPA project have reached Washington and Harry Hopkins, Federal administrator. Copies of recent issues of the "Times" were sent to Mr. Hopkins and Mayor Covington has received acknowledgment from one of Mr. Hopkins' chief assistants. This letter, together with the Mayor's reply is printed herewith.

Works Progress Administration
Washington, D. C.
Harry L. Hopkins,
Administrator.

April 25, 1938
The Honorable M. E. Covington,
Mayor of the City of Avon Park,
Avon Park, Florida.

My dear Mayor Covington:

Mr. Hopkins has asked me to reply to your letter of April 16, 1938 enclosing a copy of the "Avon Park Times" of April 15, which contained an attack on the architectural design of certain structures being constructed by the Works Progress Administration under a community sanitation project, and your spirited defense of these little buildings from the viewpoint both of their utility and their beauty.

As Chief Engineer of the Works Progress Administration, I appreciate your remark that "the Federal government has assembled in Washington the best brains in the country to engineer this project." In all modesty, however, the Works Progress Administration does not refuse to accept the praise that you have so generously bestowed, since the credit for designing the structures in question belongs to the United States Public Health Service. I am therefore forwarding your letter and its enclosure to the Surgeon General, Dr. Thomas Parran, in the hope that he will bring your commendation to the attention of the anonymous person who is responsible for these masterpieces.

Yours very truly,
F. C. HARRINGTON,
Assistant Administrator,
Chief Engineer.

The Mayor's Reply

April 29, 1938.

Mr. F. C. Harrington,
Assistant Administrator,
Works Progress Administration,
1734 New York Ave., N. W.
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Harrington:

I have your kind letter of the 25th expressing your appreciation of my efforts to create a better understanding of the work of the Federal Out-Housing Authority.

It is indeed gratifying to know that one's efforts have merited the approval of our leaders in Washington.

I note your statement that any credit for beauty of design in the W.P.A. buildings should go to the artists in the United States Public Health Service. In this connection, I suggest that in the future, a small plate be affixed to each structure of this type, inscribed "Body By Rabinovitch or Body By Burlingame" or whatever the name of the designer might be. In this way antique hunters of the next century would not be in puzzle their heads as to whether the models unearthed at Avon Park were genuine old master copies.

Also, in the same connection may I suggest another adjunct which will do much to alleviate mental suffering of mankind in the pursuit of happiness. I refer to a recent patent of mine known as "Covington Beaten Path," a simple invention devised primarily to save time in transit from the kitchen door to the garden hose. In addition the Covington Beaten Path has the added value of being impervious to moisture, and its stars never varies from a constant 70 degrees Fahrenheit. Ice cannot form on this patented device, and rainfall drives immediately; necessary curves are banked and everything done to provide the maximum amount of speed, safety and comfort. It has been endorsed by police, politicians and press.

If the Works Progress Administration wishes to avail itself of this additional feature in its sanitation projects, I shall be only too glad to grant it the privilege of using the Covington Beaten Path in all states except Maine and Vermont.

Sincerely yours,
M. E. COVINGTON,
Mayor.

MEETING POSTPONED

The regular meeting of the Avon Park Club has been postponed from May 3rd to Tuesday, May 10th. This will be a special program installation of officers.

WOMEN EAGERLY AWAIT COMING COOKING SCHOOL

"Star In My Kitchen" Home-Making Picture Coming Next Month

It's the talk of the town! Women throughout the community are planning to attend the friendly class for home-makers, the Motion Picture Cooking School, scheduled to open at the Park Theater on Monday, May 16.

A welcome invitation to the wise is sufficient, and the only invitation needed for this novel cooking school is that extended to every woman by the Avon Park Times. There is no charge to see any of the showings of "Star in My Kitchen."

Because this newspaper stands ready to sponsor all progressive developments particularly when they affect the homes of the community, it is presenting this motion picture home-making entirely free.

"If I could only see exactly how she mixes and handles her pie-crust."

This comment has been heard from beginners and from more experienced cooks at many cooking schools. Craning necks and anxious eyes trained on the screen from the sides and back of the demonstration hall, have failed to catch all of the important steps in pie-making and other culinary arts.

The early birds in the very front row have had a close-up of the stage in the past, and even they couldn't peer directly into the mixing bowl.

Now the wizardry of the camera solved the problem making it possible for every person in the Park Theater to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending, and baking in practical, up-to-the-minute kitchen.

Now the wizardry of the camera solved the problem making it possible for every person in the Park Theater to share each fascinating stage of the planning, measuring, blending, and baking in practical, up-to-the-minute kitchen.

It won't be necessary to ask the questions, for expert home specialists have anticipated these problems. They know what bothers many an experienced housewife. It is their job to know and to counsel helpfully.

Fun, novelty and entertainment are joined throughout the feature picture, for it is always fair weather when neighborhood cooks get together. Home makes has a universal appeal, and every woman eager to learn the newest news of her craft.

Cooking, romance, modern kitchens, and clever actors and actresses do not tell the complete story of this 1938-modern cooking school. The picture is a whole laboratory of modern ideas and wise counsel, touching on latest developments in home equipment and accessories, including laundry methods, ways to prepare left-overs, beauty secrets, hints on saving time and labor, and fresh suggestions on how to entertain gracefully, as well as how to be thrifty.

It won't be necessary to carry pad and pencil and try to scribble of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture Cooking School. The picture is distributed daily.

Surprises in store for readers of The Avon Park Times will not be measured in the delectable delicacies, but because free recipe sheets, with complete formulas for many of the delicious dishes prepared in this Motion Picture Cooking School, will be distributed daily.

MONEY EXPERT ROTARY SPEAKER ON WEDNESDAY

Dr. Donaldson Talks About Present Monetary Experiment

The American Monetary Experiment as now being practiced is not so good and not so bad as the opinion expressed Wednesday noon by Dr. John Donaldson at the Rotary Club luncheon at the Jacksonville Hotel. The present experiment is interesting, he said, and especially with reference to the consumer.

Dr. Donaldson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Donaldson of St. Louis, is a member of the faculty of George Washington University, Washington, D. C. He was introduced by C. E. Lanier, program chairman, who paid tribute to the speaker's father as being the biggest man to come to Avon Park. He was the instigator of both the Mail and Highlands Hammock, Lanier said and he is a big asset to the city.

Dr. Donaldson recalled the old expression, "Sound as a dollar," which was in use before the war, through the '20's and through the depression and 1931. The gold standard of currency was world wide but got into trouble after the war. He mentioned the German inflation and Britain going off the gold standard for the pound sterling as well as other nations.

This country did not have to go off the gold standard, he said but was deliberately taken off for scientific experimental purposes. The consumer with a fixed income is affected through the purchasing power of the dollar and an experiment has been tried in Philadelphia of paying wages according to price levels but was soon abandoned.

He mentioned several monetary theories and referred to periodic demands for money for business loans, explained bank credits and monetary standards. Dr. Donaldson said the gold standard is complicated and also that inflation is a loose term dangerous to use.

Many measures have been passed to facilitate the issue of money and it is difficult to check the results, he observed. The objective of the monetary experiment were to:

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

I have previously given notice that all insular property in Avon Park must be removed, and properly approved sanitary privies installed. The maintenance of such insular property is prohibited. Ordinance No. 62 of the City of Avon Park, and my purpose in giving the notice was to grant an opportunity to the people to remove the objectionable matter. While I am pleased with the response made, there are still some who have utterly disregarded the notice. Therefore, unless these people make arrangements at once I shall proceed to enforce the ordinance against them after May 1st.

Keenan Says Poor Quality Hurts The Citrus Markets

Protest, April 26 (FNS) — The inconsistent quality of oranges and grapefruit that Florida growers are sending to the northern markets is hindering our citrus trade, is the opinion of Major Edward Keenan, of the Keenan Soil Laboratory, after a visit to a number of small fruit and corner grocery stores from Chicago to New England.

On this trip the Major noted that a number of dealers throughout the North were displaying Texas grapefruit in localities as far north as the shores of the St. Lawrence river.

In answer to his inquiry of the dealers as to why that was, inasmuch as Florida was so much closer than Texas, he found that while the average dealer reported that he would much rather handle Florida fruit, because of its better keeping quality, he was afraid to buy more than a box at a time because of the inconsistent quality.

The dealers reported that one box might be of delicious eating quality, the next box would be of poor eating quality, and if the consumer should get hold of the poor quality first, the dealer would be stuck with the remainder of the fruit in his hands.

In consequence of this situation, he found that many dealers who were capable and desirous of handling Florida fruit, were being forced to turn it over to a whole carload a year, limited their purchases to 25 or 50 boxes a year, and only for the purpose of trying out customers who come in for a loaf of bread, a cake of soap and three grapefruit.

CITRUS GROWERS MEETING HERE NEXT THURSDAY

Special Speakers To Discuss Present Day Problems Of The Industry

Citrus growers of Highlands County will gather at the DeSoto City School at 2:30 p. m. and in the Community House at Avon Park at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, May 6 to hear discussions relating to important production and marketing problems now facing the industry. It was stated today by County Agent Louis Almsmeyer.

Speakers from the Agricultural Extension Service and Experiment Station, with carefully prepared and informative talks, will be on hand for the discussion, and growers themselves will be invited to participate, he said. It is expected that growers throughout the county will take advantage of this opportunity to gain information which may aid them in coping with some of their more pressing problems.

Spring meetings of citrus growers have been staged by the Florida Agricultural Extension Service annually for several years, and a series of thirty covering the entire citrus belt has been scheduled for the last two weeks in April this year. Plans and details of the program were worked out recently at conferences between county agents and state officials of the Extension Service.

The state's citrus counties have been divided into five groups, with a corps of speakers assigned to each. Speakers and subjects for this county will include: R. H. Howard of the Extension Service, citrus pests and returns; D. E. Tice, Extension Service, citrus prices; W. L. Thompson, entomologist with the Citrus Experiment Station, insect control as it affects growers' net returns.

County Agent Almsmeyer called attention to the fact that increasing production of both oranges and grapefruit throughout the United States during recent years has caused serious problems to arise within the Florida citrus industry. "Citrus fruits contribute from 35 to 40 percent of the state's total cash income from farm products, including crops, livestock, forest products, greenhouse and nursery products," he said. "Any change which can be done to improve conditions among citrus growers will help the entire state."

A sister and brother in Jacksonville, after exhaustive tests over a period of a year, have discovered a man's whiskers grow almost twice as fast in summer as in winter, the State Chamber of Commerce declares.

Boy Scout Supper and Court of Honor Will Be Held Monday Eve.

The Boy Scouts of Avon Park will serve a chicken supper Monday evening at the Episcopal Parish House for their parents, friends and Rotarians. The supper is scheduled for 6:30 and will be followed by the regular Court of Honor with E. G. Todd in charge and assisted by the committee members. Awards will be given to Scouts who have advanced during the past six months. One boy will become a Scout by the Tenderfoot Investiture Ceremony and several other events will take place during the evening.

The Soloists

Four soloists were entered in competition. They were Charles Shepherd, flute; Marion Foster, trumpet; Charles Sherman, French horn; and Nancy Betts, alto saxophone. Shepherd was placed in the third division, Foster in the third also, Sherman in the first and Miss Betts also achieved first division honors. The accompanist, Miss Barbara Betts, also was awarded a full scholarship, and the four contestants were each given a letter A for their efforts.

Invite Roosevelt To Open The New Overseas Highway

Key West, April 28 (FNS) — President Roosevelt will be invited to officiate at the formal opening of the $2,500,000 Overseas Highway connecting Key West with the mainland of Florida on July 4, a project which represents the city, county, civic groups and the bridge commission, announced this week.

The official opening ceremonies will be attended also by the president of Cuba and his entire cabinet. If they accept the invitation which has been sent to them by the committee. All work remaining under contract will be completed by July 1, B. M. Duncan, chief engineer, said. And it is expected that a surplus of funds will permit the building of suitable comfort stations on several of the small islands for the accommodation of persons motoring over the nearly 100 miles of the only searing highway in the world.

Refugee Soldiers Head Back to Spain

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The Nazis haven't bothered Frau Katharina Schmitt. Unlike the Pompadours and Montespan, usually among the first victims of political upheavals, Austria's "Gnadede Frau" as Emperor Francis Joseph called her, has ridden the surf-board of dynastic and political change for nearly 60 years. She is now eighty-two, doing crossword puzzles, disclaiming knowledge of the current catfights, but longing for the "good old days."

In those days, she was pretty. Kath Schmitt, a dancer in the Burg theater, which was under the patronage of the emperor. After a hit performance, with the emperor attending, she obtained an audience.

"Sir," she said, with a low curtsy, "we cannot maintain ourselves on the salaries you pay. I see $32,000 for my costumes."

The emperor promised a new benefice for the theater and said he would help her take care of her debts. She was backing gracefully to the door when the emperor said: "Gnadede Frau, why do you leave us?"

She stayed 40 years, in a snug little villa by the palace gates. The emperor, after a hard day swinging the scepter, used to drop in at Frau Kath's, split a bottle of Pilsener and sing a few songs. She knew all the mellow old tunes which he particularly liked. She used to darn his socks and tell him when he needed a hair cut.

She refused to accept gowns or jewels, always retaining the "Gnadede Frau," but the emperor, by an amusing artifice, induced her to accept a fortune in diamonds. She was a famous huntswoman. He told her he was sending her a wild boar he had killed.

She saw no harm in that. When it arrived, it had diamond earrings, a diamond necklace and bracelet and a diamond brooch. She had killed the boar with precious Hapsburg jewels. The money lenders got them, after the emperor's death.

She was supposed to know more of the secrets of the realm than any other person. She guarded them carefully, but did reluctantly reveal a few details of the Mayerling tragedy of 1889.

She said Archduke Rudolf shot himself, after killing Baroness Valerie. That's the version of the film now running. It would make a good story if somebody could take Frau Schmitt to see "Mayerling" and have her write a critical review.

MARK EHRIDGE becomes "ear" of the radio industry. It is hard to think of Mr. Ehridge as a ear, or even a third assistant Simon Legree, but he clicks neatly as an able, deft, diligent and resourceful executive.

While Mr. Ehridge is only forty-four years old, he is of the type of old-line, legman newspaper man Began Career with an insatiable as a Leg Man appetite for news. A native Meridian, Miss., with soft southern speech and instinctive courtesy, he ought to be an excellent troubleshooter for the radio, rather than a ear. He was a reporter on the Meridian Dispatch, studied at the University of Mississippi and romped up through grades to the managing editorship of the Meridian (Ga.) Telegraph. He was with the New York Sun in 1926 and his old friends there have been nominating him today for a lead cheer in this corner.

He was loved back to Meridian, went thence to the Richmond (Va.) Times of which he was publisher, and later became general manager of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times. He spent the year 1933 in central Europe, on an Observer Trust fellowship, studying politics and economics and—the only touch of anti-Germanism in his career—the Versailles treaty.

The radio has picked a man who knows the social and educational background as well as good entertainment. He is still general manager of the Courier-Journal, and coming in the new enlightened leadership of the South. His "ear" job is unsalaried.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart
National Press Building, Washington, D. C.

Washington.—Dear Editor: I wish I could dodge writing a column this week. The whole thing is so disheartening.

On Our Way.—Washington picture is so disheartening. The future is so indefinite, that I must confess my inability to properly appraise and report on the situation. You will remember President Roosevelt once wrote a book which bore the title "On Our Way." I guess that is correct as it applies to the national government now; only I can not figure out what the way is or where we are going.

To explain in some detail what my personal problem is, let me say that before I write each week, I have canvassed many, many people's opinions. I have obtained the facts that are necessary for the discussion which I undertake. There has been no change in my attitude of work. Yet, I find myself ten days after Mr. Roosevelt has announced his new and larger spending program totally unable to put heads or tails of the story. That is to say, I have found both the heads and the tails but none of the heads or the tails seem to be from the same carcasses. They don't fit.

So, therefore, I must write that I have found nobody who has been able to tell me where we are going. I listened to Mr. Roosevelt's radio speech and read his message to Congress about the $3,012,000,000 which he proposes to spend to stop the depression; I talked with officials of the Treasury and members of the federal reserve board of governors about the billion and a half of idle gold that is to be made "active" again, and I have looked into the program by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which is prepared to loan almost two billions to commerce and industry. There is so much activity about it, among the executive departments, that it seems something must come of it. There is activity at the capital, too, but it is in the nature of a row over the question whether all of this spending will do any good.

The one tangible thing evident around the capital is that perhaps 40 per cent of the representatives and senators have been left rather cold by the idea of a great new spending program. Somehow, they look back on those plans now, the prime operations and they tell me that the pump was primed by a total of about eleven billion dollars without causing the water to flow freely as a good, streamlined New Deal pump ought to work. These things they're saying in committee consideration of the various phases of the new program by which the President expects to bring back prosperity—or, at least, by which he hopes to check the depression.

"There is a depression now. That may not be new particularly, but it is now official. It was a 'recession' for some seven or eight months, according to all official pronouncements, but now that soft spirit has grown up and it has become a bold, bad depression. It is too bad that the depression had to come just when congressional elections lay ahead. Of course, there can be no connection between the spending campaign and the election. Not being able to analyze the situation—a fact admitted at the start—I naturally would be the last to say that return of house or senate seats is as important as providing funds for relief of the destitute, loan or grants to states, cities, counties or businesses that might otherwise find votes against New Deal candidates. We must forget that phase."

Now, obviously, being one who is unable to understand what is going on, what the plans are, what the work now? That way, I should wait and see what will come out of the pump this time. But I am impatient. I am rather cynical, too. Whenever these things have failed to work, I naturally have to be shown why they failed and will work the second or third or fourth time they are tried. Around many of the New Deal propaganda bureau, however, I have been assured that the new spending plan will work this time. Indeed, it was estimated to me that it was rather stupid, but plain dumb, because I failed to understand. Really, the assurance given me by the press agent has had much more conviction than Mr. Roosevelt's speech.

One reader of my column wrote in the other day to inquire why I believed all of this spending money we are headed into inflation. At the moment, I am not much concerned about that. All of the makings for a inflationary period are available. I mean that if Congress were to be stampeded by the conclusion that I have mentioned, there could be a regular dose of inflation. Congress, however, is not going to be stampeded. The sentiment is too evenly shared for and the money is too evenly shared for very back in prosperity. There are individuals in Congress who actually said that the spending plan the nation is already too large. They think really that the new spending ought to be limited just to caring for the distressed unemployed. Of all things, they would vote to vote out more money unless that money were to be used for feeding and clothing people.

I think I should mention also that there are a goodly number of persons at the capital who have lowered themselves to the level of playing politics. They are even ridiculing our President. They are saying that most business, little as well as big, have lost confidence in Mr. Roosevelt and that it does not matter whether the New Deal spends one billion or ten, it will fail to restore that confidence. Being a simple-minded soul, I just stand by and listen to that. On the other hand, the heads of three important magazine publishing houses have told me lately that their advertising contracts are being cancelled right and left. The national advertisers have told the publishers they have because they don't know what is going to happen.

I do not understand why they are so frightened. You will remember Mr. Roosevelt said he had urged Congress to enact only four things that would not affect business. That is, four this session. One of these is the bill, as described by the President, "to put a fix under wages and a ceiling over the hours of labor." All that legislation would do, of course, is backwash business here and there. But those can't be successful anyway. They haven't made any money in several years and why worry about them?

The message of the President did not make any mention of the law that held the currency back. It is to be assumed he did not want to disturb business by calling attention to them. Matters of taxation, for instance, "to put a fix under wages and a ceiling over the hours of labor." All that legislation would do, of course, is backwash business here and there. But those can't be successful anyway. They haven't made any money in several years and why worry about them?

A Slip in Plans

There has been a story, a rumor, in circulation in Washington about a letter from Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President Garner. Not that I believe in recording mere rumor, but more because of a sentence that was reportedly used by Mr. Garner. I want to write about it. The Vice President is a lovable soul, kind and amiable. He has a number of Texan expressions that appeal to me because they say so much in so few words.

Well, according to the rumor, Mr. Garner and a group of congressional leaders were in conference with the President. They were talking about the depression, or maybe the recession. What to do about it; how to meet it, and what the cause were. The President, it seems, has been sold the idea of this spending program as an aid to business, a priming of the pump. Rumor has it that Mr. Garner was asked what he thought could be done. His reply, a typical Garner answer, was: "Why don't you let the cattle put on some fat, Chief?"

The President was reportedly quite displeased with the idea conveyed, an idea that the government displaced must have been the cause of the depression and return human nature. Mr. Roosevelt subsequently denied the report vehemently, even rather angrily. There has been no denial or confirmation from Mr. Garner. He has been very silent about the thing that is so positively questionable. As I said, I know of it only as rumor, but I do know that Mr. Garner's silence has conveyed a name of person that there is some truth in fact for the report. In my opinion, the silent Vice President has made the remark, certainly said it.

Mr. Garner, if you are still with me, let me say that the new spending program is going to be no more. I mean that if Congress were to be stampeded by the conclusion that I have mentioned, there could be a regular dose of inflation. Congress, however, is not going to be stampeded. The sentiment is too evenly shared for and the money is too evenly shared for very back in prosperity. There are individuals in Congress who actually said that the spending plan the nation is already too large. They think really that the new spending ought to be limited just to caring for the distressed unemployed. Of all things, they would vote to vote out more money unless that money were to be used for feeding and clothing people.
