Round About Avon Park

by W. C. Beckett

Band Classes will be held during summer to build up the instrumentation of the high school band and also to improve the proficiency of the band as it now stands.

Each of the judges at the State Contest stated that the Avon Park Bank had a good start an instrumentation. Bandmaster Roberts hopes to add at least 20 new members to the organization at the beginning of the next school term. Following is a list of the instruments he hopes to add through the work done this summer with the cooperation of the students and parens: 6 to 10 clarinets, 4 French Horn, 2 or 3 sousaphones, 1 tenor paxophone, 2 or 3 flutes, 1 alto clarinet, 1 bass bassoous, 1 or 2 aboes, 1 baritone horn.

A reliable instrument company has been contacted who will rent new instruments to the students for a period of from 1, 2 or 3 months with the understanding that the rental will be applied if the child proves to the parents' satisfaction that the purchase could be a wise investment. Otherwise the instrument may be turned back to the Co.

Music aptitude tests have been given students from 3rd through the 10th grade to determine the extent of their natural ability, and only those students who passed this test are being recommended for this work.

Every child should have a natural yearning to become a member of a musical organization and should profit greatly from the expenience in such an organization. Apart from the education and plesausure obtained, this work plays a initial part in character building in promoting good health —it is an ideal use of leisure time — it teaches discipline, coooperation and team work, and because of its competitive nature causes every child to try to do his best.

Any one interested in this summer band course should get in touch with E. L. Roberts immediately.

Avon Park Art Club Installs

Last Meeting Of Season Held Tuesday Evening At Woman's Club

The Avon Park Art Club met for its final meeting of the season on Tuesday evening, May 10, in the Woman's Club rooms. The president, Mrs. Fred Stevens, conducted the shorted business session. It was voted to try to secure the club house for meetings next fall.

The roll call was a lengthy proceeding at this meeting. Each member was to give an art item. Several members began to talk of experiences in art galleries at the different World's Fair expositions. This proved very interesting and a number of amusing incidents were related.

Very pleasing was the music furnished by three of the high school musicians. Nancy Betts gave a saxophone solo, Melody by P. Techaikowsky. Charles Sherman gave a French horn solo, Les Adieux by F. Strauss. These solos were accompanied by Barbara Betts at the piano.

Mrs. Stevens then called upon different members to tell "What Art has meant to me." A number of members responded. Mr. Park showed his first and last water color pictures.

The new officers were installed by Mrs. Stevens. They are L. H. Park, president; Mrs. G. P. Thayer, first vice president; Mrs. J. D. Raab, second vice president; Mrs. Cloud, recording secretary and Mrs. Kipp, corresponding secretary.

Mr. Park made a short address naming the new committees as follows: Membership, Mrs. Hauptmann, Mrs. Raab, Mrs. Hart; program, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Ten Eyck, Mrs. Raab, Mrs. Kipp.

New members welcomed were Capt. and Mrs. Webb of Lake Placid.

After adjournment light refreshments were served by Mr. Hollingsworth and committee. Contributed.

TO ATTEND WEDDING

Mrs. W. M. Hetherington and children Elizabeth, Jimmie and Marjorie will spend the weekend in Dade City going over especially to attend the wedding of Mrs. Hetherington's sister, Mrs. Margaret Gast and O. W. Gentry at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Annie Huckabey, Sunday afternoon.

TWO SPEAKERS AT ROTARY CLUB ON WEDNESDAY

Postmaster Discusses Air Mail; DeAnguera Tells of Key West Progress

The development of air mail and National Air Mail Week were discussed by D. G. Perry, postmaster, at the Rotary Club luncheon Wednesday at the Jacaranda Hotel. Another speaker was Ferd DeAnguera who told something of the history of Key West and the new cverseas highway to that southernmost city. Nancy Betts, star high school soloist, gave a saxophone solo, "Melody." She was accompanied at the piano by her sister Barbara.

In speaking of air mail, "Doc" Perry stated this country has the yreatest system in the world and that Avon Park, in the person of Alfred Engelmann, boasts the largest user of air express in the world, he shipping thousands of baby chicks every week to the West Indies and Central and South America.

Perry asked that every inhabitant in Avon Park send at least one air mail letter next week, especially on Thursday when there will be a special pick-up plane for the Ridge and which will be flown by J. Lawler Wells. A feeder line for this section of the state will depend on the patronage accorded the air mail next week, he said.

Perry said that aviation is developing so fast that air mail to Europe will soon be possible the same as it now is to Central and South America, Japan, China and other points in the Orient. He predicted planes carrying 120 passengers and people spending their weekends in Europe.

In the early days Key West was noted for pirates and wrecks, Mr. DeAnguera said and salvage was a big business. In 1815 the site was given to a Spanish cavalry officer who in turn sold it to John W. Simonton, a Mobile merchant in 1825. Today a street is named after him. The same year Admiral Perry took possession on behalf of this country and the next year Commodore Porter was sent to rid the waters of the pirates and to establish a naval base.

Later Cuban refugees flocked to the town and today 60 percent of the people speak Spanish. The cigar industry was established but later moved due to labor troubles. The Spanish war brought flush times to the town as did the World War in later years.

In 1912 Flagler initiated the overseas railroad project but in 1920 the fortunes of the city began to decline until in 1934 the bottom dropped out and many people died of mal-nutrition. It was taken over by the FERA in 1935 following the hurricane and abandonment of the railroad.

A loan of $3,600,000 has been secured of which $600,000 was paid the railroad and the balance used to build the new highway which will be formally opened on July 4, although now being used for traffic.

Mr. DeAnguera estimated 300,000 will visit Key West during the first year the highway is open, many being drawn through curiosity for the new road, it being a big lure, similar to Bok Tower.

The present population is about 12,000 with everyone showing a spirit of optimism. There is much activity in evidence but not of the shoestring variety and development is expectel on the adjacent keys. It is the furthest south city in the country and the climate is eight percent warmer in winter and 15 percent cooler in summer than at Miami, he said.

The fishing is excellent. It is 175 miles from Miami and the trip can be made in four hours. Practically a year round season is anticipated as many Floridians will visit there during the summer and he predicted a bright future for

Mayor Issues 28 Warrants Under the Privy Ordinance

Mayor M. E. Covington announced this week he has issued warrants against 28 property owners here for failure to comply with the city sanitation ordinance. The warrants are returnable Monday morning at 9:30 in police court at the city hall.

The mayor says this is just a beginning in the sanitation clean-up in Avon Park and if the ordinances are not complied with further warrants will be issued.

SAFE, MODERN HIGHWAY PLANS OF ASSOCIATION

Route 19 Body Cooperating To Secure Necessary Rights-of-way

A broad, safe, modern highway, sweeping down through Central Florida's rich and scenic agricultrual section, is planned by the Route 19 Association, according to John Fahs, of Leesburg, President of the recently formed organization.

The Association was formed when interested citizens from the eight counties to be traversed by the route met in Avon Park on April 12.

A six-man directorship was elected—with two more counties yet to be represented. In addition to Fahs, the Board includes J. H. Peeples, Moore Haven, Vice President; Elbert L. Stewart, Clewiston, Secretary; Henry J. Mossbarger, Miami; Judge Selwyn Ives, Sebring; and Henry H. True, Lake Wales.

The Association is an unincorporated, non-profit organization, devoted to the following purposes:

a. To cooperate with the Florida State Road Department in securing the necessary right-of-ways and otherwise to promote the earliest possible construction of Federal Route 19, extending from Leesburg to Miami, Florida.

b. To secure the designation of Federal Route 19 as a marked U. S. highway.

c. To promote the construction and improvement of roads connecting with and giving access to Federal Route 19.

When completed, the new road will link Leesburg, Haines City, Lake Wales, Frostproof, Avon Park, Sebring, Childs Crossing, Moore Haven and South Bay. From South Bay, alternate routes will branch out to West Palm Beach, Fort Lauderdale and Miami.

"Completely new construction will be necessary from Leesburg to Haines City," says Mr. Fahs. "From Haines City south to Childs Crossing, the road will follow the approximate route of State Road 8 but will be relocated throughout most of its length to eliminate present highway hazards and in order that sufficient right-of-way may be secured.

"At the present time, only two roads give access to Miami—the Tamiami Trail and U. S. 1 down the East Coast. As a result, U. S. 1 is dangerously over-crowded. Traffic authorities agree that when completed, Route 19 should relieve U. S. 1 of approximately 40% of its present traffic. It is interesting to note that the milage differential between the Jacksonville - Miami East Coast route and the proposed Central route is practically negligible. This factor can be depended upon to influence tourists toward making a loop through the state.

"At present, construction is under way on the southern end of the project—between South Bay and Miami. On the remainder of the route, a State Highway Department survey is nearing completion.

"Any person interested in the objectives of the Route 19 Association may become a member by writing either myself or Secretary Elbert Stewart. Membership involves no dues or assessments—merely interest in the early completion of a road of vital importance to Central Floridians and the entire state," Fahs concluded.

City Council Orders All Dogs Innoculated, Mad Dog Scare Here

Meeting in special session Monday night, the city council ordered immediate innoculation of all dogs in Avon Park as a mad dog had been shot and killed Sunday afternoon on the south side. This dog was said to have bitten several other dogs and cats and the head was sent to the State Board of Health at Jacksonville who certified that the dog was mad.

Dr. Irby of Haines City was here several days this week and kept busy innoculating dogs. A pound has been built in the rear of the old armory and a dog catcher will be appointed by the council at their meeting next Monday. All stray dogs will be impounded, Mayor M. E. Covington says and a charge made of $1.00 for the first day and fifty cents a day thereafter. Dogs not claimed after five days will be destroyed.

Police Chief W. H. McCarthy says several dogs and cats known to have been bitten have been shot and suspected animals should be closely watched for at lease 40 days.

Mayor Covington said yesterday that a mad dog appearerd on the school grounds at Kissimmee Thursday noon and bit the daughter of County Commissioner Bass. The animal was fought off before attacking other children.

Seeking Funds For Road Eight

President of Ridge Organization Optimistic About State Road

Haines City, May 11th: The survey work on Route No. 8 has been started by the Scenic Highlanders according to Mr. John Clark, president. "This survey is being made by the Scenic Highlanders as a basis for several proposed W. P. A. projects which we hope will get underway in Polk and Highlands counties this summer" said Mr. Clark.

It is the thought of the Road Committee of the Scenic Highlander that the W. P. A. projects will consist of relocating of some of the more dangerous curves and other work which will be a start towards the rebuilding of the Scenic Highway. The committee feels that the State Road Department will later inaugerate a five year program to finish the proposed work of this summer.

Several communities on the Ridge have been invited by the Highlanders to assist in the work by sponsoring beautification and highway work through the facilities of the W. P. A. along Route No. 8.

The membership of the Highlanders recently received a "Progress Report" from the office of Mr. Clark which read in part:

"1. Upwards of 3,000 people in Polk and Highlands counties have joined the Scenic Highlanders. The list grows daily and we expect hundreds more in Highlands county, which, for various reasons, was not quite ready for the campaign as was Polk.

"2. So far our contracts with the State Road Board have given us definite assurances that No. 8 and its preferential status will not be abandoned. But there are no definite plans about how and when the road may be improved. New maps and pamphlets from the State Highway Department show No. 8 in its present location, and list No. 19 as No. 8A.

"3. We feel assured from contracts made that No. 8, if funds are available, will be entirely rebuilt in five to six years or sooner, provided we keep pushing.

"4. Along with our campaign for No. 8 we have urged the State Road Department to complete its survey of No. 19 (8A) and we are assured this survey will soon be finished. Since it is a federal Aid Highway more than half will be built with federal funds. Unless money is advanced more freely it is the opinion of Chairman Hale of the State Road Board it will be fullly ten years before 8A is complete across the two counties. It must be remembered that the airline distance is 84 miles.

"5. With the hope of getting some immediate improvements started on No. 88 contact has been made with W. P. A. authorities, with the State Road Board, and with the county commissioners and we feel there will be considerable W. P. A. work done on the road this summer. How much we cannot yet tell."

FIRST AIR MAIL PLANE FROM HERE NEXT THURSDAY

J. L. Wells To Pilot First Official Flight From The Ridge Section

National Air Mail Week will be fittingly observed here next Thursday when the first mail to leave Highlands county by plane will start on its way.

The air mail leaving Avon Park during the week of May 15 to 21, will be stamped with a special cachet. Postmaster Perry stated that he estimated that 5,000 pieces of mail will go out of Avon Park during the air mail week bearing the stamp.

The first air mail dispatched in the United States started on its way just 20 years ago next Sunday and although it has made a phenominal growth in the short period of two decades with practically every large city in the country being served with at least one air mail route, it is certainly an important day to Highlands county when the first mail plane takes mail from the local postoffice next Thursday.

J. L. Wells, prominent Avon Park business man and aviator, will pick up the mail at Lake Placid, Thursday evening at 5:20, will arrive in Sebring 10 minutes later and leave with the Sebring mail at 5:40, arriving at Avon Park at 5:45 and leave here at 5:55 for Frosproof, Babson Park and Lake Wales at which places he will make stops for mail. From Lake Wales he will hop to Lakeland where he will connect with the north bound plane for Jacksonville.

A letter mailed here Thursday afternoon before five o'clock will arrive in New York Friday morning at 5:55 or Chicago at 7:15 Friday morning.

Postmaster Perry stated yesterday that if the public shows sufficient interest he is confident that it will be only a matter of a few months until this section of the state will be served with a regular air mail route. This statement does not seem so far fetched when one reads the following excerpt from a recent address made by Postmaster General Farley, who said:

"Let us for a moment consider the development of air transportation in this country during the past 20 years. In the first year of operation of the air-mail service 713,000 pieces of mail were transported. During the last fiscal year, which ended on the 30th of last June, between 150,000,000 and 200,000,000 pieces of mail were transported. In addition to this tremendous volume of mail more than a million passengers flew approximately 529,000,000 passenger-miles, and more than 9,000,000 pounds of express were handled by the air lines."

Remember The Free Cooking School At Theatre Next Week

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Georges Bonnet, France's new foreign minister, has been a vigorous advocate of a British-French-American alliance. He is regarded as more in accord with the Chamberlain policies than his predecessors.

French May Join Four Power Pact

With the downfall of the Left government, the conclusion of an Anglo-Italian agreement and the appointment of M. Bonnet, interpreters of European politics see an advance toward a four-power pact, possibly five-power, with Poland in, and the further isolation and immobilization of Russia.

The abandonment of the French-Soviet treaty is expected to be an immediate issue in what is regarded as a sharply clarifying outline of dominant conservative policy in France and England.

M. Bonnet, shrewd, suave, dressy, is a somewhat rakish figure, with his hat usually on the back of his head, but a personage of power and dignity in the political forum. He is of the younger school of French politics, and, in that connection, one of the best Jai Alai players in France.

At his country place at St. Georges de Didonne, he spends much time making incredible kangaroo leaps, playing pelota basque, as they call it there. But, in statesmanship, he is no rubber-heeled bounding basque. He is rather a wary and adroit fencer.

M. Bonnet Cuts Didos on Estate

When he was appointed ambassador to the United States in January, 1937, he brought with him a year's supply of truffles and pate de foies gras. He had to take most of it back, however, as, in July, he was recalled to save the franc in the Chautemps cabinet.

He was supposed to have saved it, but, as usual, it didn't stay saved, and, in the turn of the Ferris wheel, which is French politics, he was down-under and up again.

He is an economist, but also a philosopher and author, in the chamber of deputies from southwest France at the age of thirty-six and a former minister of budget, pensions and finance. He budgets a few wisps of hair carefully across his bald pate and surveys the world warily through gold-rimmed spectacles.

JAPAN'S strongly authoritarian government, with its feudal carry-over, has never fitted exactly into any of the molds of ultra-modern absolutism. The intensifying issue of fascism which may force out the present government spotlights several likely-looking "strong men" as possible successors to Premier Konoye.

Spotlight Now on Jap Strong Man

The only one with apparently clearly formulated ideas, and a fluent line of totalitarian talk is War Minister General Hajimi Sugiyama.

After several years of European post-graduate studies in direct action, he returned to talk of "national renovation," "decadent parliamentarianism," "unity and discipline," the the like. More than any other leader, he employs the standard terminology of fascism—if that means anything.

On May 27, 1937, he gave the diet quite a lacing and said that it would have to behave, or "we will dissolve it." Since he was then a member of the ruling military triumvirate, this was no casual editorial "we."

Sugiyama Tells Diet to Behave

While he is fifty-eight years old, he hits big-time politics with a strong momentum, not a contender for high place until 1936, and hence not track-sore, like some of his rivals. He did not become a general until 1936, after the army revolt early in that year. He had been vice-minister of war and head of the military air force.

His heavily underslung face resting, reckless, on a heavy torso, is asymmetrical, with one eyebrow always cocked, one side watchful and mobile, the other hardened in the set of a Benda mask of a dictator. He is of the army caste, graduated from the national military college. He represented Japan in the 1926 disarmament conference at Geneva, remaining in Europe for several years thereafter.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—In the midst of all of the politics and planning in the national capital, there has lately come to the surface one of the deepest and most bitter rows that has developed incident to the administration of Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is the controversy, long smouldering, between the President and the newspapers of the country. It is out in the open now, and the struggle is a desperate one.

Bitter Row Develops

To go back a few years, it will be remembered how Mr. Roosevelt was described as having a very friendly press when he entered the White House. He continued to maintain the most pleasant relations between his office and the newspapers of the country, and especially with the Washington correspondents, until doubt began to develop in the minds of some editors as to the soundness of New Deal policies in 1935. The number of opposition editors increased and in 1936 it was generally said that the President had only about one half of the newspapers supporting him. But even then, Mr. Roosevelt continued to have exceedingly cordial relations with the corps of correspondents who report on national affairs under a Washington date line.

The Washington correspondents and columnists who found little or no fault with the New Deal began to dwindle in numbers eventually. Now, as a guess, I would say that probably only about one-fourth of the five or six hundred writers believe heart-and-soul with New Deal policies. This does not mean that those who observe weaknesses or vulnerable points in the New Deal do not write their commendation when they believe it is due. The difference is that they are no longer completely "sold" on New Deal statements or propaganda without digging further into every situation. As a result, obviously, attention is directed daily to those weaknesses, as well as the strong points, of the New Deal; the news is no longer all ballyhoo for the New Deal.

Another result is that White House press conferences no longer are the jovial, carefree meetings filled with laughter, good-natured jibes and exchanges, friendly shots back and forth between the President and the correspondents. On a number of occasions, quite the contrary has been true. The President has spoken some very harsh words now and then about news dispatches from Washington by certain writers. He has not minced words when some Republican writer, like Mark Sullivan of the New York Herald Tribune syndicate, for instance, wrote his observations of a critical nature. Altogether, I believe it can be said that the newspaper criticism at times has got under the President's skin and has made him quite irascible and squeamish. I do not mean to say that this condition obtains every time the President meets with the press, but it has happened with greater and greater frequency of late that Mr. Roosevelt has found fault with what the correspondents were writing.

Such things, generally, are not written. Newspaper men usually do not inject themselves into rows, nor do they consider that they are more than the eyes and ears for their readers. That is to say, they consider their work impersonal and for the reason that it is impersonal seldom take the public into their confidences on matters that seem to them to be purely personal in nature.

In the last two weeks, however, the differences between the President and his advisors, on the one hand, and the editors throughout the country and their Washington correspondents, on the other hand, at last have been brought into the open. That is, and I believe this is a fair statement, Mr. Roosevelt has brought the row into the open.

The match seems to have been touched to the dynamite by Mr. Roosevelt at a recent "off the record" session which he held with the members of the Managing Editors' society. The society meets annually in Washington and always during their stay, they are invited to a White House meeting. In the past, such meetings have promoted a better understanding between the editors and the administration, but the last session appears to have done exactly the opposite.

Dynamite Set Off

It is not permissible to disclose what goes on in those meetings and, not having been present, I cannot vouch for details of the recent meeting. I know, however, that heretofore the editors came away always feeling that benefits of the meeting had been important. At the last meeting, according to common understanding around Washington, the discussion was heated. The President's remarks to the editors must have been vicious. In any event, there were few of the editors came away in a good humor. Indeed, at a breakfast of the society the next morning, one managing editor challenged his colleagues with the question: "Are we mice or are we men?"

Again asserting my inability to vouch for all of the statements that have deluged Washington since the meeting, I know that many of the editors were "red headed" or "hot under the collar" or whatever your favorite expression may be. And well they may have been if it is true that the President told them they had no genuine knowledge of public sentiment in their several communities, nor did they have any real influence. But the crowning shot, according to report, was a pointed inference that the President better understood what the country needed than the editors.

Immediately thereafter the American Newspaper Publishers association, at its New York meeting, had before it a report calling for the elimination of politics and politicians from control of the radio or the press. The report cited Mr. Roosevelt's frequent use of the airlanes for his "fireside chats," and it added:

"The inescapable task of the American press is to guard against any encroachment upon American democracy by the federal government with radio as the instrument of political power."

That incident, of course, was not ignored in Washington. While there was no word from the White House, the newspapers were the target for an intemperate speech by Sen. Sherman Minton of Indiana. Senator Minton has been a New Deal mouthpiece through the last year and only a few persons believed that he was speaking his own views. Most observers thought he was doing a "Charley McCarthy" for those in the New Deal who needed a ventriloquist and a forum then and there to get their views printed.

Minton Lets Loose

Mr. Minton jumped all over the newspapers. None of them would print the New Deal side, he asserted; none would be fair. They simply are awful things, these newspapers. The report of the newspaper publishers, mentioned above, was described by the senator as "an exhibition of unmitigated gall." Some newspapers were accused of "spewing out their propaganda" against the New Deal and he charged that the New Deal "simply can not get its side of the story printed."

The senator certainly got his side of the case printed for the metropolitan dailies reaching Washington gave him vast space—and also they subsequently gave him editorial attention. Senators on the floor listened to Senator Minton, too, but only Senator Norris of Nebraska and Schwellenbach of Washington took any notice. Senator Schwellenbach felt impelled to make a few well-chosen remarks about the way the press has treated the New Dealers, including himself.

And, I almost forgot about it! Senator Minton introduced a bill that would send an editor or reporter to jail if they printed any information which they knew to be incorrect. The guilty persons could be fined many thousands of dollars, too, under the Minton bill. I guess the reason I almost forgot about the Minton bill to punish editors was because nobody took it seriously, least of all the colleagues of Sentor Minton in the senate. It will go into a committee pigeonhole and will never be heard of again.

Involvement of radio and its control by the federal government in the "freedom of speech" battle calls to mind that there has been much complaint lately concerning the federal communications commission. That agency has supreme authority over the radio stations of the country. They cannot operate without a license. The law which set up the commission gave authority to license stations for three years, but as a matter of practice the commission never has issued a license to any station for a period longer than six months. In consequence, every station owner and operator has to come into the commission twice a year and file an application for renewal of its right to operate.

Irked by Radio Policy

The complaint is that the broadcasting industry is running on a six-months' basis, uncertain at all times about its future status. Twice a year, therefore, any station owner has to make a guess whether his investment is worth anything. One of the charges against this practice, a charge hurled by David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, was that the short-period licensing practice "leaves the door open for indirect and insidious censorship." The charge, of course, considers the possibilities of underhanded activity that always are available to an individual in public office.

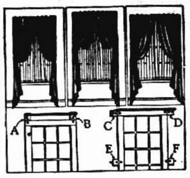
To Make Windows Higher and Wider

THE windows shown here are the same size. The center one is made to look taller by adding an extension at the top. The one on the right is made wider with extensions at the sides. Tall windows lend dignity and a note of formality. By placing the tiebacks quite high this effect is emphasized even more.

Wide windows often make a room seem larger and give wall spaces better proportions. Extensions at the sides may also be used so the draperies will cover less of the window, giving more view and sunlight. This is a particularly good trick to try in the summer with straight curtains hung so they barely cover the woodwork at the sides of the window.



To make a window higher, merely screw blocks of wood to the top of the frame as at A and B with metal straps such as may be obtained at any hardware store. The curtain rods are then screwed to the wood blocks. To add width, screw the blocks to the sides of the window frame as at B and C. If tie-backs are to be used, extensions for them may be added as at E and F.

Draperies like the ones shown here may be lined or not according to the weight of the material used. My book SEWING, for the Home Decorator, shows you exactly how to make them either way and how to make the French heading. This book also gives directions for making slipcovers; all types of dressing table covers; seventeen different types of curtains; bedspreads; and numerous other useful and decorative things for the home. Readers wishing a copy should address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill., enclosing 25 cents (coin preferred) and the book will be sent by return mail.

Bicycle for Twelve

Shortly after the modern bicycle was invented in England in 1884, many queer types were seen on the streets of London, one of which carried twelve passengers in single file. The contraption never became very popular, however, because few groups of riders were sufficiently expert to turn a corner.—Collier's Weekly.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Tropic Hurricane"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

We have had a lot of stories, boys and girls, about people who have had close shaves and gotten out of them by some fast action, or some quick thinking, or by some herculean feat of strength. They were great stories, every doggone one of them. But sometimes I think that men in action don't get half the scare that people do who have to sit quietly and watch death creep up on them while they are powerless to do anything about it.

That is the sort of yarn we have today, fellow adventurers—the story of Tom Brady of New York city—the story of how he sat, helpless, in a strange land, among strange people, while chaos gripped the world and threatened to tumble it in ruins upon his head.

The story, in short, of a tropical hurricane.

Tom Had Never Seen a Hurricane.

For years, in his role as traveling man, Tom Brady had been journeying through the tropical islands of the Caribbean sea, selling goods and looking over the country. He had heard plenty about the hurricanes they have down there. He had seen wrecked houses, uprooted trees—plenty of the evidences a tropical tornado leaves in its destructive wake. He had seen the natives kneeling in the churches, praying for divine protection against the dread wind storms they had learned to fear. But up to the time this story opens—September 11, 1928—Tom had never been caught in a hurricane.

Tom was in the city of Roseau, on the little British island of Dominica on September 11, 1928. He had been there for about ten days, and was just about ready to move on. He had his sample trunks all packed and in the Custom house, and was waiting for a steamer due that day which was to take him to St. Lucia, another small island in the Windward group. Then, what happened?

Roofs Went Flying Off Houses.

Storm warnings! Barometer falling! No steamer that day—nor for a few days to come. Tom was going to see that hurricane now. He couldn't get out of it.

The hotel Tom was stopping at was a frame structure. They said it was safe—said it had stood up under other storms—but Tom had his doubts. Nevertheless, it was the safest place to be found in Roseau, so it as Hobson's choice for Tom.

Along about sundown, rain and wind began coming in short, fitful gusts. At 8 o'clock, the cannon at the fort—the only means the police had of advising the natives that the storm was headed their way—boomed out its ominous warning! Get ready. Board up your windows. Take shelter. Then the wind began rising slowly—steadily—relentlessly.

Havoc Wreaked by the Fierce Storm.

All through the night lightning flashes ripped the black skies while the wind rose and the rain increased. The colored natives were screaming now, and chanting prayers in the streets. Everywhere people were scrambling about, boarding up their houses as best they could. No one slept that night. No one wanted to.

At 5 a. m. the cannon on the fort boomed again, this time with a message of far more evil portent than the first. "It's upon us!" And on its heels, the fury of the storm, lashing and tearing—carving its path of havoc and destruction from the seawall to the farthest limits of the town.

The seawall was the first to go. Its solid concrete bulk, running the length of the town, crumbled like ashes under the force of the sea that battered against it. The Custom house jetty—the Belle jetty—the Fish market by the seawall were wrecked by the fury of the wind and carried away on the reeling, lashing tide that was momentarily getting higher and higher. Roofs went flying off houses. Sheets of tin went sailing through the air—went scraping and clattering down the streets. The tops of palm trees snapped off as if they had been match stems. Coconuts went winging and bounding in all directions, like a barrage of cannon balls.

In his hotel, a block and a half from the seawall, Tom Brady watched the waterfront "coming up the street." The gallery on the side of the hotel he was in was ripped off and carried away. Shutters were torn from their fastenings. The rain was coming in. The wind blew all the furniture against the opposite wall.

He Found Out What Fear Was.

Downstairs, they were lifting a huge wooden trap door and putting the women and the servants in the cellar. They were expecting the roof to go next. And in those moments, Tom Brady found out what it was to be afraid.

They say a drowning man sees his whole life pass before him before he dies. Tom saw just that. There, all alone, a thousand miles away from home, on a strange island, among strange people, he thought out his own obituary. He prayed, and he isn't ashamed of it. He promised the Lord he'd be a better man if he was spared this time—and he meant it—every doggone word of it—at the time.

Still the tempest raged. A church steeple came crashing down. Death, ruin, destruction were all about him. Tom himself was literally thrown about the room by the sickening impact of the blow. From time to time the wind would shift—strike the hotel from another angle. Then the men in that room would board up the windows again and be safe—for a time. In all, Tom was boarded up for 23 hours—the worst 23 hours he ever spent in his life. And it wasn't the danger that bothered him so much as the inactivity—the uncertainty. The terrible nerve-racking sensation of waiting—waiting to be washed away by the ocean, or buried alive under a falling roof.

It was the next morning—at 4 a. m., when the storm finally passed over. The town was a shambles—the streets full of debris—the houses in ruins. Tom took some pictures and thanked God he was alive. He says: "I went to church religiously for about four or five Sundays after that, and then, like a good many more of us, not being scared any more, I started to miss again."

Like a good many more of us is right!

Mystery in Plant Life

Evidence that living plants contain a mysterious substance which plays a major role in harnessing the energy of sunlight for the creation of living plant substances out of carbon dioxide and water was presented recently.

Largest of Bear Family

Kodiak bears have brown fur, and sometimes are called "Alaska brown bears." They are the largest members of the bear family.

Railway "Birdman"

Having spent 52 years of his life in mid-air, a driver of New York's elevated trains recently retired. In that period he covered a distance equal to four trips to the moon and back. And, as an additional record, he was not once late for duty.

The inscription on the Liberty bell is "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof." It is from Leviticus, 25:10.

Men of the Mounted

"SOAPY" SMITH CHANGES HIS MIND

A MORE notorious political racketeer never lived than "Soapy" Smith. For years he and his gangsters did just as they please up and down the west coast, and when "Soapy" decided to hit for the Yukon during the historically famous gold rush, he took most of his gang of ruffians, cut-throats and robbers with him. Almost overnight "Soapy" gained complete control of Skagway, and soon the town was wide open multiplied by ten.

Skagway's streets became battlefields where provoked and unprovoked gunfights occurred daily as some of "Soapy's" ruffians robbed and plundered outgoing, well-heeled goldrushers and incoming goldseekers alike. At night, raucous voices singing lewd and filthy songs were augmented by cries of "murder" from the street. Might was right in every sense of the word, meanwhile all sorts of gyp-artists, card sharps, confidence men, and shell-game crooks robbed and plundered right and left, keeping out of trouble because "Soapy," the Big Boss, had arranged the police and judiciary to suit himself.

"Soapy" and his lieutenants planned and executed hundreds of robberies and swindling schemes, growing richer and more powerful the while. Then came news the Northwest Mounted Police were about to escort about $200,000 in notes and gold from Lake Bennet post, to Victoria, British Columbia, via the port at Skagway. Surely this was too juicy a plum for "Soapy" and his gang to miss. Moreover, up to this time, both "Soapy" and his henchmen had balked at any "job" that might make them step into Canadaian territory. Even the repetedly daring "Soapy" entertained a healthy respect for the Men of the Mounted.

Here was a job they could pull right on American soil where, by rights, the Men of the Mounted had no business. And so "Soap" and his brain-trust sat down and schemed, planned and arranged for every emergency. This was to be the job of the decade. As "Soapy" organized an army of 100 well-armed men, engaged boats, and planted scouts here and there, the commissioner of the Yukon territory bade good-by, and good luck, to three Men of the Mounted, Inspector Wood and two constables. Their load consisted of their own personal kits, and the $200,000.

After many anxious miles during which the three Men of the Mounted followed the Skagway with furtive eyed rascals who were evidently "Soapy's" scouts, Inspector Wood and his men arrived at Dyea where they immediately boarded a waiting rowboat and were soon rowing out across the bay. Halfway across several well-armed men in a rather large rowboat manned by half a dozen stout-muscled oarsmen, did their best to intimidate the Northwest Mounted and made several attempts to bring the two boats into a collision. Inspector Wood, handling the steering oar, warned the ruffians to keep their distance or he would fire upon them, and, thus arguing back and forth, the two boats finally crossed the bay without any shootings or drownings. Upon arrival at the wharf, however, Inspector Wood and his men received a rough and tumble reception from almost a hundred ruffians lined up and ready for the big robbery. As the Men of the Mounted stepped to the wharf carrying their $200,000 they were tripped and jostled and pushed about hither and yon as they tried to make their way toward a small steamer that lay alongside awaiting their coming. Kicked and pushed and tripped and otherwise held up and delayed, things began to look really serious. The great robbery was imminent. And then, just when it seemed that the Men of the Mounted were about to be smothered by the mob, the captain aboard the steamer tooted the vessel's horn, and instantly a score of armed members of the Royal naval reserve were over the side and down among "Soapy's" gang. In no time the Men of the Mounted and their $200,000 were snatched from the mob and were aboard the steamer.

"Soapy" Smith, surrounded by at least a score of his most trusted gunmen, had witnessed the whole show from the deck of a tug that was "treading water" nearby. Although he had seen his best plans go haywire, he was still smiling or sneering, when he opened up conversation with Inspector Wood.

"Like ter have yer stay 'round Skagway a day er two, 'Spector," said "Soapy," "it's a mighty nice town . . . y'kin have anyt'ing yer want . . . Name it . an' it's yores. How 'bout it? 'Spector?"

"Thank you, Mr. Smith," the inspector replied, coolly, "but I must be about my business. I'd advise you to keep off Canadian territory in the future, as you have done, so very well, in the past. Good afternoon, sir."

Maupassant's 'Necklace' Is Perfect Tale

By ELIZABETH C. JAMES

SHE had been born a poor girl and she had married a poor man, yet Madam Mathilde Loisel, heroine of Guy de Maupassant's "The Necklace," did not give up life so easily. She dreamed of lovely things. Within her surged the power to charm, to sway emotions. One day her husband returned from work with an envelope which he eagerly handed her. Reading the contents, she began to cry. He was astonished.

"I thought you would like to go. It is to be a grand ball, and everyone wanted to go. I had much trouble to get it for you."

Elizabeth James

"And what am I to wear?"

What would a new dress cost? She calculated rapidly to see how much she thought he would give her, and then said, "Four hundred francs will do."

He gave up his savings for her gown and she ordered the dress.

The week of the ball arrived, but still Madam Loisel was not happy. Her husband inquired the reason, and she deplored her lack of jewels. He suggested her wealthy friend, Madam Forestier, a friend of convent days. At the home of her friend, Madam Loisel surveyed all the jewel cases and held each ornament up to see the effect. Finally she inquired if she might use the diamond necklace. Her friend assented and gave her the precious string of jewels.

Ball Is Success.

At the ball, Madam was a triumph. All the men asked for introductions, and all the women inquired who she was. Her eyes shone with this fulfillment of her day-dreaming. It was early morning when they started for home. Standing before her mirror for a last glimpse of herself on this glorious occasion, Madame Loisel uttered a shriek. The necklace was gone! Her husband rushed to her side. When had she last noticed it? Where could it be? He started out to search for it hardly knowing where to look.

At seven in the morning he returned without it. They searched the city of Paris. The cab drivers, the streets, the police. They put an advertisement in the papers. At the end of the week they had not found it, so they made the rounds of the jeweler's shops. A necklace almost identically like the lost one, cost 40,000 francs, but they could get it for 36,000 cash. By using all their savings, and by borrowing at ruinous rates, they bought the new rope of diamonds.

When Madam returned it, she did not wait for her friend to open the box, for fear she might see the difference. Then began the paying back of all this borrowed money. They moved into a garrett, dismissed the maid, and lived as laboring people. Madam lost her physical beauty. From haggling over prices she became loud and coarse. At the end of ten years they paid off the debt and could again face the world.

The Revelation.

One day, Madam was walking in the park to get a breath of spring. Just ahead she saw her old friend, Madam Forestier. But the latter did not recognize Madam Loisel, and exclaimed upon learning who she was. Her changed appearance called for an explanation. It could not do any harm now, so the story of the necklace was told. At the end of it, Madam Forestier cried out in pain. She took the hands of Madam Loisel and tearfully said, "Oh, my poor Mathilde. Why, my necklace was paste. It was worth at most 500 francs."

This story is often said to have the most perfect plot of all short stories. The technique of Maupassant, great French artist, is to emphasize the plot above the people. With him it is a question always of: What happened?

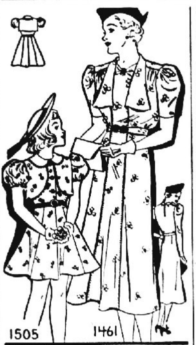
"MOST PERFECT MASTER"

Among the writers whose lives were cut short by premature death and whose work is condensed within a few working years, is the French short story writer, Henri Rene Albert Guy de Maupassant. He was born in 1850 and died at the age of forty-three.

Athletics was first love in his youth. He belonged to a club where he knew Daudet, Turgenev, Zola and Flaubert, who read some of his sketches and then remembered him as a charming young athlete. This was the man who was later called "the most perfect master of the short story."

Within his own lifetime some of his stories were forbidden from public display, but this reacted as advertisement and increased the sale of everything that he wrote.

Summer Afternoon Dresses



THESE two patterns bring you outstanding fashions of the season, the woman's dress very slenderizing and flattering, the little girl's frock as saucy, bright and perky as a daffodil. Each pattern includes a detailed and complete sew chart, with step-by-step directions, so that you can make these pretty dresses quickly and easily.

Bolero Frock for Little Girl.

This dress has no less than four of the most becoming details in the world—a crisply flaring skirt, sleeves puffed out like little balloons, a brief bolero, and a round collar! Make it up in printed percale (a light, flowery design), paper taffeta, gingham, linen or dimity. Use ricrac or Irish edging to trim the collar and bolero.

Soft Detailing for Large Women.

Notice the soft gather on the shoulders and sleeve tops, creating just enough fullness where it's needed, the lengthening revers, the slim lines of the skirt—all extremely becoming to women who want to minimize their weight. This dress will be lovely in silk print, georgette, chiffon or voile. If you choose a print, be sure to select small or indistinct designs.

Uncle Phil Says:

A Great Difference

The unwise man puts things off; the wise man puts things over.

Has anyone ever analyzed success so that you can understand it? We think not, or more people would have achieved it.

In climbing the ladder of success there often seems to be a missing rung. Here's where one has to make a struggle.

There's the Rub

Life is a good show—but some people don't like the rest of the cast.

Money spent on a magnificent church is not wasted. It gives joy to those inside and those outside, as well.

Encourage the right kind of pride in a young man; and it begins in his pride in his college diploma.

That's Her Business

The woman pays and pays and pays, of course. That's because she buys and buys and buys.

People really resent other people being indecent rather than sinful. There is a great difference.

Milton, Scott, Defoe, Bach Late-Flowering Geniuses

Cervantes was fifty-eight when the first part of "Don Quixote" was given to the public.

Milton was sixty when he began to compose "Paradise Lost."

Daniel Defoe was fifty-eight when he produced "Robinson Crusoe."

Bunyan did not begin "Pilgrim's Progress" until he was more than forty.

Sir Walter Scott was forty-three before he began to attract attention by his writings.

Bach did not compose until he was past forty.

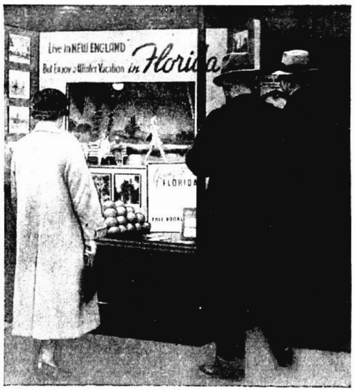
ELECTION RESULTS

At this is written, the day following election, it appears from the returns that Claude Pepper has been renominated for the United States senate by a liberal majority over all four candidates against him. The surprises of the vote were the low total obtained by former Governor Sholtz, so low that it may well retire him forever from Florida politics, and the surprising strength shown by Mark Wilcox, who, after all, was not possessed of any great state-wide acquaintance. Despite the fact that Pepper had the administration blessing, the WPA support, the support of labor (a hundred thousand copies or more of a national labor weekly were distributed in Florida in his behalf, with the paper almost entirely devoted to boosting his candidacy), the Townsendites, the canal advocates, and other important groups, the Wilcox total is surprisingly large and indicates a very real opposition to the administration's program. Wilcox suffered at the end by a rumor that he was to receive GOP aid in a second primary, but despite his defeat, his race was noteworthy. When the final figures are in, while they show a clear-cut victory for the administation, as well as for Senator Pepper, there is ample evidence of dissatisfaction with certain FDR policies in this, a stout section of the Solid South, and Senator Pepper and others may well take cognizance of the existence of a rapidly growing minority that some day may become a majority. Senator Pepper deserves sincere congratulations for a clean race, run under the handicap of illness. The vote is a decided tribute to the state's senior solon.—Winter Haven Herald.

Advertising Program New England States Proves Successful



Civic leaders and citizens of Central Florida will not need to be reminded of the Reciprocal Advertising Program as conducted last year by the Florida Public Service Company and the New England Gas and Electric Association. The results of the plan were more than satisfying—scores of inquiries were received as a direct result of the Florida Dioramic Display shown in a half dozen leading New England centers. An untold number of new winter visitors were, thereby, drawn to the beautiful ridge section of Central Florida.

In the light of last years success much interest and enthusiasm met the anouncement today by R. R. Brown of the Florida Public Service Company, that the local utility will continue this year to actively participate in this unique program designed to build the tourist travel into this area.

When interviewed, Mr. Brown declared, "Although the reciprocal plan as basically planned for last year was experimental in nature, it turned out to be so completely practical and beneficial to this area that its continuation was virtually assured. It gives me a lot of pleasure to announce that during the following two months we will promote New England as the ideal vacationland for Floridians, and during fall and winter, New England will, in return, advertise Florida. It will be necessary, due to current business conditions, to economize in some way, but Central Floridians may rest assured that the Florida Public Service Company will spare no efforts to make the use of this program effective and even more beneficial than last year." Mr. Brown went on to say, "We are a local organization—our lines serve this section—our staff includes your friends and neighbors. Your interests are our interests. Consequently, anything we can do to bring better business to Central Florida is of paramount interest to us."

SYNOPSIS

Alan Cameron, young trapper, Noel, his Indian partner, and Rough, husky Ungava sled dog, look in vain for the Montagnais trappers' camp in the desolate Big River country of Northern Canada. Their supplies destroyed by wolverines, they are forced to subsist on wolf meat until they come, amazed, to a substantial log house in the wilderness of Talking River, where they are greeted by a big blond man with a gun. Introducing himself as John McCord, hunter, the big man makes no clearer the mystery of his identity or reason for his whereabouts. Heather McCord, the daughter, who had come with him to the wilderness, admires Rough.

When McCord had finished eating his simple supper of corn bread, caribou stew and tea, he said:

"Daughter, these boys are all worn out and need sleep, so you toddle off to bed, when we've done these dishes."

The brows of the girl almost met in a frown as she studied her father's face, then turning to Alan with a laugh, she said: "That's a bargain, Alan, if you'll hitch Rough to the sled, as soon as he gets his strength back, and give me a ride on the river."

"He's a little lame now, but in a day or two he'll show you what a real sled-dog is," replied Alan, proudly, stroking the head of the sleeping dog at his side.

With a "Good night, all!" the girl went to her room.

McCord moved the table back to the wall, lit his pipe, then turned to the man who was watching him curiously.

"Are you afraid to travel beyond the Sinking Lakes?"

For a space the surprised youth sitting on the stool and the man who approached and bent over him probed each other's eyes. What was this—a challenge? The blood leaped in the veins of the son of Graham Cameron, once known for his daring from Rupert to the Little Whale. Was this stranger with the ice-blue eyes putting his courage to the test?

"You think I'm afraid to go into that country? I tell you it's just a question of common sense — of whether you'll starve out."

The bearded face with its livid scar was thrust closer. The cold eyes snapped with the glitter of challenge. The manhood of Alan Cameron was measured in that long stare.

"Would you go with me—next year?" the giant asked.

In frightened protest Noel cried: "De Land of de Caribou People? Not dere, no, not dere!"

Alan impatiently waved his friend back as he rose to his feet to meet the questioning eyes that searched his. "You're a stranger, Mr. McCord," said the boy, his lean face lit with suppressed excitement. "You've saved our lives. And we owe you much. But I don't go into the bush with a man I don't know. You've asked me a question. Well, I ask you one before I answer. Who are you, and why are you here?"

The man whose piercing blue eyes never left the speaker's face, laughed. "Fair enough," he agreed. "I'm from down Ottawa way but I've spent a good many years in the bush. I'm up here with the idea of doing some trading. They tell me that a big trade of black- and silver-fox pelts comes down to the coast from these headwaters—black marten, too, and lynx."

But, as he talked, Alan recalled the fighting glitter in McCord's eyes, earlier in the day, when he opened the door of the cabin to the call of starving men—the desperate look of a trapped wolverine. What had brought him to that door fingering the trigger of that black automatic? What mystery was behind all this?

When Heather McCord opened the door shortly after the sun lit the parchment windows of the cabin, she greeted her father's guest with a look of undisguised approval. Shaved, scrubbed and wearing a clean shirt, the embarrassed stranger of the night before was again, thin as he was, the striking youth with bold, regular features and deep-set gray eyes, after whom, when the post was gay with the spring trade, the girls at Fort George, white, half-breed and red, flashed many an admiring glance.

"Good morning!" she said. "Feel better after the food and sleep and," she added with a laugh, "after the shave?"

The blood flooded Alan's dark, frost-burned face. "I'll be as good as new in a few days."

"Why, you look pretty good now."

Rough, who had slept indoors as an especial favor to a starved dog, yawned deeply, rose, stretched, shook himself, then walked to the girl who boldly placed her hand on the massive skull. Ears forward, the husky measured her for a space through slant eyes, sniffed, then met her hand with the thrust of a red tongue.

"You've put a spell on him!" exclaimed the surprised Alan. "You're the first stranger he's ever made up to."

"We won't be strangers long." She knelt and calmly took the husky's jowls in her two hands, while his tail swept slowly to and fro as he looked into her face.

"You've got a way with dogs," commented Alan.

She laughed. "I wouldn't take the trouble to make love to most dogs but he's a big dear. Gee, what jaw muscles he's got! You're a darling old bear, aren't you, Roughy?"

As Alan watched her he wondered what could have induced John McCord to bring such a girl into the heart of the Ungava barrens.

A loud yawn from the upper bunk announced the awakening of the giant and soon the room was filled with odors of hot bannocks, frying caribou steak and tea.

During the following days, while the boys and dog were regaining their lost weight and strength and the crust stiffened under the March sun, Alan talked much with McCord. But his direct questions received evasive answers. The mystery of the giant's presence on the Talking River was still unsolved in the minds of the boys. The explanation that he was there to trade with the Indians did not satisfy them.

Nevertheless, in the intimacy of the life together, Alan and Noel gradually surrendered to the magnetism of the man who had saved them from a wilderness death. They were convinced that behind that bulk and power lay the mettle of a man.

"Winter with you?"

Soon Heather McCord was driving Rough over the crusted river ice hitched to her father's small trapping toboggan. Never before had the Unvaga shown interest in anyone except the man he worshiped. But by some secret magic, some occult charm of personality, the girl had reached the heart of the dog.

One day as Alan followed rabbit snares set in the thick willows of the shore reaches above the camp, he heard Heather and Rough skimming over the wind-brushed river ice, the laughter of the girl mingling with the wild yelping of the dog. Finishing his round of the snares, he came out to the shore a mile above the camp and looked up and down stream. The river was deserted. Thinking that they had gone on up-stream, he walked to a bend in the shore. But on the sweep of white river ice before him there was no sled. Then his heart suddenly slowed as he noticed, a quarter of a mile above, near the shore, black objects, low on the ice.

Dropping the rabbits he carried, Alan ran like a caribou hunted by timber wolves.

"If they can only hold on—only hold on!" he prayed, leaping over the wind-scoured crust of the river.

As he approached the two struggling in the suck of the strong current, Alan saw that the girl was holding herself firmly by her arms on strong ice but that the husky was breaking down the ice-edge, churning and clawing with his powerful forelegs to hold himself up against the drag of the sled beneath him.

"Hold on! Hold on, Rough!" he cried, desperate with fear.

Clinging to the ice edge, the white - faced girl gasped: "Get Rough! The sled's—pulling him—under! I'm—all right!"

The spread paws of the frantic dog were slowly slipping on the clawed ice—slipping toward the edge.

"Hold on, Roughy!" she cried.

With a last desperate lunge of his powerful fore legs the despairing dog lifted his head and shoulders above the water. The deep throat sent a farewell whine to the master who was coming too late. Slowly, like an anchor, the drag of the sled drew the slipping nails to the edge of the ice and the heroic dog sank beneath the surface.

There was a heavy splash as Alan Cameron threw himself into the water. Hooking one arm on the ice edge, he reached under water and gripped a trace of the dog who thrashed wildly against the drag of the sled to gain the surface. With a wrench of his powerful arm and shoulder Alan drew the struggling Rough up to the ice edge. Aided by Alan's lift on the trace, the dog hooked his forelegs again on the ice. Alan whipped his skinning knife from its sheath and slashed both traces. The great husky drew himself out of the water, turned and clamping his teeth on the capote of his master, slowly drew him out on the ice.

"Oh, you've saved him—you've saved him!"

With a spring the dog reached the rim of the firm ice where Heather clung with all the strength of her young arms, and seized a sleeve of her duffel capote while the dripping Alan gripped her hand and man and dog drew the half frozen girl from the water.

"Are you all right?" he cried, as Heather half delirious hugged the wildly yelping Rough. "Quick now! We'll wring some of the water out of your clothes! They'll freeze solid. We've got to strike for camp."

Shivering like a man with the ague, Alan wrung what water he could from her clothes.

"We've lost—the sled," she said ruefully.

"We can make another in a day or two! Come on now! No time to talk! Run!" commanded Alan, seizing Heather's arm, while she, half-crying, half-laughing, attempted to explain how she had forgotten her father's warning and had driven Rough into the treacherous ice of the rapids.

Three ice - incrusted figures reached the warm camp to send John McCord, when he returned, into a tirade on the folly of headstrong girls with short memories. Later Alan and Heather, swathed in blankets, drying out before the fire, heard him say:

"What would there be left for me with Heather, you and Rough out there under that ice?"

CHAPTER III

March, the southern Montagnais' "Moon of the Crust on the Snow," was drawing to an end. Three weeks of nourishing food had wrought miracles in the two famished boys and the lean, stiff-legged husky who had drifted in out of the jaws of the white death to the cabin of John McCord.

But now there was no time to waste, if the boys were to escape being caught on their way to Fort George by the spring break-up, when the crust goes suddenly soft before the advancing sun and water floods the river ice.

The afternoon before Alan planned to start for the coast, he and McCord, their snowshoes slung from their backs, were returning from a round of the trap-lines in the timber of the river valley. Suddenly, swinging round on the hooded figure of Alan, who walked beside his dog, McCord exploded, almost fiercely:

"I want you to bring back some real dogs—then winter with me!"

"Winter with you?" The pulse of the youth leaped.

"I've watched you alone and with your dog. I've seen you handle an axe and a rifle. I've listened to your talk. I haven't lived forty years for nothing. You're young, but you're the man I looked for and couldn't find—down in Ontario and at Moose and Rupert House."

"Huskies you want?" muttered the boy, his straight gaze meeting the look in the other's tense face. His heart beat with pride at what he had just heard. McCord, who had come from a world of many men, far south in the cities, had rated him high among them. Then, in a flash came the vision of the face of the girl that had companioned his dreams through the winter—the girl to whom he had bidden good-by that day when hope had died and they were crawling with the last of their strength across the tundra to the valley of the Talking River. What would Berthe say if he spent the early summer on the north coast seeking dogs for John McCord? Would she believe that he still cared for her if he went north at once on his return to Fort George?

"Yes, I want a team like Rough. I'll get only scrubs from East Main if I get them at all."

"But Ungava dogs are hard to get," objected Alan. "There are few for sale. The Huskies want them for themselves."

With a quick movement McCord slipped his hand from the rabbit-skin mitten, slung by a thong from his neck, and wiped the ice formed by his breath from his short, blond beard.

"You're straight as a spruce—or I'm no judge of a face," he said. "I'm—I'm going to trust you, but how about Noel? He's Indian. Can you keep his mouth shut—if they try—to learn something?"

"Noel would die for me," answered Alan, wondering what was coming. "He will not talk."

"You'll get the dogs, then?"

"Why not come to the coast and get them, yourself?"

"I don't want it known at Fort George where I am going to locate to trade with the Indians. That's why I came in by way of Rupert House—to throw them off the scent—to lose myself. Remember you've never seen me. Can Noel keep that locked in his throat?"

Suddenly across Alan's brain there flashed a suspicion. Could this man, facing him here on the river ice, be wanted down in the provinces for crime?

"You saved our lives," was Alan's answer. "They'll never know at Fort George that we met you."

"I believe you, boy." McCord laid his hand on the other's shoulder. "But will you go up the coast for the dogs?"

Alan hesitated. There was Berthe! What would she say? He was saving—saving in the hope that, some day, Berthe—But the money that McCord would pay him might bring that day nearer.

"I'll need plenty of tea, tobacco and sugar to trade for dogs with the Huskies," said Alan, weakening.

"I'll give you plenty of money, but you mustn't show it at Fort George. They'd want to know where you got it. And I don't want them to know this summer that you've met me."

"But what good will that do?" demanded Alan, impatiently. "Your men must have reached East Main before Christmas if they left here in November. Fort George would learn by the Christmas mail that you were in here, somewhere."

McCord nodded. "True, but my men didn't know we were on the Big River headwaters."

"So you don't want Fort George to know just where you are?"

"Exactly. If they learn that you've met me, they might follow you when you come back with the dogs."

"Follow me? Why?" Again suspicion lurked in Alan's mind. "But they may be following your Indians now—if they talked at East Main."

McCord slowly shook his hooded head. "They're not following my Indians."

"You mean you think they've deserted you and—Heather? They'd take your dogs and money and not come back—leave you here flat—without a dog or a man to help you?"

"That's just what I'm saying."

Everybody's a Little Crazy; at Least Scientists Make Interesting Deductions

The line between sanity and insanity becomes vaguer and vaguer, the more psychologists try to draw it, asserts a writer in the Chicago Daily News.

Now come Dr. James Vaughn and Othilda Krug of the University of Cincinnati who tell of giving the Rorschach ink blot test to 43 psychotics with paranoid tendencies and to 52 students at their school and they conclude:

"It is interesting to observe that here and there normal people present original form responses which are probably as indicative of pathology as the original form responses of the psychotics.

"One can hardly escape the conclusion that insanity is a difference in degree and not in kind. The degree seems important."

Their observations were reported recently to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The ink blot test consists of dropping some ink onto a paper, folding it so that the ink smears into an irregular outline and then letting the patient interpret the outline. It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of psychologists that the interpretation shows characteristics that may be associated with various types of insanity.

Apparently normal people and psychotics resemble one another in many respects, the two investigators summed up. "They present similarities in degree and kind of adjustment, intelligence, analytical ability and originality, stereotypy, ideas of persecution and grandeur and introversion and extraversion," the report reports.

"The psychotics," the psychologists continued in leading to their conclusion, "present evidence of greater dissociation and less rapport with environment, but it is surprising to find so many apparently normal people presenting similar tendencies."

Many Noncombatants With Army

No army is believed to have been accompanied into battle by as many noncombatants as a certain military legion of Bengal, India, in 1838. It consisted of 100,000 individuals, says Collier's Weekly, 85,000 of whom were wives, children, laundresses, valets, porters, hostlers and sutlers.

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority

Describes the ACID- and ALKALINE-ASH FOODS and Explains Their Role in Maintaining the ACID-BASE BALANCE of the Body ★ ★ ★

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

ACIDITY is the topic of the hour. On every side we hear people complaining that they have too much acid in their systems, that they suffer from acid stomach, acid headaches, acid mouth, acidosis. In fact, most adults fancy themselves victims of a great battle between acid and alkaline forces, with the acid having the better of it.

They confuse gastric acidity—which is entirely normal, for the healthy stomach is always strongly acid—with the potential acidity of foods which leave an acid residue following digestion. And many of them are convinced that they should take drastic steps to overcome the danger of acidosis.

The Vogue of Acidosis

There are fashions in disease, just as in dress, home furnishings and automobiles. Ten years ago, we heard much about the evils of auto-intoxication, and it was some time before people realized that they had been misled by the extreme claims of those who had some sort of remedy to sell. And now it is acidosis that is the most talked of complaint. Friends caution one another against this or that food, with the mistaken idea that it causes or aggravates an acid condition. Food faddists have frightened thousands by suggesting that acidosis is brought about by mixing various kinds of foods.

Health Endangered

Indeed, we have come to a point where the fear of a so-called acid condition is assuming proportions which indicate the possibility of real trouble unless the American people get the true facts and put aside these foolish delusions.

Physiologists believe that fear and worry have a detrimental effect on digestion, and, in turn, on the general health. Thus eating meals in constant fear of acidity may upset the digestion and bring about the very symptoms that you are trying to avoid. One well-known authority contends that perhaps 90 per cent of digestive distress, attributed to the kind or combinations of food eaten, is actually due to unfavorable mental or emotional states, and other causes such as over-eating, even when fatigued, or consuming at one meal too many foods that are difficult to digest. It, therefore, becomes apparent that thousands of people are contributing to their own discomfort as a result of fear, ignorance, or a blind belief in misleading claims which are opposed to scientific facts.

Acidosis Uncommon

The danger is not from acidosis, but from the fear of this bugbear, and from self medication in the belief that certain remedies are required to overcome a fancied condition. For in spite of the large amount of acid produced in metabolism, the blood normally remains remarkably constant and slightly alkaline, due to a highly efficient buffer system.

Perhaps you wonder, if this is so, why doctors and dietitians talk so much about the acid-base balance.

The Acid-Base Balance

To understand this phrase, you must know that every food leaves an ash when burned in the body, just as ashes remain when coal or wood is burned in a furnace. In the body, the ash consists of valuable minerals which are required in large amounts to maintain optimal health.

Some foods, such as meat, fish, eggs and cereals, leave an acid ash because the predominating minerals are phosphorus, chlorine and sulphur. Other foods, chiefly milk and most fruits and vegetables, leave an alkaline ash because the remaining minerals are principally calcium, magnesium, potassium and sodium. These are the base-forming foods.

Besides the alkaline ash and acid ash foods, there is a group of foods, including sugar, cornstarch and purified fats, which are so highly refined that no minerals remain after they are burned; and some other foods, such as butter and cream, leave a balance of the two types of ash. These are known as neutral foods.

Cannot Trust Your Tongue

The sense of taste cannot be relied upon as a guide in determining which foods are acid and which alkaline. For example, cereals, which are bland to the taste, have an acid reaction following digestion. Bread, likewise, is acid forming, although you would not suspect that fact from its taste. On the other hand, potatoes, though somewhat similar to bread in flavor and food value, are one of our most valuable alkaline foods, and dried lima beans are the most highly alkaline of any food known.

If it seems curious that such bland foods should have an acid ash, you may find it even harder to believe that oranges, lemons, grapefruit, peaches and tomatoes, which taste acid in the mouth, leave an alkaline ash following digestion. But the fact is that the body performs a clever bit of chemical engineering and the final effect on the blood is alkaline.

Homemaker's Responsibility

A balanced diet must include sufficient base-forming foods to neutralize and counter-balance the effects of the acids formed in metabolism.

That is one reason why it is so important for the homemaker to provide her family with plenty of milk, fruits and vegetables, in addition to the necessary meat, fish, eggs and cereals.

In general, one is likely to feel better when base-forming foods predominate, at least slightly, in the diet over acid-forming foods. Some authorities believe that this may be due not so much to their effect on the acid-base balance as to the fact that they provide such splendid amounts of vitamins, minerals and fiber.

However, one must not make the mistake of becoming so enthusiastic over building a highly alkaline diet that one overlooks good foods necessary to round out a balanced diet.

To those homemakers who take seriously the important job of feeding a family, and wish to be correctly informed, I shall gladly send a chart showing which foods are alkaline and which acid. It can be used as a helpful guide in planning a balanced diet.

Send for this chart and increase your food knowledge. In the meantime, don't under any circumstances allow misguided individuals to frighten you into joining the vast army of acid-minded people who are so concerned over the possibilities of acidosis that they haven't time to enjoy life.

Questions Answered

Mrs. S. T. R.—No, egg whites most certainly are not toxic, except to people who have an allergy toward this food. For all normal individuals, they offer an excellent source of protein.

Mrs. R. McK.—Generally speaking, the ideal weight for men and women over thirty is their normal weight at the age of thirty. From that time on, the scales should be watched, and the food intake reduced as soon as a gain is noticed. When maturity is reached, food is no longer required to support growth, and unless muscular activity is maintained at a high level, the total energy requirement will gradually decline.

Miss M. V.—Indeed I am not against the eating of fried foods, except in abnormal conditions where, for some reason, the fat intake must be restricted. The moderate use of fried foods, which have been properly cooked, makes the diet palatable and interesting.

TESTING DISCIPLESHIP BY SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:17-31.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come . . . and follow me.—Mark 10:21.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Young Man Jesus Loved.
JUNIOR TOPIC—What a Rich Man Needed.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Proving Our Loyalty to Christ by Service.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Marks of Discipleship.

"The almighty dollar"—how triumphantly it rules in the affairs of nations and of the men who make up nations. The world's measure of success is how much one can "make," and "no questions asked" as to how one made it, if he but avoid the legal pitfalls that may land him in jail. Even that is no longer a disgrace, for men who have defrauded others serve a term in jail to "pay their debt to society," and then return without shame to enjoy the use of their ill-gotten gains. Skill in the arts and sciences is rated according to its financial value. Brains and beauty are commodities of the market place. Liquor is permitted to destroy our people because it provides a profitable "business."

The minds of men and women of decency and intelligence revolt at the whole situation. Let us encourage them as we improve the opportunity today to present God's moral and spiritual standards.

I. Self Before God (vv. 17-22).

The rich young ruler had many advantages and virtues. He was young, life was before him, vivid was his imagination, strong was his body. He was educated, and developed intelligence is an honor to any man. He had position, which can always be used for good. He had money, which when rightly gained and used, is a powerful and honorable possession. Above all, he had the priceless jewel of good character. Notice that he had kept the commandments, that he came before the Lord in humility seeking truth, and that Jesus "loved him" (v. 21).

Almost any father would be proud to own this young man as a son. Many churches would welcome him to membership and even to leadership. Jesus dealt with him honestly, however, and went to the root of his difficulty which was that he loved himself and his possessions more than he loved God. Therefore he must give them up before he could really follow Jesus. Sad indeed was his refusal. He came running (v. 17), but he went away sorrowful (v. 22).

What stands between you and a full surrender to Christ? Face it honestly. Be thankful if your pastor or a friend frankly points it out. Shun those who would "pat you on the back" and assure you that all is well. A cancer will kill unless it is cut out. The surgeon's knife may hurt, but it is an instrument of good.

Note that the statement of Jesus in verse 18 is not a denial of His deity, but a definite claim that He is God. He says in effect, "If you call me good you must recognize that I am God."

II. God Before Self (vv. 21-27).

The disciples, who evidently shared the common opinion that money could do almost anything, were surprised to hear that riches were really a hindrance to spirituality, because (v. 24) of the tendency of men to trust in their wealth and forget their need of God.

Jesus does not leave the rich man without hope, for he goes on to say that what is impossible for men and even for the rich man himself is entirely possible with God. He is able so to move on the heart of even a rich man that he will yield himself in humble obedience to Christ and will put God and his cause above self and his possessions.

Two things need emphasis in this connection. First, let those of us who have little of this world's goods be thankful that we have, at least, been delivered from this temptation. It may well be an expression of God's love and grace toward us. Second, let us thank God for every man of wealth who has given himself and what he has into God's hands. Inestimable is the good that has been done by faithful stewards who have not trusted in their riches and denied God, but who have trusted God and consecrated their riches to His service. May their number increase.

III. The Last Before the First (vv. 28-31).

The ways of God are confusing and humbling to the flesh. The way up in spiritual things is to go down (Mark 9:35). Those who are first in the eyes of men are often last in God's sight. Others whom men count as least stand highest in God's sight because they are faithful and true to Him. The world looks at the missionary of the cross and says, "He has sacrificed everything," and knows nothing of the "hundredfold" reward even in this life, "and in the world to come, eternal life" (v. 30).

Let's Hear It

Teacher (to Bert, who has come in late)—You should have been here at nine o'clock.

Bert—Why, what happened?

It takes two to make a success of marriage, but only one to say: "Put it on the bill."

Breaking It Gently

"Granny, you promised me a quarter if I was good at the party."

"Yes, Willie."

"Well, you've saved a quarter."

Simply Marvelous

Sherlock Holmes—Ah, my dear Watson. You have on your summer underwear.

Watson—Holmes, how did you deduce that?

Holmes—You've forgotten to put on your trousers.

How to Make a Good Living From Five Acres of Land

Security is assured and even comfort and luxury may come to the family that owns and wisely operates a small farm. Not only can such a place supply the food requirements of the family, but it may produce abundance to sell, often at higher prices than those of the general market.

This is the subject covered in the new 369 page book entitled "FIVE ACRES," by M. G. Kains, which has proven so popular that it is now in its third printing.

It will be shipped to you postpaid on receipt of $2.50 by addressing Brandt Aymar, Dept. 16A, 400 Madison Avenue, New York City. —Adv.

Old and Young

As I approve of a youth that has something of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with an old man that has something of the youth. He that follows this rule may be old in body, but can never be so in mind.—Cicero.

The regular officers of Leign Chapter acted as assistants, escorting the officers to their seats. Then in a drill forming first a circle and then a triangle the Worthy Matron presented to Sister Lander a floral Medallion, each retiring officer presented a Medallion to the officer serving in her station. The Star point officers circled the various star point stations and with appropriate words presented the medallions to them.

Lula M. Scott, who instituted the Chapter in 1914, was presented and given Grand Honors. The regular business of the Chapter was transacted after the introduction and welcoming of all visitors.

Program of music by honor students at the recent Music Festival, Chas. Sherman, on the French Horn, Nancy Betts, on the saxophone and accompanied on the piano by Barbara Betts was much enjoyed. Also two numbers by the visiting Harperettes, "Voice of the Woods" and "Moonbeams" who belong in this District and District 14. The Worthy Matron expressed thanks to all visitors and particularly those filling stations for the evening.

Sister Scott gave an interesting talk, reminiscing of the "former days" when there were no conveniences of travel but the work grew and prospered. Gifts were presented to her and Sister Lander; also to Brothers Turner and Schenck.

A beautiful ceremony in memory of Charter members who have passed on this year, Sisters Charlotte Leigh and Ada Canfield was held. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.—(Contributed.)

Interesting Letter From R. B. Massey

An interesting letter has been received by the parents and family of Russell B. Massey who is in the U. S. Navy, serving aboard the U. S. S. Philadelphia, the ship that took President Roosevelt on his fishing cruise.

Young Massey says the president caught a number of fish and seemed to be a very fine man and always laughing about something. The president attended the movies on board nearly every night, a number of the latest being shown for him.

Walter Betts spoke briefly, urging the planting of Bauhinia trees to help beautify Avon Park. They are early blooming and very decorative but need care for the first six years. He estimatei the cost of planting and caring for 1,000 trees for six years at $1,100 and asked the Rotary Club to sponsor the movement. It was referred to the directors who will discuss the matter at their meeting Monday and report back to the club next Wednesday.

Visitors Wednesday were: A. J. Palmissano and Col. F. N. K. Bailey of Sebring, Leon Keaton of Lakeland, Alexander Blair of Westfield, N. J. and Louis Ziegler of Winter Haven.

No Episcopal Camp This Year; Better Buildings Next Year

There will be no Episcopal camp this year. This was the decision arrived at on Thursday last week by the permanent camp committee when they met at the Diocese Convention at West Palm Beach. As it is too late to start building operations for a camp this summer the financial committee will recess till the fall, when they will try and raise the balance of the $17,000 necessary. They have $11,000 on hand at present.

The money on hand is sufficient for the camp on Trout Lake as planned at first but with the additional funds improved types of buildings will be erected. They will be of more substantial construction and more pleasing appearance and everything will be in readiness for a first class camp on the Avon Park site next year.

The camp committee consists of Fr. Louttit of West Palm Beach, chairman, Fr. Moses, Lakeland, Fr. Bram, Sanford, W. E. Tylander, Ft. Pierce, A. E. Booth, Cocoa and Morton Nacc of Tampa.

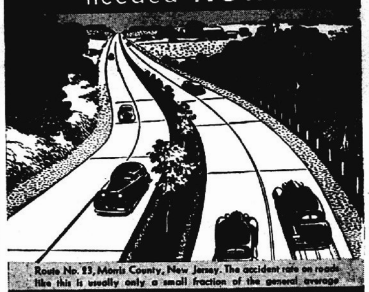
"Tomorrow's" Highways needed NOW!



Route No. 23, Morris County, New Jersey. The accident rate on roads like this is usually only a small fraction of the general average

. . . Build them with safe, money-saving CONCRETE

THINK what broad "double-track" highways like this, between principal population areas, would mean to this state.

You may think of such roads as being for a future generation. The fact is, they are urgently needed NOW, not merely to reduce congestion and driving time and permit continued development of this state—not only to reduce accidents and save lives—but to save money!

If properly designed and built of concrete, divided highways like this will pay for themselves through reduced maintenance, saving in time and cost of travel, deaths and injuries prevented, progress insured.

And remember, concrete provides an even, dependable surface, sure traction rain or shine, utmost visibility at night—qualities vital to the protection of you and your family while on the road.

A super highway of concrete is needed on Route 19 to develop the scenic highway section.

Concrete IS THE REAL LOW-COST ROAD

A Beauty Bath that Insures Daintiness

Naturally, the place to turn to for a tip on the perfect beauty bath is Hollywood. Contrary to what some people think, screen stars work very hard, and they must look their best all the time. For their beauty baths, they use a soap with ACTIVE lather that's most refreshing—and has the added advantage of insuring daintiness.

Fill your tub full of warm water (body temperature is the ideal). Get into it and relax for a minute or two. Then reach over for a nice fresh cake of the screen stars' soap. Cover yourself all over with its rich, ACTIVE lather. This ACTIVE lather rids the pores of stale perspiration, every trace of dust and dirt. Wring out your washcloth in cool water and pat it on yourself—especially your chest and back. A good brisk rub with a Turkish towel, and you'll feel alive and refreshed—even after a hard day's work.

This beauty bath is a wonderful substitute for a beauty nap—what's more, it makes you sure you're dainty—leaves a delicate, clinging fragrance you'll love.

Dorothy Lamour, whom you see below as she looks in her own bathroom, tells you: "Daintiness is a charm that always wins. Don't risk offending against it. Lux Toilet Soap's ACTIVE lather leaves skin really sweet—delicately fragrant. It's the best way I know to insure daintiness."

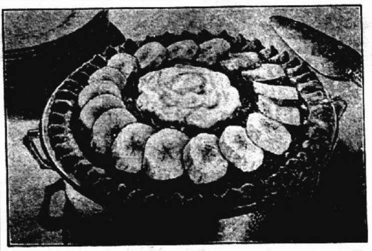
DOROTHY LAMOUR—Paramount Star

The Screen Stars' Complexion Care

Like 9 out of 10 other lovely screen stars, Dorothy Lamour guards against Cosmetic Skin with this inexpensive soap. Its ACTIVE lather prevents pore choking from dust, dirt and stale cosmetics. Pores choked in this way cause the dullness, tiny blemishes, enlarged pores that mean Cosmetic Skin. Screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap because they know they can't afford to risk this modern complexion trouble. And neither can any other

Don't Miss It

And the Bananas Go 'Round and 'Round!



Bananas round out the dessert and make a masterpiece of pie! The brown beauty pictured here is a deep dish affair guaranteed to fill the family vacuum to perfection. Read how to make it, below!

"MUSA SAPIENTUM"—fruit of the wise man—is what botanists named the banana. Alexander the Great is supposed to have been one of the first to sing the praises of the banana. Wise men, ever since, have been choosing bananas—because they look good, taste good, do you good and are always available at budget-balancing prices, the year 'round.

Now it's pie that bananas make still better. Not content with gracing almost every dish on the menu from the breakfast cereal to dinner's frozen dessert, bananas have found themselves at home in salads, sandwiches, cakes, desserts, milk shakes, breads—and even in meat loaves and served cooked, as a vegetable!

Banana Cream Pie

1½ cups milk	1 9-inch pie shell (baked pastry, corn flake or graham cracker)
½ cup sugar	4 bananas
¼ teasp salt	Whipped cream or meringue
4 tbsps. flour
1 egg yolk
1 tbsp butter
¼ teasp. vanilla extract or ½ teasp lemon extract

Scald one cup of the milk over hot water. Mix together the sugar, salt and flour. Add ½ cup of cold milk slowly, stirring until mixture is smooth. Stir into hot milk. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Cover and let cook for about three minutes. Stir a little of the hot milk mixture into the egg yolk, and add this to the hot mixture. Cook one minute longer. Add butter and flavoring. Allow mixture to cool. Fill pie shell with alternate layers of sliced bananas and cooled filling. Top with whipped cream or meringue. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Meringue

2 large or 3 small egg whites	¼ cup sugar Flavoring

Beat egg whites until stiff, then add sugar gradually while continuing to beat. Add a few drops of flavoring. Spread over top of pie and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 10 to 15 minutes or until meringue is delicately browned. Covers one 9-inch pie.

Banana Chocolate Cream Pie

To make the chocolate banana pie shown in illustration, use your favorite pastry to line a deep dish. Fill with a layer of sliced bananas, pour on chocolate filling, and garnish with banana slices and whipped cream, as shown.

FREEZER MUST BE COLDER THAN ICE TO MAKE ICE CUBES

The expression "cold as ice" is taking on a new significance now that the general public is becoming acquainted with more of the mechanical facts of electrical refrigeration. They now realize that something as cold as ice won't of itself freeze ice cubes. To freeze ice cubes requires something that is colder than ice itself, according to local representatives of Frigidaire, the General Motors electrical refrigerator.

In an effort to clarify further the fact that some refrigerators can make ice cubes more rapidly than others and just why this is so, Frigidaire has supplied its various dealers with an instrument known as a thermo-gauge. This device, which is a regular part of what the company terms a proof display, shows exactly, in figures understandable to the layman, the temperature of the freezing unit that makes the ice cubes in Frigidaire.

"Of course, it is known that, technically speaking," stated a Frigidaire representative, "anything that is colder than 32 degrees, will, in time, freeze water. But where such time is a factor, and ice must be had quickly, the colder the source of freezing power, the sooner ice cubes will be ready. However, when temperatures reach the freezing point and below, the human hand is a poor instrument for judging the degree of cold in a freezer. The real proof of Frigidaire's fast freezing ability is given to the public by means of the thermo-gauge, an accurate instrument, which shows to the fraction of a degree, the exact temperature prevailing in the freezing trays.

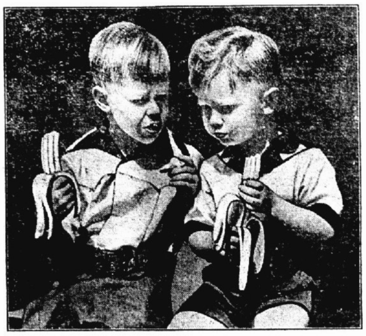
"Thus it can be easily understood that when temperatures are as low as 15 degrees or 10 degrees or 5 degrees above zero, the freezing will be much more rapid than the usual temperatures of 20 to 25 degrees above. The thermo-gauge proves Frigidaire can provide the lower temperatures whenever needed.

"Of course these thermo-gauges do not accompany the Frigidaires into homes of purchasers, because there each Frigidaire tells its own story by reason of its own performance. But by making use of the thermo-gauge, it no longer is necessary for anyone to take for granted before purchasing, the fast freezing ability of any Frigidaire. The thermo-gauge gives the proof in a simple, understandable way."

England's Ancient Royal Coach

The gilded coach in which the king and queen of England ride on state occasions was designed in 1762 and has served five British monarchs in its 173 years.

Now Get This Straight, Bill!



"What this country needs"—according to this emphatic young citizen who emulates his father in discussing the economic situation—"is plenty of ripe bananas!" Bill, the listener, seems to be taking it in between big bites of the mellow fruit. A rugged individualist, he agrees a fellow likes to peel his own.

WHEN your Junior or Jane takes time out to eat his favorite fruit, that's one time you need not worry. Bananas—the fully ripe ones with the brown flecks on the peel—are "good as gold" for the children and thoroughly digestible. The famous Dionne quintuplets were fed mashed ripe bananas before they were a year old. Doctors advise giving babies thoroughly ripe bananas as one of their first solid foods; the bananas are mashed, strained, whipped into milk or fed with a spoon.

Bananas contain four valuable vitamins—A, B, C and G. They are rich in minerals, natural fruit sugars, and they have an alkaline and slightly laxative reaction in the body. Combined with milk, bananas make an almost perfectly balanced meal. Besides, they taste so good and are just right for small hands to hold because they come in nature's own germ-proof package, which makes the best of all possible "handles" for eating the delicious fruit.

Many Affected by Day Blindness

Persons who are afflicted with day blindness, the inability to see as well in daylight as in darkness, are far more numerous than those who suffer from night blindness, the inability to see after nightfall except under a strong artificial light.—Collier's Weekly.

Advice on Shopping

When you go "to market, to market" to choose your groceries, be sure you know how to buy your bananas. Here's the latest advice from marketing experts:

Buy bananas just as you find them in the store. Many prefer to buy bananas by the "hand" or cluster. Keep your bananas in the fruit bowl or basket (they make a charming decoration) and allow them to ripen at comfortable room temperature, do not put in a refrigerator. Cut off each "finger" or separate banana as needed, using a sharp knife, so as not to tear open the germ-proof peel.

When the banana is yellow with a slightly green tip it is partially ripe. Use it for cooking, at this stage of ripeness. Bake, broil or fry the partially ripe banana, to serve as a vegetable.

When the green has entirely disappeared from the tip, the all-yellow banana is excellent for cooking as a vegetable and for use in pies, cakes, puddings, and breads.

When the yellow peel is flecked with brown, the banana is fully ripe and at its best for immediate eating as a sweet fruit.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR COOKING SCHOOL

Home-Makers to be Welcomed at Park Theatre Three Days Starting Monday, May 16. Free Admission.

Lock the doors and come to town:

The Avon Park Times Motion Picture Cooking School entitled "Star in My Kitchen" will be the real community attraction for three days at the Park Theater starting Monday, May 16.

This fascinating and different cooking school is open entirely free to every woman in town, and the Avon Park Times as well as Avon Park merchants extend this last invitation to join in the home-making lessons and jolly entertainment for at least one day.

The Motion Picture Cooking School will be a practical rally of home-makers to contribute fresh perspective for the "same old job, the monotonous day-in-and-day-out job, yet the most important business in the world. Just as men have their annual conventions, where they listen to lectures from specialists, local women will have their convention to consider home-making problems.

Just as fresh inspiration for the old job is one of the by-products of the familiar cooking school, which presents a lecturer in a model kitchen, so are new ideas and keen incentive born in the film class for home-makers, with its novel approch and modern setting.

No "false-front" camera-beautiful kitchens satisfied these specialists. They insisted on working in complete, compact, modern kitchens, which actually reflect more sciientific inguenuity and careful planning than any living room.

Recognizing the demands of home experts, the producers of "Star in My Kitchen" signed all-star kitchens, with an all-star cast adding a continual procession of close-ups, so that every seat in the Park Theatre is a good seat for this amazingly pictured home-making course.

Everyday happenings have been dramatized in the plot of "Star in My Kitchen." Behind the sparkling humor and suspense that are so necessary to screen stories was a deliberate plan — an ambitious determination to carry instruction,

Additional Savings Possible with Newly Designed Refrigerators

The fundamental purpose behind the purchase of a home refrigerator is to save money, and these savings of course are represented by the money which is paid for food which, without the refrigerator, would spoil and be lost. But the science of refrigerator building has, in some quarters, progressed to the point where, as between different types and kinds of refrigerators, other savings are now available, according to the local dealers for Frigidaire refrigerators.

"In the earlier days of mechanical refrigeration," stated one spokesman, "it seemed sufficient if the refrigerator would work satisfactorily, and produce a reasonable amount of cold, with some ice cubes for special occasions. Cost of operation, upkeep, and the outright conveniences were not prime factors at that time. Relief from older methods of refrigeration seemed blessing enough.

"But the buyer of today can, if he will, obtain a great deal more for his money. In fact, so efficient have some refrigerators become, that in reality the buyer loses money if he is satisfied with anything less.

"Frigidaire recognized long ago that there were four basic channels through which improvement in refrigerators could progress. These were greater savings in food, in ice, in operating cost, and in upkeep. But it recognised also that advancement in these fields must be collective, if any of them were to mean anything. In other words, greater savings in food would mean nothing if operating costs had to be increased to accomplish such savings. In the same manner, lower operating costs were no advantage if, to keep such costs low, temperatures were allowed to increase, or ice freezing were restricted. Likewise if savings are effected in two or three items, and then lost on excessive upkeep, the buyer gains nothing. He should save in all four ways, or he may not save at all.

"It is this collective theory of definite advancement in all four items at the same time that Frigidaire has followed, and which has resulted in the production of the 1938 models, all of which are equipped with the new silent meter-miser, the refrigerating unit which has played a very important part in accomplishing this feat."

Lakeland Man Is State Bar Head

Hollywood, May 12 (FNS)—Ed R. Bentley of Lakeland was elected president of the Florida State Bar Association at the close of its convention at Hollywood Beach Hotel here last week.

The executive committee was authorized to employ and appoint a secretary to succeed Bentley, who has held that post for the past nine years.

Speakers at the session were W. F. Himes of Tampa, who discussed new federal rules of civil procedure giving trial judges greater authority and L. B. Nichols of the Federal Bureau of Investigation who said that Florida led the nation in burglaries and ranked second among the states in the number of robberies, third in aggravated assaults, fifth in homicides and larceny and twenty-third in auto thefts.

J. B. Hodges Died Of Heart Attack

Lake City, May 12 (FNS) — Stricken with a heart attack, Chairman J .B. Hodges of the State Democratic Executive Committee died at his desk here Sunday night.

Hodges was the center of a storm of controversy last winter when he became a critic of certain Roosevelt polices and an effort was made to oust him from the state chairmanship last January, without success.

Born in Georgia, Hodges came to Lake City at the age of 15. He was admitted to the bar in 1904 and was recognized as one of Florida's ablest lawyers.

Chairman of the State Democratic Committee for six years, Hodges stated it was the only political honor he desired .He announced shortly before his death that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the chairmanship.

May Liberalize The Social Security Law

Jacksonville, May 12 (FNS) — The National Social Security Law may be liberalized as a result of the recent Florida senatorial campaign, it was pointed out here today by Clayton C. Codrington, state welfare commissioner.

Four amendments to the Act were offered, two by Representative Wilcox and three by Senator Pepper.

One of the amendments was sponsored by both of the lawgivers, although introduced separately. It would increase the maximum individual grant for Old Age Assistance from $30 per month to $50 per month in such states as find matching funds.

Present Florida appropriations will match but half of the available $30.

Senator Pepper offered two other amendments. One would provide for the matching of state fund for Aid to Dependent Children dollar for dollar, instead of one dollar for two. The other would create a new public assistance category and provide public assistance for the permanently disabled.

Representative Wilcox is father to an amendment which would strike out of the existing law the provision that if states should collect from the estates of Old Age Assistance recipients that half of the amount so collected should be returned to the Federal government. There is no lien clause in the Federal law, Codrington pointed out.

All of the amendments have been referred to committees and if adopted by Congress and approved by the President will make large sums available for public assistance in those states that are able to meet Uncle Sam half way.

Large Tarpon is Caught At Ft. Myers

Ft. Myers, May 12 (FNS)—W. Sahby Jones, acknowledged king of tarpon fishermen, set a mark for anglers here this week when he brought in a silver king weighing 113 pounds.

Larger fish have been caught this season, but this is the first of this size officially entered in the tournament sponsored by the Ft. Myers Anglers Club.

Tarpon are beginning to run in goodly numbers and west coast Florida communities are prepared for the greatest season, expecting to entertain sportsmen from all over the country.

SCENES FROM "STAR IN MY KITCHEN" THE COOKING SCHOOL MOTION PICTURE

Meet Richard Denning who plays the part of Michael Anders, the young movie star, in "Star in My Kitchen," the Motion Picture Cooking School to be conducted by this newspaper. Richard is one of the coming young stars of Hollywood, and when you see the cooking school picture you will soon realize why one of the major studios recently placed him under a long term contract.

The whole family is assembled at the surprise birthday dinner which Dedee Abot prepares for Mike Anders in "Star in My Kitchen." These people will provide many interesting moments for the visitors at our cooking school.

Mary Lou Lender, who plays the part of Dedee Abot in "Star in My Kitchen," is headed for the heights of stardom in Hollywood. She is as lovely and sweet as her photograph indicates, and has just finished an important part with one of Hollywood's famous male stars in a picture not yet released.

Dedee Abot learns many interesting cookery tricks from Auntie Bella, the humorous colored maid who presides over Mike Anders' kitchen in "Star in My Kitchen."

Phoebe Abernethy is showing Dedee Abot, in "Star in My Kitchen," how a lemon meringue pie should look. Every woman who sees this entertaining and instructive picture will be interested in this, as well as the many other cookery demonstrations.

Nature Beats Tampa Postmaster To The Punch With Rain

Tampa, May 12 (FNS)— Just when Postmaster Wall was preparing the experiment with dynamite blasts as a means of bringing rain to this section of the state, Mother Nature beat him to the punch and gave Tampa and Hillsborough county a good drenching that left a record of 1.27 inches at the local weather bureau. It was the first rain in 50 days and is estimated to be worth a million dollars to farmers and growers of this county.

Long interested in weather problems, Edgar Wall attracted national attention on one occasion when he advocated that the navy send several battleships to the Caribbean to bombard approaching storms, contending that such bombardment would serve to break them up and prevent destructive hurricanes.

He also has presented similar theories based on the idea that rain can be produced during the draught periods by the use of heavy dynamite blasts. Each time, however, that he prepares to test the idea, Nature breaks down and provides a natural rain. Perhaps all that is necessary is to simply get Mr. Wall to make plans, and if this is so, the lower east coast would probably receive him with open arms at this time.

Registration is not necessary for voters who were properly registered in the first primary, however, those who failed to register before the books were closed cannot participate in the second primary.

Some "Swell" Sandwiches

"Swell" is slang but it's the word the family applies to sandwich fillings brightened with bananas. Try bananas with your favorite sandwich filling: butter a slice of bread, cover with banana slices. Spread your second slice of bread with chosen filling and put sandwich together. Recommended combinations: deviled ham and banana slices; cream cheese and jam with banana slices; peanut butter and banana slices; salmon or tunafish combined with celery and diced bananas, mixed together with mayonnaise.

That's why every home-maker will welcome this easy new recipe at the right. For you can mix, let rise, shape and bake your rolls in two and one-half hours! And they're just as light, just as tender, just as delicate in flavor as when made by the old-fashioned method.

Mix up a batch tomorrow morning and let it rise while you're working around the house. The recipe is so simple that your rolls will be a success the first time you try them! At lunch time they'll be in tempting, golden rows, fit for a king. Once your family tastes these Clover Leaf Rolls, they won't let you rest till more appear. But with this easy new way of making, you won't mind in the least.

CLOVER LEAF ROLLS

2 compressed yeast cakes
¾ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon sugar
3 tablespoons Spry
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ cup boiling water
1 cup milk
5½ cups sifted all-purpose flour (about)

Crumble yeast into small bowl or cup. Add lukewarm water and sugar and set in warm place until it becomes light and spongy (about 15 minutes). Combine Spry, salt, and sugar in large bowl and add boiling water. Stir until Spry is melted, then add milk. Add yeast mixture and mix. Add flour gradually, mixing very thoroughly, until a stiff dough is formed.

Place in large bowl greased with Spry, brush top of dough with Spry, cover, and let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 45 minutes). Grease hands thoroughly with Spry, take a small portion of dough, and squeeze between thumb and forefinger into small balls. Place three balls in each cup of muffin pans greased with Spry. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 40 minutes). Bake in very hot oven (450°F.) 15 minutes. See what light, tender, fine-grained rolls Spry makes. Whole process, including baking, requires about 2½ hours. Makes 2½ dozen.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)

inspiration, and worthwhile home news to women in every community.

The camera took its time and it took its close-ups, so that every person in the Park Theater will have a "large as life, and twice as natural" view of each operation. There will be no "orchestra circle" at this entertainment, since the back row guests of The Avon Park Times will have an equal chance to peer into the busy mixing bowl, watching the deft steps of measuring, creaming, sifting, and thorough mixing, not overlooking the final work of baking, roasting, French-frying, or freezing.

For this is no half-hearted demonstration. Each delicious dish will be completed and shown with such realism that there are sure to be hungry "ohs" and "ahs" from the audience. If any stray husbands get into the theater, they are certain to ask, "When do we eat?"

Keeping up-to-the-minute on fresh discoveries to ease the home manager's burdens, is one of the jobs of the household specialists who supervised the demonstrations in this profitable cooking school. Because they have devoted years of training and study to home problems, these capable experts know how to help other housekeepers to run their homes more smoothly, interestingly and economically. Under the glow of of their enthusism and creative skill, a well-cooked meal becomes elevated from "just a job" to an artistic achievement, requiring skill and imagination.

Not only does this picture show new dishes, styles, and interesting ways to serve everyday meals and party feasts, but it demonstrates how to make intelligent use of the ingenious mechanical servants that take the guess work out of house work.

What about recipes? Naturally every guest of The Avon Park Times will want to test these tantalizing cures for menu monotony. Free recipe sheets will be distributed daily. And other things will be given away—valuable gifts that will find long and useful life in many a home.

Guests at the school will want to meet and remember the friendly local firms and nationally-known products that are helping the Avon Park Times in this community undertaking.

Does your house run you? If so, why not accept the Avon Park Times' invitation to join the neighborly cooking school party, starting Monday, May 16 at 3:15 p. m. in the Park Theater.

Remember the dates and opening hour: Monday, 3:15 p. m.; Tues, day, 3:15 p. m.; Wednesday, 3:15 p. m.

New Salad Dressing

The plainest salad will take on added eye and flavor appeal if you serve it with that new salad dressing: Mash half of a ripe banana. Fold mashed banana into one-third cup of whipping cream, whipped. Add a third cup mayonnaise and three-fourths teaspoon salt, mix well and serve. Delicious!

Now They'll Drink Milk!

Children cheer the necessary glass of milk when it's in a "shake" made with bananas. To make this "regular soda fountain special" at home, just slice a fully ripe banana (yellow peel flecked with brown) into a bowl and beat with a rotary egg beater until creamy (or press banana through a medium wire mesh strainer with a spoon). Add a cup of cold milk and mix until creamy. Serve very cold.
