Improved Sunday School LESSON

GOD'S CARE OF HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 23.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.—Psalm 23.

Confidence, contentment, assurance, safety, security—all words expressing the deep desires of the human heart—fittingly characterize the blessed and beautiful Shepherd Psalm which is our lesson text Sunday.

Here the soul meets God in the promise of provision for every need, deliverance from every danger, the assurance of both present and ultimate blessing. It has become the best known of all psalms and perhaps the favorite scripture of most Christians.

Familiarity may cause us to miss the blessing of such a scripture passage. To help us to make a fresh approach to this Twenty-third Psalm, let us follow the suggestion of Dr. W. E. Barnes and think of it as describing the journey of life. We find that we may go forth

I. In the Care of a Sure Guide (vv. 1, 2).
Nothing is more important to traveling an unfamiliar land than to have a competent guide. The journey of life is a pilgrimage through a land unknown to us, with its many pleasant places, but also its howling wildernesses, its pitfalls and its enemies in ambush.

"The Lord is my shepherd." If I am in His flock He will guide me, care for me and give me the joy of green pastures and still waters. The expression "maketh me to lie down" (v. 2) is worthy of special comment; that all too often we become too busy or too important to take the rest we should have, and the Good Shepherd has to "bend the knee" of the sheep and make him lie down, sometimes even by the force of sickness, or of trying circumstances. Why do we make it necessary for our Shepherd to thus deal with us?

II. With Every Need Provided (vv. 3, 5).
We are a needy people, constantly dependent on the loving provision of our God. Dr. J. H. Jowett says that man has three enemies: (1) The sin of yesterday, from which he can not get away; (2) the temptation of today, made more powerful by the pressure of the ever and insidious seducer, Satan; and (3) the fear of death which awaits him tomorrow.

Good Shepherd, wilt Thou meet these mine enemies for me? "Yes," comes His answer through the psalmist.

For the sin of yesterday there is the restoring of the soul. Everywhere the power of God is evident, restoring that which has been destroyed or broken down, healing the wound; but nowhere is it more evident or blessed than in His restorative ministries to the soul. He cleanses from sin, gives peace through His Word, joy through a hymn or a bit of poetry, comfort in the fellowship of a friend.

For today—"He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake." The world offers many by-paths, and makes them seem to be the right way, but my heavenly Guide will lead me in the way of righteousness. This He does, not because of any merit in me, but for His own dear name's sake—for "the praise of the glory of his grace" (Eph. 1:6). That cares for the need of today.

But tomorrow, or on some tomorrow, I must go the way of all flesh and (unless Jesus comes) I must "walk through the valley of the shadow of death." Even there I need "fear no evil." The Good Shepherd is as much with me in the dark and swelling waters of that valley as He was with me "beside the still waters." Little wonder that this psalm has been the comfort of tens of thousands of believers in Christ as they have passed through that valley. Why will anyone do without this Christ, who is the Good Shepherd (John 10:11)?

Every need finds its full satisfaction; enemies are discomfited, the oil of gladness anoints our heads, and our cups run over as we go on III. To a Destination Certain and Blessed (v. 6).
Not all who set out upon a journey reach their goal, but the Lord has never lost one of those entrusted to His care (John 17:12). Goodness and mercy through all the days of our lives would lead only to ultimate disappointment if they did not bring us to the Father's house.

In that house there are "many mansions" or abiding places (John 14:2) prepared for us by our Lord. We know we shall come to that blessed habitation and getting up at night when you feel tired, nervous, all spent... use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly working kidneys. Legislators and commercial fishermen put their heads together at Titusville last week in an effort to iron out some of the vexing problems of the industry and at the same time create a spirit of understanding and good will all the way round.

Governor-elect H. B. McCall and a representative group of legislators attended and the meeting should prove of untold benefit for it was harmonious and did much to acquaint the legislators with the fishermen's problems. It will undoubtedly make for helpful and constructive legislation at the coming session.

Titusville proved itself a royal host and entertained the visiting groups with a delightful luncheon sponsored by local civic clubs. Using the meeting as an excuse, a trip to the East Coast. I took the family along and we ran on up to Haulover Canal late in the evening for a session with the salt water trout that perform for both the sport and commercial fishermen in the headwaters of the Indian River.

We were not disappointed, for the finny beauties were there, eager to strike at the artificial minnows we cast them. The wife, swishin' a mean castin' rod caught both the most and the biggest, to leave me lookin' like an amateur. But the truth of the matter is I was kept so busy runnin' the kicker, paddlin' the boat and takin' the fish off her hook, I didn't have much chance to fish myself. And still wives wonder why we don't take em along oftenier.

You know a lot of folks have the crazy idea that a "vacation" is something you have to travel several thousand miles to take. We pile our cars full of baggage and drive four or five hundred miles to get to some seashore in a hurry and waste a lot of time and money chasing rainbows when we could have a heap better time with little effort and a less expensive right here in Florida, just takin' our time and pokin' around in our own backyard.

After a couple hours of real fishin' we drove on up to Daytona Beach, went for a dip in the surf and then after supper took a turn on the boardwalk where there is entertainment of every kind and character from howling to hollering.

The next morning after a spin on the famous beach and to look around town we headed north on the Ocean Highway for Macclure and a visit to Marine Studios. Although I have visited this unique attraction a number of times, it is always a new experience and I never tire of watching the graceful antics of the porpoise and the busy activity of the amazing variety of marine life inhabiting the gigantic tank.

Journeing on to St. Augustine, we stopped at the Ancient City's famed Alligator and Otter Park and if you've never seen it, believe me it is a sight you'll long remember. There are literally acres and acres ofigators as well as reptiles and birds to fascinate and entertain you for hours.

Next visited Old Fort Marion with its most, parapets and dungeons, then went over to the Castillo de San Marcos for a dip in the moat and a peep at the Indian Burial Ground and other amazing records of an earlier day found so abundantly in this historic city.

Leaving St. Augustine, we drove to Ocala and Silver Springs where I was anxious to take advantage of the famous springs. I was in for some time on a trip in the new diving bell designed by Max Noh. I want to tell you it is a real experience and one that you should not miss.

The trip in the diving bell was a real experience and one that you should not miss. The trip in the diving bell was a real experience and one that you should not miss.

Spending the night and all the next day at the Springs, we took a cruise on the "Queen of the Bottom Boat Trip," the Photo Sub, the Jungle Cruise, Ross Allen's Reptilehouse, the Indian Village and then for a swim before returning to our cool rooming house at Silver Springs Court for a snooze.

And we accomplished all this in three days right here in Florida and some folks travel thousands of miles to see and do much less. See Florida FIRST!

Commissioner Bell Acquitted On Two Charges in One Day

County Commissioner W. W. Bell was twice acquitted by two different juries in court last Wednesday on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

The two cases were the result of agitation started soon after Mr. Bell was defeated in the spring primary for re-election.

The two trials lasted all day Wednesday. In the first case, estimated, of approximately $500. In neither case did it take the jury more than ten minutes to bring in their verdict.

In the first case tried in the morning, the state produced two witnesses and the defense only one, the defendant.

The case in the afternoon was a good show, with both the defense and the state producing several witnesses.

Joe D. Kinsey represented the defense and county attorney M. R. McDonald represented the state. Mr. McDonald, during the latter part of the trial, with the consent of the court, asked the jury to return a verdict of acquittal.

County Judge T. A. McNichols, who had taken Mr. Bell's driver's license away from him, was informed the defendant after the trial that his license would be returned to him.

HARDEE GIVES STATEMENT ON NATIONAL RACE

Former Governor Will Help Organize Independent Democrats in State

Former Gov. Cary A. Hardee, in a public statement further endorsing his position in the forthcoming presidential campaign, said at Live Oak Sunday that "I have determined to give some of my time and very best efforts to the organization in Florida of Democrats who place patriotism, love of country, and the future safety and freedom of their children above leaders, who by their own actions and statements, have shown that they seek to use the party label for the purpose of perpetuating themselves in office at the expense of free democratic institutions."

The former chief executive of Florida, in his declaration, said: "Shortly after the adjournment of the Democratic National Convention Chicago I met a number of people of this state would not be fooled into believing that President Roosevelt had been drafted by the Chicago meeting and otherwise than, as the details of the convention have been brought to light, it has become more obvious from day to day that Franklin D. Roosevelt, with the aid of pie-cout politicians surrounding him, signed the draft for his nomination at the Chicago meeting."

"The nomination of President Roosevelt was not the free choice of an untrammelled democracy, but the result of a combination of executive and administrative pressure exerted for the purpose of eliminating every other possible presidential candidate and thereby continuing himself and such men who have no political convictions such as J. Edgar Hoover, Perkins, Wallace, Clegg, and others, in the vital controls of the destinies of the American people."

"To assume that the presidential nomination was a free one is as absurd as to assume that the selection of the Republican Wallace was the free and untrammelled choice of the Democratic convention."

"I called attention to the peril inherent in violating the unwritten law of this Republic established by the unbroken custom and usage of 150 years and sanctioned by the example of the greatest and wisest of those who have founded and maintained our government."

"I have previously stated, and now reaffirm that the disloyalty of those persons operating under the flag of the Democratic Party, to the party and to the nation, does not require any true Democrat to support them in the November election."

"Defeat and since making my statement I have received hundreds of letters, telegrams and messages from Democrats in every section of the United States, who, by their sentiments, repudiating such schemes and expressing fear that our free institutions are in peril."

"At the request of such life long Democrats whose loyalty to the Democratic Party can neither be doubted nor questioned, I have determined to give some of my time and very best efforts to the organization in Florida of Democrats who place patriotism, love of country, and the future safety and freedom of their children above the blind following of false leaders—leaders who by their own actions and statements have shown that they seek to use the party label for the purpose of perpetuating themselves in office at the expense of free democratic institutions."

"With a full sense of the responsibilities involved, and in order to bring together men and women of like faith, I hereby urge the Democrats of this state who subscribe to the same principles, to wire, write or call me at my office at Live Oak, so that we may together unite upon a plan for the preservation of our Democratic Party and our constitutional liberties."

"The cause is real, but the cause is great."

NEWS AND VIEWS ON ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

The pattern of Hitler's projected world revolution steadily becomes clearer. It is apparent to us now that this is not a war in the traditional sense, in which Germany, if she wins, will be satisfied with reparations and economic power. What the Nazis obviously intend despite their occasional protestations to the contrary is the complete and final destruction of the British Empire, which for hundreds of years has held the balance of power in Europe and a large part of the rest of the world. And following that, if the Führer's astonishingly frank Mein Kampf is to be believed, the rest of the democracies will be similarly treated. Nowaday's the only democracies left, save England, are the American Republics and the United States Republics, only the United States possesses sufficient wealth, resources and potential armed strength to be a match for the aims of National Socialism.

Men who were once close to Hitler have been describing what went on behind the scenes and the glittering facade of the man never seen crumbles away. They say that Hitler has no intention of launching an immediate military attack upon the United States and the New World. If he did, he would be courting disaster—the tactical obstacles in the way are gigantic, no matter how great his military and naval power. And Hitler and his high-ranking advisers seem to feel that the U. S. can be conquered simply and easily. First planned step, according to the reports, is to court U. S. good will, by offering us favorable economic conditions. This is designed to lessen our suspicions, and to create public opposition to spending more billions for national defense. At the same time, the Nazis, as quietly as possible, will carry on their economic penetration into Latin America. Next technique will be to undermine work to create dissension within this country to set up against group, race against race, class against class, and thus to make genuine national unity impossible. Nazi propaganda chief Goebbels and Nazi philosopher Rosenberg, judging by their speeches and actions, seem to believe that this can be done with little trouble. They have said time and again that the U. S. is ripe for revolution, and only a competent leadership is needed to bring it about when the times come.

Finally, if it becomes necessary, Hitler's great armed forces will take over depending largely upon internal unrest and disunity to make the job of his soldiers and sailors and army conscripts easy.

It seems to me that it is to be the Nazi plan, and Hitler realizes that if he is to achieve a world revolution unprecedented in history, he must have allies. It must be admitted that he has far been extremely successful in getting them. It was said for years that the National Socialists were a cropper when it ran into its old arch foe, communism. But today German-Russian relations are apparently of the best.

Soviet spokesmen have been denouncing the U. S. and England and praising the Reich Italy was a world war ally today as Hitler's partner, and Fascist authorities have been extremely outspoken concerning Axis plans for dismembering England and giving the U. S. a dose of harsh economic medicine. Last, Japan—a world ally—seems to have gone Axis-ward when it was the great enemy of the Axis. The new government is pro-Fascist, and 100 per cent anti-Democratic. English rights in the Far East are being ruthlessly abrogated, and giving the U. S. a dose of harsh economic medicine. According to Nipponese spokesmen, Japan will pursue her "Asia for Asiatics" policy, a policy which is as brutal and imperialistic as any in history, whether we like it or not. U. S. protests will not be seriously considered. And not the Japanese sword-wavers, the Land of the Rising Sun will go to war against the United States. So far as Europe is concerned, Japan is solidly in favor of German-Italian plans and actions.

American naval authorities have lately said that our navy could destroy the Japanese fleet in a few weeks in open warfare. But, if we went to war in the Pacific, the Axis would be wide open to the attack. And we would be in no position to adequately fight Nazi-Fascist economic aggression south of the Rio Grande. The explanation is that most authorities believe we will do little even if Japan does seize India-China, property of traitor-ruled Germany, and the Dutch Indies.

Moral pressure is about all we can afford to use right now and moral pressure gets few results in the world. U. S. protests will not be seriously considered. And not the Japanese sword-wavers, the Land of the Rising Sun will go to war against the United States. So far as Europe is concerned, Japan is solidly in favor of German-Italian plans and actions.

"Limes and Lemons in Florida" New Agriculture Book

Jacksonville, August 15—It will almost take a summer's time to read "Limes and Lemons in Florida," a 56-page booklet published this week by the State Department of Agriculture. Attractively illustrated, it is the ninth in a series of agricultural bulletins compiled for the department by the WPA Writers' Project of Florida, said Roy Schroeder, state WPA administrator, and is the first collection of data ever printed on the subject of the state's booming lime and lemon industry.

A growing number of investors are turning to the production of these sour citrus fruits, and the booklet is designed primarily for their information. Indicating the possibilities of expansion in the industry, it states that Floridians spend more than $500,000 yearly on imported lemons, while only $100,000 worth are produced within the state. On the other hand, Florida grows about 85 per cent of the nation's crop.

The booklet describes extensively the life cycle of the lime and lemon from the grove to the squeezer, including discussion of plant diseases, propagation, cultivation, nursery trees, market prices, harvesting and related data. Florida's first lemon trees were brought here centuries ago by Spanish explorers, while the first limes, a Mexican variety, were planted on the Florida Keys in 1837 by Dr. Henry Per-

Copies of the booklet are distributed without cost. Requests should be addressed to the State Department of Agriculture, Tallahassee. The Writers' Project, which produced the booklet, is a part of the WPA Professional and Service Division, directed by Mrs. Rolla A. Southworth.
