

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

NEW YORK—This writer happened to be down in Elizabeth, Tenn., in 1928 when Edward F. McGraw was kidnapped from his hotel by the Army Labor Aid in the middle of a fair break to the night. Ownership, Labor put down in the wilderness and told to keep going. He was an A. F. of L. representative, organizing the rayon mill workers. He walked straight back to town, met his assailants, and explained to them there had been a mistake. Always dapper, smiling a very smile, he never so much as lost the crease in his trousers in this adventure. The vigilantes bought him a drink.

Nobody knew the trouble he'd seen, but he'd straightened out a lot of it, too, and now at 68, he becomes the special labor aide to the army as a labor consultant to Secretary Simms. He has held down many a winning bid of labor strife and, respected by ownership for wise counsel and fair dealing, he is equally respected by labor as a hard-hitting contender for his rights.

It was in September, 1937, that he was upped 53 stories to a mahogany and rono-metal office and a salary of $25,000 a year as director of labor relations for the Radio Corporation of America. His singular success as a labor conciliator during the preceding five years, while assistant secretary of labor, lay in keeping the friendship of both sides. But no one ever called him a yes man. He is hard-headed and tough-minded.

He was a newboy in one of the sleaziest of Boston slums. He became a newspaper pressman, and a union organizer. Samuel Gompers sent him to Washington, where he remained 14 years as the legislative agent of the A. F. of L.

His habits of speech, never bookish or turning to doubletalk, have had much to do with his success in clearing up what he calls "misunderstandings." In short, hard-bitten, but with a heart as big as the world, he has preached the responsibility of labor to co-operate and produce, as well as bargain, along with the responsibility of ownership to give the worker a fair break. He was assistant administrator of the N. R. A. under Gen. Hugh Johnson. In his new post, he serves without salary, having been partially relieved from his duties by President David Barsoff of the R. C. A.

PORTUGAL'S austere, ascetic little $250,000-a-year dictator, Dr. Antonio Oliveira Salazar, is the shrewdest man in the business, when he is not putting out peace feelers. One for Ripley—keeping out Dictator Disliking of had trouble Uniform, Oratory.

He is making a general showing of solvency and peace. Just now, reports from Europe are that he is putting out peace feelers. It is interesting if not important. He is an middle ground. With his co-actants, he has unveiled democracy, but his country has been for centuries more or less in British leading strings, and he is charged with none of the brutal excesses of the other Continental tyrannies. It was in May of last year that he made a sharp break with Italy and Germany and swung into the British orbit.

In 1928, when Gen. Antonio Carmona seized power, he surrounded the acidulous, little, bespectacled professor to take a hand in the government. Dr. Salazar said it would be all or nothing. With the understanding that England would continue its benign mandate over Portugal, he took over as premier.

He dislikes uniforms and never wore one, and dislikes arbitrary even more. He has made four short speeches in the last five years of his premiership. By cutting out all social reforms, and curtailing expenditures for public health and education, and by developing a guild system of his own devising, he has conserved resources and cut down the external debt. There is a disagreement as to what has happened to the internal debt. His critics say it has risen sharply and that real wages and the standard of living of his people have been lowered.

Right at the start of his regime, there were complaints from tourists that Portuguese hotels were infested with fleas. Dr. Salazar, a recluse with no fear of detection, tried out the hostilities and didn't get much sleep. The next day, there was an official decree, with ribbons, wax seal and everything, that a $25 fine on hotel keepers for each flea caught. This decree, like all his others, was signed, President of Finance in the Palace of Colubra University. He is a connoisseur, a taster, and a vegetable.

REMEMBER that beloved book of your childhood days, "Little Men," by Louisa May Alcott? Well, imagine what it might be like with the addition of two new characters, in wit, Major Burdick, a fast-talking, amiable, swindler who sacrifices everything for the love of his adopted son, and Willie the Fox, "a lovable, amusing 'living corpse,'" according to information from RKO. When you've finished this little picture puzzle, go to see the picture.

It's been turned out as adult entertainment, yet it's still a story for young folks. Kay Francis, George Bancroft and Jack Oakie head the cast, which includes Jimmy Lyon, Richard Nichols, Sammy McKim and Elsie, the glamour cow.

Ruth Hussey's work in Metro's "Flight Command" with Robert Taylor, and in "The Philadelphia Story" with Katharine Hepburn, James Stewart and Cary Grant, have won her a "Philadelphian" in the picture. Cary Grant made for the Red Cross, he accepted the assignment with the idea of turning over his salary to them—$125,000.

Bitter words were said in Hollywood recently when various producers needed stunt women and found that 14 of the best had been controlled by Paramount for "Las Vegas Nights," which already had Phil Ragan, Lillian Cornell and Tommy Dorsey and his band.

The maddening part of it was that the darling demoscopes weren't scheduled to do stunts, but to dance with cowboys and drink cold tea, that would screen as Scotch and soda.

Carole Landis is beginning to think there's something about her that makes scenario writers want to see her success in clearing up what he calls "misunderstandings." In short, hard-bitten, but with a heart as big as the world, he has preached the responsibility of labor to co-operate and produce, as well as bargain, along with the responsibility of ownership to give the worker a fair break. He was assistant administrator of the N. R. A. under Gen. Hugh Johnson. In his new post, he serves without salary, having been partially relieved from his duties by President David Barsoff of the R. C. A.

SENATE SHOULD QUIT SPOOFING

Labor strikes have broken out in plants that have contracts for National Defense. One of the difficult problems of the National Defense Commission at the very beginning concerned the production of aluminum products.

The Aluminum Workers Union backed a trifling grievance involving one of its workers, resulted in a strike that threatened 7,000 men out of work. Another case was the strike in the Vultee Aircraft factory in California where the work came to a standstill over differences between the company and the workers with regard to a two-way contract that provided there should be no strike by labor, or no lockout by the company. Attorney-General Jackson said a confidential Federal Bureau of Investigation report showed that the strike was caused by "those leaders of the strike who are members of the Communist party or affiliated with the Communists, and the persons who are the contacts between the strike committees and the leaders of the Communist Party."

President Roosevelt has conferred with his advisors, and word from the White House indicates that strikes and lockouts will not be tolerated. These strikes were not being called for the correction of injustices affecting workers. As usual, Washington is told "a new law providing for compulsory arbitration of labor disputes in defense plants" is needed.

But why a new law? The Wagner Act was passed several years ago and the NLRB was created in 1935 "to prevent any person from engaging in any unfair labor practice affecting commerce." The Wage and four law was enacted two years ago.

Labor laws have been enacted for the sound purposes of protecting workers, commerce, and particularly for the public health. Five or six years ago the Wagner Act and other labor legislation were passed by Congress and put on trial with promises to the public that faults in the experiments to bring about industrial peace would be corrected as time revealed what changes and improvements would be needed.

In recent years there have been sit-down strikes that were indefensible, there have been many unnecessary strikes that could have been avoided through negotiations between employers and employees, or by fair compulsory processes.

There has been a never-ending quarrel between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee of Industrial Organizations. President Roosevelt has attempted to force a settlement of differences between these two rival organizations, both of which have national headquarters in Washington.

Less than a year ago a strong Committee in the House made an investigation of the labor troubles and finally submitted 15 corrections, to the Wagner Act and the NLRB. Finally the House got a whiff of the bill offered by the investigating Committee, and by a vote of 2 to 1 approved it. These 15 proposed amendments have been in the Senate for many weeks.

The Senate should quit its spoofing.

DIRTY NAMES NO REMEDY

The seeds of fascism and state socialism are being increasingly sown in this country. There is constant political pressure to make the individual more and more subservient to government. Don't try to blame the "other fellow" for this situation. Don't think you can remedy it by calling dirty names.

There are a few basic ideals embodied in our United States constitution that can save this country from ever being dominated by a fascist or totalitarian philosophy if it is possible to preserve the rights and liberties guaranteed them by the constitution.

By the same token, the people will lose those rights and liberties in proportion as they allow them to be encroached upon or destroyed by promised political cure-alls which limit individual opportunity under the guise of the state or government, being better able to care for the people than the people can care for themselves.

If you are a laboring man, a bank depositor, a life insurance policyholder, the owner of a bit of stock or a bond in one of this country's industrial enterprises, or the owner of a farm or a home, you play a vital part in the American system of free enterprise. You have the right to vote and keep your government your "servant," not your "master."

As you permit government to go into competition with private business by devious methods and design you promote the totalitarian idea, whether you realize it or not.

If you are a working man and government takes over the business in which you have been working, you will find you have lost your freedom of action, the right to strike, for instance. You don't strike against the government, that is revolution.

If you are a business man, and government goes into business in competition with you, you suddenly find you cannot compete with government, with its power to tax you, while its own operations are tax exempt.

If you are a farmer, and accept certain "benefits" from the government, you wake up to the fact you are no longer the independent son of the soil you have always prided yourself on being - you are told what you can do.

And there you have the picture. Free speech, free press, freedom of worship, are wrapped up in free enterprise. When any people succumb to the lure of political codding and give up their right of private action, even in a small measure, they have taken the first step toward state socialism, fascism, totalitarianism or whatever you wish to call it.

We have already started on that road - government doing what the individual has done for himself, with government cooperation and protection, for the preceding 350 years.

The same excuses for greater centralized government, greater benefits to the people, were the inducements offered to the masses in every European country where free speech, free press, freedom of worship and free enterprise are but a memory today.

Our people can see the handwriting on the wall. No man can blame anyone but himself if he allows the trend of government domination of the individual and free enterprise that wrecked the liberties of European nations, to gain headway here.

SAVE THE LOCAL BANKS

A though-provoking article in the Cheney, Kansas Sentinel, signed by publisher Hugh C. Greenham, indicates that present governmental credit and bank regulatory practices are driving smaller banks out of business and making for fewer and larger banks. In other words, it is centralizing the banking business.

Mr. Greenham cites a recent case where two banks in neighboring towns merged. This, he says, is the result of three causes. First, the entry of the Federal government into the banking business has deprived private banks of much of their business—the tax free, tax-supported Federal lending agencies can make loans at interest rates which would ruin the self-supporting, heavily-taxed private banks.

Second, regulatory agencies have become more exacting in the kind of loans they will permit to make, thus reducing loan business. Regulatory officials, working under blanket and indefinite laws, put their judgment before that of the banker himself.

Third, banks have been loaded to an unprecedented extent with government bonds which pay very low rates of interest and thus reduce the banks' income.

The local community needs its own little bank even as the great city needs its big banks. If small banks disappear from the picture, the little towns are going to suffer—the local banker knows local conditions and is in a position to give his town the best possible service. He has always been a vital factor in community development.

Obviously the ownership by 60 million depositors of the deposits in the banks of this country lies in the hands of private enterprise. If this money were to pass under government control, there would be no further use to talk about a free industry. If this were to occur, then indeed we should have a form of totalitarian state.—INDUSTRIAL NEWS REVIEW.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY By RUSSELL KAY

Two weeks ago I told you an interesting story of a charming lady who is finding happiness by bringing cheer into lonesome lives through her "Adopt a mother" plan.

Along the same line comes a suggestion from a prominent clergyman that an equal opportunity be afforded Floridians to "Adopt a Soldier." He points out that there are twelve army and naval training stations and camps in the state to which the government plans to send around 82,000 officers and enlisted men. Many thousands already have arrived and others come in every increasing numbers from every state in the Union.

For the most part they are young men, fine upstanding boys from the farms and homes of the nation. Many of them have never been away from home before and they miss the social life and companionship of friends they left behind.

Local church organizations in Tampa have undertaken the task of helping these lads find themselves and making them at home, and numbers of such groups have been organized to do their bit by taking one or more of these boys under their wing.

For the past several weeks the Kay family has entertained two, or three boys from McDill Field, taking them home for dinner, to the beach, or a show.

The experience has been pleasant for these lads as all night long they are so appreciative of any attention. They eagerly welcome the opportunity to tell of their homes and families in distant states. Unfortunately, however, the task is too big to be left to individual citizens and there is real need for an intelligent and constructive plan to provide social and recreational facilities for these boys in the communities within easy reach of such military camps.

Recognizing this need, the Florida State Planning board already has made a survey of several military camps and points out that there are 63 communities located within a 50 mile radius of these various training centers.

After careful consideration of the need for social planning in connection with the defense program, the board points out, is even more essential and it suggests that while the work of constructing community halls and recreation grounds is being carried out by the WPA, that the NTA undertakes the task of training a sufficient number of leaders at the same time so that when such projects are completed, competent leadership will be available to man and operate them. Two excellent centers for Training Institutes are available now - one in the Ocala State Forest near High Springs, the other at Deer Lake in the Ocala National Forest, near Ocala. In these two camps, nearly 300 boys leaders for recreation programs could be given a comprehensive and intensive course of training preparatory to going into the communities of service men.

In Florida it is practical to engage in recreation activities out of doors twelve months in the year, and in this specific instance the majority of the training centers are in sections of the state where it is practical to play out of doors the year round. Consequently, athletic activities on out of door areas and facilities should be emphasized.

Mass activities should predominate in the out of door programs. Illumination for night activities will be essential, as the major part of the men's leisure time comes in the evening. At training centers adjacent to beaches, lakes and rivers, ample provision should be made for aquatic recreation.

The State Planning Board is ready to serve as co-ordinator of the program and offers its services in this connection. Much credit is due the Board for the splendid work it has already done and both the State and Federal governments should give this problem serious consideration for it is one that is becoming acute.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, December 28.

The Golden Text is: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven, which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal; the whole was leavened." (Matthew 13:33).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: And he had in his hand a little book open: And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up: And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings" (Rev. 10:1, 2, 10, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the most prophetic passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "This angel had in his hand a 'little book,' open for all to read and understand. Read this book from beginning to end. Study it, ponder it" (p. 559:2-3, 20-21).

Citrus Employees Enjoyed Banquet

Employees of the Lake Byrd Packing Company and the Avon Florida Citrus Corporation, and their families were entertained with a Christmas party and turkey dinner on Monday evening at the packing house of the Lake Byrd Citrus Packing Co.

Long banquet-like tables were placed in the huge room where the dinner was served and were laden with baked turkey, dressing, potatoes, salad, giblet gravy, coffee, and various pies and cakes.

In addition to the Christmas theme of the party, the group were celebrating the birthday of G. H. Walker, president of the two companies, and after the supper he was presented with a delicious cake with "twenty-one" candles which he blew out at the first attempt, while the group sang "Happy Birthday."

Mr. Walker and A. V. Anderson were both presented with their employees at this time and Mr. Walker spoke briefly. W. J. Prevatt also said a few words to the group.

An attractive Christmas tree was used to further carry out the Yuletide theme and "Silent Night" in full costume to delight both young and old with his bags of candy and nuts and with his amusing comments and actions.

Approximately two hundred guests enjoyed this delightful evening's entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Dilley Hosts To Club

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Dilley entertained the members of the Thursday evening Bridge club at their home on Friday evening, with a Christmas party. The poinsettias used in the party rooms graciously carried out the charming theme, a beautifully decorated tree was placed in an advantageous position. The guests loaded the tree with amusing gifts which were exchanged late in the evening, providing much merriment.

After several progresses, Mr. and Mrs. John Hood held high score and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armstrong held second high. John Hood also held the floating prize at the close of the games.

Refreshments were served in a very novel manner and consisted of various sandwiches, potato chips, pickles, fruit cake, and coffee. Attractive bouquets of candles and nuts were also given each guest.

Those sharing Mr. and Mrs. Dilley's hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawler Wells, Mr. and Mrs. John Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dilley, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Roberts, and Mrs. Charles Morfett.

Leigh Chapter Met Thursday Night

Leigh Chapter, number 85, Order of the Eastern Star, held their last regular meeting of the year Thursday evening at the chapter room in the Masonic Temple with Mrs. O. W. Lewis, Worthy Matron, presiding.

After the business of the evening was dispensed with, delicious refreshments of lemon cake and coffee were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Lewis of Ft. Pierce, Mrs. H. W. Reddick, Mrs. Charles Clements, Mrs. O. L. Head, Mrs. Briscoe Willis, Mrs. David Stuckley, Mrs. W. D. Cameron, Miss Jennie Gribble, Mrs. Agnes Cox, Mrs. Robert Boward, and Miss Joyce Clements.

At this meeting plans were made for the annual installation of officers which is to be held on January 8, presided by a covered dish supper at six-thirty. All members of the Star are urged to attend this meeting.

The retiring Worthy Matron, Mrs. Lewis, presented each of her officers for the past year with a very useful and beautiful gift of white with the Eastern Star emblem in colors on it.

B'day Celebration Plans Go Forward

Orlando, Dec. 26 (FNS)—Under the able leadership of State Chairman Chester B. Treadway, the celebration of the President's Birthday and the "Fight Infantic Paralysis" campaign give promise of being the most successful yet conducted in this state.

Last week Chairman Treadway announced the appointment of county chairmen for each of the 67 counties and these appointments have been confirmed by honorary chairman of the fund raising campaign, Governor-elect Spessard Holland.

Joe Pepper, director of organization for the group, will aid these county chairmen in the selection of prominent citizens to complete committees in each county.

These committees will conduct sports events, balls, dinners and other entertainment from which funds will be secured, all of it going to the "Fight Infantic Paralysis" campaign. A majority of the counties are planning to close their campaigns with a county-wide Presidential dent's Birthday Ball on January 30 according to chairman Pepper. The National Foundation for Infantic Paralysis has formed a sports council to aid local groups in organizing charity sports events. Treadway said. Among prominent names on this committee are those of Grantland Rice, chairman, Ted Hasting, famed radio commentator, Henry McLenore, United Press sports writer, and a score of others.

Reports from all over Florida indicate that the Christmas retail trade was the best the state has ever seen, even exceeding the boom days of 1929. National defense payrolls and easier credit are given as the principal reasons for the increase of about 25 percent over last year.

H. R. Cloud, vice president of the Florida Public Service Company, warned holders of bonds and stocks of the Associated Gas and Electric Company that a group of men representing themselves as trustees of the Associated company are seeking by fraudulent means to secure company bonds and are giving worthless receipts in exchange.

Secretary B. F. Floyd said this week that the annual meeting of the Florida State Horticultural Society will be held at Orlando, April 15-17.

BIRTHDAY GIFT FOR ETON

MEMBERS of the University of Pennsylvania rifle team have taken the initiative in collecting guns and ammunition on the Philadelphia campus for the boys of Eton College, Windsor, England, to use in defense of their lives and the traditions of their school in the event that the threatened invasion of the British Isles materializes. Above is the rifle team's Captain.

William F. Enright, Jr., '41 (left) presenting some of the guns contributed by Penn students and faculty to Charles C. G. Chaplin, Eton graduate now living in Harford, Pa. The gift gains added significance from the fact that Penn, founded by Benjamin Franklin, is this year celebrating its 200th anniversary, while Eton, founded by Henry VI, is celebrating its 500th anniversary.

Noted English Writer Asks Aid to Defend Homes Across the Sea

A sample of old and new guns, binoculars and steel helmets which have been contributed to the American Committee for Defense of British Homes, 10 Warren Street, New York City, to be used by British civilians in defense of their homes should threatened invasion materialize. Right, Miss Jan Struther, who focuses the war implementing a resurgence of democracy in England.

Great Britain's people know "the right against world-wide tyranny and oppression is in their hands" and every bit of direct aid they can have from the people of the United States is of vital importance, according to Jan Struther, former editorial writer on the London Times and author of the best-seller, "Mrs. Miniver," now in this country. In a statement endorsing the work of the American Committee for Defense of British Homes, 10 Warren Street, New York City, which is seeking contributions of small arms, binoculars and steel helmets for use of British civilians in defense of their homes, Miss Struther said:

"The people of America for the most part do not quite realize what modern England is like. Many of them still think that it is a pre-1914 country full of rigid class distinctions. As a matter of fact, Great Britain has been changing a great deal during the last 10 or 15 years and the present war has accelerated the changes. Great Britain is now probably the nearest approach to a true democracy that has ever existed; and its people know that the right against world-wide tyranny and oppression is in their hands."

CAPITOL CONSENSUS

Everglades Taxes

State courts having granted pleas of bondholders to levy current and back assessments on taxes on Everglades Drainage district lands, all to be paid with 1939 state and county taxes, finds the rate of taxation so high it is confiscatory. U. S. Sugar Corp. and Bessmer Corp. of Cleveland, and four huge land owning defendants successfully withstood an attempt of bondholders in Federal Judge C. L. Walcott's court to prevent foreclosure of title certificates against their lands. Judge Walcott's decision affected only the lands of six defendants, but indirectly affects all other taxpayers in the district. Judge Walcott denied petition of bondholders to foreclose on the six defendants' lands, and denied their petition to appoint a receiver of the district, saying in effect that the courts "should not become the tax assessors or tax collectors," that these are the constitutional duties of officers constituted for that purpose. "Waller declared officers of the district to be an 'arm or agency' of the state, with express and definite powers, and 'court cannot usurp those functions in face of enactments of the legislature.' Thus, while the high taxes are levied they cannot be collected unless Judge Waller is overruled. The bondholders' committee, headed by H. C. Rorick, of Ohio, Secretary of the Pennsylvania, et al, have appealed the Waller decision to the court of appeals at New Orleans. If the appeal is denied the bondholders possess a high tax they can't collect and the taxpayers can't or won't pay. If Judge Waller's decision is overruled the position of taxpayers in Everglades Drainage district will become desperate, indeed.

Inauguration

With a score of bands, innumerable floats, and probably a regiment of soldiers from Camp Blanding; with dances, banquets, culminating in the Governor's Ball at the Mansion, inauguration of Governor Spessard Holland, Jan. 7, will eclipse any similar event in Florida's history. Gov. Holland has invited every citizen to attend all events (and there will be no admission charges to anything) including the Governor's reception and ball. Special trains are coming from Jacksonville, Bartow and other points. Long strings of Pullman cars will augment rooming facilities for three weekling places to sleep on the nights of Jan. 6th and 7th.

Holiday Spirits

Florida's 10,000 employees began their Christmas holiday Saturday, Dec. 21 and end on Jan. 2. For New Year's they will get off three days, Jan. 1, 2, and 3. And this column will take Christmas week off and give the readers of this paper a rest and wish for a Merry Christmas, and a prayer of thanks that we can enjoy it without the distress and catastrophe visited upon the peoples of so many other nations engaged in the most inhuman and destructive war of history. You are indeed lucky to be an American citizen in these times.

Important State Employees

Mrs. Agnes Bremer, employed in the Governor's office since Sept., 1921, knows more about state affairs than any Governor we've had since that date. She executes orders as secretary to the personal secretary and individual record of every convict. She attends to all details of State Board of Institutions (and that's some job.) In between times she looks after insanity cases, land patents, purchase of state supplies and payment of bills and a few other things, and while it all is one of the most efficient and accommodating employees in Tallahassee, and how she does it, only she knows, is it.

ways in a good humor and pleasant Miss Ethel Manning, chief clerk, Hotel Commissioner, like knows her job, which she has held for 15 years. She is the real reason for the success of all hotels commissioners, past and present.

Court Adjourns

Florida's Supreme Court will adjourn at noon, Sat., Dec. 23, for the holiday vacation. It will reconvene 10 days later, Thursday, Jan. 2, 1941. One or more justices will remain at the Capital to transact any urgent legal business.

Accomplishments

... are measured in many ways, but somehow we like to accept the standard of achievement as evidenced by the number of fine friendships formed in our associations with the people of this area in the past.

Our New Year's wish is that we may continue to merit the goodwill of our friends who have been so loyal to us in the past.
