NEW YORK—When Parks Johnson and Wally Buterworth brought their pioneer quiz broadcast to New York city back in 1934, it took them just about 10 minutes to get an answer to the question, "Where is Singapore?"

The other day the ninth anniversary of their Vox Pop program, the first outburst of the growing quiz craze, was rampant on all networks, was broadcast. In an age of deceptions, people had great faith in the answers to have many lead-quizers there are a card of blackboard—and sustenance for an all-day quiz. Messrs. Johnson and Buterworth cash in a big way.

Parks Johnson is the son of a Methodist minister. He had been a captain in the World War, a newspaper reporter, a cotton broker, and in 1932 was running a one-man advertising agency in Houston, Texas. A client wanted a radio idea. Mr. Johnson quizzed himself at length and got the right answer.

He set up a microphone in the lobby of a Houston theater and began his quiz. At first he had to hand out one-dollar bills to lure participants, but the "quiz-fest" soon passed and Vox Pop quickly became a successful program.

Mr. Buterworth, former photographer salesman, radio singer and announcer, came in later. Seen after they were established in New York their program was on a big network. In 1940, they carried their microphone more than 10,000 miles around the country, and in 1941 have asked about 100,000 questions.

Newspapers were ahead of radio, however, in getting at the question-and-answer mother lode of interest in their own facts. It was in 1920 that Miriam Mosher, a reporter on the New York Daily Mail, suggested to George T. Hughes, the city editor, the daily quiz of five or six citizens at random. Mr. Hughes started the feature and suggested it "The Morning Quiz." Under this and other titles it still carries on in many newspapers. This, however, is an inquiry, rather than an information inquiry.

A NEW YORK doctor, a friend of this writer, says physicians who have made a life-long study of diet, nutrition and mass conditioning are won.

Eminent Athletes deride why Toughen-Up? Why physical specialists ask defense is being organized by athletes, instead of specialists in physical fitness. Without disparagement to any of the persons mentioned, he cited Gene Tunney, Alice Marble and John R. Kelly, the last an undisciplined carman, as examples in which eminence in athletics is substituted for precise knowledge of how to "toughen-up" America.

The discussion had to do with Mr. Kelly's current prescription of a "courage diet" for the nation, in which he says he has listed caloric and vitamin combinations which will enable one to stick one's weight to the wall.

Mr. Kelly, a former bricklayer and contractor, is chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic committee, and last August became director of physical training for national defense. He was formerly a Republican and is returning to much faster and intricate battle in both parties.

The tall and athletic "Handsome Jack" Kelly, as he is called, told the Philadelphia public schools at the age of 14 and got a job in a brickyard. He was an ambulance driver in the World War, came back with a capital of $44 and opened his own brickyard. Twelve years later, at the age of 31, he was the Olympic single sculls champion, winning for America at Amsterdam. In 1936, he retired from rowing as the undefeated champion scullman of the world. At the age of 32, he still rows five miles every morning.

In September, 1940, President Roosevelt saw an article "Handsome Jack" had written for a physical culture magazine and summoned him to lead the national "physical preparedness" endeavor. He now officially and formally heads this department and is working up plans for national mass calisthenics.

He is one of four eminent brothers, George, a playwright; Walter, the famous "Wrigley" man; and the stage; Patrick R., deceased in 1937, who was the builder of the Free Public Library in Philadelphia.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

NOT content with having a very promising film career, Susan Hayward has turned actors' agent. Dining at a New Orleans hotel, she was impressed by the young singer and trumpet player with Chuck Foster's band; he stopped the show at every performance. So when he was brought over to meet her she questioned him. Why wasn't he in films? Nobody asked him to be. Where did he come from? Los Angeles, but he'd never been able to get near a film studio there!

So Susan placed him under contract, and arranged for his Hollywood debut at a cafe there. His name? Ray Robbins, professionally, in real life, it's Foster.

A new romantic duo makes its debut in RKO's comedy, "Obliging Young Lady," in the persons of Edmund O'Brien and Ruth Warrick.

Ruth Warrick

He recently scored in "A Girl, a Guy and a Gob" and "Parachute Battalion." She made her film bow as Orson Welles' first wife in "Citizen Kane," the picture that's been a springboard to motion picture contracts for so many actors and actresses.

Robert Taylor has an exceptionally tough beard, and while he's being shaved talks about show horses, like his Arabian stallion; Clark Gable chats about guns and fish and venison, under the same conditions, and he also has a tough beard. Spencer Tracy tells wisecracks at every while he's in the barber's chair. Bob Young makes a few remarks about his riding horse, Jimmy Stewart sits and says nothing. All this information from Jim Adamson, major domo of Metro's barber shop, who began snipping locks and saws from movie stars way back in the days of Inevitable—he's been at it for 34 years, and has his own Hollywood Who's Who.

We're told that Ines Cooper, a Hollywood new comer, looks so much like Bob Lamm that she can't tell them apart. Miss Cooper has worked in "Gaily Partners" and "The Shadow of the Thin Man"; she's now appearing in "Mr. and Mrs. North," and is slated for a role in "I Married an Angel." None of these pictures have yet been released, yet she's already had a flourishing career.

People whose memories go way, way back will remember Harold Lockwood, one of the big stars of his time. His widow died recently, after having been a member of Paramount's makeup department for nine years. Today's movie stars are more forethoughtful financially than were those old-timers. For example—Joel McCrea is listed by the government not as an actor (though he's been making pictures for 11 years) but as a good producer, thanks to the annual profit of approximately $5,000 which he makes from his ranch.

Madeline Lee, who's "Genevieve Blue" on the "Amos and Andy" broadcast, has found herself turning into a bad designer. She entered a bad designing class on a dare, found that she not only liked it but was good at it; now she makes all her own hats, and her friends beg her to turn out little numbers for them.

Correction: Last week's item about "The Chocolate Soldier" was partly wrong: Metro's picture that name includes only music from the opera; so known; the story is the one you're familiar with under the title of "The Guardsman."

ODDS AND ENDS—REO has signed St. Brandon's Boys' choir of 29 boys for church sequences in "Joni of Paris," which will star Michelle Morgan, the new French star, and Paul Henreid. But about now, Louis Costello will play the leading comedy role, and Kathryn Grayson and John Corbett will have the romantic leading roles in the new musical version of "Rita Rita." A former pianist, in "Dance of the Vagabonds," which he has just completed with the famous "Wrigley" man, is the stage; Patrick R., deceased in 1937, who was the builder of the Free Public Library in Philadelphia.

Prisoners of War Accept Their Sorry Lot

New President in Independent Syria

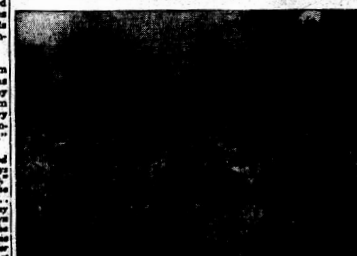

Chick Taggaddine, the new president of Syria, inspects a guard of honor of Free French troops outside the town hall at Damascus, Syria. Syria was granted her independence when Free French General Cairoux formally handed the country over in a broadcast speech from Damascus.

Old Man River Again

A recent party in a new town travels down a city street which is under five feet of water. The flood was caused by the Arkansas river, which broke out of its banks at Tulsa, leaving scores of families homeless and causing great damage.

'Blitz Troops' in the Making

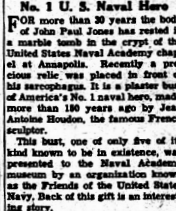

The second corps provisional anti-tank battalion, commanded by Maj. R. E. Johnson, Wakefield, N. C., was organized as a weapon of superiority to combat hostile mechanized threats of any part of the front where the enemy might break through. Photo shows battery D returning from an advancing "company" tank, supported by machine guns.

Prison Camp

The first prison camp since World War I is now being completed near Fairbairn, N. Y. It will accommodate some 700 aliens. The watch tower is shown above.

Smartly Styled Draperies Any Beginner Can Make

No. 1 U. S. Naval Hero FOR more than 20 years the body of John Paul Jones has rested in a marble tomb in the crypt of the United States Naval Academy chapel at Annapolis. Recently a precious relic was placed in front of his sarcophagus. It is a plaster bust of America's No. 1 naval hero, made more than 100 years ago by Jean Antoine Houdon, the famous French sculptor.

This bust, one of only five of its kind known to be in existence, was presented to the Naval Academy museum by an organization known as the Friends of the United States Navy. Back of this gift is an interesting story.

In 1779 Capt. John Paul Jones was placed in command of the American frigate Bon Homme Richard. Upon his arrival in Paris, Jones, who had been a Mason since 1776, applied for affiliation with Le Lodge des Neuf-Sœurs or the Lodge of the Nine Sisters (meaning the Nine Muses). This lodge, besides being a fraternal organization, was also a club for artists, writers and other intellectuals. Benjamin Franklin was its worshipful master and among its members was Houdon, the sculptor.

Before the lodge could act upon Jones' application, he had sailed away to challenge the power of the "Masters of the Sea." On September 22, 1779, occurred his historic victory over the stronger British man-of-war, the Serapis, during which he uttered his immortal words of defiance—"I have not yet begun to fight!"

Then Jones reached Paris the next spring, all France was eager to honor him. Not only did the Lodge of the Nine Sisters welcome him and initiate him into its membership, but it commended one of its members, Houdon, to make a bust of the victor for the lodge. King Louis XVI was so delighted over the feat of the British frigate by the Bon Homme Richard that he gave Jones the Cross of Military Merit, the first time it had ever been presented to a foreigner.

Jones was proud of this honor and asked Houdon to depict it on the lapel of his coat when the sculptor made the original terra cotta bust of him in 1780, even though congress had not authorized him to accept a decoration from a foreign monarch.

Between 1780 and 1791 Houdon made 18 plaster copies of the bust on orders from Jones, who presented them to Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Franklin, Lafayette, Robert Morris, John Jay and others. The one presented to Jefferson was owned by the Boston Athenaeum for many years. But some time before 1890 it mysteriously disappeared from that museum and has never been found. Today the whereabouts of only five of the plaster copies of the original terra cotta, including the one recently presented to the Naval museum, are known, but several scholars are trying to find out what became of the other dozen.

In 1791 Jones ordered Houdon to make a plaster replica of the bust and on it, beside the Cross of Military Merit, show the Order of St. Ann, which Catherine the Great, empress of Russia, had given him in recognition of his services during the Russian war with Turkey. Soon afterwards Jones wrote to Jefferson, then secretary of state, asking Jefferson to have the bust made for him from congress to keep the decoration. At this time he stated that a congressman from North Carolina, his adopted state, had asked for a bust of him and that he had directed Houdon to prepare one, showing the Cross of St. Ann, and forward it to North Carolina. The state has no record of having received it and some of its historians are trying to determine what became of it because of the celebration in honor of Jones which is planned for 1945.

Houdon's bust of Jones was declared by some of his contemporaries to be a remarkably accurate likeness. President James Madison wrote to one of Jones' first biographers: "His bust by Houdon is an excellent likeness, portraying well the characteristic features stamped on the countenance of the original." In criticizing a portrait which this same biographer had chosen for his book, President Thomas Jefferson wrote: "Houdon's bust of him is an excellent likeness. He looks like he took a side face of him from that! Such a one would be perfect."

Swag Tacked to Valance Bead.

SO PATRICIAN, these draperies topped with a graceful swag! You may make them yourself—combining just the colors for your room. A rayon damask duty rose for the draperies, rayon satin for the swag, brown fringe for trimming—that's one stunning choice.

To have your draperies hang beautifully, correct measuring is necessary—but easy.

Our 25-page booklet has exact diagrams and directions for making many attractive styles of draperies, garter-curtains and valances. In this booklet you will find:—

Thermometers For Growers Will Be Tested Free Monday

Grower's thermometers will be tested free of charge by the Federal-State Horticultural Protection Service on Monday, Nov. 24th. All growers are urged to take advantage of this free service in preparation for grove heating.

Thermometers may be left at any of the following points not later than 10:00 o'clock, Monday morning: Touchon's Drug Store, Avon Park; Rexall Drug Store, Frostproof; Triangle Lunch Room, Babson Park; County Agent's Office, Post Office Bldg., Sebring.

Each thermometer should be tagged at the upper end with the owner's name and address written in pencil. After testing, they will be returned late Monday afternoon. To keep thermometers in serviceable condition, they should be carried in an upright position with the bulb-end down.

All possible precautions will be taken, but the Horticultural Protection Service will assume no responsibility for breakage during the testing.

Strawberry Season Open At Plant City

Plant City, Nov. 20 (PNS)—East Hillsborough's 1941-42 strawberry season opened last week with the first pint of berries offered at the State Farmers' Market selling for $5.00 to J. S. Robinson.

At the Palmetto market apportioned pushed tomato prices to $5.00 a two-bushel field crate, the highest price ever offered on that market.

Improved quality and heavy demand accounted for the increase and buyers say they expect further advances for fancy tomatoes during the next two weeks since the supply is limited.

BUSINESS FOLLOWS CONCRETE

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS PAY FOR THEMSELVES

Three reasons why concrete is the most economical pavement:

1. Long life and low upkeep — funds which would otherwise be spent for repairs may be used to complete your highway system.
2. Scientific investigation has proved that it costs motorists less to drive on concrete than on inferior surfaces. The saving is in gas, tires and car repairs.
3. Concrete builds business, promotes travel. A town or concrete is moved closer to all markets.

And concrete pavements — smooth riding, highly visible at night, skid-resistant wet or dry — give motorists relaxation, comfort... and swift travel with SAFETY!

State Road 8-A needs concrete pavement.

Lighter-Than-Air Ships

There are three general types of lighter-than-air ships, the rigid, the semi-rigid and the non-rigid. Some ship authorities divide them into only two types, the pressure ship and the non-pressure ship. The pressure ship, which includes both the non-rigid and the semi-rigid, maintains its shape and withstands the stresses and strains of flight because of the internal pressure of the lifting gas. The rigid is shaped by internal structure, over which the fabric is stretched like a skin.

A house-full of smoking pleasure is the gay, new Christmas gift package of Camel Cigarettes now being featured by local dealers. Designed in the style of a house, trimmed even to the snow on the roof, this colorful package contains four "real estates"—300 Camel Cigarettes, America's favorite. No wrapping is needed. There is even a gift card printed right on the package. For those smokers on your Christmas list, give Camels and be sure your gift is appreciated. Camels are also available in the regular carton of ten packages of "20's"—200 cigarettes. The carton, too, is handsomely wrapped and ready to give—Adv.

U. S. Engine Used by British Studied by R.A.F. Flyers Here

SYMBOL of the American aid to Britain program under which Allied-powered warplanes are being sent to the Axis as more fronts, a group of British R.A.F. flyers and mechanics is shown receiving instruction at the Allison Service Department in Indianapolis, Ind. Left to right: Flight Sergeant John H. Baser, Corp. C. A. Regan, Flight

Sergeant T. J. McAndrews, Corp. L. S. Martin, Sergeant S. S. Payne, Corp. W. F. Hillier, Sergeant Ernest Poole, Flight Sergeant Harry Horner, and G. P. Pearce, Allison instructor.

These men will return to Britain to instruct service men on repair and maintenance of the thousands of Allison engines now in daily contact service in R.A.F. planes.

NEWS AND VIEWS ON ECONOMIC PROBLEMS

The President's address to the International Labor Organization, which was attended by 250 delegates from some 35 nations, was as direct and as aggressive as some had hoped. In language very similar to that he has used in the past, he again condemned what he termed the misguiding few in the ranks of industry and labor "who place personal advantage above the welfare of the nation." Perhaps the most telling sentence was that in which he spoke of those who use their power "to force acceptance of their demands rather than use the established machinery for the mediation of industrial disputes." That certainly fits a good many labor leaders these days.

A great many authorities are convinced that labor is this country's Number 1 defense problem now. Cases where industry has refused to cooperate with the government and accept the findings of arbitration boards are few and minor. Cases where labor has taken that attitude are many and major. It is probably true that the bulk of workers are willing and eager to do their share and accept arbitration. But the fact remains that a number of labor leaders in key positions are working on the "whole hog or none" principle and seem to think nothing of virtually defying the government unless they get their own way. These leaders are in a position to call strikes which could bring the defense program to an absolute stop.

It should be kept in mind that the majority of recent important labor disputes have not concerned question of wages, working hours or working conditions. In some instances they have simply been disputes between the two major unions—A. F. of L. carpenters, as a theoretical example, may refuse to handle lumber cut by C. I. O. workers, and vice versa. The strike which delayed production for some time in a factory making transmissions for tanks, trucks and other military vehicles, was of this character.

Other strikes have revolved around the closed shop laws. There is no question but what the big labor leaders have as their goal a 100 per cent union shop, a place where no man can hold a job unless he joins and pays dues to a union. Strikes have been called or threatened in places which pay the union scale or better, simply because non-union men were employed along with union men. All available evidence indicates that the public is overwhelmingly opposed to a closed shop—the latest Gallup poll, for instance, showed that these queried were more than 70 per cent against it—but the union drive to achieve it goes steadily on.

Highest labor times yet in the threatened strike of railroad operating brotherhoods. In this case a question of wages was involved. The union made demands for a 30 per cent blanket wage increase. That, according to the carriers, would have meant an additional wage cost of $900,000,000 a year. The labor spokesmen disputed this, and placed the cost at $600,000,000. Whichever figure is right, the financial cost to the carriers would be several times as great as their total net income in any late year. It would be substantially greater than their anticipated net profit for 1941, which is a year of abnormally high earnings due to the vast volume of defense shipments.

The President delayed the strike by submitting the controversy to an emergency arbitration board made up of men with solid reputations for fairness and integrity in labor mediation work. The board gave the union an increase of 7 1/2 per cent, which, it is estimated, would cost the railroads $70,000,000 a year. The carriers at once accepted the findings even though, the spokesmen said, they regard the increase as an excessively heavy burden on the lines. One day later the leaders of the five operating railroad brotherhoods rejected the plan, and called for a nationwide railroad strike beginning December 5.

Anyone can imagine what such a strike would do to this country. Transportation is the very backbone of defense, to say nothing of normal trade and commerce. Steel, lumber, aluminum, food, wire, chemicals—all the thousands and one things which are needed for war production—could not be moved. Key munitions, airplane and tank factories obtain their raw materials from other plants hundreds and thousands of miles distant. No other kind of carrier is in a position to transport more than a fractional part of this gigantic load. If the railroads stop, national defense stops.

We will know soon what is to happen. No other strike of such magnitude and such infinite importance has been threatened. Here is a case where the leaders of 350,000 already highly paid key workers in an absolutely basic industry have refused a handsome wage increase made by an official board which no one could accuse of being "anti-labor." The labor issue moves swiftly on to the climatic stage.

Repeal of the principal provisions of the Neutrality Act—those forbidding American merchant ships to be armed and to enter belligerent waters—was certain from the beginning. The shooting war has started, and now the important thing, as the President said, is who fires the last shot.

Mayo Pays Tribute To Prison Warden

Ocala, Nov. 20 (FWS)—Following a talk by Francis Bridger, chairman of the new Florida Parole Commission, to newsmen gathered here last week, Hon. Nathan Mayo, Commissioner of Agriculture, paid high tribute to Warden Chapman of Raiford, terming him one of the best, if not the best, in the country today.

Mayo pointed out two serious weaknesses in our present handling of prisoners: one the lack of a woman's prison and the other the lack of a suitable separate prison for first offenders.

He advocated the establishment of such institutions, contending that it was wrong to place first offenders with hardened criminals, particularly young men.

He praised the new parole commission and stated that improvement of our prison system along the lines suggested would materially assist the commission in its work and would serve the interests of both prisoners and society as well.

HUNTERS TOOK TO THE WOODS

Hunting Season Opened Yesterday With Game Said To Be Plentiful. Little Change In Laws.

Tallahassee, Nov. 20 (Special).—Today is the day when Florida hunters take to the woods with their trusty gun and dog to inaugurate the opening of the 1941-42 State-wide open hunting season. And indications are that whether they be looking for deer, or quail, or turkey, or squirrel that the odds in their favor are better than average, for reports from all over the State have indicated a bumper crop of game foods, and that means more and better-gamed game, according to L. N. Kennedy, Executive Secretary of the State Commission of Game and Fresh Water Fish, agency in charge of wildlife and hunting licenses.

Few changes have been made in general hunting laws this year, Kennedy said. The principal change is in the restriction on shotgun game, which now, if repeating or automatic guns, must be limited to 3-shell capacity, which may be accomplished by plugging. This is the same as the Federal migratory bird regulation.

In some sections of the State there has been misunderstanding about the law on the statute books regarding hunting from vehicles, he said. This law has not been repealed, and taking game from automobiles, airplanes, power boats or sailboats is still prohibited.

Hunting licenses are on sale by County Judges or their authorized agents as follows: Resident County, $1.25; Resident, other than home county, $2.25; Resident State, $3.50; Non-resident State, $25.50; Non-resident, 10-day Continentals, $15.00.

The bag limits on Florida's game are unchanged, and are as follows: with possession limited to two days' bag: Deer, one a day, and two in a season; turkey, one a day and five in a season; quail and squirrel, 15 a day and 200 in a season. The State turkey, quail and squirrel season ends February 15; the deer season ends December 31.

Many counties have exceptions to the State regulations, such as shorter seasons, closed seasons on certain game, and staggered hunting on the basis of hunting licenses, and Kennedy urged sportsmen to study these special laws carefully to avoid embarrassment or penalties.

The migratory waterfowl season for ducks and geese is already open, and will end December 31. The mourning dove season, also controlled by Federal regulations, will open December 1 and run through January 11 for a 42-day season.

Webster Prexy Cites History Of Finland, Defends U. S. Policy

By Dr. John H. Sherman
President of Webster College
Babson Park, Fla., November 20
—Finland has elected to forego the friendship of the United States in order to continue participation in Hitler's war against the Soviets. Let us hope that this decision will lead all Americans to study carefully into the history of this small nation. Here are the main facts.

Finland was a part of Russia until 1917. During the World War she sought German friendship, sent volunteers to fight in the German army, and revolted from Russia to ally herself with Germany when the Czarist government fell.

Then Germany began losing the war and Finland's position became extremely precarious, but the Russian Communist government had a policy of international peace and self-determination for small peoples which it consistently practiced and urged other nations to practice.

Simultaneously the United States loaned money to the little new nation. It was not war money. Finland never owed us any war debt. "Little Finland that always paid" was making rather easy payments on the loans which had made her independent existence possible.

Finland was almost our only debtor which was in position to make the gold payments which we were then demanding, being the one which lived by sale of food stuffs to large nearby foreign markets, where payment was secured in gold instead of by exchange of goods or credits.

A cynic has defined gratitude as "the lively anticipation of favors yet to come." Finland was grateful and paid regularly to rich Uncle Sam. Toward the struggling, impoverished Soviets who had voluntarily given Finland freedom, Finland took a very different attitude.

First they disfranchised 46 per cent of their voters for having expressed approval of Russia's form of government. They then appointed the German general Mannerheim to command their army and used American loan money to finance a military cam-

Lake Wales, Florida—Even California will assist in bringing publicity to the famous Orange Blossom Trail thru Central Florida this winter by the release of one of the famous Fitzpatrick Travel talks. This picture features the various attractions on the Orange Blossom Trail, Bok Tower Cypress Gardens, and Silver Springs in brilliant technicolor. This is one of the best of the famous Fitzpatrick Travel series as James A. Fitzpatrick recently announced that after an exile of twenty years it would be discontinued on account of present world conditions.

The movie tour of the state starts with peaceful scenes along the Suwannee River followed by views of underwater marvels at Silver Springs. Continuing down the Orange Blossom Trail it takes one on a electric boat cruise thru the fairy like flowers and natural grandeur of Cypress Gardens, and then continues on roads that wind among lakes and orange groves to Bok Tower, famous for its carillon concerts; then thru the Everglades with the wild life and natural beauty. This tour reaches the lower end of the Trail at Miami in all of its winter glory.

"Many requests are coming in to Orange Blossom Trail publicity headquarters for travel stories on this famous route thru Central Florida," said C. E. Crayton, chairman of the advertising committee at the Avon Park office.

"We believe last year's record of 33 stories with pictures carried by the travel magazines, will be equaled before the season is half over."

"It is a request," continued Crayton, "are due to the opening of Highway 38 from Lake Okechobee on South to Miami. Throughout the North the larger automobile clubs have their own travel magazines, and feature stories on this scenic route given Central Florida a chance to go after a large portion of the auto visitors that visit Miami each year but this season would like to try the new routing thru Florida's famous hill and lake region."
